Now, let me say something about this knocking here for just a moment. You could, in a sense, say that God answers every prayer. Sometimes the answer is “yes.” Have you ever asked God for something—just asked Him for it—and He just gave it to you just like you asked Him for it? Let me see your hand. That’s it! All of us say, “God, I…” and He says, “Okay.” He does that enough, we know, and the answers to prayer are so clear that we say, “Hey, this could not be a coincidence. It is unmistakably an answer to prayer.” And, I would not bore you or draw this out by telling you times when I have just asked and received and there’s no way possible, in my humble but accurate opinion, that it could have happened any other way except a direct answer to prayer. Sometimes the answer is “yes.” Sometimes the answer is “no.” God says, “You’re asking for something wrong. I’m not going to give it to you.” Sometimes the answer is “wait”: “I’m going to give it to you, but you just have to wait on me. I’m developing you.” And, sometimes God is giving us, not what we ask for, but He’s giving us something better than we asked for.

III. The Reward of Prayer
Well, here’s a final thing. Now look, I’ve talked to you about the reasons for prayer. I’ve talked to you about the requests for prayer. Now, let me talk to you about the reward of prayer. Go back, if you will, to our scripture where we began, in Matthew chapter 7, and look at the reward of prayer. How do we know that God is going to answer this prayer? Well, He tells about His nature, beginning now in verse 8: “For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened”—friend, if you will ask in faith, if you will seek discerningly, and if you'll press on through, your prayer is going to be answered. And then, Jesus illustrates it again. What a great teacher Jesus was!—“Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone? Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent? If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?” (Matthew 7:8–11) Now, why can we be so assured that God’s going to answer our prayers?

A. God Is Good
Because God is good. Notice the logic of Jesus: “If evil men—if evil men—will take care of their children, how much more shall a good God answer the prayers of His children?” (Matthew 7:11)

B. God Is Wise
And, not only is God good, but God is wise. God is not going to give you something that would harm you. God’s not going to give you stones if we ask for bread. And, thank God, He’s not going to give us stones if we ask for stones. He’s going to give us what we want. God is wise.

C. God Is Love
And, God is love. He calls Him “Our Father which [is] in heaven.” (Matthew 6:9; Luke 11:2) And, we sang it tonight: “What a Mighty God We Serve.”

Conclusion
So, let’s remember to come to God in prayer—just to keep on praying and to keep on asking.

Introduction
Would you find, please, Matthew, chapter 7, and in a moment we’re going to commence our reading in verse 7. But let me talk to you a little bit before we read the Scripture. We’re going to be talking about when mothers pray. But we’re not going to exclude dads, and maybe we could just call this message “When Parents Pray.” I’ve already told you that children are a great incentive to prayer. Nothing will put you on your knees like having children. Somebody asked, “How far apart should children be spaced?” The answer is about a mile and a half. But they’re wonderful. Thank God for them. But to be a parent means that you’re going to go to your knees in prayer. Let see what our Lord has to say about it. Matthew, chapter 7, verse 7. Jesus says, “Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you; for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. Or what man is there of you whom, if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone? Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent? If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father, which is in heaven, give good things to them that ask him?”

Now, there are three key words in the passage that I read before you. They are ask, seek, and knock. Ask, seek, and knock. They’re all found in verse 7. Look at it. “Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.” Now, these are three little words, but I want to tell you a big door can swing on little hinges and open up into a vast room where there are multiplied treasures. So I want us to think about these three key words in getting prayer answered. Now remember, this is not some theoretician speaking; this is Jesus, and this is a rock-ribbed, ironclad promise from the Word of God. “Ask, and ye shall receive; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.” Now I submit to you, that’s either true or it’s not true. It is true, and, therefore, we need to learn about prayer today, and especially if we’re parents, but not only if we’re parents.

I. When We Ask, Desire Is Expressed

Now, three things I want to lay on your heart today. Number one, when we ask, desire is expressed. When we’re asking, there are things that we want, we desire. Now, may I tell you that the greatest problem that we face is not unanswered prayer; it is unoffered prayer. Jesus said that we are to ask. Now, there’s an ancillary Scripture that you might jot in your margin. Let me share it with you. It’s from James, chapter 4. James was very practical, and he picked up on what Jesus said here, and James asks this question in James, chapter 4, verses 1 and 2: “From where come wars and fighting’s among you? Come they not hence, even of your lusts which war in your members?” The reason why we can’t get along with one another is we just can’t get along with ourselves. That’s what he’s saying. “Ye lust, and have not; ye kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain; [And then, here is the plain statement] ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not.” God alone knows how many blessings we could have had had we only asked. I suppose that unoffered prayer is not only a tragedy, it is a sin. Our Lord has commanded us to ask. Our Lord has commanded us to pray.

I’ve just listed a few Scriptures where God not only has invited us to pray, but has commanded us to pray. Luke 18:1 says, “And he spake a parable unto them to this end, that men ought always to pray, and not to faint.” That is, not to give up, not to quit.
praying. And Jesus commanded in Mark, chapter 14, and verse 38: “Watch ye and pray, lest ye enter into temptation. The spirit truly is ready, but the flesh is weak.” Now Jesus commanded to watch or pray or He said, “You’re going to go down.” And, again, the apostle Paul, writing from prison, in Philippians, chapter 4, and verse 6 says, “Be careful for nothing, but in everything, by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God.”

Look up here and let me tell you something. There is no substitute for prayer. Now, you can get a substitute for, for some things. If you lose a limb, maybe you can get an artificial limb. Ha. If you if you don’t want to use a telephone, you can use a fax machine. If you don’t want to use a fax machine, you can use e-mail. If you don’t want to use e-mail, you can use female. Telephone or tell-a-woman, it makes no difference. Ha., but you can communicate. All right, I’ll get it later on, but my marriage is secure. It’s all right. What I’m trying to say is, there are some things you can get a substitute for, but there is no substitute for prayer not enthusiasm, not intellect, not energy there, not ingenuity. There is no substitute for prayer. Why the spiritual poverty of some people? Why the powerless of some Christians? You can put it down in one word—it is prayerlessness.

Have you ever thought about why God wants us to ask? He says, “Ask, and it shall be given to you…” Why is that? He already knows what things we have need of. You’re in Matthew, chapter 7. Just go back to Matthew, chapter 6 and look, if you will, in verses 7 and 8. He says here, “And when thou prayest, thou,” excuse me, “But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do; for they think they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not ye, therefore, like unto them; for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.” Ha, ha. Before you ever say a word, He already knows what you have need of. And yet, he says over here in Matthew 7:7: “Ask, and ye shall receive…” Now, He knows what you need, but you have to ask.

Why do we pray? Well, we certainly don’t pray to impress God. He says, “Don’t use vain repetition as the heathen do” God is not impressed with your rhetoric. And we certainly, we don’t pray to impress God, and we don’t pray to inform God. God already knows what we have need of. Well, if we don’t pray to impress God or inform God, what do we pray for? We pray to invite God. That is so very important. God wants us to ask Him. Now why? Well, let me give you three reasons why we, we need to learn to ask God.

A. The Fellowship Factor

First of all, the, the fellowship factor. You see, prayer is a way of having fellowship with God. It is working with God. A good Scripture that would back that up would be 11 Corinthians, chapter 6, and verse 1. It says, “We, then, as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain.” We are workers together with Him. And so, when I am praying, I’m having fellowship with God. I am working with God. And so God could do it without me, but He loves me too much to leave me out.

B. The Development Factor
But not only is there the fellowship factor when we ask, there is the development factor. I grow when I pray. God wants me to grow, and prayer helps me to grow. John 15, verse 7. Jesus said, “If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, then ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.” So God wants me to abide in Him and to receive strength from Him to help me to grow. You see, this word ask, this word seek, and this word knock is in the Greek language in the present tense, and what it literally means is keep on asking, keep on seeking, keep on knocking, because that’s when we, we grow when we kept on doing these things.

Why do we have to keep asking? Sometimes we ask God for something and He doesn’t give it to us right away. Well, the Greek actually says, “Just keep on asking, keep on asking.” A boy wants a girl to go out with him. She says, “Julia, would you go out with me on a date, Susan?” No, let’s stay with Julia, O.K. “Julia, would you go out with me on a date?” She looks him up and down and she says, “Well, you know, I’ve been very busy lately,” and she gives him some excuse. Later on he says, “I wonder why she wouldn’t go with me? Was it she really didn’t like me or is there some other reason. So again, he calls up and says, “Julia, do you think we could do thus and such?” She says, “Well, I, I’m busy, thank you.” And then he asks again. He gets to thinking, “I wonder what it is? I wonder I wonder if I’ve been using the right manners? I wonder if my fingernails are dirty? I wonder if I have body odor? I wonder? I wonder? I wonder? I wonder? I wonder if I have shown her proper respect?” And so he begins to work on himself, and one day, he’s kind of transformed, and he says, “Julia, would you do thus and such?” She looks him up and down and says, “Yes, I believe I will, I believe I will.” Well, what, in asking, just asking her and being refused or having to wait, causes him to examine his life and to grow. Prayer is very much the same way. We, we have fellowship with God when we pray, when we ask. God is growing us when we ask. And if God doesn’t give us what we ask, we wonder why did God not answer my prayer? And we examine our hearts a little bit more.

C. The Dependency Factor
Prayer is also God’s way of causing us to be dependent upon Him. You know, if God just gave us what we needed without our asking, we would cease to be dependent upon Him. It’s, it’s a way of binding us to Him. And so we are to ask. And, and asking God for what we need ought to be just as natural as breathing. Well, you say, “Pastor, what can I ask God for?” Well, a good test of whether you have any right to want anything is this can you ask God for it? Now, if you can’t ask God for it then you have no right to want it.
Don’t get the idea you just ask God for the spiritual things, and you take care of the secular things. Can you imagine Jesus dividing His life into the secular and the sacred? Everything is important to God. You say, “Well this is beyond God, or this is too small for God to deal with.” No! Can you think of anything too big for God or too small for God to notice? Ask Him for any desire of your heart. If you cannot pray and ask God for it you have no business wanting it. You say, “Well, Pastor, what if I want something that I can’t pray about?” No, you can pray about it, you can pray about it. Tell Him, “God, I want something you don’t want. Fix my wanter.” You pray about everything. “In everything, by prayer and supplication…” Just come to God and ask Him. And I’m telling you, there will be that fellowship factor. There will be that growth factor. There will be that dependency factor. Just simply ask God.

Now I want to say again, Jesus says, “Ask, and it shall be given you….” That is so true. I want to tell you again, the great tragedy in life, mothers and dads, is not unanswered prayer; it is unoffered prayer. Now, let me tell you something. Listen very carefully. The devil cannot keep God from answering, so what he will endeavor to do is to keep you from asking, to keep you from asking. Jesus said, “Ask, and it shall be given you…” Well, you say, “I’ve asked and I haven’t received.” Well, He’s not finished yet. Read the whole verse. First of all, when we ask, a desire is expressed.

II. When We Seek, Direction Is Explored
But now, secondly, when we seek, when we seek, direct, direction is explored. Now, sometimes we don’t know what to ask for, and sometimes we ask for the wrong thing. And so, we have to find direction in our prayers. We have to seek. And asking is always linked with seeking. “Ask, and ye shall find; Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find…” The idea of seeking is that there is something that’s lost and we need to find it, or there’s something unknown and we need to understand it. And so, what is it that we seek when we pray? Well, first of all, we may be seeking the purpose of God. We may be seeking the will of God.

Go back to the passage in James. Remember what James said, “Ye, ye have not because ye ask not.” And then he also said, “And ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye might consume it upon your lusts.” You might be asking God for the wrong thing. Now, God is not going to give you the wrong thing, no matter how many times you ask Him. “You ask, and receive not, because you ask amiss,” you ask wrongly, “that you might consume it upon your lusts.” Now, we can ask for personal needs, but we cannot ask for selfish needs. And so, it maybe that when we seek, we’re trying to find the will of God about a matter. I can, God’s not just some glorified bellhop that I say, “Now God, do this, or do that.” No, no, no. I can ask and it will be given me, but that asking is linked to sink, seeking, that I may find. It might be the purpose of God.
that I'm trying to seek for.

It might be the presence of God that I'm seeking when I pray. James, in this same fourth chapter, goes on. He's talking about prayer and he says in James 4, verse 8: "Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double-minded. Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep; let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness. Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up." It just might be that God's very presence is what you need to see. You know, the gift without the giver is bare.

Or, it might be that it's the power of God that you need to see. And James goes on to say, in James 5:16: "Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." So, when I pray, I ask. I ask. I say, "Here God, here's what I need, here's what I want." The answer doesn't come. Then I begin to seek. "Lord, what is your purpose? Lord, where is your presence? Lord, what about your power?" And I begin to seek these things with all of my heart.

Now, first of all, I ask. That's a desire expressed. And then I seek. That is direction explored. I'm trying to find the will of God. Prayer is not bending God's to will to fit our will; prayer is finding the will of God and getting in on it. And so, that's the reason we must seek God in prayer.

III. When We Knock, Determination Is Exerted

But then, thirdly, thirdly. Look. First of all, asking is desire expressed. Seeking is direction explored. But then, thirdly when we knock, determination is exerted. What is the idea now? It's not just saying, "Lord, here's what I want, or Lord, show me your way." It is saying, 'O God, Ooooo God, I need this door opened." And remember, it's present tense. It is knocking and keeping on knocking. Their maybe closed doors. Their maybe barriers. Lalania sang us, gave us the song, "Prayer Warrior." Prayer is a battle. There, the devil, we're up against all the minions of hell, and, indeed, we sometimes have to knock. It is present tense. Keep on asking, keep on seeking, and keep on knocking.

A. Sometimes the Answer Is Direct

And let me tell you something about how prayers are answered. Sometimes prayers are direct, and the answer to prayer, you just ask God for something, and He gives it to you. Have you ever done that? How many of you have just, just simply said, "God, I want thus and such, or let me do thus and such, or do thus and such," and just ipso facto immediately, God has answered your prayers? Have you ever had a pray answered like that, lift your hand. That's all of us, most of us. You just ask and you received. Sometimes the prayer is so direct, it is unmistakably the hand of God. That's one-way God answers prayer.

B. Sometimes the Answer Is Different

But another way God answers prayer is not only is the answer direct, it is different. He doesn’t give us what we ask; He gives us something better than we’ve asked. Hm. And you know, if He doesn’t give you what you asked, He’ll give you something better if you’re asking in the will of God and asked in the right spirit, “…that we know not what we should ask as we ought, but the spirit himself makes intercession for us.” So, sometimes the answer is direct and sometimes the answer’s different.

C. Sometimes the Answer Is Denied

Sometimes the answer is denied. He just says, “No.: Why? Because what you’re asking for is wrong. “Ye ask and receive not, because ye ask amiss….” God is not going to give you something that will harm you or hurt you. If you’re shaving in the morning, and your little two-year old wants to play with your razor, you say, “No.” Not because you don’t love him. You may give him something else, but you just simply say, “No. This is not good for you.”

D. Sometimes the Answer is Delayed

And so, sometimes the answer is direct, sometimes different, sometimes denied, but sometimes delayed, sometimes delayed. And that’s the reason the Bible says, “…knock, and it shall be opened unto you.” And again, I remind you, it is present tense. (Knocking on lectern) Keep on knocking, keep on knocking, keep on knocking, keep on knocking. Don’t quit praying. Over and over again, the Bible teaches that we are to continue in prayer. Now let me, let me give you an illustration of this.

We’re in the gospel of Matthew. Just turn over to Luke. Matthew, Mark, and Luke. And, and take a look at Luke, or as Sidlow Baxter would say, “Take a look at Luke.” Luke 11, verse 5. Jesus is speaking. “And he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves; For a friend of mine is come in his journey, or a friend of mine in his journey is come to me, and I have nothing to set before him? And he, from within, shall answer, and say, Trouble me not; the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee. I say unto you, Though he will not rise and give him because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity [That is, his persistence] he will rise and give him as many as he needeth. And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you. For everyone that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and he that knocketh, it shall be opened unto you.” I’m so glad that Jesus gave this parable, because it so illustrates what I’m talking about keeping on knocking.

Now you have to understand the background here. In, in Bible times there were no motels and hotels, and there were no convenience stores and all of this. And one of the greatest sins that a person could commit would be to fail to show hospitality to a friend, to a stranger, much less a friend. So here’s a man, and it’s late at night. Here’s a friend on his journey, his other friend. He comes, it’s about midnight, and says, “can we spend the night here tonight?” The man says, “Oh, you’re so welcome in our home. Come on in. Sit down. get comfortable. We’ll give you a little something to eat before you go to sleep. I know you’ve been journeying all day.” He says to his wife, he says, “Fix something for our friends.” She says, “There’s nothing in the house, there’s no food.” He says, “Just a minute. We, we’ll have something for you. Just sit down there.” She says, “Go ask the neighbors.” Now, it’s midnight. He goes over to the neighbor’s house. (Knocking on lectern) “Who’s that?” (Knocking on lectern) “Who is it? “Be quiet. You’re going to wake up the kids. Who is it?” “It’s your neighbor. It’s John. I’ve got to have some, some bread. You got any bread, man?” “Look, man, go back. You’re going to start the dogs barking. If, if, if you wake up these babies… I’m telling you.” You see, everybody, the houses were small. They kept the animals under the house many times and up top is where the people slept. The rooms were very small. Sometimes they’d all be in one bed, the babies, and everything there. The, the locks were very complicated. Not just a key like we have. To get a door open was very difficult. He says, “Look, go away.” The man says, (Knocking on lectern) “I said go away.” He says, (Knocking on lectern) “What do you want?” He says, “Look, man, I have got to have some bread. I’ve got a friend here. I’ve got to feed him.” He says, “All right. If you’ll just stop that knocking you just stop, just be quiet, I’ll get up and get some bread for you.” That’s the parable that Jesus is telling. He says, He said, “Look, my, my babies are in, in bed with me. It’s night, and so forth,” but the man won’t quit. He just keeps on. Now that’s the illustration Jesus gave to illustrate this text. “Ask, and it shall be given to you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.” Is He saying that God is like that man in bed, doesn’t want to be bothered with us? No, that’s not what He’s saying. What He is saying is that asking is very much like knocking on that door. That is what He is saying.

Over and over in the Bible, God gives us illustrations of people who just persisted in prayer. Let me give you another one. You’re in Luke 11. Just fast-forward to Luke 18. Luke 18. “And he spake a parable unto them to this end, that men ought always to pray, and not to faint. [That is, not to quit praying]. Saying, There was in a city a judge, who feared not God, neither regarded man. And there was a widow in that city; and she came unto, unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary. And he would not for a while; but afterward he said within himself, Though I fear not God, nor regard man, Yet because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest by her continual coming she weary me. And the Lord said, {Jesus said} Hear what the unjust judge saith. And shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them?” Now, again, God is not saying that I am like an unjust judge. What God is saying is, get the idea. This woman won’t stop asking this judge. And so, he finally says, “I’m going to get her out of my hair. Whatever it is she wants, I’m, I’m going to get rid of her. I’m tired of her. I’m weary with her” Now, notice in verse 7. “And shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them? I tell you that he will avenge them speedily…” Now, you can find this over and over in the Bible. I, I can’t explain it, but I’m telling you that delays are not denials. Ask, seek, knock, keep on asking, keep on seeking, and keep on knocking.

I was reading last night, just before I went to bed, about Elijah. And Elijah was praying for rain. You can read about in, in 1 Kings 18, I believe. And he’s, he’s praying for rain. There has been a drought in the land, three and a half years. And he goes, he sits down and he puts his head between his knees and begins to pray. And he says to his servant, “Go look and see if there’s any rain. See if you see a rain cloud.” He went and said, “Nope, no rain cloud.” Elijah prayed some more. He said, “Go look again.” No rain cloud. Prays some more. He says, “Go look again.” No rain cloud. He prays some more. He says, “Go look again.” Seven times he sent his servant. On the seventh time, the servant said, “I see a little cloud, a little cloud about the size of a man’s hand.” Elijah said, “All right. Get up. I hear the sound of abundance of rain.” You just keep on asking, keep on seeking, and keep on knocking. Whether you understand it or not, whether you agree with it or not, there is a principle, and it is a wonderful principle that, even though it seems that God is delaying, He is not denying.

Conclusion

A. When Should You Stop Asking?

Well, that brings a real question. When should you stop asking? When should you stop seeking? When should you stop knocking in a particular matter? Three times.

1. Stop Asking When You Have What You Asked For

Number one, you stop asking when you have what you asked for. When God gives it to you, you don’t have to keep on asking.

2. Stop Asking When You Have the Answer in Your Heart

Number two, you stop asking when, though you don’t have the answer in your hand, you have the answer in your heart. I have a very big prayer that God gave me in my heart one time. And God said, “Now Adrian, you’re asking me to do something I’m not going to do, but what you really need is this, and I’ve heard your prayer.” I didn’t have it in my hand, but I had it. And time has shown me that I did have it. Now that, that is, you just stop asking. You say, “Thank You, Lord. I, that’s it. Thank You.”
3. Stop Asking When God Says No

Now, when you have it in your hand, or when you have it in your heart, or thirdly, you stop asking when God says no. He just may say no. Paul was asking God to take away a thorn in the flesh, and he said, “Three times I asked Him.” And God said, “I'm not going to do it, Paul. My grace is ma, is sufficient for you.” And so, sometimes God just simply says no.

Now, parents, mothers, we need to pray for our children. What is the assurance that God will hear our prayers? Notice how Jesus concludes this. Look, if you will, now in verse 9: “Or what man is there of you whom, if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone? Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent? If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father, which is in heaven, give good things to them that ask him?”

B. Why Do We Have the Assurance of Answered Prayer?

Why do we have the assurance of answered prayer? Well, in these couple of verses, three reasons.

1. Because God Is Good

First of all, because God is good. You know, we’re not good; we’re imperfect, but we love our children, don’t we? We love our, imperfect as we are. “If you, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father in heaven, give good things to them that ask him?” God is good all the time.

2. Because God Is Wise

And number two. Not only is God good; God is wise. God knows what we need. Now, if we ask a stone, He’s not going to give us bread. If we ask a fish, He’s not going to give us a serpent. God is not capricious. But let me tell you something else. God is so wise, if you ask a stone, He'll not give you a stone. And if you ask a serpent, He'll not give you a serpent. ‘The Lord thy God is a sun and a shield. The Lord will give grace and glory. No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly.” He is too wise to make a mistake and too good to be cruel. So God is good, God is courteous, God is kind and wise.

3. Because God Is Able

And last of all, we know that our prayers are going to be answered not only because God is good and God is wise, but God is able. Look. He speaks of your Father which is in heaven. Hm. Now, in the sixth chapter of Matthew, Jesus taught us to pray, “Our Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name….” And then we, He, He concludes that prayer by saying, “…For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever.” Our Father is in heaven. Now think about it. Your Father is a King. “…thine is the kingdom…” I can say to my heavenly Father, “Lord, You, Yours is the kingdom.”
You see, when I pray, I have a, a Father who will hear me, and I have a King who can answer me. Isn’t that great? A Father who will hear me, and a King who will answer me. Do you know what I have together when I pray? I have the sympathy of a father and the sovereignty of a king. “…thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever.”

"That’s what Jesus is saying. “…how much more shall your Father, which is in heaven, give good things to them that ask him?"

No one should ever try to be a mother or father who doesn’t know how to pray. Learn to pray. Ask. Seek. Knock. When you ask, that’s desire. When you seek, that’s direction. When you knock, that is determination. Just like that man, saying, ‘Look, get up and open this door. I need some bread.” I’m telling you, God will hear your prayer if you’ll learn how to pray as Jesus teaches us to pray. And if He doesn’t give you what you ask, He’ll give you something better than you asked. But now, all prayer must be in the name of Jesus to have heaven's authority. And you cannot pray in the name of Jesus without having Christ in your heart as your Lord and your Savior.

Would you bow your heads in prayer. And if you’re not absolutely certain that you’re saved, I want to lead you in a prayer. And in this prayer you can receive Jesus Christ as your personal Lord and Savior. And when you receive Jesus Christ as your personal Lord and Savior, three things will be true. First of all, every sin will be forgiven and God will give you the gift of righteousness. Something you could never earn by your own good works. God will count you righteous. God will put your name in His book. And at the moment you receive Jesus Christ, you will become His child forever and ever and ever. Secondly, God will send His Holy Spirit into your life to give you peace and power and joy and purpose and guidance. You’ll not be floundering around. Thirdly, He will give you a place, a home in heaven. When you die, or when Jesus comes, He’ll take you directly home to be with Him in heaven when you pray and ask Christ into your heart. Now, salvation is a gift. Jesus purchased it for you with His own blood on the cross, but you must receive that gift. Are you ready to do it? Pray this prayer. “Dear God. I am a sinner and I need to be saved. Jesus, You died to save me and you promised to save me if I would trust you. I do trust you.” Tell Him that from your heart. “I do trust You, Jesus. Right now this moment, in this seat today, I trust you to save me. Forgive my sin. Cleanse me. Make me your child. Come into my heart. Give me strength. And help me never to be ashamed of you. Thank you for saving me. Begin now to make me the person you want me to be. In Your name I pray. Amen.”

Introduction

We’re making our way through the Sermon on the Mount under the general heading “Building on the Rock.” Matthew chapter 7, verses 13 and 14—these are verses that talk about “The Holy Highway.” Now when you came to church this morning, you came on some kind of a road. And that’s what we’re going to be thinking about today. There are all kinds of roads in the world. As a matter of fact, there are over four million miles of roadway in the United States alone—some good roads and some very bad roads; some dangerous roads, because we have people on our highways that have more horsepower than horse sense. And I know that you will agree with that.

I was thinking of some roads that I have traveled. I have had the experience of being in Rome and traveling on the Appian Way. The Apostle Paul traveled in that road built by the Romans. It is still in better condition than some roadways in the world today. And one of those reasons is that the Romans laid a deep foundation. And that ought to be a lesson for us.

I was thinking of some roads in this area. The Natchez Trace begins down in Natchez, Mississippi, and ends up in central Tennessee. Going back up to the eighteenth century it was an old Indian trail. I was thinking of the Overland Trail beginning in St. Louis and going out to the Far West where the stagecoaches would travel. There are many roads in the world today. After our Passion Play I was thinking of a short road, but an important road: The Via Dolorosa, the Way of Sorrows, that our Lord took as He went from the judgment hall to Calvary.

But really, the road I want to talk to you today about is the Holy Highway, the straight and narrow, the old S & N. Look at it here—verse 13: “Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto light, and few there be that find it.” (Matthew 7:13–14) This is the King’s highway, the holy highway, the strait and narrow way; and the desire of my heart and the prayer of my heart is that if you have not done so, today before this service ends you will put your feet on the strait and narrow path that leads to life.

I’ll just tell you up front what I’m all about. I am trying to get you on this holy highway. And I want you to see three things that are in this passage, these two verses. I want you to see, as I look at it, there is a decision to face, and there is a direction to follow, and there is a destiny to find. That’s what these verses tell me.

I. There Is a Decision to Face
First of all, they tell me there is a decision to face. For our Lord says, “Enter in.” That is, it’s up to you. There is a decision that you must make. Now there are only two ways. There is the broad way and the narrow way. There is the way the way that leads to life; there is a way that leads to destruction—only two ways. Modern man does not like this. People get all uptight when you tell them that there is only one way to heaven. We like to put people in all kinds of categories and gradations. And we like to talk of men as being upper-class and middle-class and lower-class. But, you see, God never divides men horizontally; God always divides men vertically: right and left, sheep and goats, saved and lost—that’s all.

Now, you know, the Lord Jesus never preached to please the crowds. You talk about a person who cut it right down the middle: it was the Lord Jesus. Look in these verses—just look for a moment and see what our Lord is talking about in verses 13 and 14. He says there are only two kinds of travelers and two kinds of roads. Look in verse 17. He says there are only two kinds of trees. “Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.” (Matthew 7:17–18)

You’re a traveler on one of two kinds of roads. You’re a tree bearing one of two kinds of fruit. You’re a builder building one of two kinds of houses. Look in verse 24: “Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock.” (Matthew 7:24) Verse 26: “And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand.” (Matthew 7:26)

Two kinds of travelers, two kinds of trees, two kinds of builders—that’s what our Lord says. And in the congregation today, just look around: everybody kind of looks the same. We’re all here this morning in our Sunday morning glad rags. But God doesn’t look on the outward appearance; God looks on the heart. (1 Samuel 16:7) And in the congregation today we say that they are young and old, rich and poor, weak and strong, and so forth. But, friend, there are only two categories of people here today: the saints and the ain’ts. That’s all: the saved and the lost;; those who are with Jesus, and those who are against Jesus; those who are loving Him, and those who are hating Him; those who are receiving Him, and those who are rejecting Him; those who are crowning Him, and those who are crucifying Him; those who are on the road to heaven, and those who are on the road to hell. And you, every one, are in one of those two ways—and that’s all. Either you’re on the holy highway, or you’re on the broad way.

Now I know what the going merchandise is in the minds of men today. They say, “Well, Pastor Rogers, don’t be narrow-minded.” Now that’s just what we are talking about today: a narrow way. “Don’t be narrow-minded. We are all headed toward the same place, just on different roads.” Have you ever heard that? “We are all headed to the same place, just on different roads.” May I tell you what Jesus Christ said? The Lord Jesus Christ said in John chapter 14, verse 6, “I am the way…no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.” (John 14:6) He said, “I am the way.” Jeremiah chapter 21 and verse 8 says, “Behold, I set before you the way of life, and the way of death.” (Jeremiah 21:8) That’s all. That’s narrow.

Now I know there are a lot of people that say it’s not nice to be narrow. I know there are a lot of people that want to broaden the old S & N, the old strait and narrow. But Jesus did not preach that way. And so, look. If what I have to say today bothers you, or irritates you, don’t come up and argue with me about it; just read the Bible and tell God about it. Just say, “God, you made a mistake when you put this in the Bible.” But don’t take the issue with me. You ought to take the issue up with me if I don’t preach the Word of God. Jesus said, “Strait is the gate; narrow is the way that leads unto life.”

Now I know that poem by Markham:

He drew a circle that shut me out—
Heretic, rebel, a thing to flout.
But Love and I had the wit to win:
We drew a circle that took him in.
—EDWIN MARKHAM

That sounds all wonderful. But let me tell you what the Apostle Paul had to say. Here’s what the Apostle Paul had to say. Put this verse in your margin—Galatians 1, verses 8 and 9. The Apostle Paul said, “Though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed”—anathema. Do you know what that word literally means? “Let him be damned.” Now Paul wasn’t a curser. But what Paul said is, “The road to hell is any other gospel other than the gospel of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.” And then Paul reiterates it in verse 9: “As we said before, so say I now again, if any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed.” (Galatians 1:8–9)

Now the Bible is a narrow book. There can be no compromise with the gospel. Far better it would be for you to say two and two is five than to compromise with the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. I don’t know why it is, but people don’t like ministers to say this is the way it is. Now they want their airplane pilots to be very narrow-minded. You're flying on an airplane, and you say, “Now you are narrow minded. You let the flaps down and let the landing gear down,” and so forth. They want their pharmacists to be very narrow-minded. They want their banker to be very narrow-minded when he’s handling their money. They want everybody in all of these disciplines to be narrow-minded. But somehow in the thing that matters the most—eternal life—they say, “Well, it really doesn’t make any difference.”

Now I’m saying that the Lord Jesus said there are two ways and there is a decision to face. Jesus said, “Enter the strait gate, the narrow gate.” Let me tell you something about that decision. Now, listen.

A. The Freedom to Decide

First of all, there is the freedom to decide. You have the freedom to decide. Don’t ever let anybody tell you, you have been predestined to go to hell. You have the freedom to decide. Otherwise Jesus never would have said, “Enter.” Jesus said you can choose. And you must choose. We are not machines. We are human beings. And this morning, you are free to do as you wish.

But now, pay attention. Apart from the grace of God, you are not free to do as you ought. Now, understand the distinction. You're free. You are free to do as you wish. But it takes the grace of God for you to do as you ought. You say, “Well, I can do whatever I want.” Well, that’s true. But, you see, the problem is with your wanter. You always want what is wrong, until you have the grace of God in your heart. The only reason that you can choose to do right is because He first chose you.
But you, my friend, are free to choose. And He has chosen you, and He has invited you, and He has said, “Whosoever will, may come.” (Revelation 22:17) And He will give you the power and the ability to come. And He will take you, if you want to come. There are not enough demons in hell or out of hell to keep you from coming. But if you choose not to come, there are not enough angels in heaven to drag you down this aisle. There is the freedom to decide. But the only reason that you have that freedom to decide is because He has loved you and set His grace upon you.

B. The Forcing of Decision
There is the freedom of decision. But now, wait a minute. There is also the forcing of decision. Did you know that while you’re free to decide, you’re not free not to decide? While you are free to decide, you are not free not to decide. You are forced into a decision this very moment. There is no way that you can do what Pilate thought he was doing—that is, wash your hands of Jesus Christ. You cannot do that. Pilate said, “Well, I won’t decide. I’ll let the people decide.” And that lily-livered pussyfooting politician said, “I wash my hands of Jesus.” But history and eternity has proven that Pilate’s indecision was his worst decision. And the decision not to decide was a decision. And when you refuse the Lord Jesus Christ, you’re not merely neutral, because Jesus Christ said in Matthew chapter 12 and verse 30, “He that is not with me is against me.” (Matthew 12:30) There is no way that you can be neutral. The decision not to decide is a decision. And so today, listen carefully. You will leave this building on the strait and narrow, or you’ll leave it on the broad way. You’ll leave this building on the road to hell, or you’ll leave this building on the road to heaven. And you say, “I will not decide for Jesus Christ.” By that very act, you have decided against Jesus Christ. Put it down in your margin—Matthew 12 and verse 30: “He that is not with me is against me.”

C. The Fruits of Decision
You see, listen. There is the freedom of decision. There is the forcing of decision. And there are the fruits of decision. Now, let me say something else. You are free to choose. You’re not free not to choose. And you’re not free to choose the consequences of your choice.

Now, for example, you can get in a ten-story building and open the window and say, “I’m free to jump out.” And you are. But about that time, your choices get diminished. What I mean is, you are free to jump out, but you’re not free to negate the law of gravity. You are free to choose, but you’re not free to choose the consequences of your choice.

These people talk about free love: “I will sleep with anybody I want to.” Well, all right, you’re free to choose that, but you’re not free to choose the consequences. And when the warm flames of lust turn to the fiery flames of hell, that’s a part of the consequences of your choice, according to the same Bible that says, “Flee fornication,” (1 Corinthians...
6:18) and the Bible that says, “Thou shalt not commit adultery.” (Exodus 20:14)

You talk about the freedom of choice. People want to say, “I am pro-choice.” Choice to do what? Choice to kill a baby! You say, “We have decided not to have this baby.” No, my dear friend, you already have a baby. What you are deciding is, will it be a live baby or a dead baby. That’s what you’re deciding. You already have a baby. There is a baby that is living with in you. And you say, “I am pro-choice.” You are free to choose, but you’re not free to choose the consequences of that choice.

There are some awful consequences. Choice is before all of us. Our Lord says, “Here’s a narrow way. Here’s a broad way.” He says, “Enter in.” Everybody is free to choose. You’re not free not to choose. And you’re not free to choose the consequences of your choice. So you have to choose very carefully.

Now you don’t have to choose to go to hell. To go to hell, all you have to do is refuse to receive Jesus. Because, why? You’re already on the broad way. Our Lord doesn’t say, “Don’t enter the broad way.” He says, “Enter the narrow way.” Why? Because you are already on the broad way.

There’s a gospel tract. On one side of the gospel tract it says, “What must I do to be saved?” And the answer is given: “Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved.” (Acts 16:31) On the other side of the tract it says, “What must I do to be lost?” And it’s just a box there with nothing in it. “What must I do to be lost?” Nothing. You’re already lost. You’re already lost without the Lord Jesus Christ. You must choose Christ.

II. There Is a Direction to Follow

We are sinners by birth, sinners by nature, sinners by choice, sinners on the broad way, sinners on the way to hell. And so the very first thing I see in this passage of Scripture as I think about “The Holy Highway,” friend, is there is a decision to face. Secondly, there is a direction to follow. Look at it again, if you will. He says here, “Enter…in at the strait gate.”—that’s the decision—“for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way.” (Matthew 7:13–14) After the decision, there comes the direction.

Now, let me talk to you about the narrow way today. The narrow way is the way that every blood-bought child is walking today. It is the holy highway.

A. It Is a Disciplined Way

And the first thing I want to say about the narrow way: It is a disciplined way. When the Bible says “strait” here, it is not talking about straight like “a straight line.” It means discipline: “Rigorous is the way.” If you’re looking for a cheap way, an easy way, a lazy way, to serve the Lord Jesus Christ, forget it. The Bible says we’re to endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

We say, “Well, it pays to serve Jesus.” Yes, it does. But it also costs to serve Jesus. It costs everyday. It costs every step of the way. And there is no fine print in the contract that Jesus Christ gives. The problem with many people today is they have sort of a cheap grace, an easy believism. The way of Jesus Christ is, while salvation is free, on the one hand, yet there is a discipline to the Christian life. Any dead fish can float down the stream.

You see, without discipline, there is no power. Loose wires just disconnected don’t make a beautiful sound. But if we connect them and put them in one of those marvelous pianos and stretch them until there’s tension there, discipline there, then we get the music.

Steam and vapor in the air—and there’s no power there. But we compress it and put it in an engine, and it will turn the turbine and the pistons, because there is power there. Take a river and just let it meander—and there’s no power there. But dam it up, and it makes a power dam that can light up a city. “Broad is the way”—easy is the way—“that leads to destruction.”

A few years ago there was a young African; he was martyred for the cause of Christ, but before he died, he wrote these words. They were found in his room. It said this: “I am a part of the fellowship of the Unashamed. I have the Holy Spirit power. The die has been cast. I have stepped over the line. The decision has been made. I am a disciple of Jesus Christ. I won’t look back, let up, slow down, back away, or be still. My past is redeemed, my present makes sense, and my future is secure. I am finished and done with low living, sight walking, small planning, smooth knees, colorless dreams, tame visions, mundane talking, chintzy giving, and dwarfed goals…. My pace is set, my gait is fast, my goal is Heaven, my road is narrow, my way is rough, my companions few, my Guide is reliable, my mission is clear…. I won’t give up, back up, let up, or shut up until I’ve preached up, prayed up, paid up, stored up, and stayed up for the cause of Jesus Christ…. I must go until He returns, give until I drop, preach until all know, and work until he comes me. And when He comes to get His own, He will have no problem recognizing me. My colors will be clear.”

Compare that with the Christianity we see today. We are looking for a cheap way, an easy way, a lazy way to serve the Lord Jesus. But Jesus said, “Strait is the gate.” It is a disciplined way.

B. It Is a Different Way

But not only, friend, is it a disciplined way; it is a different way. Our Lord says, “Few there be that find it”—“few there be,” not many. Don’t expect the crowds to be on this way. And don’t follow the crowds. The crowds are almost always wrong. What is happening in America today is, because the crowds are wrong, we have morality by majority. Do you know what most folks are taking comfort in? They’re saying, “Well, I’m just like everybody else.” Isn’t that what they are saying? “I am just as good as those other people.” Friend, our way is a different way. It starts at a different source. It follows a different course. It ends at a different conclusion. And if you’re on this way, you’re going to be going against the tide most of the time, because we are twice-born people in a world of once-born people, and they are different from us, and we are different from them.

C. It Is a Delightful Way

It is a disciplined way. It is a different way. And it is a delightful way. Do you think what I am saying is negative? Friend, you don’t know the joy of serving the Lord Jesus Christ. Let me give you a verse. Oh, I love this. It’s one of my favorite passages in the Old Testament. Put it in your margin. You may turn to it—Isaiah chapter 35. It talks about the holy highway. By the way, the song that our choir sings, and we sing—“The Holy Highway”—is one of my favorite songs. Isaiah 35, verses 8 and following—here our Lord is talking about the way that Jesus is in the Old Testament; He’s prophesying this holy highway. Listen to it. God says, “And an highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called The way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for those: the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein. No lion shall be there, nor any ravenous beast shall go up thereon, it shall not be found there; but the redeemed shall walk there: and the ransomed of the LORD shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.” (Isaiah 35:8–10)

1. Because It Is a Clean Way

It is a delightful way. Why? Because it’s a clean way. Verse 8: “The unclean shall not pass over it.” That’s what He says. It’s the way of holiness. There are no mud holes on the holy highway. And no Tennessee trash is going to be following that holy highway. And if your heart is full of sin and filth and dirt, and you’ve never repented, don’t tell me you’re on the holy highway. The Bible says here it is the way of holiness. “The unclean shall not pass over it.”

2. Because It Is a Certain Way

It is a clean way. And I’ll tell you, it is a certain way. It’s delightfully clean. It’s delightfully certain. He says, “A wayfaring man, though a fool, shall not err therein.” (Isaiah 35:8) Do you know what that means? It means, a stranger without good sense can find his way on the holy highway. You don’t have to have a Ph.D. to travel this holy highway. The Bible says, “God has hidden these things from the wise and the prudent, and has revealed them unto babes.” (Matthew 11:25; Luke 10:21)
And you may be here today and you say, “You know, Pastor Rogers, I don’t know much about religion. I don’t know much about the Bible. I don’t understand all that you are saying.” Well, my friend, let me tell you that Jesus Christ loves you. And it is so clean and so pure and so simple. Come to Jesus. Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ. That is gloriously simple. And it is simply glorious.

3. Because It Is a Confident Way
This way is delightful, because it’s clean. This way is delightful, because it is clear. I’ll tell you it’s delightful, because it is confident. Oh, listen. You don’t have to worry about losing your salvation. You don’t have to worry about Satan pouncing you while you’re on the holy highway. Verse 9: “No lion shall be there, nor any ravenous beast shall go up thereon, it shall not be found there; but the redeemed shall walk there.” Oh, what a wonderful road!

4. Because It Is a Cheerful Way
You get on this road and you let the Lord Jesus be your companion, and this road, which is a clean way and a clear way, is a certain and a confident way. Oh, He keeps us! And then it is a cheerful way. The Bible says, “And the ransomed of the LORD shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.” I love Jesus. If I had a thousand lives, I’d give Him every one. Don’t feel sorry for me because I am on the Holy Highway. Oh, friend, this is what it’s all about! “The ransomed of the LORD shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads.” What a wonderful, wonderful road this is!

We love to sing that song, “Amazing grace, how sweet the sound, that saved a wretch like me.” It was written by John Newton. John Newton was one of the most wicked, vile sinners that ever lived. He committed almost every sin known to man. He was a drunken rum runner. He was a South Sea slave trader. He got so low in debauchery and sin that he finally ended up selling himself as a slave of slaves. And Jesus Christ miraculously saved John Newton. He is the one who wrote the song “Amazing Grace.” His own epitaph he wrote. Do you want to hear what he wrote about himself to be put on his grave marker? Listen. He said, “John Newton, Clerk, once an infidel and libertine, a servant of slaves in Africa, was by the rich mercy of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ preserved, restored, pardoned, and appointed to preach the faith he had long labored to destroy.” No wonder he could sing on the holy highway, “Amazing Grace, how sweet the sound, that saved a wretch like me.”

III. There Is a Destiny to Find
What is our Lord telling us in these verses? Number one: There is a decision to face. Number two: There is a direction to follow. It is a disciplined way. Oh, friend, this way is a delightful way. But now, here’s a third thing: Not only is there a decision to face; not only is there a direction to follow; but there is a destiny to find. Every road is going somewhere. And the one you’re on right now is going somewhere.

Now I want you to ask this question: “When I get to where I’m headed, where will I be?” Ask it. “When I get to where I am headed, where will I be?” Now the Lord again in a very narrow way said, “There are only two destinations.” One He calls “destruction,” and the other He calls “life.” You see, decision determines direction, and direction determines destiny. You don’t have to be a rocket scientist to figure that out, do you? Decisions determine direction, and direction determines destiny. That’s what our Lord is saying. And today many of you are saying, “Well, to tell you the truth, Pastor Rogers. I’m on the broad way.”

Some days ago I was on an airplane going to St. Louis. The steward got on the microphone and said, “This is flight thus and such headed to St. Louis. If St. Louis is not in your plans for this afternoon, I would suggest that you deplane right now.” Now, friend, maybe you’re on the highway to hell; and if hell is not in your plans, I would suggest you get off. I mean, if you do not want to die and go to hell, then why don’t you do something about it?

There is a destiny to find. Now it may be a fearful destiny: destruction. I don’t want to sugarcoat what Jesus said. Jesus—the loving Jesus—had more to say about hell than any other person in the Word of God. Jesus did. It was Jesus who talked about destruction. Don’t you point your finger at me and say, “That man is a hellfire preacher.” Just take it up with Jesus Christ. Jesus said, “The broad way leads to destruction.”

In Chicago there was a nightclub. Would you believe it? They named the nightclub The Gates of Hell. Can you imagine naming a nightclub that? The Gates of Hell. One man out on a lark asked a policeman, “How can I get to The Gates of Hell?” On the same street where this nightclub was there was a church. And do you know the name of the church? It was Calvary Church. Do you know what that policeman told that man? “You want to get to The Gates of Hell? Go right past Calvary, and you’ll come to The Gates of Hell.” And God has lifted up Calvary with the bloodstained Prince of Glory hanging in agony and blood, and He says, “Stop! Stop! Stop!—or you’ll end up at the gates of hell.”

There is a destiny to find. It may be a fearful destiny, or it may be a fabulous destiny. It may be life. You see, that life begins not when you die; it begins when you step on the old S & N. Jesus said, “I have come that you might have life, and have it abundantly.” (John 10:10) And not only does He add years to life; He adds life to the years. And if there were no heaven, and if there were no hell, it is worth the trip just to be on this highway. I mean, there is a destiny.

But, thank God, we’re on our journey home. Each step I take is one step closer home. How wonderful that is! It will be worth it all when we see Jesus. I may be just a heartbeat away from the end of my journey. How wonderful that is! Friend, there is a destiny to find. It may be a fearful destiny. It may be a fabulous destiny. But listen to me. It will be a final destiny.

There is no chance after death. Ecclesiastes chapter 11 and verse 3 says, “And if the tree fall toward the south, or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth, there it shall be.” (Ecclesiastes 11:3) That’s just a poetic way of saying, “When you die, your destiny is fixed.” Revelation chapter 22, verse 11: “He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still.” (Revelation 22:11)

I’ve studied this book for many years. I’ve read it, loved it, and preached out of it. I cannot find one place where God offers one shred of hope to those who die outside the Lord Jesus Christ—not one! To the contrary, the Bible says, “It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment.” (Hebrews 9:27)

Conclusion
Now if you’re on the broad way today, you’re on that turnpike to torment, you’re on that highway to hell. And there are a lot of people, and you’re having a big time; and God brought you to this service this morning, and God put this preacher in front of you, and this preacher is holding up a sign. And do you know what it says? “Heaven: Exit now.” It never says the next exit; always now, because the next exit may be hell. There may not be another exit.

You say, “Well, I’m not going to decide today, Pastor.” You see, you’ve missed what I said to you. When you say you’re not going to decide, that is a decision that keeps you on the broad way that leads to destruction. You say, “Well, I’ve got plenty of time.” I hope you do. But the Bible says, “Boast not thyself of to morrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.” (Proverbs 27:1) There is a decision to face, a direction to follow, and a destiny to find. That’s what Jesus says.

Introduction

Take your Bibles and be finding Matthew chapter 7. We continue our study through the Sermon on the Mount, and we take up where we left off last week. Matthew chapter 7 and verse 15 begins with a warning. Jesus says, “Beware of false prophets”—that’s a good word for today, isn’t it?—“Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep’s clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by there fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so”—Jesus says—“every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them. Not everyone that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Many will say unto me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.” (Matthew 7:15–23)

Have you ever passed a house, or have been walking up to a house, wanting to knock on the door, and you see a sign that says, “Beware of the dog”? Have you ever seen that? What do you do? Well, you beware of the dog, don’t you? Where there is a sign there that says just, “Beware of the dog,” you stop right away, and you look around and wonder, “Should I go in there?” But, whatever, it sensitizes you. I want you to imagine walking up to a house and seeing a sign that says, “Beware of the wolf.” Now, just suppose, rather than having a dog in the yard, there is a wolf in the yard. I think you would do a double-take."

The title of our message today: “Beware of the Wolves.” That’s what Jesus is saying. And, these wolves have disguised themselves in sheep’s clothing. Early this morning I read a little bit more about wolves. I found out that wolves are known for their boldness. They are known for the fierceness of their attack. They were the most dreaded and hated enemy of the shepherd—not the lion, not the bear, but the wolf. As a matter of fact, the article that I read early this morning said that a wolf will kill for food, but once he gets a taste of blood, he goes into a frenzy and will kill far more than he can possibly eat. And, Jesus said that false prophets are like wolves, and Jesus said, “Beware.” Now, when Jesus says, “Beware,” then we ought to beware. And, Jesus says, “Not only are these wolves so dangerous; they are so deceptive. They come to you in sheep’s clothing.” Now, you cannot be wise and not beware. You see, the Lord has warned us. Many times, warnings have gone unheeded.

Captain Smith was the captain of the Titanic. He received a message, a radio message, when the Titanic was on its maiden voyage, and that radio message said that they were entering into iceberg-laden waters. According to the account I read, Captain Smith took that message written on a piece of paper, crumpled it, shoved it into his pocket, and the Titanic went sailing on. And, when it sank, 1,490 people went to a watery grave in the icy North Atlantic.

I read somewhere years ago about Sergeant Lockhart—Sergeant Joseph Lockhart. He was sitting at the radar at Pearl Harbor, and he noticed a squadron of airplanes coming. The day was December 7, 1941. He reported to his commanding officer, “I see some unidentified aircraft approaching.” Do you know what the commanding officer said? “Forget it.” And, three thousand of America’s best perished in that day of infamy.
Warnings—if there were ever a generation that needs to be warned about false prophets, it’s this one. I mean, if ever, if ever, it’s this one. And, Jesus is saying, “Beware of false prophets.” (Matthew 7:15) David Koresh is only one of many. For every David Koresh whose name you’ll read in the newspaper, there are many names that you may not read about who have honeycombed this nation and this world—false prophets, our Lord says.

Remember this: that Satan is not opposed to religion. Satan is opposed to biblical Christianity. And, religion is one of Satan’s chief arms. Satan comes against the Church in two basic ways.

A. Satan Comes Against the Church by Persecution
Satan comes against the Church by persecution. And, he’s not above persecuting the Church; he’s not above persecuting this church or any true New Testament church. But, many times, for Satan, persecution will not work. Many times, God’s people, rather than folding up, stand up against persecution.

I remember when we were in Romania. The pastor there of the great Second Baptist Church, the largest Baptist church in all Europe, told me, as we went past the church—he said, “You see all of these apartment buildings that are near our church?” He said, “Let me tell you how they got built.” He said, “Ceausescu, that maniacal, diabolical, ungodly, antichrist dictator, when he passed by the Second Baptist Church of Oradea one time, he looked over there and he saw the church. He asked his aide, ‘What is that?’ He said, ‘That’s a Baptist church.’ He said, ‘Destroy that nest of insects.’ They said, ‘Well, Mr. Ceausescu, if we just destroy them, why, the world will hear about it. It will look bad for Romania. After all, we have won most favorite nation status.’ ‘Well,’ he said, ‘then hide it.’ And so, you know what they did? They built apartments all around the church and brought the people right to it—people coming to the Lord Jesus Christ and getting saved.”

Many times, God cuts Goliath’s head off with the sword that Goliath sharpened, amen? Sometimes the devil comes against the Church by persecution.

B. Satan Comes Against the Church by Infiltration
But, he has a better way to come against the Church: it is not persecution; it is infiltration. Put these verses in your margin. Here’s the great danger to today’s church. It is the infiltration of false prophets wearing sheep’s clothing. Acts chapter 20, verses 28 and following: The Apostle Paul said to the Ephesian elders, to that wonderful church at Ephesus, “Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock”—God’s sheep—“to all the flock, over which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood. For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.” (Acts 20:28—
Then the Apostle Paul said to those folks in Corinth, in 2 Corinthians chapter 11, beginning in verse 13—put this verse in your margin—2 Corinthians chapter 11, verses 13 and 14: “For such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ”—that is, they are wearing sheep’s clothing—“And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light.” (2 Corinthians 11:13–14) Satan is the captain of camouflage. He is the master of deceit. And so, again and again and again, the Bible warns us of false prophets. Our Lord Jesus said in this same book of Matthew that we are studying, in Matthew chapter 24 and verse 24: “For there shall arise false Christs”—that’s what David Koresh said that he was: the Messiah—“There shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.” (Matthew 24:24)

You know, every now and then, somebody will say, “Oh, the Bible is not true. The Bible is a bundle of blunders. The Bible is a book of lies, and I’ll tell you why it is…” They say that the Bible is not true because of all of these false religions, all of these false prophets, all of these fruit loops. Friend, let me tell you something: those people don’t prove the Bible not to be true; those people authenticate the Bible. If there were no false prophets, the Bible would not be true because the Bible says they’re coming. It is Jesus Christ who said the David Koreshes are coming. They are coming. “Beware,” (Matthew 7:15) He says. These things confirm and authenticate our faith.

So, there are three basic things I want you to learn this morning, as we look at this message under the title “Beware of the Wolves.” The very first thing I want you to see is the fleece they wear. The second thing I want you to see is the fruit they bear. The third thing I want you to see is the fate they share. Now, here’s what our Lord Jesus is telling us about these false prophets:

I. The Fleece They Wear
First of all, the fleece they wear. He says they “come [wearing] sheep’s clothing.” (Matthew 7:15) That is, they appear like part of the flock. Now, this is the disguise they wear. Now, what I want to do today is simply just rip away the disguise. What I want to do is to pull back the sheepskin and let you see the wolf beneath.

Now, false prophets come in three categories. There are three kinds of false prophets. If you just look for one kind, you’re apt to miss the other two. Wonderfully, God has given us a description of all three in one verse, so I don’t want you to miss that verse. Turn to it in the next to the last book in the Bible. We call it an “epistle.” It’s more like a postcard, it’s so small. It’s the little book of Jude. And look, if you will, in verse 11. Now, let me say this: that all of the book of Jude is about false apostles, false prophets, and apostates. That’s what it’s about. The book of Jude is a warning about false prophets. But, happily and wonderfully he describes all three kinds in one verse—verse 11: “Woe unto them! for they have gone in the way of Cain”—that’s one kind of false prophet—“and ran greedily”—underscore the word greedily—“after the error of Balaam for reward”—that’s another kind of false prophet—“and perished in the gainsaying of Core” (Jude 1:11)—that’s another kind of false prophet. Three kinds right there. All of them will be wearing sheepskin. But, I want us to look at them. What do they represent?

A. Cain: Those Who Pervert the Gospel

Cain, the first one, represents those who pervert the gospel. Now, pay attention. Who is Cain? Well, you remember that God placed Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, and then God gave them sons: Cain and Abel. Do you remember that story? And, the Bible says that Abel was a keeper of flocks, but Cain was a farmer; he was a tiller of the ground. And, there in Genesis chapter 4, verses 1 through 8, you have the story of two brothers. Two brothers went out to make two offerings. One brother offered to the Lord the firstlings of the flock. A perfect lamb was killed, and the blood of that lamb was offered to the Lord as an atonement for sin. The other brother came—you will remember the story—offered to God the fruit of his hands, of his work, the sweat of his face. This is what he offered to the Lord. And, what you have here are two brothers, two offerings, two religions, and two destinies. (Genesis 4:1–8)

Now Abel, as you will remember, offered the very best—the firstling of the flock to the Lord. Why? Because there, in the dawn of civilization, God was teaching the lesson that we see affirmed in Hebrews chapter 9 and verse 22, which is what? “Without shedding of blood is no remission.” (Hebrews 9:22) Isn’t that right? “Without shedding of blood is no remission.” (Hebrews 9:22) And, Hebrews 11:4 says, “By faith Abel offered a more excellent sacrifice.” (Hebrews 11:4) Abel had faith in the blood. Never forget it. He had faith in the blood. The blood that we sang about this morning is not incidental; it is not accidental. It is fundamental; it is eternal. For the Bible says in 1 John 1:7: “The blood of Jesus Christ [God’s] Son [cleanses] us from all sin.” (1 John 1:7)

Now, on the other hand, Cain offered the fruit of the ground. His offering was not based on blood, but the fruits and the flowers of his own effort. It may have been impressive. It may have been beautiful. It may have been costly. It may have looked like a county fair. There may have been beautiful flowers and fragrant herbs and the righteous fruits. But, God was not impressed. Why? You can’t get blood out of a turnip. My friend, “without [the] shedding of blood is no remission.” (Hebrews 9:22) What did Cain’s offering represent? Culture, not Calvary. Works, not grace.

Now, there are only two kinds of religion—pay attention—the true and the false. Now, we like to divide the world into Christianity, and Buddhism, and Islam, and Hinduism, rheumatism, and whatever. We even take Christianity and we subdivide Christianity: Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian, and Catholic, and others. But, I want to say there are only really two kinds of religion: the way of Cain and the way of the cross. That’s all. The way of the cross leads to heaven. The way of Cain leads to hell.

Now, there are many people today who are trudging to churches, sitting down and worshipping all over America, but did you know they will not hear salvation by the blood preached? And, many people will not say that that man preaching is a false prophet, but friend, he’s gone the way of Cain. I don’t care how many fruits and flowers there are there. I don’t care how beautiful they are. I care not how grand the choir is. I care not how many good works they do in the neighborhood. I don’t care if they are offering to God the works of their hands rather than the blood of the Lamb. That man is a false prophet. That’s the way of Cain—those who pervert the gospel.

B. Balaam: Those Who Prostitute the Gospel

Now, what about the other man, Balaam? That’s the second one that’s mentioned there. Balaam represents, not those that pervert the gospel, but those who prostitute the gospel. You see, Balaam was orthodox. Many of the things that Balaam said were incredible. Who was Balaam? Well, Balaam was an apostate prophet. You can read his story in Numbers 22. The king of Moab was afraid of the Israelites. He couldn’t figure out a way to overcome them. And then, he got this diabolical scheme. He thought to himself, “Well, maybe I can get their God to put a curse on them.” And so, he said, “Well, who is a prophet that might put a curse on them?” Somebody said, “Well, Balaam, he knows all about that prophecy business and cursings and blessings.”

Balak, the king of Moab, went to Balaam and said, “Listen, I want you to put a curse on Israel.” Balaam said, “Are you crazy? Do you think I’m going to curse them? God says, ‘Those who curse them I'll curse. And, those that bless them, I’ll bless.’ Do you think I’m going to put a curse on them?” Balak said, “I'll pay you.” Balaam said, “You couldn’t pay me enough to do that. No, thank you.” And, Balak comes back and ups the annuity, and throws in some fringe benefits. And, after awhile, ol’ Balaam gets to thinking: “Now, how can I do this? How can I serve God and rake off a few profits on the side? How can I do this?” And then, he said, ‘I’ll tell you what, I can’t curse them, but I’ll tell you what, I’ll tell you how you can get them to curse themselves.” And, one of the most sinister—one of the most incredible—things that ever happened happened. He said to the king of Moab, “If you get them to sin, you won’t have to curse them; I won’t have to curse them; God will curse them.” And, the daughters of Moab went in and began to flirt with the boys of Israel, and there was adultery, and fornication, and wickedness—the same thing that’s going to cause God to curse America. And, my friend, the man of God would not stand up for purity and righteousness; and so, there was a sensual feast with the daughters of Moab. And, God slew twenty-four thousand Israelites.

Now, what did Balaam do? He didn’t pervert the gospel. No, His problem was he was orthodox but greedy. Remember what verse 11 talks about—how he greedily ran? (Jude 1:11) You see, there are not enough devils in hell or out of hell, or wherever they may be, to curse this church. But friend, we can curse it if we don’t live right. And, there are many false prophets today who will not preach and teach what the Bible says about righteousness.

And, the reason that many preachers today and many teachers today are trimming the messages is for personal gain. And, that gain does not have to be financial. Sometimes it’s for prestige. Sometimes it’s for popularity. Sometimes it’s for power. Put this verse in your margin—2 Peter chapter 2, verse 1: “But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who [privately] shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction. And many shall follow their pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of”—I’ve already read today in the newspaper some editorials where what I believe is the truth is being evil spoken of because of David Koresh. “Many will follow their pernicious ways. Those who are in the way of truth shall be evil spoken of.” But now, notice verse 3—“And through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you” (2 Peter 2:1–3)—covetousness. That’s what happened to Balaam.

Now, there are many false prophets, but you spell the word prophet P-R-O-F-I-T. They are in it for what they can get. They may stand up, and they may preach the blood. They don’t pervert the gospel; they prostitute the gospel. They sell the gospel the same way that Madison Avenue sells cars. And so, Paul said in 2 Corinthians chapter 2 and verse 17, they peddle the Word of God. (2 Corinthians 2:17)

C. Korah: Those Who Protest the Gospel

Now, there is a third kind of false prophet. You have to see all kinds. They are all out there, friend. They are in the woodwork. There are those who pervert the gospel; that’s the way of Cain. There are those who prostitute the gospel; that’s Balaam. But, there are also those who protest the gospel; that’s Korah. The name is spelled differently in the Old Testament. It’s Korah in the Old Testament. Core is the translation in the Greek New Testament. But, it is the same man.

Now, who was Korah? Well, you read about him in Numbers chapter 16. Korah was a gifted man and a man of privilege. He was a cousin of Moses. He was a Levite. He was a prince of Israel. But, somehow he got the idea that he did not like the leadership of Moses and he did not like the leadership of Aaron. Now, remember that Moses and Aaron were a prophet and a priest. As a matter of fact, the Bible prophesies the coming of Jesus and says the coming of Jesus is this: that Jesus is going to be a prophet like Moses. (Acts 3:20–22; 7:37) Moses is a type of the Lord Jesus Christ, and so is Aaron a type of the Lord Jesus Christ, because Christ is our High Priest. Christ is prophet and priest to the Church.

But, here’s this man named Korah; and he rebels against Moses, and he rebels against Aaron. And, you can go back and read the story for yourself. He says, “You guys think you’re just hot stuff. You’re taking too much upon you. We don’t like your leadership. We don’t like what you say. We don’t like what you do.” And, he organized a rebellion against Moses and against Aaron. And, the Bible says that Moses fell on his face before God and told God about it, and there came a judgment where the earth opened up and swallowed Korah. He went down to hell—and all who followed him. (Numbers 16)

What was Korah’s problem? He didn’t pervert the gospel. He didn’t prostitute the gospel. He just fought the gospel. He hated the gospel. These who represent God’s prophet and God’s priest, picturing the Lord Jesus Christ, he rose up in rebellion against them. And, I’m telling you, my dear friend, there are those in America who absolutely hate the message that we preach in this church. I mean, they hate it. They hate the blood—not that they deny it; they hate it. They hate the Word of God.

I was talking to a man the other day. He said, “I’m a psychologist.” He said, “I used to listen to you preach.” He said, “Man, I hated you. I said, ‘That man’s dangerous’”—talking about me—“That man’s dangerous.” By the way, he’s gloriously saved now. He kept listening. He said, “You know what?” He said, “You know, you are dangerous—dangerous to another kingdom, to another way.”

Oh, friend, listen, we have today those who despise the blood-bought way. We have those who prostitute the blood-bought way. We have those who pervert the blood-bought way. They are all false prophets—those who pervert the gospel, those who prostitute the gospel, those who protest the gospel. They are all wolves in sheep’s clothing.

II. The Fruit They Bear
Well, let’s move on a little bit and think not only about the fleece they wear, but let’s talk about the fruit they bear. Go back again and see what our Lord says. Are we helpless? Our Lord changes the metaphor. And, He says in verse 16: “Ye shall know them”—who? These wolves—“by their fruits”—now, He no longer speaks of them as animals, but as trees—“Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.” (Matthew 7:16–19) Now, God is saying that the devil cannot continue to cover up by deception because the fruit is there. Now, let me tell you three things about fruit:

A. The Root Determines the Fruit

First of all, it is the root that determines the fruit. Isn’t that right? That’s what Jesus is saying. You don’t get figs from thistles. It is the root that determines the fruit.

Now, if you had a fruit tree that wasn’t bearing the right kind of fruit, what could you do to get the right kind of fruit on it? Well, you could prune it. And, all you do is just strengthen the root. There are a lot of people that think, “Well, you know, if I just get rid of this thing or that thing, well, I’ll be a better tree.”

Well, not only could you prune it, but you can transplant it: you can take a bad fruit tree and put it in another place. That’s what some folks do when they move their membership: they’re just transplanting a bad tree. It’s like moving a corpse from one mausoleum to another. I mean, you can transplant it.

What else could you do? Well, you could cultivate it. Now, it’s a bad tree, so you cultivate it. A lot of folks are going off to church growth conferences today. They are talking about church growth. And, as I read some of that material, friend, they are telling them how to fertilize weeds. I mean, growth is not everything. So, you could cultivate the tree.

Or, maybe you could just rename that tree. It’s a bad tree, so you just give it another name. That’s not going to change the fruit. It’s the root that determines the fruit.

What could you do? Why, friend, you could decorate it. You could pull off the bad fruit and tie on some figs, some pomegranates. No, no matter what you do—whether you transplant it, you fertilize it, you prune it, you rename it, you decorate it—it is the root that determines the fruit. That’s what Jesus is saying.

B. The Fruit Reveals the Root

But, wait a minute. Turn that around: it is the root that determines the fruit, but it’s the fruit that reveals the root. Sometimes you can’t tell what kind of a fruit tree that it is—you can look at the root and you can’t tell. Lots of roots look the same. It’s the fruit that tells you what the root is, but it’s the root that produces the fruit.

Now, that’s what Jesus is saying. You don’t have to be a rocket scientist to figure this out. That’s one thing about the Lord Jesus Christ. He was such an incredible teacher. You see, listen, how do you judge a preacher? Not merely by what he preaches, but by what he produces. Jesus said, “[You will] know them”— how?—“by their [fruit].” (Matthew 7:16)

Now, you may not be able to tell at first because you’ve got to wait ’til the fruit comes out. He may be a good-looking tree. But, Jesus said in John 15, verse 16: “Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that at your fruit should remain.” (John 15:16) What’s the mark of a man of God? There are plenty of people out there who know Jesus because of him. They will be loving Jesus. There will be fruit, and that fruit will remain. (John 15:16) And, our Lord says we are not to be unfruitful. (2 Peter 1:8) Galatians chapter 5, verse 22: “But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith.” (Galatians 5:22) That’s the fruit of the Spirit. I can’t produce that fruit, and you can’t produce that fruit. If we’ll abide in Him, we’ll bear that fruit—the fruit of the Spirit. It’s not your fruit. It’s not mine.

C. The Seed Determines the Root and the Fruit
You see, how can you know them? Well, there is the fleece they wear, but there is the fruit they bear. Now, I said that the root determines the fruit, but the fruit reveals the root. Now, wait a minute. Stay with me. It’s the seed that determines the root and the fruit. Isn’t that right? It’s the seed that determines the root and the fruit. I mean, you’re not going to have the right kind of root or fruit if you don’t have the right kind of seed. And, the seed, Jesus says, is the Word of God. You read Matthew chapter 13 about “a sower [who] went forth to sow.” (Matthew 13:3) The seed is the Word of God. It’s the seed—the seed, the seed—that determines both the root and the fruit. What a teacher Jesus is!

III. The Fate They Share
Now, here’s the third thing—and I just have a few moments. But, look in verse 21. I want you to see the fate that they share. “Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Many will say to me in that day”—He’s now talking about the Judgment Day—“Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you”—now, here’s the fate they share—“depart from me, ye that work iniquity.” (Matthew 7:21–23)

Now, my friend, pay attention now; listen carefully: spiritual activity without scriptural authority is satanic iniquity—spiritual activity without scriptural authority is satanic iniquity. Jesus is going to say to these, “Depart from me.” In spite of their false profession they say, “Lord, Lord.” He’s going to say, “Depart from me.” In spite of their false preaching: “We prophesied in your name.” He’s going to say, “Depart from me.” In spite of their false power: “In thy name we cast out devils.” He’s going to say, “Depart from me.” In spite of their false performance: “In thy name done many wonderful works.” And, in spite of their profession, in spite of their preaching, in spite of their power, in spite of their performance, they never knew the Lord Jesus Christ, and He never knew them.

This is not a picture of someone who lost salvation—they never had it. They may have sung in the choir, but they weren’t saved. They may have taken the offering, but they were not saved. They may have preached, but they were not saved. They may have had healing campaigns in which they cast out devils, but they were not saved. And, what they did they did through the power of the great deceiver, Satan himself.

Conclusion

You say, “Well, pastor, how can I know whether I’m saved or not?” Well, friend, you get God’s Word and you stand on it. And, if what I preach to you and tell you does not square with the Word of God, then I am a false prophet. You get the Word of God, and don’t put your faith in anybody else, and let the Holy Spirit of God speak to you. Let me tell you what to do. I’m finished—I’m finished. But listen; let me give you about five things—I’m just going to name them:

A. Study the Faith

Number one: You need to study the faith. If you don’t study the faith, many can be drawn away into a false cult. Study the faith.

B. Show the Faith

Number two: Show the faith. Do you know the best argument for Christianity and against Christianity is the life of a Christian?

C. Stand for the Faith

Number three: Stand for the faith. Get a bulldog grip on the Word of God.

D. Support the Faith

Next: Support the faith. Do you know what the tragedy of today is? That many good people are in bad churches. Get in a Bible-preaching church. I’m not saying this is the only one, and I’m not saying we don’t have a lot of room for improvement. But, you need to support the faith. People say, “Well, you know, I know that our church is an apostate church, but Grandma’s buried in the backyard.” Well, friend, Grandma would get up and leave if she could, I’ll guarantee you—because Grandma believed the old-time religion. Support the faith.
E. Share the Faith

I’ll say one last thing: Share the faith. Share it. People are waiting to know. We know the truth not because of us but by the grace of God. Share the faith. We hear people say, “Well, keep the faith.” Don’t keep it; give it away. If you don’t want to give it away, maybe you ought to give it up.

Maybe you don’t have the real thing. If there were ever a message needed today, it’s this message, where Jesus Christ, the Son of God, says, “Beware of the wolves.” (Matthew 7:15) It is Jesus who is giving that warning. And, if you are a mom or a dad here today and you’ve not yet given your heart to Jesus Christ, you’d better come and give your heart to Jesus Christ. You’d better come and give your heart to Jesus Christ and get your family in the Word of God or your children are going to be food and fodder for ravenous wolves, whose jaws will drip red with the blood of your children. I’m not talking about physical blood. I’m talking about the enemy who deceives to destroy, to devour. That’s the nature of the enemy. And, God has given children moms and dads to guide them. But, even if you don’t have children, you need Jesus. You need to be saved. You need to receive Christ as your personal Savior and Lord.”
How to Weather the Storms of Life

Introduction

Would you take God’s Word and be finding the Gospel according to Matthew, chapter 7? And, we’re coming almost to the end of this great, great passage that we call the “Sermon on the Mount.” Now, before I read this scripture that we’ll begin in verse 24 in just a moment, let me tell you this: that we have a very, very, very serious problem in today’s world, in what we call “the Christian world.” And, the problem is dropout disciples, collapsing Christians, famishing church members—people who, when they ought to be standing up, are folding up. They get baptized, they come to church for a while, and then trouble, persecution, heartache, temptation comes, and they fall away. I call them “Alka-Seltzer Christians”: you drop them in water, they fizzle a little while, and then they are gone. Do you know folks like this? I think there are many like this. They are superficial saints. And, the reason they fall away, the reason they cannot stand, is they have no real foundation in their lives. And, when the storms come, they are blown away. That’s what Jesus Christ is talking about right here.

Many of us know people that will come to mind when I read this scripture, and many of you may be here today and you have no real foundation. You think everything is fine, but when the storm comes, you’ll be gone, too, because you don’t have a foundation. I want you to listen to this. Jesus says in verse 24: “Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock”—a rock; he built his house upon a rock—“And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew”—but what happened? Look at it again—“and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock”—now, look in verse 26—“And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.” (Matthew 7:24–27) That means, “And tragic was the fall of it.”

Now, that’s the passage that we have before us today, and what a pertinent passage it is! Jesus here is talking about building on a firm foundation. And friend, if the bottom has fallen out of your life, you had better go back and examine the foundation. There was something wrong with the foundation. Now, if you would learn how to weather the storm—and, by the way, the storm is coming—there are three categories here today: those who are just getting out of the storm, those in the midst of the storm, and those who are getting ready to get in a storm. All right, the storm is coming. Now, if you would weather the storm, there are three things I want to lay on your heart out of this passage of Scripture.

I. You Need to Erect a Sturdy Building

The very first is this: that you need to erect a sturdy building. Our Lord says that we’re all building a house; our lives are like a house: “whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock.” (Matthew 7:24)

Now, you are all building some kind of a spiritual house. Everybody is. I cannot live in the house that you build. You cannot live in the house I build. I am stuck with the house that I build, and I will stand or fall in the house that I build. Now, our Lord here is talking about two kinds of builders. In verse 24, he talks about a wise builder who builds his house upon a rock. And, in verse 26, he talks about a foolish builder who built his house upon the sand.

Now, wait a minute. In many ways, these two builders are very much alike. The Lord, in this passage, is not talking about the out-and-out pagan; He’s talking about two categories of persons who have heard His Word, two so-called followers of the Lord Jesus Christ. Now, notice the similarities. They both have the same basic purpose: they’re both house builders. As a matter of fact, they are both building their houses in the same basic place because the same storm that hit one hit the other. And, they probably all used the same basic plan. Remember, when you build a house, there is the floor, the walls, the roof. You can have different designs, but there is the same basic plan. And, when I look out at this congregation this morning, you are all very similar. You’re all in church, all hearing the Word of God, all saying, “We want to succeed in life.” We have the same basic purpose. We’re in the same basic place. We have the same basic plan. But, there was a vital difference in these two, but the difference was below the surface. And, there is a difference in this congregation today. The difference is not what we see when we look around. The difference is in the foundation.

There was the rock builder, first of all—the rock builder. He built his house upon the rock. Luke says, in Luke chapter 6 and verse 48—when Luke reported this, he adds something in his report of what Jesus said that Matthew does not tell us: that the builder dug deep and laid the foundation upon the rock. (Luke 6:48) You know that a house with a good foundation can stand the storm. But then, he said there was another man; this was the sand builder. Now, you can build a house more quickly if you don’t bother with a foundation and just go out to a sandy lot and begin to build—pour the slab, or lay the joists on the ground, put down a base, build the walls, put the roof on. Hey, that’s easier; that’s quicker; that’s less costly—and your house will look just as good as your neighbor’s. As a matter of fact, if you’re crafty, you can take some of your money that you would have put in the foundation and maybe put a little more gingerbread in your house. Now, these are the two kinds of builders—very, very similar, and yet vitally different.

Now, what makes a firm foundation? What is building on the rock? Jesus makes it very clear. Look in verse 24: “Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock.” (Matthew 7:24) There are two things necessary to have a firm foundation. What two things make the rock?

A. Hearing the Word of God

Well, first of all, hearing the Word of God. Jesus said, “Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine…” (Matthew 7:24) Now, that’s what we’re doing today; we’re listening to the Word of God—because the Bible says in Romans chapter 10, verse 17 that “faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.” (Romans 10:17) So, that’s part of having a rock foundation for your life: you must hear the Word of God. “Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine…” (Matthew 7:24)

B. Heeding the Word of God

But, that’s only half of it. Now, look very carefully in verse 24. It is both hearing and heeding the Word of God: “whosoever heareth these [words] of mine”—and what’s that next word?—“and doeth them”—“and doeth them.” (Matthew 7:24) And, that’s where we begin to separate the rock builders from the sand builders.
Now, one of those who must have been there to hear Jesus give this sermon was a man named James, and I don’t think that James ever forgot it. I want you to see what James had to say. Just put your bookmark there in Matthew 7 and turn with me to James chapter 1. Just fast-forward on through Philemon and Hebrews, and just keep on going and you come to James—right after Hebrews. Now remember, James heard Jesus say that it is the man who hears the Word of God and does the Word of God whose life is built on a firm foundation. (Matthew 7:24) And, notice what James says in James chapter 1 and verse 22: “Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.” (James 1:22) I believe that James was thinking about what Jesus said in Matthew chapter 7 right here—“Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only” (James 1:22)—because any man is self-deceived who comes to church and hears the Word of God, does not do the Word of God, and has the idea that he has done what he’s supposed to do.

You know, it’s like a person who would come this morning and they would say, “You know, I enjoy the message; oh, the music—the music was wonderful,” but then there is no change whatsoever in their lifestyle, in the way they live. James said, “That man is deceived, and he has deceived himself. He is self-deluded”—“Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.” (James 1:22) Jesus said, “Whosoever hears this word, and does it…” (Matthew 7:24)

Now, let’s just stay with James for a moment. I want you to go to James chapter 2, and I’m going to read an extended passage of Scripture. And, it is one of the most controversial passages of Scripture in all of the Bible, but I am totally convinced that what I am about to read this morning is the message that most churches in America need. I want you to listen to it. And, many Baptist churches need this. Here’s James. James is very straightforward. He says, “If you are a hearer of the word, and you’re not a doer, you’re deceived.” (James 1:22) And then, he asks a question in chapter 2, verse 14: “What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?”—now, the Greek manuscript would give it this way: “Can that faith save him?” That is, faith without works—“If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food, And one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body”—what good does it do?—“what doth it profit? Even so”—listen—“faith, if it hath not works, is dead”—dead—“being alone. Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works. Thou believest there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble”—that’s more than some folks do—“But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead? Was not Abraham our father justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar? Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, by works was faith made perfect? And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God. Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only. Likewise also was not Rahab the harlot justified by works, when she had received the messengers, and had sent them out another way? For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.” (James 2:14–26) I wanted to read the whole passage. I didn’t want to leave anything out.

Now, what is all of this talking about? I want to make this abundantly clear, and I want every human being, every mother’s child in this congregation, or those who may be listening by television or radio or tape… I want to make this absolutely, totally clear: you are saved by grace through faith alone, and not of works of any kind. Now, I want that to be very, very clear. It is “not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us.” (Titus 3:5) The Bible says in Ephesians 2, verses 8 and 9: “For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast.” (Ephesians 2:8–9) And, Paul said in Romans 11:6—and I love this—he says, “And if by grace, then it is no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. But if be of works, then it is no more grace: otherwise work is no more work.” (Romans 11:6) Sounds like some sort of a little conundrum, a little riddle. Well, what’s he saying? He said, “You can’t mix grace and works. You just have to make up you mind: either you’re saved by the grace of God or you’re saved by self-effort.”

But yet, here comes James, and James says that “faith without works is dead.” (James 2:26) Now, are James and Paul having an argument? No, they are in agreement. “All scripture is given by inspiration of God.” (2 Timothy 3:16) What James and Paul are talking about are heads and tails of the same coin, and they are exactly what Jesus is talking about when He says, “Whosoever [hears] these sayings of mine, and [does] them, [is like] a wise man [that] built his house upon a rock.” (Matthew 7:24)

Now, we need to understand this: while we are saved by faith alone, the faith that saves is never alone. Did that get through? While we are saved by faith alone, the faith that saves is never alone. Now, the difference between James and Paul is Paul is talking about how to be justified in the sight of God, but James is talking about how to be justified in the sight of men. Look in verse 18: “Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works.” (James 2:18) “You can’t see my heart. You can’t see any faith in me. God can see it, but you can’t see it. The only way you can know my faith is what you see in me.” Paul is talking about being justified before God. James is talking about being justified before men. Paul is talking about the root of our salvation. James is talking about the fruit of our salvation. Paul is talking about the foundation. James is talking about the building. Paul is talking about the provision of our salvation. James is talking about the proof. Paul is talking about the means. James is talking about the marks. Paul is talking about a know-so salvation. James is talking about a show-so salvation. They are all the same. What James is saying is that if you’re truly saved, it is more than just mental assent; it is more than just head belief.

Now, he says in verse 14 that without true faith, what you say is just a profitless profession. Look, if you will, in verse 14: “What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can [that] faith save him?” (James 2:14) Friend, it will take more than a pious platitude to get your soul to heaven. I ask sometimes at the end of this service, “How many of you are certain that if you died, you’d go to heaven?” And, you lift your hand; you say you have faith. But do you have faith? Has there been a radical, dramatic change in your life? You may have profession without possession. James said it’s like saying to a man who is hungry and cold, “Well, go your way. Be warm; be full.” James says, “What good does that do if you don’t give him some food, if you don’t put some clothes on him? And, what good does it do just saying, ‘I know the Lord,’ when you don’t know Him? It is a profitless profession.” He says, “It is a barren belief.” (James 2:14–16)

Look in verse 18: “Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works”—and then, here’s the illustration—“Thou believest that there is one God; thou dost well”—if I were to ask in this congregation, “How many people believe that there is one God?” you say, “Oh yes.” I say, “Well, that’s good. You passed the test.” “But,” he said, “I want to tell you something else”—“the devils”—the demons—“also believe, and tremble.” (James 2:18–19) Did you know that the devils—the demons in hell—are very orthodox? They are not unorthodox. They believe more than some theological professors believe. You read where the demons cower before the Lord. They tremble. This word tremble actually means “to make the hair stand up on the back of their neck.” They tremble at the very thought of one God. Jesus has authority over all of the demons.

Suppose the devil were to walk down this aisle this morning to join this church, and somebody sits down and says, “Well now, Mr. Devil, we want to know: Are you orthodox or not? Do you believe in one God?” “Oh, yes.” “Do you believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God?” “Oh, yes.” “Do you believe He was born of a virgin?” “Oh, yes.” “Do you believe He died on the cross?” “Certainly do.” “Do you believe that He walked out of the grave?” “Yes, sir. I believe that.” “You check out pretty good there, devil. Well now, another thing, devil. I want to ask you a question. You’re going to come to the Bellevue Baptist Church. You’re not just going to be a Sunday-morning pew warmer, are you?” “Oh, no, no, no, no. I’ll be glad to do anything you ask me to do. I’ll be an usher. I’ll sing in the choir if you want me to. I’ll be glad to preach. I’d be glad to get in that organization and work.” “But, one more thing, devil, we want to ask you: Are you willing to bow your knee to the Lordship of Jesus Christ?” “No, I'll not do that.” And, he will not do that.

And, there are many people who think just because they have a mental assent to the facts of the gospel and just because they are working in the church some way that they are going to heaven, and they have no more faith than the devil himself because they have never ever surrendered to the Lordship of Jesus Christ. Jesus said, “Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven”—that's verse 21—“but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.” (Matthew 7:21) He’s not talking here about a works salvation, but He’s saying, friend, that we must surrender our lives totally to the Lord Jesus Christ or else our belief is a barren belief.

Now, James makes it very clear. He gives two examples and one illustration. Look in verse 21: “Was not Abraham our father justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar?” (James 2:21) Now, wait a minute. If you know your Bible history, when was Abraham counted righteous? Well, he offered Isaac upon the altar in Genesis chapter 22. But, in Genesis chapter 15, the Bible says that Abraham believed God, and it was “counted…to him for righteousness.” (Genesis 15:6) What’s the difference? What happened in Genesis 15, when Abraham believed God, was seen over here thirty years later in Genesis 22 when he offered up Isaac. That’s what Paul is talking about over here: Abraham truly believed God, and it showed up over here. Don’t tell me, friend, that you are saved and you love God if you’re not living by the Word of God. Jesus Christ said, “Why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?” (Luke 6:46)

And then, he gives another illustration: “Was not Rahab the harlot justified by works, when she [hid the spies]?” (James 2:25) Remember James is talking about being seen before men. You couldn’t see Rahab’s heart. But, let me tell you what happened to Rahab: Rahab was a harlot in the Old Testament who got saved, and her life was so changed that she married a prince of Israel, became the great-great-grandmother of King David, and is in the house and lineage of the Lord Jesus Christ Himself. Her life was changed.

Now, some who are members of churches are still living like a harlot, and you’re going to die and split hell wide open. Listen, if your religion has not changed your life, you’d better change your religion. Just simply saying, “I believe,” just hearing the Word of God—that does not save. It is faith.

And then, he gives the classic illustration. He gives two examples. And then, here’s the illustration. Look at it in verse 26: “For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.” (James 2:26) Now, let’s get a cadaver up here, a body up here, and look at it. Maybe we'll do an autopsy on it. There it is. Well, say, what a wonderful piece of machinery that is! What a wonderful specimen of anatomy that is!
And, we can get our pad and say, “There are the lungs. There’s the liver. There’s the heart. There’s the esophagus. Here’s the stomach. Here are the intestines. Here’s the spleen.” All of those are facts. But, the body is dead. What good are theological facts without life? “As the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead.” (James 2:26) Now, it’s not works that make a body alive. It is life that enables you to do those works. Do you see the difference? You can’t make a body alive by manipulating the body. That doesn’t give life. It is life that gives the works. There’s no contradiction. What we are saying is this: that if you would be a rock builder, you must hear the Word of God and heed the Word of God. “Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only.” (James 1:22)

There are millions of people who are trudging to churches on Sunday, listening to sermons, and they are going to die and go to hell because there has never been a change in their life. And, some are in this congregation this morning, and it will blow right past you. Jesus said, “Whosoever heareth these words of mine, and does them, he’s like a man that build his house upon a rock.” (Matthew 7:24) So, the very first thing I want you to see—listen to me—if you would weather the storm, you must erect a sturdy building.

II. You Can Expect a Stormy Blast

Now, let’s move to the second point very quickly: not only must you erect a sturdy building—that’s one that has a firm foundation—but after you erect a sturdy building, you can expect a stormy blast. A sturdy building, a stormy blast—it is coming.

Go back now to our passage of Scripture that we are looking at in Matthew chapter 7 and see what our Lord says. And, we need to understand this. Children of God, you need to understand this. Listen very carefully. Jesus says that the storm fell upon both houses—verse 25: “And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house.” (Matthew 7:25) Which house? The house built upon a rock. Verse 27: “And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house.” (Matthew 7:27) What house? The house on the sand.

Now, when you get saved, does that mean there are going to be no storms in your life? There will be storms. The rain comes down; that’s pressure from above. The floods come up; that’s pressure from beneath. The wind blows; that’s pressure all around. “Man that is born of woman is…full of trouble.” (Job 14:1) Storms come to every life, saved or lost; built on the rock, or built on the sand. I can tell you from the authority of the Word of God, you are going into storms. And, do you know what the storm is going to do? The storm is going to show whether or not you have a foundation. That’s all it’s going to do. The storm is going to test your faith. And, the faith that cannot be tested is a faith that cannot be trusted.
Don’t get the idea that when you get saved, there’s going to be no more trouble, no more difficulty. The storms are going to come. And, if you get your theology from circumstances rather than from the Word of God, you’re going to get the idea that God doesn’t love you. Let me tell you, friend, storms are going to come. There’s going to be sickness. There’s going to be suffering. There’s going to be persecution. There’s going to be heartache. There’s going to be difficulty. But, these things cannot separate a man whose life is built on the rock. Romans 8, verses 35 and following: “Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? As it is written, For thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter. Nay, in all these things”—not in the absence of these things, but in all of these things; in the eye of the storm—“we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.” (Romans 8:35–37) And, difficulty in your life does not mean that God has abandoned you. It does not mean that. He has said, “I will never leave [you], nor forsake [you]” (Hebrews 13:5)—Hebrews 13, verse 5.

III. You Can Experience a Steadfast Blessing
What am I saying? You must erect, my dear friend, a very stable, a very secure, a very strong building. You must do that. And then, you must expect a stormy blast. And then, you can experience a steadfast blessing. Notice again what Jesus says. Jesus says here in verse 24: “Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house”—Luke says it “beat vehemently upon [the] house” (Luke 6:48)—“and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.” (Matthew 7:24–25) Why do some people fold up? Why do some people cave in? Why are some just blown away? I’ll tell you why: they have built upon the shifting sand of good intention, they have built upon the silt and the muck of religious activity, but they have never built upon the Lord Jesus Christ. “For”—the Bible says—“other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is [the Lord] Jesus Christ.” (1 Corinthians 3:11)

You say, “Pastor, I know one of the finest families in our church. They used to serve God, but difficulty came; and we don’t see them any more. But, they were such a fine family, pastor.” Yes, a beautiful house—well furnished, well painted, well designed. And, that was a wonderful family living in that spiritual house, but it had no foundation. John says in 1 John 2, verse 19: “They went out from us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us: but they went out, that they might be made manifest that they were not all of us.” (1 John 2:19)

I’m not talking to you about sinless perfection. I’m not saying that if you get saved and give your heart to Jesus and the storms come, you won’t have some doubts. You
Standing in the crowd when Jesus gave this Sermon on the Mount about two kinds of builders—you know who was there, most likely? A man named Simon Peter and a man named Judas. They were both there. They heard Jesus say, “Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock. The winds, the rains, the floods came, beat upon the house, but it stood.” Then they heard Jesus say, “But a foolish man is like a man that built his house on the sand. The winds, the rains, the floods came, and the house fell. And tragic, great, was the fall of it.” (Matthew 7:24–27) Judas was there. Simon Peter was there. Two kinds of builders—very similar: they both erected a spiritual house. Peter built one, and Judas built one. And, had you looked at the two houses, you know what you would have said? You would have said, “Judas can build a better house than Simon Peter.”

Do you know who was the best man outwardly? Do you know who had the prettiest house? Not Peter. Judas had the best-looking house. He did, didn’t he? Do you know what they did with Judas? They made Judas the treasurer. Now, who do you get for the treasurer? The best. I mean, the most trustworthy. When Jesus said, “One of you is going to betray me,” (Matthew 26:21; Mark 14:18; John 13:21) not a one of them said, “Oh, I know who it is. It’s that rascal Judas.” Not a one of the said that. They said, “I wonder if it’s me.” None of them said, “I know it’s Judas”—not a one! You know why? He had a good-looking house. I mean, a good-looking house! He knew how to build a house—almost.

But, there was a difference. Ol’ Simon Peter, bless his heart, Jesus said, “Peter, who do you say that I am?” Peter said, “[You are] the Christ, the Son of the living God.” (Matthew 16:16) And, Jesus said, “That’s right. And, upon this rock I’ll build my house; I’ll build my Church. The very gates of hell will not prevail against it.” (Matthew 16:18) Peter knew that. Peter was weak, just like I am and like you are. He wasn’t much of a house builder, but boy did he have a good foundation! He laid his faith on a firm foundation.

Now, I want to tell you that a storm came, and it blew through the life of Judas; and a storm came, and it blew through the life of Simon Peter. And, when the storm was over, Judas’s house was gone—it was gone. And, Judas died and went to hell. You say, “Did Judas lose his salvation?” He never had it. The Bible says that Jesus, speaking of Judas, said, “Have I not chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?” (John 6:70) The Bible says that “Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not.” (John 6:64) Judas never ever had real faith. Simon Peter did. Jesus said to Simon Peter, “Simon, Satan has desired you, that he can sift you as wheat: but I have prayed for you, that your faith will not fail.” (Luke 22:31–32) He had faith, and the Savior interceded for him. You know, when the storm hit ol' Simon, a few windows were broken out. Did you know that? And, some shingles blew off the roof, and some things happened to that house. I want to tell you something: after the storm, he was still standing. And, he became the flaming apostle of Pentecost, and do you know why? I'll tell you why: he had the real thing—he had the real thing. He knew God. He had heard the Word of God. He believed the Son of God. He bowed his knee to Jesus Christ. Weak, yes; failing, yes—but the house stood that was built on a rock.

Conclusion
I wonder if you can say,

My hope is built on nothing less Than Jesus’ blood and righteousness.

On Christ the solid rock I stand,
All other ground is sinking sand.

You listen to this: there are thousands of people in churches today who, when the storms hit, they will be gone—some of them in this building today. When the storm comes, rather than standing up, you will fold up. And, I'll tell you why: you don't have a foundation. And, the storm is going to come for all of us—not some; all of us. You'd better make certain that you have a sure foundation. And, when the bottom falls out, just examine the foundation. “Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.” (1 Corinthians 3:11)

Introduction
Now, you find Matthew chapter 7, and in a few moments we’re going to begin reading in verse 24. As you are looking for Matthew chapter 7, may I ask you a question? Do you know somebody, somebodies, perhaps an entire family, that were faithful to the church, seemingly serving the Lord, presumably happy in Jesus, and then some calamity came, and they dropped out, they stopped coming, they seemed to collapse, to fold up, to throw in the towel? The bottom has fallen out of life, and they don’t know what to do. Maybe they went to the doctor, and the doctor diagnosed cancer and didn’t really know what to prescribe.

Now perhaps a child was hit by an automobile, a precious little child, sudden death, no explanation, just an act of carelessness, perhaps the child’s fault, perhaps some reckless driver. Perhaps you’ve been in a company for a long time, serving that company, doing a good job; then your job is taken. Maybe somebody has undercut you, or maybe the company is just downsizing, and you’re caught in the downsizing; and here you are: many bills, and no way to pay them. Maybe you thought you had a wonderful family and a godly husband. Maybe your husband was a pastor, a deacon, an evangelist; maybe one of the leading lights in the church; and he announces to you that he’s leaving for another woman. These things have happened to people. Things like this, and other things, have happened to people in this congregation. What do you do? What do you do when the bottom falls out?

Well, I’ll tell you what you do. You examine the foundation. You examine the foundation when the bottom falls out. Look, if you will, in verse 24. This is a part of the Sermon on the Mount. And our Lord says, “Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock. And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.” (Matthew 7:24–27)

Now, folks, I might as well tell you that life is in nature tragic. All of us, sooner or later, are going to get sick. All of us, sooner or later, if Jesus does not come, are going to die. Sooner or later, one by one, our loved ones will be taken from us. Now I’m not morbid about that, and I’m not even negative about that, but we may as well face it: life, in its very essence, is tragic apart from God. I hope you understand that. I hope you realize that.

Now what our Lord is doing here is talking about our lives as if they were houses. Now we all need houses to live in. What is a house for? Well, a house is for shelter. A house is for security. A house is for sufficiency, satisfaction, and supply. It’s our place where we retreat. A house is for serenity. And we all need some sort of a house; we want some sort of a place to live in—and so we provide for ourselves some kind of a house. Well, your soul also needs a house. There needs to be a sanctuary for the soul. There needs to be a place of security and sufficiency that your spirit can dwell in. That’s what our Lord is talking about now. He’s using the analogy of an earthly house to speak of a spiritual house—that is, a sanctuary for the soul that we live in. Now all of us are building that kind of a house. You are. I am. I can’t live in a house you’ve built. And you can’t live in the house that I’ve built.

Now in this passage of Scripture Jesus told of two kinds of builders. First of all, He told of builders that outwardly looked very similar, just like the people in this congregation this morning. You all look so nice. You all look so happy. You all look so holy. But I know that you’re not all the same. You see, there are outward similarities. For example, if you look at this, both of these builders in the story that Jesus gave, they both have the same purpose: they are building a house, and actually they built in the same place, because Jesus is going to tell about a storm that struck; and evidently both houses were in the same place, for the storm struck both houses; and actually they had basically the same plan—no doubt about that.

Every house has a floor, walls, and roof. There may be some differences, but there is so much similarity, just like our congregation this morning, and just like those of you who are listening to me through television or radio or later on a tape. There is much similarity, and as we look at people outwardly, there are very definite superficial similarities. But there’s also a distinctive difference in everybody here today and everybody listening on television—and the difference is that which cannot be seen, because the difference is underground; it deals with the foundation.

One of these homes Jesus talked about had a rock foundation. The other home Jesus talked about was built on shifting sand. And so it is in our congregation today. We have those today who are built upon a solid foundation, and we have those who have endeavored to build upon the sand. The sand builder has no foundation. Now I want to remind you again that if you had walked up to these two houses, you would not have been able to tell the difference. Outwardly, they looked the same. Do you know what displayed the difference? The storm. When the storm came, then the difference in these two houses that were so similar was revealed. The house that is built on the sand, according to the story Jesus gave, fell. It had no foundation. When the wind, the rains, the flood came, the house that was built upon the rock stood. The difference was underground.

Now I said, what do you do when the bottom falls out? You go back and you examine the foundation. And if you realize that the bottom fell out because you had no foundation, then you begin to build again, but this time on solid rock. Now, listen to me very carefully. We’re going to talk about that foundation. We’re going to talk about rock-solid faith this morning, and how to have it; what it is, and what it is like. These are teachings of Jesus. I just hope my message doesn’t ever get in the way of what Jesus has said and that you will hear Jesus today.

There are three things I want you to think about today as we look in this passage of Scripture—because, folks, I’m telling you, the storm is coming to your life, my life: it is only a matter of time.

I. The Surety of Rock-Solid Faith
First of all, let’s talk about the surety—write down the word surety—the surety of rock-solid faith. How can we be sure that we have rock-solid faith? Well, there are three things that are necessary for you to have rock-solid faith. Number one: You must have the Word of God. Number two: You must hear the Word of God. Number three: You must heed the Word of God. Now Jesus said that the foundation is the Word of God. He said, “Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them is like a man that builds his house upon a rock." So it is the sayings of Jesus, the Word of God, that give us this foundation.

A. You Must Have the Word of God

Now what we’re talking about is the surety of the Word of God. Now, number one, let’s make sure you have the Word of God. Back up to verse 15 in this same chapter—Matthew 7, verse 15. Look at it. Do you have it? Look at it: “Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep’s clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.” (Matthew 7:15) Now what he’s saying is that you may be building on the shifting sand of philosophy; you may be building on the mud of false religion; you may be building on some quagmire rather than on the Word of God, because there are many false prophets that are out there in the world.

Now you can walk up to a house, and it may have a sign posted that says, “Beware of the dog." Well, if you’re smart, you will beware of the dog. And if Jesus says, “Beware of the wolves; beware of false prophets, which are like wolves in sheep’s clothing,” then you ought to listen. Every mother’s child in this building needs to hear the word of the Lord Jesus Christ. Learn this. Our Lord is talking about false prophets, people who are in religion.

The devil is not opposed to religion. It is one of his chief tools. Two ways that Satan tries to war against the church: one is persecution; the other is infiltration. Infiltration is more dangerous than persecution, and here our Lord is talking about infiltration. He’s talking about those who pretend to be prophets of God; they wear sheep’s clothing, but it is a disguise; they really are the enemy within the gates. The Apostle Paul was talking to the elders of the Ephesian church. Now Paul was about to leave them, and he was afraid that they might allow some false prophets to come into the church.

And, friend, this does happen. I know of a very fine church not very far from here that had one of the finest, most godly, Bible-preaching pastors in America as the pastor. When that pastor retired, that church called a man that was not rock-solid in faith. And those of us who knew the church, and knew the man that they had called, said, “How on earth could a pulpit committee and a church make such a tragic error?”

Paul was concerned. And notice what he said in Acts chapter 20—put this in your margin—verses 28 and 29. He was talking to the church at Ephesus now and he said, “Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock,”—that is, the sheep—“over which the Holy Ghost has made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood.” And that’s my job: to feed the church with the Word of God. And then Paul said, “For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.” (Acts 20:28–29) Paul said, “Listen. Take heed. Be careful that you have the Word of God.” Now when you look for the devil, never fail to look in the pulpit. Satan is occupying many pulpits in America today.

A little boy told me one time after I preached, “Pastor, when you were up there preaching this morning, I could see the devil just as plain.” Well, I hope he meant that he could see the devil that I was describing, not portraying.

But here’s what the Apostle Paul said in 2 Corinthians chapter 11, beginning in verse 13: “For such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ. And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness.” (2 Corinthians 11:13–15) And though a man may have a clerical robe on, he may stand behind the sacred desk, but he has not been divinely anointed and divinely appointed: he has been ordained of the devil. You say, “Pastor Rogers, that is hard.” No, that’s the kindest thing I can say. I’m telling you, make certain, if you’re going to build upon the rock, that you have the Word of God. Look beneath the fleece. Satan is a master of disguise.

Now in the world today there are all kinds of religions. We have Christianity. We have Buddhism. We have Islam. We have all kinds of religions. And then if you take Christianity, people have even subdivided Christianity into Protestant and Catholic—Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian, Church of God, Church of Christ. But, folks, there are only two kinds of religion: the true and the false. That’s all: just the true and the false.

How are we going to know that we have the Word of God if we’re going to be building upon the solid foundation? Well, we’re not left to wonder. Look in verse 16. Jesus said, “Ye shall know them by their fruits.” (Matthew 7:16) It’s very obvious. I mean, we don’t have to guess about whether or not we’re building on the rock. You can know them by their fruits.

Now it is the root that produces the fruit. Now if you’ve got a tree, and you don’t like the kind of fruit that it’s bearing, what might you do with it? Well, you can prune it. But that’s not going to change the fruit; all it does is strengthen the root. You could transplant it. You would be surprised at how many people try to do that. They go from one church to another, without being born again. They follow one pastor—one church calls one apostate pastor after another apostate pastor. It’s like moving a corpse from one mausoleum to another. You can cultivate this tree. But what good is that? You know, today we have a lot of things called church growth conferences; but those church growth conferences are not based on the Word of God, and those who come are taught how to fertilize weeds.

Now, what could you do if you don’t like the fruit? Well, you could get you a bramble and tie figs on it. You could decorate it. No. You see, friend, you cannot change the fruit without changing the root. The root produces the fruit.
Now, listen to me. The fruit reveals the root. Sometimes you look at a fruit tree and you can’t tell what kind it is. You don’t know what kind of fruit tree. If you’re not a horticulturist, you may not be able to tell. But I’ll tell you, there is one way that you can tell: just wait till it bears fruit. When it bears fruit, if it has peaches on it, it’s a peach tree. If it has apples on it, it’s an apple tree. That’s kind of a no-brainer. And so Jesus said, “By their fruits ye shall know them.” While the root produces the fruit, and you cannot change the fruit without changing the root, it is the fruit that reveals the root.

Do you want to know what a man’s ministry is? Remember what Jesus said in John chapter 15: “Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain.” (John 15:16) I preached last Sunday night about the fruit of this church. And it is not the buildings, not the budget; it’s not the baptisms; but rather, are you becoming more like Jesus Christ? That’s the fruit. I mean, is this Word of God making you more like Jesus Christ? The Bible says in Galatians 5, verse 22, “But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith…” (Galatians 5:22) That is the fruit of the Spirit. That’s just a description of the Lord Jesus Christ.

But now, listen. The root produces the fruit. The fruit reveals the root. And the seed determines both the root and the fruit. And the seed is the Word of God. The seed is the Word of God. When I’m preaching the gospel, what I’m doing really is simply sowing—planting seed.

B. You Must Hear the Word of God

So, listen. We’re talking about building on a firm foundation. Number one: Make certain that you have the Word of God. Beware of false prophets. Somebody says, “Well, I’m looking for a church that suits me.” Who are you: God? You had better look for one that suits God. You had better find one that is based rock-solid on the Word of God. You must have the Word of God. Number two: You must hear the Word of God. Look in verse 24 again: “Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine…” (Matthew 7:24) Now it’s one thing for you to belong to a Bible-believing church; it’s one thing for you to have a copy of the Word of God in your home; it’s one thing for you to subscribe to orthodoxy; but have you really heard the Word of God? Have you really listened to the Word of God?

In order to do this, you must dig deep. Now we said the man has built his house upon the rock. Put in your margin Luke 6, verse 48. Jesus is telling this same story, and Luke reports and adds some details. Luke says, “He is like a man which built an house, and”—watch this—“dugged deep,”—boys and girls, that means he dug way down: “and dug deep”—“and laid the foundation on a rock: and when the flood arose, the stream beat vehemently upon that house, and could not shake it: for it was founded upon a
Now, what was our Lord saying? He was saying sometimes you have to dig to get to the rock. Now many of you want to come on Sunday morning and be spoon-fed a little truth; but you’re not digging; your home doesn’t have any foundation in your spiritual house, because, number one, you may not have the Word of God, and number two, you don’t hear the Word of God—because you’re not listening; you’re not digging. You see, why did the man build his house upon the sand? Obvious. It’s easy. It’s cheaper. It’s quicker. If you’re looking for a cheap way, an easy way, a lazy way to serve God, I pity you. The man that built his house upon the rock dug deep. You see, you must have the Word of God. “Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.” (Romans 10:17)

So you must hear also the Word of God. When he says hear, He doesn’t mean simply let the sound waves come in your ears. Have you ever told a child to do something and then said, “Now, do you hear me?” You know they heard you; but you want to know, did they hear you?

C. You Must Heed the Word of God

Now you must have the Word of God. You must hear the Word of God. Now here’s the point, though: You must heed the Word of God. Look again in this passage of Scripture in verse 24: “Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock.” (Matthew 7:24) You have the Word. You hear the Word. You heed the Word of God. You must do the Word of God. I think the Apostle James must have remembered Jesus’ Sermon on the Mount, because James said in James chapter 1, verse 22, “Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.” (James 1:22) According to that, if you do not obey what you have heard, you are self-deceived.

What kind of a person would come to Bellevue Baptist Church on Sunday morning, enjoy the music, rave about the special songs, talk about the fellowship, and enjoy the message, but not obey? James called him self-deceived. Jesus called him a fool. “Not me, Jesus.” Jesus called him a fool. James said, “If you hear the Word of God, and you don’t do the Word of God, you are self-deceived, and your faith is dead faith.” Put down James chapter 2, verses 14 through 20: “What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?” The Greek is, “Can that faith save him? “If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food, and one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?” That is, it’s just empty words. “Even so”—in the same way—“faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone.” Now you’re saved by faith alone; but the faith that saves is never alone.
faith that saves is never alone. It is always accompanied by works. James goes on with this challenge: “Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works. Thou believest there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble. But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?” (James 2:14–20)

Did you know that the devil is more orthodox than some preachers? I mean, the devil at least knows the holiness of Jesus Christ. I was reading over there in Luke chapter 4, verse 34, where the demons cringed at Jesus and they said, “We know who you are, the Holy One of God,” and they trembled. (Luke 4:34) I would to God that some so-called theologians today would tremble at the same thing. And there are people today who have no more faith than the devil. They have an intellectual faith, but they do not live by their faith. And he says in verse 26—James chapter 2, verse 26—that “the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.” (James 2:26) You must have the Word. You must hear the Word. You must heed the Word.

What good is a body of truth without the life of the Spirit? You might do an autopsy on your faith and see if it is the real faith. I was reading something humorous the other day in the Massachusetts Bar Association lawyer’s journal. They gave a list of questions that lawyers literally asked in court and their answers during trials. Here’s the one that I thought was the classic. Question—now this is a lawyer talking to a doctor: “Doctor, before you performed the autopsy, did you check for a pulse?” Answer: “No.” Question: “Did you check for blood pressure?” Answer: “No.” Question: “Did you check for breathing?” Answer: “No.” Then, question: “Then it is possible that the patient was alive when you began the autopsy?” Answer: “No.” Question: “How can you be sure, Doctor?” Answer: “Because his brain was sitting on my desk in a jar.” Question: “But couldn’t the patient have still been alive, nevertheless?” Answer: “It is possible that he could have been alive and practicing law somewhere.”

As the body without the brain is dead, faith without works is dead. What James is saying is that if you have faith, it’s going to show in your works. And so here is the very first thing. The surety of rock-solid faith is this: that you must have; you must hear; you must heed the Word of God. If not, the time is going to come when the bottom is going to fall out.

II. The Stability of Rock-Solid Faith

Now, here is the second thing. I want you to see not only the surety of rock-solid faith, but I want you to see the stability of rock-solid faith. Now you can expect storms, whether you’re saved or lost. Verses 25 and 27: Both of these verses tell us that the storm beat upon both houses. And notice how the Lord, the master teacher, described the storms. Rain fell: that’s pressure from above. And then the Lord said, “The floods came”: that’s pressure from beneath. And then Jesus said, “and the winds blew”: that’s pressure from all around. And we’re going to find this pressure from above, and pressure from beneath, and pressure from all around. And your faith is going to be tested. And the faith that cannot be tested is the faith that cannot be trusted. And your faith is not going to be tested in the sunshine; your faith is going to be tested in the storm. And the test of your faith is not popularity. It is not profession. The test of your faith is your stability in the storm.

Now I’ve talked to you about the surety of rock-solid faith. Now I’m talking to you about the stability of rock-solid faith. If you were to read the eleventh chapter of the book of Hebrews, the eleventh chapter of the book of Hebrews was written to a group of people who were about to throw in the towel. They were about to abandon the faith because of all of the great persecution that was coming upon the church. And so the writer of the book of Hebrews tells about the exciting victories of faith, and about all of those people—Daniel in the lions’ den, and all of these others; Moses at the Red Sea, and all of these things; how Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were taken out of the fiery furnace—and we all love those exciting victories of faith. I love those. But then he goes on at the end of the eleventh chapter of Hebrews to talk about the enduring virtues of faith and he says, “And others were stoned; some were sawn asunder; some endured a strange trial of affliction; and all of these, they did that by faith.” (Hebrews 11)

You see, faith doesn’t mean that you’re not going to have a storm. Remember the story that Jesus told. Please don’t forget it. The storms beat upon both houses. Now, come up close, and I’m going to tell you something. If you get your theology from circumstances, you’re going to come to the conclusion that God doesn’t love you. If you get your theology from circumstances, sooner or later, when the storm comes, you’re going to get the idea that God doesn’t love you. John 11, verse 5—the Bible says, “Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.” (John 11:5) And then John 11, verse 14: “Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead.” (John 11:14) Mary and Martha said, “O God, heal Lazarus.” The Bible says, “He loved them.” But then, later on, He said, “Lazarus is dead.” And if you’ll read it, it says, “Lazarus is dead; and I’m glad.” (Luke 11:14–15)

If you get your theology from circumstances, you’re going to come to the conclusion that God does not love you. Difficulty does not mean that God has abandoned you. If you build a house, and the storms come, that does not mean that God has abandoned you. Habakkuk 3—we may need this soon—Habakkuk 3, verses 17 and 18: “Although the fig tree shall not blossom, neither shall fruit be in the vines; the labour of the olive shall fail, and the fields shall yield no meat; the flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls: yet I will rejoice in the LORD, I will joy in the God of my salvation.” (Habakkuk 3:17–18) Do you know what faith is? Faith is not receiving from God the things you want; it is accepting from God the things he gives. The winds, the rains, the floods beat upon both houses.

III. The Security of Rock-Solid Faith
Now I've talked to you about the surety of rock-solid faith. I've talked about the stability of rock-solid faith. Let's talk about the security of it. Look in verse 25, if you will: "And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock." (Matthew 7:25) Why do people cave in when the rains fall? I'll tell you why they cave in. They have nothing to stand on. The bottom falls out. They're all house, but they're no foundation. They have profession without possession.

Look in verse 22 of this chapter: "Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity." (Matthew 7:22–23) They have no foundation. We see this often. Somebody will say, "Pastor, they don’t come anymore. They were one of our finest families. What happened to them?" First John 2:19: "They went out from us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us: but they went out, that they might be made manifest that they were not all of us." (1 John 2:19) I'm telling you, when the doctor's report came, when the job was gone, when the child died, when calamity came, the bottom fell out, they threw in the towel, and they quit. The winds, the rains, and the storms were too much for them.

Now everybody here looks so similar. Had you examined Simon Peter and Judas, and somebody would say to you, "Which of these two apostles would be most likely to succeed?" I will promise you would have said Judas. You would have said Judas. Judas was the treasurer. Who do we make the treasurer? The person that we trust the most. Who was it that kept on putting his foot in his mouth? Who was it that was blustering, and always so arrogant and self-satisfied, in a way, and self-reliant? Wasn’t it Peter? Sure it was! And if you and I had examined the lives of these two, outwardly their houses looked both the same, and both of these men went through a storm.

The storm came to old Judas. It was fear and greed, selfish aggrandizement—all of these things came to him. There was the storm of his betrayal of Jesus. There was the storm of his remorse and guilt. And he finally fills a suicide's grave. The bottom just fell out. And then there was Simon Peter. The storm came to Simon Peter too, because Jesus said, "Simon, Satan has desired you, that he might sift you as wheat. But, Simon, I've prayed for you; I've prayed that your faith fail not." (Luke 22:31–32)

Notice this: Jesus knew that Peter had faith. Some people have the idea that Judas lost his salvation. Friend, Judas never was saved. Jesus said, "Have I not chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?” (John 6:70) And then the Bible says, “Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not.” (John 6:64) Jesus didn’t say, “Oops! I made a mistake.” It was all a part of the plan of Jesus. But He knew. He knew that Judas had no faith. He realized that Simon Peter was weak and stumbling and bumbling. Failure, foible, fear—he had it all. But he also had faith.

You see, there came a day when Jesus had had these disciples in his seminary, and now comes the finals. He brings them to Caesarea Philippi and He asks them, “I want to ask you a theological question: Who do people say that I am?” “Some say you’re Elijah. Some say you’re John the Baptist. And some say you are one of the prophets.” He says, “Peter, who do you say I am?” Boy, I love him for this. Peter said, “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.” And Jesus said, “Blessed are you, Simon Barjona. Flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto you:”—“you didn’t just figure it out”—“my Father revealed it to you.” And then Jesus said, “Upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:13–19)

And old Peter had a rock to stand on, friend. He had something. I’ll tell you, the storms came to Peter, too. We laugh and make fun of Peter, but I wonder what you would have done if you faced what Peter faced that time when they were about to nail the darling Son of God upon the cross. Friend, it was terrible. And I’m telling you, he went through the very vortex of a cyclone, a storm, and the rain fell on him, and the floods of hell rose against him, and the winds of doubt and despair were all around him. Old Peter’s house was going just like this—rocking, the shingles perhaps coming off the roof, the windowpanes cracking, the shutters flapping—but he was on a rock. He was the same one who became the flaming Apostle of Pentecost. What is the difference between Judas and Peter? I’ll tell you the difference: the foundation. That is the difference.

Conclusion
Friend, I’m telling you from my heart, storms come to everybody. Outwardly, we look all alike. But if you want to see the difference, you’ve got to look beneath the surface to the foundation. And I beg you in the name of Jesus to make certain that you have rock-solid faith—number one: that you have the Word of God—beware of false prophets; number two: that you hear the Word of God—don’t let it just blow past you; number three: that you heed the Word of God—“He that hath my sayings, and doeth them,” Jesus said, “he it is that loveth me.” “If a man be a hearer of the Word, and not a doer—a hearer only—he deceives his own heart.” (James 1:22)

Introduction

Would you take God’s Word and find, if you would, please, Matthew chapter 11, and when you’ve found it, I want you to look up here for just a moment and let me ask you a question: Have you ever been offended at God?

• Now we get offended easily at one another. Sometimes we think we have a right to be offended at one another. A lady came to a church and she said to her little boy when she went out, “Did you see the ugly look that usher gave to me?” And the little boy said, “Mama, he didn’t give it to you; you had it when you came in here.” •

We can take up offenses and we can get offended at little things. But have you ever really been offended at God? Have you been resentful, angry, perhaps pouting, at the way God is running the universe? Would it seem to you that perhaps God has been uncaring or unkind, or that God has been unfair with you in His dealings with you? Well, I’ve been in the ministry long enough to know that there are people who literally have an offense with God. Now it’s easy to get offended with God if you’re in the flesh. And I want to mention four ways today that many of us may sometimes get offended at God. Now we wouldn’t say it out loud; we’d just kind of harbor it in our heart.
Some Get Offended Because They Are Persecuted for Doing Right

Sometimes people get offended with God when they are persecuted, and God doesn’t seem to come to their side, God doesn’t seem to help them. And they’ve been taking a stand for God; they have been doing what is right—not what is wrong, but what is right—and they suffer for it, and they say, “Well, where’s God?” Now that happened to John the Baptist. And I want you to see it here in chapter 11, verse 1: “And it came to pass, when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities. Now when John...”—and the John we’re speaking about here is John the Baptist. And what a man was John the Baptist! Jesus said, “Greater has not been born of woman than John the Baptist”—“Now when John had heard in prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another? Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do here and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them.” And now, watch verse 6: “And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me. And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they that wear soft clothing are in king’s houses. But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet, for this is he of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee. Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist: notwithstanding he that is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.” (Matthew 11:1–12)

What does all of that mean? What is the background of this? Why did Jesus say, “Blessed is the man who is not offended in me”? Well, let me tell you what happened. John the Baptist had been preaching the Word of God. And what a preacher was John the Baptist! You remember John the Baptist was the one who ate locusts and wild honey, wore a camel coat, a leather coat made out of camel’s hair, and he was down there by the river Jordan, and he was saying, “You bunch of vipers! You rattlesnakes! Who told you to flee from the wrath to come? Repent! Get right with God! The Lord’s coming! He’s going to judge this world.” I tell you, the people were crowding out there to John the Baptist, and he was baptizing them—a wonderful thing! He preached of Jesus coming, and power and glory, and the kingdom of God, and all of this.

Now John the Baptist, that man who ate honey but he didn’t preach it, that man who had a rock for a pulpit and a babbling river for a choir, that man now has been taken by Herod—that man now has been persecuted; he’s put in prison. And, folks, I want to tell you, I’ve seen the area where John the Baptist was put in prison. It is on the east side of the Dead Sea. It is a place barren, indescribably hot, deserted; it’s like a fiery furnace. And there’s old John the Baptist. I mean, he’s God’s man, he’s God’s preacher—Jesus said the greatest that ever walked the face of this earth, not a greater than John the Baptist. And there he is down in a dungeon. Now, remember, he’s the prophet of the out-of-doors, and now he’s down in the dark, dingy furnace of a dungeon on the east side of the Dead Sea, the lowest part of earth. And he felt out of place. He said, “Lord, what am I doing here? Why should I be here?”

Now, folks, you’re going to ask the same question sometime. You’re going to find yourself in a place and you say, “Now, God, I was serving you. I was living for you. I was living the truth, telling the truth. And now I am in prison.” Now there’s more than one kind of a dungeon. You may be in a financial reverse; you may be in some kind of physical malady; but somehow, some way, you just feel like you deserve better than you’re getting. Now we might as well learn there’s no fine print in the contract when we come to the Lord Jesus Christ, and you might as well learn it clearly and plainly, because I’m going to give an invitation for you to come today and give your heart to Jesus Christ if you’ve never done it. But I want to tell you, friend, God has not promised to keep you out of the dungeon. God has not promised to keep you out of the fiery furnace. God has not promised to keep you out of the lion’s den.

Now if you don’t understand that, you’re going to get a grudge with God. When you’re walking through the valley of the shadow of death, you’re going to say, “Where is God?” And these things come to all of us, and they come all the more when we serve the Lord. Christianity is not the subtraction of problems from life; Christianity is the addition of power to meet those problems. And if you think that you’re going to get saved and all your problems are going to disappear, you’re wrong.

Now, see, John the Baptist now is beginning to have doubts. Do you know what John is doubting? John is doubting as to whether or not Jesus Christ is the Messiah. This is the same John that pointed to Jesus and said, “Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world.” (John 1:29) This is the same John who now—look, if you will, in verses 2 and 3: “Now when John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he who should come, or do we look for another?” (Matthew 11:2–3) “Are you really the Messiah? Or should we go to some other Messiah? Should we go somewhere else?” John is being persecuted, and he’s wondering, “If Jesus is king, if He can do all of these things, how come He can’t get me out of prison?” John had preached that Jesus was going to “burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire,” (Matthew 3:12) and now here’s Jesus, meek and mild, going about doing good, and John just can’t figure it out. Why can't He get me out of prison? Why am I down here in this prison? And John the Baptist, who had been an exclamation point, has now become a question mark, and now he is doubting God.

Have you ever been there? Well, let me say this, folks. I want you to turn to another passage just right now, if you will, in Matthew. Turn to Matthew chapter 24 for just a moment. Let me tell you what’s going to happen in the last days. And all of us have an ominous feeling that we’re living in the last days. Begin in Matthew 24, and look, if you will, in verse 9. Jesus is talking about the times that are going to come on this earth: “Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name’s sake.” Listen, folks. When you stand for Jesus, don’t get the idea this world is going to honor you. This world will break your neck if it can. “And then shall many be offended.” (Matthew 24:9–10) Do you see that? “Then shall many be offended.” When persecution comes, people get so easily offended at the Lord.

Go over to Matthew chapter 13, and look, if you will, in verse 20. Jesus is talking about people who hear the Word of God, and they are like seed in a stony field: “But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it; yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth”—or “endures”—“for a while;”—now, watch this—“for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended.” (Matthew 13:20–21)

Now, are you picking up a trend here? People get offended with God when they get persecuted. They say, “This is not supposed to happen to me. I’m an upstanding, godly person. I pay my debts. I take care of my children. I go to church. I pay my tithe. I do this. I do that. Now, why has this happened to me? Why am I in this prison? Is Jesus really who we heard He was? Is He really the Messiah? Should we look for somebody else?”

Folks, I want to tell you what John the Baptist did, and it’s what I want to invite you to do today. John took his doubts to Jesus. Go back to chapter 11 and look in verses 2 and 3 again. The Bible says, “When John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he that should come…?” (Matthew 11:2–3) Now what John did was, he had an honest question, and he took his question to Jesus.

Now there are two kinds of doubters in the world: there are honest doubters and there are dishonest doubters. Dishonest doubters don’t know the answers, because they don’t want to know the answer. They can’t find God for the same reason that a thief can’t find a policeman. But honest doubters want to know the truth. And John had a doubt, and he sent to Jesus with a direct, honest question. And he got back from Jesus a direct, honest answer. Be careful how you deal with Jesus. If you ask Jesus a dishonest question, He will never answer your question; He'll just ask you a question.
mean, in the Bible there were people who came to Jesus, always trying to trick Jesus, always trying to trap Jesus, always trying to get Jesus in a box, and they would ask Him some kind of a question. He said, "Well, you answer this, and I'll answer that." He answered the question with another question. And you could never put Jesus in a box. But whenever a person came to Jesus with an honest question, He always got back an honest, sincere answer.

And so John the Baptist just wants to know. He says, "Are you really the Messiah?" Jesus gives no rebuke. Jesus does not scold him for asking. And then Jesus gives the answer. Look in verses 4 to 6: "Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see. The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them. And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me." (Matthew 11:4–6)

Now what Jesus said to John is, "John, listen. I am running on schedule. I know what I'm doing. Don't get upset if it doesn't work out just as you're expecting. I have not failed you. I never set out to convert the world. I never told you that everybody is going to be saved. As a matter of fact, it's going to get worse and worse. But I'll tell you this much, John: Blind eyes are opening to the truth of God's Word, to the light of the world. Deaf ears are hearing the Word of God. Lame souls are walking. The dead in trespasses in sin are being made alive in Christ. John, I know what I'm doing. And, John, don't pout. Allow me to be God. Blessed is the man who is not offended in me." Now, folks, if things are not working out for you as you think they ought to work out, don't get a pout at God. Don't be offended at God.

Now, here's something else that's always a blessing to me in this passage of Scripture. Do you think that Jesus said, "Well, I'm really disappointed in John." Folks, He's never been disappointed in you. How could He be disappointed in you? He already knew what you were going to do. He wasn't disappointed in John. Jesus knew John's heart, and Jesus did not mistake the moment for the man. Jesus knew that John had an honest doubt. He asked an honest question; he got an honest answer. And then, look at the tribute that Jesus paid to John. Look in verse 11: "Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist." (Matthew 11:11) Isn't that great? Here's this man who has a doubt and he carries that doubt to Jesus. Jesus gives him an honest answer, and then Jesus turns around and gives this man a compliment. And John the Baptist continued to serve the Lord up to the point of giving his head for the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Do you know what real faith is? Real faith is not receiving from God what you want; real faith is accepting from God what He gives. Now, learn that, and don't get offended at God if things don't work out like you think they ought to work out. If you're serving God, doing good, all of these wonderful things, if you end up in some kind of a dungeon, just remember that God is God. Don’t pout. And don’t get a grudge with God.

II. Some Get Offended Because They Are Rebuked for Doing Wrong

Now, let me give you a second reason that some people get a grudge with God. Some people get a grudge with God when they’re persecuted while they’re doing right. Other people get a grudge with God when they get rebuked for doing wrong. They get a grudge with God. Some people get a grudge with God because of particular sermons. Turn to Matthew chapter 15 here a moment and look, if you will, beginning in verse 7. Now the greatest preacher who ever preached, of course, was the Lord Jesus Christ. And here’s what Jesus says: “Ye hypocrites, well did [Isaiah] prophesy of you, saying, This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me.” And he would have to say that about some folks sitting in this building this morning. You sing these songs, and you give lip service, but Jesus knows your heart. And then He said, “But in vain they do worship me…”—that is, your attendance here this morning may be just a waste of time—“in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. And he called the multitude, and said unto them, Hear, and understand: not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man. Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended, after they heard this saying?” (Matthew 15:7–12)

They got offended. Now, what did they get offended about? How did they get offended at God? They got offended because He told them the truth. He rebuked their external righteousness and told them that their so-called righteousness and their goodness was not going to get them to heaven. He told them that inwardly they were rotten. And what He had done is he had touched their golden calf, their religion. He didn’t accept their self-righteous religion. Do you know there are people who come to church like this and they want to be given some little feel-good pep talk, and if a preacher preaches about hell and about judgment, about righteousness and about the new birth and about salvation, they get offended—they get offended. Now most of you folks here would not get offended. But there may be some here who will be offended today. They say, “I just don’t like that hellfire and brimstone type of preaching. I don’t like finger pointers. I just don’t like that.” And they get offended. Well, I’ve never really gotten too upset when people get offended at my preaching, because I know they got offended at Jesus.

• They told Billy Sunday, who was an evangelist like Billy Graham of yesteryear, “Billy, you’re rubbing the fur on the cat the wrong way.” He said, “The old cat’s headed toward hell. If she’d turn around, I’d be rubbing her the right way.” •
And there are people who get offended at the truth. The disciples said, “Jesus, you’d better get some user-friendly evangelism. Don’t you know that the Pharisees were offended at you?”

• I was working in a counseling room in a revival meeting, and Billy Graham was attending the revival meeting part of the time, and one of Billy Graham’s associates was preaching the revival, and I was in charge of the counseling; and a beautiful young lady, a society debutante, came forward to give her heart to Jesus Christ. She went back to the counseling room, and her mother went back there with her. Her mother was incensed. She was outraged that this girl, her beautiful daughter, would come in front of those people and say that she was a sinner and that she needed to be saved. And that mother said to her, “Sweetheart, you don’t need this. You are a lovely girl.” Boy, I thank God for what that little girl said to her mother. She said, “Mother, you can’t see my heart.” She knew she needed to be saved. Her mother was offended—offended that people have to be born again, saved; that self-righteousness is not enough.

I’ve shared with you before about something that happened—I cannot get it out of my mind. There’s an evangelist who’s just recently gone to heaven—his name is Eddie Martin, a dear, great soul winner. He preached in this church years and years ago. But upon a time, Eddie Martin was preaching. He gave an invitation, and a lady came down the aisle. And she was one of these precise, very well-manicured, coifed, made up—you know, like some of these gals can do—I mean, she was the epitome. And she came down the aisle. And he was there to receive the people coming forward, and he was just rejoicing. He said, “Lady, I’m so glad that you’ve come. Why did you come?” She said, “Well, I want to give my heart to Christ.”

Well, that sounded wonderful, so he said, “Wonderful, lady.” He said, “I want you to pray after me—pray this prayer: ‘Dear God…’” She said, “Dear God.” “I am a sinner.” It was silent; she didn’t say anything. He thought, “Well, maybe she’s hard of hearing.” So he said, “Repeat it again: ‘Dear God…’” She said, “Dear God.” “I am a sinner.” She didn’t say anything. He said, “Lady, tell the Lord you’re a sinner.” She said, “I am not a sinner.” And he said, “Madam, the Bible says, ‘All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God.’” (Romans 3:23) “Well,” she said, “if I’m a sinner, I’m a good sinner.” He said, “Lady, there are no good sinners. You’re not ready to be saved. Go back to your seat.”

She drew herself up like this and started back to the seat; and she did not get to the seat before the mascara started to flow, and God broke her heart, and the rebuke came from the Holy Spirit. She turned around and went back to evangelist Eddie Martin and said, “God have mercy upon me. I am a no-good sinner.” He said, “Now you’re ready to be saved”—“Now you’re ready to be saved.” •

People sit in churches heavy, high-minded, unbroken, unbent, unbowed, thinking they're doing God a service, a favor, by even coming to church. They don't see themselves as hopeless, helpless, hapless sinners. And they get offended. I'm going to tell you something, folks. And I don’t mean to be braggadocio about it. But the cruelest thing I could do would be to fail to preach to you the whole gospel: to tell you there's a hell; there's a God who’s a holy God; that you must repent; that your righteousness is as filthy rags in the sight of this righteous and holy God; (Isaiah 64:6) and unless you get saved and born again, you're going to die and go to hell. And if that offends you, then I'm sorry, but it is the truth. It is the truth! People get offended. I'll tell you something else. I've learned that that kind of preaching will run people off. I'll tell you something else I've learned. For every one you lose, you'll gain ten; and the ten you get will be a lot better than those that you lost, because they want the whole Word of God.

Do you have a grudge at God? Do you have a grudge of God because of persecution and things are not working out the way you think? Or do you have a grudge at God, for example, because of the rebuke of the Word of God, and the Lord has your number and your name, and the Lord sees through your own self-righteousness? Don't get a grudge at God.

III. Some Get Offended Because Their Expectations Are Not Met
I'll tell you another reason people get a grudge at God. People get a grudge at God sometimes because their expectations are not met. They join churches, they give their hearts to Christ, and they have certain expectations, and those expectations don’t transpire. Turn, if you will, to John chapter 6 with me for just a moment. Now Jesus has just fed the five thousand. He's performed this wonderful miracle, and you would think that people would be interested in spiritual truth also; but begin in verse 53: “Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you.” (John 6:53) Now Jesus had fed them with bread. It must have been wonderful bread. Jesus multiplied that little boy's loaves. But now He's talking about eating His flesh and drinking His blood, and then He says in verse 54, “Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day. For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.
He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him. As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me. This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever. These things said he in the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum. Many therefore of his disciples, when they heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it? When Jesus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you? What and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before? It is the spirit that quickeneth: the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.” (John 6:54–63)

Now, notice, John the Baptist got offended because he got persecuted for doing good. The Pharisees got offended because they got rebuked for doing bad. And now the disciples are offended because they’re not getting what they want. Now, you see, when Jesus fed the five thousand, they said, “Boy, this is the kind of a Messiah we want! This is wonderful! This man, He can take one lunch, and He can become a cafeteria. This is wonderful! We want to be on board.” And so they began to follow the Lord.

A. Political Motives
You know, some came for political motives. Go back to chapter 6 and look in verse 15, if you will. There were some who were following Jesus for political motives. John 6 and verse 15: “When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come and take him by force, to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.” (John 6:15) They said, “Look, let’s crown him king right now.” Now what they were looking for was a political Messiah. They were looking for somebody who could throw off the shackles of Rome. They were looking for somebody who could put them in the high places. And Jesus had to teach them, “My kingdom is not of this world.” (John 18:36)

Now if you’ve come to Bellevue Baptist Church, you walk down the aisle of this church, you give your heart to Jesus Christ, and you come for political reasons—I’m not talking about Democrat, Republican, or Independent—but if you’ve come thinking that “If I give my heart to Jesus, oh, boy, we’re going to whip the world; we’ve got it made; I have a new king; I’ve got power,” you don’t understand what the kingdom of God is all about. He is not going to deliver you from the unpleasantness of this world. Just mark it down. I’m not talking about persecution. I’m just talking about the unpleasant things of this world.

B. Material Motives
There are some who came for political motives. There are others who came for material motives. Look in verse 26—John chapter 6, verse 26: “Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled.” (John 6:26) He said, “The only reason you’re following me is you’ve got some bread.” And there are people who come to Jesus—some for political motives, some for material motives—they think that, you know, “If I go to Jesus, and I get saved, and I begin to tithe, man, I’ve got cash, Cadillacs, and a freezer full of steaks.” That’s what you hear sometimes from these fellows preaching on television. I preach on television, too. That’s what you hear. Hey, folks, it’s not so. It is not so! God never promises to make you wealthy when you become a Christian. God never promises that Jesus is some sort of a political messiah. If you come for the wrong reason, that reason is not going to work out, and you’re going to get a grudge, you’re going to get a pout, you’re going to be disappointed. And John chapter 6, verse 66, says, “From that time many of his disciples went back, and walked no longer with him.” (John 6:66)

• I’ve just been over to Spain. My son’s a missionary over there. He has just a little handful of people. And I said, “Well, Son, may I ask you about a particular lady?” He said, “She doesn’t come anymore, Daddy.” I said, “Why doesn’t she come anymore?” He said, “She has so many problems at home.” And she did have problems, and she’s not making much money, and her husband is hassling her. And she just said, “You know, I thought when I gave my heart to Christ, those things would change.” And they didn’t change. And so she got upset with the church and upset with the Lord. You know her problem? And she went back, just like these disciples in John 6, verse 66: “From that time they went back and they walked no more with Him.” •

Now if you come to the Lord Jesus Christ and you come for some political motivation, you come for some material motivation; if you come for any other reason than to feed on Him who is heaven’s bread, to eat His flesh, drink His blood, to know Him, you’re going to be disappointed. And it’s only a matter of time until you get a grudge with God. You’re going to be offended at God, because things are not going to work out just like you think.

And we have many people on the rolls of our church right now who are not right here with the Lord Jesus Christ. They’re not here in the church; they’re not here worshipping. They are sitting at home pouting, resenting God, because things are not working out for them the way they thought they ought to work out. Do you know anybody like that? Folks, there are a lot of folks like that.

IV. Some Get Offended Because of Envy
Some get offended because persecution comes. Others get offended because of the Word of God that is preached and rebukes them. Some people get offended because they have certain expectations, and those expectations are not met, and they get a grudge with God. Let me give you one last reason. I’ve got to hurry. This will amaze you, but some people get offended at God, not because of persecution, not because of rebuke, not because of disappointment, but some people get offended at God because of envy. They envy other people. God has been too good to other people.

Now they see other people blessed, and they’re not blessed correspondingly. Turn to the Gospel of Mark here with me for a moment. Turn to Matthew, Mark, and look, if you will, in the first verse there—Mark chapter 6—and see what happens here. Jesus is in Nazareth. Notice this: “And he went out from thence, and came into his own country and his disciples follow him. And when the sabbath day was come, he began to teach in the synagogue: and many hearing him were astonished, saying, From whence hath this man these things...”—now, notice this; underscore this. Here’s the key—“From whence hath this man these things? and what wisdom is this which is given unto him, that even such mighty works are wrought by his hands?” Now, watch this: “Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary, the brother of James, and Joses, and of Juda, and Simon? and are not his sisters here with us? And they were offended at him.” (Mark 6:1–3)

There it is again. Over and over again—offense, offense, offense, offense! They were offended at Jesus.

Now at this time they had no idea He was the Messiah. That’s not what offended them. What offended them was God’s blessing on Him. I mean, they knew Him. They grew up with Him. They said, “Hey, who does He think He is? We know His mother. We know His brothers. We know His sisters. We saw Him there in the carpenter’s shop. Where did He get all this wisdom? Where did He get all this power? We just don’t like Him being blessed that much.” Now, folks, His blessing was not their diminishment—just because God had anointed the Lord Jesus. Of course, they didn’t know He was the Son of God. It makes no difference to my point right now. The point is, the whole thing is this: they saw somebody else being blessed more than they were blessed, and they got a pout, they got a snit; they’re upset because somebody else had more than they had.

Do you know anybody like that? Hey, folks, the world is full of them. And they’re angry at God, and they say, “Well, God is not fair.” I’ve got news for you. God is not fair; God is just. There’s a difference. Hey, if you think that God is fair, that means that God owes you something. And if somebody else has more than you have, then God is not fair, because He owes everybody the same thing. And when you get something for God, you’re not grateful; you’re dissatisfied you didn’t get it sooner, and mad if somebody gets more than you got—if you think God is fair. God is not fair; God is just. The only thing we deserve is judgment. If God gives anybody anything, it is grace. You’re going to get upset in life, you’re going to get a grudge with God, if you see somebody in life who is more blessed than you’re blessed, and somehow you’re going to think that their blessing is your loss—somebody who has a greater insight into the Word of God, somebody who has more power with God than you have, somebody who God seems to be pouring out His blessing on.

Now, listen. If it’s Billy Graham, that won’t bother you at all. If it’s somebody out yonder somewhere, that won’t bother you. But, oh, let it happen to your next door neighbor; let it happen to somebody that you work with; let it happen to somebody that you know. You say, “Why, we know him. Who does she think she is? We were raised up together.” People are funny. They don’t like to see one of their own blessed unless they get blessed. They get envious, they get jealous, and they get mad at God; and they say, “God, you’re not fair. You’ve blessed them more than you’ve blessed me.” And they get a pout with the Almighty, a grudge with God.

Now, you know, the sad thing about that is the Bible says there in Nazareth Jesus could do no mighty works because of their unbelief. When they got mad at somebody else’s blessings, they cut the throat of their own blessings. But they were so upset that God was blessing Jesus that they missed the blessing that Jesus could have been to them.

Conclusion
What causes people to get a grudge with God? Persecution, disappointment, rebuke, and resentment at being rebuked; envy at the way somebody else is being blessed. Friend, I want to share a verse of Scripture with you, and then we'll wrap this up. Turn to John chapter 16 and look with me for a moment. The Lord Jesus knew that we all had this tendency to resenting God, and Jesus has talked about the Holy Spirit in John 15, and Jesus says, “These things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended. They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service.” You see, there’s no fine print in Jesus’ contract. “And these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me. But these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you. But now I go my way to him that sent me.” (John 16:1–5)

And I’m going to stop reading there, but Jesus is saying, “I'm going to heaven. I’m leaving you here. Don’t get offended.” I love the scripture that says, “Great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them.” (Psalm 119:165) If you’ve got a grudge with God, tell God about it. If you’ve got honest questions, bring them to God. Don’t come to the Lord with false expectations. You say, “Pastor, I thought it was wonderful to serve Jesus.” It is. If I had a thousand lives, I'd give every one of them to Jesus Christ. I’m not disappointed in Jesus. But I don’t want to have a grudge with God because of any false expectations. All right, no fine print in the contract.

Introduction
Now, would you take God’s Word, please, and be finding Matthew chapter 24. And when you’ve found it, look up here for just a moment. In Matthew 24, our Lord is giving the signs of the times just before His coming. He’s telling us what the course of the age will be, and He mentions many things: wars, and rumors of wars, and earthquakes, and famines, and pestilences. But there’s something else that He mentions that I want to point out here. I begin in verse 7: “For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. All these are the beginning of sorrows. Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted,”—now the you refers to those who are followers of the Lord Jesus—“and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name’s sake.” Now, notice verse 10: “And then shall many be offended...”—just underscore that phrase, and I’m going to stop reading right there: “…then shall many be offended.” (Matthew 24:7–10)

I’ve seen a lot of people start out to serve the Lord Jesus Christ and live for a while in the church, in the Sunday School class. They come. They sing in the choir. They act as an usher. They tithe. They do this. They do that. They work with the ball team. They seem to be happy. And then after a while, they drop out, and they don’t come anymore. And you wonder why. Was it that they never were saved? Well, that’s true with some of them; but others fall out, believe it or not, because they’ve gotten a grudge with God—not a grudge with a church member. Now some do have those, and sometimes the grudge with God will show up as a grudge with a church member; but they’ll only be hurting in one place and grunting in another. Their real anger is with God. There are people who do get angry with God. There are people who do resent God. There are those people who, to use a phrase that we use, get bent out of shape with God, frustrated with God, angry, pouting at the Almighty. You say, “Could a human being get angry with God?” Not only could they, but do they.

And I want to show you in the Word of God why people get angry with God. I want to show you a little bit about what we ought to do about it. Turn with me, for example, to Matthew chapter 11, and let me read you a passage of Scripture here. Matthew chapter 11 is the story of John the Baptist. It’s a remarkable story, and I’m going to begin reading here in verse 1: “And it came to pass, when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities. Now when John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another? Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see: The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them.” And now, notice verse 6: “And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me.” (Matthew 11:1–6)

Now what had happened was this: John the Baptist was God’s mighty preacher. What a wonderful man was John the Baptist! And John the Baptist had been down there by the river Jordan preaching the gospel and telling people to repent. He was pointing men to the Lord Jesus Christ. What a preacher he was! The Bible says, “He was a burning and a shining light.” (John 5:35) He had a stone for a pulpit, a brook for a choir. He ate honey, but he didn’t preach it. He would point his finger in the face of those people who came, and said, “You generation of rattlesnakes, you brood of vipers, you sons of snakes, who told you to flee from the wrath to come?” He wore a leather girdle. He could point his finger in the face of kings. He was a fearless, Spirit-filled, anointed prophet, a humble man, a man who said of the Lord Jesus, “I’m not worthy to loosen your shoes,” (Matthew 3:11; Mark 1:7; Luke 3:16; John 1:27; Acts 13:25) a Spirit-filled man filled with the Spirit from his mother’s womb. When he, Mary, and Elizabeth were in one another’s presence, and both of them had babies in their womb—Mary had the Lord Jesus in her womb, and John the Baptist was in Elizabeth’s womb—the Bible says, when the two mothers came close, that the babe in Elizabeth’s womb leaped for joy in the presence of the Lord Jesus Christ. (Luke 1:44) What a man was John the Baptist!

But now John the Baptist had been put into prison. King Herod had taken John the Baptist and put him in a prison on the east side of the Dead Sea down in Machaera—dark, dismal, dank prison. John the Baptist had been preaching for eighteen months; and now for twelve months—a solid year—John is in prison. John the Baptist was an outdoorsman; he was not a man to be caged up like a caged bird. He was a man who believed in freedom. And John learned it’s one thing to stand on Jordan and give it; it’s another thing to stay in jail and take it. And John, when he was in prison, kind of backslid. He couldn’t figure things out. You see, John had preached Jesus as the Messiah, and the kind of Messiah that John had preached was a victorious Messiah. John said, “He’s going to clean His threshing floor. He’s going to gather His wheat into the barn. He’s going to burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.” (Matthew 3:12; Luke 3:17) And yet here is John the Baptist, and John is rotting in prison. John is saying, “What went wrong here? Why am I here? If He can raise the dead, how come He can’t get me out of prison? Have I been mistaken? Is He really the Messiah?”

And John sent messengers and said, “Are you the One that should come?” (Matthew 11:3) And when he said, “Are you the One that should come,” that was a phrase used for the Messiah. What he said is, “Are you the Messiah?” Can you imagine John the Baptist asking a question like that? “Are you truly the Messiah? Or, should we look for somebody else?” I’m going to tell you something about John—and this I appreciate about John: John had some doubts, but they were honest doubts, and he took them to Jesus. And that’s what you need to do with your doubts: If it’s an honest doubt, bring it to Jesus. And I’ll tell you about Jesus, Jesus will give you an honest answer.

Now there were people who came to Jesus sometimes with trick questions, and Jesus always answered the question with a question. When they tried to hem up Jesus, they could never hem up Jesus. And they tried to get Jesus in an argument: They always were the loser. But anybody who came to Jesus Christ with an honest answer, Jesus would say, “Come and see.” “Are you really the Messiah? I want to know!” And Jesus sent back word, and Jesus said, “You go tell John—go tell John—that the blind see. Go tell John that the deaf hear. Go tell John that the dumb speak. Go tell John that the dead are raised. Go tell John that the poor have the gospel preached unto them.” (Matthew 11:4–5)

Why did He say, “Tell him that”? Because that’s what the Old Testament prophecy in the book of Isaiah said that the Messiah would do. That is, “You tell John I’m on schedule. You tell John I am fulfilling Scripture. You tell John that I am doing exactly what the Bible says I would do. Yes, I’m the Messiah.” And then He said, “And tell John something else”—verse 6: “You tell him this—tell him, ‘Blessed is he [who’s] not offended in me.’” (Matthew 11:6) Now, John, you’re in prison.”—He didn’t tell him this, but He could have told him—“It’s going to get worse. You’re going to have your head cut off. You’re in prison. You’re in trouble. But, John, if you’re in prison, and I don’t get you out of prison, it’s not because I don’t want to, or am not able to, or I don’t care about you. It’s just, John, I have a better plan and a higher plan. And, frankly, John, you couldn’t understand it if I told you, because my ways are not your ways and my thoughts not your thoughts. As the heavens are high above the earth, so are my ways above your ways and my thoughts above your thoughts.” (Isaiah 55:8–9) “Who hath known the mind of the Lord? …who hath been his counsellor?” (Romans 11:34) How inscrutable are the ways of God!

My friend, don’t demand to understand, and don’t get a pout with God if you don’t understand why He doesn’t get you out of your prison. There’s more than one kind of prison. You might be in a financial prison: your blood pressure is up, and your bank account is down. You may be in a physical prison. You may be in a family difficulty. There may be some great dungeon of despair that you’re in, and you’re saying, “Why doesn’t God deliver me? If God can do all of those things—if He can raise the dead, heal the lame—why doesn’t God do something?” It’s like the little boy, he said, “If God’s so great, why didn’t He put the vitamins in ice cream rather than spinach?” “Why doesn’t God do it the way I want Him to do it?”

Frankly, friend, His ways, the Bible says, are past finding out; and it takes a lot of faith sometimes to let God be God.

I. Problems and Persecutions Cause People to Get Offended at God

But I’ll tell you one reason that some people get a grudge at God: because of problems and persecution. They get down in a dungeon, and when they get down in a dungeon, when problems come, heartaches come, trials come, difficulties come, persecution comes, they begin to doubt God. And, my friend, I want you to learn this straight—learn it big, learn it plain, and learn it, I hope, for good: God has not promised to keep you out of trouble—okay? He came to get into trouble with you. Christianity is not the subtraction of problems from life; it is the addition of power to meet those problems. God has not promised to keep you out of the fiery furnace. God has not promised to keep you out of the lion’s den. God has not promised to keep you out of the valley of the shadow of death. And God has not promised to keep you out of the dungeon.

Now, if you think He has, you’re going to get a grudge with God. You’re going to say, “Where’s God? Is He really the Messiah? Is that Christ that Adrian Rogers preaches, is He real? Why isn’t it working for me?” Why didn’t it work for John the Baptist?

Friend, I want to tell you, there wasn’t a better man that ever lived than John the Baptist. You say, “How do you know?” I know. Let me tell you how I know there wasn’t a better man than John the Baptist. Let’s just read what the Lord Jesus said here. Look in verse 7, as we continue to read this chapter. Notice what He says here: “And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John...”—now the people were there, and they heard these guys blurt it out: “Are you really the Messiah?” Now Jesus here is ready to protect John’s reputation—“And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings’ houses. But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet. For this is he, of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee. Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist.” (Matthew 11:7–11) Why is that the greatest compliment? Number one, He who gave it; and, number two, what He said. Jesus said it, and He said, “There hasn’t been a greater person born of woman than John the Baptist.” You can’t get better than that, can you? Jesus said that of John the Baptist.

And yet John the Baptist doubted. Yet John the Baptist had a moment of doubt, and that moment of doubt turned almost into an offense at God, a grudge against God. And Jesus had to warn the great John, “John, blessed is he who’s not offended in me.” Don’t get a grudge with God, even if you don’t understand what He does and why He does it. You let God be God. But aren’t you glad that Jesus didn’t mistake the moment for the man? Jesus knew that wasn’t the real John. Jesus knew that John had a lapse of faith. And, “though we deny Him, He’ll not deny Himself; He abides faithful” (2 Timothy 2:13)—and I thank God for that.

II. Presumption Causes People to Get Offended at God
Let me tell you another way that people get a grudge at God. The first way is when problems come, when persecution comes, and we don’t get delivered when we think we ought. We get a grudge with God. I’ll tell you another way that people get a grudge with God: Not only over problems and persecutions, but presumption leads some people to get a grudge with God.

Turn with me to the Gospel of Mark here, chapter 6—Mark chapter 6—and I’m going to begin reading here in verse 1. Again, another episode in the life of Jesus—and the Bible says, “And he went out from thence, and came into his own country;”—that is, His own country is the village of Nazareth—“and his disciples follow him. And when the sabbath day was come, he began to teach in the synagogue: and many hearing him were astonished, saying, From whence hath this man these things? and what wisdom is this which is given unto him, that even such mighty works are wrought by his hands? Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary, the brother of James, and Joses, and of Juda, and Simon? and are not his sisters here with us? And they were offended at him.” (Mark
6:1–3) There’s our word again. They have a grudge with Jesus; they are offended at the Lord. Jesus said, “In the last days, many will be offended.” (Matthew 24:10) Jesus warned John, “John, blessed is he who’s not offended.” (Matthew 11:6; Luke 7:23) And now these—the villagers in the city of Nazareth—they’re offended at Jesus.

And why are they offended? Because of their presumption. You see, they had presumed just how God should work and what God ought to do. Now, when Jesus came there, Jesus sat down in the synagogue, and He taught with authority, and He did many mighty works. And do you know what they said? “Who does He think He is? I mean, how does He get off doing that? We know Him. Why, He was a little boy here. He grew up here. We’ve known Him since childhood. Why, we know His four brothers. We know His sister. We know His mother. Who is He, telling us what to do? Now, if God works, that’s not going to be the way God works. We’ve already got that figured out. I mean, we know what God would do and what God wouldn’t do. And one thing we do know is that He wouldn’t use that man.” You see, they had a presumption. They had presumed what God would do and what God would not do.

And, you know, the thing with Jesus was He was so common, so ordinary. They said, “He’s a carpenter—a carpenter! Why, we’re not expecting a carpenter to do anything.” Aren’t you glad, when Jesus came into this world, Jesus did not come to Rome, the city of imperial power; nor did Jesus come to Athens, the city of intellectual might; nor did Jesus even come to Jerusalem to be born, the city of religion; but an obscure village, raised as a peasant? Because, you see, God doesn’t work the way we work. “Man looks on the outward appearance. God looks on the heart.” (1 Samuel 16:7) We look at the things that are mighty and glorious and majestic, and we say, “That’s the way that God works.” But so many times we don’t see God in the small things, the ordinary things of life; and we presume, and we want to tell God, “Now, God, when you do it, here’s the way to do it.” God may have another plan.

Several years ago, there was a story going around about a man during a great flood that had come to a city. This old man had lived for God for many years. And so, when they came in the rowboat to pick him up, the old man said, “Now, boys, you go on. I’m going to stay here in the house and trust God.” They said, “Grandpa, you’d better come with us to higher ground.” He said, “Nope.” He said, “I’m going to stay here and trust God. He’s going to take care of me.” They said, “All right, Grandpa.” When they came back the second time, Grandpa had moved up to the second story, because the water had risen that much. And they said, “Grandpa, come on and get in the boat.” He said, “No, I’m telling you, I’m trusting God. He’s going to take care of me.” “All right, Grandpa.” They came by the third time, and Grandpa was up on the roof. They said, “Grandpa, the water is rising. Get in the boat!” He said, “No sir. I’m trusting God. He’s going to take care of me.” The flood came and swept Grandpa away.
Finally, down in the swamps, hanging onto the branches of a tree, he argued with God. Oh, he was angry with God. What a pout! How offended he was at God! He said, “God, why did you let me down when I trusted you so?” God said, “I didn’t let you down. I sent a boat for you three times!” So many times we say, “Now, God, when you do it, this is the way you’re going to do it. I mean, something as common, as ordinary, as a rowboat—could that be God’s way?” It may be.

Friend, the things that God is doing to you He may be doing, and you’re missing what God is doing, because you in your mind have it all figured out exactly how God is going to work, when God is going to work. And they said, “Why, God can’t be working through Him. We know Him. We’ve seen Him since He was a little boy. We know His mother. We know His brothers. We know His sisters. We know His occupation. God, you just can’t do it that way.” And they were offended, because God did not work according to their presumption.

III. Pride Causes People to Get Offended at God
A third reason that people get offended at God: Not only because of problems, presumptuous attitudes and ideas; but a third reason that people get offended at God is because of their rotten pride—pride. Let me show you something else here. Open in the Bible to Matthew chapter 15 with me for just a moment—Matthew chapter 15—and let’s begin reading in verse 7. Jesus is preaching, and it doesn’t sound like He’s trying to win friends and influence people. Notice how He starts: “Ye hypocrites, well did Esaias prophesy of you, saying, This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me. But in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. And he called the multitude, and said unto them, Hear, and understand: Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man. Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended, after they heard this saying?” There’s our word again: “Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended, after they heard this?” (Matthew 15:7–12)

Why were they offended with the Lord Jesus? Because He had stripped away the veneer of their false religion—He had stripped away that veneer of religion that they were hiding behind—and their pride made them angry at God. The Pharisees, I suppose the one adjective that we would use to describe Pharisees more than any other would be proud—proud Pharisees. They were so proud of their religion. And religious they were. Oh, my friend, how religious they were! They had all of their little rules of religion: what they would do, and what they would not do; exactly how they were to live, especially keeping the Sabbath. They wouldn’t even eat an egg that was laid on Saturday. If they got a tack in their shoe, they wouldn’t remove that tack on Saturday, lest they be accused of doing work on the Sabbath. It gets ridiculous. If a flea were having lunch on them, they would not remove the flea on the Sabbath: that was hunting—really!

You say, “That’s ridiculous!” It’s still going on today. Did you know if you go to Israel today on the Sabbath day they have what they call a Sabbath elevator? I was just there last year. A Sabbath elevator—it stops at every floor. You don’t have to push a button. That’s right. You get on the Sabbath elevator and go to the fifteenth floor—you’ll stop fifteen times. That’s right. You can’t just push one button. They won’t push a button on the Sabbath day. You talk about religious! Man! Jesus said in Matthew 23, “They tithe mint.” (Matthew 23:23) Do you know what mint is? A little plant like you put the leaf in your tea. They have a little mint plant, and they say, “One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine: these belong to me. Ten: that’s God’s. One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine: these are mine. Ten: that’s God’s.” How careful they were! How religious they were! And how lost they were!

Many people have a grudge at God, and I’ll tell you why they have a grudge at God: because God demands repentance and faith, and He won’t accept anything else. God does not accept man’s religion, no matter how good it is; and nothing offends this world more than that. Did you know there are people who would never darken the doors of a gospel-preaching church, because it is an offense unto them, because they don’t like to be told that their good works will not get them to heaven? Not only will their good works not get them to heaven; but the Bible says that your righteousness is as filthy rags, in God’s sight. (Isaiah 64:6) I tell you, that offends this generation more than anything.

“Are you trying to tell me, Mr. Rogers, that my religion is not good enough? Are you trying to tell me that the good things I do are not going to get me to heaven? Are you trying to tell me that I have to be born again?” You got it! That’s what I’m telling you, dear friend. Jesus said, “Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.” (Matthew 5:20) And I’ve told you before, and I’ll tell you again: The worst form of human badness is human goodness when it becomes a substitute for the new birth.

These Pharisees were offended—offended: “You mean He doesn’t appreciate all of the things that we do, all of these good deeds that we do?” Jesus said, “They’ll not buy eternal life for you.” It’s on the inside. It’s repentance and faith. You must know God in your heart. Oh, they honored Him with their lips. Many folks today in churches today, they do the same thing. They sit in a church like this and sing, “Oh, How I Love Jesus.” They don’t even love Him enough to get back on Sunday night when they could come. They say, “Take my silver and my gold; not a mite would I withhold.” They hold it with all their might. “[They honor] me with their lips; but their heart is far from me.” And they think they do God a favor when they come to church: “God, aren’t you lucky to get me?”
God doesn’t buy it; and when they learn that God doesn’t buy it, it offends their pride, and they’ll get a grudge with God. How many proud Pharisees there are who are going to hell because they really have an argument with God!

Eddie Martin is an evangelist. Eddie Martin preached in a revival crusade one time, and a lady came down the aisle, elegantly dressed—a cultured lady. She took him by the hand, and she said, “Mr. Martin, I want to join the church.” He said, “Lady, do you mean you want to be saved?” She said, “Yes, Mr. Martin.” He said, “All right. Pray this prayer after me: Dear God…” She prayed, “Dear God…” “I am a sinner…” She didn’t say anything. He thought maybe she didn’t hear him. He said, “Pray, lady, after me: Dear God…” “Dear God…” “I am a sinner…” She didn’t say anything. He said, “Lady, why don’t you pray? Don’t you want to be saved?” She said, “Mr. Martin, I am not a sinner.” “Well,” he said, “Madam, the Bible says, ‘All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God.’” (Romans 3:23) She said, “Well, Mr. Martin, if I’m a sinner, I’m a good sinner.” He said, “Madam, there are no good sinners. I don’t think you’re ready to be saved. Go back to your seat.”

She was offended, angry. She reeled around and started back to the seat. But after a while, the finger of God touched her before she got there. She broke. The mascara started to flow. She turned around and went back, and said, “God have mercy on me! I am a no-good sinner!” He said, “Now you’re ready to be saved.” And she was.

People get offended at God because of the gospel. Oh, it’s called the offense—the scandal—of the cross: that there’s no way we can be saved except casting ourselves on the mercy of God.

IV. Perplexity Causes People to Get Offended at God

I want to mention a fourth way that people get offended at God—and this way is not by persecution, or not by presumption, or not by pride; but by perplexity—people who just get so perplexed at the way God does things, and the ways of God don’t seem to make sense to them. They expect one thing out of God, and God does another.

Look with me, for example, in John chapter 6—the Gospel of John chapter 6—and I begin reading here in verse 57. I’m going to break right into the middle of this passage in verse 57. It takes place right after the feeding of the five thousand, where Jesus performed a miracle. And Jesus says, “As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me. This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever. These things said he in the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum. Many therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it?” Now, let me just rephrase: “It is a perplexing saying. We can’t figure this out. Who can hear this? Who can understand what you’re saying? “When Jesus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you?” (John 6:57–61) There again: offense. Why? Because they were perplexed. They could not understand what the Lord Jesus was up to when Jesus said, “I am the bread of life. You eat this other bread, and you’re going to die. You eat me, and you’ll live forever.”

You see, there were plenty of people who followed Jesus in that day, but they followed Jesus for the wrong motives.

A. Some Followed Jesus for Political Motives

Some followed Jesus for political motives. Notice in chapter 6, verse 14—just back up there a little bit; this is still in the same context of the feeding of the five thousand: “Then those men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did,”—that is, the feeding of the five thousand—“said, This is of a truth that prophet that should come into the world. When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come and take him by force, to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.” (John 6:14–15) They said, “Oh, look at this! Jesus has power. He can do miracles. Why, let’s make Him a king. He’ll throw off the yoke of Rome. Our problems will be over. He will liberate us, and we’ll have no more difficulties down here.” They followed Him for political reasons. But Jesus absented Himself from them.

B. Some Followed Jesus for the Miracles

Then, look down, if you will, at verse 26: “Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled.” (John 6:26) Now, here’s another group: Some followed Him because of the miracles and said, “Hallelujah! We’ve got a king now.” Others didn’t care about the miracle, but they did like the bread. They said, “Why, He’s a grocery store! He’s a living cafeteria! Wonderful! We can have plenty to eat!”

And today there are those who still want to follow Jesus, one, for political reasons; or two, for material reasons. And many in our churches today come with the wrong motivation, thinking that if they come to the Lord Jesus Christ, they’re going to get this or they’re going to get that; they’re going to have a king, or they’re going to have a cafeteria. And He didn’t come for that.

“Well,” you say, “I thought He fed five thousand.” But that was not His normal way. He was only giving an illustration of a greater spiritual truth, and they missed the greater spiritual truth. Look, if you will, in verse 47: “Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life”—not just temporary life, but everlasting life. “I am that bread of life. Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead.” Now there are people who tell us that the job of the church is to feed everybody. Number one: We don’t have enough money to feed everybody. If you had five billion dollars and bought everybody a Big Mac, in three hours they’d all be hungry. I am telling you, my friend, that there is something more than soap and soup: It’s salvation. “Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead. This is the bread which cometh down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die. I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever.” (John 6:47–51) They didn’t understand that. They were offended. They don’t understand the message of the gospel. Sure, we’re to feed every hungry person we can, to do acts of compassion; but, my dear friend, the message of the church has been, and always will be, “salvation through the Lord Jesus Christ.”

Conclusion

Ponce de Len came to Florida looking for the fountain of youth. He wanted something that would take the stoop out of his shoulders, and put the glow of health on his face, and cause his tooth decay to reverse, and let his eyes be bright, and his hair black as a raven’s wing. He never found the fountain of youth. But I’m telling you today, if some pharmaceutical company could find a pill, a concoction, that you could take that would give you, if you took it, fifty years more of life and perfect health, I believe that I know that man would kill one another to get it—guaranteed fifty more years of life and perfect health. They would kill for it, if there were such a pill and that were the only way to get it.

But, you see, Jesus is not offering you existence; He is offering you life, and it is eternal life. But they were perplexed. They did not understand the message of Jesus; and therefore they were offended at Him.

And I’m telling you that problems, and presumption, and pride, and perplexity can cause people who don’t understand the gospel to get offended. And that’s the reason you’d better get in the Bible and understand the Bible, because the Bible says, “Great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them,” (Psalm 119:165) when you know the Bible, when you know the Word of God. But you’re going to get bent out of shape. You’re going to have a grudge with God. You’re going to get upset with God. And it’s going to be one of the marks of the last days.

Horatio Spafford lived in Chicago in the end of the last century. He was a great, godly Christian lawyer. He lived in the beautiful Lake View section of Chicago. He was a Christian layman, very much like some of the laymen in this church—active in community affairs. He was one of the founders of the YMCA. He served as a trustee of a seminary. He was a friend of Dwight L. Moody and helped Moody in his campaign. Spafford had a wife named Anna. He had four lovely daughters. He was very wealthy, very successful, a great landowner. And the great Chicago fire came and burned many of his buildings. They were underinsured, and overnight his great wealth was taken from him. He did not blame God. He did not pout at God. Rather, he threw himself into greater service for the Lord and took his remaining wealth and used it to help other people who had lost their possessions in the great Chicago fire. The strain took its toll on Anna, his wife, and he said, “Anna, I’m going to send you and the girls on a cruise to Paris. And when I get my business affairs taken care of, I'll join you.”

He put them on the biggest cruise ship known of that day, and they sailed for Paris. Off the coast of Newfoundland, a ship hit that steamer right mid-ship. And there was a collision, and that steamer broke in half. It was a horrendous thing. Mrs. Spafford had her littlest baby in her arms. The twelve-year-old, when she saw what had happened, said, “Mother, don’t be afraid. God is in control of the sea.”

Well, those were the last words that the mother heard the little girl say on this earth, because that ship split and sank in twelve minutes. It sank like a rock; it went to the bottom. A mast fell and hit Mrs. Spafford and knocked the baby from her arms and plunged her beneath the water. Something caught her and buoyed her up again. When she came to the surface, a man reached out his hand and pulled her into a lifeboat. Of the five hundred aboard that ship, only twenty-two were saved. Mrs. Spafford was one. The four children drowned.

For weeks, the ship that hit them, which was still afloat, fought Atlantic storms trying to get across the Atlantic. Finally, they ended in Wales. The people were hungry and sick and hurt. Finally, Mrs. Spafford was able to send a wire back to Chicago. Because of the limitations of space, she only had two words. This is what she said: “Saved alone!” Spafford knew his wife was alive. His four children had gone to heaven. He made preparation to sail to Wales to get his wife. When he got on that ship and they crossed a certain place in the Atlantic, the captain of that ship said, “Mr. Spafford, as far as I can understand, this is the place where the ship went down and where your children’s bodies lie at the bottom of the ocean.” Spafford went below the deck, had a time of prayer, a time of committal, and then he wrote these words that we sing:

When peace like a river, attendeth my way,
When sorrows like sea billows roll;
Whatever my lot, Thou hast taught me to say,
It is well, it is well, with my soul.

Introduction

Take your Bibles, if you would, and turn to Matthew chapter 11. Would you find it, please; we’re going to begin reading in verse 25. Now, while you are turning, I want to give you the sermon subject: “How to Rest While You Work.” So if you don’t work, you can’t rest, according to this message. That’s right. How to rest: not after you work, but how to rest while you work. I’m reading here now Matthew chapter 11, and I begin in verse 25—Matthew chapter 11, verse 25: “At that time Jesus answered and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and the prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes. Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in thy sight. All things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him. Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light” (Matthew 11:25–30).

Do you ever get tired? I heard of a lady who said that she was so tired that she felt as though she had been ironing all day in high heels on a low board with a cold iron. I don’t know whether you feel that tired or not, but you’re bound to be tired if you’re doing that. But life is full of burdens, and life is full of weariness, but, thank God, we don’t have to wait until we go to heaven to find rest for the soul. Though there may not be much for the body, there is rest for the soul. Every now and then, we'll see on a tombstone these words: “Rest in peace.” But, friend, I want to tell you, it takes more than a tombstone to bring peace. And if you don’t have it before you die, putting it on a tombstone over your grave is not going to give you rest. As a matter of fact, the Bible says you'll have no rest day or night if you die without the Lord Jesus Christ (Revelation 14:11).

But while there may not be a rest for the body—or at least as much as we want—there is rest for the soul. And Jesus said in this scripture, “Ye shall find rest unto your souls”—the last part of verse 29. You have found out that, when you have rest for your spirit, then the body seems to get along pretty well. I told you, it’s not the rpm’s that wear the machine out—the revolutions; it is the friction that really wears the machinery out. And so many people do not really just wear out because they work so hard. As a matter of fact, a laboring man who has soul rest probably has the greatest vitality of any man: a man who works physically hard, but a man who spiritually is resting in the Lord.

Now we want to talk tonight about the rest that Jesus gives. Just as there is the forgiveness of God, and just as there is the peace of God, this weekend we need to also learn that there is rest in God. You see, according to this scripture, not only is He our grief bearer—and He is—but He’s also our burden bearer. “Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden,”—Jesus said—“and I will give you rest.” Now I want us to look at this passage, therefore. I’m going to use a very plain and simple outline tonight, but I want you to think of the rest that Jesus gives.

I. The Simplicity of His Rest
And, first of all, I want you to notice with me the simplicity of that rest. Look in verse 25: “At that time Jesus answered and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and the prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes. Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in thy sight” (Matthew 11:25–26). Now the rest that I’m talking about is the rest that little children may know and sometimes intellectual top waters never find. It is rest that is exceedingly simple. You see, God gives it to the child-hearted.

Now we’re not talking about being childish. God forbid that we should be childish. But we should be childlike. You see, there’s something very wonderful about the gospel that’s always blessed me every time I thought of it. An intellectual doesn’t have a head start. Now you may think that’s not true; but it is true. An intellectual doesn’t have a head start. Because you are brighter than your neighbor does not mean that you’re more right with God than your neighbor. As a matter of fact, if you will read this eleventh chapter, there were some men who were stunningly brilliant who got into an argument with the Lord Jesus; and He warned these brilliant people about committing the unpardonable sin. And then He said, after He had warned them about the unpardonable sin and all of those things, then He said, clearly and very wonderfully, that a little child can find this rest.

You see, the only way that you’ll know God is by revelation. You’re not going to reason God out. Can a man by reasoning find out God? The answer is no. Now the Bible is not against reasoning, and, if you have a good mind, you don’t have to crucify your intellect to be a Christian. And you can use your mind, and use it and use it. And you’re to love God with all of your mind (Matthew 22:37; Mark 12:30; Luke 10:27). But the gospel, friend, is not contrary to reason; it is just beyond reason—just beyond it. Therefore, the only way that you’ll know God is by revelation. “God has hidden these things from the wise and the prudent, and He has revealed them unto babes.” And so what I’m trying to say to you is that the rest, the soul rest, is exceedingly simple.

II. The Surety of His Rest

But not only do I want you to notice the simplicity of it; I want you to notice the grand surety of it—the surety of it. Look in verse 27. Jesus said, “All things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, [except] the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him” (Matthew 11:27).

Now Jesus, in a moment, is going to promise peace. He’s going to promise rest. He’s going to promise that He will lift the burden from all of us. Now Jesus does not make promises that He cannot keep. And the proof that He can keep His promises is this. He said, “All things are delivered unto me of my Father”—verse 27. He’s got the whole world in His hands. That means the entire universe is under His control.

Don’t you love that passage over there in Colossians that speaks of the Lord Jesus, in Colossians chapter 1, verses 16 and 17. It says, “For by him”—that is, by Jesus—“were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him: and he is before all things,”—and then He says this—“and by him all things consist” (Colossians 1:16–17). That is, all things hang together; that, without Jesus everything would come apart. Jesus is the glue of the galaxies. All things were made by Him; all things were made for Him; all things are coming to Him; and through Him it all holds together. You see, dear friends, if you take Christ out of your life, your life will fly apart. If you take Christ out of your home, your home will come apart. All things are made by Him. And it is only through Him that things hang together.

Have you ever thought what would happen if Jesus were to retire from the universe? Do you know what gravity is? Oh, you know what gravity is. Maybe you don’t know what gravity is. You probably only know what gravity does. Did you know that there’s not a scientist on the world, or in the world anywhere, who can explain what gravity is? You ask a scientist about gravity. “Well, gravity is that which holds us to the earth.” Okay, that’s what gravity is: it’s what holds us to the earth. And you say, “Now, you tell me what holds us to the earth.” He says, “Oh, that’s gravity.” You see? I mean, what he does is he describes it, but he never explains it.

Did you know what holds everything together? It’s not a what; it’s a who. And so the surety of this rest is that the Lord Jesus said, “All things are delivered unto me of my Father.” “All things are by me, for me, through me; by me they all hold together.” That’s the reason that Jesus could speak peace to that troubled storm; and, as Jerry Vines said, “When Jesus said peace to that storm, those waves lay down at his feet like a whipped puppy.” I like that phrase. Remember when he said that? Jesus had the power over that storm.

Now, why do you think Jesus stilled the waves? Just as a display of His strength or His miracle working? No. You see, in the Old Testament, what does the Bible say? “The wicked are like the troubled sea, when it cannot rest” (Isaiah 57:20). You see, what Jesus was saying is that, “I have power over this physical universe. And I have that same power in your heart and in your life. You see, all things are delivered unto me; and, when I speak peace to a troubled soul, just as I speak peace to that troubled sea and it became as still as a millpond on a moonlit night, I can speak to you and give your life peace.” All things are delivered unto the Lord Jesus Christ; and, therefore, there is the surety of this rest.

III. The Source of His Rest
But wait a minute: not only the simplicity of it, and not only the surety of it, but I want you to notice the source of it. Look, if you will, in verse 28. He says, “Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.” Now men have been trying to find peace and soul rest and everything. Some have the idea that money can purchase it.

I was witnessing one time to a man whose wife was a member of my church in another city. This man had recently retired. He was one of those men who retired fairly early. He had his home paid for. He had his automobile paid for. He seemed to have it all. And he was a self-confident man, and he was well-educated, one of the best-educated men in our town. And he liked me; and I liked him. And I tried to witness to him. But he was one of those fellows who always had an answer; he always just could keep you awake, just like this.

And one day I went to see him. And I got up my courage again, and I was trying to get the conversation on Christ, and I said, “Mac”—that’s what we called him; his last name was MacDonald—I said, “Mac, I want to talk to you about the Lord. You need the Lord.” “No,” he said, “I don’t need the Lord. I’ve got everything I need.” He said, “I’m healthy. I’ve got a lovely wife.” He said, “You see that house? It’s paid for.” Said, “You see that car? It’s paid for. I’ve got money in the bank.” Said, “I’m doing fine. I don’t need the Lord.” I said, “Mac, you do need the Lord.” He said, “No, I don’t.” I said, “Okay. Well, I want to ask you a question. You say you have everything. But, Mac, you’ve always been honest with me. Mac, if I ask you a question, will you answer it truthfully and straightforwardly, and not beat around the bush?” “Why, yes,” he said. I said, “Okay, Mac, look me right in the eye. I’m asking you this question. You say you have everything. Do you have peace in your heart?” “Oh,” he said, “I told you I don’t need anything.” I said, “Mac, you’re beating around the bush.” He wasn’t answering the question. I said, “Mac, look me straight in the face and answer this question. Do you have peace in your heart?” And for the first time in my life I saw that man break. His chin started to quiver, his eyes filled with tears, and he broke. He said, “No, I don’t have peace. How did you know?” And I said, “Mac, because, ‘There is no peace to the wicked, saith my God’ (Isaiah 57:21).”

There is none. You cannot find peace in possessions. Money can buy almost anything but happiness, and take you almost anywhere but to heaven. Some people try to find peace out of the mouth of a bottle, and some pill, or in pleasure, or they think perhaps the doctor can prescribe peace to them, or a psychiatrist or a psychologist can lead them into peace. I thank God for doctors. I thank God for psychiatrists. I thank God for counselors. I thank God for psychologists. But I want to tell you, friend, the peace that I’m talking about is peace that the world cannot give, and therefore peace that that the world cannot take away.

_I heard the voice of Jesus say,_
_“Come unto me and rest;_
_Lay down, thou weary one,_
_Lay down thy head upon My breast.”_
_I came to Jesus as I was,_
_Weary and worn and sad;_
_I found in Him a resting place_
_And He has made me glad._

—HORATIUS BONAR

“Come unto me,” Jesus said, “and I will give you rest.” He is the source of that rest. You will never have it without Christ. Augustine said long ago, “Thou hast made us for thyself, O God, and our hearts are restless until they rest in thee.”

IV. The Secret of His Rest

Now I want you to notice the secret of His rest. Look, if you will, in verse 29. Jesus says, “Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light” (Matthew 11:29–30). We have a Sunday School class here in our church called the Yokefellows. What is Jesus talking about when He says, “Take my yoke upon you”? Well, a yoke was a wooden bar, carefully fashioned and carved with a harness on it that would fit across the shoulders of an ox and enable the ox to pull a load. And so what the Lord Jesus is saying is that you are to take the spiritual counterpart of that wooden beam upon you. We must learn to wear the yoke—pay attention now—if we are to enjoy His rest. He says, “Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me.”

Now in the Christian life there’s nothing to earn, but there’s a lot to learn. “Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me.” Now when Jesus said, “Take my yoke upon you,” He did not mean, I do not believe, as we have often heard it explained, that He is like an ox on one side, and we’re like an ox on the other side, and He is our yokefellow, and that He is pulling along with us. Now that’s a beautiful picture, but I don’t believe that’s what’s taught here. There is a sense in which Christ becomes my strength and my help, and He comes alongside of me by the Holy Spirit; but that’s not what He’s talking about here. When He is saying, “Take my yoke upon you,” what He is saying is this: “Yield your life to my control, take my yoke upon you”; that is, “Submit your will to mine, put your will under the will of Christ.” The yoke is a symbol of submission and service.

That’s the reason why I said I was going to talk to you about while you work. So many people think that rest comes by taking the yoke off; but rest for the ox comes at the end of the day, that when the battle is over and the work is done, he takes the yoke off and then he rests. But Jesus said, “You want to find rest? Put on the yoke.” Huh? That’s one of the paradoxes of the Bible. “You shall find rest unto your soul.” “Put your will under mine.”

Now, friend, listen to me. It is not rest from service; it is rest in service. It is a strange rest that comes by putting on the yoke rather than putting it off. Now every now and then some people have the idea they’re going to retire. Did you ever get that idea? Put it out of your head. God never called a man to retire—never! You may stop doing what you’re doing now for pay. You know what that means? You’ve just got more time to serve for Jesus. That’s all that means. It doesn’t mean that you’re going to sit around in some ol’ rocking chair and get fat and lazy. All it means is that now you can cut loose and serve God in the way that you never could.

You see, listen, friend. Rest does not come from just merely inactivity. Surely, you need rest for your body, and as we get older we cannot do physically what we used to do; but it does not mean we drop out, we sit, soak, and sour. I want to tell you something, friend. The minute you put off the yoke, at that moment you take up the burden. When you put off the yoke, you lay on the burden. What Jesus is saying is, “Take my yoke upon you, get into this thing of service; and you will find rest while you work, rest while you serve.” The most miserable people on this earth are the invalid rich who are trying to find peace of heart. And if you’ll go to the pleasure palaces of this world and look in the faces of those people who have come there for happiness and joy and peace, you’ll find the most haggard, weary-looking group of people you’ve ever found in your life. What Jesus is saying is this: the secret of the rest that He gives is that you find yourself by losing yourself.

Do you know we have a generation today of people who don’t want any yoke of any kind? Freedom is the watchword. We want release from all authority. I pity you, friend; for it is not until you put on the yoke of Christ that you will find rest. At that time you learn the rest of Christ. When you say, “Jesus Christ is Lord,” then you can “stand fast in the liberty wherewith He has made you free” (Galatians 5:1). You see, we just think, “If I had no restraints, if I had no responsibilities, if I had no boss, no authority, then I would be peaceful and happy.” You would be miserable.

The kite held by the string tugs against that string, and the kite has the idea, “If I could just get loose from this string, how high I could go.” And the string breaks, and down, down, down, down comes the kite. It was that string that added restraint that caused the kite to soar.

Now a tree is rooted in the ground. Perhaps there’s some tree that says, “I just hate to be planted here in the ground. I wish that somebody would come and free me from this ground.” And someone frees the tree. It’s uprooted and it is now free—free to die! Here’s a train on those ribbons of steel, a railroad train, and the train says to himself, “Ha, I wish I weren’t confined by these old rails. I wish I could somehow leave these rails and go out across the meadow.” And so someone derails the train; and the train tumbles off the tracks and into the meadow, and it’s a tumbled mass of steel, and it can no longer function as a train.

Everything that God has made God has put restraints on it; and when you take away those restraints, you take away freedom. I wrote this in my devotional book one day; and I look at it from time to time, and it speaks volumes to my heart. Though it may not seem very profound to you, I think it’s one of the most profound things that I’ve ever written. Discipline—discipline—does not restrict you; it frees you say amen tonight. It frees you. Most of us are afraid of discipline; we don’t want to be restricted. But it is discipline, friend, that frees you and sets you free.

Our lady has played the piano tonight, and I thank God for the way she has played. She can sit there at the piano and play the most beautiful music. Now, how did she do that? Did she just sit down one day and say, “I’m just going to freely play the piano”? No, she disciplined herself: hours and hours and hours of practice. How does Larry play the organ as he does? He disciplines himself. And, oh, you know, you people say, “Oh, I’d give anything if I could just play the piano like you.” That’s a lie. You wouldn’t do it, because you didn’t do it. You see, they’re the ones who gave something; you didn’t—you didn’t, see? Would you give the discipline that it takes? Would you give the practice that it takes? But I want you to see, when they sit down and they just ripple off those chords and play all eighty-eight keys with that freedom and that rhythm and that liberty and that joy, their discipline did not confine them. Really, what it did was set them free.

Now Jesus said, “Do you want liberty? Do you want the burden lifted? Put the yoke on.” When you take off the yoke, you put on the burden; when you put on the yoke, you lift the burden. That’s the secret of the whole thing, the secret of this rest.

V. The Sweetness of His Rest

Now there’s one last thing I want you to notice with me—and that’s the sweetness of this rest. Look, if you will, in verses 29 and 30: “Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.” Notice again that it’s soul rest that we’re talking about, what we would call today peace of mind. Isaiah 48, verse 22: “There is no peace, saith the LORD, unto the wicked” (Isaiah 48:22). Isaiah chapter 57, verse 20: “But the wicked are like the troubled sea, when it cannot rest, whose waters cast up mire and dirt” (Isaiah 57:20). Romans 3, verses 16 and 17: “Destruction and misery are in their ways: and the way of peace they have not known” (Romans 3:16–17).

Oh, friend, the sweet rest that Jesus gives is such a wonderful rest! It’s hard for me to understand why people wouldn’t receive Him, why people fear Jesus. Earlier I told you the danger you will get into when you get to thinking negatively about Jesus, negatively about God—and so many people do!

I had a man come up to me, and he was a beggar. Well, he wasn’t exactly a beggar, more of a panhandler—there’s a difference; well, a beggar. I think of a beggar sometimes as a person who just is crippled or something and can’t make a living. This man was more of a—well, he was a bum. He was a bum—that’s really what he was. And he stopped me, and he said, “Mister, would you give me some money? I’m hungry. I haven’t eaten in three days.” Boy, that will get to you when you’ve just eaten. I had had a good meal, and he said, “I haven’t eaten in three days.” Now this guy, I mean, he was filthy. He had a big beard, grimy beard. It wasn’t because he grew a beard; he just hadn’t shaved. And if he did shave, he didn’t stand very close to the razor. And it was kind of one of those old dirty beards. And he had a foul mouth, nasty; hadn’t brushed his teeth. He just, you know, from a human perspective, you just wouldn’t want to be near him.

And he said, “I haven’t eaten in three days”—or four days—I forget how long he said. He said, “Would you give me some money for some food?” I said, “No, I won’t.” I said, “Tell you what I will do. I’ll buy you some food.” I said, “Here’s a restaurant. Come on in. Let’s eat.” “Oh,” he said, “I’d rather have the money.” “Well,” I said, “you just come on in here if you’re really hungry.” I said, “If you haven’t eaten, this is a fine restaurant.” I said, “You just come on in. Here’s the menu. You order, and I’ll pay for it, and I’ll sit here and have a cup of something, and we’ll just visit while you eat.” So he came in and sat down. He didn’t order much; wasn’t near as hungry as I thought he was. If a guy hadn’t eaten in all those days, you know, my goodness, I would have thought, I was wondering, I just gave him carte blanche, “just order what you want,” and he ordered a hamburger. And he sat there, and he ate that hamburger. And I started to talk to him about the Lord Jesus Christ. And I told him about the wonders of Jesus, and the joys of Jesus, and how sin could be forgiven, and how Christ could come into his life, and how Jesus could give him joy and peace—the Christ who says, “Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.”

I was just so certain because of my kindness and all of that I was going to win him to Christ. And I said, “Now, sir, wouldn’t you like to receive Christ as your personal Savior and Lord?” Do you know what he said to me? He said, “No, I don’t want to do that.” I said, “Well, why not?” “Oh,” he said, “man, there’s too much to give up.” I looked at him, and I thought, “The devil is a liar.”

Isn’t the devil a liar, friend? Too much to give up? Let me tell you something. The only thing God asks you to give up is your misery and your sin. The only thing that God asks a man to give up are the things that will hurt him—that’s all. If it will make you healthy, if it will make you holy, if it will make you wholesome, God says, “Help yourself; I love you.” Listen. The only thing God asks you to give up are the things that will hurt you. And what you give up is nothing compared to what you get. Who wouldn’t give up dirt for diamonds?

Jesus says, “Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me… For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.” I hear people say, “Oh, man, it’s so hard to be a Christian!” Where did you get that? Not out of the Bible! The Bible doesn’t say it’s hard to be a Christian; impossible, yes, but not hard; impossible, but God does the impossible, but not hard. You see, if Jesus said, “My yoke is easy, my burden is light,” the Bible says, “The way of a transgressor is hard” (Proverbs 13:15).

I looked at that guy, and to tell you the truth, folks, he looked at me like he was having a tough time. And if I was him, I’d be willing to give that up.

“The way of the transgressor is hard.” The only thing God asks you to give up are the things that will hurt you; and what you give up is nothing compared to what you get. And, friend, if we did give up something for Him, it’s nothing compared to what He gave up for us. Oh, friend, He gave all for us. And if the Lord said, in order to be Christian and go to heaven, you have to give all of your riches and all of your wealth, and suffer excruciating pain, it would be worth it not to go to hell. Jesus said, “It would be better for you to cut off your hand or pluck out your eye than to go to hell” (Matthew 5:29–30). Jesus said it would be better to be a crippled saint than a whole sinner going to hell. What I’m saying, dear friend, is this: that if the Lord were to require that of us—He doesn’t—but if the Lord were to require of us to cut off your hand in order to get to heaven, it would be a cheap price to pay. But what our Lord says is, “Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, I will give you rest.” “I’ll give it to you.” “Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me… For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.”

Conclusion

Jesus Christ was a carpenter, and He never made a yoke that didn’t fit. And when He says, “Take my yoke upon you,” He has one just for you. And His yoke is easy; you’ll not chap under it. And when you get under the yoke, and when you get in His service, for the first time in your life you’re going to find rest, joy, and happiness. And peace is something you don’t find by looking for it. It is the by-product of putting on the yoke of the Lord.
Introduction

All day long we've been thinking on the subject of soul winning and bringing people to Jesus Christ. Tonight, I want to speak to you on this subject: “The Master Soul Winner.” And, of course, His name is Jesus. And because He is the master soul winner, the Lord Jesus is the model soul winner, because He is our example in everything. He's our example in this matter of bringing people to Himself. So I want us to begin reading here in Matthew chapter 12 and verse 18. This is a prophecy of Isaiah the prophet that Matthew quotes and applies to the Lord Jesus, and it's one of the sweetest passages in all of the Bible. The Lord God Almighty is extremely pleased with His Son the Lord Jesus, and so He says, “Behold my servant, whom I have chosen; my beloved, in whom my soul is well pleased: I will put my spirit upon him, and he shall shew judgment to the Gentiles. He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets. A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory. And in His name shall the Gentiles trust” (Matthew 12:18–21).

Now, folks, He was talking about us a long time ago. Isaiah prophesied that, in the name of Jesus, Adrian Rogers, Jim Whitmire, and all of the rest of these who are here tonight who know the Lord Jesus Christ, would have trusted in Him. We're those Gentiles that Isaiah prophesied would come to trust in the Lord Jesus Christ and be saved. Isaiah described the coming Messiah, and He described the ministry and the method of His ministry. And what I want to do is to look at the life and the ministry of Christ as a master soul winner, and then I want to use that as an illustration and as an application for your life and for my life.

I. The Commission of the Master Soul Winner

Now there are several things that I want you to notice that Isaiah prophesied about the Lord Jesus. First of all, I want you to notice His commission, in verse 18: “Behold my servant, whom I have chosen” (Matthew 12:18). “My servant” is the Lord Jesus. God the Father chose God the Son for a specific task. Jesus said, “The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost” (Luke 19:10). And, again, Paul said, “This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners” (1 Timothy 1:15). Now Jesus was the servant of Jehovah, and His task in serving was to bring men and women, boys and girls, to Himself, to a saving faith in Him.

Someone has written these words—they’re beautiful to me. They answer the questions, “What is evangelism? What is soul winning? “It is the sob of God. It is the anguished cry of Jesus as He weeps over a doomed city. It is the cry of Paul, ‘I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren’ (Romans 9:3). It is the ringing plea of Moses, ‘Forgive their sin; and, if not, blot me out of the book which thou hast written’ (Exodus 32:32). And then again, it is the cry, the anguish of John Knox, who said, ‘Give me Scotland or I die.’ It’s the sob of a mother in the night as she weeps over a lost child. It is the secret of a great church, it is the secret of a great preacher, and of a great Christian.” That’s what somebody said evangelism is.

Are you a soul winner? Are you? Our Lord was a soul winner. Our Lord had been given a commission from God the Father. I like what R. A. Torrey said—and, by the way, you can buy R. A. Torrey’s books in our bookstore, and you ought to get them. They are some of the best books on plain, downright, good, honest Bible study you’ll ever have. Dr. R. A. Torrey said, “I would like to know what right a man has to call himself a follower of Jesus Christ if he’s not a soul winner.” That was a good place for an amen, folks. Listen to it again: “I would like to know what right a man has to call himself a follower of Jesus Christ if he’s not a soul winner.” Didn’t Jesus say, “Follow me, and I will make you to become fishers of men” (Matthew 4:19; Mark 1:7)? Now it follows, as night follows day, that, if you’re not fishing, you’re not following. “Follow me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.”

Do you know what Andrew Murray said? He’s a great Christian also. Andrew Murray said, “There are two classes of Christians: soul winners and backsliders.” Amen, or oh me? Do you know what John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist Church, said? He said to his students, “You have only one business, and that is the salvation of souls.” Boy, I'll tell you what: I believe old Wesley would be spinning in his grave right now if he knew what was going on. “You have only one business, and that is the salvation of souls.” David Brainerd, a man who gave his life as a missionary to the North American Indians, wrote this in his diary—actually David Brainerd prayed himself to death and wore his body out as a relatively young man bringing the gospel of Jesus Christ to the Indians. He said this: “I cared not how I lived, nor what hardships I went through, if only I might gain souls for Christ.” Boy, that challenges me. “I cared not how I lived, nor what hardships I went through, if only I might gain souls for Christ.”

Compare that to our churches today. I mean, folks, we've got the latest and most modern equipment; we have radio, we have television, we have beautiful buildings, we have air conditioning, we have printing presses, we have jet airplanes, we have it all—and we do so little with so much. And they, those early Christians, did so much with so little. Somehow it seems like we're just losing the war. There's a tidal wave, an avalanche of sin and unbelief and immorality, that's coming in upon us. The spirit of the Lord Jesus was the spirit of soul winning, the spirit of service, and God says that, as He looked at His beloved Son, “Behold, my servant whom I have chosen.”

Now, how does that apply to me? Well, Jesus said, “As [the] Father hath sent me, even so send I you” (John 20:21). And Jesus said, in John 15, verse 16, “You have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain” (John 15:16). God chose me to bring forth fruit, and the fruit of my life ought to be another Christian coming to know Jesus Christ.

Soul winning is every Christian's business. No one is excused. A Christian who refuses to win souls is like a barber who refuses to cut hair, like a bus driver who refuses to drive a bus. Jesus said, “Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden” (Matthew 11:28), as I preached last Sunday night. But the same Jesus who says, “Come,” is the same Jesus who says, “Go.” He says, “Come unto me,” and then He says, “Go...into all the world” (Mark 16:15). And if we've heard Him say, “Come,” then again it follows that we must hear Him say, “Go.”

I want you to see the commission of the Lord Jesus. “Behold, my servant whom I have chosen,” and, “As [the] Father hath sent me, even so send I you.” “You've not chosen me; I have chosen you. I've ordained you that you should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain.” Now, friend, no matter what else you do, no matter how faithful you attend, no matter how circumspectly you walk, no matter how generously you give, no matter how well you sing, no matter how lavishly you serve, if you're not in the business of endeavoring to bring souls to Jesus Christ, you're not right with God—period, period—you're not right with God.
Now you can’t all do it the same way; you can’t all be door-to-door salesmen; you can’t all be pulpit peers or gospel singers—but somehow, some way, in your way, according to your gifts, your talents, your background, your opportunities, you’ve got to be praying, “Oh, God, oh, God, oh, God, make me a soul winner,” for Jesus said, “You’ve not chosen me; I’ve chosen you, and I’ve ordained you that you should go and bring forth fruit and that your fruit should remain.” So the first thing that I want you to see about the master soul winner is His commission.

II. The Commendation of the Master Soul Winner
Secondly, I want you to see His commendation. Notice what the Lord said about His Son: “Behold my servant, whom I have chosen; my beloved, in whom my soul is well pleased” (Matthew 12:18).

Now, when God the Father saw God the Son on a mission of salvation of souls, God the Father said, “I am well pleased with my Son.” Why was God well pleased with His Son, the Lord Jesus? I’ll tell you why. Jesus said, in John chapter 8, verse 29, “I do always those things that please Him” (John 8:29). Now, friend, you ought to have no greater ambition than to please God. And if you please God, it really doesn’t matter whom you displease. And if you displease God, it really doesn’t matter whom you please.

Do you want God to be well pleased with you? How can God be well pleased with you if you’re not a soul winner, if you’re not witnessing? You see, the church that is not witnessing is not pleasing God. The Christian who is not witnessing is not merely failing; he is in revolt; he’s guilty of the crime of high treason; he’s guilty of apostasy. Soul winning is not an option. Evangelism is not a nicety. To fail to witness for Jesus Christ is a clinched fist in the face of our high commander-in-chief, Jesus Christ, who has commissioned us, ordained us, commanded us, and sent us. And God is not pleased with us if we’re not doing it. And that means that God is not pleased with most churches and most Christians. God looked at His Son, the Lord Jesus, and said, “Behold my servant, my beloved, in whom my soul is well pleased.” Why? Because Jesus said, “I do always those things that please Him.” The Lord Jesus wants to bring souls to Himself to bring glory to the Father.

III. The Companion of the Master Soul Winner
The third thing I want you to notice about the Lord Jesus, the master soul winner: not only His commission, and not only His commendation, but I want you to notice His companion. Notice in verse 18 again: “I will put my spirit upon him, and he shall shew judgment to the Gentiles” (Matthew 12:18).

Now the Lord Jesus had for His companion in His humanity the Holy Spirit, as we have for our companion the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit is the divine companion within the bosom of every born again child of God. He is a paraclete. That means, “a companion”; that means, “someone who has come alongside us to stand with us, to help us, to anoint us.” You see, the Lord Jesus, even though He was very much God, did not do what He did in the strength of the deity that was inherently His, but Jesus achieved what He achieved in the power of the Holy Spirit. “I will put my spirit upon him.” Jesus was anointed with the Holy Spirit. And I’m so glad that Jesus did not use the power that was inherently His as deity. I’m so glad that He laid that aside as such, became a man, and then as a man, though a perfect God, but yet as a man, was filled with the Holy Spirit and anointed with the Holy Spirit and therefore became my example.

Let me give you some verses to jot in your margin. Luke chapter 4, verse 18—Jesus stood up as He began His public ministry, and He began significantly with these words: “The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He hath anointed me to preach” (Luke 4:18). Oh, I cannot tell you how many times I’ve looked at that scripture before I come in to this pulpit, and I’ve said, “Oh, God, Oh, God, I want you to anoint me to preach. Lord, I want your Spirit to be upon me as your Spirit was upon the Lord Jesus.” “The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me, for He hath anointed me to preach.” The Lord Jesus, a very God, could not, did not, preach without that anointing. “Behold, my servant, my beloved, in whom my soul is well pleased. I will put my Spirit upon him.” Jesus was anointed with the Holy Ghost of God.

In Acts chapter 10, verse 38, the apostles preached, “how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy [Spirit] and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him” (Acts 10:38). That’s what we’re talking about: His companion, God the Spirit, in the form of the anointing.

Do you know the difference between the baptism, the filling, and the anointing? The baptism of the Spirit is once for all: that comes when you’re saved. “For by one Spirit have we all been baptized into one body” (1 Corinthians 12:13). Then there are many fillings; that is, when we yield to the lordship of Christ, and He takes over totally—body, soul and spirit, lock, stock and barrel, every inch, every nerve, every fiber, every sinew, every ambition—all of us. We give it to Him. We don’t get more of Him; He gets all of us. We already have all there is of Him. That is the filling.

But what is the anointing? Some people think Jesus was filled with the Spirit at His baptism. Oh, no, Jesus was filled with the Spirit before His baptism. John the Baptist was filled with the Spirit from his mother’s womb. Was the servant greater than his Lord? Do you think Jesus lived for thirty years without being filled with the Spirit? Of course not! But Jesus was anointed with the Spirit at His baptism. When the Spirit of God came upon Him, what is the anointing? The anointing of God is a special touch for a specific task. When there’s something you need to do, when there’s a witnessing you need to do, when there’s a song that you need to sing, when there’s a sermon you need to give, when there’s something for which you need that special touch of God, you need to pray, “Oh, God, anoint me.” “The Spirit of the Lord [God] is upon me, [for] he hath anointed me to preach.” He hath anointed me to sing. He hath anointed me to witness.

You see, the Lord Jesus had a divine companion—the Holy Spirit of God. He “went about doing good…for God was with him.” I’ll tell you, that anointing brings power. “God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power.” “Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me” (Acts 1:8). It brings knowledge. First John 2, verse 27: “But the anointing which ye have received of him abideth in you, and ye need not that any man teach you: but as the same anointing teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie, and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in him” (1 John 2:27). Oh, the companion of the master soul winner!

IV. The Composure of the Master Soul Winner

Now the next thing I want you to notice: the composure of the master soul winner. Continue to read here in verse 19: “He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets” (Matthew 12:19). That doesn’t mean that Jesus never opened His mouth when He went out of doors; it means in the sense of yelling and screaming and ranting and raving. Jesus didn’t do that. Jesus had a perfect composure. He was calm. He was assured in His service and in His witnessing. And this was in such contrast with the arguments, the wrangling, of the scribes, the ravings of the false prophets, the arguments of the religious crowd of that day. Jesus was not that way. Jesus had such a sweet, pleasing personality. Somehow we get the idea that in order to be witnesses we’ve got to be some kind of a religious nut, psycho, weirdo.

I want to tell you about the Lord Jesus. Jesus was a loving and a winsome man. He was a friend of sinners. And He was the kind of a man that little children loved to come and put their arms around His neck. You can fool adults sometimes, but you can’t fool little children too easily. They came to sit in the lap of the Lord Jesus. And He gathered little children to Him. And Jesus had the sweetest personality and the most pleasing personality.

Do you know what the Bible says, in 2 Timothy chapter 2, verse 24? “The servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach” (2 Timothy 2:24). Do you know what I pray God will do to this congregation? Make you a group of beautiful people; winsome people; loving, kind, gentle, courteous people. That’s the kind of personality Jesus had. He wasn’t running around grabbing people by the lapels and looking at them with beady eyes and saying, “Mister, are you ready to meet God?” He wasn’t that kind. That’s not the kind of witnessing we need in this day and this age.
Sometimes people like that turn more people off than they bring to Jesus. You see, Jesus was a witness, not a lawyer. A lawyer argues a case; a witness shares what he’s seen and heard. Jesus said, “That which I’ve heard, that which I’ve seen: that’s what I speak” (John 8:38). And He witnessed to God the Father, and then He said, "As [the] Father hath sent me, even so send I you" (John 20:21). And I want to tell you, God was pleased with Jesus, and—you listen to me—when I’m willing to be what Jesus Christ was to the Father, then Jesus Christ will be to me what God was to Him. When I am willing to be to Jesus Christ what Jesus Christ was to the Father, then Jesus Christ will be to me what God was to Him. “As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.”

That’s the point of the whole thing. And the Lord Jesus had a composure about Him. How we need to learn to witness with calmness, with reasonableness, with sensitivity and sensibleness! May God help us to learn from the master soul winner! Now Jesus had a composure about Him, and the reason that He had this composure was that He was resting in the Lord. He had nothing to prove. He knew who He was. I hope you know who you are.

V. The Compassion of the Master Soul Winner

Now the next thing I want you to notice about the model master soul winner: not only the composure, but I want you to notice His compassion. Look at it again, in verse 19: “He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets. A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench” (Matthew 12:19–20). Do you know what that speaks of? That speaks of the compassion of the Lord Jesus Christ to people who are like a bruised reed.

Have you seen a piece of grass that’s been stepped on and stepped on and stepped on, and it’s just broken, it’s bent, and it’s just about so fragile that it looks like it’s about to die, it’s about to break? There are a lot of bruised reeds around us, and “a bruised reed He will not break, and the smoking flax He will not quench.”

Have you ever seen a piece of flax or a piece of cotton, a piece of thread, perhaps, that’s been burning, maybe even the wick in a candle, and you’ve blown the candle out, and there’s just that little glow on the end of it, just a little glow and a little wisp of smoke? Do you know how you can put that out? You don’t even have to be afraid of getting your fingers hot. You just reach out and put it out—put it out.

You see, look, folks. There are people—I mean, they’re all around—they've been stepped on so many times, they’ve been battered and bruised and broken, and their spark is about to go out. One harsh word out of you, one misstep, one act of inconsiderateness, insensitivity, one display of you standing up for your rights could be the thing that could break that reed and put out that spark.
I’m so glad that the Lord Jesus was so gentle and so sensitive to people. And I would to God that I could have a broken heart, that I could learn to be sensitive. Sometimes people irritate me and they aggravate me; sometimes I have the old Adrian in me that has a tendency just to tell them where to get off. Do you ever feel that way? You make me feel bad now. You’re supposed to nod your head and say you feel that way too. And I get to thinking, “You know, I can’t do that—I can’t do that.” That’s somebody for whom Jesus died, and I don’t want to say anything, or be anything, or do anything that would keep me, if I had an opportunity, from sharing the love of God with that person. So there are times when I’m willing for a person to take advantage of me. There are times when I’m willing not to stand up for my rights or not to say that thing that I think I have the right to say, because I know that that person may have just a glimmer, just a glow, just a spark, just a thread that they are holding by.

Do you know what my prayer needs to be and your prayer needs to be? “Oh, Jesus, may the things that break your heart break my heart.” The compassion of the Savior. He’s the model soul winner. I don’t know who first said this, but it’s so true. People don’t care how much we know until they know how much we care. What this world is really looking for is love. What this world is really looking for are people who really do love, who really do care. Thank God for the compassion—the compassion, the compassion—of the Savior. God have mercy upon the coldness, the cowardliness, of our hearts. Oh, there is the compassion of the Savior!

VI. The Confidence of the Master Soul Winner

Then I want you to notice the confidence of the Savior, the master soul winner. Look at it, as we continue to read here in verse 20: “A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory. And in his name shall the Gentiles trust” (Matthew 12:20–21). Not “might” the Gentiles, but they “shall.” Jesus had the note of victory in His ministry. He is our victorious Christ. And all hell could not stop the Lord Jesus Christ, and all hell should not be able to stop us. Jesus knew victory, and He expected victory out of us.

Jesus had a confidence. Today we’d say Jesus is an optimist. You know, I like the verse that says He’s sitting on the right hand of God “expecting till his enemies be made His footstool” (Hebrews 10:12–13)—not if they might, but until they do; expecting that His enemies be made His footstool. Do you know what we need today in our churches? We need some old-fashioned confidence in our God. “Greater is he that is in [us], than he that is in the world” (1 John 4:4).

Friend, we’ve let the devil paint us into a corner, back us into a corner, chloroform and intimidate us, when we need to get militant. And it’s time for us to stop singing, “Hold the Fort,” and start singing, “Onward Christian Soldiers,” to have the confidence that our Savior had.

Listen to it again: “…till he send forth judgment unto victory. And in his name shall the Gentiles trust.” There was something about the Lord Jesus, the radiance, the love of our Savior’s faith, the life that He lived that called forth hope and trust from sin-stricken humanity. And not everybody came to Jesus, but multitudes did come to Jesus. And they will in this day and they will in this age. Not everybody that I preach to is going to be saved, but thousands have been saved. Not everybody that I’ve witnessed to is going to receive Christ, but, thank God, multiplied hundreds do receive Christ as I witness to them and as you witness to them. And I believe God will do the same thing for us that He did for the Lord Jesus and that He did for that early church.

The Bible says that Jesus had “favour with God and with man” (Luke 2:52), and the Bible says of that early church that God gave them favor with the people (Acts 2:47), and I believe that God can give us favor with the people. I believe that God can take this church, and I believe that God can give this church favor with all people. And the more favor we have with some, the more others will hate us. When you mention Bellevue, you have to duck or pucker, because they’ll want to kiss you or take a swing at you.

But I’m going to tell you this, friend: that we need to get back to some old-fashioned confidence. And don’t let the devil intimidate you and tell you that people will not—cannot—come to Jesus Christ. You were saved, weren’t you? And you know your heart. And there are a lot of other folks just like you, that, if somebody would share with them, they’d be saved just like you were saved. “He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him” (Psalm 126:6).

Now Jesus was a master soul winner. Thank God for the confidence that He had. And I want to have that kind of confidence. I want to hear the Savior say, “As the Father hath sent me, even so send I you.” I know that I’m inadequate; I know that. I know that you’re inadequate. However, the same Jesus that is described here in Matthew 12 now lives in me. Do you remember Galatians 2, verse 20? “I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me” (Galatians 2:20).

Conclusion
Now, what does that mean? It means that the Christ that is described here with His commission, with His commendation, with His composure, with His compassion, with His confidence, and all of the rest of it—that Christ now lives in me, and what I need to do is to get out of the way and let Him express His life in me and through me. Colossians 1, verses 28 and 29: “Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom; that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus: [for this] I also labour, striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily” (Colossians 1:28–29).

Listen. I was preaching the gospel I guess for at least five years out of seminary before I learned this truth; maybe not that long, but for a period of time as a seminary graduate. I had never really grasped the truth that God did not want me to do anything for Him; He wanted to do something through me. Now what I’m trying to say is this same Jesus is alive and well living in me; in His new body which is the Church. And so, as I described Him here, He can be let loose in this community through me and through you. Listen to that scripture again in Colossians chapter 1, verses 28 and 29, speaking of Jesus: “Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom; that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus: [for this] I also labour,”—seems like Paul is doing it, doesn’t it?—“striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily.” You see, I work, but He works. “The life which I now live…I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me.”

Someone wrote these words:

O for a passionate passions for souls,
O for a pity that yearns!
O for the love that loves unto death,
O for the fire that burns!
O for the pure prayer-power that prevails,
That pours itself out for the lost!
Victorious prayer in the Conqueror’s Name,
O for a PENTECOST!

—AMY WILSON CARMICHAEL

Don’t you long to see it? I mean, wouldn’t you like to see God break out, erupt, in our city with Pentecostal power? Wouldn’t you like to see souls, not by the scores, but by the hundreds—bless God, by the thousands—come to Jesus, where this preacher and this church and nobody else got the credit for it, but just a mighty sovereign move of the Spirit of God, and God’s people go out ablaze for Him to share Jesus Christ? Christ is the master soul winner, but He’s also the model soul winner. He said, “As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.”

Introduction

Take your Bibles and turn tonight to Matthew chapter 12. I have a message tonight that I trust God will use to speak to those of you who are in this building who are not saved. Whether or not you are a member of Bellevue is not the important thing. The important thing is that you know the Lord Jesus Christ. And if you’re not saved, there is a deadline in front of you. And if you cross that deadline, you will be as consigned to hell as if the doors of hell had already closed behind you.

There is a time we know not when,
A place we know not where;
Which marks the destiny of men
To glory or despair.

There is a line, by us unseen,
Which crosses every path;
Which marks the boundary between
God’s mercy and His wrath.
And my prayer tonight is that, if you’re here unsaved, you will not commit what the Bible calls an unpardonable sin, that you will not cross that line that will forever eternally damn your soul.

I. What the Unpardonable Sin Is Not

The Bible teaches there is an unpardonable sin, a sin that will not be forgiven in this age nor in the age to come. And we’re going to look at that in just a moment here in Matthew chapter 12. But before we ever open the Scripture and read the Scripture, I want to tell you what the unpardonable sin is not. For, every so often, I get a letter from someone—quite frequently, really—saying, “I believe I have committed the unpardonable sin.” And they’re worried about the fact that they may have committed the unpardonable sin. May I say up front, if you’re concerned that you have committed the unpardonable sin, you haven’t. A person who has committed the unpardonable sin would not be concerned about his or her soul.

A. It Is Not Some Moral Sin

What is the unpardonable sin? It is not some moral sin. It is not adultery. It is not fornication. It is not sodomy. It is not thievery. It is not child abuse. It is not abortion. It is not murder. All of these can be forgiven, and “the blood of Jesus Christ, God’s Son, cleanses us from all sin” (1 John 1:7). And aren’t you glad?

I heard of a boy who was dying on the battlefield. The chaplain came out and took the boy’s head and looked into those languid eyes. The chaplain knew he was dying. The chaplain said, “Son, is there something I can do for you?” And the boy said, “No sir. I need someone who can undo some things.”

Well, I want to tell you, Jesus is the One who can undo those things. Every stain, every blot, every blur, every blemish can be washed whiter than snow in the precious blood of Jesus Christ. And if tonight you think that it’s too late for you, or that you’ve sinned too much, I’ve got good news. For those sins Christ died! And anybody on the face of this earth who asks Jesus Christ to forgive his sin, those sins will be forgiven, those moral sins.

B. It Is Not Some Intellectual Sin

And the unpardonable sin is not an intellectual sin. It is not atheism. It is not some apostasy. It is not agnosticism. There are many who have been apostates, agnostics, atheists who have had their eyes opened and have come to Jesus Christ and have been saved. And tonight you may be an atheist, an agnostic. You may be listening on the radio.
May God open your eyes. If you die that way, you will go to hell. But your sin is not unpardonable.

C. It Is Not Some Verbal Sin

What is the unpardonable sin? It’s not some verbal sin. It’s not some blood-chilling oath where you take the name of the Holy Spirit and curse and swear. Many people think that the unpardonable sin is cursing, using the Holy Spirit. They say, “Well, I would not curse and put the Holy Spirit into my cursing. I’ll curse and blaspheme the name of Jesus. I’ll curse and blaspheme the name of the Almighty. But I will not curse and blaspheme the name of the Holy Spirit.” Well, if you have any brains, any moral sensibilities, you’ll not curse and use the name of God the Father, God the Son, or God the Holy Spirit. But this is not some verbal sin, something that you might say: “Oh, I said something I wish that I had never said.”

II. The Blasphemy of the Holy Spirit

To hear God’s final call is to hear the Holy Spirit of God speak to your heart and for you to deliberately, willfully, callously say no to the Holy Spirit of God. The word blaspheme in the Greek language means, “to speak insulting against someone; to defame his character or his reputation.”

Let’s look at the Scripture and see the background for this passage of Scripture and the warning. Matthew chapter 12, beginning in verse 31—Jesus Christ is speaking, and He says, “Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men:”—thank God for that, amen?— “but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come. Either make the tree good, and his fruit good; or else make the tree corrupt, and his fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by its fruit” (Matthew 12:31–33).

Now, what is all of this about? What is the blasphemy of the Holy Ghost that He’s talking about now? Well, we just need to back up and go back to verse 22 and find out the setting. Jesus had healed a man who was blind and who was dumb. And the religious leaders of that day, whose hearts were eaten up with jealousy, gave a foolish, a hurtful, a harmful, statement, and they said, “Oh, yes, He did a miracle. We can’t deny that. But He did the miracle in the power of the devil.”

Look, if you will now, in Matthew chapter 12, verse 22: “Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David?”
But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils. And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how then shall his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God,—underscore that—“then the kingdom of God is come unto you. Or else how can one enter into a strong man’s house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house. He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.” And then here comes the warning: “Wherefore”—in the light of all of this—“I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men” (Matthew 12:22–31).

Now the people that day who criticized Jesus were not just ignorant; they were unspeakably immoral. They knew that they knew what they were saying about Jesus was not true, but they said it anyway. They said, “Oh, yes, we can’t deny that this blind man can see, and this dumb man can speak, but we’re going to tell you how He did it. He’s in league with the devil. He cast out devils by the prince of devils, Beelzebub.”

Well, who was Beelzebub? The Phoenicians worshiped the god of filth. They noticed if there was some filth, some stench, some carrion, some rottenness upon the ground, if it stayed there long enough, out of that would come flies. And they said, “Well, look at that! Life comes out of filth.” And so they had a god of filth, the god of rottenness, the god of carrion, and they worshiped the god of filth. They called him Beelzebub. You can hear the sound of flies in the very name Beelzebub. And they worshiped the god of filth, because they did not know that the flies had come and put their microscopic eggs, their larva, into that filth, and that larva was hatched. They didn’t understand that. All they saw was that out of filth there came life, and so they worshiped the god of filth. To the Jews who believe in Yahweh, Jehovah, this not only was idolatry; this was unspeakable idolatry. And it was their name for the devil himself: Beelzebub.

Now I want you to see what they were saying about the Lord Jesus Christ. They said about the Lord Jesus Christ that He was casting out devils by the prince of devils, Beelzebub; that He was in league with the devil, the god of filth. They could not have said anything more wrong, more hateful, more blasphemous, than that.

III. Why Is It Called an Unpardonable Sin?

Now I want you to notice the wickedness of this sin, why it is called an unpardonable sin.
A. It Is a Sin Against Redemption

First of all, they are sinning against redemption. What had Jesus done? Jesus had opened blind eyes. Jesus had loosed a dumb tongue. Jesus had driven the devil out of a devil-possessed man. It was an act of love, an act of redemption; and they sinned against such love. The very Jesus who healed that man would have healed them. And when you deliberately turn your back upon Jesus, you are sinning against your redemption.

B. It Is a Sin Against Reason

But not only did they sin against redemption; they sinned against reason. It wasn’t reasonable. These men said that Jesus by the prince of devils cast out devils. Jesus said, “You’re not thinking straight. A house divided against itself cannot stand. How does Satan cast out Satan? It’s not reasonable” (Matthew 12:25–26). And they really knew this. You don’t get to be a Pharisee by being a fool—that is, having intellectual incapacity. They knew what they were saying was not true, that Jesus somehow is in league with the devil. But this was the worst thing they could say, because they did not want to believe on Him, they did not want to accept Him; and so they sin against reason, and they knew better. And there are some of you in this building, and some of you who are listening by radio, you sin against reason. You know better.

Have you ever thought of some of the foolish excuses that people give for not being a Christian? “There are too many hypocrites in the church.” Have you ever heard that? Well, if you haven’t, you just must have lived for a short time. Do you think that a hypocrite could keep a person away from Jesus if that person really wants to be saved? You know, sometimes people say to me, “Pastor, do you know there are hypocrites in the church?” I say, “Oh, do tell.” You think I could be a pastor for half a century and not know that? There have always been hypocrites, and there always will be till the end of time. Jesus chose twelve disciples. One of them was a hypocrite. The other eleven did not quit serving the Lord Jesus Christ.

A hypocrite is a counterfeit Christian. Men only counterfeit things that are valid and worthwhile. There’s not a great business in America today counterfeiting gum wrappers. Men do counterfeit twenty-dollar bills, and hundred-dollar bills, and so forth. Why? Because every counterfeit that you see proves the worthwhileness and the validity of the real. Don’t you let some hypocrite keep you from coming to Jesus, because, if you do, you’ll spend eternity in hell with every one of them. Oh, too many hypocrites in the church!

Have you ever heard a person say, “There’s too much to give up?” Young people, do you hear that—that if you give your heart to Christ, there’s too much to give up?
I witnessed to a man on the street. He was panhandling. He said, “I need some money for some food.” He looked like a wino to me. And I said, “Are you hungry?” I said, “Well then, we’ll go in here together and get us a hamburger.” And I brought him into the restaurant. We sat down, and I said, “Order what you want.” He ordered. I ordered. We sat there and ate. And I turned to this man, this homeless man, this man panhandling on the street, this man unshaven and dressed in rags, and I told him of the love of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ and asked him if he would like to invite Christ into his heart. You know what he told me? “Nope.” I said, “And why not?” He said, “Too much to give up.” Too much to give up! Who wouldn’t give up dirt for diamonds?

Listen, friend. The only things Jesus Christ asks anybody to give up are the things that will hurt them. “The LORD God is a sun and shield: the LORD will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly” (Psalm 84:11). To say, “I’d like to be saved, but there’s too much to give up,” would be like a man saying, “I’d like to be healed, but I hate to give up my cancer.” Anything that will hurt you or cause you to hurt somebody else, yes, the Lord will ask you to lay it aside. But every time He says that, every time He says, “Thou shalt not,” He’s saying, “Don’t hurt yourself.” And every time He says, “Thou shalt,” He’s saying, “Help yourself to happiness.”

Some people say, “Well, you know, I’m not going to get saved. I’m not going to go down there to church. My parents made me go when I was a child.” That’s so—pardon me, but—dumb. I started to use another word, but my wife says don’t use that word. It starts with s-t-u-p-i-d. So dumb! “My parents made me go when I was a child.” I bet your mama made you take a bath too, didn’t she? So now you’re a grown man, and you never take any more baths, because your mother made you take a bath?

C. It Is a Sin Against Revelation

You see, the whole thing, these people, they knew better. They sinned against redemption. Here was a loving Christ. They sinned against reason. But here’s the main thing they did. They sinned against revelation. You see, it was very evident that the Spirit of God was working in that place. Notice what the Lord Jesus Christ said here in verse 28: “But if I cast out devils”—now, watch it—“by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you” (Matthew 12:28).

Now the Holy Spirit is God’s agent to open eyes, to bring conviction, and it’s very obvious that the Spirit of God was working here. You see, that’s the reason that you can blaspheme against God the Father and be forgiven. There are some people who honestly don’t believe that there’s a God in heaven; but God will forgive them. That’s the reason you can blaspheme against God the Son and be forgiven. You may not believe that Jesus is the virgin-born Son of God. You may think a virgin birth is an impossibility. You may think that the story of Jesus is folklore and fiction and myth, and then have your eyes opened and be forgiven. But why is it here that you cannot sin against the Holy Spirit and be forgiven? Because, when you sin against the Holy Spirit, you sin against light.

You see, you can sin against love and logic, and be forgiven; but when the Holy Spirit of God speaks to you, and you willfully, deliberately say no, you have sinned against revelation. You’ve sinned against light. You cannot commit the unpardonable sin unless God has opened your eyes, unless you understand, unless God the Holy Spirit has spoken to you. And if God the Holy Spirit has spoken to you, and you say no, then you’ve committed an unpardonable sin, if you continually do that. That’s the reason there’s more danger of committing the unpardonable sin in a church than there is in a barroom; in a service like this than in a pagan Africa or somewhere like that.

You see, listen. Learn this truth, congregation. When we come to the judgment, when you come unsaved to the judgment, God is not going to judge you primarily for the sin that you have committed, but for the light you have rejected. Now I want to say that one more time just for emphasis. People are not going to be judged primarily for the sin they’ve committed, but for the light that they have rejected.

Now, jot these Scriptures down. John chapter 3, verse 19—Jesus said, “And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil” (John 3:19). Now you’re in Matthew chapter 12. Go back. Just turn left to chapter 11, and look, if you will, here in verse 20: “Then began he”—that’s Jesus—“to upbraid”—that means, “to scold”—“the cities wherein most of his mighty works were done, because they repented not: Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. But I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the day of judgment, than for you. And thou, Capernaum...”—what was Capernaum? It was Jesus’ headquarters city. It’s where Jesus had done so many miracles. It was a religious city—“And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: for if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day.” Now, listen to this: “But I say unto you, That it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee” (Matthew 11:20–24). Why? Because Capernaum had had more light. Jesus had done His miracles there.

Now the sin of sodomy is unspeakably immoral; but there is a greater sin than the sin of sodomy, and it is to sin against the light, to refuse the light, because the Holy Spirit is the One that brings light. And when you wound Him, when you misuse Him, when you abuse Him, when you blaspheme Him, then there’s no more light. And no more light means that you can’t be saved. You see, you need more than sight; you need light! Again, I want to tell you, men are not going to be judged primarily by the sin they’ve committed, but by the light that they have rejected.

IV. The Consequences of Sinning Against Light

Now, what are the consequences of sinning against light when you know the truth, when God the Holy Spirit has spoken to your heart, and you willfully and deliberately say no? I want to mention three consequences.

A. The Deceiving Power of the Unpardonable Sin

This sin, the unpardonable sin, will deceive you. Put in your margin 2 Thessalonians 2, verses 11 and 12: “And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: that they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness” (2 Thessalonians 2:11–12).

You say, “Adrian, please explain that scripture: ‘For this cause God will send them strong delusion.’ I didn’t know that God deceived people.” But, friend, that’s what black print on white paper says: “For this cause God will send them strong delusion.” Well, why would God do that? So that they might believe a lie. Well, you say, “Adrian, it’s getting worse. God sends them strong delusion that they might believe a lie. Well, why would God do that?” “That they all might be damned.” Down, down, down it goes! Delusion, believing a lie, going to hell: why? Continue to read: “Because they received not the love of the truth…but had pleasure in unrighteousness” (2 Thessalonians 2:10–12). Are you listening?

The opposite of truth is not error. The opposite of truth is sin and unrighteousness. If you’re sitting here in this building, or listening by radio, and you hear the truth, and you will not believe the truth, it is not because you cannot believe the truth; it is because there’s sin in your heart and in your life. The Bible says, “[Beware], lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief” (Hebrews 3:12). I say it again, the opposite of truth is not error, but it is unrighteousness.

Now a man, a woman, a boy, a girl may hear a preacher preach the truth, and they know that if they hear that truth, receive that truth, obey that truth, then they’re going to have to turn from their sin. There’s going to have to be a lifestyle change. So over here on this side is the truth. Over here on this side is unrighteousness. And there’s a decision that has to be made. So the person hears the truth, but he turns his back on the truth and has pleasure in unrighteousness. Now, listen. When he heads this way, God gives him a shove, because he heard the truth, he knew the truth, the Holy Spirit of God had spoken to him, and he turns and he goes away in unbelief. But unbelief is the baggage of his sin. That just comes along with it, because, when he heard the truth, he believed not the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness. Therefore, God will send him strong delusion. It is the righteous judgment of God. You cannot take the truth tonight that I’m preaching, hear it, and refuse it openly, willfully, deliberately, and just say, “Well, I’ll put that truth in my pocket and spend it some day if I wish.” No. You use it or you lose it. I’m talking now about a person who knows what they’re doing, a person who sins against light. When you sin against revelation, when you sin against light, there is going to be the deceiving power of this sin.

Sometimes you can witness to a person who’s committed the unpardonable sin, and he’ll say, “I just don’t see it.” Well, he’s not lying. He doesn’t see it. I believe a lot of people are in false cults today because they’ve been blinded by their willful sin.

B. The Deadening Power of the Unpardonable Sin

Now, not only is there the deceiving power of the unpardonable sin; there is the deadening power of the unpardonable sin. The unpardonable sin hardens the heart. That’s the reason Hebrews chapter 3, verses 7 and 8, says this: “Wherefore (as the Holy Ghost saith, To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts)” (Hebrews 3:7–8).

The Holy Spirit is speaking. He’s saying, “Listen. Don’t harden your heart. You see, when a person deliberately, willfully, knowingly says no to the Holy Spirit when the Holy Spirit is speaking, not only is he deceived; he’s deadened. His heart gets hard.

I’ve often used the illustration of an old pine stump out in the woods where somebody’s cut down a pine tree, and the sap and the resin have come out of that old stump, and there’s a forest fire, and the trees are burning, and the brush is burning. And when the fire comes to that stump, because of the resin, it burns so brightly. The fire moves on, and the old stump goes out. Now it’s blackened and charred. There may be in another year or two another fire. The underbrush has grown up again, and the fire is roaring and sweeping through the forest. If the fire is hot enough, that old stump may flicker and flame, but not nearly as bright; and then it goes out. But there will come a time, no matter how hot the fire, that old stump will never even glow, because it has been hardened. It has been charred. And while God’s revival fire may be sweeping, and others are being saved, and in the spirit like this the Spirit of God is speaking to hearts, you can sit there and not be touched, not be moved. When the fire of God’s Spirit goes, when He comes to you, it just jumps right over you, because you’ve been deceived, you’ve been deadened.

C. The Damning Power of the Unpardonable Sin

And then, you’ll be damned; you will die and go to hell. John chapter 12, verses 37 through 39: “But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him.”—that is, they had the light—“that the saying of [Isaiah] the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, Lord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed? Therefore they could not believe” (John 12:37–39). First, they would not believe. There were many miracles, but they would not believe. Therefore, they could not believe.

One of the most frightening scriptures in all of the Bible to me is found in Hebrews chapter 6, verses 4 through 6. God here is speaking of impossibility. I want you to listen to it: “For it is impossible”—now, underscore that—“for those who were once enlightened,”—underscore that—“and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,”—underscore that—“and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame” (Hebrews 6:4–6).

What does this verse say? Some people think that it talks about losing your salvation. No, it doesn’t talk about that. Salvation is not an issue here. In verse 9, the writer of Hebrews says, “But, beloved, we are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany salvation” (Hebrews 6:9). This is not something that deals with a saved person. This deals with a person, in my estimation, who has committed the unpardonable sin. He comes to a place where it is impossible—impossible—for him to repent and come back to God, because he has crucified the Son of God—and with his eyes wide open—and put him to shame. It’s a crucifixion of the Lord Jesus Christ. But, friend, they do it with their eyes wide open. They shall fall away. It’s impossible to renew them unto repentance, for “they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh.” Now Jesus had died, and has been dead for many years. But when a person is convicted by the Holy Spirit, they crucify Jesus again if they say no.

Now you remember what Jesus said to those who crucified Him the first time, what He said about them when He prayed? He said, “Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do” (Luke 23:34). He couldn’t pray that for a person who has committed the unpardonable sin, because a person who has committed the unpardonable sin knows what he’s doing. His eyes are wide open. He has been made a partaker of the Holy Ghost. He has tasted the good Word of God and the powers of the world to come. He knows, but he says no. He will not repent. And he comes to a place where it is impossible to renew him to repentance. He’s like that old stump.

Let me give you an illustration. Here’s a man who goes to Kroger’s or Schnuck’s, and back in the back they have these women back there in aprons. And they have a table out there, and they have little square pieces of cheese out there. This man is a cheese hound. And she says, “Here, try this cheese.” And he tastes that on the toothpick. He goes along with her. He tastes it. He knows that it’s good. He says, “I’ll take a pound of that.” And he goes up to the cash register, and he sees something marked there on his bill. It says twenty-seven dollars. He says, “What’s that for?” “Well, sir, that’s for the cheese.” “No, no, wait. That’s only a pound of cheese. Are you telling me twenty seven dollars for a pound of cheese?” “Sir, that’s gourmet cheese.” He says, “Put it back. I don’t want it. I am not going to pay that price for a pound of cheese.” And he walks out. It’s not that he doesn’t know what the cheese is. He has tasted it. He’s gone along with the woman who hands him the cheese. But he says, “No, I’m not going to pay that price.”

The Bible says, when a man willfully, deliberately, says no to Jesus Christ, he can cross a deadline. He can come to a place where it is impossible to renew him to repentance. I’m going to give you four terrifying verses. Jot them down. Genesis chapter 6, verse 3: “My spirit shall not always strive with man” (Genesis 6:3)—“My spirit will not always strive with man.” There comes a time when the Holy Spirit says, “That’s it! I’m not going to speak anymore. My spirit will not always strive with a man.” Don’t get the idea that you can spit in the face of Jesus Christ, trample under your feet the precious blood of Jesus Christ (Hebrews 10:29), harden your heart and go your way, and then one day just whistle, and God will come running to save you. If you ask Him to save you, He would, but you’d come to a place where you would never ask Him, because the Holy Spirit would not convict you. That’s what the old-time preachers used to say: “when the lights go out on the road to hell.”

Here’s another Scripture—Romans chapter 1, verse 24: “Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonour their own bodies between themselves” (Romans 1:24). He’s talking here of sexual sin. People may choose the sin of fornication or sodomy over against the truth of God’s Word. They make up all kinds of silly excuses. Try to re-explain the Word of God, but God just backs up, and God says, “I give them up.” Romans chapter 1, verse 26: “For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature” (Romans 1:26)—“vile affections.” They say, “This is what I want.” They choose unrighteousness. And God gives them up. Romans 1, verse 28: “And even as they did not to like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind” (Romans 1:28).

“My spirit will not always strive.” God gave them up! God gave them up! God gave them over! When God’s Holy Spirit speaks, and people willfully, deliberately, knowingly, hurtfully, hatefully, callously, say no, they blaspheme the Holy Ghost. They don’t have to say a word with their mouths. You can pray without moving your lips, and you can blaspheme without moving your lips. If the way you live were to be put into words, it would be blasphemy against God.

Years ago, I read a story—and I’ll wrap it up with this story—a true story about a preacher in Arkansas, our neighboring state, named Dr. Joe Henry Hankins. Some of you may have heard Dr. Hankins preach. He preached in Little Rock. Dr. Hankins said that he was preaching in a revival meeting one time, and God’s Spirit was moving mightily, and souls were being saved. And he said, “I looked up there in the balcony, and I saw a man, a young man. He had the hymnal in his hand as they were singing out of the hymnal the invitation hymn.” And he saw the boy close the hymnal and start this way like he was coming down out of the balcony to give his heart to Christ. But then he stepped back, and he opened the hymnal again and began to sing. A second time he closed it, and he turned like he was coming forward, but he hesitated; he stopped. He turned back and opened the hymnal again and started to sing. The third time, he closed it with a pop, laid it down; but, rather than coming forward, he walked out the back door of the balcony and out of the church.

Later on, that boy was diagnosed with a fatal illness. They told Dr. Hankins about it. And Joe Henry Hankins went to see this boy and recognized him as the same boy that had been in the balcony. And the preacher said, “Son, have they told you how sick you are?” He said, “Yes sir. You don’t need to beat around the bush. I know I’m dying.” “Well, son, I want to ask you a question. Sometime ago, when you were in church, I had my eyes on you. I thought you were under conviction. I thought you were about to come forward and give your heart to Christ. Was that true?” He said, “Yes, it was true.” He said, “As a matter of fact, when you preached, I wanted to get down there so badly I felt I could jump over the balcony railing and come down there.” “Well, son, why didn’t you come?” He said, “I thought of my favorite sin, and I knew, if I went down there, I would have to give up my sin. And I closed the book and walked out of the church.”

Dr. Hankins said, “Well, son, that was tragic you would do that. But you’re going to die now, and you can’t keep your sin anyway. Son, won’t you come to Jesus now?” That boy looked at Joe Henry Hankins and said, “Preacher, there’s something you don’t understand. When I said no to God, something died within me.” He said, “I can’t come.” Dr. Hankins wept and prayed, but the boy died, never giving his heart to Jesus Christ, because his sinned against light.

If you feel the smallest desire to come to Jesus, come! If you’re afraid that you have committed the unpardonable sin, you haven’t! Listen. “Whosoever will may come” (Revelation 22:17). Do you understand that? Anybody, anywhere, any place, who says, “I want to be saved,” the Bible says, “For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved” (Romans 10:13).
Conclusion

Now, tonight, you may not have committed the unpardonable sin, but you still may say no to Jesus. I’m going to tell you what will happen. Your heart will get harder until one day you’ll cross the deadline. Your heart will get harder. “Today, if you hear God’s voice, harden not your heart” (Hebrews 3:15; Hebrews 4:7). Those who are listening through radio, if you’re in an automobile, stop the car, pull over and pray, and ask Jesus Christ to come into your heart and save you. You may be a member of Bellevue tonight and you’re not saved. That doesn’t mean you’re a hypocrite. You may be very sincere in what you believe and do, but you know that you know that you’ve never had that real experience with God through Jesus. Don’t let the pride of being a church member keep you from coming. As a matter of fact, if you’re a church member and you come and give your heart to Christ, you know what will happen? Other church members who need to be saved will fall under conviction.
Introduction

Would you take God’s Word and turn to Matthew chapter 12, and in a moment I’m going to begin reading in verse 31.

But first, this: In Scotland, many years ago, there was a man walking on the beach. In Scotland, the tide comes in very fast and very full. On one side was the ocean. On the other side, there were towering cliffs, almost impossible to scale without a stairway or help. As this man was walking way out on the beach, because the tide had gone out, he came to a marker, a sign. That sign said, “Do not go beyond this point. If you do, you will not have sufficient time to get back before the tide comes in.”

Well, he disregarded that sign, thinking he could out-walk or outrun any tide that might come in. But then, the tide turned and began to come in and wash around his feet. He turned and made his way back toward the cliffs, but he had misjudged the distance. He had failed to heed the sign. Then, the water began to wash around his knees and his waist, and he began to struggle. And as he reached the cliff, he tried to climb up. There were those who were watching, and they tried to get to him, but they could not help him. Then, a great wave came and washed him down from the cliff. And the onlookers tragically watched him die. Tragically. Why? Because he had crossed the deadline. He had gone beyond the point of no return.

Our Lord tells us about something like that in the spiritual world. In Matthew chapter 12 and verse 31, He gives one of the most solemn warnings in all of the Bible. Here’s what he says: “Wherefore, I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven men; but the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit shall not be forgiven men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Spirit, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this age, neither in the age to come” (Matthew 12:31–32). According to these solemn words by the Lord Jesus Christ, there is a sin that, if one commits it, he will never, never, ever be forgiven.

There is a time, we know not when,
   A point we know not where,
That marks the destiny of men
   To glory or despair.

There is a line by us unseen,
   That crosses every path;
The hidden boundary between God’s patience and his wrath.
—JOSEPH ADDISON ALEXANDER

If you cross that line, you are irrevocably lost. You can never be saved: not in this world—obviously—nor in the world to come.

There is a sin that theologians have called the unpardonable sin. Now if there is a sin that is unpardonable, that can never be forgiven, indeed, we need to be apprised of it. We need to be warned. We need to be careful. I want you to listen, as we look into the Word of God, to find out, first of all, what the unpardonable sin is; secondly, what the results of committing this sin are; and, thirdly, what can we do that we may never ever commit the unpardonable sin.

I. What Is the Unpardonable Sin?
What is the unpardonable sin? Well, let me say, first of all, what it is not.

A. It Is Not a Moral Sin
It is not some moral sin. It is not, for example, adultery, or fornication, or sexual perversion, or murder, or rape, or thievery, arson, pillage—not some moral sin. All of these sins are terrible and horrible, and, unless they’re forgiven, will indeed damn the soul. But, thank God, they can be forgiven. And the Bible says, the blood of Jesus Christ, God’s Son, cleanses us from all sin (1 John 1:7). Hallelujah for that! Every stain, every blot, every blur, every blemish, that ever came across a human soul can be washed clean by the blood of Jesus Christ!

I’m told there was a soldier boy who lay dying after a horrendous battle. The chaplain came to him, picked that dying boy’s head up, and looked into those languid eyes, and said, “Son, is there anything I can do for you?” And that dying boy, who’d lived a sinful life, said, “No sir, there’s nothing you can do for me. I need somebody who can undo some things.”

Well, Jesus is the Great Undoer. He is the One whose blood washes, and cleanses, and makes whiter than snow. “Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow” (Isaiah 1:18). Thank God for that. It’s not a moral sin.

B. It Is Not an Intellectual Sin

It’s not an intellectual sin. You say, “Well, maybe the unpardonable sin is unbelief.” No, unbelief can be pardoned. Failing to believe God will not condemn you, if you will repent of it and believe. Jesus prayed for those who crucified Him: “Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do” (Luke 23:34). Some people, in ignorance, blaspheme the Lord Jesus Christ, and they say He’s not the Son of God: “He is an imposter; He was a pious fraud.” They don’t know better. Then they learn better, and get saved. The Apostle Paul was one like that. Everybody is an unbeliever before he becomes a believer. So, unbelief—though, if you persist in that unbelief, will drag you down into hell—but unbelief is not an unpardonable sin.

C. It Is Not a Verbal Sin

“Well,” somebody says, “then maybe it’s some verbal sin. Maybe it’s some horrible oath that you might say, especially if you say something about the Holy Ghost.” Some people think you can curse God the Father, and it can be forgiven; or you can curse God the Son, and it can be forgiven; but don’t curse God the Spirit. Well, friend, if you have a modicum, one scintilla of an iota, of sense, don’t curse God the Father, Son, or the Holy Spirit. To curse one is to curse the other, because they are one in three. The Bible says, “The LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain” (Exodus 20:7). And if you take the name of God the Father, Son, or Holy Spirit, and mix it in the slime and muck of the sewer, and take it upon your lips in some vile oath, you have committed a horrible and egregious sin. You’ll face that sin at the judgment, unless it’s forgiven. But it can be forgiven.
D. It Is the Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost

What is the unpardonable sin? Our Lord calls it the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost. Look at it here again. He says here, in verse 31, “Wherefore, I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven men; but the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit shall not be forgiven men” (Matthew 12:31). To blaspheme means, “to willfully speak hurtfully against someone, to defame one’s character, reputation and his intentions.” That is blasphemy.

Now you can blaspheme God the Father and be forgiven. You can blaspheme God the Son and be forgiven. But you can’t blaspheme the Holy Spirit and be forgiven. Why is that? Is one more important than the other? Of course not! But it is the duty and the office work of the Holy Spirit that makes the sin different.

What does the Holy Spirit do? The Holy Spirit of God is the One who opens your understanding. The Holy Spirit of God is the One who gives light. God the Father sent the Son. The Son, the Lord Jesus, came willingly and died in agony and blood for our sins. But God the Holy Spirit is the One who helps you to understand that. That’s the reason that, when I pray as I did this morning on my knees in my office before I came out here, I said, “Oh, God, give me power, give me unction, give me the ability to make the message clear and plain; because I cannot do it by myself.”

I’ve told you so many times, “Anything I can talk you into somebody else can talk you out of.” You need what the Holy Spirit of God can do. You need the Holy Spirit of God to speak to you. And so my prayer is that it will be fulfilled in the Word of the Scripture: “And we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the Holy Spirit, whom God hath given to them that obey him” (Acts 5:32). My prayer is that when I preach to you, the Holy Spirit will be saying to your heart, “Amen, that’s right; what he’s saying is true.” The Holy Spirit is the One who opens the understanding. The Holy Spirit is the One who gives light. The Holy Spirit is the One who reveals truth. So, when the Holy Spirit is working, then you can no longer plead ignorance. When the Holy Spirit is working, there is light. And where there is light, there is responsibility.

Listen carefully. When the judgment comes, the judgment is not primarily sin committed; it is light rejected. It is light rejected. God will judge you, not primarily for the sin that you’ve committed—although you deserve to be judged for that—but the judgment is, first and foremost, a judgment, because you sinned against the light. John 3:19: “And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.”

II. The Sin of the Pharisees

I think I can illustrate it if I give you an episode that happened just before Jesus gave this solemn warning. Look, if you will, in chapter 12, verse 22. Then you’re going to get some idea of the setting that caused the Lord Jesus Christ to give this warning. “Then was brought unto him one possessed with a demon, blind and dumb:”—obviously, not every blind person has a demon, and not every speechless person has a demon. But this man did. He was possessed with a demon. He was blind and dumb—“and [Jesus] healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spoke and saw. And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David?” And when they said the word or the phrase, Son of David, they meant, “Is this not the Messiah, David’s greater Son?”—“But when the Pharisees heard it…”—now, who were the Pharisees? The Pharisees were the religious leaders of that day, full of pomposity and pride. The Pharisees were those religious leaders who cared for form and not substance. They had a form of godliness; they denied the power thereof (2 Timothy 3:5). And in them the milk of human kindness had curdled—“But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out demons, but by Beelzebub, the prince of the demons. And Jesus knew their thoughts…”—underscore that. And may I say that Jesus Christ knows your thoughts—“And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand. And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I, by Beelzebub, cast out demons, by whom do your sons cast them out? Therefore, they shall be your judges. But if I cast out demons”—now, watch it—“by the Spirit of God…”—underscore that—“by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you. Or else how can one enter into a strong man’s house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? And then he will spoil his house. He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.” That brings us back to our text: “Wherefore, I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven men; but the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit shall not be forgiven men” (Matthew 12:22–31).

Here’s a man. He’s blind. He’s dumb. He’s demon-possessed. They bring him to Jesus Christ. And Jesus, with the anointing of the Holy Spirit of God upon his life, performs a miracle. It was an obvious miracle. I mean, he was a blind man—and now he sees. Here is a man who cannot speak—and now he is speaking. There is no way to deny it. And so the Pharisees were there, and they saw the crowds turning to Jesus. They were listening to the Holy Spirit of God. And they said, “Is this not the son of David? Is this not the Messiah?” And they saw the crowds leaving them and beginning to follow the Lord Jesus Christ because of this miracle that had been done by the Spirit of God. They couldn’t deny it, so they tried to explain it away.

So here’s what they said: “Oh, yes, sure. Surely. Yes. Why, He cast the devils out of this man, the demons out of this man. Why, surely He did that. But, ladies and gentlemen, listen to us. We'll tell you how He did it. He did it by Beelzebub, the prince of the devils.” What they were saying was: Jesus Himself was demon-possessed; Jesus was full of the devil. And when they said this, when they said He cast out devils by Beelzebub, the prince of the devils, that was the vilest thing they could possibly say.

Who was Beelzebub? Let me tell you who Beelzebub was. The Phoenicians, who gave us the alphabet, a seafaring people, a very intelligent people in many ways, had reached the very bottom of the garbage pail, so far as depravity and idolatry is concerned. The Phoenicians had a god they called Beelzebub, and he was the god of filth, the god of putrefaction, the god of decay and muck and slime and garbage. You say, “Well, why would anybody worship a god like that?” Well, the Phoenicians, a very observant people, would notice that, when there was a carcass of an animal on the ground and after a while it became bloated and began to stink and decay, then, ipso facto, it seemed to them, miraculously, there would be little white worms that would begin to work in that filth. Well, you know what it was: maggots, the larvae of flies. The flies had come, and would light upon that, and would lay their microscopic eggs. And those eggs would hatch, and the larvae—the maggots—would work there, and after a while, there would be flies. And the Phoenicians said, “Look at that! Out of rotteness, out of stench, out of filth, there comes life! So life comes out of filth!”

And so they began to worship the god of filth. And the name they gave him was Beelzebub, the lord of the flies. And that’s what they worshiped. To a Jew—and rightly so—that was the worst thing they could think of. How stupid! How ungodly to worship filth! Now you know what they did when they said this to Jesus. I mean, they went through the lexicon of their vocabulary to get the worst thing they could possibly get. They said, “That’s who He is: He casts out devils by the prince of devils, Beelzebub.” And when they said that, that’s when Jesus gave the warning about the unpardonable sin.

A. They Sinned Against Redemption

Now, you see, what did they do? Well, in the first place, they sinned against redemption and love. I mean, what was the Lord Jesus Christ doing, anyway? Why did they hate Him? Why did they oppose Him? What was He doing? Opening blind eyes, loosing dumb tongues. What was Jesus doing? The Bible says He “went about doing good” (Acts 10:38). Tell me, why would anyone not love Jesus? Why? How good He is! How wonderful He is! How kind and loving is the Lord Jesus Christ! But they turned their back on such love and such redemption.
B. They Sinned Against Reason

But not only did they sin against redemption. They sinned against reason. They said, “He cast out devils by the devil.” Jesus, knowing you don’t get to be a Pharisee by being stupid—these were people who were educated, these were the equivalent of the Ph.D.s of our day—and Jesus said, “You say that I have cast out devils by the prince of devils.” Jesus said, “A house divided against itself cannot stand” (Matthew 12:25). How can Satan cast out Satan? Nobody works for Satan by working against Satan. If Satan cast out Satan, his house comes tumbling down. He’s working against Himself. Jesus is saying, “What you are saying doesn’t make sense.” Nobody works for Satan by lifting drooping spirits and healing broken hearts, redeeming men from sin. It was so obvious Jesus was not in collusion with the devil. And they could see that, except for the fact that sin had caused them to put out their eyes. There are none so blind as those who refuse to see. But you’d have to be a Baptist preacher—or maybe not—to know that there are plenty of people just like these Pharisees who are alive today.

Some may be listening to me by radio or television, or maybe you’re here today, and you sin against reason. You know better, but yet you refuse the Lord Jesus Christ. And you give some silly reason that wouldn’t stand up in any other place. You say, “Well, I don’t want to be a Christian, because there are so many hypocrites in the church.”

Well, you know, that doesn’t make sense. You know, there are hypocrites in every area of life. Some lawyers are shysters. Some doctors are quacks. But you go to lawyers and doctors if you need one. Some money is counterfeit. But you haven’t thrown away all of yours. Some food is poison. But you still eat. I mean, you know better than that. You know that every hypocrite only proves the worth and validity of the real. A hypocrite is a counterfeit Christian. People don’t counterfeit gum wrappers. They counterfeit twenty-dollar bills. Why? Because it is the counterfeit that proves the worth and the validity of the real.

You know that, but your mind gives some silly reason: “Well, I don’t go to church, because my mama made me go when I was a little boy.” Oh? I bet you she made you take baths too. So now you’ve stopped taking baths—haven’t you?—because your mama made you take a bath when you were a little boy. What I’m trying to say is, “Pardon me, but the excuse you give is stupid”—stupid. What they said to Jesus was stupid: that He, Satan, cast out Satan. And Jesus pointed that out to them. A person says, “Well, I’m not going to be a Christian, because there’s so much to give up.” Oh? Well, what has God asked you to give up? Only that which will hurt you. “For the LORD God is a sun and shield; the Lord will give grace and glory. No good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly” (Psalm 84:11). That would be like saying, “I’d like to get healed, but I hate giving up my cancer.” All that God asks you to give up is that which harms you and hurts you. God loves you.

C. They Sinned Against Revelation

People give silly reasons. They sinned against redemption. He was infinite love. They sinned against reason. What they did, did not make sense. You could sin against redemption, and sin against reason, and be forgiven. But here’s where they made their big mistake: they sinned against revelation—they sinned against revelation. They knew better. Jesus said that, “the kingdom of God is come unto you” (Matthew 12:28). He was the King. He was in their midst. Not only was He performing miracles, but the Holy Spirit of God was speaking to their hearts—and they sinned against the light. “And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil” (John 3:19). When God comes to judge Memphis, Tennessee, God is not going to judge Memphis, Tennessee, primarily because of the sins of Memphis, Tennessee, but because of the light that was rejected.

You’re in Matthew 12. Go back to Matthew 11. Just look, if you will, in Matthew 11—look in verse 23: “And thou, Capernaum…”—have you ever been to Capernaum? Well, you may have been to the ruins of Capernaum, because Capernaum has never been rebuilt. But Capernaum was Jesus’ headquarters city. Capernaum was the buckle on the Bible belt. Capernaum was the place where Jesus had done his most notable miracles. Capernaum was where Jesus began his public ministry. Capernaum was a beautifully situated city. It had a wonderful synagogue there, and Jesus speaks to Capernaum—“And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hades; for if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sodom…”—you know what Sodom was? Sodom was that city down by the Dead Sea from which we get the name for one of the most terrible sins known to man: sodomy. A vile, wicked city. God destroyed Sodom with fire and brimstone. And Sodom’s smoking ruins are an eternal testimony as to how He feels about that sin. But He says to Capernaum, this headquarter city, this buckle on the Bible belt where He did his miracles—“Capernaum… if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. But I say unto you,”—listen—“that it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee” (Matthew 11:23–24).

How does God judge in the Day of Judgment? Not primarily by the sin committed, but by the light rejected. Sodom, like this city, had so much light, had heard so much truth; but they sinned against the light, they put out their own eyes; and when they did, they blasphemed the Holy Spirit who is the messenger of light, who is the One who opens eyes spiritually that people might see.
III. The Consequences of Crossing the Deadline

Now, what happens when a person commits this sin? What are the consequences of crossing the deadline, of saying no to God until the Holy Spirit of God is so insulted, so wounded, that He ceases to strive and speak to a human heart?

A. You Are Deceived

Well, first of all, you’re deceived. The unpardonable sin has great deceptive power. One of the most terrifying passages is one that is linked with this passage, 2 Thessalonians 2, verses 11 and 12. Listen to it: “And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion...”—“Wait a minute, pastor. Reread that. You read it wrong. It’s the devil that deludes people, not God.” No, I read it right. I read it right. You read it right—“for this cause God shall send them strong delusion,”—well, why would God do this?—“that they should believe [the] lie...”—“Well, wait a minute. God doesn’t want people to believe a lie. That’s Satan. He wants people to believe the truth. That’s Jesus.” But according to this scripture, there is a cause that caused God to send delusion. Why?—“that they should believe [the] lie:”—well, let’s continue to read, and it gets worse—“that they all might be damned”—or judged—“who believed not the truth...”—God sends delusion, that they should believe a lie, that they all might be damned. Why? Well, look—“who believed not the truth...”—it isn’t that they didn’t hear the truth. They refused the truth. They—“believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness” (2 Thessalonians 2:11–12).

Now, listen very carefully. In this passage of Scripture, the opposite of truth is not error; it is unrighteousness. You see, so many times people think that the choice is between truth and error. It is not. There are people here today who are convinced that what I say is true, but yet they will not yield their heart to Jesus Christ. Do you know why? Because of unrighteousness. It is not that they don’t believe. It is that they will not yield to what they believe. They hear the truth, but they believe not the truth. And why do they believe not the truth? Because they have pleasure in unrighteousness.

So they’re faced with a choice. If I receive the truth, that means that I’m going to have to change my lifestyle, because the truth has certain demands upon it. Truth is not merely interesting; it is disturbing. When you hear the truth and obey the truth, it changes your life. So a man says, “If I obey the truth, then I’m going to have to leave my unrighteousness. Here’s truth; here’s sin. I choose my sin.” And when he does that, he sins against the light, and he does something very terrible, something very horrible: he has pleasure in unrighteousness.

Let me see if I can illustrate it for you. Here’s a man who comes to church on a Sunday morning. Now the pastor probably does not preach enough on tithing, but he knows he ought to preach tithing, because he’s got to preach the whole counsel of God. And so upon a Sunday, this man, who’s an unsaved man, visits church. And there’s the pastor, and he preaches on tithing. That man begins to mutter and fume. And he says to himself, “Money, money, money! That’s all they ever talk about down there is money! They’re just trying to get your money down there at that church!” This man, he has a god. His god is gold; his creed is greed; and his motto is: “Get all you can, and can all you get; sit on the lid, and poison the rest.” So when the preacher begins to talk about giving, he touches this man’s god. This man begins to fume and say, “I’m not coming back”—oh, I forgot to tell you. He was there a year ago when the preacher preached on tithing. And the devil said, “Now it’s time for you to come back. He’s going to preach it again a year later.” Now he knows better. He never stops to ask, “Is this true?” He never stops to ask, “Is the preacher preaching the Word of God?” He never stops to ask the whole thing. No. He doesn’t want to know. And so he’s faced with truth and unrighteousness, which is in this place, greed. So he stomps out, muttering that he will never be back again.

A few months later he’s sitting at home on Sunday morning. The wife and children have gone to church. He’s sitting there reading the sports page, got a six-pack of embalming fluid by his side, and he’s sitting there when somebody comes and knocks on the door. It’s two of Jehovah’s False Witnesses. They say, “We are here to tell you there is no hell.” He says, “Come in, come in.” He listens, and he believes a lie. You say, “Well, he was sincere.” He was sincerely wrong, and he has delusion, that he would believe a lie, that he might be damned. Why? Because he never heard the truth? No. Because he heard the truth, and chose his rotten sin over the truth.

“And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe [the] lie” (2 Thessalonians 2:11). I’m convinced that many who are in New Age cults today, many people who are in all of these kind of weird, bizarre beliefs, are there because, when they heard truth, they refused truth. They had pleasure in their sin, they followed their sin; and the baggage of their sin is their delusion and the lies. But it’s the sin itself that causes them to carry that baggage. They sin against the light. When a man does that, he crosses the deadline and can never ever be saved.

Where is that point? Where is that point where a man crosses the deadline? I don’t know. But in front of every unsaved man there is a point of no return. And if you feel any desire to come to Jesus Christ, you ought to do it. You say, “Pastor, I would think that if a person committed the unpardonable sin, they would be tormented day and night.” No, you’re wrong. He’ll be in perfect calmness. He won’t worry about it at all. If you’re worried that you’ve committed the unpardonable sin, thank God, you haven’t. If you want to be saved, you can be saved. “Pastor, I think I’ve committed the unpardonable sin. Is there hope for me?” Absolutely! If you want to be saved, come. Whosoever will may come. When you commit the unpardonable sin, no longer will you will to will, because it’s the Holy Spirit of God that works in you to draw you to Jesus Christ. If you have a desire to come to Jesus, come today; and I promise you, on the authority of the Word of God, that He’ll save you.

Introduction

Now as the choir is finding their place, would you open your Bibles and find your place in the Word of God, in Matthew chapter 12, and in a moment we’re going to begin reading in verse 31. Wasn’t that a great song? “Amazing Grace.” And thank God for that amazing grace. As a man from the country said, “If that doesn’t light your fire, your wood is wet.” What a joy to think of God’s amazing, incredible, indescribable grace and love that He’s poured out on each of us! But the sad, sad, sad truth is that many in this building are not going to get into the grace of God unless they turn from their sin and receive Jesus Christ as their personal Lord and Savior.

And many are very close to a deadline. And if they cross that deadline, they will have committed an unpardonable sin, and they will be just as bound, just as destined for hell in this life before they die, with no chance whatsoever of redemption, just as much bound for hell as if the iron gates of hell had already closed shut behind them. They will have crossed the deadline. They will have committed an unpardonable sin.
There is a time we know not when,
A place we know not where;
Which marks the destiny of men
To glory or despair.

There is a line, by us unseen,
Which crosses every path;
Which marks the boundary between
God’s mercy and His wrath.

—JOSEPH ADDISON ALEXANDER

And if you step over that deadline, you will have committed an unpardonable sin.

I. What Is the Unpardonable Sin?

Now, what is the unpardonable sin?

A. It Is Not Some Moral Sin

It is not some moral sin. It is not rape. It is not murder. It is not child molestation—bad as those are; horrible, wicked, as those are. Anyone who’s done that can still be saved. Do you believe that? I believe that. They can be saved by the grace of Almighty God. Every blur, every blot, every blemish, every stain that has ever come across some human soul, the blood of Jesus Christ, God’s Son, cleanses from all sin. It’s not some moral sin.

B. It Is Not Some Intellectual Sin

It’s not some intellectual sin. A person may be an atheist, an agnostic, a God-hater. He may have declared there is no God. He may have said that Jesus Christ is the illegitimate son of Mary born of some foreign soldier. But, no: that sin can be forgiven. Many, who have been atheists, who have been blasphemous, have repented of that sin and come to the Lord Jesus Christ.

C. It Is Not Some Verbal Sin

Somebody says, “Well, it’s some word that you say, then. It’s a verbal sin, some blood-curdling oath, where a person curses God to His face.” Don’t do that if you have one modicum of intelligence. But even that sin can be forgiven. God forgives blasphemy, if you blaspheme God the Father and blaspheme God the Son. As a matter of fact, you can commit the unpardonable sin without saying a word.

Now the word blaspheme means, “to speak hurtfully against.” But, you see, we can speak to God in prayer without saying words, and we can blaspheme God by not saying words. “For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh” (Matthew 12:34). One may so live that if his life were translated into words it would be blasphemous.

D. It Is the Blasphemy of the Holy Spirit

What is the blasphemy of the Holy Spirit? That’s the unpardonable sin. And we’re going to see in a moment that it is attributing to the devil the work of the Spirit of Almighty God. Now this sin, the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, the sin that can never, never, never, never, never be forgiven, is a sin that one may commit, and will commit knowingly, willfully, with his eyes wide open, and then forever shut.

Let’s look at the background for the warning that Jesus Christ has given—Matthew chapter 12. As we look at this passage of Scripture, I believe it will become much more clear to us. Matthew chapter 12, verse 22: “Then was brought unto him”—now the him here is the Lord Jesus—“one possessed with a devil,”—that’s what the King James says. That may be translated, “demon”—“blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw.” A man that could not see, and a man that could not speak, now is able to speak, and he’s able to see. “All the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David?” That is, “Jesus: is He not the son of David?” “The son of David” means, “Is He not the Messiah?” “But when the Pharisees heard it…”—now the Pharisees were the religious leaders of that day. They were very religious, but in the Pharisees the milk of human kindness had curdled. They hated Christ and His ministry—“when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast our devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils. And Jesus knew their thoughts…”—that’s the reason I said you can blaspheme in your mind—“And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God,”—underscore the phrase, “Spirit of God”—“then the kingdom of God is come unto you. Or else how can one enter into a strong man’s house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house. He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.” Now, notice the wherefore in verse 31: “Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man,”—that’s the phrase that Jesus used for Himself—“it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come”
(Matthew 12:22–32)—not in this age, or in the age to come.

Now I want you to notice the story. Jesus is in His public ministry. There comes a man who is afflicted with a demon. It is a demon of blindness and a demon of dumbness. Dumbness means, “the inability to speak and to articulate.” Not all people who are blind are demon-possessed. Not all people who are dumb are demon-possessed. But this man was. And this was his problem. He was bound with this spirit. When Jesus saw this man, Jesus supernaturally, miraculously, wondrously healed him. His eyes were opened. He could speak. People standing around said, “Look. This is the son of David. This is the Messiah.”

Now the Pharisees saw their own power and their own influence now slipping away and going to Jesus. They could not deny the miracle, because it was obvious. Everybody knew him. Before, he couldn’t see; and now he can see. Before, the man could not speak; and now he can speak. So, since they cannot deny the miracle, they determine to explain it away. Here’s what they said: “Oh, yes, sure. Yes, He performed a miracle. But let us tell you how He did it. He did it in the power of Satan. In the power of Satan He did this—by Beelzebub.”

And when they said “Beelzebub,” that was the most diabolical, wicked, dirty, lasciviously hateful thing they could possibly have said. For who was Beelzebub? Well, he was the Phoenician god. Well, who were the Phoenicians? They were a wayfaring people, and they were very intelligent people. They were the ones who gave us the first alphabet, we believe. But they were very superstitious, and they worshiped a god of filth, a god of dirt, a god of putrefaction, the god of carrion and feces. They worshiped that god. Well, why would they worship a god like that? Because they had noticed that when on the ground there would be some rottenness, some stench, some putrefaction, before long, there'd be little white worms in it. Now you know what they were: they were maggots. And the flies had laid their microscopic eggs that nobody could see. And the Phoenicians looked at that, and they said, “Look at that! Out of filth and dirt and putrefaction and stench, there comes life. So this is some sort of a god.” And they named their god Beelzebub. You can hear kind of the sound of flies: Beelzebub—bzzzzzz. That was their god: the lord of the flies, the god of filth. And they had the unmitigated gall, the audacity, to say, “Yes, He’s casting out devils, but He’s doing it by the god of filth—by the god of filth.” That’s what they said about the Lord Jesus. And it was then that Jesus gave the teaching that He gave to show the great wickedness of their sin.

Now it was sort of a threefold sin, and I want you to notice it, because it builds to a climax.
1. A Sin Against Redemption

First of all, they sinned against redemption—they sinned against redemption. Here was Jesus working against the devil. Here was Jesus taking a man who’d been afflicted by demons and delivering him. Here was redeeming love. Here Jesus is opening blinded eyes. Here Jesus is loosing dumb tongues. His great love and His great mastery over Satan is being poured out. Redeeming love. Now the sad thing is this: that the same hands that blessed that demon-possessed man would have blessed any of those Pharisees. The same love that delivered that man would have delivered them. Jesus came “to seek and to save that which was lost” (Luke 19:10). And they sinned against redemption. They sinned against redeeming love. They sinned against our Redeemer. And how did they do later on? They were the ones who slap the face of Jesus Christ. They were the ones who, along with others, plucked the beard from His face. They are the ones who helped to crucify Jesus and cried out for His blood. They sinned against redemption.

Now, friend, if you don’t give your heart to Jesus Christ, may I tell you, you are sinning against redemption. You’re sinning against the One who loves you and wants to save you; but you’re trampling beneath your feet the precious blood of Jesus Christ (Hebrews 10:29), and you are crucifying Him afresh (Hebrews 6:6).

2. A Sin Against Reason

But not only did they sin against redemption; secondly, I want you to notice, they sinned against reason. They knew better. Look, if you will, in verse 24: “But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils. And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast our Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand?” (Matthew 12:24–26).

Now, what is Jesus saying? Jesus is saying, “What you are saying doesn’t make sense. You’re saying that I, by Satan, am casting out Satan.” Jesus said, “Common sense tells you that is not true. A house divided against itself cannot stand. How does Satan cast out Satan?” Jesus is saying, “I am not in collusion with the devil; I am in collision with the devil. Nobody works for the devil by casting out demons, and opening blind eyes, and loosing dumb tongues, and giving peace and joy. The thief comes but to steal and to kill and to destroy.” Jesus said, “I have come that they might have life, and have it abundantly” (John 10:10).

Now the thing is this. They knew better. You don’t get to be a Pharisee by being stupid. These men were intellectuals, but they crucified their reason in order to crucify Jesus Christ. They sinned not only against redemption; they sinned against reason.
Now I’m speaking to some here today—you may be a banker or lawyer; you may be a professor; you may be an entrepreneurial businessman or woman—but yet you’re going to crucify your reason and say no to Jesus Christ. I’ve been a pastor too long not to understand this: that there are many who trample reason to death in order to have their own way.

For example, have you ever heard anybody say, “I’m not a Christian because there are hypocrites in the church.” If you’ve ever heard that, let me see your hand. Hold your hand up. That’s a majority—that’s a majority. We’ve all heard that. Now that’s a sin against reason. Anybody with a modicum of intelligence knows that is not reasonable. There may be some Christians who are hypocrites. Judas was a hypocrite. Sometimes people tell me, “Pastor, did you know there are hypocrites in the church?” Oh, no! Man, don’t tell me that. Do you think I could be a pastor for these years and not know that? Of course there are hypocrites in the church! But be reasonable.

Some doctors are quacks. But if you get sick, you still seek a doctor. Some lawyers may be shysters. But if you need legal advice, you’ll find a lawyer. Some eggs may be rotten, but you probably had some for breakfast this morning—not the rotten kind. Some money may be counterfeit. If you saw a counterfeit bill, would you burn all the rest of your money? You say, “I just don’t believe in hypocrite bills.” You say, “I’m going to get rid of my money.” You know better than that. It is the hypocrite that proves the worthwhileness and the validity of the real. Why do men counterfeit fifty-dollar bills? Because of the worth of fifty-dollar bills. Every counterfeit is a testimony to the validity and the worthwhileness of the real. Men don’t counterfeit gum wrappers. Think about it. No, you know better.

When you say that the church is full of hypocrites, I’m going to tell you, my friend, that you know better. I’ve been preaching long enough to know the best people on the face of God’s green earth meet on Sunday morning to give Him glory and praise. And I thank God for the company I’m in today. And I’m not going to let some hypocrite keep me out of heaven, where I’ll spend eternity with them in hell. They sinned against reason.

Have you ever heard anybody say something like this: “Well, I’m just not going to go down to that church. When I was a kid, my mother made me go every Sunday. I’ve just had enough of it. I’m not going down there”? I wonder if your mother made you take a bath when you were a little boy now you don’t take a bath anymore. “My mama made me take baths when I was a little boy, and now I’m not going to take a bath anymore.” You know better than that kind of stuff: the silly reasons that people give for not coming to Jesus. “Well, I don’t want to be a Christian. There’s just so much to give up.” Oh, what is God asking you to give up? The only thing God Almighty asks you to give up is anything that would harm you or hurt you. The LORD God is a sun and shield…no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly” (Psalm 84:11). It just doesn’t make sense. It would be like saying, “Well, I’d like to be healed, but I hate to give up my cancer.” Think about it.

What is God asking you to give up but that which would harm you or hurt you, and steal from you the fulfillment that He wants you to have? No, what was wrong with these people is that they sinned not only against redemption, a Lord who wanted to love them, but they were sinning against reason. Isaiah 1, verse 18, says, “Come now, and let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool” (Isaiah 1:18). But sinning against redemption, and sinning against reason, is not the unpardonable sin. It only sets the stage for it.

3. A Sin Against Revelation

Now, let me tighten the focus a little bit. Not only did they sin against redemption, and not only did they sin against reason; but, friend, they sinned against revelation—they sinned against revelation. There is the problem. Look, if you will, in verse 28 of this same chapter, and see what the Lord Jesus said: “But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God,”—underscore that—“then the kingdom of God is come unto you” (Matthew 12:28).

There was the king standing in their midst, Jesus Christ; and there was the Holy Spirit of God working through Him and testifying by those very works that He was indeed the Son of God. The Spirit of God was in action in that episode. And their real struggle was with the Holy Spirit. Jesus did what He did by the Spirit of God. You know, a man may blaspheme God the Father, and he could say, “There is no God.” He may blaspheme Jesus Christ, and say, “He’s a false prophet or a fictitious person.” But, oh, when the Holy Spirit of God comes, He demolishes those things.

The Holy Spirit of God pulls away the veil of darkness. The Holy Spirit of God, that opened that blind man’s eyes, opens the eyes of the spirit, so that people can see, so that they can understand. And here what these were doing is this: they were sinning against light. They were not sinning against ignorance; they were sinning against light. When Jesus was on the cross, He could say to those who were crucifying Him, “Father, forgive them. They don’t know what they are doing” (Luke 23:34). But these men knew what they were doing.

You see, the ministry of the Father is to rule the universe. The ministry of the Son, in conjunction with the Father, is to save. But the ministry of the Holy Spirit is to open our eyes to give light, to help us to understand. That’s the reason, before I preach, and even this morning before I preached, I got on my knees and said, “Oh, Holy Spirit of God, open eyes. Help people to understand. Help them to know today,” because it’s the Holy Spirit that opens understanding. And when men and women stand before God to be judged, they’re not going to be judged primarily by the sin they committed—listen—but by the light they rejected. It’s very important you understand this.

You’re in Matthew 12. Go back to Matthew 11, and look, if you will, beginning around verse 23. Jesus is speaking about Capernaum. Capernaum was His headquarters city. That’s the city where Jesus preached and taught and performed many miracles. Now, listen to what Jesus said to Capernaum: “And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: for if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day.” Sodom was perhaps the most wicked—morally wicked—city upon the face of the earth. And then Jesus says, in verse 24, “But I say unto you, That it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee” (Matthew 11:23–24). Here was one city, beautifully situated—I’ve been to the ruins of Capernaum many times, sitting there by the beautiful Sea of Galilee where Jesus walked in their midst, talked, preached, loved, did miracles—over here is Sodom, down by the Dead Sea, living in unspeakable immorality; but Jesus said, “At the judgment it will be better for Sodom than it would be for Capernaum.” Why? Because Capernaum had so much light. And at the judgment men are judged, not primarily by the sin they have committed, but by the light they have rejected. I’m telling you, if you went to hell, it would be better for you to go to hell from Sodom than from Memphis, Tennessee, because the gospel of Jesus Christ is preached in this place, and in this city, not only by this particular preacher, but by other preachers.

What is the judgment that comes into the world? John 3, verse 19: “And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil” (John 3:19).

II. What Are the Consequences of the Unpardonable Sin?

What is the unpardonable sin? It is the sin against light. It is attributing to Satan the work of the Holy Spirit when one knows better. And what are the consequences of this sin? Why did Jesus say this sin is an unpardonable sin?

A. The Deceiving Power of This Sin

Well, there’s the deceiving power of this sin. A person who commits this sin opens himself up to deception. One of the most terrifying verses in all of the Bible is found in 2 Thessalonians the second chapter, beginning in verse 11: “And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion…”—“wait a minute, Adrian. Read it right. You didn’t read it right. God doesn’t send people delusion; the devil does that.” No, I’m reading it right—
“For this cause God shall send them strong delusion,”—well, why would God do that?—
“that they should believe a lie”:—wait: it’s getting worse. God is sending delusion that people would believe a lie? That’s what it says. Well, why would God send delusion that they might believe a lie? Well, let’s continue to read—“that they all might be damned”— we’re sinking fast, aren’t we? God is sending people delusion, that they would believe a lie, that they all might be damned. Why? I’ll tell you why. He goes on to say—“who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness” (2 Thessalonians 2:11–12).
They had the truth. They wouldn’t believe the truth. Why would they not believe the truth? Did they have intellectual problems? No. They believed not the truth because they “had pleasure in unrighteousness.”

Now, look up here and let me tell you something. In this passage, the opposite of truth is not error. The opposite of truth is sin. They “believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.” They wanted their sin. And so when they say, “I don’t want the truth,” there is the light: God speaks to them; they have the truth; they believe not the truth. It’s not that they’ve never heard the truth. They “believed not the truth.”
Why? Intellectual problems? No. Moral problems. They “had pleasure in unrighteousness,” and “for this cause God shall send them strong delusion.” They cannot have their sin and have God’s truth at the same time.

You see, when you hear truth, you don’t just say, “How interesting! I’ll put that in my pocket and spend it if I ever need it, but in the meanwhile I’m going to live it up in sin.”
No, no! When you choose sin, the baggage that comes with that sin is error, and God will send you strong delusion: when you have seen, when you have known, when you understand, and you willfully sin against the light.

Let me give you an example how that works. I’m preaching here at Bellevue Baptist Church, and a man decides, for whatever reason, he’s going to come to Bellevue.
Maybe his wife has begged him. Maybe he comes that one Sunday when I preach on stewardship and giving. Now my deacons and others tell me, “You don’t preach on that enough, pastor.” But suppose I’m just preaching a sermon on stewardship, that Christ is the Lord of all, that men ought to give. I hope you agree with that, that he who owns the sheep owns the wool. Isn’t that correct? And He owns us. And so I might be preaching on that. Now that man comes, and he’s sitting over there somewhere. His head is down like this, and he begins to mutter to himself, and he says, “Money, money, money!
That’s all that bunch of money-grubbing Baptists and Baptist preachers preach about! I knew I shouldn’t have come here! All they want to do is just fleece me! I can hardly wait to get out of here! All they’re interested in is my money!”

Well, number one, that’s a lie. That’s not true; that’s a lie. And in his heart he really knows it—he knows it. But, you see, this man has an idol in his heart. Do you know what his idol is? Money. His god is gold, his creed is greed, and his motto is “get all you can, can all you get, sit on the lid, and poison the rest.” I mean, this man has an idol in his heart, and so he attributes to what the preacher might do that day when he’s preaching what the Bible has to say about stewardship, he attributes that to the work of the devil. He turns around and walks out, and says, “I’ll never be back.”

So his wife and kids are down here one Sunday, and he’s sitting at home, reading the sports page. He’s got whiskers grown out. He hasn’t shaved yet. He’s got a carton of cancer on one side and a six-pack of embalming fluid on the other side, sitting there smoking and drinking, watching the sports. Somebody comes and knocks at his door. Who could that be? He goes to the door and opens it. Guess who’s there? Two of Jehovah’s false witnesses. And so after a little talk, they say to him, “We’re here to tell you there is no hell.” He says, “Come in.” And his mind is now twisted, and he begins to believe a lie. Why? Because “he received not the love of the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness”—his rotten greed. And with that comes strong delusion, and he’ll believe a lie.

And it is a part of the righteous judgment of God. When a man willingly says, “This is the way I’m going,” God says, “I’ll give you a shove.” When a man says, “I want God,” God says, “I’ll give you a shove.” What happens is this: that there are people who with eyes wide open, knowing better, sin not only against redemption, and reason, but they sin against revelation; they sin against light. And what happens is this. There is the deceiving power of that sin. And when you talk to one of these people who have committed the unpardonable sin, he’ll say, “Well, I just don’t see it.” He’s not lying: he doesn’t see it. Romans 11, verse 8: “(According as it is written, God hath given them the spirit of slumber, eyes that they should not see, and ears that they should not hear;) unto this day” (Romans 11:8).

B. The Deadening Power of This Sin

And then, not only is there the deceiving power of their sin; friend, there is the deadening power of their sin. When a person commits this sin, something dies within him. If you have rejected Jesus Christ and crossed the deadline, you may be one who’s saying, “Well, you know, preachers don’t preach like they used to when I was a boy.” Some of them do. You just don’t hear like you used to.

Have you ever been out in the woods and you’ve seen, say, a stump from a pine tree, blackened and charred, and yet there’s green all around it, but the stump is blackened and charred? Why would that be? Well, because in years past there was a forest fire. And the fire came snapping and crackling and roaring and burning and consuming, and all of the foliage on all of the bushes and trees were ablaze. And this stump was there, fat with rosin. And it began to burn brightly. And the fire went past, and the stump burned, the outward part, but it never really caught fire, and the fire goes out, and it’s blackened. Another year, the underbrush grows up. Another fire comes along, and that stump that was blackened and charred, if the fire is hot enough, intense enough, it will begin to blaze again, not as bright as the first time. And it will go out more quickly this time. But if that happens several times, when there comes a fire, and it comes to that old blackened, charred, burned-over stump, the fire that is roaring and burning and consuming everything will just jump over that stump. It won’t even glow.

There will be people like that in this congregation this morning. Some will be brought under conviction, and the fire of God’s Holy Spirit will touch your heart. But when He comes to you this morning in this service, He’ll just jump over you. Here’s the deadening power of that sin, and you don’t feel the work of the Holy Spirit of God speaking to you. Hebrews chapter 3, verses 7 and 8: “Wherefore (as the Holy Ghost saith, To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts)” (Hebrews 3:7–8). You can sit in a service like this with a hard heart, and while others are being blessed and saved, you won’t feel a thing. You say, “Well, I’m not afraid to die.” You’re probably not—you’re probably not. Your heart is so hard.

C. The Damning Power of This Sin

There is the deceiving power. There is the deadening power. And, therefore, there is the damaging power of this sin. It’s the sin that puts you beyond the pale of redemption. Hebrews chapter 6 warns about this sin, beginning in verse 4. God says, “For it is impossible…”—well, when God says something is impossible, we ought to pay attention. Listen to it—“For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened…”—remember now that the sin against the Holy Spirit is a sin against light—“who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,”—the Greek means they have gone along with the Holy Ghost—“and have tasted the good word of God,”—not ingested and digested, but tasted—“and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance;”—shorten the sentence—“it is impossible to renew them to repentance.” Why?—“[because] they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame” (Hebrews 6:4–6).

You can come to a place where it is impossible for you to be saved. Why? Because with eyes wide open you crucify Jesus afresh. Some who nailed Him to the cross did not know what they were doing. But you can walk out of here without Jesus, fully aware of what you’re doing, and when you do, you’re committing a greater sin—a greater sin, a greater sin—than those who literally nailed Him to the cross. You are crucifying the Son of God afresh. They’ve tasted—they’ve gone along with the Holy Ghost—the Holy Ghost.

An illustration I use is like this. Suppose you’re in the back of the supermarket, Seesel’s, or Kroger’s, or somewhere like that. Have you ever been back there where they have a little tray and a lady back there that has some cheese with little toothpicks stuck in it? She says, “Try this.” You taste it. Maybe you’re a cheese hound. That’s gourmet cheese. Boy, that’s good. “Would you like some, sir?” “Yes, give me two pounds of that.” And so you wrap it, not asking the price. When you get up to the front, you see it’s almost thirty dollars. “What? It’s just cheese.” “Well, yes, but it’s gourmet cheese. It’s special. Don’t you like it?” “I loved it. But put it back. I’m not going to pay thirty dollars for that. Put it back.”

Now here’s a person with eyes wide open, saying, “I will not pay the price; I will not.” That’s what happens when a person who has been a partaker of the Holy Ghost has tasted the good Word of God. If they fall away, if they turn their back, it is impossible to renew them to repentance. Why? Because of the deceiving, deadening power of their sin. Nobody can be saved unless the Holy Spirit of God opens his eyes. But when you say no to the Holy Spirit of God, you put out your own eyes. And the Holy Spirit of God ceases to strive. Genesis chapter 6 and verse 3—in the Bible, God said, in the days of Noah, “My spirit shall not always strive with a man” (Genesis 6:3). You can sin against light, and that’s when light goes out on the road to hell.

Now, look up here and let me tell you a story. Over here in Arkansas there was a preacher, a gifted man of God. He’s in heaven now. His name was Joe Henry Hankins. He preached like Jeremiah: he wept when he preached. Joe Henry Hankins told this story, and I shall never forget; I think I shall never forget it. He said, “I was preaching in a service, and I had torn my heart out preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ.” He said, “I gave an invitation, and God’s Spirit was moving”—just like that fire I was talking about. He said, “I saw a young man sitting up there in the balcony, and I could tell he was under conviction. He was gripping the back of the pew with one hand and holding the hymnal with the other. And so as others were coming, I just tried to catch his eye, and I said, ‘Young man, come to Jesus.’” Hankins said, “It looked like he was going to step out, but then he stepped back and started to sing again. Again, we sang another stanza, and I said, ‘Young man, come to Jesus.’” He said, “The young man closed his hymnal, and turned and started moving. I said, ‘Thank God! Hallelujah! He’s coming to Christ!—he’s coming to Christ!’ But rather than coming down the aisle, he turned and went out the back, out the door, and was gone from the service.”

In just a matter of days, Hankins was called to that young man’s bedside because the man had been diagnosed with a disease he did not know he had when he was in that service. And the doctors said, “He’s dying.” Hankins went to see him. He said, “Son, have they told you the nature of your sickness?” He said, “Yes, preacher. You don’t have to be delicate about it. I know I’m dying.” “Well, son, I want to ask you a question. Were you in the services on thus-and-such a day?” “Yes, preacher, I was.” “Well, I was watching you, son, and it seemed to me that during the invitation you were under conviction that you thought you needed Jesus. Is that right?” He said, “Preacher, when you were preaching and you gave that invitation, I wanted to get down there where you were so badly I felt I could jump over the balcony rail to come down there to where you were.” “Well, son, why didn’t you come?” He said, “Every time I started out, I remembered my favorite sin, and I wrestled, and I made up my mind I wanted my sin.”

The preacher said he felt a chill go over him. And he tried to reason with the young man. He said, “But now, son, if you’re going to die, you can’t have that sin anyway. Don’t you think you’d better give your heart to Jesus Christ?” Joe Henry Hankins said, “That young man looked at me and said this—he said, ‘Preacher, you don’t understand. When I closed my hymnal and willingly and deliberately walked out of that service, something died within me. I can’t believe.’” He said, “Son, God will save you. He wants to save you.” He said, “No, I’m telling you, I can’t do it. Something died within me.” Hankins said he wept and prayed, and cried for that boy until he died without Jesus and slipped into hell.

Conclusion

If you’re here today and you feel the slightest desire to come to Jesus Christ, I beg you, come to Him. Don’t be like that old stump. Don’t let God send you strong delusion. Don’t cross the deadline. Don’t sin against such light. There are millions of people in this world who would shout for joy to hear what you’re hearing today: that God loves you, that Christ died for you, that He invites you, and that the Bible says, “Whosoever will may come” (Revelation 22:17).

If you think you’ve committed the unpardonable sin, I’ll tell you this. If you want to be saved, you haven’t. Hallelujah! Anybody who wants to come, will. And Jesus said, “If any man will come unto me, I will never turn him away” (John 6:37)—never!

Introduction
Would you stand now for the reading of the Word of God? I’m going to read what I consider to be some of the most terrifying and awesome verses in all of the Word of God—Matthew chapter 12 and verse 30. Jesus Christ is speaking. Now, these are not my words—listen to them now; they are the words of Jesus Christ. And these words tell us of a sin—a sin so terrible, a sin so awful, a sin so horrible, if you commit that sin, you will never, never, never, never, never ever be forgiven. It is a sin that cannot be forgiven in this life. It is a sin that will not be forgiven in the world to come. It is a sin that Jesus Christ calls the unpardonable, the unforgivable, sin.

I read in Matthew chapter 12 and verse 30. Jesus said, “He that is not with me is against me”—and, by the way, everybody in this room tonight is either with Jesus or against Him—“and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad”—everybody here is either working for Christ or against Him. And then, Jesus said—“Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come.” (Matthew 12:30–32) Would you be seated, please.

In Scotland many years ago, there was a man who went walking on the beach. On one side was the ocean; the tide had gone out. On the other side were the great towering cliffs along that beachside. As that man was walking there on the beach, he came to a sign, and it said, “Warning: do not proceed further. If you do, you will not have time to return before the tide comes in.” The man saw the tide so far out and so much space there to walk on. He thought, “That’s ridiculous! The tide never comes in that swiftly,” and he continued his walk. But the tide turned. And there, in that part of Scotland—and I’ve been to this part of the world and I have seen for myself—as that tide began to come in, it began to roll in. And he thought, “Well, I’ll just turn and stroll back.” Then, as the water came and began to lap around his ankles, he began to walk briskly. And the water began to rise; and he started to run, but the water slowed his running. And then, he fell and got up and ran again. And the water now was up to waist-deep, and he could hardly make his way. He saw the cliffs. He began to try to scramble up the cliffs. But the water still was coming. Finally, he was up on a rock, and a big wave came up and reached him and pulled him down, dragged him under. And those up on the cliffs above saw that man as he struggled beneath the water and was drowned. Now, his mistake was this: there was a deadline out there; there was a warning out there. Some friend had said to him, “Don’t go any further. If you go any further, you have crossed a deadline; you will not make it back.”

I want to say this to every unsaved man, woman, boy and girl in this building tonight: there is a deadline, and God sent me here to tell you about it. And if you cross it, I want to tell you with all of the function, unction, and urgency of my soul; I want to tell you seriously and solemnly, if you cross that deadline, you are destined for hell. You are as certain for hell as if the iron gates of hell had already closed shut behind you.

There is a time we know not when,
   A place we know not where;
Which marks the destiny of men,
   To glory or despair.

There is a line, by us unseen,
   Which crosses every path;
Which marks the boundary between
   God’s mercy and His wrath.
And if you step across that deadline, that hidden line between God’s mercy and God’s wrath, you can commit a sin that Jesus said will never—no, never; no, never, ever, ever, ever—be forgotten.

I. What Is the Unpardonable Sin?
Now, what is the unpardonable sin? I want to tell you what the unpardonable sin is for several reasons. First of all, there are some people here tonight who may think that they have committed the unpardonable sin who have not, and I would like to give you comfort. Secondly, there may be some people here who do not realize the danger of committing the unpardonable sin, and I want to give you warning.

A. It Is Not Some Moral Sin
Now, what is the unpardonable sin? You say, is it murder? No. Is it rape? No. Is it incest? No. No moral sin is the unpardonable sin. I don’t care what you have done. I don’t care how dark, how terrible, how awful. You can write down the worst sin that your human mind can conceive, and I can write across that sin, “The blood of Jesus Christ, [God’s] Son cleanseth us from”—what’s that next little word?—“all sin.” (1 John 1:7) Hallelujah! There’s not a blot, not a blur, not a blemish, not a stain that the blood of Jesus Christ cannot wash whiter than snow. He cleanses the vilest sin. I said last night there’s no one so good he need not be saved; no one so bad he cannot be saved. Isn’t that wonderful? Isn’t that a glorious gospel?

B. It Is Not Some Intellectual Sin
“Well,” you say, “if it’s not a moral sin, it must be an intellectual sin. Maybe it’s the sin of atheism. Maybe it’s the sin of unbelief.” No, friend. Unbelief is not the unpardonable sin. Atheism is not the unpardonable sin. If an atheist begins to be a believer, he’ll be saved. If an unbeliever turns to a believer, he’ll be saved, and God will forgive that atheism, and God forgives that unbelief. All of us were unbelievers before we became believers; and when we believed in the Lord Jesus and trusted the Lord Jesus, if we did, He forgave that unbelief, and we received Him into our heart as our Lord and Savior.

C. It Is Not Some Verbal Sin
“Well,” somebody says, “I’ll tell you what the unpardonable sin is. It is not a moral sin, nor is it an intellectual sin, but it is a verbal sin. It’s some terrible, horrible curse word. It’s something that you may say. There’s something that you dare not say because if you say it, then you can never ever be forgiven.” I want to be very careful right here. And let me tell you something, dear friend: I believe that generally, when the unpardonable sin is committed, words are involved, but they need not be involved.
Now, Jesus said, if you blaspheme the Holy Spirit, you will never be forgiven. The word blaspheme means “to speak hurtfully against so as to insult, so as to defame.” So, to blaspheme the Holy Spirit is to insult the Holy Spirit. Now, listen to me. You can pray without moving your lips, and you can blaspheme without moving your lips. Generally, when we pray, we speak out loud. But you don’t have to speak out loud to pray, and you don’t have to speak out loud to blaspheme. For example, a person who is deaf and dumb may blaspheme the Holy Spirit, and a person who is deaf and dumb may pray. It is not some vile, some horrible, some terrible oath only. Words may be involved.

But what is the sin? What is the sin that can never, never, ever, ever, ever, ever be forgiven? What is this terrible, horrible sin? I am convinced, ladies and gentlemen—listen to me—I am convinced that far more people have committed the unpardonable sin than we would ever even dream of. I believe that hundreds of thousands and millions of people in this day and this age have committed this unpardonable sin. And I believe that many of you in this building may be in danger of committing the unpardonable sin.

Now, in order to show you what the unpardonable sin is, let me give you the background for this passage of Scripture. If you have your Bibles, we’re in Matthew chapter 12, and I want you to begin reading with me in verse 22: “Then was brought unto him”—that is, to Jesus—“one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David?”—that is, “Is not this man, Jesus, the Son of David?” And when they said that, they meant, “Isn’t He the Messiah?” because “the son of David” is a figure of speech for “the Messiah”—“But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils. And Jesus knew their thoughts”—now, notice Jesus not only knew what they said, but Jesus knew their thoughts; and Jesus knows your thoughts. And it was their thoughts that Jesus spoke about, not their words—“and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you. Or else how can one enter into a strong man’s house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house. He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.” (Matthew 12:22–30) And then, Jesus gave the warning about the unpardonable sin.
Now, here’s the background. There was a man blind and dumb. Jesus saw him. Jesus had compassion on him. Jesus opened his blinded eyes. Jesus loosed his dumb tongue. He could see. He could speak. The people said, “Hallelujah! The Messiah has come! He’s the Son of David!” But the Pharisees were there; and the Pharisees had places of position and power, and they didn’t want to give that up. They didn’t want to see people following after Jesus. They wanted the people following after them. And so, they had to find a reason to explain away what Jesus had done. But they couldn’t explain it away. Everybody could see the man had been blind and now he could see; the man had been dumb and now he could speak. It was obvious that a miracle had been done. And so, since they could not deny it, they tried to explain it away. And this is what they said: they said, “Oh yes, yes, surely He did a miracle. He opened blinded eyes. Oh yes, He loosed a dumb tongue. Oh yes, He delivered this man from a demon. But,” they said, “listen, everybody. We’ll tell you how he did it. He did it in the power of Beelzebub, the prince of demons.”

Now, when they said that, they said the vilest, most wicked, despicable thing they could have said about the Lord Jesus. Who was Beelzebub? Beelzebub was the name they had given to a Phoenician god of filth. The Phoenicians, who lived down by the seacoast, had a god, a demon god, that they worshipped. They named him Beelzebub. They thought that he had the power to create life. Why was he the god of filth? Well, they’d notice, when there was any stench on the ground, any refuse, any dung, any carrion, any garbage, if it stayed there long enough, before long, there would be maggots in it, little white worms; and they thought that life came out of rottenness, life came out of filth, life came out of stench. They’d not known that the flies had come and laid their microscopic eggs. They couldn’t see that. All they saw were these larvae, these maggots. And they said, “Would you look at that? Out of filth and out of stench and out of rottenness there comes life.” And so, they said rottenness and filth and stench was god, and they worshipped that god; and they called that god “Beelzebub.” To the Jewish mind, that was the worst, the most horrible, concept of idolatry they could think of.

Could you imagine anybody saying something like that about Jesus? What they said about Jesus was that Jesus was in collusion with the devil, that Jesus had cast out devils by the lord of the flies, the prince of filth, the god of the underworld; that He cast out devils in the power of the devil. And when they said that, Jesus warned them about committing a sin that was an unpardonable sin that could never ever, ever, ever, ever be forgiven.

1. It Was a Sin Against Redemption
Now, let me tell you what they did. They really committed a threefold sin. First of all, it was a sin against redemption. Now, what I mean by that is this: that Jesus was there doing an act of love, an act of kindness. Jesus was not there hurting people. Jesus was there helping people, loving people. Nobody works for the devil by opening blinded eyes. Nobody works for the devil by loosing dumb tongues. Nobody works for the devil by healing fevered brows. Nobody works for the devil by delivering people from the devil. This was an act of love; it was an act of redemption. And the same hands that blessed this man that was blind and dumb, those same hands would have blessed and helped and healed those Pharisees because He was indiscriminate in His love. But they refused that love. They sinned against that redemption.

You know, I hear people say, “Well, a loving God wouldn’t let anybody go to hell.” Dear friend, if you go to hell, you’ll have to climb over the love of God to get there. You know that? God loves you. God loves you, and the love of God will follow you to the very brink of hell. And with great salty tears Jesus will weep over you as you go to hell. Jesus loved this man, and Jesus loved those Pharisees. But they sinned against redemption.

Suppose you get sick. You call the doctor. And the doctor looks very stern and very serious. And you say, “Doctor, tell me what’s wrong. Don’t tell me in technical terms. Tell me what’s wrong.” The doctor says, “You’re going to die. You have a very serious illness, and you only have days to live.” And you plead, and you say, “Doctor, I don’t want to die. Doctor, isn’t there something you can do? Can’t you somehow spare my life and save me?” The doctor says, “There’s only one hope. There is a medicine, a serum, that if you take it, you will be spared, you will live. But the medicine is not available. It costs a king’s ransom.” You say, “Doctor, just because I’m a poor man, you can’t let me die. Doctor, please, you can’t just let me die.” And the doctor says, “Let me see what I can do.” And he goes out. And he’s gone for a one day, two days, three days, and then he comes back.

When that doctor comes into your bedroom and comes to your deathbed, the doctor looks like the ghost of the man who left. His beard has grown out; his eyes have dark circles under them, and they’re sunken back in his head. His hair is disheveled. His clothes have been torn, and his clothes are bloody. His hands are trembling. But the doctor comes into your bedroom and he has a vial of medicine. You look at him and say, “Doctor, doctor, what happened to you?” And the doctor says, “Do you see these clothes? Do you see this blood? I’ll tell you what happened to me. I went out to get this medicine for you. And I tried to get money from every source, and I couldn’t get enough money. I took my own money out of the bank. I took every cent that I had. And I purchased this medicine for you. And on my way here to bring you this medicine I had an automobile accident. I was in such a hurry that I wrecked my automobile. And with me in my car was my son, my only son. And I want to tell you that I have left my only son at the morgue. He’s dead. And the blood that stains my clothes is the blood of my own dear son. But here’s the medicine. Take it. You’ll live. Here it is, purchased with a terrible price. Take it. You’ll live.”

And suppose you took that medicine in your hand, held it up, and looked at it for a moment. And then suppose you smashed it on the floor, and the contents ran out in the rug, never to be retrieved again. And the doctor’s aghast. And then suppose you pointed a finger of accusation in the face of that doctor and said, “Doctor, if I die, it will be your fault.” No, no, ten thousand times no! If that man dies, whose fault is it? His! His! You will never be able to point a finger of accusation into the face of Jesus Christ, that Savior of love, and say, “Savior, if I go to hell, it’s your fault.”

I tell you, He died for you. And God sent His only begotten Son. And the unpardonable sin, first of all, is a sin against redemption, against One who loved them, One who would have saved them and healed them and blessed them.

2. It Was a Sin Against Reason

But not only was it a sin against redemption; it was a sin again reason. These men were not fools; they knew better. What they said was foolish, unreasonable. What they said was this: “He has cast out the devil in the power of the devil.” Jesus said, “That can’t happen. Nobody casts out demons in the power of the devil. ‘A house divided against itself cannot stand.’” (Mark 3:25) No, I am not in collusion with the devil; I am in collision with the devil. It’s easy to see that. And anybody who is being reasonable, anybody who wants to understand, can clearly, plainly see that I am not in league with the devil.”

Now, let me tell you what will happen to some people who are in danger of committing the unpardonable sin. When I preach the Word of God, you will think of some silly excuse, some unreasonable thing, something that you know better, to keep you from coming to Jesus Christ. One of the favorite things that people say is, “Oh, well, there are so many hypocrites in the church. I’m not going down there to give my heart to Jesus Christ.” Now, pardon me, sir, but that’s unreasonable—that’s unreasonable.

If you get sick, some doctors may be quacks; but you go to the doctor, don’t you? If you need legal advice, some lawyers may be shysters; but you go to a lawyer, don’t you? If you eat eggs, sometimes an egg may be rotten; but you still eat eggs, don’t you?

Are you consistent?

You don’t want to be a Christian because of the hypocrites? Every hypocrite proves the validity of Christianity. A hypocrite is a counterfeit. Men don’t counterfeit gum wrappers. They counterfeit twenty-dollar bills, fifty-dollar bills, hundred-dollar bills. Why? Because there’s a value there. Every counterfeit Christian proves the worthwhileness and the validity of the real.

If you’re consistent, and you say you don’t want Christianity because there are so many hypocrite Christians, I want you also to destroy and burn all your money because counterfeit money is out there. All right? You know better than this. You know that what you are saying is just silly. Someone has clearly said, “The only way you can hide behind a hypocrite is to be smaller than the hypocrite himself.” But there are thinking people, businessmen, men who can make a deal—doctors, lawyers, surgeons, entrepreneurs, who use that kind of reason. You don’t get to be a Pharisee by being a fool. They were smart men. They were intelligent men. They knew better.

I’ve actually talked to people who say, “I don’t go to church now because my mamma made me go when I was a little boy. And I’m not going now. I’m not going to have anything to do with it.” I bet his mamma made him take a bath when he was a little boy, and he doesn’t take baths any more? Huh? That’s the kind of reasoning; that’s the kind of logic here.

People say, “I don’t want to be a Christian: there’s so much to give up.” Oh? There’s so much to give up? All right, what does God ask you to give up? The only thing that God asks you to give up are the things that will hurt you. That’s all. “The LORD God is a sun and shield: the LORD will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly.” (Psalms 84:11) For a person to say there’s too much to give up would be like a person saying, “I’d like to be healed, but I hate to give up my cancer.” Listen. If it will make you healthy, holy, happy, wholesome, God says, “Help yourself.” Every time God says, “Thou shalt not,” He is saying, “Don’t hurt yourself.” Every time God says, “Thou shalt,” God is saying, “Help yourself to happiness.” I am telling you, it is totally, totally, totally unreasonable to refuse Jesus Christ.

Now, you sit out there, and your mind will begin to work; and the devil will whisper something in your ear, and the devil will tell you, “Don’t be a Christian for this reason. Don’t be a Christian for that reason.” And he will give you some silly stupid excuse. But the Bible says we are without excuse. (Romans 1:20)

3. It Was a Sin Against Revelation

Now, there’s a third thing they did, and this really gets down to the crux of the matter. They didn’t sin primarily against redemption. They didn’t sin primarily against reason. They sinned primarily against revelation. Now, pay attention. Pay attention, because here is the crux of the matter. And I’m going to tell you what the unpardonable sin is now. You see, it was obvious that day that God was working—obvious! I mean, Jesus Christ said, “The kingdom of God is come unto you. I am doing this in the power of the Holy Spirit.” (Matthew 12:28) The kingdom of God was there, and God was working in power. It wasn’t that they could not have known. It wasn’t that they had not heard. It was not that they had not felt the Spirit of God. In their innermost being, they knew He was right, but they wouldn’t accept it anyway. In their stubbornness, they said “no.”

Why does Jesus say that you can blaspheme the Son of Man, Jesus, and be forgiven, but you cannot blaspheme the Holy Spirit and be forgiven? Now, this man here may not believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God; and so, he might say some terrible, horrible things about Jesus. But he could be forgiven. But suppose the Holy Spirit of God shows him that Jesus is the Son of God. Suppose he knows that Jesus is the Son of God. And suppose he sins against light. Suppose, with his eyes wide open, he says in his heart, “Yes, I know it’s true, but I’m not going to accept it,” and then he sins against that revelation. That, my dear friend, is when you insult the Holy Spirit, because the Holy Spirit is the One who convicts you of sin. He is the One that convinces the world of sin, of righteousness, of judgment (John 16:8); and when the Holy Spirit of God tells you that, and you say “no,” and you sin against that redemption, and you sin against that reason, and you sin against that revelation, the Bible teaches that you can so insult, you can so despise and misuse the Holy Spirit of God, that He will cease speaking to you.

Now, don’t get the idea that you can get saved just any time you get ready, that you can just whistle and say, “Come save me, Lord.” Listen. The Bible says, Jesus speaking: “No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him.” (John 6:44) That’s all. Listen, you cannot be saved apart from the work of the Spirit of God in your heart. And if the Spirit of God withdraws Himself, then you will not be saved. It will be impossible for you to be saved. Listen, God says in Genesis chapter 6, verse 3: “My spirit [will] not always strive with [a] man.” (Genesis 6:3) Now, God’s Spirit strives with you. God’s Spirit speaks to you. But the Bible says, “He, that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed” (Proverbs 29:1)—when God withdraws Himself.

You read Romans chapter 1—it’s amazing: three times there in Romans chapter 1 we read the statement of those who knew God and believed not on Him. They knew who He was, but they would not receive Him. Three times the Bible says this: “And God gave them up” (Romans 1:24); “And God gave them up” (Romans 1:26); “And God gave them over” (Romans 1:28). God just forsook them. He turned his back on them. He ceased to speak to them. Will God do that? My dear friend, you blaspheme the Holy Spirit of God; you speak insults against the Holy Spirit of God; you know what you ought to do, you know that you ought to receive Jesus Christ, and you say “no”—you crucify the Son of God afresh. (Hebrews 6:6) But He can’t pray for you as He prayed for those who nailed Him to the tree because He prayed for them, “Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.” (Luke 23:34) But He can’t pray for you because, dear friend, you crucify Him afresh with your eyes wide open. Therefore, the Bible says in Hebrews chapter 6, it is impossible to restore to you to repentance, seeing that you crucify to yourself afresh the Son of God. (Hebrews 6:4–6) And you can commit tonight a greater sin than those who committed a sin when they nailed His quivering flesh to that tree.

I want to tell you that the worst sin in the world is not committed in the barroom. And the worst sin in the world is not committed at the crack house. And the worst sin in the world is not committed with a prostitute. The worst sin in the world is more often committed in a service like this, when people refuse Jesus Christ. There is no greater sin than to aim the gun of unbelief at Christ on the cross and pull the trigger.

II. What Are the Marks of the Unpardonable Sin?

What are the marks? What happens when a man commits this sin? Very briefly, three things, and I’m going to be finished.

A. The Deadening Power of Sin

First of all, there is a deadening influence. There is something that dies within you. The Bible says that you will have eyes, but you will see not; you’ll have ears, but you won’t hear. (Jeremiah 5:21; Ezekiel 12:2) I can preach this sermon tonight, and you’ll get the words, but you’ll never get the message and you’ll stalk out of here a lost man if you have committed the unpardonable sin. You will be so spiritually dead that you’ll not be able to perceive truth.

B. The Deceiving Power of Sin

I’ll tell you something else: not only is there a deadening result, but there is a deceiving result. Not only will you not believe the right thing, but you will believe the wrong thing. God says in 2 Thessalonians, the second chapter, “For this [reason] God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie”—why would God send anybody strong delusion that they should believe a lie? The Bible says—“that they all might be damned”—why would God see to it that someone is damned?—“because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.” (2 Thessalonians 2:11–12) When God comes with truth and you receive not the truth, God will send you delusion and you will believe a lie. That’s one of the reasons that so many are in false religion, so many are in false cults.

Let me tell you how it happens. A man comes to church—your church, our church, some other church—and the pastor stands up, and the pastor preaches from the Bible, the Word of God. And the Spirit of God is there. That man gets under conviction, but he doesn’t want to be saved. With many people it’s just greed. He figures if he comes to church, they’re going to want some of his money, or something else; and so, he’s got to make up some reason. The pastor says something about giving; and so, he begins to grouch, and he says, “Money, money, money! All they ever talk about down there is money!” And so, he gives some silly reason for not giving his heart to Jesus Christ. And he says, “I’m never going back there any more!”

Now, in a couple of weeks, he’s sitting there at home watching television. His wife and kids are in Sunday school and church. He’s reading the sports. His beard has grown out. He’s got a six-pack of embalming fluid there by his side. And he’s watching the sports and all of that. And somebody comes and knocks on his door. He goes to the door, and it is some of these people who go house to house, door to door, a false cult. And I’m not going to name the name, but you know who I’m talking about. They tell him there is no hell, and he says, “Come in, come in. Tell me more.” And he will believe a lie because he would not believe the truth.

C. The Damning Power of Sin

You say, “Oh, it’s pathetic!” No! It is the righteous judgment of God. Listen to me. There is the deadening, there is the deceiving, there is the damning power of this sin. In John, John speaks of those who would not believe. And then he says, “Therefore they could not believe.” (John 12:39) There may be someone here tonight, you cannot believe; you cannot trust Christ. I mean, you have stepped over the deadline. God’s Spirit is finished with you. The Bible says of some people in the Old Testament, “Ephraim is joined to [his] idols: let him alone.” (Hosea 4:17)

You say, “Pastor, have I committed the unpardonable sin?” I don’t know. But I’ll tell you one way you can find out. Jesus said, “Him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out.” (John 6:37) And then He said, “Whosoever will may come.” (Revelation 22:17) And if you want to come to Jesus and you haven’t, if you will come to Him, I promise you on the authority of the Word of God that I preach tonight He’ll save you. If you will come to Him, He will save you. Don’t worry about whether you’ve committed the unpardonable sin or not. If you want to come to Jesus, come. For the Bible says, “Whosoever will may come.” (Revelation 22:17) You show me any time, any place, anywhere, where anybody ever came to Jesus in repentance and faith and He didn’t save them, I’ll close my Bible and never preach again. “For whosoever will may come.” (Revelation 22:17)

If you’re afraid that you’ve committed the unpardonable sin, most likely you haven’t. You’d think that a person who committed the unpardonable sin would be filled with all kinds of fear. No! They can go to sleep in a service like this. They can stalk out of this place and sniff at the preaching of God’s Word. It may happen to you. This may be the last time God will speak to you. Don’t think you have to be an old man to commit the unpardonable sin. I’m convinced that teenagers can commit the unpardonable sin. I am convinced that children can commit the unpardonable sin—anybody who knows who Jesus Christ is; anybody who has been spoken to by the Holy Spirit of God; anybody who has been completely and thoroughly convinced and then so sins against that reason, against the redemption, against that revelation; anybody who says “no” and insults God’s Holy Spirit to their eternal detriment.
Conclusion

Let me tell you a story, and I’ll be finished. Over here in Arkansas there used to be a preacher named Joe Henry Hankins. Many of you perhaps heard Joe Henry preach—a great man of God, preached in Fort Smith, Arkansas. Joe Henry Hankins told a story. He said, “I was preaching in our services, and God’s Spirit was moving in a mighty way. It was one of those special services. I gave the invitation, and many people came.” He said, “I looked up in the balcony, and there stood a young man in the balcony.” And, you know, preachers sometimes can sense when someone is under conviction. “I saw on the face of that young man Holy Spirit conviction. And I stretched out my hand toward him, and I said, ‘Come to Jesus, young man; come to Jesus.’ And I prayed for him. The young man had the hymnal in his hand, and the young man looked like he was going to step out and come. Then he stepped back and began to sing again.”

Joe Henry Hankins, like every evangelist with a pastor’s heart and a pastor with an evangelist’s heart, said, “Let’s sing another stanza”—oh folks, I hope you never get tired when a preacher says, “Let’s sing another stanza” when he’s pleading for some soul—“Let’s sing another stanza.” And they sang another stanza. The young man again started to step out, and Hankins said, “Thank God, he’s coming! Thank God!” But he stepped back. Finally, Joe Henry Hankins said, “One more time; sing one more time.” And he said, “Please give your heart to Jesus.” And this young man turned and started. And Hankins said, “Thank God, he’s coming! He’s coming!” But rather than coming down the stairs and rather than coming to the front, he turned and went out, and went out into the darkness, out of the church. Hankins’s heart was broken.

In a few days, Joe Henry Hankins was called to the bedside of that same young man, who had been to the doctor and had been diagnosed with a terminal illness that would take his life in a short time. The young man, when he was in the church, did not know he had the illness, nor did Joe Henry Hankins. Joe Henry Hankins sat by his bedside and said, “Young man, aren’t you the young man that was in the services thus-and-such a night?” “Yes sir.” “Were you the one in the balcony?” “Yes sir.” “Young man, I want you to answer a question for me. It seemed to me that when I was preaching to you, God was speaking to you. It seemed to me that when I gave the invitation, you wanted to come forward and give your heart to Jesus Christ. Is that true?” He said, “As a matter of fact, when you gave that invitation, I wanted to get down there where you were so badly that I felt that I could jump over the balcony rail and get down there where you were.” “Well,” Joe Henry Hankins said, “why didn’t you come?” He said, “Because I thought of my favorite sin.” And he was living in sin, and he said, “I knew if I came down there, I would have to give up that sin. And I made up my mind I would not do it. And finally, to get rid of that feeling, I closed the book and got out of that place.”

“Do you know you are going to die?” “Yes sir.” “Well, young man, you can’t have that sin anyway. Wouldn’t you like to open your heart and give your heart to Jesus?” He said, “No sir.” He said, “Young man, I don’t understand it. Before, you said you wanted to be saved, but you thought of your sin and you wanted to sin. But now, you can’t have your sin anyway. Won’t you give your heart to Jesus?” He said, “No sir.” The preacher said, “I don’t understand. Why not?” The young man looked at him, Hankins said, with a look he’ll never forget, and he said, “Preacher, there’s something you don’t understand.” He said, “When I closed that hymnal and turned and walked out of that church, something died within me—something died within me.” And Joe Henry Hankins said he wept, and cried, and pled, and begged, but so far as he knew, that young man went out into eternity without Jesus Christ.

I’m not trying to be an alarmist, but I want to be deadly serious with you tonight. If you believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, if you believe that I’m a man of God, if you believe that this is the Word of God, if you believe that Jesus Christ died on the cross for your sin, and if you can hear my heart telling you to come to Jesus, I beg you tonight, don’t walk out of here tonight without Jesus Christ, because one of these days you’re going to cross the deadline and it will be too late for you. There is a sin that can never be forgiven.

Introduction

Open God’s precious Word to Matthew chapter 12, and we’re going to look at two of the most terrifying verses in all of the Bible. I feel as a pastor and as a man of God that it is incumbent upon me from time to time to speak on these particular verses. Not that I enjoy doing so, not that I want to do so, but I feel that there are far more people in America and around the world committing the unpardonable sin than we may ever dare to dream. People who commit a sin in this life, which sin, if they commit, will so damn their soul that they will never ever be forgiven in this world or in the world to come. Jesus warned about this sin.

Look at the Scripture: “Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come” (Matthew 12:31–32). What is this sin that is so terrible, so awesome, that Jesus Christ, who was incarnate love, said, “It will never, never, never, never be forgiven”? It is the sin of crossing the deadline, committing a sin that the Bible calls an unpardonable sin.
I read years ago of a man in Scotland who was walking on the beach at low tide. They have tremendous, ferocious tides in Scotland. And as this man went way out from the shore, he saw a sign that was posted out there that said, “Do not go any further. If you go any further, you will not have time to return before the tide comes in.” He thought, “There’s no tide that could be so swift that I could not possibly outrun it.” And he continued to walk. The tide turned, and the waters came up to his feet and began to wash over his feet. He turned and headed toward the shore, and the waters came in much quicker than he realized. Before long, the waters were up to his shins, his knees, and his thighs. He slogged through the water, trying to make it back to the shore. When he got there, there were those massive high walls of rock. He tried to climb up on the rocks, and a big wave came and swept him away. Spectators watched the man as he perished in the waves. What happened to this man is that he did not believe the warning. He crossed the deadline, and he perished.

Now, spiritually, the same thing may happen to some who are listening to me right now.

There is a time we know not when,
A place we know not where;
Which marks the destiny of men,
To glory or despair.

There is a line, by unseen,
Which crosses every path;
Which marks the boundary between
God’s mercy and His wrath.
—JOSEPH ADDISON ALEXANDER

And if you cross that line, Jesus said, you’ll commit a sin that is unpardonable. It will never, never, never, never be forgiven. If there is such a sin—and there is—we need to understand it.

I. What Is the Unpardonable Sin?
What is the unpardonable sin? What is this sin that the Son of God warned about right here in Matthew 12:31–32?

A. It Is Not a Moral Sin
Let me say, first of all, for the sake of clarity, what the sin is not. It is not some moral sin. It is not murder. It is not rape. It is not adultery. It is not sodomy. All of those sins may be forgiven. Have you been reading about the man out on the West Coast of our country who raped a young lady—I believe, a fourteen-year-old girl—and then cut both of her arms off? They put that man in prison, and now they want to parole him. And there’s not a community that will receive him—not one! I want to tell you the grace of God will receive him if he’ll repent. Do you believe that? Heaven will receive him if he’ll trust in Christ. There’s not a sin—I don’t care how deep, how dark, how hellish, how hurtful, how hateful, how gross, how terrible. The Bible says, “The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin” (1 John 1:7). I hope you believe that. All sin: there is no moral sin that the blood of Jesus Christ will not cleanse us from.

B. It Is Not a Mental Sin

It’s not a moral sin. It’s not a mental sin. You say, “Maybe it’s unbelief. Atheism: maybe that’s the unpardonable sin.” No, a lot of atheists have gotten saved. They repented of their atheism. It’s just mere unbelief. All of us were unbelievers before we became believers, weren’t we? And God forgave us. So unbelief is not the unpardonable sin.

C. It Is Not a Verbal Sin Alone

It’s not a moral sin. It’s not a mental sin. It’s not a verbal sin alone. Now words are generally involved, but it is not some vile oath. You know, I’ve been amazed that some people will curse God the Father, and they will curse God the Son, but they will not curse God the Holy Spirit. You’ll hear people take the name of Jesus, for example, and mix the name of Jesus in the muck and mire and slime of the sewer, and take the name of the Lord Jesus Christ in vain. The Bible says, “The LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain” (Exodus 20:7). But Jesus said, “You can speak a word against the Son of Man, and it will be forgiven.” But now, wait a minute—wait a minute. Why don’t men curse the Holy Ghost? Have you ever heard a man take the name of the Holy Ghost and curse the Holy Ghost? No. Very few people will do that. Don’t you curse God the Father, God the Son, or God the Holy Spirit! Don’t do it! Don’t do it!

But it is not a mere verbal sin. Words may be involved, and most of time they frequently are. But, my dear friend, just as a person can pray without moving his lips, a person can blaspheme without moving his lips. For example, suppose a person didn’t have the faculty of speech. Could a person pray without the faculty of speech? Of course! Could a person blaspheme without the faculty of speech? Of course! You see, words are but an expression of the heart. And, really, what our Lord is talking about is what is down deep in the heart. It is called blasphemy against the Holy Ghost. It will never be forgiven.
II. Blaspheming the Holy Spirit: The Sin of the Pharisees

Now, what does the word blaspheme mean? It means, “to speak hurtfully against with the intention to demean and injure.” And Jesus said, “If you blaspheme the Holy Ghost, you will never ever be forgiven.”

Why the Holy Spirit? Well, you could blaspheme God in ignorance. You could blaspheme Jesus in ignorance. But you cannot blaspheme the Holy Spirit in ignorance. And that’s the key to the whole matter. You see, the Holy Spirit is God’s instrument of light. The Holy Spirit is the One who turns the light on in your soul. And the unpardonable sin is the sin against light. It is knowingly, willingly, deliberately saying no to God when the Holy Spirit has spoken to you and revealed to you who Jesus Christ truly is.

Let me give you the background of this passage of Scripture, and maybe it will make more sense to you. Notice here in verse 22: “Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil,”—and every time you see the word devil or devils in the Bible, it speaks of demons. There is but one devil and many demons. And the King James translates it “devils” or “devil,” but it could be and should be in this instance “demons.”

Here was a demon-possessed man—“blind, and dumb:”—sometimes demon possession does bring blindness and the inability to speak. Not all blind people, or dumb people, or people who cannot speak, have a demon—“and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw” (Matthew 12:22).

Jesus performed a miracle and He healed this man. And all of the people were amazed and said, “Is not this the son of David?” Now “the son of David” is biblical language that means, “Is not this the Messiah? This must be the Messiah. He casts out demons. He heals the blind, and He looses dumb tongues.” “But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils” (Matthew 12:23–24).

Now, choir, I want to tell you that was the meanest, most wicked, hellish, hurtful thing they could possibly have said about the Lord Jesus Christ. But even that could have been forgiven. Do you know what they said about Him? They said, “He casts out demons by the god of garbage, by the lord of the flies.” That’s who Beelzebub was. Beelzebub was a Phoenician deity, a Phoenician god. The Phoenicians lived on the seacoast, and they were a very intelligent people—maritime people, sailors. But they had the grossest form of idolatry. The Phoenicians had noticed that when there was some garbage, some filth, some carrion, some stench, some manure, some filthy, horrible, vile substance that remained for awhile, after a while there would be little white worms; there would be maggots in that filth. And then, after a while, the larva would hatch, and there would be flies. And they said, “Will you look at that? Out of filth, and out of stench, and out of rottenness, and out of garbage, and out of purification, there comes life. Life comes from filth.” And so they worshiped the god of filth.

Now they did not know that flies had laid microscopic eggs, and eggs had hatched. They didn’t know that. They couldn’t see that. To them, life came out of filth. Now they had named that god Beelzebub. And to a Jew, a Bible-believing Jew, a Jew who knew the great monotheistic God, they knew that was the grossest form of immorality. It was so gross that they said, “A demon must have inspired that immorality, and his name is Beelzebub.” And that was the name for the chief demon, the god of garbage, the lord of the flies: Beelzebub. And they called him Beelzebub, and they said, “That’s the worst, that’s the most horrible, that’s the deepest form of degradation.” And then they said about the Lord Jesus—perfect, fully pure, clean, scintillatingly lovely, and beautiful Lord Jesus—they said, “He is casting out demons by the prince of demons.”

Why did they say that? I’ll tell you why they said it. They knew better, as we’re going to see in a minute. But they didn’t want the people to follow Jesus. They wanted the people to follow them. And so they could not deny the miracle. It was obvious. The man could now see, and the man could now speak. And everybody knew he had been blind and dumb. They couldn’t deny the miracle. So, rather than denying the miracle, they just simply explained it away. They said, “Oh, yes, yes, He has performed a miracle. But let me tell you how He did it. He did it in the power of Satan.”

A. They Sinned Against Love

And when they said that, first of all, they sinned against such love. Because what was the Lord Jesus Christ doing? Jesus had just opened the eyes of a blind man. Jesus had just loosed the tongue of a man who could not speak. Jesus went about doing good. And He would have blessed them, the same Pharisees who turned on Him. Jesus wanted to love them. And the same hands and the same heart that had healed this man would have healed and blessed them. How foolishly they repudiated the Lord Jesus! How foolishly they rejected Him who comes in the name of the Lord! They sinned against love.

B. They Sinned Against Logic

But wait a minute. They sinned more than against love; they sinned against logic. I want you to see what Jesus said. I want you to see how Jesus rebukes their foolish thought. Notice, if you will, as we continue to read, Jesus said, in verse 25, “And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand. And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand?” Verse 28: “But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you” (Matthew 12:25–28). Now, underscore that—“If I cast out devils by the Spirit of God”—because the Holy Spirit here is the key.

Now what they did, not only did they sin against love, but they sinned against logic. Jesus said, “What you say is not reasonable. You say that I have cast out devils by the prince of devils.” And Jesus said, “How can Satan cast out Satan? A kingdom divided against itself cannot stand. That doesn’t even make sense.” And they knew it didn’t make sense. Jesus was saying, “I’m not in collusion with the devil; I am in collision with the devil.” Nobody works for the devil by casting out the devil, and they knew it—they knew it. They had thought up a silly, superfluous, inane reason for not obeying what they knew to be true and what the Spirit of God had shown.

We have the same thing today. Have you ever heard anybody say, “I’m not going to be a Christian, because of the hypocrites in the church”? Nod your head. Of course you have! If you haven’t, where have you been? Hey, folks, people who say that know better than that. They know that’s no reason for not coming to Jesus. There are hypocrites in every area of life, now, aren’t there?

Some bankers are hypocrites, because they embezzle money. Do you have any money in the bank? Some lawyers are shysters and crooks. Would you get legal advice from one? Of course! Some doctors are quacks. When you get sick, would you call upon a doctor? Of course you would! Some money is counterfeit. Have you thrown away all the rest of your money? Of course not! Some eggs are rotten. Do you still eat eggs? We bought some eggs. One of them was a hypocrite. What I’m trying to say is, you know better than that—you know better. People have the silly, silly excuses—this excuse or that excuse—for not coming to Jesus, not giving their heart to Jesus. They know better. These Pharisees—you don’t get to be a Pharisee by being stupid.

C. They Sinned Against Light

They sinned against love. They sinned against logic. But now, let me tell you where their problem was. They really sinned against light. You see, Jesus said, “The Spirit of God is come upon you.” Now the Holy Spirit gives light. You see, I can preach truth, but only the Holy Spirit can impart truth. The Holy Spirit of God opens the understanding, and He gives light. And the point we can see from the background is God’s Holy Spirit was bearing witness to the miracles of Jesus Christ and to the words of Jesus Christ that Jesus was exactly who He said He was. And they knew it, but they wouldn’t admit it. And so they found some other reason. And they said, “He’s doing what He’s doing in the power of Satan.” And when they said, “They blasphemed the Holy Spirit of God who had spoken to them,” Jesus gave them this warning about committing an unpardonable sin.
What is the unpardonable sin? It is the rejection of Jesus Christ. But it is more than the more rejection of Jesus Christ; it is the rejection of Jesus Christ with your eyes wide open; it is the rejection of Jesus Christ knowingly, willingly, deliberately. Now, you see, there may be some here today who are not convinced that Jesus is the Messiah. There may be some people here today who have doubts about whether even God exists. But most of the people who hear me preach the gospel in America know that God exists, and many of them know that Jesus is the Savior. But they’re not saved, because they’re not convinced. They’re not saved, because they reject Jesus with their eyes wide open. And those people are in danger of crossing the deadline and being eternally, everlastingly lost—not just when they get to hell, but lost now; and not only lost now, but lost now with no hope of forgiveness—and are as destined for an eternity in hell as if the iron gates of hell had already clanked shut behind them.

III. The Marks of the Unpardonable Sin

Now, what happens when a person commits the unpardonable sin? What are the marks? What are the results?

A. It Deludes

The first result is deception, delusion. Turn with me to 2 Thessalonians the second chapter here for a moment. Look in verse 11: “For this cause…”—now I’m going to tell you what the cause was in just a moment. Put that phrase in your mind, and just leave it hanging there. “For this cause” something is going to happen, something is going to cause God to act a certain way. I’m going to point out what it is that caused God to act a certain way—“For this cause God shall send them strong delusion,”—God sends people strong delusion? We know the devil deceives people, but I didn’t know God deceives people. But there it is: “God shall send them strong delusion.” Well, I thought God was the truth. Why is God, who is the truth, why does He send strong delusion? Well, let’s continue to read—“that they should believe a lie:”—it seems to get worse, doesn’t it? Not only is God sending strong delusion, but God is sending strong delusion that people would believe a lie. Well, why would God want people to believe a lie? Well, let’s continue to read. Verse 12—“that they all might be damned”—seems to get worse. If this were all the Bible you knew, you wouldn’t think highly of God, would you? God sends people delusion. He sends them delusion that they would believe a lie. And they believe a lie that they all might be damned. Why does God do this? What kind of people are these? These are people who believe not the truth. These are not people who had not heard the truth. These are people who had heard the truth but refused the truth—“who believed not the truth,”—and why did they not believe the truth? Continue to read—“but had pleasure in unrighteousness” (2 Thessalonians 2:11–12). For them, the opposite of truth was not error, but sin. They had their own pet, private sins. And because they had their own pet private sins, they willingly, knowingly, deliberately turned their back on the truth.

Back up to verse 10. The Bible speaks of “them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth” (2 Thessalonians 2:10). Do you have the love of the truth? If you don’t have the love of the truth, dear friend, let me tell you the truth that is here today is not something you can just put this on ice and save it for some day, something like money you can put in your pocket and say, “I’ll save that until I need to spend it.” No, you use it, or you’ll lose it. You act on it, or it will be taken away from you. “For he that hath, to him shall be given: and he that hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he hath” (Mark 4:25).

You see, when a man comes to a church like this and he hears the truth of God, and then he thinks of his sin, he has pleasure in unrighteousness. Over here is God’s truth, and over here is his sin. And he says, “Here’s truth, and here’s sin. I want sin.” And God says, “Well then, you’ll not have my truth.” And when a man starts this way, God gives him a shove. And God says, “All right, I’m going to send you strong delusion. You are going to believe a lie. You’re going to die and go to hell, because you refused the truth.”

Delusion. Let me show you how that works. Suppose a man comes to this church, and it’s one of those rare Sundays that I’m preaching on giving, stewardship, and I preach that a man ought to tithe. You do believe that a man ought to tithe, don’t you? Nod your head. A woman too, for that matter, ought to tithe, because the Bible says, “The tithe…is the LORD’s” (Leviticus 27:30).

Incidentally, I read about a tribe of Indians who have a church down in Florida—or heard about them. Almost every Indian in that church tithes—almost 100 percent. Somebody went down there to investigate and find out why. They said, “Why are all of the Indians in this church tithers?” This Indian answered, he said, “Indian believe Bible. Bible teach tithing. Indian tithe.” May his tribe increase. I mean, that’s simple, isn’t it?

All right now, listen. I’m preaching that. Suppose I’m preaching that on a particular Sunday, and a guy comes in here and he sits down. His wife has been begging him to come to church for months and months and months, and he finally comes. And he sits down back there, and he says, “All right, there they go, preaching on money. That’s all they ever preach about: money, money, money!” And he begins to grouse and gripe. He never asks, “Is it in the Bible?” He never asks, am I preaching the Word of God? Am I preaching the truth out of the Bible? He doesn’t ask that, because he’s eaten up with the god of greed. And he stalks out of this church, muttering and sputtering, and saying, “I’ll never come back again.” He doesn’t want the truth. He refuses the truth.
on he’s sitting at home. His wife and kids are in Sunday school and church. He’s got a six-pack of embalming fluid by his side; his whiskers are grown out; he’s reading the sports page on Sunday morning. And one of Jehovah’s false witnesses comes and knocks on the door, and says, “We’re here to tell you there’s no hell.” He says, “Come in. Come right in.” And he buys it and believes it and goes to the hell he doesn’t believe in. And God sends him strong delusion. You say, “But he’s so sincere.” But he’s so sincerely wrong. “For this cause God shall send [him] strong delusion, that [he] should believe a lie: that [he] might be damned [because he] believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness” (2 Thessalonians 2:11–12).

What happened to these Pharisees was this, dear friend: they knew what the truth was, but they made some silly reason for not accepting the truth because of the rotten sin that was in their heart.

B. It Deadens

Now, not only does this sin delude, but it deadens. I want you to take your Bible and turn with me to Romans 11:8, and look with me for a moment—Romans 11. And in this passage our Lord Jesus is talking about the Jews. I want you to see what He says about them: “(According as it is written, God hath given them the spirit of slumber…”—did you know there are a lot of people who will spiritually sleep through this service today? They won’t wake up until the benediction comes, and they don’t know what’s going on here today. They won’t wake up until they get to the cafeteria or wherever it is—“God hath given them the spirit of slumber, eyes that they should not see, and ears that they should not hear;) unto this day” (Romans 11:8).

There are people who have, physically, 20/20 vision; spiritually, they’re blind. Physically, you can hear. Spiritually, you’re deaf. Physically, you’re awake. Spiritually, you’re asleep. And God, as a part of His judgment, has sent that upon you. You sleep spiritually through a service like this. And people all around can be being blessed. And people all around can be understanding. And people can all be saved. But not only are you deluded; you’re dead. You can’t understand. And that delusion that you have will never ever be removed, because you can’t see.

Never scold a blind man for not seeing. He can’t see. Never scold a deaf man for not hearing. He cannot hear. Never blame a man who’s asleep for not knowing what went on while he was asleep. No, my dear friend. I want to tell you it is a terrible thing when a man comes to this place. He could sit in a service, and souls are being saved, and the pastor will be preaching, and the Spirit of God will be working, but when it gets to him, it just passes right over him. He’s like a blackened, charred stump in a forest fire. He never even glows, because the Spirit of God has forsaken him. He cannot see. He cannot understand.

Don’t get the idea that, if a person has committed the unpardonable sin, he’s going to be full of terror and fear. Oh, no! Some people have the idea that a person who has committed this unpardonable sin would just be eaten up with remorse and terror. Well, no. He’ll be cool as a cucumber. He’ll be fine. He’d say, “I’m not afraid to die.” Every now and then, some people call me up on the phone, and they say, “Pastor, pastor, I’m so afraid I have committed the unpardonable sin.” I tell them right away, “Thank God, you haven’t—you haven’t. Any man who is afraid he has, hasn’t.” I mean, anybody who is concerned about his soul can be saved. People who are not concerned about their souls are the people that concern me: people who are cool about it. They have eyes, but they don’t see; they have ears, but they don’t hear; they have hearts, but they don’t feel. Friend, I’m going to tell you, anybody who wants to be saved can. Hallelujah! If you want to be saved, you’ve not committed the unpardonable sin.

C. It Damns Forever

And I’ll tell you what this sin does, dear friend. It deceives. And then, it deadens. Then I’ll tell you what else it does: it damns forever. Turn to John 12:35: “Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light with you.” Do you see that? For a little while the light is with you. “Walk while ye have the light,”—oh, my friend, listen—“lest darkness come upon you: for he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth.” Jesus is light. The Holy Spirit is light. Now, notice in verse 37, the lament, though. “But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him” (John 12:37). It is not, dear friend, that He had not revealed Himself to them. He had done these miracles, yet they believed not on Him. Now, skip down, if you will, to verse 39: “Therefore they could not believe” (John 12:39). Do you see it? Do you see it? Verse 37: they would not believe. Verse 39: “Therefore they could not believe.” Jesus said, “While ye have light” (John 12:36)—“While ye have light.”

Let me show you one other passage. Turn to Hebrews 6 with me for a moment. Begin with me, please, in verse 4: “For it is impossible…”—do you see that phrase, “For it is impossible”? Do you see it? Something is impossible. Now that’s an attention-getter—“For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened…”—there’s our word again—“those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift,”—not ingested, but tasted—“and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,”—that means they had gone along with the Holy Ghost. The Holy Spirit is involved here—“and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame” (Hebrews 6:4–6).
The Bible says it is impossible for these kinds of people ever to be saved. What kind of people? People who have been enlightened, people who have tasted the truth, people who know the truth, but people who knowingly, deliberately refuse the truth. The Bible says, "It is impossible to renew them to repentance—impossible!" They will never ever be saved. Why? The Bible says, "They crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh." They commit a worse sin than those who nailed Him to the cross the first time.

You say, "How could it be a worse sin?" I'll tell how it's a worse sin. Do you remember what Jesus prayed for those who nailed Him up on that cross? Do you remember reading about it in the Bible? Do you remember what He prayed? I'll tell you what He prayed. He prayed this: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do" (Luke 23:34). Isn't that right? Friend, a person who commits the unpardonable sin, He could never pray that prayer for them. He couldn't say, "Father, forgive them, for they don't know what they're doing." "They crucify the Son of God afresh" with their eyes wide open. The Holy Spirit of God has spoken to them. They've tasted the good Word of God. They've tasted the power of the world to come. And the writer of Hebrews said, "It is impossible to renew them to repentance." They're going to die and go to hell. What does this sin do? It deludes. It deadens. It damns.

Conclusion

Now, what does this mean to you today? Several things. One: If you have the slightest desire to come to Jesus, come. You may be very, very close to the deadline. I beg you, I warn you, do not go away without the Lord Jesus Christ. You say, "Are you trying to frighten me?" Absolutely! Absolutely! "The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom" (Psalm 111:10; Proverbs 9:10). I don't believe in a religion built on fear; I believe in one built on love. But I'm telling you, dear friend, without Christ there's plenty to be afraid of. And if you find the slightest desire to come to Jesus, I want you to do it.

The second thing, my dear friend, is this: that if you're afraid that you've committed the unpardonable sin, let me just tell you this. If you want to come to Jesus, you may come. Jesus said, "He that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out" (John 6:37). And then He said, "Whosoever will may come" (Revelation 22:17). Anybody who wants to come to Jesus Christ today in this service may come. And I beg you to do so.

And I want to tell you a third thing. After death, all sin is unpardonable. And not only may you be near crossing the deadline, but you may be near death. And if you don't know Jesus, you may come. "He that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out."
The Sign of Jonah

Introduction

“Fear not… He is not here…he is risen.” (Matthew 28:5–6) Take your Bibles now this morning, and open, if you will, to the Gospel according to Matthew—the Gospel according to Matthew—and we will begin reading in verse 38. How important it is that you use your Bibles! And, by the way, when you find the Gospel of Matthew 12:38, as soon as you find that, you might also begin looking for the book of Jonah, because you’re going to need it in just a little bit. The book of Jonah is not hard to find—it’s to the left of Matthew and about an eighth of an inch. All right now: “Then certain of the scribes and of the Pharisees answered, saying, Master, we would see a sign from thee. But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas: for as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale’s belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because they repented at the preaching of [Jonah]; and, behold, a greater than [Jonah] is here.” (Matthew 12:38–41)

So many times when I’ve had the privilege of visiting the city of Rome—I’m talking about Rome, Italy; not Rome, Georgia, but Rome, Italy—I have visited the catacombs. The catacombs are those subterranean cemeteries. Underneath the city of Rome there is a great labyrinthine passageway tunneled out through the soft and porous rock: the catacombs. And, actually, there are hundreds of miles of these catacombs: long, dark, narrow tunnels. Because of persecutions, the Christians met there to worship, to serve the Lord’s Supper. And, also, it was there that they buried their dead. And they would make a niche in the wall, and there they would put the body of their departed loved one. And so you can see on the walls of those catacombs various Christian symbols. You can see where early believers would make a cross on the walls. And, many times, they would put the sign of a fish, because the sign of a fish was a symbol of early Christianity. But, also, so many times you would find drawn on the walls of the catacombs—and I’ve seen them—a picture of a whale—not a fish, as such; but a whale with a flat tail, and the spout, and so forth.

Now, why would they draw a whale there in the catacombs? and what does that have to do with Christianity? Well, to these early Christians, a whale was a reminder of the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, because Jonah, who was swallowed by a whale, is a type, a picture, a prophecy of the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus. There were some wicked men who came to Jesus and said, “If you’re the Messiah, give us a sign.” Jesus said, “No sign will be given to this sinful and adulterous generation but the sign of the prophet Jonah.” And then He said, “As Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the whale, the Son of man”—Jesus—“will be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.”

Now you can understand why the liberals and the critics pick so much at the book of Jonah. Why does the devil hate the book of Jonah so much? Because nowhere in all of the Bible are you going to find a clearer picture in the Old Testament—that is, of the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ—than in the book of Jonah. What a remarkable story this is! Folks, it's a whale of a story, if you'll think about it; it's a remarkable story. It's not much of a story if a dog bites a man; but it’s a real story if a man bites a dog. It's not much of a story if a man catches a fish; but it’s a real story when a fish catches a man. And here was Jonah, he was swallowed up by a whale, or a fish, or some kind of a sea monster.

Now you remember the story that Jonah was commissioned by the Lord to preach to Nineveh. Nineveh was a great city: great in enormity, great in antiquity, great in iniquity. It was an old and ancient city. And the way they were living was in such a way as to cause God to bring judgment. And He said to Jonah, “Go preach to them that I am going to destroy them,” (Jonah 1:2) and Jonah didn’t want to go. He was recalcitrant and obtuse and rebellious, and he went the other way. And you remember he got on a ship to flee from the presence of the Lord, and God sent a storm. And when the sailors tossed Jonah overboard, God had prepared this fish or this sea monster to swallow up Jonah. And there he was with a whale house for a jailhouse for three days and three nights until he repented and got right with God. And God said, “All right, Jonah’s ready for departure. Over, up and out.” And out he came, and was vomited up, the Bible says, by that whale onto dry ground. (Jonah 2:10) Then he went and preached to Nineveh, and there was a great citywide—nationwide—revival, and that entire population repented in sackcloth and ashes.

Now Jesus said that this story is a story that pictures His own death, burial, and resurrection. Now, was this a whale that swallowed Jonah? The King James Version of the Bible calls it a whale; but that’s only a translation of a word. That could be translated “sea monster.” It may have been a whale; it could have been a shark; or it could have been something else that was not a whale or a shark. We don’t know. The word just simply means a “sea monster.”

Now it might have been a whale. You know, whales are mighty big. Sometimes people have the idea that the great African elephant is the largest animal. But not at all—not at all! Friend, the whale’s tongue can weigh as much as a full-grown elephant—did you know that?—just the tongue of a whale. I was reading The Great Story of Whales, by Georges Blond, and he said that a full-grown whale—a big blue whale—could weigh as much as 286,000 pounds. Now, if you were to put a great blue whale full-grown on one side of the scale, you’d have to put thirty-six full-grown elephants on the other side just to balance it. Or if it were people, it would take a town of 2,500 standing on one side of the scales to balance the weight of a great blue whale. And a baby blue whale—oh, listen to this—they have been measured to gain weight at the rate of ten pounds an hour! A baby blue whale can gain as much as 240 pounds a day! That ought to make some of us feel better: 240 pounds a day!

Now people have difficulty, you know, believing the story of Jonah and the whale—if it was a whale. I was reading after Dr. Sidlow Baxter in his beautiful volume called Explore the Book as to what he had to say about the book of Jonah, and he told a remarkable story. Here’s what Dr. Baxter said. In February 1899, a whale ship named “Star of the East” sighted a great whale, and that whale was about three miles off. They set out to harpoon the whale one boat ahead of the other. It harpooned the whale. When the other boat came to try to help, the whale flashed around with its tail and upset the second boat. Two men fell out. One man drowned. The other man disappeared. They succeeded in killing the whale, towed it back to the ship, latched it to the side of the ship, got on the back of the whale with their shovels and spades and picks, and began to take the blubber from that whale so that they could get the whale oil and so forth. They had worked all day and into the night, and finally they got down to the stomach of that whale, and they put a crane on that, a hoist on it, and hoisted the stomach of this whale on board that whaler, “The Star of the East.” And when they did, they noticed that on the inside of the stomach there was some movement and there were spasmodic signs of life. And they slit the stomach open and found that man that had been swallowed. He was doubled up inside the stomach of that whale. He was unconscious. They laid him out on the deck. They poured sea water on him. After a while, he revived; but he was out of his mind. I can understand it. And for two weeks, according to Dr. Baxter, he was a raving lunatic. He was kept in the captain’s quarters; but after two weeks, he regained his senses and went back to work on the deck of that whaler. But during his sojourn in the whale’s stomach, the gastric juices had so bleached his skin that his skin—every place where it was exposed—was white—a ghastly look, almost like parchment. And that’s the way he stayed the rest of his life. He said that “I passed out not from lack of air”—there was plenty of air to breathe—“but,” he said, “I passed out from sheer panic and fear.”

I was reading after another man whose name is Dr. Harry Rimmer. I always enjoy reading Dr. Harry Rimmer. He lived in yesteryear also, but he was a great preacher. But he also had a scientific mind and was a great historian. And Dr. Harry Rimmer told of some fishermen who saw a giant monstrous shark. They had a boat, and they tried to harpoon the shark. When they did, one of the men fell overboard in the confusion and was swallowed alive—swallowed whole by that shark—and the shark disappeared. He said that forty-eight hours later they saw the same shark. They shot him, harpooned him from the deck of that ship, killed the shark, towed him to land, hoping to retrieve the body of their shipmate so that they could give him a Christian funeral. And when they slit the shark open, this man was still alive in the stomach of that shark, having been swallowed whole. Dr. Rimmer, who is a very reliable historian, and a very godly man, said that this man came to be known as the Jonah of the twentieth century. They even put him in a London museum and people had to pay money to come in and see him. Also, this man had things that happened to him by the gastric juices of the shark. For example, no hair would grow on his head, or on his arms or legs, any place that was exposed. And there were great yellow-brownish and whitish spots everywhere that his body had been exposed to the gastric juices. But he lived after having been swallowed by that great shark.

Now, was it a whale that swallowed Jonah? was it a shark that swallowed Jonah? or, was it some other creature that swallowed Jonah? Well, I really do not know, so I’m just going to say whale, probably, for the rest of the message, just to make it fit in with the King James translation here of that particular word. But I want to tell you and remind you that when I told you those first two stories, I’m not telling you those stories to make the story of Jonah plausible to you. I’m not trying to make it plausible to you. I’m not trying to prove to you that this could happen. I don’t have to prove to you that it could happen. Friend, I’m here to announce to you that it happened. I’m like M. R. DeHaan. He said, “It wouldn’t prove the Bible to be any more true if you were to find a whale’s skeleton on a beach somewhere with Jonah’s initials carved on its ribs.” Amen? Listen. You see, the Bible says that God “prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah.” (Jonah 1:17)
Now, if God could make a whale to begin with, and if God could make a man to begin with, God could make a whale, or a fish, or a sea monster that could swallow a man and keep him alive three days and three nights—if God wanted to. He could make one with five rooms of furniture and a refrigerator in it if He wanted to, right? Now what I’m trying to say is that if you have difficulty believing the story of Jonah and the whale, the reason that you have difficulty believing it is you just simply have difficulty believing in God—that’s all. I mean, when you admit the fact of God, the God that created the universe, you don’t have any difficulty with the story of Jonah, nor are you going to have any difficulty with the greater story of the death, burial, and resurrection of our dear Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

And, by the way, why should it be so hard for a whale to swallow Jonah? After all, he was a minor prophet. Think about it, all right? I heard where Clarence Darrow, the brilliant lawyer who argued with William Jennings Bryan at the Scopes Trial, was arguing about evolution, and it actually got into a law court here in Tennessee as to whether or not evolution was to be taught in schools or whether creationism was to be taught in school. And that trial, later on, came to be called the Monkey Trial. And William Jennings Bryan was a great Christian, and Clarence Darrow was a great lawyer and very brilliant; and he tried to confuse William Jennings Bryan and make him look silly on the witness stand. So he said something like this: “Well, you believe the Bible?” “Yes sir, I do.” “You believe all the Bible?” “Yes sir, I do.” “You believe the stories of the Bible?” “Yes sir, I do.” “Do you believe the story of Jonah?” “Yes sir, I do.” “Do you believe that Jonah swallowed the whale?” He said, “No sir, I don’t.” He said, “I believe the whale swallowed Jonah as the Bible says; but I want you to know, sir, had the Bible said that Jonah swallowed the whale, I would have believed it.” All right? I like that kind of faith in God.

Now what I’m trying to say is this, folks: I’m not trying to make this story plausible to you; I’m just trying to tell you that there is a great sign, a great lesson, here, and Jesus said it is the chief sign that He has given to prove His deity, to prove His messiahship—it is the sign of the prophet Jonah.

Now, having said that—and I hope by now you’ve found the book of Jonah—would you turn to the book of Jonah? And I want you to notice three things about this story of Jonah that we’re going to learn on this Easter morning.

I. A Story of Substitutionary Death

All right, the very first thing I want you to learn is that the story of Jonah was a story of a substitutionary death—the story of a substitutionary death. Begin reading here in chapter 1:11: “Then said they unto him, What shall we do unto thee, that the sea may be calm unto us? for the sea wrought, and was tempestuous. And he said unto them, Take me up, and cast me forth into the sea; so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.” (Jonah 1:11–12)

Now, here’s what happened that day. Jonah got on board that ship; and not only did God prepare a fish, but God prepared a great wind and God sent a storm. And that storm began to buffet and lash that ship, and beat upon that ship, and it looked like the ship was going down. And Jonah said, “The only way that this ship can be saved is if you throw me overboard. If I am sacrificed, the rest of you are going to be saved.”

Now, what is that a picture of? That is a picture of the vicarious, substitutionary, sacrificial death of the Lord Jesus Christ. That vessel buffeted by those storms pictures lost humanity enduring the wrath of God—the storms of God’s wrath—headed for certain wreck and certain doom upon the reefs of judgment. Jonah, we know, is a picture, in this instance, of the Lord Jesus Christ; and it was necessary that Jonah be sacrificed in order that the others might live.

Now, notice Jonah could not jump overboard. That would have destroyed the picture. Jonah said, “You’re going to have to take me and throw me overboard.” It was a picture that the Lord Jesus Christ has been crucified by our hands. Were you there when they crucified my Lord? Yes, you were there; I was there. And it was for our sins that He suffered, bled, and died. And so Jonah had to be thrown overboard. He had to be sacrificed by them.

Now they didn’t want to do this. They wanted to try some other ways. For example, look, if you will, in verse 5: “Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god”—but false religion could not deliver them—“and [they] cast forth the wares that were in the ship into the sea, to lighten it of them.” (Jonah 1:5) Now, not only did false religion not help them, but the self-effort of getting rid of things that were onboard the ship didn’t help them, either. Now so many people will turn to false religion and find no salvation. Many people will try to lighten the ship, as it were, by getting rid of the things in their lives: that lust, and that pride, and that anger, and debauchery, and all of these things. That pictures reformation; but it’s still no good. Look, if you will, in verse 13: “Nevertheless the men rowed hard to bring it to the land; but they could not.” (Jonah 1:13) That represents effort, sweat, toil, and tears—but no good.

Now, you see, dear friend, in this congregation today, there will be those who will try some religion other than the Christian religion, some way other than the Lord Jesus Christ, to still the storm within their bosom and the storms of God’s wrath. They cannot do it. False religion can’t do it. There are others of you who think, “Well, somehow, if I can just turn over a new leaf, if I can just reform, if I can just lighten the ship, if I can get these things out of my life, that will be all right. Others of you say, “Well, I’m going to do good things, good deeds. I’m going to row the boat ashore.” You can’t do it. Salvation, Jonah found out, is of the Lord. And one of the great sentences in the book of Jonah is this: “Salvation is of the LORD.” (Jonah 2:9) It is “not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us.” (Titus 3:5) The Bible says, “To him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.” (Romans 4:5) How glad I am that God has given us back here in the Old Testament a clear and a plain picture, number one, of a substitutionary death. One died for all.

Now, when they cast Jonah overboard, I want you to see what happened when they cast him overboard. Read verses 14 and 15: “Wherefore they cried unto the LORD, and said, We beseech thee, O LORD, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man’s life, and lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O LORD, hast done as it pleased thee…” —that is, what happened here was something that God had ordained and God had guided—“for thou, O LORD, hast done as it pleased thee. So they took up Jonah, and cast him forth into the sea:”—now, watch this—“and the sea ceased from her raging.” (Jonah 1:14–15) What false worship could not do; what reformation and lightening the ship could not do; what human effort, toil, and tears, and sweat could not do, a substitutionary sacrifice did. Immediately—immediately—the sea ceased. There was calm, there was peace, because, dear friend, God is teaching us right back here in this book of Jonah that there is no way to peace with God except through the blood of the Lord Jesus Christ. That’s a good place for an amen.

II. A Story of Supernatural Deliverance
Now, listen—listen. Not only was it a picture of a substitutionary death, but it was also a picture of a supernatural deliverance—a supernatural deliverance. Look in Jonah 1:17: “Now the LORD had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.” (Jonah 1:17) And, by the way, Jesus said, “As Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights, so the Son of man is going to be in the heart of the earth” —how long?—“three days and three nights.” (Matthew 12:40)

I don’t want to disturb you very much, folks; but I want to get you thinking. Jesus was not crucified on a Friday. There’s no way that Jesus could have been crucified on Friday and raised on Sunday and be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights—no way possible. I don’t care how you figure it. You can figure a part of a day is a whole day. You can do mathematics all day long, all night long. You can’t make Jesus be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights and be crucified on Friday and raised on the Lord’s Day, the first day of the week. It did not happen. Jesus was crucified, most likely, on Wednesday; maybe on a Thursday, but not on Friday. People say, “Well, what about Good Friday?” Well, that’s the invention of man; it did not come from the Bible. Somebody says, “Oh, but wait a minute. They took Him down from the cross because the next day was a Sabbath.” Yes, a Sabbath, not the Sabbath. There was more than a Sabbath day of a Saturday Sabbath day. There were weeks of Sabbaths. And that Sabbath was the Passover Sabbath. And if you read it carefully, you’ll find out that it was. And it did not necessarily fall on Saturday, which some people, carelessly reading, will say that Jesus, therefore, was put to death on Friday and raised on Sunday. No, He was three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. Now, the point being that, when Jonah came out of the mouth of that fish, or whale, or whatever it was, it was because God had supernaturally delivered him.

Some scholars believe that Jonah actually died when he was in that fish. He may have, and God may have given him life, resuscitated Jonah; because look, if you will, in chapter 2: “Then Jonah prayed unto the LORD his God out of the fish’s belly,”—now, watch what he said—“and said, I cried by reason of mine affliction unto the LORD, and he heard me; out of the belly of hell cried I, and thou hearest my voice.” (Jonah 2:1–2)

Father Time met pale King Death
Sittin’ by a tomb.
“Hello, old friend, I guess you’re here
To seal somebody’s doom.”
“You might say that,” sly Death replied.
A smile slid up his face.
“Inside reposes that Jesus man
Who said He’s save the race?
“And you, Time, why you stoppin’ here?
Don’t you have things to do?”
“I come each day to draw the veil
And let the mornin’ through.
"Say, why you watchin’ jus’ one grave,
With all your vast domain?
Looks like you’d be out ramblin’ ’round
And smitin’ folks with pain.”
“Well, this one’s somethin’ special.
He challenged me, they say.
Said He’s rest here just three days
Then stir and walk away.
“Now I’m the conqueror you know,
They don’t talk up to me.
When I steps in to cut ’em down
It's for eternity.”
“I sure can testify to that,”
Responded Father Time.
“I ain't seen one shake off the dust
Since you been in your prime.
“Well, I got other things to do,
I must be on my way.
I’ll see you when I come back by
To make another day.”
So whiskered Time went up the hill
To bid the sun to rise.
He left Death standin’ by the tomb
Lookin’ strong an’ wise.
Next day, Time ambled by again,
“And how are things?” he queried.
“Kinda quiet,” Death replied.
“I'm startin’ to be wearied.
“I won't be here when you come by
About this time tomorrow.
I'm anxious to be on my way,
An’ spread some grief and sorrow.”
Now Father Time was quite surprised
When he came back to see
Death a quiverin’ on the ground
In frightful agony!
His eyes were set, his throat was marked,
His clothes in disarray.
It wasn’t difficult to see
That Death had had his day.
“What happened, Death?” asked Father Time,
“What makes you look so bad?
I've never see you shake this way
Or seem so scared and sad.”
Death pulled himself up on a rock
A-lookin’ sick an’ humble.
Hung his head an’ wrung his hands
And Time could hear him mumble.

“Was sittin’ here before the dawn
   About to take my stroll
When all at once this whole wide world
   Began to reel and roll.

“That rollin’ stone jumped off the door
   An’ skipped on down the hill.
Then everything grew dark and quiet,
   Seemed like the earth stood still.

“I saw Him standin’ in the door,
   He didn’t move or speak,
Just looked at me an’ all at once
   I felt so tired and weak.

“He came and got a hold on me,
   And threw me to the grou’
Put His foot here on my neck
   Then took my keys an’ crown.

“Two angels came to talk with Him,
   They glistened like the sun.
He said, ‘The plan’s all finished now,
   Redemption’s work is done.’

“As they passed the garden gate
   I heard Him say, just then,
He’s settin’ free my captives
   And givin’ gifts to men.”

Time and Death met once again
   Off yonder by the gate.

“It’s good to see you,” said Old Time,
   “I’ve wondered ‘bout your fate.”

“I’m just a lowly servant now,
   There’s little time to roam,
I just push open this old gate
   And help the saints get home!”

I like that. Praise the Lord! A story of supernatural deliverance.
III. A Story of Serious Dimensions

There’s a third and final thing I want you to notice. Go back, if you will, to the book of Matthew chapter 12 with me, and look at the story again, where Jesus said—verse 39—“But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas: for as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale’s belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment…”—just underscore that phrase—“rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it…”—underscore that—“condemn it: because they repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here.” (Matthew 12:39–41)

Now I want you, as they say on a CB radio, to put on your ears right now, okay? This is a story of a substitutionary death. It was the story of a supernatural deliverance. But it is also a story of serious dimensions—serious dimensions. Now, here were these smart alecks, as it were, saying to Jesus Christ, “Prove yourself. Give us a sign.” But Jesus said, “You’ve already had a sign. It was the sign of the prophet Jonah. And Jonah spoke to Nineveh. Nineveh repented in sackcloth and ashes, and they were delivered.” Now Jesus said that “the men of Nineveh shall rise in the judgment and condemn this generation, because a greater than Jonah is here.” Jesus is greater than Jonah.

Now, what was Jesus saying? Jesus is saying that when God comes to judge us, God is not going to judge us primarily by the sin we’ve committed, but by the light we’ve rejected. Now there was hardly a more wicked city than Nineveh. As a matter of fact, they were ripe for judgment, and God said He was going to destroy it. But God said that “the men of Nineveh will rise in the judgment to condemn this generation.”

Now, to whom was He speaking? He was speaking there to a religious people who were lost, but people who had great light. As a matter of fact, the Son of God was in their midst. A greater than Jonah was in their midst. They had come face to face with Truth. Friend, listen to me. People are foolish to come to church on Easter morning to celebrate Easter if they don’t intend to get saved. The more light you have, the greater the judgment. Don’t you understand that? Don’t you understand it would be better for you to go to hell from Nineveh than it would be from Memphis? Don’t you understand that “unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required”? (Luke 12:48) Don’t you realize that we who live in this generation don’t only have the sign of Jonah, but we have the resurrection of Jesus Christ, where He has shown Himself alive by many infallible proofs? (Acts 1:3)

I’ve always been amazed how people will dress up to celebrate Easter, who are not Christians. What they do is celebrate their doom. Paul said in Acts 17:31 that God “hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness”—he’s talking now about judgment, the same judgment that Jesus is talking about in verse 41—“[God] hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained;”—who is the man that God ordained to be the judge?—

“whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead.” (Acts 17:31) Who did God raise from the dead? Jesus. Who is going to be the judge? Jesus. You see, the same Jesus who wants to be your Savior will be your judge if He doesn’t become your Savior. He’s going to judge you. And, you see, God has given assurance of the judgment, in that He raised Jesus from the dead.

Now, listen to Paul’s logic. You cannot hold court if the judge is dead. But the judge is Jesus, and God has assured us of the judgment in that He raised Jesus from the dead. Now you cannot hold court if the defendant is dead. But what Paul is saying is this: that the same God who raised up Jesus Christ from the dead is the God who is going to raise up the unsaved from the dead. If men do not rise to eternal life, they’re going to rise in judgment, but rise they will—rise they will!

Friend, I want to tell you that if you could bore down deeper into the molten core of this earth than ever a man has been, the Spirit of God would be there to bring you to judgment. If you could ascend up higher into the heavens than a space shuttle has ever gone, the Spirit of God would be there to bring you to judgment. Could you have your body burned and scattered by the four winds of the earth to the four quarters of the earth, the Spirit of God would bring together those ashes and reincarnate those ashes; that spirit and you would rise in the judgment. You see, listen to me. Easter guarantees eternal life for those of us who are saved. It guarantees eternal death—resurrection death, not resurrection life—in the judgment. A person without Christ will be raised from the dead and cast into hell. Easter guarantees it. That’s a solemn thought.

Conclusion
The story of Jonah, my friend, is a story of a substitutionary death. It is a story of a supernatural deliverance. But it is a story with solemn and serious dimensions. “Unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required.” (Luke 12:48)

Introduction

Take you Bibles and turn with me to Matthew chapter 12, and look with me at verse 42. I want to continue in the theme of what we have been doing, and that is to give honor to our dear Savior, whose glory and in whose name this house has been built.

Now the Lord Jesus was facing on a certain day some enemies. They were scribes and Pharisees. They had questioned Him. They had castigated Him. They had interrogated Him. They had picked at Him. They were saying, “Give us a sign and prove yourself to us.” And the Lord said a remarkable thing to them, in Matthew chapter 12 and verse 42. Look at it. The Lord said, “The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here” (Matthew 12:42).

Now Solomon was the greatest builder Israel had ever known. And he dwelt with more wealth, power, affluence, and prestige than any other ruler. Now here was the Lord Jesus, a peasant prophet. And the Lord Jesus was saying to them, “If you only knew, a greater than Solomon is right here in your midst.” And why did the Queen of Sheba come all the way from the uttermost part of the earth? Bible scholars believe that was somewhere around Ethiopia. She came all the way to Jerusalem to learn the wisdom of Solomon. And Jesus said, “If you don’t get right with me, she’s going to rise up in the judgment and condemn you, because a greater than Solomon is here.”

Now, can you imagine what must have gone through their minds when he said that? They said, “Why, Solomon was a king’s son. You’re but a peasant’s son, a carpenter’s son. Solomon was born in a palace. You were born in a stable. Solomon was born in mighty, magnificent Jerusalem. You were born in little Bethlehem. Why, Solomon had thousands of servants. You don’t have any. Solomon wore his kingly robe. You have just a seamless garment. Why, Solomon drank from vessels of gold. You have to get a drink from a harlot woman. You didn’t even have anything to draw water out of the well with. Solomon was rich. You are a peasant and a pauper. Solomon had armies. You have a few stragglers following you around. Solomon built great cities. You’re a carpenter. You build plows and chairs. Solomon lived in a palace. You don’t have anywhere to lay your head. Why, Solomon had 1,400 chariots, 1,200 horsemen, 40,000 stalls of horses; and when Solomon rode forth, he rode in comfort. You ride a donkey, if you’re not walking. Why, Solomon ate with the Queen of Sheba. And you eat with publicans and sinners. And you have the nerve, the audacity, to say a greater than Solomon is here?”

Friend, I want to tell you six ways, very quickly, that Jesus is greater than Solomon. Now if you want to find the story of the visit of the Queen of Sheba, turn with me to 1 Kings chapter 10 in the Bible. I want you to see what the Queen of Sheba saw when she came to meet Solomon.

I. The Wisdom of Jesus Is Greater Than the Wisdom of Solomon

The very first thing she saw was the wisdom of Solomon. But the wisdom of Jesus is greater. Now, watch this—1 Kings 10:1: “And when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with hard questions.” She said, “I’ll bring every conundrum, every enigma, every question, and every riddle. I’ll find out just how intelligent he is.” First Kings 10:2–4 says, “And she came to Jerusalem with a very great train, with camels that bare spices, and very much gold, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart. And Solomon told her all her questions: there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not. And when the queen of Sheba had seen all Solomon’s wisdom…” and so forth (1 Kings 10:2–4). She saw his wisdom. Why, the Bible tells us, in 1 Kings 4:31, that Solomon “was wiser than all men.”

He had incredible wisdom. To know how much wisdom Solomon had, all you have to do is read the Book of Proverbs. Proverbs is one of my favorite books in the Bible, which was written primarily by Solomon. Did you know it is said that Solomon had memorized 3,000 Proverbs? And, choir, he had memorized 1,500 songs. This man had an incredible mind.

For example, he knew all about creation. First Kings 4:33 says, “And he spake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall: he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes” (1 Kings 4:33). I mean, here was a man who knew biology. He knew all of these things. He knew botany. But, oh, my dear friend, everything that he knew about creation, Jesus in His wisdom had created. John 1:3 says, “All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.” Solomon knew about all of the ways of the fish, that verse tells us. He knew about fishing. But the Lord Jesus on a certain day caused some fish to swim in a net. There were so many fish in that net that He almost had two boats. Why, Solomon knew all about hydrology and the wind cycles. But the Lord Jesus Christ spoke to the winds, calmed the storms, and made that raging sea like a moonlit pond on a millpond in a spring evening.

Listen. The Lord Jesus is so much greater than Solomon in wisdom. You know what Solomon said about all of his wisdom after a while? Solomon looked back on all that he knew, and he said, in Ecclesiastes 1:17, “And I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness and folly: I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit.” It’s all just splendid nothingness. Solomon said it could not satisfy. Solomon knew, dear friend, that you can have a full head and still have an empty heart. He said, “It’s just vexation; it’s just vanity, all of this that I know,” because, let me tell you something, friend. The man that really knows, knows that he doesn’t know. Did you know that? The man that really knows, knows that he doesn’t know! The more a man learns, the more he discovers what he doesn’t know.

Who was the most brilliant man of all time? Well, you’d say Einstein. In 1955, before he died, he said, “I feel like a man chained. If I could only be free from the shackles of my intellectual smallness, then I could understand the universe in which I live.” Mr. Einstein, the answer to the universe in which you live is the One who made it, the Lord Jesus Christ. And the Bible says the wisdom of God is in Christ (1 Corinthians 1:24). And the Bible says, in 1 Corinthians 1:30, “But of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom.” And Ephesians 1:8 says, “He hath abounded toward us in all wisdom.”

Now we’ve got some learned people here today. We have some doctors, philosophers, and scientists. Thank God for your wisdom and knowledge. But I want to tell you that a greater than you is here! His name is Jesus! And if you know all about biology and the study of life, and you don’t know Jesus, the giver of life, you’re still ignorant. If you all know about botany and the study of flowers, and you don’t know Jesus, Sharon’s sweetest rose, my dear friend, you’re still ignorant. If you know all about geology and the ages of stones, and you don’t know Jesus, the Rock of Ages, my dear friend, I want to tell you, you still have so much to learn. Solomon knew all of that and he said, “All of this is just vanity to me.” There is One whose mind is greater than all, and His name is Jesus. He says to you with the wisdom that really counts, “If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally” (James 1:5).

II. The Works of Jesus Are Greater Than the Works of Solomon
Oh, my dear friend, Jesus is greater than Solomon in wisdom. But I’ll tell you something else she saw. Not only did she see the wisdom of Solomon; she saw the works of Solomon. She saw his workmanship. Continue to read. Look, if you will, in verse 4: “And when the queen of Sheba had seen all Solomon’s wisdom, and the house that he had built…” (1 Kings 10:4). You see that in verse 4? He built a house. Now this speaks of his palace. It was an incredible building. If you want to read about that house, put this in your margin right by that verse: 1 Kings 7:2–12. Read about it, and it defies description. I want all you architects to read that.

But I want to tell you, my dear Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, has prepared a better house. You read there in the Gospel of John, and Jesus said, “Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father’s house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also” (John 14:1–3)—“In my Father’s house.”

Dear friend, there is glory and there is joy. Not only had Solomon built a house, but Solomon had also set a table. Look, if you will, in verse 5: “And the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cupbearers…” (1 Kings 10:5). Oh, she saw this! Not only did she see the palace that he lived in, but she saw him set a table. He set it so magnificent, so scrumptious, and so delectable. But Jesus said, “A greater than Solomon is here” (Matthew 12:42).

My dear friend, Solomon could set that table, but I tell you something Solomon couldn’t do. Solomon couldn’t feed 5,000 with two fish and five loaves. I’ll tell you something else Solomon couldn’t do. Solomon could not turn plain water into sparkling wine. And I’ll tell you something else that he couldn’t do. Even if he could have, dear friend, he could never have satisfied the hunger in this heart. Only Jesus could do that with the bread of life and the water of life. “A greater than Solomon is here.”

And not only, dear friend, did she see the palace that he built; not only did she see that table that he set; but she saw the temple that he had erected. Look, if you will again, in verse 5. Look at it! And the Bible says, “He went up unto the house of the LORD” (1 Kings 10:5).

Now Solomon built a temple that was beyond compare. Now, you think, you men—some of the men that worked on the building are here today, and thank you, gentlemen—but I want to tell you, when Solomon’s temple was built, it took 183,600 workers. They labored for seven and a half years. King David had gathered gold, silver, brass, and precious stones. And God Himself was the architect. First Chronicles 28 and verse 12 says that God Himself gave the plans for that temple (1 Chronicles 28:12). The temple faced the east. It sat there on Mount Moriah. When the sun would come up over the Mount of Olives, the entire face of that temple was plated with gold. Josephus said it stood there on the Temple Mount; it stood there like a mountain of snow, that glorious and beautiful temple. Do you know, when they dedicated that temple, dear friend, they had a seven-day feast? Four thousand ushers served. There were 4,000 in the orchestra, and a great choir of Levites were singing. And the Bible says the glory of God filled the temple (2 Chronicles 7:1).

But are you listening to me? “A greater than Solomon is here.” The Bible says, “What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God…?” (1 Corinthians 6:19). Solomon built a temple for the people, but Jesus has a people for His temple. Jesus lives in us. What Solomon built is gone. And this building, it’s only a matter of time, and it will be rubble. But I’ll tell you what Jesus Christ has done in me will be leaping and dancing and praising God for all eternity. We are the temple of God, the temple that Jesus has built. I’ll tell you, friend, “a greater than Solomon is here.” I thank God for it.

III. The Worship of Jesus Is Greater Than the Worship of Solomon

I’ll tell you a third thing that she saw. Not only did she see the wisdom of Solomon; not only did she see the workmanship of Solomon; but she saw the worship of Solomon. Look, if you will, in the last part of 1 Kings 10:5. The Bible says she saw “his ascent by which he went up unto the house of the LORD.” Now the word ascent here may be translated as “burnt offering,” because, when Solomon went to worship God, he dared not come into the presence of God without an offering in his hand. Let me tell you the kind of an offering that he made when he dedicated the temple. It says, in 2 Chronicles 7:5, “And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty and two thousand oxen,”—think of it: 22,000 oxen! That would be like burning 22,000 Cadillacs today—“and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep: so the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.”

But, my dear friend, all of that blood on Jewish altars slain can never wash away sin. Listen to Hebrews 10:4: “For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins.” Then listen to Hebrews 10:12: “But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God.” Solomon may have made a great sacrifice, but, my dear friend, he never made a sacrifice that would compare with that one great day on dark Calvary when the Lord Jesus laid out His precious blood for you and for me. And I tell you that, “a greater than Solomon is here” in worship.
Thank you, Lord Jesus, for what you’ve done.

Not all the blood of beasts
On Jewish altars slain
C Died give the guilty conscience peace
Or wash away that stain.

—ISAAC WATTS

But, thank God, the blood of Jesus Christ, God’s Son, cleanseth us (1 John 1:7).

Hallelujah! He cleanseth us from all sin, every stain, every blur, and every blemish. We are whiter than snow in the blood of Jesus.

IV. The Wealth of Jesus Is Greater Than the Wealth of Solomon

I’ll tell you a fourth thing that she saw. Not only did she see his wisdom; not only did she see his work; not only did she see his worship; but I’ll tell you what else she saw. She saw his wealth. Look, if you will, in verse 7—she said, “When I heard of all of this…”—but then, in verse 7, she says, “I believed not the words, until I came, and mine eyes had seen it: and, behold, the half was not told me: thy wisdom and prosperity exceedeth the fame which I heard” (1 Kings 10:7).

Now she saw his wealth and his prosperity. There was probably never ever a king as wealthy as King Solomon. Oh, King Tut, I’ve seen what King Tut did. But I want to tell you, dear friend, that old King Tut and what he did would shrivel in comparison to what Solomon did. And yet, Jesus, speaking of all of the wealth of Solomon said—listen—”a greater than Solomon is here.” And do you know why? Why, Solomon had gold and silver, but the Bible says, in Psalm 24, “The earth is the LORD’s, and the fulness thereof” (Psalm 24:1). All of the cattle on a thousand hills, all the gold and silver, all the rubies, all the diamonds, and every star belongs to the Lord Jesus Christ. Incredibly wealthy! Now 1 Kings 10:10 tells us that the Queen of Sheba just came and she began to unload gifts on Solomon. And she gave him silver, gold, and spices. She gave him this and that. Incredible gifts!

But let me tell you about the Lord Jesus Christ. Dear friend, while the Queen of Sheba gave gifts to Solomon, Jesus has people who give Him their lives. I mean, I have given my life to Jesus. I want to tell you, dear friend, that Jesus is more than all this world to me. I have given my life and my all to Jesus. I want to give more and more day by day to the Lord Jesus Christ. And I want to say with the hymnist,

Love so amazing, so divine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all.

—ISAAC WATTS

Jesus is worth it. When Solomon died, he didn’t leave me anything. But I’m an heir of God, and a joint heir with the Lord Jesus Christ (Romans 8:17).

V. The Workers of Jesus Are Greater Than the Workers of Solomon
I want to mention a fifth thing that the Queen of Sheba saw when she came. Not only did she see the wealth of Solomon, but she saw his workers. Look, if you will, in verse 8 of this chapter. She gets around and she sees everybody that day, and they look so happy. There are smiles on every face, and everybody is up. And this is what she says: “Happy are thy men, happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom” (1 Kings 10:8). “Why,” she said, “Solomon, these people that work for you, they’re so happy.” And that must have been true. How would you like to serve in the court of the wealthiest and the wisest king that ever lived?

But, my dear friend, “a greater than Solomon is here.” Because of the workers of the Lord Jesus Christ—the workers who built this building, the workers who win souls, the workers in the choir, the workers in the orchestra—not only are there people who would live for Jesus, but, dear friend, this building is for the people who would die for the Lord Jesus Christ. They have given Him all. And you talk about joy: the workers of Solomon may have found happiness, but Jesus gives “joy unspeakable and full of glory” (1 Peter 1:8). I thank God I know the Lord Jesus Christ! I thank God I’ve been saved! I thank God I can serve Him! I thank God that I have a purpose in life that is steadfast and sure! Thank you, Lord Jesus! Jesus’ workers are greater in number. There are millions around the world. Greater in joy. Greater in sacrifice. Thank God for it!

VI. The Worth of Jesus Is Greater Than the Worth of Solomon
Now, let me just tell you the last thing that makes Jesus greater than Solomon. Not only are His workers greater, but, my dear friend, His worth is greater. His worthiness is greater. Look, if you will, in chapter 10, verse 9. The queen of Sheba looked and she saw everything. She says, “There’s only way to explain it: God is upon you.” And she said, “Blessed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel: because the LORD loved Israel for ever, therefore made he thee king, to do judgment and justice” (1 Kings 10:9). What a throne it was that he sat upon! You want to see a description of that throne? Just go on to verse 18. Look at it: “Moreover the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the best gold. The throne had six steps, and the top of the throne was round behind: and there were stays on either side on the place of the seat, and two lions stood beside the stays. And twelve lions stood there on the one side and on the other upon the six steps: there was not the like made in any kingdom” (1 Kings 10:18–20). Nobody had ever seen a throne like the throne that Solomon sat on.
My friend, one more time I want to tell you that Jesus is greater. If God said that Solomon was worthy to sit upon such a throne, have you thought about the throne that our Lord Jesus sits upon? My dear friend, Jesus is enthroned in the glory right now. Hebrews 1:8 speaks of the Lord Jesus, and it says, “Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever.” Who is Jesus? He’s not another man, dear friend! He is God! He sits upon the throne of Godhood. But not only does He sit upon the throne of Godhood; He sits upon the throne of grace. Hebrews chapter 4 says, “Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy” (Hebrews 4:16). Oh, thank God, the throne room is a throne of grace. And you’d better be grateful that it is. And, by the way, I’ve been in that throne room this morning. It’s wonderful to be in that throne room, because we come boldly right to the throne of grace. I could not walk up to Solomon’s throne, for one of those lions would get me. I want you to know that I have come into the throne room, because it’s a throne of grace with arms wide open. Not only a throne of Godhood, and a throne of grace; friend, it’s a throne of glory. Didn’t your heart thrill when the choir sang “The King Is Coming?”

Oh, listen! Take your Bibles and turn with me to Revelation 5. I want you to see what that throne is like. Look with me in verse 11: “And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne…”—now, friend, this is the throne that’s greater that Solomon’s throne—"the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever” (Revelation 5:11–13). Solomon had a great throne, but may I tell you that the throne of Jesus is greater. Amen! Hallelujah! “A greater than Solomon is here.”

Conclusion

Listen to me. Not only is a greater than Solomon here; a greater than anybody is here! And not only is a greater than anybody here; a greater than everybody put together is here! His name is Jesus. There’s never been another like the Lord Jesus. None can compare with Him among the sons of men. Hallelujah! Praise God! What a Savior we have today! What a glorious Jesus we have to worship today!

I’ll tell you this story and I’ll be finished. Dr. Lee, the former, great pastor of this church, said that near Camden, South Carolina, there was a fire in a schoolhouse.
Seventy precious little children died in that fire. It just broke out and burned all over that schoolhouse. The parents and firemen gathered to try to put out the fire. But it was a raging inferno. There was one man who saw his son there in the flames. That little boy behind a barrier of flames saw his daddy’s face. The daddy saw the boy. The boy stretched out is hand in those flames and said, “Daddy! Daddy! Get me out of here! Daddy! Daddy, can’t you save me? Daddy!” The father started to go into the flames, but strong arms held him back. It was impossible. It was a raging inferno. He said, “Daddy, can’t you save me? Daddy, can’t you save me?” But they held him back. It was impossible. And he watched that little child wither like that flower would wither if you put an acetylene torch on it. That night when he tried to sleep, all he could see was the face of his son in those flames, saying, “Daddy, can’t you save me?” All he could hear was the voice of that little boy, “Daddy, can’t you save me?” And his Daddy had to say, “Son, Daddy can’t save you!”

Now we live in a sin-cursed, hell-bent world. We live in a world that’s in deep trouble. And our world reaches out its arms to science and says, “Science, can’t you save me?” And if science would be honest, science would say, “I am getting you into deeper trouble, because the more learned we are, the deeper we sink, and we’re afraid of own inventions today.” Science would say, “I can tell you how far it is to the sun, but I can’t tell you how far God can remove our sins from us.” We stretch out our hands to education, and we say, “Education, can’t you save us?” And education would have to say, “I’m sorry. I can improve your mind, but I have no power to for your soul. I have no answer to the sin problem.” We might look at sociology and culture. We say to sociology and culture, “Can’t you save us? Can’t you save us?” And sociology and culture could say, “All I can do is to try to make this world a better place to go to hell from. That’s all I can do.”

Oh, my dear friend, you can look every place you want to look, but I’m going to tell you something, and you listen to this preacher this morning. There’s only One who can save us. And His name is Jesus. Say His name with me: Jesus! Say it again. Jesus! Say it again. Jesus! Friend, as long as I live, as long as God gives me a breath, as long as there’s a pulpit there, as long as this house is here, we’re going to preach Jesus! Jesus! “A greater than Solomon is here.” He’s what it’s all about. He’s what it’s for. And, friend, whatever else you may know, if you don’t know Jesus, you’ve missed it all. Jesus saves! Jesus saves! We welcome you, Jesus, and “a greater than Solomon is here.”

Introduction

Would you turn to Matthew chapter 12, and we’re going to look in just a moment at verse 42. And while you’re turning, let me tell you this. Criticism is one of the easiest things there is to do. It doesn’t take much size to criticize. But if you were to criticize the Lord Jesus, how pitiful would be your criticism!

Now the text that I’m about to read to you was a text that was given to the Pharisees, who were masters of criticism. They criticized Jesus. They castigated Jesus. They interrogated Jesus. But they were so blind. They were oblivious to the obvious. There was the Lord Jesus right in their midst, the King of kings, the Lord of lords. Never another like Jesus, amen? But notice what He had to say to these—Matthew chapter 12 and verse 42. He said to them, to these Pharisees, “The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here” (Matthew 12:42).

Now these Pharisees were taken with bigness. They were taken with religion, pomp, circumstance, glory, and power. And therefore they had read about King Solomon in all of his glory, and they were impressed by that. But the Lord Jesus said, “Now, wait a minute.” The queen of the south—that is, the Queen of Sheba—had come from the uttermost parts of the ends of the earth. Most likely, that was Ethiopia. And she made a long visit, a trek, dangerous, arduous, to see Solomon in all of his glory. And Jesus said, “There’s one much greater than Solomon that is right here with you.” And in their blindness and in their arrogance they missed Him. I wonder what they thought when Jesus said to them, when this peasant prophet said to them, “a greater than Solomon is right here with you.”

The past pastor of this church, Dr. Lee, imagines what they might have said. They thought, “Well, Solomon was a king’s son. You are a carpenter’s son. Solomon was born in a palace. You were born in a stable. Solomon was born in beautiful Jerusalem. You were born in little Bethlehem. Solomon had many servants. You don’t have any servants. Solomon wore kingly robes. You’re dressed in a peasant’s garb. Solomon drank from vessels of gold. You had to ask a fallen woman, a Samaritan harlot, for a drink of water. Solomon was rich. You’re poor. Solomon had armies. And you just have a few followers. Solomon built great cities. You’re a carpenter’s son. You build plowshares and chairs. Solomon lived in a palace. You’re homeless. Solomon had 1,400 chariots. You have to walk wherever you go. Solomon ate with the Queen of Sheba. You eat with publicans and sinners. How can you say that you’re greater than Solomon?”

Today, I want to mention seven ways that Jesus was greater than Solomon. And I hope that God the Holy Spirit will burn this into your heart and etch it upon your consciousness, and you’ll come away saying, “Hallelujah, what a Savior! Our great Savior!”

Now you find the story of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba back in the Old Testament in 1 Kings chapter 10. So I’d like for you to go backward in your Bible, if you will, to 1 Kings chapter 10, and lay your Bible open there, and continue to look with me as we’re going to find these seven ways that the Lord Jesus, our great Savior, is greater than Solomon.

I. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in Wisdom
Number one: Jesus is greater in wisdom. Now, let’s think a little bit about the wisdom of Solomon. In 1 Kings chapter 10, the first three verses, we learn about the wisdom of Solomon. And here’s what it says: “And when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with hard questions. And she came to Jerusalem with a very great train, with camels that bare spices, and very much gold, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart. And Solomon told her all her questions: there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not” (1 Kings
That is, she could not stump him. She could not ask him a question that he could not answer. You know why? God had given to Solomon the supernatural gift of wisdom. And chapter 10, verse 24, says, “And all the earth sought to Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart” (1 Kings 10:24). And Solomon was a wise man.

For example, Solomon wrote the Book of Proverbs. I read regularly from the Book of Proverbs. What an incredible compendium of wisdom that is! And that was written primarily by Solomon. And as you read the Book of Proverbs, you realize that Solomon knew theology. Solomon knew philosophy. Solomon knew biology. Solomon knew sociology. What an incredible gathering of wisdom that Solomon wrote in the Book of Proverbs! And, by the way, it is said in the Bible that he knew 3,000 proverbs and 1,500 psalms by memory, by heart. What a prodigious mind he had! And what great wisdom he had! He knew all about creation.

For example, he studied all of the trees of the field and the creatures. And the Bible says, in 1 Kings chapter 4 and verse 33, “And he spake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall: he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes” (1 Kings 4:33). This man had incredible wisdom. He knew about fish.

But I want to tell you, Jesus is greater than wisdom. Jesus made the fish that Solomon knew about, isn’t that right? The Bible says, in John chapter 1 and verse 3, “All things were made by him;”—that is, by Jesus—“and without him was not any thing made that was made” (John 1:3). Solomon may have studied fish, but Jesus loaded a fisherman’s net with fish so much that it sank two boats. Solomon knew about all of the winds and the circulation of the winds, but the Lord Jesus, greater than Solomon, stilled the winds and made the waves lay down at His feet like whipped puppies. Solomon might have known about navigation—and indeed he did, because he sent out his ships—but the Lord Jesus was the One who walked on water. “A greater than Solomon is here.”

Now, here’s the interesting thing. All of Solomon’s wisdom, all of his knowledge—listen—it didn’t satisfy him. Do you know what he wrote in Ecclesiastes chapter 1 and verse 17? He said, “I gave my heart to know wisdom, and…I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit” (Ecclesiastes 1:17). Do you know what? Wisdom is not the answer—this world’s wisdom. The more a man knows, the more he knows that he does not know, isn’t that true?

And you take a man like Einstein. Now Einstein died in 1955, but here’s what Einstein said. He said, “I feel like a man chained. If I could only be freed from the shackles of my intellectual smallness, then I could understand the universe in which I live.” He said, “I feel bound. Oh,” he said, “if I could only understand.” Folks, that was Einstein who said that.

Solomon said, “All of my wisdom, all of my learning, it was vexation of spirit.” But you see, Jesus has greater wisdom. You can know facts. You can have a full head and an empty heart. But, oh, Jesus gives wisdom that satisfies the wellsprings, wisdom that a little child can know. The Bible says, in 1 Corinthians 1, verse 30, that Jesus Christ is “made unto us wisdom” (1 Corinthians 1:30). Ephesians 1, verse 8, says, “Wherein he hath abounded toward us in all wisdom” (Ephesians 1:8).

Folks, I want to tell those of you in the university, I want to tell our college students, study all you want, learn as much as you want, but that wisdom will never satisfy the longing of your heart. It didn’t satisfy Solomon, and it will not satisfy you. And how sad for you to study biology and the study of life, and not know Jesus, who is the life! How sad to study geology and the ages of the rocks, and not know Jesus, the rock of ages! How sad for you, my precious friend, to study philosophy, and not know the Lord Jesus Christ, who is the way and the truth (John 14:6). No, Jesus—Jesus—is greater than Solomon in wisdom.

II. Jesus Is Greater in Works Than Solomon

Here’s a second way that Jesus is greater than Solomon: not only greater than Solomon in wisdom, but greater than Solomon in works. Now Solomon was a man who achieved a lot of wonderful things.

A. Solomon Built a House, and Jesus Is Building a House for Us

For example, Solomon built a house. You’re in 1 Kings chapter 10. Look in verse 4. And it says, “And when the queen of Sheba had seen all Solomon’s wisdom, and the house that he built” (1 Kings 10:4). Now Solomon built for himself a house. It took him thirteen years to complete it. It defies description. I don’t have time to try to describe it to you this morning, but just put in your margin 1 Kings chapter 7, and you can read about the house that Solomon built for himself. And, ladies, maybe your husband will build one like that for you.

But I want to say that, while Solomon built a great house, Jesus has built a greater one. Do you know what the Bible says in John chapter 14, verse 2? “In my Father’s house are many mansions,” and “I go and prepare a place for you” (John 14:2). If you think that little shack that Solomon lived in was something, you wait till you see what God has prepared for us—the Lord Jesus Christ. He has prepared a place for us. What a house our Lord is building!
B. Solomon Set a Table, and Jesus Is the Bread of Life

And you know also, not only did Solomon build a house, but Solomon set a table. Look in chapter 10, verse 5: “And the meat”—that is, the food—“of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his ascent,” and so forth (1 Kings 10:5). She saw the gracious, sumptuous feast that old King Solomon had set. It was delicacy beyond compare.

But I want to tell you, Jesus is greater. Solomon could set a feast, but Solomon couldn’t take a little boy’s lunch—five loaves and a few fishes—and feed 5,000. He couldn’t do that. I’ll tell you what else Solomon couldn’t do. Solomon could not change pure water into sparkling wine. And even if Solomon could, Solomon could not serve the bread of life, the water of life, that will satisfy the deepest longing of your heart.

Come up here. Let me tell you something. I don’t care how much you know, and I care not how much you acquire: if you don’t know Jesus and have Jesus, you are ignorant and poor. Jesus is greater than Solomon. She saw the table that Solomon set, but God brought me here to tell you, my children, “Come and dine! Come and feed on the Lord Jesus, who is the bread of life; the Lord Jesus, who is the water of life.” He and He alone can satisfy the deep longing of your heart. Solomon ate, and he was hungry again. Jesus is the bread of life. He is the water of life.

C. Solomon Built a Temple, and Jesus Is Building a Temple

Think of the temple that Solomon built. We’re talking about his works. In 1 Kings 10, verse 5, the Bible says she also saw “his ascent by which he went up unto the house of the LORD” (1 Kings 10:5). What “house of the LORD” is he talking about? That incredible temple that Solomon built. Historians tell us it was probably the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, or ever will see. It took 183,600 workers to build that temple. They worked on it, labored for seven and a half years. Solomon’s father, David, had been gathering gold and silver and precious stones to build that temple. God Almighty was the architect of that temple. It faced east. The sun rose on the covering of that temple, gold-plated. Josephus said it stood there on the mountain like a mountain of snow.

But I want to tell you, Jesus has built a greater temple. Do you want to know where His temple is? Not this building that we worship in. You—you—are the temple that Jesus has built. First Corinthians chapter 6, verse 19, says, “What? know ye not that [you] are the temple of [God]?” (1 Corinthians 6:19). You are His temple!

Where is the temple that Solomon built? It is gone! You can’t find a shred of it. The temple that Jesus has built will live forever. I mean, this temple, inhabited by the Holy Ghost, will live forever. We are temples of God. We have to understand that’s what salvation is all about. Salvation is not primarily getting man out of earth into heaven; it is getting God out of heaven into man. And we are now temples of Almighty God.

III. Jesus Is Greater in Workers Than Solomon
Jesus is greater than Solomon in wisdom. Jesus is greater than Solomon in works. I'll tell you a third way that Jesus is greater than Solomon: in workers, those who serve Him who do those works. Look, if you will, in 1 Kings now, chapter 10 and verse 8. The Queen of Sheba is there, and she sees the retinue of servants that Solomon has. She sees those coming and going, and she notices something about their countenance. They all seem to be smiling. And here’s what she said: “Happy are thy men, happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom” (1 Kings 10:8). What she said is, “What a wonderful place to work! And what a wonderful man to work for!” She said, “I believe these must be the happiest people I’ve ever seen.” Can you imagine serving in the court of such a wise and wealthy king as Solomon?

I want to tell you something, friend. Listen to me. A greater than Solomon is here, and His servants are more blessed than Solomon’s servants ever could be blessed. Is that not true? Listen. The servants of Jesus have far more happiness, and far more than happiness, than Solomon’s servants ever had. Not only do we have happiness; we have joy. And Jesus says to us, in John chapter 15 and verse 11, “These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full” (John 15:11). A child of God walking by the Spirit has continual, conspicuous, and contagious joy. And we are to serve the Lord with gladness. Now Solomon is gone. His palace is gone. His sumptuous table is gone and all of those who served him. So what?

But, friend, you can’t give a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple and lose your reward (Matthew 10:42). These servants who are working this morning in the nursery, changing diapers and wiping little noses, the Lord makes a note of all of that. Happy are His servants. The service of Jesus is wonderful. Jesus’ servants are greater in joy. I’ll tell you what else they’re greater in. They’re greater in dedication. Those of you who are servants of the Lord Jesus know what I’m talking about. In this world today there are literally millions and millions of people who not only serve Jesus, but if necessary would die for the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus is greater in wisdom. Jesus is greater in works. Jesus is greater in workers. If I had a thousand lives, I’d want to give every one to Jesus, serving the Lord Jesus. Happy are His servants.

IV. Jesus Is Greater in Wealth Than Solomon
I’ll tell you another way that Jesus is greater than Solomon. Jesus is greater than Solomon in wealth. Now, think about the wealth that old Solomon had. First Kings chapter 10, beginning in verse 14—listen to it: “Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold, beside that he had of the merchantmen, and of the traffick of the spice merchants, and of all the kings of Arabia, and of all the governors of the country. And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold: six hundred shekels of gold went to one target. And he made three hundred shields of beaten gold; three pound of gold went to one shield: and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon. Moreover the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the best gold” (1 Kings 10:14–18). You’re catching the idea. I don’t have time to read all of this. Fast-forward down to verse 23. Here’s what it says: “So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom” (1 Kings 10:23). Mr. Gates, Aristotle Onassis, Donald Trump, they were paupers compared to Solomon—compared to Solomon. Probably no individual who has ever lived, or ever will live, had the wealth that Solomon had. The Queen of Sheba, who herself knew wealth, when she came and saw the wealth of Solomon, she said, “The breath has gone out of me.” She said, “The half has never yet been told.”

Wealthy, yes; but come up here and let me tell you something. Jesus is greater in wealth. How wealthy is Jesus? Psalm 24, verse 1: “The earth is the LORD’S…”—that’s pretty wealthy—“The earth is the LORD’S, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein” (Psalm 24:1). In another place the Bible tells us that the cattle on a thousand hills belong to Jesus (Psalm 50:10). All of the minerals in this earth belong to Jesus. Every star is His. Friend, it was all made by Him, and for Him, and it’s all coming back to Him. People ask, “What is this world coming to?” Have you ever said that? “What is the world coming to?” It’s coming to Jesus! It is coming to Jesus! And it belongs to the Lord Jesus Christ. Solomon was wealthy, but he left me nothing.

I am an heir of God and a joint heir with Jesus Christ (Romans 8:17). You know what that means to be a joint heir? The lawyers here will tell you what a joint heir is, friend. That’s share and share alike. I mean, that is share and share alike. We enter in to His riches. What a blessing!

I was talking this week with Gene McCombs, and we discussed something that happened to him. He’s a member of our church. He’s a dear man of God. Many of you have heard him preach. Gene was getting off of an airplane one day, and he reached up in the rack over above where they put the luggage up there, and his hand fell on a stack of paper. Everybody else had gotten off the plane. He reached and pulled it down. It was a stack of 100-dollar bills that high. So he put his hand up there again: another stack of bills; over 20,000 dollars in cold cash—no identification, just a rubber band; two stacks of 100-dollar bills. He was the last one off the plane. He’s got this money. He goes to the pilot, and he says to the pilot, “I have found a substantial amount of money on this airplane. What should I do?” The pilot directs him to the proper office. He’s there in the office filling out the forms, and a man comes into the office, straggly, unkempt, rude, looking for the money. He describes the money. It’s obviously his. Gene, being an honest man, said, “Well, give it to him.” That man took that more than 20,000 dollars, turned and walked out without even saying thank you.

Gene said that he went and got in a cab, and the devil got in the cab with him, and the devil said, “You, sir, are a fool. Don’t you know, in the first place, that’s probably drug money? That man didn’t even say thank you. Think of all you could do with that money for good. You’re a fool.” And Gene said, “I got to thinking about real wealth, real riches, who Jesus is, and how He has saved me, and how He keeps me, and what I’m looking forward to, and,” he said, “I spoke out loud to the devil, he was so real. I said to the devil, ‘But look what I’ve got!’” And the cabbie heard him say that. The cabbie thought he had a gun, turned around and said, “What did you say?” “Oh,” he said, “Pardon me. I was just talking to the devil.” The cab driver never took his eye off the rearview mirror from that time on.

Friend, I want to tell you, it’s about time we talked to that dirty devil and said, “Look what I’ve got!” Amen? I mean, this world has so much to offer, but nothing compared to Jesus. Oh, the wealth of our great King who owns it all! And He didn’t make it for the devil’s crowd. He made it for His children. Jesus is greater in wealth than Solomon.

V. Jesus Is Greater in Worth Than Solomon

I want to mention the fifth way He’s greater than Solomon. Jesus is greater in worth. I didn’t say wealth; I said worth. Wealth is what a man has. Worth is what a man is. The Queen of Sheba came. She looked at Solomon and saw the blessings of God, and realized he was a worthy man. First Kings chapter 10, verse 9—Here’s what the Queen of Sheba said when she saw how God had blessed Solomon. She said, “Blessed be the LORD thy God, which delighteth in thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel: because the LORD loved Israel for ever, therefore made he thee king, to do judgment and justice” (1 Kings 10:9). What she’s saying is, “Solomon, God has crowned you. God has blessed you. God has seen in you worth. And therefore,” according to verse 18, “the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the best gold” (1 Kings 10:18). And he sits up on that throne with twelve lions out in front of that throne. There were steps going up to that throne. Can you just imagine what that throne must have been like? When the Queen of Sheba saw it, the Bible says, the breath went out of her (1 Kings 10:5).

But I want to tell you, Jesus is greater in worth. Let me tell you about another throne. Revelation chapter 5—I love this passage—Revelation chapter 5, verses 11 through 13. The Apostle John is transported, he’s taken up into heaven, and this is what he saw. He says, “And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever” (Revelation 5:11–13)—amen?

Oh, friend, what a great Savior, greater in worth than Solomon! Solomon’s throne is gone. There’s a throne established in the heavens. John saw it. It was occupied. There is One sitting upon it. We sang it: “Our God Reigns!” And the kingdoms of this world will become the kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ (Revelation 11:15). Friend, I’m glad that God honored Solomon—and I pay respect to him—but I would never worship him. I worship Jesus—I worship Jesus.

One king came into a room, and a bunch of diplomats and dignitaries were there. And when the king walked in, they all stood up. He, in feigned modesty, said, “Sirs, be seated. After all, I’m not the Lord.” One said to him, “Sir, I mean you no disrespect. I stand to give you honor. But if you were the Lord, I would fall on my face—I would fall on my face.”

Have you been on your face before Him? Do you join that group in Revelation? Do you have someone, somebody, that you love, a greater than Solomon, greater in worth, somebody that you say “is worth all that I have and am; I give Him honor and glory and power and majesty forever”?

VI. Jesus Is Greater in Worship

I’ll tell you another way that Jesus is greater than Solomon. He’s greater in worship. Now in chapter 10, verse 5, the Bible says that the Queen of Sheba, as she’s there watching all of this, she sees the ascent by which he went up to the temple (1 Kings 10:5). I’ve studied this word ascent, and what it literally means. The word ascent may be translated, “burnt offering.” One translation that I studied this week said, “holocaust.” And what it means is this: that she saw Solomon as he brought his offerings in worship to the Lord. When Solomon dedicated that temple, the Bible describes it, in 2 Chronicles chapter 7 and verse 5: “And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty and two thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep” (2 Chronicles 7:5).

This is one offering when he dedicated the temple. All of those offerings could not atone for one sin—all of them. All they did was to typify and illustrate the offering that would be made. Hebrews chapter 10 and verse 4 says, “For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and goats can take away sin” (Hebrews 10:4). But Hebrews chapter 10, verse 12, speaks of our great Savior, and it says, “But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God” (Hebrews 10:12).

Friend, He is our great Savior. He’s greater in worship. Solomon, in worship, offered the blood of bulls and of goats. The Lord Jesus offered up Himself.

I mentioned Dr. Lee a while back. He told a story. It happened in South Carolina. There was a fire in a schoolhouse. By the time the people got there, seventy children had been trapped in those flames—a fiery inferno. There was no way to get in to rescue those children. They stood there and watched the schoolhouse burn. One man who was in the crowd saw the face of his little boy in the crowd. And the little boy saw his father’s face. And the little boy cried out to his father, “Father, can’t you save me?” And the father lunged, but strong men held him back. There was no way. The father would perish also. And the father had to stand there and watch his little son wither like a flower. And over and over again, the little boy was crying out, “Daddy, can’t you save me? Daddy, can’t you save me?” Dr. Lee said, “That father went home and tried to sleep, but he saw the face of that little boy in the flames. He heard the voice of that little boy over and over again: ‘Daddy, can’t you save me? Daddy, can’t you save me?’” The man lived for only two years after that. He could never get it out of his heart and out of his mind.

Our old, sin-sick world looks to science and says, “Science, can’t you save me?” And science says, “I can tell you how far it is from the earth to the sun, but I cannot tell you how far God can remove sin from the human heart.” The world looks at education, and says, “Education, can’t you save me?” And education says, “I can talk to you about facts, but I cannot impart saving truth to you.” The world looks at government, and the world says, “Government, can’t you save me?” And government, if it would be honest, would have to say, “No, we can regulate things and run things, but government has no power to deal with sin. Government has no power to make people good.” “Sociology, can’t you save me?” Sociology would have to say, “All I can do, and all culture can do, is to make the world a better place to go to hell from. I cannot save you.” Listen to me. Jesus is great, because He is the only Savior of the world. And I ask, “Jesus, Jesus, can’t you save me?” And Jesus says, “Yes, I can, and I will.”

By His death and endless life Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
—Priscilla J. Owens

He’s greater than Solomon in worship.
VII. Jesus Is Greater in Wonder

Final thing: Jesus is greater than Solomon in wonder. When the Queen of Sheba saw everything that Solomon had done, she was filled with awe, filled with amazement. She said, in chapter 10 of 1 Kings, verse 7, “the half has never yet been told” (1 Kings 10:7). But I want to say, as wonderful as Solomon was, Jesus is more wonderful—our great Savior. I feel tongue-tied. I cannot articulate, my emotions cannot describe, my brain cannot comprehend, the wonders that belong to the Lord Jesus Christ, King of kings, Lord of lords. And when you see Him in glory, you’ll say, “The pastor preached about this, but he didn’t tell us half of it—he didn’t tell us half of it.” Why? Because I can’t—because I can’t.

Years and years ago, I heard a story of a little girl who was blind. A doctor was able to perform a very delicate operation, hoping to restore the sight to that little girl. The operation took place. The time for healing took place, and then the time when they were going to take off the bandages. Can you imagine what a moment that must have been? So there they are in the doctor’s office. He begins to unwrap that gauze from around her precious little head, her beautiful little face. The nurses are there looking. Then he takes those gauze pads from off of her eyes and says, “Now, keep your eyes closed until I tell you to open them, and open very slowly.” And already the light is beginning to come in. She opens her eyes and focuses, and the first thing she saw was the face of that doctor. The next thing she saw was the face of her mother. The next thing she saw were her mother’s tears. And she could see! She saw that doctor’s office. She jumped up, wanting to see everything that she’d only touched. She went to the window and opened the window. And then she saw not the grass; she saw the green grass. Not the sky; she saw the blue sky. She saw God’s wonderful world. Her mother was dancing in ecstasy. She came back to her mother and said, “Mother, why didn’t you tell me it was so beautiful?” And the mother said, “Darling, I tried to tell you, but you had to see it for yourself.”

Friend, I want to tell you that I’m trying to tell you, “But wait till we get to heaven”—“wait till we get to heaven.” Wait till by His grace we look upon His face. When you see Jesus, you will say, “Yes, it is worth it all!” He is greater in wonder. The breath went out of the Queen of Sheba when she saw Solomon and all of his glory. But one day I’m going to see Jesus in all of His glory. Isn’t that wonderful?

Conclusion

Now, folks, here’s what it’s all about. You listen to me today. Listen. Jesus is greater than Solomon. And He’s greater than everybody else. And He’s greater than everybody else put together. There’s only one dear, wonderful, glorious Savior. And did you know what? He wants to save you today. And He will save you, I promise you, on the authority of the Word of God, if you'll trust Him.

Introduction

Take your Bibles and turn to Matthew chapter 12, and I'm going to read one verse; but I want to give you the background of this verse. Israel had many kings. Never did they have a king like Solomon. Solomon was opulent in wealth, great in wisdom, glorious in his pomp and circumstance. And when people wanted to compare greatness, they always thought of Solomon in all of his glory. Now, Jesus is standing in the midst of the Pharisees, and the Pharisees examine Jesus; they criticize Jesus. They interrogated Jesus. They castigated Jesus. They despised Jesus. They looked down upon the Lord Jesus Christ. But oh, how they honored Solomon!

Now, that's the background for the verse of Scripture. And this is what Jesus said in Matthew chapter 12 and verse 42: “The queen of the south shall rise up in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.”

(Matthew 12:42) Now, Jesus was referring to Himself, and Jesus was there in their midst; but because of their blindness and because of their arrogance, they missed Him.

Now, the Queen of Sheba came on a dangerous and difficult journey. She came from afar, probably Ethiopia, and she came with her entourage and with her royal trappings. She came to sit at the feet of Solomon and listen to his wisdom. And yet, Jesus said, “I want to tell you something: a greater than Solomon is here.”

The former pastor of this church, Dr. Lee, says, “I wonder what they thought when He said to them, ‘A greater than Solomon is here,’ and they realized that Jesus was speaking of Himself. They must have thought, ‘What are you talking about? Solomon was a king’s son; you’re nothing but a carpenter’s son. Solomon was born in a palace; you were born in a stable. Solomon was born in Jerusalem, the Holy City; you were born in little Bethlehem. Solomon was surrounded by servants; you don’t have any servants. Solomon wore his kingly robes; you’re dressed in a peasant’s garb and sandaled feet. Solomon drank from golden vessels; you had to ask a Samaritan harlot for a drink of water from an old pail. Solomon had his armies; you’re greater than Solomon? You’ve got just a few followers. Solomon built great cities; you’re a carpenter. All you build is plows and tables. Solomon had 1,400 chariots, stables full of horses; you have to walk everywhere that you go. Solomon built mansions to live in; you’re homeless—you don’t even have a place to lay your head. Solomon was rich; you’re a pauper. Solomon ate with the Queen of Sheba; you eat with publicans and sinners. And you say that you are greater than Solomon?’”

I want to mention today seven ways that Jesus is greater than Solomon. That’s the reason I’ve entitled the message “Our Great Savior.”

I. Jesus Is Greater in Wisdom Than Solomon Number one: Jesus is greater in wisdom. Go back in your Bibles now and turn to 1 Kings chapter 10. Just go left and turn to 1 Kings chapter 10. You can find it, if you will, because you will get more out of the message if you trace the Scriptures with me—1 Kings chapter 10, and read in verses 1 through 4. We’re going to talk about the wisdom of Solomon and then the wisdom of Jesus. Now, here’s what Jesus was talking about in 1 Kings chapter 10: “And when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with hard questions”—she said, “Well, if he’s so wise, I’ll check him out. I’ll ask him some hard questions”—“And she came to Jerusalem”—now, this is a very famous queen—“and she came…with a very great train, with camels that bear spices, and very much gold, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was [within] her heart”—she just unburdened herself to him and said, “If you’ve got all this wisdom, then I want to know.” Now, notice verse 3—“And Solomon told her all her questions”—that is, she did not pose one question to Solomon that he could not answer—“there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not." (1 Kings 10:1–3) And then skip on down to chapter 10 and verse 24: “And all the earth sought to Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart.” (1 Kings 10:24)

Solomon had incredible wisdom. Solomon wrote most of the book of Proverbs. When my grandchildren are at home with me, when they are spending the night or have breakfast, we always open the book of Proverbs and study the book of Proverbs because of the wisdom that is in the book of Proverbs. And when you read the book of Proverbs, you understand how much wisdom Solomon had. Solomon knew all about theology. Solomon knew all about biology. Solomon knew all about psychology. And he had such a prodigious mind. He knew three thousand proverbs and 1,500 psalms by heart, by memory. This is the mind that this man had. Solomon knew all about God’s work in creation. Look in chapter 4, verse 33, speaking of Solomon: “And he spake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall: he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and fishes.” (1 Kings 4:33) He knew botany. He knew zoology. He knew ichthyology. He knew all of these things.

But Jesus had greater wisdom than Solomon. Listen, folks, Solomon knew fishing and about fish, but Jesus, with a miracle, filled a net with fish that sank two boats. Jesus could guide the fish through the water to a particular hook, and Jesus saw to it that the fish had a coin in his mouth. Solomon knew about the winds, but Jesus had the power to speak to the winds and, on a stormy night, turned the Sea of Galilee as quiet as a millpond on a moonlit night. Solomon knew about navigation, and he had his ships; but Jesus’ wisdom is so much greater. Jesus literally walked on the water. And Solomon’s wisdom did not satisfy him. Over in the book of Ecclesiastes, after Solomon talked about all of the wisdom that he had, he said it was all vanity. Why is that? Because the more any earthly man knows, the more he knows he does not know.

We think of Einstein as being brilliant. Einstein died in 1955, and here’s what Einstein said. Now, this is Einstein: “I feel like a man chained. If I can only be freed from the shackles of my intellectual smallness”—that’s Einstein; he’s talking about his intellectual smallness—“then I could understand the universe in which I live.” But even Einstein, in all of his wisdom, could not begin to compare to the wisdom of the Lord Jesus Christ. You see, a person can have a full head and still have an empty heart. But Jesus alone has the wisdom that satisfies, and it’s the wisdom that little children can understand.

I love to go through the halls of this church and meet our bright-eyed little children. And the Bible says that God “[has hidden] these things from the wise and [the] prudent, and [has] revealed them unto babes.” (Matthew 11:25; Luke 10:21) First Corinthians chapter 1, verse 30, speaks of Jesus Christ, who is our wisdom, and says, “But of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who…is made unto us wisdom.” (1 Corinthians 1:30) Ephesians 1:8: “He hath abounded toward us in all wisdom and prudence.” (Ephesians 1:8)

I’m so grateful to know the Lord Jesus Christ and the wisdom that Jesus gives. I’ve had an education, I’ve been to college, and I’ve been to seminary, and I don’t look down upon educators; I thank God for them. But I want to tell you, I’d rather be in heaven singing “Jesus Loves Me” than be in hell spouting philosophy. I really would. How sad if someone knows biology and the study of life but doesn’t know Jesus, the Giver of life! How sad if somebody knows geology and the ages of rocks and doesn’t know Jesus, the Rock of Ages! How sad if someone knows astronomy and how the heavens go and doesn’t know Jesus and how to go to heaven! You see, Jesus is greater than Solomon in this wisdom.

Sometime ago I was in Moscow, Russia, and I was speaking in a great hall there, and the hall was filled with some of the higher-ups of Russian society. And when I’d finished speaking about the Lord Jesus, I had some people who came to see me. The first man who lined up and queued up to see me was a space scientist. He worked for the space administration and industry in Russia. And I still have his card with the rocket on it, and so forth. And he said, “I want to ask you a question.” He said, “You know, we’ve been an atheistic country. But,” he said, “I’ve come to see, and many of my colleagues have come to see, that the heavens run with such precision that there must be some power behind that that regulates it all. Would you agree?” I said, “Oh yes, I would agree, sir. And that power behind this universe, that wisdom, that mind, is a person called Jesus, God in human flesh.” I gave that space scientist a big Bible like that. He said, “Can I have another one for my friends?” I said, “Yes, sir.” And I gave him another Bible. And I can still see him walking off, that scientist hugging those Bibles to him.

The next man I spoke with said, “Sir, I am a philosopher. I belong to the philosophical society of Moscow. Would you come and lecture to us?” I said, “No. My schedule won’t allow it.” And I was glad. I said, “My schedule won’t allow it.” But he said, “Well,” he said, “would you answer a philosophical question for me?” He said, “We’ve been studying in philosophy, and it seems like there is a higher ecology and a lower ecology, that there is something good that is working and there is something bad that is working, and these seem to be in conflict with one another. Would you agree with that?” I said, “Oh yes.” I said, “That higher ecology is the kingdom of our God, and that lower ecology is the kingdom of Satan. But,” I said, “the Son of God is Jesus Christ, who came to earth, and He has died on the cross to redeem us, and ascended to high hills of glory, and sent His Holy Spirit to live in us. And because He lives in us, ‘greater is [he that’s] in [us], than he [that’s] in the world.’” (1 John 4:4) Jesus is greater than Satan.” He said, “Let me get that down right.” Listen, it’s like talking to a child because they’ve come from absolute blank so far as knowledge. And he wrote this down. I said, “Let me give you a Bible that tells all about it.” He went off hugging his Bible.

The next person—and it sounds like almost a set-up—but the next person said, “I am a lawyer. I’m a lawyer for the department store here across from Red Square.” And this was a female lawyer, and she said, “Can you tell me about this person named Jesus?” There was the scientist. There was the philosopher. There was the lawyer. And I’m telling you, dear friends, that Jesus Christ is greater than Solomon. He is the only one that has an answer for the space scientist. He’s the only one that has the answer to a philosopher. He’s the only one that has the answer for a lawyer. He’s the only one that has the answer for anybody. Solomon doesn’t have the answer. Jesus has the answer. He is greater. Jesus is greater in wisdom.

II. Jesus Is Greater in Works Than Solomon

But secondly, not only is Jesus greater in wisdom; Jesus is greater in works. When the Queen of Sheba came, she thought she had seen some big things. She thought she’d some impressive things. But notice in chapter 10—1 Kings chapter 10, verse 4: “And when the queen of Sheba had seen all Solomon’s wisdom, and the house that he had built…” (1 Kings 10:4)

A. In the House That He Built

Now, I just want to pause right there and say that Solomon built for himself a house, and it took him thirteen years to complete the house that he had built. And if you want to read about it, you can go back to 1 Kings chapter 7. Time will not allow us to describe the mansion that he built for himself. But Jesus said, “Look, a greater than Solomon is here.” (Matthew 12:42; Luke 11:31) Not only is Jesus greater than Solomon in wisdom, but in works. You see, Jesus is building a house also. John chapter 14, verses 1 through 3: Jesus said, “Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father’s house are many mansions”—that is, many houses—“if it were not so, I would have told you. I go and prepare a place for you.” (John 14:1–2) Now, think of the mansion that Jesus Christ is building. And I’m going to tell you something, folks—and this is not exaggeration: the mansion that Jesus Christ is building for you is going to make Solomon’s house look like a tarpaper shack. That is true—that is true.

B. In the Table That He Set

And think, not only of the house that Solomon built; think of the table that Solomon set. How would you like to feast with Solomon? First Kings chapter 10 and verse 5: “And the meat of his table”—she saw this—“and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his…” (1 Kings 10:5) Well, let’s just stop there. She went in to a royal banquet.
I’ve had a privilege—I don’t deserve it, but I’ve had a privilege—to be at a state dinner in the White House, and that’s pretty impressive—when Ronald Reagan was the president of the United States. But that would have been like eating in a fast food joint compared to eating in Solomon’s palace. But friend, I want to tell you something: a greater then Solomon is here today. Jesus could take five loaves and a few fishes and feed the multitude. Jesus could change plain water into sparkling wine. The food that Solomon fed to his people that day could never satisfy. But I want you to know that I’ve feasted with Jesus, and I say this from my heart: I am satisfied in the Lord Jesus. Jesus has meat to eat that people of this world don’t know. Jesus gives water that satisfies. And the wonderful thing about the One who’s greater than Solomon is He is saying to you today, “Come and dine. Come to me and dine. And I alone can satisfy the deepest longing of your heart.”

C. In the Temple That He Erected

All I am saying is Jesus is greater than Solomon in his works, in the house that he built, in the table that he set, and in the temple that he erected. Go to 1 Kings 10 and verse 5, and look at this. And she speaks of “the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his ascent by which he went up unto the house of the LORD; there was no more spirit in her.” (1 Kings 10:5) I mean, the breath went out of her when she saw the temple, the house of the Lord. Solomon built that temple. It was probably the most magnificent building that has ever been built. It took 183,600 workers to work for seven-and-a-half years to build that temple. David, who was Solomon’s father, had gathered silver, and gold, and brass, and precious stones, and fabrics for this temple. God Himself was the architect of this temple. The temple sat on the Temple Mount, and it faced east. It had slabs of gold on the front, and marble on the front. And when the sun would come up and shine on the face of that temple, Josephus, a historian speaking of a latter temple, said, “It sat there like a mountain of snow.” It was an incredible thing.

But I want to tell you, Jesus is greater than Solomon. He has built a greater temple. What temple has Jesus built? First Corinthians 6:19: “What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost…which ye have of God…?” (1 Corinthians 6:19) Jesus has built a temple. And this is His temple. I’m looking at it. Not these buildings that we have, but you. You’re a temple of God. That temple has been built out of all tribes and tongues and peoples upon the face of the earth. Solomon’s temple, you can’t find a shred of it. But I’m telling you, the temple that Jesus has built will go on timeless, endless, dateless, for all eternity. We are a temple of God. Solomon built a temple for his people. Jesus has a people for His temple.
III. Jesus Is Greater in Workers Than Solomon

What am I saying? Jesus is greater in wisdom. Jesus is greater in works. And Jesus is greater in workers. Look in 1 Kings chapter 10, verses 6 and following: “And she said to the king, It was a true report that I heard in my own land of thy acts and of thy wisdom. Howbeit I believed not the words, until I came”—now, here’s what convinced her—“and mine eyes had seen it: and, behold, the half was not told me: thy wisdom and thy prosperity excedeth the fame which I heard”—she said, “Everything that I heard I thought was an exaggeration. And when I got here, the half had not been told me.” And then, here’s what she says in verse 8—“Happy are thy men, happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom.” (1 Kings 10:6–8) Now, when she saw the people who were waiting on Solomon, she said, “These are the happiest people I’ve ever seen.” And no wonder! Can you imagine the happiness of serving in the court of a king like Solomon, such a wise and gracious king as Solomon was? She said, “Look! I’ve never seen so many happy people!”

But now, you listen to me: Jesus is greater in workers. The workers who serve the Lord Jesus serve Jesus with far more joy than those who served Solomon so long ago. Jesus gives not just happiness, but joy—joy that is continual and joy that is conspicuous. The Bible says we’re to “serve the LORD with gladness” (Psalms 100:2) and that His joy is our strength. (Nehemiah 8:10)

I thank God for the joy that I have in the Lord Jesus. And friend, it is joy that Solomon could not give. The joy of Jesus is full, and it is complete. And Jesus’ servants are greater in joy. And Jesus’ servants are greater in number. And Jesus’ servants are greater in dedication. I don’t want to say boastfully, but I’m like many of you: I would lay down my life for Jesus. I don’t know how many people would lay down their life for Solomon. In this very building, in this choir, on this platform are servants of the Lord Jesus Christ, workers who serve Him because they love Him with all of their heart.

IV. Jesus Is Greater in Wealth Than Solomon

Jesus is greater than Solomon in wisdom. Jesus is greater in than Solomon in His works. Jesus is greater than Solomon with His workers. And Jesus is greater than Solomon in His wealth. Now, the famous thing about Solomon was his wealth. You may not believe this, but Solomon was much wealthier than Bill Gates. Donald Trump couldn’t even get in the door compared to the wealth of Solomon. Solomon was an Oriental king. He ruled a vast empire. First Kings 10, verses 14 and 15—this is just an illustration of the wealth of Solomon: “Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold”—friend, they are bringing wagonloads full of gold to him—“besides that he had of the merchantmen, and of the traffic of the spice merchants, and of all of the kings of Arabia, and of the governors of
And the Queen of Sheba said, “Look, I thought you were exaggerating. The half of it has not been told.” Look in 1 Kings chapter 10, verse 23: “So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom.” (1 Kings 10:23)

But I want to tell you that while Solomon was wealthy, Jesus is greater than Solomon in His wealth. How can He be greater than Solomon? Well, I’ll tell you how. Psalms 24, verse 1: “The earth is the LORD’s, and the fulness thereof.” (Psalms 24:1) The cattle on a thousand hills belong to Jesus. All of the diamonds in the deep recesses of the earth belong to the Lord Jesus. Every star in the sky belongs to the Lord Jesus. Jesus owns it all. He is the Owner of the universe. It was made by Him, for Him. It is coming to Him. Solomon left me no legacy, but Jesus has made me a joint heir with Him. Jesus is greater in wealth. If you’re a child of Jesus, you are wealthy. You are a child of the King. You’re an heir of God, and one of these days you are coming to your full legacy, your inheritance.

V. Jesus Is Greater in Worth Than Solomon

Let me mention another way that Jesus is greater than Solomon: not only is Jesus greater than Solomon in His wisdom, and in His works, and in His workers, and in His wealth; but Jesus is greater than Solomon in His worth. Now, what’s the difference between worth and wealth? Wealth is what you have. Worth is what you are. And Jesus is worthy.

Now, when the Queen of Sheba saw Solomon, here’s what she said—in 1 Kings chapter 10 and verse 9: “Blessed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel: because the LORD loved Israel for ever, therefore made he thee king, to do judgment and justice.” (1 Kings 10:9) She said, “Solomon, you’re worthy. Look at you! God has put you upon His throne.” You know, Solomon had a throne made of solid ivory overlaid with gold. And he sat upon that throne to rule and to reign, and they thought this was the zenith, the apex, of anything.

Jesus said, “[No,] a greater than Solomon is here.” (Matthew 12:42; Luke 11:31) God exalted Solomon, but God has highly exalted the Lord Jesus Christ. Notice in Revelation chapter 5—don’t turn to it, but just listen to it—Revelation chapter 5, verses 11 and following. We’re talking about the throne of Jesus, and John the revelator said, “And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.” (Revelation 5:11–13) The Apostle John saw a throne. Sitting on that throne he saw the Lord Jesus Christ. Solomon’s throne is gone. Jesus’ throne is for all eternity. There’s a throne in the glory, folks. Don’t think it’s unoccupied. It’s occupied. It’s not up for grabs. Our God reigns. And one of the days “the [kingdom] of this world [will] become the [kingdom] of our Lord, and his Christ.” (Revelation 11:15) Jesus Christ alone is worthy of all honor and all glory.

Some men were in a room when a dignitary came in. And when he came in, they all stood. He said, “Gentlemen, be seated. After all, I’m not the Lord.” One of the men in that room said, “I mean you no disrespect, sir, but if you had been the Lord, we would not have risen; we would have fallen on our faces.”

And so it is with the Lord Jesus Christ. I am here to glorify Him. He is greater in worth. Worthy, worthy, worthy is the Lamb!

VI. Jesus Is Greater in Worship

I want to say something else about the Lord Jesus Christ: Jesus is greater in worship—I mean the way that He worships, because the Lord Jesus Christ worships God the Father as the Father honors the Son. Now, she saw him—in 1 Kings chapter 10, verse 5: “And the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his ascent”—and the word ascent literally means “burnt offering”—“by which he went up unto the house of the LORD; there was no more spirit in her.” (1 Kings 10:5) She watched him worship the Lord. When Solomon dedicated the temple, he made a great offering to the Lord. You read about it in 2 Chronicles chapter 7 and verse 5: “And king Solomon offered a sacrifice”—now, listen to this—“of twenty and two thousand oxen”—twenty and two thousand oxen—“and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep: so the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.” (2 Chronicles 7:5) Can you imagine such a sacrifice? But all of this offering could never really take away sin because, the Bible says in Hebrews 10, verse 4, it is impossible: “It is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins.” (Hebrews 10:4)

Now, Jesus is greater in His worship because He made a greater offering. Hebrews chapter 10 and verse 12: “But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God.” (Hebrews 10:12) Solomon could offer, if he wanted, twenty and two thousand oxen, but Jesus offered His precious blood. “A greater than Solomon is here.” (Matthew 12:42; Luke 11:31) Thank God that Jesus is greater in His worship, in His offering, to God the Father on our behalf.

I mentioned Dr. Lee before. He told a story that I can never forget. Dr. Lee said there was a tragedy that took place in a schoolhouse in South Carolina: seventy children were caught in a burning schoolhouse and could not escape. And there were heroic efforts made to get the children out of the schoolhouse, but they were trapped in the flames. A father was there, and he saw his little boy, that little boy inside the building. And as the roof was caving in, that little boy stretched out his hands to his father, recognized his father, and cried out to his father, and said, “Daddy, can’t you save me?” And the father made an effort to go into the fire, but strong men held him back because it would be sheer suicide for him to go into the fire. And the little boy cried out again to his daddy and said, “Daddy, can’t you save me?” And that father had to stand here, Dr. Lee said, and watch his son wither like a flower with an unsettling torch turned about it. And he heard the little boy cry out until he finally died: “Daddy, can’t you save me?”

Dr. Lee said in the days that that followed that that father could never get out of his mind the voice of his son, the face of his son, and that little boy crying out, “Daddy, cannot you save me?” The little boy died. The father died shortly after of a broken heart, with that boy’s face ever in his mind. Then Dr. Lee said, “You know, this ol’ sin-sick world is crying out, “Somebody save me! Somebody help me!” This world cries out to science and says, “Science, can’t you save me?” And science says, “I can tell you how far it is from the Earth to the sun. I can tell you about the molecules in an atom. But I cannot save you.” And this world looks to education and says, “Education, can’t you save me?” And education has to shake its head and say, “No. I can give you facts, but I cannot transform your nature. I cannot save you.” And this world looks to philosophy and says, “Philosophy, can you save me?” And philosophy, if it is honest, must say, “I have no answer. I cannot save you.” And this world looks to medicine and says, “Medicine, can you save me?” And medicine says, “I may heal your body, but I have nothing to cure the disease of the soul.” And the world looks again to culture and says, “Culture, can you save me? Can’t you save me?” And culture says, “No. I can teach you etiquette. I can teach you manners. But all I can do is make the world a better place to go to hell from. I can’t save you.” The world looks to government: “Government, can’t you save me?” And government says, “I’m only here to restrict evil, but I cannot make you good.”

Listen to me today. If you’re here without Jesus Christ, there is only one who can save you, and His name is Jesus. “And thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins.” (Matthew 1:21)

Sing above the battle strife: Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
By His death and endless life Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
—PRISCILLA J. OWENS
VII. Jesus Is Greater in Wonders

One last word: not only is Jesus greater in His worship, but Jesus is greater in His wonders. First Kings chapter 10, verse 7: “Howbeit I believed not the words”—this is what she said—“until I came, and mine eyes had seen it: and, behold, the half was not told me: thy wisdom and prosperity exceedeth the fame which I heard.” (1 Kings 10:7) If you don’t know the Lord Jesus Christ, may I tell you the wonder of it all? The human mind cannot comprehend and the human tongue cannot describe what we have in the Lord Jesus Christ. And when I go to heaven—and I’m going there—when I go to heaven and see Jesus, the Jesus that I’ve preached about today, when I look upon His face, the One who saved me by His grace, you know what I’m going to say? I’m going to say the same thing you’re going to say when you see Jesus: “I heard about you, Savior, but the half has never yet been told.” Isn’t that what we’re going to say when we see Jesus? “I heard about you. Adrian preached about you. I read books about you. But oh, my dear Savior, the half has never yet been told.” There’s nobody like our great Savior. There’s no one like the Lord Jesus. None but Him can compare among the sons of men. A greater than Solomon is here this morning. For He said, “Where two or three are gathered...in my name, there am I in the midst of them.” (Matthew 18:20)

Conclusion

You can take Confucius out of Confucianism and still have Confucianism. You can take Buddha out of Buddhism and still have Buddhism. You can take Mohammed out of Islam and still have Islam. But you cannot take Jesus out of Christianity and still have Christianity. That’s like taking the blue out of the sky. That’s like taking numbers out of mathematics. That’s like taking water out of the ocean and still claiming to have an ocean. Give your heart to Jesus. Give your heart to Jesus. Trust in the Lord Jesus. And when you trust Him, when you receive Him, He’ll do for you what He did for me. First of all, He will forgive every sin. Hallelujah! Your sin will be buried in the grave of God’s forgetfulness. Secondly, He will cleanse you. It’s one thing to be forgiven; it’s another thing to be clean. And He says, “Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.” (Isaiah 1:18)

Not only will He cleanse you, but then, where that sin was, He will send His Holy Spirit into you to live in you. God’s Spirit lives in me today. Now, that’s not an emotional feeling. It’s better than an emotional feeling. I’ve said often: your emotions are the shallowest part of your nature; salvation is the deepest work of God. He doesn’t do the deepest work in the shallowest part. But He sends His Spirit into you to live in you, to give you peace and power and purpose. He forgives. He cleanses. He occupies. And then, day by day, He walks with you to guide you. I’m never alone. The darkest night, the most lonely road, Jesus is there. I talk to Him just before I go to sleep. I greet Him in the morning when I wake up. He’s real to me now. And one of these days soon, the One who is greater than Solomon is going to step down from His lofty throne in the glory “with a shout, [and] the voice of the archangel…the dead in Christ [will] rise first: [and] we which [remain and] are alive shall be [called up] to meet the Lord in the air.” (1 Thessalonians 4:16–17)

There is only one who can save this sin-sick world. Say His name: Jesus. If you love Him, say His name again. If you don’t know Jesus, you can know Him today. There is nothing to earn. You just receive Him by faith. Salvation is a gift. And He says, “Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him.” (Revelation 3:20) Jesus Christ today will come into you to abide in you. He will never leave you, He will never forsake you, if you’ll trust Him.
Our Great Savior

Introduction

Take God’s precious Word and open, if you will, to Matthew chapter 12. And when you’ve found it, look up here and let me tell you that we entered these new buildings in November of ‘89, and we wanted God to bless in a very special way. And I thought, what would I preach about? what would be my text as we came into these new buildings?—wondering if God would fill it even once; and God filled it twice on that glorious morning. And the Lord laid on my heart to preach about how great the Lord Jesus Christ is—how great He is. And so I turned to this passage of Scripture. And I want you to look at it, because we’re going to revisit it again this morning to remember that day and to remember this very special day.

Matthew chapter 12 and verse 42: “The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here” (Matthew 12:42). We’re going to talk about our great Savior, because I’ve been talking about the kind of a church I want us to have, and I’ve tried to lead us to be, and I hope we will be in the future. And we have talked about a Bible-believing church. We have talked about a Spirit-filled church. We’ve talked about a caring church, and many things. But I saved this morning and tonight to talk about our dear Savior. And tonight I’m going to borrow a phrase that I heard Jim Whitmire use just a few moments ago for the title of our message. I have the same message; but, Jim, because of you, I changed the title. And tonight I’m going to be preaching on this subject: “It’s All About Jesus.” It is all about Jesus. And I hope God the Holy Spirit will write that upon your heart, because I’ve saved this focus on the Lord Jesus Christ to the very last. And today we’re going to be talking about our great Savior.

Now Solomon had a visit from a woman who was the Queen of Sheba. And she came and saw all of the wisdom, the wealth, the works of Solomon. And she said, “The breath has gone out of me,” when she saw the glories of Solomon’s kingdom (1 Kings 10:4–5). And Jesus said to the Pharisees, “Look, a greater than Solomon is here.”

Now, what caused Jesus to say that? Well, the Pharisees were criticizing Jesus. They were castigating Jesus. They were questioning Jesus. They were judging Jesus. And Jesus said, “Now, you listen. The Queen of Sheba came from the uttermost parts of the earth”—probably, at that time, Ethiopia—“and when she saw all that Solomon had said and did, she said, ’It is glorious.’” And then Jesus said, “Look, you are oblivious to the obvious. A greater than Solomon is here.”

Now, what do you think they thought when He said that—I mean, this peasant, this carpenter’s son? What do you think they thought when Jesus had what they thought was the unmitigated audacity to say, “a greater than Solomon is here”? Because Solomon was the apex of all greatness, all wealth, all wonder—and yet here’s a man in His sandaled feet looking them straight in the face and saying, “A greater than Solomon is here.”

Dr. Robert G. Lee, the former pastor of this church, said this—and I want to share with you. He said, “They must have thought, ‘Well, Solomon was a king’s son. Jesus is a carpenter’s son. How can He be greater? Solomon was born in a palace. Jesus was born in a stable. How can He be greater? Solomon was born in Jerusalem. Jesus was born in little Bethlehem. How can He be greater? Solomon had many servants to wait upon him hand and foot. Jesus had none. How can Jesus be greater than Solomon? Solomon wore his kingly robes so much that Jesus compared them to the flowers of the field. But Jesus wore His peasant’s garb, a seamless garment. How could Jesus be greater than Solomon? Solomon drank from vessels of gold. Jesus had to get a drink from a Samaritan harlot. How can Jesus be greater than Solomon? Solomon was rich beyond compare. Jesus was a pauper. How could Jesus be greater than Solomon? Solomon had great armies. Jesus only had a few stragglers following Him. How could Jesus be greater than Solomon? Solomon lived in mansions. Jesus was homeless, and sometimes didn’t have a place to put His head down. How could Jesus be greater than Solomon? Solomon had 1,400 chariots, 1,200 horsemen, 40,000 stalls of horses, and he rode in splendor. And Jesus walked. How could Jesus be greater than Solomon?”

Well, for our study this morning, as we think about Jesus, and we think about this being a Jesus church, I want to tell you some ways that Jesus is greater.
I. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in the Wisdom That He Proclaims

First of all, Jesus is greater than Solomon in the wisdom that He proclaims. Now I want you to go backward in your Bible and let’s look at Solomon. Go back, if you will, to 1 Kings chapter 10, and just open your Bibles there. And if you want to jot these Scriptures down, you may do it, but we’re going to be going in a hurry this morning. But I want you to think about Jesus, who is greater than Solomon in the wisdom that He proclaims. First Kings 10, verses 1 through 4: “And when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with hard questions.” That is, she’s going to examine him to see just how intelligent he is. “And she came to Jerusalem with a very great train,”—that is, an entourage with her—“with camels that bare spices, and very much gold, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.” She said, “Now this is my big chance. Solomon is supposed to be so wise. I’m going to find out just how wise he is. “And Solomon told her all her questions: there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not. And when the queen of Sheba had seen all Solomon’s wisdom, and the house that he had built,” she just, the breath went out of her (1 Kings 10:1–5). And then, notice, if you’ll skip on down to 1 Kings 10:24: “And all the earth sought to Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart” (1 Kings 10:24).

Now, folks, you talk about a wise man: Solomon was a wise man. Who wrote the Book of Proverbs? Solomon wrote the Book of Proverbs. When you read the Book of Proverbs, you see that Solomon knew all about biology. You know that he knew all about psychology. You know that he knew all about theology. Listen. Solomon knew 3,000 proverbs. He had memorized 1,500 songs.

What a mind he had! Solomon knew all about creation. Look, if you will, in 1 Kings 4, verse 33—or just jot it down: “And he spake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall: he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes” (1 Kings 4:33). Solomon knew all about the created universe. Friend, he’d do good on a biology test. He knew all about that.

But now, wait a minute. Jesus had greater wisdom. You see, Jesus made all of the things that Solomon knew about. John 1, verse 3: “All things were made by him;”—by Jesus—“and without him was not any thing made that was made” (John 1:3). Now we read in the Bible about Solomon, and he studied ichthyology. He knew all about fishing, and he knew all about fish. But listen. Jesus knew more. Jesus put enough fish in two empty nets to sink two boats (Luke 5:1–7).

Solomon knew all about the wind, and the cycle of the wind. But Jesus knew more. Jesus knew how to rebuke the wind and cause the Sea of Galilee that was whipping its frenzied waves up to lie still like a whipped puppy, when He said, “Hush, be still” (Mark 4:39).
Solomon knew all about navigation and how ships go when he sent ships out to all over the sea to bring back riches. Well, he did. But Jesus knew more. Jesus knew how to walk on water, amen? Jesus knew more than Solomon.

And Solomon found out that all of his wisdom didn’t satisfy him. Maybe you’re a Ph.D., and you think that’s going to satisfy you. But you may end up a Phenomenal Dud. That’s what it will stand for. Let me tell you what Solomon said about his wisdom there in Ecclesiastes chapter 1, verse 17: “And I gave my heart to know wisdom, and...I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit” (Ecclesiastes 1:17).

Folks, listen. The more a man knows, the more he knows he doesn’t know. And if a man has any sense, he knows that he doesn’t know. We think of Einstein as kind of being the Solomon of our age because of his brilliance. Einstein died in 1955, and he said, “I feel like a man chained. If I could only be free from the shackles of my intellectual smallness, then I could understand the universe in which I live.” Now that’s Einstein: “the shackles of my intellectual smallness.”

Yes, Solomon was wise, but he wasn’t as wise as our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. You want wisdom? I believe God has given me wisdom. You say, “You’re boasting.” No, I’m bragging in Jesus. Listen to what the Bible says here in 1 Corinthians chapter 1, verse 30: “But of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom” (1 Corinthians 1:30). If you have Jesus, you have wisdom. And James says, “If any of you lack wisdom, ask of God; it will be given to you” (James 1:5). Ephesians 1, verse 8: “Wherein he hath abounded toward us in all wisdom and prudence” (Ephesians 1:8).

You say, “Pastor, are you putting down education?” No, but I’m going to tell you something else. I’d rather be in heaven singing, “Jesus loves me, this I know,” than to be in hell spouting philosophy. I’m just so glad that Jesus is greater than Solomon in wisdom.

II. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in the Works He Performs

And then Jesus is greater than Solomon in His works. Now Solomon did some mighty things—and we’re going to see them right here. Look, if you will, in 1 Kings chapter 10, verse 4: “And when the queen of Sheba had seen all Solomon’s wisdom, and the house that he had built...” (1 Kings 10:4). So, not only did she see his wisdom; she saw his works. Solomon built a palace for himself. It took thirteen years to complete his palace. His palace defies description. It was lavishly provided. You can read all about it in 1 Kings chapter 7, if you want to go home and read about it later on. But, friend, Jesus is building a greater house. Look, if you will, in John 14, verses 1 through 3. Jesus said, “Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father’s house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you” (John 14:1–2).
I was visiting with a preacher one time, Brother Mark, and I was preaching a revival in his church. And so we were driving around talking. He said, “Let me take you to the upscale section of the city.” And so he took me out to where all the mansions are, and I said, “Well, that’s nice, but you ought to see my brother’s place.” And we kept on talking. I kept on bragging on my brother. He said, “Good night! Who is your brother?” I said, “Jesus.” Jesus is my brother. He’s not ashamed to call me His brother.

Now Solomon built a great house, a great palace. But, oh, thank God for what Jesus has done. He’s greater than Solomon.

Solomon set a table. He invited people in for great feasts. Look, if you will, in verse 5: “And the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cupbearers” (1 Kings 10:5). She saw all this. She went to a banquet. She saw the cups of gold. She saw the servants the way they were dressed so lavishly. It would go far beyond anything any state dinner that the White House might have. The feasting was sumptuous. The food was beyond compare.

But Jesus said, “A greater than Solomon is here” (Matthew 12:42). Jesus could take five loaves and two fishes and feed 5,000, amen? Jesus could turn plain water into sparkling wine. All that Solomon did could never satisfy. But Jesus said, “If you drink of the water that I give you, you will never thirst again” (John 4:14). And you know what Jesus is saying to you today, this one who is greater than Solomon? He’s saying to you, “Come and dine.” I’m telling you that only Jesus can set a table that will satisfy your heart.

Friends all around me are trying to find
What the hearts yearns for, by sin undermined;
I have the secret, I know where ’tis found:
Only true pleasures in Jesus abound.
—HARRY D. LOES

Solomon built a temple. A temple that they built was beyond compare and description. First Kings chapter 10, verse 5, speaks of the house of the Lord. And when she saw the house of the Lord, she said, “There’s no more spirit in me” (1 Kings 10:5). What she meant by that is, “That’s it! I’m about to faint. I never expected to see so much. It’s far more than I expected to see.”

Now, what was Solomon’s temple like? They tell us it was the most glorious, gorgeous building, the most magnificent building, that has ever been built. One hundred eighty-three thousand six hundred workers worked for seven and a half years to build that temple. Solomon’s father, David, had been collecting gold and silver and brass and jewels and cedar wood to build that temple. God Himself designed the temple. God was the architect of the temple. God anointed the workmen to build the temple. The temple faced east. And as the sun would come up over the Mount of Olives and shine on that temple overlaid with ivory and gold, Josephus, the Jewish historian, said, “It stood there upon Mount Zion like a mountain of snow.”

But Jesus has built a greater temple. Where is Jesus’ temple? Right here in this building. This building is not the temple; you are the temple. Listen. First Corinthians chapter 6, verse 19: “What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you...?” (1 Corinthians 6:19). You want to see a temple of God more wonderful than Solomon’s temple? Right here. Right there. Right up there. You are the temple of God. In the Old Testament God had a temple for His people. In the New Testament He has a people for His temple.

Now Solomon’s temple is gone. It’s been destroyed. What you’re looking at now will never be destroyed. You say, “Well, Adrian, you’re going to die, and they’re going to put you in the grave.” Well, even when I’m in the grave, my spirit will be kicking up gold dust on the streets of glory. But one of these days, this temple is coming up out of the grave. It will never, never, never be destroyed. You see, I’m a temple of God. You’re a temple of God. Learn that. A greater temple than Solomon ever built. You see, look. Salvation—and I’ve told you this many times; I’ll tell you one more time—salvation is not getting man out of earth into heaven; it is getting God out of heaven into man. We are now a temple of God.

III. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in the Workers That He Pleases

Now, thirdly, not only is Jesus greater in wisdom and greater in works, but Jesus is greater in the workers that He pleases. Solomon had some happy workers. Look in 1 Kings chapter 10, verses 6 though 8: “And she said to the king, It was a true report that I heard in mine own land of thy acts”—that’s his works—“and of thy wisdom. Howbeit I believed not the words, until I came, and mine eyes had seen it: and, behold, the half was not told me: thy wisdom and prosperity exceedeth the fame which I heard. Happy are thy men...”—that is, his workers—“happy are thy men, happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom” (1 Kings 10:6–8). She said, “Look, I’ve never seen people so happy. These people who work in your courts, they’re the happiest people that I have ever seen.” And can you imagine serving Almighty God by serving in the court of Israel’s King Solomon in all of this lavish wealth—the way he fed his servants, the way he dressed his servants, the way he paid his servants? They were servants of such a wise and a healthy king.

But listen. Listen, precious friend. Jesus is greater than Solomon in the workers that He pleases. I’m so happy in Jesus. I am. It may sound corny, but I love Him with all of my heart, and I want to love Him more. You see, I am His worker. You’re His worker. Solomon’s workers were happy. But Jesus gives more. Jesus gives “joy unspeakable and full of glory” (2 Peter 1:8). Jesus gives joy that is conspicuous, continuous, contagious. Solomon’s workers had to give up all of those things that brought them happiness. They’re all gone and they’re done for. The palace is gone, the tables gone. The robes are gone. Solomon is gone. But the source of my joy has not diminished, because my joy does not depend upon what happens; it depends upon the Lord Jesus Christ. And I thank God for the joy of serving Jesus. I am incredibly blessed that God has let me serve Him these years and to be the pastor of this dear church. And I want to tell you, this world and this very building are filled with people who are happy in Jesus. Jesus pleases His workers, and Jesus rewards His workers. And Jesus is far greater than Solomon in the workmen that He pleases.

IV. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in the Wealth That He Possesses

But now I want you to notice that Jesus is far greater than Solomon in the wealth that He possesses. Solomon was wealthy. Friend, I want to tell you old King Tut, Bill Gates, and Donald Trump—whatever his name is—will have to stand aside when you think of the wealth that Solomon had. Look in 1 Kings chapter 10, verses 14 and 15: “Now the weight of the gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold, beside that he had the merchantmen, and of the traffick of the spice merchants, and of all the kings of Arabia, and of the governors of the country” (1 Kings 10:14–15). They were just pouring the wealth into Solomon’s coffers. Probably no man ever in the history of the world has had wealth like this man Solomon had. It’s summed up in 1 Kings 10, verse 23: “So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom” (1 Kings 10:23). It was not an exaggeration. They were pouring pounds and tons of gold on him, ivory and spices. And he had ships going out, and they were bringing the wealth to Solomon. And he was wealthy.

But you listen to me. Jesus is greater in wealth, amen? Listen. Psalm 24, verse 1: “The earth is the LORD’S, and the fulness thereof” (Psalm 24:1). The cattle on a thousand hills belong to Jesus (Psalm 50:10), and all of the diamonds and the rubies in those hills. Every star in the sky belongs to Jesus.

This past Christmas season I heard some people had a pretty good scheme. They were selling stars. You know, if you’d send them some money, they would name a star after you. I thought, “Big deal!” It’s too late for that. The Bible says He calls them all by name, every one of them in the vast stellar universe. You know, Solomon was rich, but he left me no legacy. Jesus has made me rich beyond compare, and I would not—listen—I would not sell what I have in Jesus—I would not! I would not! God bears me witness, if you were to fill this building with rubies, gold, silver, diamonds, and stocks and bonds, I wouldn’t have to think a New York minute about whether I would trade it all for Jesus.

I spoke on this subject one time, and Phil Weatherwax handed me this. It says,

He owns the cattle on a thousand hills,
The wealth in every mine;
He owns the rivers and the rocks and the rills,
The sun and stars that shine.
Wonderful riches, more than tongue can tell,
He is my Father so they’re mine as well.
—John W. Peterson

And that’s true. But, friend, the greater spiritual riches are what we have in the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus is greater in the riches that He possesses.

V. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in the Worship That He Provides

But let me come to the final thing. Jesus is greater than Solomon in the worship that He provides. You see, Solomon led in worship. In 1 Kings chapter 10, verse 9, the Bible speaks of Solomon, and the Queen of Sheba said, “Blessed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel: because the LORD loved Israel forever, therefore made he thee king, to do judgment and justice” (1 Kings 10:9). Now Solomon was there to lead the people in worship. That’s why he built the temple. And God gave him a throne. Look in 1 Kings chapter 10, verse 18: “Moreover the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the best gold” (1 Kings 10:18). No wonder the breath went out of the Queen of Sheba when she saw that shimmering throne!

But, hey, church, listen to me. There’s another throne—and Jesus sits upon it. I want you to listen to this verse—Revelation chapter 5, verses 11 through 13: “And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever” (Revelation 5:11–13).

Friend, Solomon no longer sits upon his throne. Jesus sits on His! And that throne is not up for grabs. He will never ever be dispossessed. And that’s why, church, Bellevue Church, we must worship the One, the Lord Jesus, who is greater than Solomon.

Conclusion

Dr. Lee, that I referenced here a few moments ago, Dr. Lee told a story I think I shall never forget. Dr. Lee told a story of a fire that was in a schoolhouse in South Carolina. The children were trapped inside that schoolhouse. The bells rang. The alarms went off. The strong men of that community came to try to rescue those children from the fire, but they were trapped inside. It was an inferno. And they tried to get the children out, but it was too late. Mortal flesh could not do it. One father was there. And he looked through the flames and he saw the face of his little boy. And his little boy saw that father. And his little boy said, “Daddy, can’t you save me? Can’t you save me?” They had to hold the man back. It would have been suicide for him to go into those flames. And Dr. Lee said that man stood there and watched his precious son wither like a flower when an acetylene torch would be held upon it. The father’s hair turned white almost overnight. All he could see for two years was the face of that boy in the flames. The father only lived for two years, because of a broken heart. And over and over again he heard that little boy saying, “Father, can’t you save me?”

This old hell-bound, sin-soaked, careening, sick, drunken world, it needs saving. This world looks to science and says, “Science, can’t you save me?” Solomon knew all about science. But science says, “I can tell you how far it is from the earth to the sun. But I can’t save you.” And this dying world looks to culture and says, “Culture, can’t you save me?” Culture says, “I can teach you etiquette. I can teach you how to make the world a better place to go to hell from. But I can’t save you.” And this world looks to education and says, “Education, can’t you save me?” And education says, “I can teach you how to work at your computer. I can teach you the history of the world. But I have no ability to save you.” This world looks to government and says, “Government, please save us.” Are you counting on Washington to save you? Are you counting on the Pentagon to save you? Government, in honesty, says, “I cannot save this world.” We all know it. But, friend, there’s one greater than Solomon, and we need to sing it with all of our hearts: “Jesus Saves! Jesus Saves!” Jesus, Jesus, Jesus, our great Savior, Jesus: a greater than Solomon, a greater than anyone else, a greater than all else, is the Lord Jesus Christ.

What makes our faith different? You can be a Confucianist without knowing Confucius. You can be a Buddhist without knowing Buddha. You can be an Islamist without knowing Mohammed. But you can’t be a Christian without knowing Jesus. Christianity is a vital relationship with the Son of God. Now, congregation, that Jesus that is greater than Solomon is here today in this building; for He says, “For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them” (Matthew 18:20). Congregation, a greater than Solomon is here today! Understand that. Greater in wisdom. Greater in wealth. Greater in works. Greater in worship. Solomon slew thousands and thousands of animals when he dedicated his temple. But the Bible says, “The blood of bulls and goats can’t take away sin” (Hebrews 10:4). But there is One, Calvary’s Lamb, who took your sin, my sin, to the cross, and with that rich, red, royal blood paid our sin price, our debt.

Introduction

Would you take God’s precious Word and turn, please, to Matthew chapter 12. In just a moment we’re going to look at a very significant verse, verse 42. When we moved into this worship center back in 1989 in November, I wondered, “Lord, what will be my text? What will I preach? What will be the inaugural emphasis of our worship here?” and I came to this text, as you’re going to see in just a moment, that deals with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. And, by the way, I have entitled the message this morning, “Our Great Savior.”

You know, we’ve been talking about what kind of a church we want our church to be. I’ve been talking about what kind of a church I’ve endeavored to make us. And we’ve talked about a loving church. We’ve talked about a unified church. We’ve talked about a Spirit-filled church. We’ve talked about a steadfast church. We’ve talked about a Bible-believing church, and all of these things. But today is the apex, the climax, of what I’ve been trying to tell you now for thirty-two years: that our church is to be a Jesus church. It’s to be a Christ-filled church. And that is to be the emphasis and the focus of our ministry.

Now, look, if you will, in verse 42. Jesus said—and, by the way, He was talking to the Pharisees—“The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here” (Matthew 12:42). Now the greater than Solomon was Jesus Christ Himself. You have to get the background of this passage of Scripture.
The Pharisees were there—and what were they impressed with? Well, they were impressed with religion. They were impressed with buildings and temples and miracles and money and what the world calls wisdom. These were the things that really captured their attention. But now there was Jesus right in the midst; and they criticized Jesus, they interrogated Jesus, they castigated Jesus. And there He was, the very Son of God. But they were oblivious to the obvious. And so Jesus tells them a story about a queen, a glorious, wonderful queen, who came from the ends of the earth, probably Ethiopia. She came. She made this dangerous and difficult journey. She came all of this way to see Solomon. And Jesus said, “Listen, she’s going to rise up in the judgment and condemn you, because a greater than Solomon is here.”

Now, what do you think they thought when Jesus said of Himself that He was greater than Solomon? Dr. Lee has reminded us of some thoughts that they might have had. They said, “Well, how can you be greater than Solomon? Solomon was a king’s son. You are a carpenter’s son. Solomon was born in a palace. You were born in a stable. Solomon was born in Jerusalem. You were born in little Bethlehem. Solomon had an entourage of servants to wait upon him. You don’t have any like that. Solomon wore his kingly robes. You’re dressed in the peasant’s garb. You’re greater than Solomon? Solomon, he drank from vessels of gold. You had to get a drink of water from a Samaritan harlot. Solomon was rich beyond compare. You had to borrow money to pay your taxes. Solomon had armies to protect him. You have a few fishermen following you around. Solomon built great cities. And you made chairs and tables. Solomon lived in mansions. And you said you didn’t have a place to lay your head. And you have the audacity to say that you are greater than Israel’s greatest king in all of his opulence and splendor and glory? You are greater than Solomon?

Well, friend, He is our great Savior. And I want to tell you some ways that Jesus is greater than Solomon.

I. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in the Wisdom That He Proclaims
First of all, Jesus is greater than Solomon in the wisdom that He proclaims. Now you know what Solomon was noted for? Above all else, more so than his wealth, was his wisdom. And that’s one of the reasons that the Queen of Sheba came. Go back to 1 Kings, if you will, and we’ll stay there mostly now. We’ll leave Matthew. Go to 1 Kings chapter 10, and look in verse 1, and you’re going to find out why the Queen of Sheba came in the first place to see Solomon: “And when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with hard questions” (1 Kings 10:1). She said, “I just want to know, is he really as smart as people say he is?” And so she comes testing him, proving him, with hard questions. And the Bible says, in verse 3, “And Solomon told her all her questions: there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not” (1 Kings 10:3). She had a question. He had an answer. She had a question. He had an answer. And then the Bible sums his wisdom up, Solomon’s wisdom, in 1 Kings chapter 10, verse 24: “And all the earth sought to Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart” (1 Kings 10:24).

Now it’s not just that Solomon was a wise guy; he was wise. And God had given him wisdom as a gift. It was Solomon who wrote the Book of Proverbs. He knew 3,000 proverbs. He knew 1,500 songs by heart. As you read what Solomon wrote, you know, he knew all about biology. He knew all about philosophy. He knew all about theology. And you look at all of the things that Solomon knew, and they said, “You’re telling us that you’re greater than Solomon?” Indeed! You see, Solomon knew all about the trees and the study of biology. But Jesus made every one of those trees. “All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made” (John 1:3). Solomon knew all about ichthyology and the study of fish. But, friend, Jesus filled empty nets with enough fish to sink two boats. And Solomon knew all about navigation. But Jesus walked on water, amen? You know, Solomon knew all about the circulation of the winds. But Jesus was able to still a storm on the Sea of Galilee and make that sea smooth and calm as a millpond on a moonlit night. Jesus was wiser than Solomon in all of these things.

Now, friend, they needed to understand that a greater than Solomon was there. You know, Solomon’s wisdom never really satisfied him. You read the Book of Ecclesiastes, and look, if you will, in chapter 1 and verse 17. And he said that, “I gave my heart to know wisdom,” and he said, “all of it was vanity of spirit” (Ecclesiastes 1:17). I’m going to tell you something. You can learn and learn and learn and learn, and the more you learn, you’ll understand the less you know. Einstein, before he died in the fifties, said, “Oh, that my mind could be unshackled that I might understand the universe in which we live!” None of us know an ounce about anything. Even Solomon, he was shackled in his wisdom. But Jesus is made unto us wisdom, with a special wisdom; wisdom so great that a little child, like these children that sang here this morning, can know the heart and the mind of God, that God is hidden from the wise people of this world and He’s revealed it unto babes (Matthew 11:25; Luke 10:21). The Bible says, in 1 Corinthians, that Jesus is “made unto us wisdom” (1 Corinthians 1:30).

Would you like to see a man wiser than Solomon? Look up here and see the man with one hand on the pulpit. You say, “Ha, you braggart! You braggart!” No. Jesus is made unto me wisdom. I have the wisdom of God in me because I have Jesus in me. He is made unto me wisdom. And I don’t have to go around wondering about things. I have a book. I have a Savior. I have a Holy Spirit to lead me, to guide me. I’m not putting down learning. You may have a Ph.D., but it may turn out to be Phenomenal Dud if you don’t know Jesus. I’m not against learning. I’m going to tell you something, friend. I had rather be in heaven saying my ABC’s than be in hell spouting philosophy—to know the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus is greater than Solomon in wisdom.

II. Jesus Is Greater in His Works That He Performs
And also, Jesus is greater in Solomon in the works that He performs. Now Solomon did some mighty works. For example, Solomon built himself a house. Look in 1 Kings chapter 10, verse 4. It speaks of the house that he had built (1 Kings 10:4). It took him thirteen years to build his palace, and he had everything at his fingertips that he needed to build it with. It was an incredible palace; opulent, glorious was the house of Solomon. But, friend, Jesus is building a greater house. He said, in John 14, “I go and prepare a place for you...if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also” (John 14:3).

I was preaching in a revival meeting one time, and the pastor took me out to see where the upper crust in the community lived; you know, “where the elite meet to cheat.” And he was showing me this house, and that mansion, and this house, and that mansion; and every time he would show me something, I would say, “Well, that’s nice, but you ought to see my brother’s place.” “Yeah, oh, yeah, that’s nice, but you ought to see my brother’s place.” I kept on one-upping him, until finally he said, “Who is your brother?” I said, “Jesus”—“Jesus.”

Now I’m not being facetious. Jesus is not ashamed to call us His brethren. That’s what the Bible says. We have to understand that we are next of kin to the Holy Trinity. And our Lord is building us a house greater than Solomon ever even dreamed about.

And so, think of the table that Solomon set. You know, when you came to Solomon, Solomon would put on a feast for you. And he put on a feast for the Queen of Sheba. And look in chapter 10, verse 5: “And the meat of his table,”—that is, the food of his table, the cuisine—“and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cupbearers...” (1 Kings 10:5). She went in there. She said, “Look at this feast! Look at these delicacies! Look at the way these waiters wait upon us! Notice their grace, their charm, their manners! Look at how even the waiters are dressed, their apparel! What a table King Solomon sets!”

Jesus sets a better one, friend—Jesus sets a better one. You know, Solomon could serve meals like that, but Jesus could feed 5,000 with a little boy’s lunch, amen? Solomon may have had his special libations, but Jesus could turn sparkling water into pure wine. But the greater thing is this: that Jesus feeds us with food that satisfies. And Jesus said, “My body is your bread. My blood is your wine. My water is the Word of God for you.” You know, if you eat what Solomon set down, I don't care how much you ate: in twenty-four hours you’d be hungry again. Jesus will feed you with bread from heaven, and you will never, no never, no never, no never ever hunger or thirst again, as long as you feed on Jesus. I don't know whether you believe that or not; but, friend, it is true. I’m satisfied with Jesus. Jesus sets a better table than Solomon ever set.

And do you know what He says to us, boys and girls, men and women? He says, “Come and dine” (John 21:12). “Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me” (Revelation 3:20). Jesus sets a better table than Solomon ever began to think about setting.

Friends all around me are trying to find
What the hearts yearns for, by sin undermined;
I have the secret, I know where 'tis found:
Only true pleasures in Jesus abound.
—Harry D. Loes

Now, not only is Jesus greater in His works; but, friend, Jesus is greater in the temple. And that’s a part of His works that He built. Solomon built a temple, perhaps the most magnificent, opulent building that has ever been built in the history of the world. His father, David, had been storing up gold and silver and brass and cedar to build this temple. God Himself designed it. God was the architect of the building. The building was a colossal, magnificent, beautiful building, the most that anybody had ever seen before that time or after that time. Solomon’s temple sat there on Mount Zion. It faced to the east. The sun would come up over the Mount of Olives and shine on the face of that building overlaid with ivory and gold. Josephus, who was a historian, tells us that, “It sat there like a mountain of snow.” And even Herod’s temple, which was puny compared to Solomon’s temple, was so great that the disciples said to Jesus, “Come, behold the stones of this temple” (Mark 13:1).

But Jesus has built a greater temple. You say, “What is His temple?” Listen. I said, you want to see wisdom? Look up here. You want to see a temple? Look up here. First Corinthians chapter 6, verse 19: “What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost...which ye have of God...?” (1 Corinthians 6:19). Solomon never built anything like this. Solomon could not inhabit human beings with His presence and make a temple out of them. In the Old Testament, God had a temple for His people. In the New Testament, He has a people for His temple. He lives in us. He dwells in us. We are living temples of God made up of people from every kindred, tribe, nation of all of the earth; one mighty temple, the temple of God.
If you were to go to Jerusalem and say, “Show me some of Solomon’s temple,” they could not show you with authenticity one stone of Solomon’s temple. It’s gone! But I’m telling you the temple that Jesus Christ has built, and is building, will endure forever and ever and ever and ever. He said, “I’ll build my church, and the very gates of hell shall not prevail against it” (Matthew 16:18). Isn’t Jesus greater than Solomon in the temple He’s built?

III. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in the Workers That He Pleases

Now, listen. I’m just showing you how Jesus is greater than Solomon: in His wisdom, in His works, and then, in the workers that He pleases. You see, Solomon had people who loved him, and he pleased those people that followed him. Look, if you will, here in 1 Kings chapter 10—I’m going to skip down to verse 8, and the Queen of Sheba said, “Happy are thy men, happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom” (1 Kings 10:8). She said, “You’re a great man to work for. You please your servants. You please your workers. They enjoy serving you. Why, they get to sit here, and while they’re in the palace, they hear of your wisdom, they live in the midst of this splendor. You dress them so well. You pay them so well.” And the Queen of Sheba said, “I’ve never seen a man that had such willing followers as you, Solomon.”

Well, I’ll tell you, Jesus is greater than Solomon in the workers and the workmen that He pleases. Jesus has an army around this world, a people who not only would wait upon Him but who would die for Him. I believe I would. I don’t want to boast about it. The time may come when I may demonstrate it and see if I really mean it. And, by the way, the word witness and the word martyr are the same word. Death does not make a martyr; it just reveals one. But there are people who serve the Lord Jesus with gladness and joy, because, while Solomon gave happiness, Jesus gives “joy unspeakable and full of glory” (1 Peter 1:8).

I’ve been serving Him for a long time. Look up here. You’re looking at a man who is happy in Jesus. I’ve never regretted anything I’ve ever done for Jesus. I’m satisfied with Jesus; and Jesus has been so lavishly good to this His servant. Young people, I want to tell you—listen—it pays to serve Jesus. It pays every day. It pays every step of the way. You see, Jesus is greater in the servants that He pleases. Now Solomon’s joy and happiness, all that’s gone; but Jesus gives joy that remains. Aren’t you glad to be a servant of Jesus? I am! I am!

People talk about fighting the call to preach. Now, don’t you tell the Finance Committee, but I’d pay for the privilege. I’m serious. I was preaching when I didn’t have a church. I was preaching on street corners and bus benches, trailer parks, rescue missions. What a joy to serve Jesus! Jesus is greater than Solomon in the workmen that He pleases.
Then I want to say another thing about Jesus, how He’s greater than Solomon. Jesus is greater than Solomon in the wealth that He possesses. Now Solomon was wealthy. Look in 1 Kings chapter 10, verses 14: “Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold” (1 Kings 10:14). Man, tons of gold coming to Solomon! They were bringing spices and animals and exotic trees and perfumes, and they were just pouring in—pouring in—from all over the world. Bill Gates, step aside! Donald Trump, step aside! Old King Tut, you don’t even compare to the wealth that Solomon had. I want to tell you something about Jesus. He’s greater than Solomon in wealth.

Psalm 24 says, “The earth is the LORD’S, and the fullness thereof” (Psalm 24:1). The Bible says the cattle on a thousand hills are His (Psalm 50:10). The Bible says He created the universe: “All things were made by Him and for Him” (Colossians 1:16). The world is coming to Jesus. It is His possession.

> Jesus shall reign where’er the sun
> Does his successive journeys run;
> His kingdoms stretch from shore to shore,
> Till moons shall wax and wane no more.

—ISAAC WATTS

Solomon was King of Jerusalem. Jesus is the King of the Universes. Exceedingly, abundantly, indescribably wealthy is our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ!

But the wealth that Jesus has is not just material wealth. And, by the way, this past Christmas, I heard them advertising that, if you would send them a certain amount of money, they would name a star after you. I thought, “Boy, they’re slick. They name a star after you. Send up a flare!” Friend, you’re too late for that. He, God, has already named them every one. The Bible says, “He calleth them by name” (Psalm 147:4). And they all belong to Jesus.

Now I’m going to tell you something, friend. Not one tenth of your income belongs to Jesus; it all belongs to Jesus, too. The tithe is only a symbol that it all belongs to the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus is wealthy beyond compare. And the beautiful thing is that we are heirs of God and joint-heirs with Jesus Christ (Romans 8:17). And God has laid up for us in heaven an inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, that will not fade away (1 Peter 1:4). The gnawing tooth of time, the foul breath of decay, shyster lawyers, cannot take it away.

Solomon didn’t leave me anything. Jesus has left me everything. “Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth” (Matthew 5:5). I don’t know whether you believe that or not, but, folks, our Savior is exceedingly, abundantly wealthy; and Solomon was a pauper compared to the Lord Jesus Christ. He’s greater than Solomon in His wealth.
V. Jesus Is Greater Than Solomon in the Worship That He Provides

Now, finally, Jesus is greater than Solomon in the worship He provides. Solomon provided worship for his people. You know, Solomon had a throne. His throne was something to look on. Solomon’s throne was overlaid with gold. It was carved out of ivory and overlaid with gold. Look in 1 Kings chapter 10, verse 9. She said—that is, the Queen of Sheba—“Blessed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel” (1 Kings 10:9).

And this throne was an incredibly beautiful throne. You might find 1 Kings 10, verse 18: “Moreover the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the best gold” (1 Kings 10:18). Just in your mind get an idea of an opulent ivory throne overlaid with gold. And there’s old Solomon. The lilies of the field were not dressed up like he is (Matthew 6:28–29; Luke 12:27). He’s sitting there upon the throne. She sees this.

And what is the job of the man upon the throne? Well, it was to cause the people to worship. When Solomon dedicated the temple, the Bible teaches that he slew all of these animals. There were so many of them that were put to death. The Bible says, in 2 Chronicles chapter 7, verse 5, “And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty and two thousand oxen...”—now an ox in that day was like a Mercedes Benz—“twenty and two thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep” (2 Chronicles 7:5). Imagine that! Solomon is saying, “Look, I’m on the throne, and I’m going to provide worship for you.” And so he slays all of these animals.

But Jesus is greater in the worship that He provides, for it’s not possible that the blood of bulls and goats can take away sin (Hebrews 10:4), amen? That’s what the Book of Hebrews says. But Jesus is a Lamb without spot and without blemish (1 Peter 1:19), and with His own blood He died upon that cross and provides a greater way of worship and a greater throne. Put in your margin Revelation chapter 5, beginning in verse 11: “And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne...”—now this is not Solomon’s throne this time—“round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever” (Revelation 5:11–14). Only Jesus is worthy of such honor.
Conclusion

Now I’d like to meet King Solomon. And I believe he went to heaven, and one of these days I’ll meet him, I’ll give him a hug, shake hands with him, and say, “Solomon, teach me a few things.” But I’m going to see Jesus. I’m not going to shake hands with Him; I’m going to fall at His feet and worship Him. I wouldn’t worship Solomon. I wouldn’t worship any two-legged man that lives, except the God-man, the Lord Jesus. Thank God, thank God, thank God for the worship He provides. I’m so glad I can worship Jesus. I’m so glad that He is a bright, living reality to me. And, friend, Jesus is the only hope of this sin-cursed, judgment-deserving, hell-bound confused world in which we live.

Dr. Lee told another story. He told a story about a schoolhouse fire in South Carolina. Before the men of the community could get there, that schoolhouse had turned into a blazing inferno. And the exits were blocked. The children were inside crying and screaming. The strong men of the community came to see if they could rescue those children. But the blaze was too intense. No mortal could go into those flames and survive. One man was standing there, and he saw the face of his boy, his little boy. And the boy caught his father’s face. And the boy cried out through the flames, “Father, can’t you save me? Daddy, can’t you save me?” The strong men held the father back, because to go in would be suicide. And that father stood there and watched his son wither in those flames like a flower if you turn an acetylene torch on it. His hair turned white almost overnight. Day after day, week after week, he heard his voice saying, “Daddy, can’t you save me? Daddy, can’t you save me?” That man only lived for two years after that, because his heart was broken and his spirit was crushed.

Well, let me change the idiom a little bit. Our world is on fire. We have a generation of people who don’t know where they’re going. They’re looking for something, someone to deliver them. And they turn to science and say, “Science, are you going to save us?” Science says, “I can tell you how far the sun is from the earth—ninety-three million miles. But I cannot tell you how to have your sin removed from your heart.” “Philosophy, can’t you save us?” Philosophy says, “I can tell you more and more about less and less until you know everything about nothing. But I can’t save you.” “Education, can’t you save us? We have our cyclotrons; we have our lasers; we have our spaceships; we have our computers. Are you going to save us?” The more man knows, the deeper he sinks. And we live in a generation today that is afraid of what it knows—afraid of it. We’re afraid we’re going to be consumed in some holocaust by what we’ve created with our own hands. “Well, culture, can you save me? Can you teach us how to be nicer people, more polite, to enjoy the arts?” And culture says, “All I can do is make the world a better place to go to hell from. I cannot save you.”
Let’s try something else. “Jesus, can you save us?” Oh, my friend, Jesus saves! Jesus saves! Jesus saves! Do you understand that? The only hope of the world is Jesus.

Now, let’s narrow it down just a little bit. The only hope you have is Jesus. You may be like the Pharisees now. You may think you know it all, that you have it all. You may be depending upon education and government and money and finance and culture. But you’re going to perish like that boy perished in the flames without Jesus. The wisest thing that anybody could do, ever will do, is give his or her heart to Jesus. And if I had a thousand lives, I would give every one of them to Jesus, our great Savior. May this church forever lift up the name of Jesus, who is greater, far greater, than anyone who has ever lived and all who have ever lived. His name is Jesus!

Introduction

I want you to turn to the Gospel of Matthew chapter 13. Tonight, we’re going to be thinking on this subject: “The Parable of the Sower”—“The Parable of the Sower.” Matthew chapter 13—and let’s begin, if we may, together, in verse 1. And we’ve often heard about the Sermon on the Mount—this is the “Sermon by the Sea.” The Bible says, “The same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side. And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore. And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns” and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: but other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, and some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.”

(Matthew 13:1–9) Do you have your ears on tonight? “[He that] hath ears to ear, let him hear.”

Now this is the Sermon by the Sea. And I suppose that the parables that Jesus gave in Matthew 13 are some of the most misunderstood parables in all of the Bible. And the reason that many times they are misunderstood is that people do not have ears to hear what Jesus, the Master Teacher, was saying. And He indeed was the Master Teacher. People said that “never [a] man spake like this man”; (John 7:46) and yet, “the common people heard him gladly.” (Mark 12:37) Now, when you have a person who can speak as no other person ever spoke, and yet common people can understand Him, indeed, you have the Master Teacher.

A. The Method of His Teaching

What was the method of His teaching? Verses 1 through 3 tell us that Jesus spoke in parables. Look in verse 3: “And he spake many things unto them in parables.”

(Matthew 13:3) The word parable and our word parallel are related words. A parable is a story that is laid parallel down alongside a great truth. I suppose the greatest illustration, or the greatest definition or description, of a parable is just simply this: A parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. That is, Jesus told a very common story; but there was more to the story than met the ear, and you had to be paying attention. Jesus is speaking in parables. And, incidentally, here in Matthew chapter 13 is the first time that Jesus began to speak in parables. Up until this time, Jesus was not speaking in parables. And so I want you to see the method of His teaching in verse 3: it was parables.

B. The Mystery of His Teaching

I want you to see the mystery of His teaching. Look in verses 10 and 11: “And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.” (Matthew 13:10–11) Now these parables reveal mysteries; and so there is the mystery of His teaching. And you cannot just take cold and callused hands, and lay them upon this book, and open this book, and bring to it an undiscipled and an uncircumcised and an unspiritual mind, and expect to understand this book. This book is full of mysteries. Now a mystery, in the Bible, is a hidden truth; and it cannot be known by human knowledge or by human wisdom, but it must come by revelation. It is a hidden truth that you can only know by revelation. And so Jesus here is speaking in mysteries. And that’s the reason that some people don’t understand the Bible: They don’t have eyes to see.
I think it was Bill Gothard who told of a student who was in a class and this professor in his college class asked, “How many of you in this class believe the Bible is the Word of God?” He said it with such a sneer on his face that none would raise their hand except for one Christian young man there in that class. And he knew that he must be true to his Lord and Savior, and so he lifted his hand and confessed that he believed that the Bible was the Word of God and that he loved the Lord Jesus Christ as his personal Savior. Then that professor began to cut this young man down. Immediately, at the beginning of the class, he ridiculed the Bible. He ridiculed Christianity. He ridiculed it as superstition, and as fogyism, and as something that was out of date, and so forth. And then the professor sort of climaxxed all that he had to say by saying, “Young man, I want you to know that the Bible is a bundle of blunders and a book of nonsense. I have read it, and it makes no sense to me.” And that young man, nonplussed, said, “Sir, may I say a word to you now?” And the professor said, “What is it?” He said, “Sir, the Bible is God’s love letter to His children. If you’ve read it, and it doesn’t make any sense to you, it’s because you’ve been reading somebody else’s mail.” Amen?

C. The Motive of His Teaching

Now, let me tell you something, friend. It is a book of mysteries, and those mysteries are revealed to God’s children. So you see the method of His teaching was parables. You see the mystery of His teaching: It is full of truths that you cannot know except by revelation. Now I want you to see the motive of His teaching. Look again, if you will, beginning in verse 10: “And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables?” (Matthew 13:10) That is, “What is your motive for teaching in parables?” And Jesus had a twofold motive: His first motive was to reveal; and, surprisingly, His second motive was to conceal. Now, many times, people tell us, “Well, Jesus spoke to us in parables to help us to understand.” Well, that’s true; but it’s only half-true. He also spoke in parables so that some people would not understand. And if you don’t understand that, you don’t understand the full meaning of teaching in parables.

1. To Reveal

Now, notice one of His motives was to reveal. Notice again: “And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.” (Matthew 13:10–11) And so our Lord says, “I am going to let you in on a secret. I’m going to show you things that I’m not going to show to others.” And I imagine the disciples thought, “Well, why us? Why are you going to show us things that you’re not going to show them?” And Jesus answers that thought in verse 12, and He explains why He’s revealing things to His disciples and He’s not going to reveal it to other people. He goes on to say, “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.” (Matthew 13:12)

Now, why did the Lord Jesus reveal His truth to certain people? Was Jesus just being prejudicial? Was Jesus being discriminatory? Was Jesus unfair? Was Jesus biased? Why did Jesus say to these people, “I’m going to explain it to you; and other people over here, you’re not going to know”? Well, Jesus gives us a clue in verse 12 when He says, “To him that hath shall be given.” Have you ever heard the saying, “The rich get richer, and the poor get poorer”? Well, that, dear friend, is not only true in economics; it is definitely true in spiritual ways—“whosoever hath, to him shall be given…but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.” (Matthew 13:12) Jesus selected a variety of people. They were fishermen. They were tax collectors. They were politicians. But Jesus selected certain people, and He revealed truth to those people, because He saw in those people a will to obey and a hunger to know. And when He sees a hunger to know and a will to obey, then that person has something that will cause that person to get more. “To him that hath shall be given.”

The Bible says in Psalm 25 and verse 9 that, “The meek...will he teach his way.” (Psalm 25:9) Do you know what the word meek means? It means “teachable.” “A teachable person He will teach” Are you teachable? That is, He said, “Do you have ears to hear?”—“[he that] hath ears to hear, let him hear.” (Matthew 13:9) And so our Lord spoke to those who already had, that they might have more.

Let me give you an illustration to see if you can understand it better. Suppose you were a businessman, and you had a hundred thousand dollars to invest. You say, “Yeah, suppose.” All right, so you had a hundred thousand to invest, and so you divide your hundred thousand—fifty thousand here, and fifty thousand there—and you put fifty thousand into a business enterprise over here, and you put fifty thousand into a business enterprise over here; and this enterprise starts making money, and making money, and making money; and this enterprise starts losing money, and losing money, and losing money. And you know that if you had more to invest over here, you could make more money. And you know if you invested more over here, you’d lose what you had. What would you do? Well, to him that has shall be given. And you would take what you had over here and just put it over here, wouldn’t you? Wouldn’t you go with the flow and with the action? Of course you would! And, you see, that’s the reason the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

You see, our Lord is going to invest. Our Lord is going to invest His life, and He’s going to invest His truth, and He’s going to invest His Word in those who want to know.
And so they said, “Why do you speak in parables?” He says in verse 11, “Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries,” and verse 12, “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance.”

2. To Conceal

But not only did our Lord speak in parables that He might reveal, but our Lord also spoke in parables that He might conceal. Notice again in verse 13: “Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand. And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which saith, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive: for this people’s heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them. But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.” (Matthew 13:13–16) Now our Lord says, “I’m speaking in parables because there are certain people who are not going to understand. Indeed, I am going to conceal the truth from them. And this same story that’s going to reveal the truth to you is going to conceal the truth from them.”

Now you have to understand that Jesus was not speaking in parables up until this time. He began to speak in parables. Why did He begin to speak in parables? He began to speak in parables because at this time their rebellion against Him had reached a climax, and they had come with hardness of hearts, and they had come to criticize and to try to catch Him, and to try to confuse Him, and to try to ensnare Him. And then He began to speak in parables. For our Lord Jesus refused to cast His pearls of truth before swine. (Matthew 7:6) And so truth that is not received is taken away—truth that is not received is taken away. Look again in verse 12: “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.” (Matthew 13:12) Now, friend, you’d better be careful what you do with truth, because if you do not use it, you will lose it. “To him that hath shall be given, and to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.”

And you remember that passage over there in 2 Thessalonians the second chapter? I’ve referred to it several times. I want to refer to it again, because it is such an outstanding passage that illustrates this truth. Turn to 2 Thessalonians the second chapter, and I want you to notice an amazing truth. Second Thessalonians the second chapter, and begin with me in verse 9. The Bible speaks of the Antichrist, and it describes him in these words: “Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders,”—there is coming a man upon this earth, the son of perdition, the man of sin, the beast, the Antichrist, who will be the devil incarnate. He will be the devil in human flesh, and he’s coming with an unbelievable propaganda machine. The Bible calls it "power and signs and lying wonders,"—and notice in verse 10—"and with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish;"—now, notice those who are going to perish. And why do they perish?—"because they received not the love of the truth,"—oh, dear friend, there are some people who have a love of the truth, and there are some who have a hatred and an antipathy for the truth. These people received not the love of the truth—"that they might be saved." And because they did not love the truth, then notice what happens in verse 11: "And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion..."—you say, "Now, wait a minute. I thought it was the Antichrist." Well, the Antichrist is only God’s tool. God allows the Antichrist to do what he does. The Antichrist could not move a finger, except God allowed it—"And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie..."—God will see to it that there are certain individuals who will believe the lies of the Antichrist during the Great Tribulation. And—"God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie:"—well, why would God send them strong delusion, that they might believe a lie? Well, why would God want them to believe a lie? Verse 12 says—"that they all might be damned"—well, why would God want them to be damned? The Bible says—"[they] believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness." (2 Thessalonians 2:9–12)

And, you see, dear friend, when a person receives not the love of the truth, when a person does not want to know, when a person loves his sin and has pleasure in unrighteousness more than God’s truth, God Himself sends that person strong delusion. And Jesus taught with parables, number one, to reveal, but, number two, to conceal. “To him that hath, Jesus is going to give more. And to him that had not would be taken away even that which he had.” You cannot put truth on ice. You use it, or you will lose it.

Now, dear friend, you must be careful, therefore, how you hear. "[He that] hath ears to hear, let him hear," because if you do not have a love for the truth, not only will the truth be taken away from you, but in the place of that truth you will be given “strong delusion, that [you] should believe a lie.”

And so we go back now to the parable of the sower. This is the key parable, and it is a parable that helps us to unlock all of the Bible. And I want us to notice the parable of the sower.

I. The Seed
Now Jesus says in verse 3 that “a sower went forth to sow.” (Matthew 13:3) Well, what is sowing? It is scattering seed. Well, what kind of seed was this man scattering? Well, if you want to know what the seed is, let’s let the Lord Jesus Christ Himself explain the parable in verse 19, and He says, “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart.” (Matthew 13:19) Well, what was sown in his heart? Well, go back to the first part of verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom…” The seed is the Word of God—the seed is the Word of God. And that is our job; that is our privilege: to sow the seed. And I’m so grateful that the Bible is described as a seed. The seed is “the word of the kingdom”; or, again, the Bible says the seed is the Word of God. And, you see, there are many figures for the Bible. The Bible is called a hammer. The Bible is called a rock. The Bible is called a sword. The Bible is called light. The Bible is called many things, but one of the most beautiful figures and illustrations and metaphors for the Word of God is that the Bible is a seed.

And why is this? Because a seed has life in it. Now one thing that I’ve learned about this Bible is that this book lives. Oh, not these literal pages, but the Word is alive. Hebrews 4:12 says, “For the word of God is quick, and powerful.” (Hebrews 4:12) Do you know what that word quick is? Zon—it’s the word we get our word zoology or zoo from; it is “alive.” This book pulsates with life. Jesus said in the Gospel of John, “The words…I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.” (John 6:63) This book is not like any other book. It has life in it.

And so the seed is the Word. And I’ve seen the Word, I’ve seen it bring forth life so many times. Only life can beget life. We are “born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God.” (1 Peter 1:23) And so the thing that encourages me when I preach: I’m not depending upon my powers of persuasion; I’m not depending upon my logic; I’m not depending upon any so-called personality or cunningness that I might have. I must depend upon the Word of God. My job is to get the Word out, because I know that if you will understand this Word, if you have ears to hear this Word, there’s life in this Word. And it will geminate; it will sprout.

I was in another city a few weeks ago. I received a note from a man. He said, “You do not know me, but,” he said, “I’m a preacher in this city.” He said, “When I was a teenage boy, I was walking down the street. You stopped your car, and you talked to me about the Lord Jesus Christ, and,” he said, “I refused Christ then.” And he said, “I know it’s been so many years ago that you probably will never even remember the incident that took place, but,” he said, “I want you to know I never did get that out of my heart until God broke my heart. And God has saved me. And God has called me to preach. And I’m pastoring in this city.” That’s in Huntsville, Alabama. Isn’t that a beautiful thing how the Word of God—the Word of God—was down in that boy’s heart, and it just germinated and germinated, and it brought forth life? Oh, how powerful is the Word of God!

And, preachers, I want to tell you something, you preacher boys who are here. It’s not enough to tickle the soil; you’ve got to sow the seed. You have got to get the Word out. No matter what else you do, no matter how good the song service, no matter how sweet the fellowship, no matter how fine the organization, it is all in vain if you’re not putting seed in the ground. What farmer over here would plow? What farmer over here would kill the weeds? What farmer over here would fertilize and then fail to put the seed in the ground? Friend, you must—you must, you must, you must—sow the seed. The seed is alive; and so the seed is the Word.

II. The Sower
Now, what about the sower? Look again, if you will, in chapter 13, verse 3. And he says here, “Behold, a sower went forth to sow.” (Matthew 13:3) Well, who is the sower? Turn over to verse 37, and you’ll see: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man.” (Matthew 13:37) The sower is the Lord Jesus Christ Himself. And He pictures Himself as a farmer scattering the seed with a lavish hand, and it is a picture of Jesus Christ Himself.

And as you’re going to see in a moment, this sower just scattered the seed on all kinds of soil. You’re going to find that some of the seed fell by the wayside, but He scattered the seed there by the wayside. (Matthew 13:4) You’re going to find that some of the seed fell on stony ground, shallow ground, but He scattered the seed on shallow ground. (Matthew 13:5) You’re going to find out that some of the seed fell among the weeds and the thorns, but He scattered the seed among the thorns. (Matthew 13:7) And you’re going to find out that some of the seed fell on good, soft, moist, broken, fertile ground, and He scattered the seed there. (Matthew 13:8) He’s just scattering the seed everywhere. And, dear friend, as our Master, so should His servants be, for Jesus is the seed scatterer, Jesus is the seed sower. And Jesus said, “As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.” (John 20:21) And Jesus still wants to be scattering the seed through His new body, which is the Church. The sower is the Son of man, and we are His Body. And you never know—dear friend, you never know—who’s going to get saved. Again, that boy that I picked up, frankly, I’ve forgotten that; I had forgotten that I’d witnessed to him. But God had not forgotten. And the seed so many times germinates.

I remember going out on a soul-winning witness one time in Tallahassee, Florida, going to see a man named Mr. Forshay. And I went to Mr. Forshay’s house, and he came out—a balding man with a beard—sat down on the couch, and I started to share with Mr. Forshay. Somebody had given me his name. We sat there, and his mother came into the room. And his mother was one of the most wicked-looking women I’ve ever seen. I mean, she was vile-looking. She, if you had been Cecil B. DeMille and wanted to do a casting for the Wicked Witch of the West, you would have gotten her. Oh, she was something, and she came into that room. And if I ever saw a woman that I thought had a look of evil on her face—if I ever saw a woman that I thought hated God, and hated me, and hated everybody—it was this woman. And I thought, “O dear Lord, I wish that woman had not come in here while I’m trying to witness to her son.” Her son, I suppose, was in his thirties; but she came in and sat down there, and she fixed her eyes on me, and they burned like coals. And she had a pot of snap beans, and she came in there, and the whole time I was talking, she was snapping those beans—just like that—and looking at me and snapping those beans. I could just feel my neck breaking every time she’d snap one of those beans, and I’d say, “Mr. Forshay, I want you to know that God loves you”—snap—“has a wonderful”—snap—“for your life.” And I just thought, “Dear Lord, I’ll never get through this testimony. God, help me, please.” And I just steeled myself, and I said, “God, I’m not going to pay any attention to her. I’m going to ignore her, and I’m going to present the gospel to Mr. Forshay.” And I went on to present the gospel to this man.

Finally, I got down and I said, “Mr. Forshay, would you like to receive Jesus Christ as your personal Savior and be saved?” And his chin started to quiver. He said, “I would.” Wonderful! And I just didn’t even dare look at her. I didn’t know what she was going to do when that happened. I said, “All right, bow your head, and let’s pray.” And he bowed his head and prayed, and he prayed and asked Christ to come into his heart. And I said, “Now, Mr. Forshay, if you meant that with all your heart, with all of your soul, as best you know how; if today, now, right now, you receive Christ as your Lord and Savior, give me your hand.” And he put his hand in mine.

And when he did that, she stood up and she started for me, and I said, “Well, at least I can go out having won a soul to Jesus Christ.” She came across that room, and with the tears streaming down her cheeks she stuck out her hand, and put her hand in mine, too. She had prayed and asked Christ to come into her heart. I had so misread that woman. She might have been ugly; but she wanted Jesus. And it was just her nervousness that was causing her to do all of this, and her heart was broken.

I got so excited I said, “Is there anybody else in the house that might need to be saved?” And there was. They went in the back room and fetched two more out, and they got saved right there. And God taught me a lesson, a lesson that I needed to know, dear friend: that sometimes you cannot tell what kind of soil you’re sowing on. I mean, it may turn out to be rocky soil, and it may turn out to be shallow soil, and it may turn out to be hard soil; but you don’t know.

And in the story, the sower just scattered the seed. And the field is the world. And that’s what we’re called to do. We’re not called to prejudge people. You do not know who’s going to be saved.

I remember another episode that happened to me down in Stuart, Florida. I went out to witness to a man who was a crop duster. How he ever got to be a crop duster I’ll never know, because he was almost seven feet tall, and he sat in an airplane literally, actually, with both legs dangling out on either side of that airplane in order to sit in the cockpit of that little crop dusting plane, and then had to hike a leg in to kick the rudder. But he would fly, actually, with his legs hanging outside that airplane—that's how long this old boy was. And I went to talk to him about the Lord Jesus Christ, and he got saved. And then he said, “I want you to come and talk to my daddy.” I went out to the house where this man lived and went in to talk with this man. If ever, ever I saw a man that I thought was obstinate, if ever I saw a man that I thought was hypercritical, if ever I saw a man that I thought was a pseudo-intellectual, who looked with scorn and disdain upon me, it was that man. I gave a pitiful testimony, I'm certain. As best I knew how, I tried to share the gospel with this man. I remember when I drove away from that home I felt so humiliated. I felt so defeated. I just felt like I had wasted my time completely.

I left that part of the country and went to seminary in New Orleans, stayed in seminary for four years, came back to that part of the country, took a little church, and preached. I had not been there but about two Sundays when I looked out in the congregation and I saw that same man. And I thought, “Well, has he come to mock me some more, to scorn me some more? But after the service, when I read the visitors’ cards, on his card it said this: “Wonderful service. Through the testimony of Adrian Rogers I came to know Jesus Christ as my Lord and Savior.” Friend, I was stupefied; I was amazed. I had no idea—no idea—that the Word of God was finding lodging in that hard heart. And, you see, if I had gone to some other part of the country, and never come back to that part of the country, I would not have known till this day that that man had received Jesus Christ. Had that boy—that hitchhiker—not told me and written me that note, I would never have known that, ladies and gentlemen.

What I'm trying to say is, don't you go around saying, “This is hard soil; and this is soft soil; and this is weedy soil; and this is shallow, shallow soil.” Our duty is just to scatter the Word. I mean, “The Lord gave the word: great was the company of those that published it.” (Psalm 68:11) That's what Psalms says. And wouldn't it be wonderful—just look around you—wouldn't it be wonderful if everybody in this building just went out tomorrow and just started sowing the seed? You let God take care of the harvest. He’s the Lord of the harvest. But, dear friend, we are to scatter the seed. We are to sow the seed everywhere we go and let God take care of the harvest.

III. The Soil
And so, we see the seed. We see the sower. But I want you to notice the soil. This is primarily a parable of the soil. As we continue to read, let’s notice what happened here.

A. The Stubborn Hearer
First of all, I want you to notice in verse 4: “And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up.” (Matthew 13:4) That is Matthew chapter 13 and verse 4. This pictures the stubborn hearer—the hard heart of the stubborn hearer.

Now, what is the wayside? The wayside is just a path through the field. You have to walk through the field, or walk around the field, and it’s the part of the soil that has been trampled down by traffic. And there are so many people whose hearts are like this. There are so many people whose hearts have become byways and thoroughfares for this world. They’re worldly people. Their hearts are like concrete. They have been hardened and trampled down, and there’s no softness there. And so the seed just simply lies on the surface. The fowls come—and we’re going to find out that the fowls represent demon spirits that steal the Word away. And I know, as I preach tonight, there may be some like that who are hearing my voice tonight, and the seed will just fall on hard, stubborn hearts. There is the hard heart of the stubborn hearer.

You know, the Bible warns us about a hard heart. In Hebrews chapter 3, verses 7 and 8, the Bible says, “To day if ye will hear [God’s] voice, harden not your hearts.” (Hebrews 3:7–8) It’s a sad thing when a person gets a hard heart. Sometimes a man will come to church, and he’ll say, “Well, preachers don’t preach like they used to when I was a boy.” Some of them do, mister; you just don’t hear like you used to when you were a boy. There was a time when your heart was warm and moist and fertile, and the seed could get in. Oh, the tragedy—the tragedy—of a hardened heart!

Just keep your Bible there in Matthew 13, and turn to John 12. Let me show you a sad scripture in John chapter 12, beginning in verse 32. I think it’s one of the most poignantly sad verses in all of the Bible—John chapter 12, beginning in verse 37: “But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet”—and notice the phrase that starts with “yet.” John writes it almost with unbelief and marvel—“though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him: that the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, Lord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed?” And then, notice verse 39: “Therefore they could not believe.” (John 12:37–39) Verse 37 says, in effect, they would not believe; verse 39 says that they could not believe.

Did you know that your heart can get so hard that you cannot believe, that the Word of God can never get in, and your heart just becomes charred and stubborn and unbreakable and un-yieldable? And some seed falls by the wayside; that is, a heart that has been trampled down by the traffic of this world. And so, some seed falls on the hard heart of the stubborn hearer.

B. The Superficial Hearer

And then, let’s continue to look and see. Other seed falls on the shallow heart of the superficial hearer. Look in verses 5 and 6: “Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth:”—now the idea is not rocks in the soil; that’s not the idea. The idea is a rock ledge that just has about an half an inch or a quarter of an inch of soil on top of it. It’s a stony place. Underneath is a rock ledge. There’s not much earth; there’s no depth—“and forthwith they sprang up, because they had no deepness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away.” (Matthew 13:5–7)

What does this represent? Well, listen to what our Lord says that it represents in verses 20 and 21. And, incidentally, verse 19 tells us about the hard heart. Let’s look at that while we’re here: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one,”—that is, the devil. He’s what the fowls represent—“and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side.” Now, let’s look at the shallow hearer, the superficial hearer: “But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it;; yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth”—or, “endures”—“for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended.” (Matthew 13:19–21) That is, the seed just springs up, and then it withers away when it’s scorched by the sun—by persecution.

Now the problem was there was just no depth; and, therefore, it doesn’t get in. You see, in the first instance of the hard heart of the stubborn hearer, the seed could not get in. But in the case of the shallow heart, the seed got in, but it couldn’t get down; it had no depth. And it really speaks of superficial emotionalism. And no preacher could be a preacher without knowing how many people there are like this. I tell you that when you stand up here Sunday morning and preach the Word of God, Sunday night and preach the Word of God, and explain the gospel, and talk about Christ and salvation, heaven and hell, and the rest of it, and give the invitation, you see people who come down the aisle, many of them with tears in their eyes, but they’re superficial; they never make a heart commitment to Jesus Christ. The seed gets in, but the seed never gets down. They’re shallow people; they’re superficial people. They are feeling only emotions. Some men—so many people—are looking for an emotional experience.

But, friend, emotionalism never saved any body. As Sidlow Baxter has well said, “Salvation is the deepest work of God. Your emotions are the shallowest part of your nature. And God doesn’t do His deepest work in the shallowest part.”

C. The Selfish Hearer

And so, in the first place, Jesus said some seed is going to fall on the stubborn heart. And then, Jesus said, in the second place, some seed is going to fall on the superficial heart. But then, He goes on to mention the third kind of life. Look, if you will, in verse 7—Matthew chapter 13 and verse 7. Look at it again. Here’s the third type of person: “And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them.” (Matthew 13:7)

What does this represent? Well, turn to verse 22, and let Jesus explain it: “He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he cometh unfruitful.” (Matthew 13:22) Now, here is a person, when the seed gets in and the seed gets down, but the seed does not have an undisputed hold. It has a deep hold, but it is divided. There are two crops growing in the same soil. There are weeds and thorns and briars, and there is a rival crop that was not disturbed. This is the person who never ever really repents. And there are many like that. Again, they come down the aisle to give their heart to Jesus Christ; but they never deal with the weeds, they never deal with the thorns. They never deal with these things, and they have a divided heart. These are those who have never repented. “A double minded man is unstable in all his ways.” (James 1:8) And the Bible says in Luke 13:3, “Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.” (Luke 13:3)

And why is it that so many people—members of this congregation and other congregations—are unfruitful? I’ll tell you why. They have never let go of this world with both hands and taken Jesus Christ with both hands. Have you done that? Is He Lord of all? Many of you are not fruitful, because you’ve never been saved—you have never been saved. The seed has gotten in; but the seed has not gotten an undisputed hold in your life, and you’ve never said, “Lord Jesus, you are Lord of all.” And, friend, if you’ve not made Him Lord of all, in my estimation, you are not saved. He cannot be half Lord. You cannot say, “There’s room in my heart for weeds, and there’s room in my heart for the seed.” No, dear friend, if you do not say, “Jesus Christ alone, Jesus Christ only, and Jesus Christ always,” I’m afraid that you’ve never met the Lord of glory. Nothing wrong with the seed; nothing wrong with the sower; the problem is with the soil.

D. The Sincere Hearer

Now I want you to notice the fourth category of hearers. First of all, there’s the stubborn heart: that’s the hardened heart by the wayside. And then, there’s the superficial heart: that’s the stony heart. And then, there is, dear friend, the selfish heart, where there is weeds and thorns and the cares of this world, and a person is thinking about himself rather than the things of God. But, finally, thank God, there is that sincere heart; there is the open heart of the sincere hearer. Look, if you will, in verse 8 of this same parable. The Lord Jesus goes on to say, “But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.” (Matthew 13:8–9)
Now, friend, your life—your life—is tested by the fruit that it bears. You see, Jesus said, “If you abide in me, you’ll bring forth fruit.” (John 15:5) You know, we have a way in our Southern Baptist Convention of counting baptisms. Maybe we ought to start counting disciples—amen?—counting disciples. Maybe we ought to start counting fruit bearers—fruit bearers. You see, there are a lot of people who are superficial hearers, a lot of people who are stubborn hearers, a lot of people who are selfish hearers. But thank God for those who are sincere hearers. The Word falls on ground that is warm and moist and fertile and broken.

Conclusion

Now, friend, it’s up to you as to what kind of soil the seed’s going to fall on. There’s nothing wrong with the seed, and the problem is not with the sower if he’s a gospel preacher; but the heart, dear friend, is what you’re responsible for—your own heart. The Word is what I’m responsible for: I’ve got to preach it.

I shared with you a story, I believe, some years ago about an experience I had when I was preaching in Louisiana. I was in a South Louisiana town, a county seat town. I was holding a revival. I must have been holding it, because it never got loose. We never had anything to happen. I mean, I wept, and prayed, and shouted, and screamed, and threatened, and coaxed. I did everything I know to do: I searched my doctrine; I searched my heart; I fasted; I prayed. A few people came forward during the invitation, I think, because they were sorry for me; but nothing really was happening. I just couldn’t understand it.

During the invitation, I said, “Lord God, you’ve got to give me a word. God, you’ve got to speak to me.” And I sat down over there in that chair on the platform and just bowed my head, Brother Scotty, and said, “Lord, speak to me.” And I said, “Lord, I’m just going to open my Bible, and please give me a word from the Word.” My Bible fell open to Ezekiel chapter 3 and verse 7, and it said this: that “the house of Israel will not hearken unto thee; for they will not hearken unto me: for [they] are [a stubborn and rebellious people].” (Ezekiel 3:7) And, oh, I cannot tell you what that did to my heart. God spoke to me in an instant and said, “Adrian Rogers, you have no right to be frustrated. You have no right to be feeling sorry for yourself, and you have no right to feel that you’re a failure. You’re not a failure. You’re God’s man. You’re anointed. You preach the truth; and the only reason they won’t hear you is because they won’t hear me. And if they won’t hear me, you wouldn’t want them to hear you. And their problem is not with you; their problem is with God. They are a stubborn people; they are a rebellious people.”

I said, “Lord, that’s such a wonderful verse.” I just saw it by random. I said, “Lord, give me another one.” And I looked away and put my finger down on another verse of Scripture. And I want to tell you that when I saw that second verse I almost came unglued. And this is what the second one said—it was Ezekiel 2 and verse 5, and it says this: “And they, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear…but shall [they] know that there hath been a prophet among them.” (Ezekiel 2:5) Amen? I tell you, I’ve carried that in my heart ever since, and I hope it will never get out of my heart, never get out of my life: that sometimes people will not hear me because they won’t hear God. But, whether they hear or whether they don’t, God says, “I’m going to make them know that ‘there hath been a prophet among them.’” Do you know what that says to me, preacher boys? Do you know what that says to me, Mr. Deacon? Do you know what that says to me, ladies and gentlemen? It says to me that it’s our job to scatter the seed. It’s your job to prepare the soil. Our job is to sow the seed. And, whether they hear or whether they don’t, God says, “They’ll know ‘there hath been a prophet among them.’”

And, you see, sometimes the seed falls on stubborn ground. Is your heart stubborn tonight? Have you hardened your heart against God? Oh, I pray that you’d ask God to soften your heart. Sometimes the seed falls on shallow ground. Are you a superficial, emotional hearer, and that’s all? Oh, I pray God that the seed will get down and get deep. Or, perhaps, sometimes the seed falls on thorny ground. Are you one who refuses to repent and get the sin out of your life? You’re trying to raise two crops on the same piece of ground—hold onto the Lord with one hand and the world with the other hand? It cannot be done. But, oh, sometimes the seed falls on good ground. And that’s the reason Jesus said, “[He that] hath ears to hear, let him hear.”

Conclusion

Introduction
Matthew chapter 13. We have just marvelous music today, and I praise the Lord for it, and for the assurance, for the anchor, that we’ve sung about; for the great love, the overmastering love, our of Lord; for the assurance. And the church is alive and well because we need that assurance today.

There is scandal in the church. To think that a major denomination would ensconce a practicing, open, avowed homosexual as a bishop! It is beyond comprehension, but it has happened. To see another great denomination pay multimillions of dollars to settle lawsuits because of pedophile priests: we’re staggered; we’re shocked; we’re hurt; we’re bewildered. Some may say, “Well, pastor, you’re a Baptist so what right do you have to talk about it?” Friend, I join many heartbroken Episcopalians and many heartbroken Roman Catholics in sorrow. I’m also a Christian, and if they profess to be Christians, then somehow we are linked together. At least, we have a right to speak about it because we are Christians. And it’s not only in the Episcopalian denomination or the Roman Catholic denomination; we Baptists can hang our head in shame for much that has happened—for scandals, for dishonesty, for apostasy.

Now the question comes: What’s going to happen? What about the future? What may we expect? Has all of this taken God by surprise? Not at all! As a matter of fact, the Bible prophesies it. Furthermore, as I’ve often said, there is no panic in heaven. God knows what is happening. As a matter of fact, He has delineated it for us here in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew. And as we look in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew, we’re going to find our Lord giving seven parables. These are the strange mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. And our Lord looks at the course of this age, and our Lord tells us clearly what we may expect so that we do not get stampeded, so that we do not misunderstand, so that we be not discouraged, and so that we do not get the idea that somehow the gospel has failed—or worse yet, it never was true. So, be prepared to study with me this morning.

Now, in Matthew chapter 13, it tells us that everything is right on track, everything is exactly as God prophesied that it would be. The Lord Jesus, in Matthew chapter 13, gives us seven parables. He calls these “the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.” Now, they’re mysteries because unsaved people don’t understand them. They don’t have the spiritual apparatus to understand them. But the child of God is not in the dark; the child of God can understand. And the child of God is not stampeded, nor does he throw over his faith when these things happen. I want to mention seven things that you can expect so when they happen, you’ll be ready for them.

I. You Can Expect Many to Reject the Gospel

Number one: You may expect many to reject the gospel. Don’t get the idea that if the gospel is preached, people are going to stumble all over themselves coming to Jesus. Matthew 13, verses 3 through 9: “And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns” and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: but other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.”

(Matthew 13:3–9) Now, not everybody has ears to hear. Those who are unspiritual, those who are unsaved, don’t have ears to hear. If you’re saved, you’ll have ears to hear.

Jesus told a parable about a man, a farmer, who took a sack full of seed, and he goes out to sow. The sower goes forth to sow. And he tells of four kinds of soil that the seed fell on.

A. Some Seed Fell by the Wayside

Some seed fell by the wayside. Now, the wayside is the hardened path. When that seed fell by the wayside, it was like concrete, cement. The seed could not get in so it lay there on the wayside. Now, what’s the meaning of the seed by the wayside? Well, go over to chapter 13 and verse 19, and look at verse 19. Jesus explains the parable:

“When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side.”

(Matthew 13:19) So, I’ll preach this morning, and in this building and other places where this message will be broadcast or telecast, there will people who will hear it, but it will never get in. Sometimes preaching is like pouring water on a rock. There are people in this auditorium who will not hear at all what I have to say. The seed is on the surface. Satan comes and snatches it away. It does no good.

B. Some Seed Fell on Stony Ground

Now secondly, some seed fell on stony ground. Look, if you will now, in this passage. The seed, it falls on stony ground. The idea of stony ground is not ground that has a stone here or a stone there, but it is ground that has a sub-surface of stone. That is, the soil on the top is only very, very meager. It is thin. In this instance, the seed gets in, but it can’t get down. Jesus explains it. Look in verse 20: “But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it”—but then our Lord goes on to say something happens to this man. The seed can’t get in. Look in verse 21—“yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended.”

(Matthew 13:20–21)

Now, there are people who sprout up. You give an invitation, say, “Come to Jesus,” they come forward, say, “Yes, I want to be a Christian.” But difficulty comes, persecution, heartache—they fall away. They have no root. The seed got in, but it doesn’t get down. And so, they don’t last. They’ve never been truly saved.
C. Some Seed Fell Among Thorns

Now then, there’s a third category. The seed falls among thorns. Well, what does that speak of? Look in verse 22: “He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful.” (Matthew 13:22) In some, the seed doesn’t get in. In others, it gets in, but it doesn’t get down. In others, it gets in, it gets down, but there’s a rival crop. The deceitfulness of this world, the weeds, choke out the seed, and therefore it never really prospers.

D. Some Seed Fell on Good Ground

And then, some falls on good ground, ground that is rich, moist, warm, and fertile. What is that? Well, look in verse 23. Jesus said, “But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.” (Matthew 13:23)

Now, what is the meaning of this parable? Well, friend, the sower goes forth to sow. The problem is not with the seed; the problem is with the soil. I can prepare a good message. My heart can be right. I can be preaching to people today who will not receive the seed. Some are like the wayside. Some are like the stony ground. Some are like a field that is infested with weeds. But I know there are others whose hearts are open today to the Word of God, and that’s what keeps me preaching.

Now listen, don’t expect the gospel to convert the world. That is to assign to the gospel a purpose that God never assigned to it. Don’t get the idea that all you have to do is preach Jesus in His beauty and people will just come running to be saved. There’s nothing wrong with the message. There’s nothing wrong with the gospel. The gospel is true. The seed is good, healthy, wholesome seed. But there are different kinds of soil.

Now, that’s the first thing that you need to expect: you may expect many to reject the gospel of Jesus Christ. So, don’t ask yourself, “If the gospel is true, why aren’t more people saved?” Jesus said there would be a little flock. (Luke 12:32) Jesus said, “The way is narrow.” (Matthew 7:14) Jesus said, “Few there [are] that find it.” (Matthew 7:14) Don’t expect the whole world to be converted. Just don’t expect it.

II. You Can Expect to Find Hypocrites in the Church

Number two—here’s something else you can expect: You can expect to find hypocrites in the church. “Oh?” Yes, you may. Look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verses 24 through 30: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field: but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst thou not sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.” (Matthew 13:24–30) Now, a man, this time, sows good seed in good soil, but an enemy comes and puts weeds in with the wheat. The weeds here are called “tares,” and from the study I have done a tare looks very similar to wheat. At first, it’s very hard to tell the difference.

Now, what is the meaning of this parable? I want you to listen now so you’ll know what to expect. You can expect hypocrites in the church. The sower who sowed the good seed is Jesus Christ Himself. Look in verse 37: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man”—“the Son of man” is a term that Jesus used for Himself. Now, what is the seed? The good seed are true believers. Matthew 13, verse 38—“the field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom.” (Matthew 13:37–38) We are His good seed, and He has planted us in this world. Now, who is the enemy who sows the bad seed? The one who sows the bad seed, or the tares, is the devil. Look in verse 39: “The enemy that sowed them is the devil.” (Matthew 13:39) Now, the devil wants to infiltrate the church of the Lord Jesus Christ, and he has done a good job of that. We’ll say more about that in a moment. It is the devil who has sown weeds with God’s wheat in the world. Now, number three: The harvest is the end of the world. Look in verse 39: “The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.” (Matthew 13:39) Now, learn three things about the weeds and the wheat.

A. The Sowing of the Tares
First of all, the sowing of the weeds. Satan said, “If I can’t beat the church, then I’ll join the church.” Friend, when you look for the devil, never fail to look in the pulpit. His ministers are transformed as angels of light. (2 Corinthians 11:14) “An enemy hath done this.” (Matthew 13:28) That’s the sowing of the tares.

B. The Growing of the Tares
Now, the growing of the tares. Many times we would want to go and try to weed out the weeds, but we can’t do that. Look again, if you will, in verses 28 through 29: “An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them.” (Matthew 13:28–29)

Now, God knows who the hypocrites are. We’re not talking about apostates here now; we’re not talking about people who openly, blatantly deny. Obviously, they need to be dealt with. But we’re just talking about people that look so much like a true Christian, act like a Christian. There’s in this place right here… How do I know that you are saved and you are lost, and you’re saved and you’re lost, and you’re saved and you’re lost? How do I know? You all look holy to me. You all look like wheat to me. But there is a difference. We don’t know. You don’t know who’s saved and who’s lost. We would make a terrible blunder if we just started to say, “You’re saved; you’re lost. You’re saved; you’re lost.”

I was with a group of men one time at a convention. Some preacher boys came up to Dr. Gray Allison, who is a member of our church and the founder of Mid-America Seminary. They were all upset about a certain person who’d done a certain thing, and they said, “Dr. Allison, do you think he’s saved?” I was standing there. I was wondering what Dr. Allison would say. Dr. Allison looked at them and said, “I don’t know that you’re saved.” He said, “The only one in this bunch I know is saved is me.” I thought, “There’s a lot of wisdom there.”

C. The Knowing of the Tares

There is the sowing of the weeds. There is the growing of the weeds. But friend, one day there will be the knowing of the weeds. Notice again, if you will, in verse 30: “Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.” (Matthew 13:30)

Now, there’s a judgment coming. I want to say, you may be sitting in this building today unconverted. You may have a Bible in your hand; you may have a smile on your face; you may have a song on your lips; but you have never been saved, and you’re in with the wheat. One of these days, there’s coming a separation. And I beg you in the name of Jesus—listen to me—please give your heart to Christ. Quit playing the game. Get saved.

You say, “Well, I do a lot of good.” Friend, a counterfeit twenty-dollar bill can do a lot of good. It can buy medicine. It can buy food. It can buy milk. It can pay the rent. But it will not pass when it gets in the hands of the federal agents. It will be burned no matter how much good that it did.

III. You Can Expect the Rise of False Cults

Number three—here’s a third thing you can expect: You can expect the rise of false cults. Now, we have all kinds of cults in the world. Do they take God by surprise? No, look in verses 31 and 32: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field:
which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs”—now, watch this—“and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.” (Matthew 13:31–32)

Now, wait a minute. You’ve seen mustard greens, but you’ve never see a mustard tree. And yet, our Lord says, “Here’s something strange.” A mustard seed is very small, and the normal mustard plant is comparatively small. It’s an herb, not a tree. But now, Jesus said this herb becomes a tree. What’s He talking about? He’s talking about unnatural growth. He’s talking about something that is monstrous, something that is false, something that is apostate.

Now, some people have the idea that the kingdom is going to grow just like we take a little mustard seed, and then the church is going to grow, grow, grow, grow. “Isn’t it wonderful how big it is? Look at our tree.” No, no, no. That’s not what He’s talking about. “And the sweet little birds come nesting in the limbs of this tree.” No, this tree represents apostate Christianity, and the birds represent demon powers.

Now, see how Jesus uses the word birds in this chapter—in chapter 13, verse 4: “And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came”—the birds—“and devoured them up.” (Matthew 13:4) These are the devil’s dirty birds. And He, Jesus, said so Himself. Look in verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart.” (Matthew 13:19) In the first part, He calls them “birds,” and now He calls them “the wicked one.” These are demon spirits. Over in the book of the Revelation, God described Babylon, which stands for false religion, apostate religion—and here’s what He says about Babylon: “And he cried”—Revelation 18:2—“And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold”—that is, “the cage”—“of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.” (Revelation 18:2) These are the devil’s dirty birds—false cults.

All of this monstrous development of the thing called Christianity has not taken God by surprise. The false cults the liberal church may parade under the guise of Christianity, but it has not been done by God. It is a monstrous development. It has not taken God by surprise. So, somebody says, “Well, pastor, if the Bible is the Word of God, why don’t all of you religious guys get together? If the Bible is true, if the Bible is inspired, how do you have this cult, and this cult, and this cult, and this cult?” Listen to your pastor: if everybody did believe the same thing and there were no so-called false cults, it would not prove the Bible true; it would prove the Bible false because the Bible prophesies these things. Do you see? I mean, the Bible tells us you can expect the rise of false cults.
IV. You Can Expect Corruption in the Professing Church

Number four: You can expect corruption in the professing church. You can expect it. Look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verses 33: “Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.” (Matthew 13:33) Now, in much Sunday school literature and many pulpits they say, “Oh, that’s the gospel: you take a little pinch of yeast, and put in the dough, and it just leavens the whole lump. Isn’t that sweet? Isn’t that wonderful how Christianity grows?” Friend, leaven, in the Bible, is not an emblem and a symbol of that which is good, but that which is evil. The key to understanding this mystery parable is the word leaven. Leaven, in the Bible, is symbolic of evil and corruption.

Let me give you some verses; jot them down. Exodus chapter 12, verse 8, speaking of the Passover: “And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast with fire, and unleavened bread.” (Exodus 12:8) Leviticus 2, verses 4 through 5: “If thou bring an oblation of a meat offering baken in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil.” (Leviticus 2:4) Oil is an emblem of the Holy Spirit. Leaven is an emblem of sin. Verse 5: “And if thy oblation be a meat offering baken in a pan, it shall be of fine flour unleavened, mingled with oil.” (Leviticus 2:5) When Paul talked about the sin in the church at Corinth—and the church at Corinth was a carnal and a worldly church—here’s what he said to that church. They were kind of boastful of their liberality and their liberalism. Paul said in 1 Corinthians 5, verses 6 through 8: “Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump? Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump.” (1 Corinthians 5:6–7) “Purge it out. Get rid of it.” He says in verse 8: “Therefore let us keep the feast—not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.” (1 Corinthians 5:8) Leaven stands for malice and wickedness.

Now, think of the corruption. Think of what you read in yesterday’s newspaper. Think of what you will read in tomorrow’s newspaper. You say, “How could that happen?” Well, a woman put the leaven in the bread. A woman out of place, in Bible prophecy, parable, and type, always speaks of ungodly religion. The one thing about leaven is it works quietly at first, undetected at first, and it works in lukewarm conditions. You’ve got to get it just right for the leaven to work. But after it’s done its work, it’s very obvious: you see everything all puffed up. Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees.” (Matthew 16:6,11; Mark 8:15) Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven of…Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6,11) Jesus said, “Beware…of the leaven of Herod.” (Mark 8:15) The leaven of the Pharisees was legalism. I’m as much afraid of legalism as I am liberalism. The leaven of the Sadducees was liberalism. They said that there’s neither demon, nor spirit, nor resurrection. And the leaven of Herod, that wild, lascivious king, was license and lasciviousness.

I’m amazed what people will let fly under the banner of the church. I’m amazed how some who call themselves Christians live today. And this leaven has come into the church to corrupt the church of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Paul said, “Purge out that leaven.” (1 Corinthians 5:7) You let the wheat and the tares grow together because you, as individuals, cannot tell who’s who; but when there’s open apostasy, it’s to be purged out, it’s to be taken out. Don’t let it corrupt the entire church. You can expect, however, corruption in the church because Jesus said that’s a part of the course of this age. That doesn’t cause me to lose my faith. Friend, when I see this, my heart is broken, but I say, “Uh-huh, there it is, right in the Word of God. Uh-huh, there it is, just like our Lord said it would be.”

V. You Can Expect Jesus to Establish His Kingdom

Number five: You can expect—and I love this—you can expect Jesus to establish His kingdom—you can expect Jesus the Lord to establish His kingdom. Look in verse 44: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth the field.” (Matthew 13:44) Now, here’s a picture of a man spading his garden, or maybe working for somebody else, or maybe just walking across a field, and he’s sees something glinting there. And he begins to dig, and he looks; and there’s a fabulous treasure buried in that field. Nobody else knows it’s there so he covers it back up. He goes to the owner of the field and says, “Would you sell me the field?” And he says, “Well, how much?” And he says, “Well, I don’t have that much, but I’ll go back and get it.” And the man sells everything he has, comes back, and buys that field because he knows there is a treasure in that field.

Now, some people interpret this parable as saying that Jesus is the treasure hidden in the field and we sell everything that we have and buy the Lord Jesus Christ. That’s foolish. Number one: Jesus is not hidden. He is revealed, open and manifest. He said, “I’ve done nothing in secret.” (Mark 4:22; Luke 8:17) Number two: Friend, He’s not for sale. Salvation is by grace through faith, and it’s the gift of God. (Ephesians 2:8) Number three: If it were for sale, we don’t have a thing to buy it with. We’re bankrupt sinners. What is the treasure hidden in the field? It’s the kingdom of God; it is the kingdom of heaven. And it is a treasure hidden in a field. Now, the kingdom—listen to me carefully so you can understand this—the kingdom is in four stages.

A. The Kingdom Was Promised but Hidden in the Old Testament

First of all, the kingdom, in the Old Testament, was promised but hidden. What I mean is the Old Testament prophets prophesied about it, but they never saw it. They just prophesied of it. Look, if you will, in verse 17: “For verily I say unto you, That many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.” (Matthew 13:17) So, here is a treasure that was hidden. The prophets desired to see them. They couldn’t see them; they’re hidden.

B. Jesus Uncovered the Kingdom
But now, for just a brief moment the treasure is uncovered. Jesus uncovered it. You’re in chapter 13. Go back to chapter 12, and look, if you will, in verse 27. Jesus had just cast the demon out of a man, and they said, “Well, you cast out demons because you’re demon-possessed yourself.” And Jesus answered them and said, “And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God”—now, watch this—“then the kingdom of God is come unto you.” (Matthew 12:27–28) Jesus, for a moment, uncovered the treasure, let it shine. There it was; this treasure that had been buried now is uncovered.

C. Jesus Covered the Kingdom Back Up
But they refused Him. They turned from Him. Now He begins to speak to them in parables. He covers the treasure back up, and it is hidden in mystery form. The Bible says in Proverbs 25 and verse 2: “It is the glory of God to conceal a thing.” (Proverbs 25:2) From Matthew chapter 12 onward—listen to me carefully—Jesus stopped doing miracles from Matthew chapter 12. Backward, He’s doing all these miracles; but from Matthew chapter 12 onward, He stops doing miracles, and He begins to speak in parables. Why? Because now the kingdom is covered again. It is now in mystery form.

Why did He do this? Well, look in Matthew 13, verse 11: “He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.” (Matthew 13:11) It was unseen in the old time, buried. Jesus came, revealed it. They refused it. He covered it back up again. But then, He bought the field with the silver of His tears and the gold of His blood. And the people of this world never understand the kingdom. They walk over it. They trample it. They don’t see its worth. They despise it.

D. One Day Jesus Will Uncover the Kingdom Once Again
But Jesus bought it, and one of these days He’s coming back to uncover it. Then we will see, we’ll understand, what our Lord is all about. Friend, you can expect our Savior to establish His kingdom. The kingdom is coming. You can count on it. You can be sure that it will happen. Now, one day it will be uncovered and displayed for all to see.
VI. You Can Expect Jesus to Continue to Seek and Save the Lost and to Build His Church

Now next, number six: You can expect Jesus to seek and to save—to continue to seek and save—the lost and to build His Church. Look, if you will now, in Matthew 13, beginning in verse 45: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.” (Matthew 13:45) Now, I’ve heard people foolishly preach this, and some very fine preachers preach this: that Jesus is the Pearl of great price, and if you want Jesus, you sell all that you have and you buy the one Pearl of great price. Again, friend, listen to me: Jesus is not for sale. You can’t buy Him, and you don’t have anything to buy Him with. Jesus is the Merchantman. The pearl is the Church of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. We don’t seek Him; He sought us. He bought us. He brought us. To Him be the glory.

Do you know how a pearl is formed? A layer at a time that nacre in the shell of the oyster—layer by layer by layer it’s built, just as our Lord is building His Church day by day, and age by age, and layer by layer, and soul by soul. The Church is being formed until it becomes this pearl of great price. A pearl is not like a diamond, not like a ruby. You can divide a diamond. You split a pearl, you’ll ruin it. It is the pearl—the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ and the Church triumphant that Jamie sang about. And Jesus purchased His Church. People say the Church is on its way out. They’re right about that, friend. Jesus called the Church out. He sent the Church out. And soon He’s coming to take the Church out. The Church is on its way out. You can expect Jesus to continue to seek and to save the lost and to build His Church.

VII. You Can Expect God to Judge Righteously in the Final Judgment

Finally, finally, you can expect God to judge righteously in the Final Judgment. Don’t think that these people are getting away with their sin. Don’t think that these people who live high, wide, and handsome; who spit in the face of God; who laugh at the Bible; who go contradictory to the Word of God, these people who lives like this—don’t think that God has forgotten. Don’t think that God is dead. Don’t think that sin can prevail. It can’t. There’s coming a judgment. Oh, if people would read the Word of God! Matthew 13 now, verse 47 and through 51: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind: which, when it was full, they drew to shore, and sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away. So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Jesus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things?
They say unto him, Yea, Lord." (Matthew 13:47–51) “Have you understood all of this?” What’s our Lord saying? Our Lord gives all these parables, and then He says, “Now look, the kingdom is like a great big dragnet.”

Have you ever seen a fisherman drag a net through the sea—not a sand net that is set out, not a cast net, but a dragnet? I worked one summer on a shrimping boat—great experience there in South Georgia. And we were on the trawler; we put down that net. It has something called “doors” that went along just scooping the bottom and running over those grassy areas where the shrimp were. And after we would trawl back and forth, then a derrick would hoist that net up on the deck; and the man would pull the string, and out it would come. Oh, hundreds and hundreds and thousands of shrimp! But also there’d be crabs, and eels, and squiggly things, and stingrays, and jellyfish, and all of that. And it would be all over the deck, all of it squirming. Very interesting to me to see those men with their gloves—and I was one of them—reach in and start to throw all these other things overboard like that, and leave the fish, leave the shrimp. Our Lord says that the gospel message is like a dragnet that goes through the sea, and it gets all kinds of things in the net. But He says there’s a judgment day coming. You see, you know what my job is as a preacher? Is to draw the net. You know what God’s privilege is? Is to sort the catch. God’s going to sort the catch. I’m telling you, as surely as I stand here—you listen to me—nobody gets away with anything.

Conclusion

God is God. We’re saved by the grace of God. God knows all of these things that are going to happen. And when you read the newspaper and you see all of this, you say, “Where is God?” I’ll tell you where God is: God is in His heaven. Nothing has taken God by surprise. Everything fits into the sockets of God’s Word. And friend, you read Matthew chapter 13, and you can say, “This I expect.” What do you do? Well, if you’re not saved, you get saved. And if you are saved, you say, “God, teach me to be a soul winner.”

Conclusion

Introduction

Take God’s Word, find Matthew chapter 13, and, when you've found it, look up here. Your heart is broken. Your mind is perplexed. You don’t know whether to be angry, disgusted, or what, as you read in the paper and listen on the news about what is happening in the world of religion. The Catholic Church is paying multiplied millions of dollars to settle lawsuits with pedophile priests that have been filed against them. And then, to top it all off, in a crescendo of amazement, we read that the Episcopal Church is proffering for leadership as a bishop an avowed, open, practicing homosexual. Now you say, “Pastor Rogers, you’re not a Catholic. You’re not an Episcopalian. Why don’t you speak about what’s happening in the Baptist Church?” Friend, I could, and there’s much that causes me to want to weep and to hang my head in shame. But I am a believer in Jesus Christ, and all these others profess to be believers in Jesus Christ, so I feel, as a believer in Jesus Christ, not only do I have a right—I have a responsibility—to speak about these things with a broken heart and with much concern, but not with dismay and not with hopelessness. For, friend, none of these things have taken God by surprise.

There is a message from the Word of God, and it may surprise you to know that all that we see here, read, and know about has been prophesied by the Lord Jesus Christ in seven parables that He gave here in Matthew chapter 13. These are called “mysteries”—“mysteries”—“of the kingdom of heaven.” They are seven sacred secrets. And if you, as a child of God, learn these secrets, you will not be destroyed by shock and awe as you read the newspapers, as you see what’s going on, for our Lord, in His omniscience, knew what the conditions would be down through the ages; and so He gave us these seven parables. And the title of the message today is “What You Can Expect.” I want you to know what you can expect. I want to give you seven things that, if you live in this age, you can expect, and you can say, “Well, nothing really has gotten out of hand.”

I. You Can Expect Many to Reject the Gospel

Number one: You can expect many to reject the gospel of Jesus Christ. Look in Matthew 13, verses 3 through 9: “And he”—that is, Jesus—“spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow;”—that’s a farmer who’s planting seed—“and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprang up, because they had no deepness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: but other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold.” And then, here’s what our Lord says: “Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.” (Matthew 13:3–9) Now our Lord knew that not everyone would understand this. Those who did not have spiritual ears would not comprehend. It’s a parable of a sower who goes forth to sow, and his seed falls on four kinds of soil.

A. Some Seed Fell by the Wayside

First of all, some fell by the wayside. Now the wayside was comparable to our sidewalks: trampled, hard, crusted. The seed fell, but it could not get in. And because it could not get in, the birds came and carried it away. What does that mean? Look, if you will, in verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one,”—that’s the devil—“and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side.” (Matthew 13:19)

Now there are people in this auditorium and people who will hear later by tape, or watch by television, or whatever, who are like this. Their heart is so hard that the Word of God never gets in. There’s nothing wrong with the seed, but it just lies there on the surface.
I’ve preached long enough to know that when you’re preaching to some people, it’s like pouring water on a rock: it gets down, but it never gets in—it never gets beneath the surface. And Satan just carries it away, and they go away totally unchanged.

B. Some Seed Fell on Stony Ground

Now there’s a second kind of soil: and not only the seed that fell by the wayside, but there’s some seed that fell on stony ground. Now the word stony, it doesn’t mean ground with a rock here and a rock there, but it means ground that has a sub-surface of rock and just a thin layer of soil on top. And so the seed gets in, but it doesn’t get down; it has no root. And when the sun comes up, it is scorched. Notice verse 20: “But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it;”— but notice what happens here—“yet hath he not root in himself, but endureth”—or, “endures”—“for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended” (Matthew 13:20–21)—that is, “he goes away.” We see them. They come down the aisles of our church. They join. They get baptized. But then difficulty comes. The sun scorches them, and they’re gone. In my New Members Class, I describe them as “Alka-Seltzer Christians: you drop them in water—they fizzle for a little while and then disappear.” They have no root. They never have truly been saved.

C. Some Seed Fell in with Thorns

But then, there is a third kind of soil. This time the seed gets in; it gets down, but it’s mixed with thorns. Look, if you will, in verse 22: “He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful” (Matthew 13:22)—that is, “it never lasts.” The weeds squeeze it out and choke it out. And there are many people like that: they come down the aisles of a church, or talk to a soul winner, or whatever, and pretend to give their heart to Christ; but they have never been broken from this world, they never do honest repentance.

D. Some Seed Fell on Good Soil

But then, thank God—hallelujah, praise God—there is some seed that falls on the good soil: soil that is warm, moist, and fertile; soil that is broken and ready, like I pray God some of you are today to hear the Word of God. And notice what Jesus said about them: “But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.” (Matthew 13:23) And I believe, when I speak today, there will be some here today who will hear the Word of God, who will receive it, who will be saved, and, glory to God, ten billion years from now, they'll be praising God in the kingdom, because the seed got in: it got down; it took root; it showed fruit. They have been twice-born. That’s what keeps me going.

But now, listen. I’ve been preaching long enough to know that not everybody’s going to receive the message. I can have a clear message straight from the Word of God; I can think it out and be clear and plain; I can pray and be filled with the Holy Spirit of God; I can preach with all of my heart, with a broken heart; but not everybody’s going to be saved. You can witness, and not everybody’s going to be saved, because the problem is not with the seed; the problem is with the soil. And so, don’t get discouraged if it looks like not everybody’s coming to Jesus. Our Lord said, “The way is narrow. Few there be that enter.” (Matthew 7:14) Our Lord said, “There’s going to be a little flock.” (Luke 12:32) He is calling us out of the world. So, don’t assign to the gospel a task that it was never given—and that is to convert the world. The gospel was not given to save civilization; it was given to save men from the wrecks of civilization. And so, don’t expect everybody to be saved. That’s the first thing you may expect: you may expect many to reject the gospel.

II. You Can Expect to Find Hypocrites in the Church

Number two: You can expect to find hypocrites in the church. Every now and then somebody comes to me and says, “Pastor, did you know there are hypocrites in the church?” I say, “Oh, no! Oh, don’t tell me.” Friend, there have always been hypocrites in the church. One of the twelve was a hypocrite. Notice what Jesus said, again, in Matthew 13, verses 24 and following: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field: but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.” (Matthew 13:24–30)

The parable is simple. A man sows good wheat. An enemy comes and sows weeds called “tares.” Darnel: it’s a certain kind of weed that looks like wheat. And until the wheat begins to head you can’t tell the difference between the weed and the wheat. And so these are growing together. Now they say, “Master, do you want us to pull up the weeds?” He says, “No, let them grow together.” “Why?” “Because if you’re not careful, you’re going to pull out some wheat, and you're going to leave some weeds, because they look so much alike.” And what our Lord is saying here is there are hypocrites in the church, but you and I are not appointed, nor anointed, to tell who they are.

Now if we were to go through this congregation this morning and to find who’s saved and who’s lost, why, that would be simple for me to do, because I have the spirit of discernment. You know, I could just go right through right here and say, “You—you’re obviously lost; you—you’re saved; you’re lost; man, I can tell you’re lost; now, you’re saved; you’re lost.” What a mistake I would make! You all look so holy. You all look so perfect. You all have Bibles. You all have smiles. You all are nodding. Some of you are nodding off, but I couldn’t tell who’s saved and who’s lost. God knows. Friend, there’s the sowing of the tares: “an enemy hath done this.” (Matthew 13:28) The devil has done it. There is the growing of the tares: they grow together. There is the knowing of the tares: the Judgment is coming. God is the One who’s going to separate the weeds and the wheat.

I was at a convention one time, and some preacher boys came up to Dr. Gray Allison, who is the founder and president of Mid-America Seminary, former president—president emeritus. They were all upset about this particular man who’d done a particular thing, and they said to him, “Dr. Allison, do you think he’s saved?” And Dr. Allison looked at those preacher boys. I was waiting to hear what he would say. He said, “I don’t know whether he’s saved or not. I don’t know whether you’re saved.” He said, “The only one here that I know is saved is me.”

Think about it. Friend, we’ve not been set up to judge other people and to say, “This one is saved, and that one is lost.” We’re not talking about open apostasy here. We’re not talking about people who are in open contradiction to the Word of God but weeds that look so much like wheat. There are hypocrites in the church. And don’t you let some hypocrite keep you from going to heaven. You’re hiding behind a hypocrite: you can’t hide behind something unless it’s bigger than you are. Don’t hide behind a hypocrite, and don’t get discouraged because you find hypocrisy in the church. Our Lord, in Matthew chapter 13, said that there would be weeds among the wheat.

III. You Can Expect the Rise of False Cults

Now, here’s the third thing you can expect: You can expect the rise of false cults. Notice what our Lord says now in Matthew 13, beginning in verse 31: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.” (Matthew 13:31–32) Very strange parable. A little mustard seed:
you plant it, and it becomes an herb. Most of us like mustard greens. Some of us do; some of us don’t. I do. It becomes an herb. It grows to an herb. “But then,” Jesus says, “it becomes a tree.” Now if you’re into horticulture, you know that herbs don’t become trees. You read Genesis. God said, “Let the herb bring forth, and the trees, and so forth, after their kind.” (Genesis 1:11) But here’s an herb that becomes a tree. What is happening here is something monstrous, something unusual, something abnormal. And what He’s talking about is the monstrous, unusual, abnormal growth of cultism in Christianity.

Some people say, “Oh, isn’t it wonderful that our little, sweet mustard seed has become this great, enormous tree? Isn’t it wonderful?” No, He’s not talking about something that’s wonderful. These birds are not sweet little chirping birds. These are the devil’s dirty birds. Look in chapter 13, verse 4: “And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up.” (Matthew 13:4) And, in verse 19, He says those fowls represent the devil. (Matthew 13:19) Over in the Book of the Revelation, Babylon, which stands for cultism and false religion, is described as a tree. And it says here that “Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and...become the habitation of devils,”—that literally means “of demons”—“and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.” (Revelation 18:2) This monstrous tree is full of the devil’s dirty birds, and it speaks of apostate Christianity, false cults.

Now many today say, “Pastor Rogers, if the Bible is the Word of God, why are there so many false cults? Why are there so many strange interpretations? Why do we have all of these—as Dr. Lee used to say—‘isms that ought to be wasms? Where did they come from?” From the devil himself, the same one that sowed the weeds among the wheat. And he has this apostate, amalgamated form of Christianity. “Well, Pastor Rogers, because of all of these cults, isn’t that a sound reason to reject Christianity?” No, it’s the perfect reason to accept Christianity. Why? Because, friend, this is exactly, precisely what God said would happen: “In the [last days men] shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of [demons].” (1 Timothy 4:1) If we did not have this, the Bible would not be true. These things, in a strange way, are an affirmation of the truth of the Bible. You can expect the rise of false cults. That’s exactly what our Lord said would happen. They do not denigrate our faith. We’re sad for them. We wish they were not here, but they don’t take away from the truth of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

IV. You Can Expect Corruption in the Professing Church
Number four: You can expect to find corruption in the professing church. Now, when you read about these horrendous things, it breaks my heart to read them. And I don’t mind telling you, I could not have believed ten, fifteen, twenty years ago that in my lifetime I would ever see what we see today. But notice what Jesus said in Matthew 13, verse 33:

“Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole”—that is, the whole loaf—“was leavened.” (Matthew 13:33) Now, again, people falsely misinterpret this parable. They say, “Isn’t it sweet? Isn’t it wonderful how Christianity just grows and grows and grows like leaven, how we’re changing society?” Friend, we are not changing society, and we will never change society. As a matter of fact, the Bible says contrariwise: “In the last days perilous times shall come.” (2 Timothy 3:1) Don’t get the idea that as the church we’re going to Christianize the world. We’re not going to do that.

Leaven, in the Bible, is never used as an emblem for the gospel; it’s used as an emblem for sin, of evil. It’s symbolic of evil. Exodus chapter 12 and verse 8, speaking of the Passover: “And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast with fire, and unleavened bread.” (Exodus 12:8) Leviticus 2, verse 4: “If thou bring an oblation of a meat offering baken in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour.” (Leviticus 2:4) Paul, in the New Testament, speaking to the church at Corinth that had become carnal and worldly and lascivious, told them to do something about the leaven that was in the church. First Corinthians 5, verse 6—they were boasting about how liberal and affirming they were, and he said, “Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump? Purge out therefore the old leaven.” (1 Corinthians 5:6–7) And then he goes to say later on, in verse 8, “Let us keep the feast,”—talking about the spiritual feast of Passover—“not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.” (1 Corinthians 5:8) Leaven stands there for malice and wickedness. Unleavened stands for sincerity and truth.

Now here Jesus says the kingdom is like a woman that took three measures of leaven and put it in some dough, and then the whole loaf was leaven. You see, let me tell you about leaven, how it works. First of all, it works quietly. You don’t see it working, but it’s working. It works steadily, and it works best in lukewarm conditions. That’s the way leaven works. It’s like yeast. It is yeast that a woman would put in a lump of dough. In religion, it stands for evil.

Now, what is our Lord saying? Don’t be surprised when you find corruption in the church. Jesus Christ, in His ministry, warned of three kinds of leaven. Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees.” (Matthew 16:6; Matthew 16:11; Mark 8:15) Again, Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven of...Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6; Matthew 16:11) Again, Jesus said on another occasion, “Beware...of the leaven of Herod.” (Mark 8:15) The leaven of the Pharisees was legalism. Friend, I’m as much afraid of legalism as I am liberalism. It is a distortion of the gospel of Jesus Christ. It is the gospel of rules and rituals and regulation—and all outward and not inward: liberalism—the leaven of the Pharisees. Liberalism was the leaven of the Sadducees, another religious group of Jesus’s day. They didn’t believe in angels, or demons, or the resurrection, like our modern day liberals today. And Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven…of the Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6; Matthew 16:11) And then Jesus said, “Beware…of the leaven of Herod.” (Mark 8:15) Who was Herod? He was a pleasure-mad king. He lived in licentiousness. And so Jesus said, “Beware of liberalism. Beware of liberalism. Beware of license and licentiousness. Get that leaven out.”

But He said this: “The kingdom of heaven is like unto a woman that hid three measures of leaven in a loaf.” (Matthew 13:33) What did our Lord mean by that? Friend, there is going to be wickedness and corruption in the professing church. The devil, if he cannot whip us from the outside, tries to whip us from the inside. If he can’t steal away the seed when the preacher preaches, what will he do? He’ll sow weeds in the wheat. If he can’t keep us from having a loaf of bread, what will he do? He’ll put his leaven into that loaf to try to infiltrate. And what you and I read about today, what we hear on the radio, on the news, what breaks our heart, is sad indeed, but it doesn’t take heaven by surprise. It’s there. You can expect corruption in the church: not because God planned it, not because God wants it, not because God desires it; but God knows human hearts, God knows what is going to happen.

V. You Can Expect Jesus to Establish His Kingdom

Now, here’s something else that you can expect—and let’s get on a positive side: friend, you can expect God to establish His kingdom—you can expect it. Do all of these things head our Lord off at the pass? Do all of these things keep God from doing what He intends to do? No, absolutely not! Philippians 1:6: “He which hath begun a good work in you will perform it.” And, as Jamie sang, “The Church triumphant is alive and well.” Look, if you will, in Matthew chapter 13, verse 44: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.” (Matthew 13:44) Now, what is the picture? What is the parable? Do you know what a parable is? It’s an earthly story with a heavenly meaning.

Well, the earthly story: here’s a man; he’s in the field, just maybe scuffing the dust, and he looks down, and he sees something glowing, and says, “What is that?” He gets down: there it is, an incredible treasure. He looks around, covers it back up. He says, “Somebody tell me who owns that field.” “Well, So-and-so owns it.” He said, “Mister, will you sell that field?” “Well, for thus-and-such I’ll sell it.” He says, “Stay right there.” This man goes back. He sells everything he has. He sells his house. He sells his horse. He sells his cart. He sells his dishes. And he gets the money, and comes back, and says, “I want that field. Here. Sell it to me,” because he knows when he gets the field, he gets the treasure.

Now, again, so many people foolishly misinterpret this parable. They say, “Well, the treasure hid in the field, that’s salvation; that’s Jesus. And you and I ought to sell everything that we have so we can buy salvation.” Right away, that will tell you there’s something wrong with it. Friend, salvation is not for sale; it is the gift of God. Number two: If it were for sale, what would we bankrupt sinners have to buy it with? Salvation is the gift of God. What is that treasure hid in a field? It is the kingdom that our Lord Jesus Christ came to establish and will establish.

There are four phases to the kingdom. I want you to learn this now.

A. The Kingdom Was Hidden but Prophesied in the Old Testament

First of all, the kingdom was hidden but prophesied in the Old Testament. Look, if you will, in verse 17: “For verily I say unto you, That many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see,”—talking to His disciples—“and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.” (Matthew 13:17) Now the Old Testament prophets, they looked forward. They prophesied about the Lord Jesus Christ, but many times they didn’t even understand everything they were prophesying, because the Spirit of God was upon them. But they wanted to see these things and hear these things. And there the disciples were seeing them and hearing them. So in the Old Testament the kingdom was prophesied but not seen.

B. Jesus Began to Uncover the Kingdom

Then, when Jesus Christ came, He began to do miracles. He began to uncover the treasure, so people could see it and glimpse it. For example, just take your Bibles now, and go back to Matthew 12. We’re in 13. Go back to Matthew 12, and look in verse 27. Jesus had just cast the demon out of a man, and they said, “Yes, the way He did it is He Himself is demon-possessed.” And Jesus said, “You’re not thinking straight. I’m not in collusion with the devil; I’m in collision with the devil.” Notice what He says: “And if I by Beelzebub”—that’s their name for Satan—“cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God,”—now here’s the key—“then the kingdom of God is come unto you.” (Matthew 12:27–28) There He was: the King, the miracles, the power over Satan, all of it. They saw it. It had been hidden. Now it is seen. The treasure is uncovered.
C. The Kingdom Was Covered Up Again

But they despised Him. They turned from Him. They accused Him of being demon-possessed. And now the treasure is covered back up again. Proverbs 25, verse 2: “It is the glory of God to conceal a thing.” (Proverbs 25:2) And let me give you a little Bible lesson here. From chapter 12 forward, in the Book of Matthew, Jesus does no more miracles. He begins to speak in parables. Up until this time, He has uncovered the kingdom, the kingdom that was prophesied. He uncovered it, just like a treasure in a field. But they refused it, and He covered it back up and began to speak in parables. Why? Not only did He speak in parables to reveal; He spoke in parables to conceal. Look, if you will, there in chapter 13, verse 11. They said, “Why are you speaking in parables?” (Matthew 13:10) And, “He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.” (Matthew 13:11) And so they don’t understand. Jesus just covers the treasure up. Now He reveals it to us, but the people of this world, they walk through the field of this world; they step right on the treasure; they step right over it; they never see it; they don’t know it’s there; they don’t understand it. Why? It was prophesied. It was uncovered. It was refused. It is covered.

D. Jesus Will Uncover the Kingdom Once Again

But Jesus went to the cross, and with all that He had He paid the price and bought the field. And you can be certain, friend, one day He’s coming to uncover His treasure. One day He’s coming, and “the kingdoms of this world [will] become the kingdoms of our Lord, and...his Christ.” (Revelation 11:15) You can bank on it.

Jesus shall reign where’er the sun
Does his successive journeys run;
His kingdom stretch from shore to shore,
Till moons shall wax and wane no more.

—ISAAC WATTS

VI. You Can Expect Jesus to Continue to Seek and Save the Lost and to Build His Church

Number six: You can expect Jesus to continue to save the lost and to build His Church. Look, if you will now, in verse 45 and following: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.” (Matthew 13:45–46) Again, people sometimes—good people, sometimes fine preachers—misinterpret this. They say that Jesus is the pearl of great price; and you and I, who want to be saved, we need to sell everything that we have, and buy Jesus. Jesus is not for sale. We don’t have anything to buy Him with.

The pearl of great price is the Church that Jesus purchased. You see, a pearl is a precious jewel. How is it built? Layer upon layer upon layer upon layer that nacre that is excreted by the oyster, layer by layer the pearl is built. It began at Pentecost; it continued through the ages. Today we’ve had some more layers put on that thing. You see, you can divide a diamond. You can divide a ruby. If you try to divide a pearl, you’ll ruin it. What a wonderful illustration of the Church, the one Church that is alive and well, the true Church of the Lord Jesus Christ, of any denomination, people who know and love Jesus Christ. Our Lord has bought the Church, and you can be sure—and I’m sure—that every time I preach, there are people who are going to be saved, or could be saved, if they would listen. And I know our Lord is in the business of calling out the saved, and I know our Lord is building His Church. And I know that I know that I’m on the winning side, that I’m a part of that Church. And when our Lord comes to make up His jewels, He will find the pearl of great price.

VII. You Can Expect God to Judge Righteously in the Final Judgment
Now, here’s the last and the final thing you can be sure of, friend, so you’ll not be dismayed. You can expect God to judge righteously in the Final Judgment—in the Final Judgment. The Final Judgment is not here. Look, if you will, in verses 47 through 51: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind: which, when it was full, they drew to shore, and sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away. So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Jesus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea, Lord.” (Matthew 13:47–51) Now you can expect a Final Judgment. It’s coming. Our Lord says, “The kingdom of heaven, it’s like a net” (Matthew 13:47) —not like a sand net, not like a cast net, but like a dragnet.

When I was a kid, I worked on a shrimp boat for a while—great experience. A shrimp boat has a net called a “dragnet.” It has two wooden panels that go beneath the water and hold the net open—the mouth of the net. They call those the “doors.” And all manner of things are swept up by that net. It’s an interesting thing when they take that yardarm and hoist that net full of squiggly things up. And then, over the deck the man pulls the drawstring, and out it comes: thousands of shrimp, if we’re blessed; but jellyfish, other kinds of fish, crabs, eels, squirmy, wiggly things all over the deck. And those men get down there with their rubber gloves and begin to throw all of that other stuff away, and only the shrimp is left. Now God says that’s what it’s going to be at the Judgment. There’s going to be a time when His angels that have been sweeping to and fro are going to sort the catch.

You know what my job is today? My job is to draw the net. Do you know what God’s responsibility is? It is to sort the catch. We don’t sort the catch. God does that, but God is going to do that. And that’s the reason I want to say to you—listen to me now very carefully—what our Lord does in Matthew 13 is to give us a history, a spiritual history, from the time that men began to sow the Word of God and people got saved. As we look down, we see the hypocrites in the Church, we see false cults, we see apostasy and corruption, but we see the one true Church being built and built. And then we see the Final Judgment. We’re not dismayed—we’re heartbroken—when we see certain things that happen; but we’re not dismayed, for we have the Word of God.

Conclusion

Are you saved? I mean, are you saved? Do you know Jesus? Have you been twice-born? Don’t be the devil’s wheat. Be saved—truly saved. If I could do it for you, I would, but I can’t. I’ve preached as best I know how. Look at me. Don’t go away without Jesus. Don’t crucify your soul. Don’t commit soul suicide. Don’t say no to Jesus when you could say yes.

The Lord Jesus is saying to you today, “Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden” (Matthew 11:28)—“come to me”—not to some church, not to some denomination, to Jesus. He’s the One who saves. And I promise you on the authority of the Word of God, He will save you and keep you saved.

Introduction

The title of our message is “Has the Gospel Failed?” Sometimes we look around at our world that’s sinking into mire, filth, danger, degradation, despair, and disappointment, plummeting on to death and to judgment, and we say, “What has happened?” We have had the preaching of the gospel for 2,000 years. Has the gospel failed? Friend, if you don’t get a good theological understanding, and if you just look at circumstances, you might say, “Yes, the gospel has failed.” But when you open the Bible and read what our Lord has to say here in Matthew chapter 13, you’ll know it has not failed, it cannot fail, and it shall not fail, hallelujah!

Now I had an experience one time. I was preaching in a revival meeting, holding a revival meeting, in a county seat town. I must have been holding it, because it never got loose. I was preaching. I preached my heart out. And I’m telling you, folks, that it was as dead as a hammer. Nothing was happening. I would preach, pray, plead, and give an invitation. People just sat there and looked at me stony-faced. They looked like a wooden Indian in front of a cigar store. They just stared at me.

I said, “Well, the problem must be me.” I began to fast, pray, and search my heart. And I fasted and wept before the Lord. Still nothing happened. I said, “Well, maybe I’m not preaching the right things.” I looked over my sermon preparation. I prayed, and I did everything. And I said, “Well, maybe I’m not visiting enough.” And I tried to visit. I tried to do everything that I knew to do. And it just wasn’t happening. Finally, toward the end of that revival crusade, I felt like a failure. I felt intimidated. I felt, “Oh, God, somehow, someway, God, I have failed you.” And I sat down in that big chair on the platform, and I just told the pastor, “Pastor, you give the invitation. Let me just sit here.” And I said, “Oh, God, I need a word from you. Oh, God, I want you to speak to my heart. Please, Lord. I know, Lord, this is not the right way to study the Bible, but, Lord, I’m desperate. I’m just going to open the Bible and put my finger on a verse, and this one time, Lord, please just speak to my heart. I need a word from you, Oh, God.”

And I opened the Bible and I let my finger drop on a verse. It was in the Old Testament. I just looked away, opened at random, and put my finger on a verse. It was Ezekiel chapter 3 and verse 7. And this is what it said: “But the house of Israel will not hearken unto thee; for they will not hearken unto me: for all the house of Israel are impudent and hardhearted” (Ezekiel 3:7). I said, “Lord, thank you. God, that is so wonderful. Lord, thank you. There’s nothing wrong with what I’m preaching; my heart is right. Thank you, God! They won’t hear me because they won’t hear you.” I said, “Lord, that’s such a sweet verse.” I said, “Lord, give me another one.” I just looked away and I put my finger on another verse without even looking, and then I almost came unglued when I read it. It was Ezekiel 2, verse 5. And it says, “And they, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear…”—that is, refuse to hear—”…yet shall know that there hath been a prophet among them” (Ezekiel 2:5).

Friend, I’ve never forgotten that. God gave me a liberty, Brother Bob, that day that I’ve never failed to have since then, in some measure. God showed me it is not my responsibility to make the gospel work. It is my responsibility to proclaim it and to preach it. And whether people hear or whether they don’t hear, I’m to have my heart right with God. And at least, one day, somehow, they’ll know that they heard the Word of God.

Now the Lord answers the question here, why is it sometimes when the gospel is preached that people don’t respond, or when they do respond, sometimes their response is not the right response? Well, begin reading here in Matthew chapter 13, verse 1: “The same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side. And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.” Now we’ve heard of the Sermon on the Mount. This is the sermon on the sea. “And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow” (Matthew 13:1–3).

Now even before I get into the message, let me talk to you a little bit about parables. Now, why did the Lord Jesus spoke in parables?

A. The Method of His Teaching

First of all, I want you to think about the method of His teaching. This is the first time Jesus ever spoke in parables. Up until this time He’d not been teaching in parables. And now, for some reason, He begins to teach in parables. And what is a parable? A parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. That is, Jesus would tell a very common story. The story that He’s about to tell is about a sower who went out to sow some seed. It is a very common story. It is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. That is, there is more than meets the eye in the story. And you have to kind of peel the story back, and you have to look beneath the surface of the story. That was the method of his teaching.

B. The Mystery of His Teaching

But I want you to notice the mystery of His teaching. Look down in Matthew 13, verses 10 and 11: “And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given” (Matthew 13:10–11). Now, what is a mystery? You see, a parable has a mystery in it. What is a mystery? A mystery is a hidden truth. And it is a truth that you will never get with human wisdom. It must be given to you. Do you see that? “Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.”

So, my dear friends, whether you’re listening by television, radio, or whether you’re listening in this service, or by tape later on, I’m going to tell you something. You will never know the things that you need to know until you lay your intellectual pride in the dust and say, “Oh, God, teach me.” A mystery is something in the Bible that you can never know by human intuition, human ingenuity, or human study. I don’t care how much Greek you know. I don’t care how much Hebrew you know. I don’t care how much history you know. I don’t care how much theology you know. Jesus said that it’s going to be given to you.

C. The Motive of His Teaching

Now the method of His teaching was parables. The mystery of His teaching was that He was going to unlock something. Now, what was the motive of His teaching? Why did the Lord Jesus teach that way?

1. To Reveal

   Well, first of all, to reveal. Notice in verse 11 that, “He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given” (Matthew 13:11). And then, look in Matthew 13, verse 12, a marvelous verse: “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath” (Matthew 13:12). Have you ever heard the expression, “The rich get richer, and the poor get poorer”? That’s exactly what verse 12 means. If you have, you get more. If you don’t have, you will lose more. What you do have, “to him that hath shall be given, but to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.” Why is that? My dear friend, there is a spiritual principle that God does business with those that mean business, and that God speaks to those who want to hear.

   Let me illustrate it this way. Suppose you’re a businessman, and two business opportunities come before you. And both of those business opportunities will cost you 50,000 dollars to get into them. You have 100,000 dollars of capital, and you put 50,000 dollars in one business and you put 50,000 dollars in another business. One business begins immediately to lose money, while the other business begins immediately to make money. Mr. Businessman, what are you going to do? You’re going to turn around and start putting more and more money in the business that is making money. Isn’t that right? Of course, you will. The business that is losing money, you’re going to take the money out of that and put it into the business that is making money. Isn’t that right? That is exactly what Jesus Christ is talking about. “To him that hath shall be given, but to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.”

2. To Conceal

   So, why did Jesus speak in parables? Number one: It was His way of getting His message to those people that were ready to receive the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. But there is another reason that He spoke in parables. And don’t forget it. Not only to reveal, but also to conceal. Look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verses 13 and 14: “Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand. And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which saith, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive” (Matthew 13:13–14). Now, why? Jesus said, “I’m teaching in parables not only to reveal, but I am teaching in parables to conceal.” All they will get is the plain message, but they will not get the deeper truth. I am preaching to them to take away even that which they have.”
Now, why is this? Well, I'll tell you why. If you would go back and read, for example, in Matthew chapter 11 and 12, you'll find out that the opposition against Jesus Christ had never been greater. Those wicked, dirty, low-down—I don’t have words enough to explain them—hated the Lord Jesus Christ. In them the milk of human kindness had curdled. And they had finally come to the place concerning the Lord Jesus Christ when they said, “He’s casting out devils by the prince of devils; He is in league with the devil” (Matthew 12:24). Can you imagine anybody saying anything like that about Jesus? That’s what they said in the chapters just before this.

And now Jesus begins to speak unto them in parables. He had warned them about the sin against the Holy Ghost. And, my dear friend, they had committed that sin. Notice in Matthew 13, verses 15 and 16: “For this people’s heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them. But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear” (Matthew 13:15–16).

Now, my dear friends, let me tell you something. You be very careful with the truth that you hear. When you hear truth and you understand truth, but you don’t live by the truth that God has already given you, God will take away the truth that you already have. You just can’t put truth on ice. The Bible says, in 2 Thessalonians chapter 2, verses 11 and 12, “And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: that they all might be damned who believed not the truth” (2 Thessalonians 2:11–12). Jesus Christ would not cast His pearls before swine (Matthew 7:6).

Now you may be sitting here today and you don’t want to know truth. You’re sitting here today in your pride and your arrogance. I don’t know why. Perhaps you came—or maybe you’re listening by television, and you’re just going through the channels—and you come up here, and you say, “Let’s hear what this babbler will say.” My dear friend, I want to tell you something. Truth is a dangerous thing. You use it or you lose it. “To him that hath shall be given; but to him that hath not shall be taken away even that he hath.”

Now that’s the setting for the parable that I’m going to give you. Actually, in Matthew chapter 13 there are seven parables. This parable is the first parable, and it sets the tone for all of the others. It’s a very familiar parable. And that’s part of the danger of it, because you say, “Oh, I understand the parable of the sower.” But make certain you really understand, because what I’m saying is, there’s more to it than meets the eye. So you need to really understand this parable.

Now, first of all, I want to tell you there are three things. And if I can get these across to you, and if God the Holy Spirit will bring them home to you—they’re very simple... things, and yet God the Holy Spirit must enlighten you to truly understand them—there are three things that make the gospel effective to do its work. First of all, there must be the right word. Secondly, there must be the right witness. And, thirdly, there must be the right welcome to the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

I. The Right Word

Now, let’s think, first of all, about the right word. Look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verse 3, which says, “And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow” (Matthew 13:3). Now that’s simple enough. Theirs was an agrarian society. And here’s a man with a bag full of seeds. He’s just throwing seeds out, just sowing seeds indiscriminately, just sowing seeds out of his seed bag. As a sower, he’s going forth just sowing seeds. Now they’ve seen this many times. They’ve seen the sower sowing seeds. And that’s what this sower is doing. He’s just scattering the seed in abundance. He’s just sowing the seed.

Now, what does that stand for? What is the seed? Well, go on down to verse Matthew 13, verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not” (Matthew 13:19). The seed is “the word of the kingdom.” That’s what the seed is. Luke 8, verse 11, says, “The seed is the word of God” (Luke 8:11).

Now, my dear friend, every one of us has been called to be a seed sower. The seed is the Word of God. May I tell you, dear friend, that this book is different than any other book. And the words I preach unto you from this book—not my words, but these words—are different than any other words. This book is not like any other book on earth. Jesus said, in John chapter 6, verse 63, “The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life” (John 6:63). The Bible says, in Hebrews chapter 4, verse 12, “The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword” (Hebrews 4:12). The word quick is the word zon. It means, “alive.” The word powerful is the word energes. It means it has “power.” You don’t just read this book, dear friend; this book reads you. You don’t just hold it; it cuts you. It is quick and powerful and sharper than a two-edged sword. On the day of Pentecost, when Peter preached, the Bible says, in Acts 7, verse 54, “They were cut to the hearts” (Acts 7:54). There is power in this book just like there’s power in a seed.

A seed went into the ground and brought those flowers out. That’s incredible—that you put a seed in the ground and something that gorgeous and that beautiful could come from a seed! The Word of God is a seed. The Peter tells us, “Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God” (1 Peter 1:23). So every preacher, if he wants a harvest, and every soul winner, if he wants a harvest, has got to sow the seed.
Do you know what the problem is in so many churches today? I will tell you plainly and simply, we’re tickling the soil and not sowing the seed. That’s the problem. I mean, we’re saying, “Oh, don’t you like our facilities? Don’t you come out here and do this and do that and all of these nice things?” I don’t care how much you plow the soil, how much you rake the soil, how much you smooth the soil, or how much you soften the soil: you must sow the seed. The seed is the Word of God. Friend, there’s power in a seed, indescribable power, because there’s life in that seed. A seed may look insignificant, but there’s an oak tree in an acorn. My dear friend, the seed is the Word of God.

II. The Right Witness

Now I want to go on and say, not only must there be the right seed, but, oh, my dear friend, there must be the right sower. Not only must there be the right word; there must be the right witness. Jesus said that a sower went forth to sow. And that sower is the Lord Jesus Christ Himself. This parable tells us that Jesus Christ is the sower; He Himself is the sower. And look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verse 37: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man” (Matthew 13:37). “The Son of man” was a term that Jesus used to describe Himself: “He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man.” Jesus has sown the seed of His Word in this world.

But now, wait a minute. Is He the only one that sows? Oh, no. Jesus said, “As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you” (John 20:21). Now, what is your job? Your job is to do exactly what Jesus Christ did. Why did Jesus come? Luke 19, verse 10: “For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost” (Luke 19:10). And how did He do it? He was a sower who went forth to sow to scatter the seed. What is your job? What is your responsibility? It is to sow the seed. Gentlemen, just look at these people. What would happen this week if every one of them became seed-sowers? What would happen if you fellows sowed more seed? I mean, it is our responsibility to sow the seed. Psalm 126, verse 6, says what? “He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him” (Psalm 126:6). The nearest thing, the dearest thing, to the heart of God is getting the lost saved.

I’m going to tell you something, and if I hurt your feelings, you can come up afterward and apologize to me, and I’ll forgive you, okay? Now, listen. If you’re not a seed-sower—if you’re not a seed-sower—I don’t care what else you do, you’re not right with God. I don’t care what else you do. “He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him.”
A. The Commencement

You must go! And you don’t spell go, t-e-a-c-h. And you don’t spell go, g-i-v-e. And you don’t spell go, l-i-v-e. You spell go, g-o! And you can’t spell gospel without starting out g-o. And you can’t spell God without starting out g-o. And you can’t spell good without starting out g-o, go. “He that goeth forth and weepeth…” Get started. Get somebody on your heart, somebody that you need to bring to Jesus Christ.

B. The Compassion

But I want you to see, not only the commencement; I want you to see the compassion. “He that goeth forth and weepeth…” We water these seeds with our tears. That’s what’s going to cause the seed to sprout: the broken heart in soul winning. Do you have a broken heart for the lost? Do you really believe that souls are lost and dying and going to hell without Jesus Christ? I say, “Do you believe it?” If you had the cure for cancer, would you not tell it? My dear friend, if you believe that you have the message that redeems men and brings them from a devil’s hell to a glorious heaven fellowship with the Lord, why don’t we tell it? Why aren’t we brokenhearted? Why don’t we weep? When is the last time you ever shed a tear over some soul that was mortgaged to the devil? Oh, we need to weep! We need to weep!

God is moved by our tears. He said to Hezekiah, in Isaiah 38, verse 5, “I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears” (Isaiah 38:5). I can tell you in my own heart, when I weep over souls, God does something in my heart and in my life. You don’t have to weep publicly. Weep privately. Get in your closet and weep over lost souls.

C. The Content

“He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed…” The seed is the Word of God. You need to scatter the seed lavishly. Just share the Word of God. Everywhere you go, be dropping a seed—dropping a seed.

D. The Consequences

You don’t ever know when it’s going to sprout, because I want you to notice, not only the content, but also I want you to notice the consequences. The Bible says that he “shall doubtless come again”—“doubtless come again”—“with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him.”

Sometimes, when we witness, we don’t think that we’re doing any good at all. I can remember a time in Florida when I was in a revival meeting, and I went out door-to-door soul winning. And I went into a house of a man named Mr. Foshay. And I’d never been in that house. I was a stranger in that town. I went and knocked on the door. Mr. Foshay was there. He was a bachelor. He had never been married. And I went into the living room. He was staying with his parents. He looked to me to be a man of about thirty-five or forty years of age, as I remember now. And I sat down with Mr. Foshay, and I began to share Christ with that man. And he seemed receptive enough. But what happened was his mother came in there.

Now, folks, I’ve only seen two ugly women in my life, and she was both of them. That woman, she had a face like a hatchet. I mean, she looked like the Wicked Witch of the West. I’ve never seen a woman whose face was more a mirror of evil. And when I started opening the Bible, she came down and sat on the other side of the room from me. And she had in her hands a bowl of snapping beans—long green beans. And she just sat down over there, and I tried to witness. And every time I’d say something, she’d go snap, snap. I could just feel my neck breaking. Every time, she’d just be snapping those beans and snarling at me, looking at me. I said, “Oh, dear God, that woman is so full of hate. She’s so full of evil. God, help me to keep my mind on what I’m doing.” And the whole time I witnessed to him I just ignored her. She was snapping and popping those beans and glaring at me. Finally, I said to him, “Sir, would you like to receive Jesus Christ as your personal Savior?” He said, “I would.” I said, “Wonderful!” We prayed a prayer, and I led him in the sinner’s prayer. And I said, “If you really meant that, would you give me your hand?” And he slipped out his hand into mine.

And then she started for me. I said, “Uh oh.” She said, “Boy, I’ve had it!” She left the room. She came across and put that trembling hand in mine with a tear coming down her cheeks to say, “I, too, want Jesus.” The whole time she was under conviction. The devil had lied to me. The devil had said, “That’s a mean woman, a wicked woman. She doesn’t want God. She’s not interested.” All I did was to look at appearances. I didn’t look at that poor woman’s heart. I got so excited I said, “Is anybody else here?” They said, “Yeah, there are some more in the kitchen.” I said, “Go get them.” They brought them in there. Everybody in that house that I remember that day got saved.

And I’ve learned something, dear friend. You don’t have to worry. You just scatter the seed. You’re going to find out that the Lord Jesus Christ here just scattered the seed indiscriminately. He scattered the seed on good ground, bad ground, shallow ground, and among the thorns. He was just getting out the seed. That’s our job. Don’t you try to worry about whether this one will be saved, or that one will be saved; or this one can, or that one can’t. You don’t know, and I don’t know. Just keep on scattering the seed.

III. The Right Welcome

Now, I’ll tell you, there’s a third thing. Not only must there be the right word, and not only must there be the right witness, but there must be the right welcome to the word given by the witness.
Now the Lord Jesus here talks about four kinds of soil. And, very quickly, I want to mention those four kinds of soil. And I want you to look at them, and see what these four kinds of soil are.

A. The Hard Heart of the Stubborn Hearer

First of all, he mentions—and these soils represent hearts—the hard heart of the stubborn hearer. Look, if you will, in Matthew chapter 13 and verse 4—and he says here, “And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up” (Matthew 13:4). And then, if you will, look in Matthew 13, verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side” (Matthew 13:19).

Did you know that there are a lot of people here today who are not understanding what I’m saying? Some of you are writing out menus. Some of you are thinking about the movie you’re going to this afternoon. Some of you are working out business deals. The devil’s got his birds here just picking the word out of your heart right now—just picking it right out. The Word is out there. The Word is coming, but you’re not hearing it. And I’ll tell you why your heart is hard, and why your will is stubborn. Your heart is hard, and your will is stubborn.

Do you know what “the way side” was? “The way side” was just the path through the garden. And people walked on it. All day long they walked on it. It got hard like concrete, and the seed could get down, but the seed could not get in. There was no reception of the seed, because the traffic of this world had hardened the soil. These are the materialists whose lives have been hardened by the traffic of this world. And they have a heart that is hardened against God. And therefore they hear, but they don’t hear. They see, but they don’t see. And I want to tell you, there is nothing wrong with the seed, and there’s nothing wrong with the sower; but there’s something desperately wrong with the soil. It is hard, and it is unreceptive.

All right, there is, first of all, then, what I want to call the hard heart of the stubborn hearer. You know, sometimes a person will say something like this: “You know, preachers don’t preach like they used to when I was a boy.” Some of them do. You just don’t hear like you used to. Did you know that? Your heart has gotten hard. The Bible says, in Hebrews chapter 4, verse 7, “To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts” (Hebrews 4:7).

B. The Shallow Heart of the Superficial Hearer

Now there’s a second kind of soil. Not only is there the hard heart of the stubborn hearer in Matthew 13, verse 4, but also there’s the shallow heart of the superficial hearer in Matthew 13, verse 5. Look at it: “Some fell upon stony places,”—now it doesn’t mean rocks in the soil, but it means soil about a half inch deep on a rock ledge—“where they had not much earth:”—that is, there are only two or three inches of earth—“and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth” (Matthew 13:5). Now some of these people are the quickest to respond, because that warm soil is almost like a hothouse, and they just spring up immediately. But notice what happens in Matthew 13, verse 6: “And when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away” (Matthew 13:6).
Then, look in verses Matthew 13, verses 20 and 21: “But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it; yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended” (Matthew 13:20–21).

Now this is the superficial hearer of a shallow heart. The superficial hearer—the shallow hearer—has a superficial emotionalism. I can tell you that I’ve been preaching the gospel long enough to know that there are some people, when they hear the gospel, it sounds so good to them. They say, “Well, man, a free trip to heaven! Joy and happiness and peace and prosperity.” So here they come down the aisle supposedly to give their heart to Jesus Christ.

Now in the first place, the hard heart: there was no reception. In this place, there is no root. The Word gets in, but it doesn’t get down. These people appear to be saved. We see them for a while. They join our churches, and then they fall away. And do you know why they fall away? Because of the persecution of the Word. If you’re looking for a cheap way, an easy way, or a lazy way to serve God, forget it, mister! There are a lot of people who are caught up in emotionalism, and they have never met Jesus Christ.

Now I’m not against emotion. But I want to tell you, dear friend, that you will never know you’re saved by some emotional, fickle feeling. Feelings are fickle. The Bible never says, “Feel any way, and be saved.” The word feeling is only used twice in the entire New Testament. Your emotions are the shallowest part of your nature. Salvation is the deepest work of God. And God doesn’t do his deepest work in the shallowest part.

Now I’m not against emotion. But I’m telling you, dear friend, that there are thousands of people who have come down church aisles: they have had an emotional experience, but they have never committed their lives to Jesus Christ. I wonder if you are some of them. And when persecution comes, or maybe your feeling gets hurt, or maybe you poured pink lemonade and somebody didn’t call your name, or maybe they moved the doily out of your classroom this morning, and you get your feelings hurt, you know your problem? You are a child of your emotionsF you’re about that deep.

Somebody asked a preacher one time, “What size is your church field?” He said, “It’s seven miles wide and a half inch deep.” I can sympathize with that. Give us some people who are rooted in the Word of God.

C. The Divided Heart of the Selfish Hearer

Now there’s a third kind of soil. And, very quickly, I must finish. That third kind of soil is what I want to call the divided heart. Look, if you will now, in Matthew 13, verse 7: “And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up, and choked them” (Matthew 13:7). That’s the divided heart of the selfish hearer. Here’s a person who is trying to live for God and live for self at the same time. And the seed falls among thorns, because he doesn’t make a clean break with this world. The thorns come up, and after a while the thorns just choke out the seed. Do you know anybody like that? Why, sure! I know a lot of people like that. Look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verse 22—look at it: “He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful” (Matthew 13:22). There is a rival crop that’s never rooted out.

Now in the first place, the hard heart, there was no reception. In the shallow heart, there was no root. In the divided heart, there is no repentance—no repentance. He doesn’t deal with the thorns and the briars. No repentance. My dear friend, listen to me. Jesus Christ did not come to save you in your sin; He came to save you from your sin. Do you know what’s wrong in America today? We’ve got a brand of gospel that says, “Jesus Christ came to save you from hell.” Jesus Christ did not come to save you from hell. That is only a by-product. “Thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins” (Matthew 1:21). That’s what He came to save you from. And when He saves you from your sin, then you don’t go to hell. But there are a lot of people who want to hold on to their sin and somehow go to heaven. You can’t do it. I don’t mean that you’re going to be perfect. I’m not perfect. You’re not perfect. Nobody is. But, dear friend, in your heart and in your life, you are going to have to repent and say, “God, begin now to make me what you want me to be.”

D. The Soft Heart of the Receptive Hearer

First of all, no reception. Then, no root. And now, no repentance. But, last of all—and I must finish—look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verses 8 and 9: “But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear” (Matthew 13:8–9). Not everybody here today has ears. Oh, you have physical ears. But, oh, my friend, listen to me. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. Are you listening to this pastor today? Is your soil good? Let your heart be warm, moist, and fertile upon which the good seed will fall. Earthly soil can’t do anything about itself, but you can. You can prepare the soil of your heart. And you can say, “God, I turn from that stony heart. And, oh, God, I turn from that hard heart. And, oh, God, I turn from those weeds and those thorns. And, Lord God, I open myself to your Word today.” And I promise you on the authority of the Word of God that He will save you.

Conclusion

When the seed gets down, after a while that new life will grow. You’re not going to be changed automatically or instantaneously. When the seed went in, it was quite a while before these flowers came up. But they did come—they did come. And what you need to do is to say, “God, I’m going to give you my heart today, and begin now to bear fruit in my life. Just let that new life begin to grow in me.” No, the gospel hasn’t failed. My dear friend, many times there is nothing wrong with the seed, nor the sower, but it is the soil where is the problem. And there must be the right word, the right witness, and the right welcome to the Word of God. Open your heart today to Jesus. Let him save you. And I promise you on the authority of the Word of God that He will. And you will bring forth fruit. You will. Just abide in Him, and the life that is in you will bear fruit. It will! It will! Hallelujah!

Introduction

E finding Matthew chapter 13. We begin tonight on Sunday nights a Bible study entitled “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” Now in many ways the Bible is a love story—we just heard that—but it’s also a mystery story. And there are mysteries that need to be discovered and unlocked. The Bible is not an open book to those who are the enemies of the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, but it is plain and sweet to those who have certain mysterious truths revealed to them. And as we’ve said many times, the Bible is God’s love letter to His children. If you read it and don’t understand it, it’s because you’ve been reading somebody else’s mail. It is a message written to a particular class of people, as we’re going to see, and there are mysteries in the Word of God. You cannot pry truth out of the Word of God. There are certain truths that have to be revealed to you.

Now, in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew are seven parables, and Jesus calls these parables the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. And they’re going to help us tonight.
The first one that we’re going to look at in just a moment deals with the seeming failure of the gospel. The title of our Bible study tonight is this: “Has the Gospel Failed?”—because, when we look at the world with its wickedness, and we look at the church with its weakness and failures and disappointment—and many times sin—we may have the idea that, really, the gospel’s not all that it purported to be or began to be back some 2,000 years ago, and perhaps the gospel has failed. And when we think, first of all, we look around, and there’s disappointment; and the disappointment causes doubt; and the doubt causes despair.

Well, I want to take all of that away from you. When you study these seven parables, these seven sacred secrets, these seven mysteries of the gospel of the kingdom of heaven, you’re going to say, “Hallelujah! Praise God! Everything is exactly, precisely, what God said that it would be,” and it will engender great faith in your heart and in your life.

Now Jesus was the master teacher—Jesus was the master teacher. Nobody ever taught like the Lord Jesus Christ. As a matter of fact, even His enemies had to say no man ever spake like this man (John 7:46). Who could withstand the teaching of Jesus? Who could controvert Him? Who could argue with Him? Who could confuse Him? And yet the Lord Jesus taught in such a way that little children could understand Him, who had open and ready hearts. And so I hope you’ll have a childlike heart tonight as we begin this sevenfold series on “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.”

A. The Master Teacher

Now before we really even get into this chapter, I want you to notice several things about the master teacher.

1. The Method of His Teaching

   First of all, I want you to notice the method of His teaching—the method of His teaching. Verses 1 through 3: “The same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side.” Now you’ve heard of the Sermon on the Mount. This is the sermon by the sea. “And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.” They were crowding Him so much He had to get in a boat and get a little way off shore so that He could have room to speak. “And he spake many things unto them in parables” (Matthew 13:1–3).

   Now, you see the word parable? Just underscore that. That was the method of His teaching at this particular time: He spoke in parables. Now, fast-forward to verse 10: “And the disciples came and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables?” (Matthew 13:10). Now, what is a parable? Well, it reminds us of the word parallel—and the two words are related. A parable is an earthly story that has a heavenly meaning, okay? That’s the definition of a parable. You got that? A parable is an earthly story; but it has a heavenly meaning. It’s a story; but in the story there is more than what meets the ear, all right?

2. The Mystery of His Teaching

Now the method of His teaching here is parables. Now, what is the mystery of His teaching? Why did He teach in parables? While you’re in verse 10, continue to read: “[His] disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given” (Matthew 13:10–11). So there are some on the inside, and there are some on the outside.

And so the mystery of His teaching is this: that there is hidden truth in the Bible that cannot be known by human wisdom. Man’s wisdom, man’s intellect, is not enough. You may be a Ph.D. over here at the University of Memphis, but you’re not going to pry truth out of the Bible. I don’t care how smart you are, how intellectual you are, how many grams of gray matter are between your ears: you’re not going to be able to wrest truth and get truth out of the Bible. Some people truth is given to, and other people it’s withheld from.

3. The Motive of His Teaching

Well, why would Jesus do that? The method: parables. The mystery: to you it’s given; to them it’s not given. So what is the motive?

a. To Reveal

Well, first of all, to reveal. He wanted to reveal to them certain things. For example, look, if you will, in verse 12: “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance” (Matthew 13:12). So the Lord says, “I’m going to teach certain things to those of you who have certain things. I am letting you in on a secret.” Now they might have said, “Well, why us? Why do you want to let us in on a secret?” Well, He saw certain things in these people. They may have been tax collectors, they may have been fishermen, they may have been ordinary people; but they had something on the inside, and Jesus could see what they had on the inside. And so He says, “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given.”

You see, they had a desire to know truth. Do you ever desire to know truth? The Bible says, in Psalm 25, verse 9, “The meek will he guide in judgment: and the meek will he teach his way” (Psalm 25:9). Do you know what the word meek means? It means, “teachable and guidable.” Are you that way tonight? Are you teachable and guidable? If you are, God wants to share His sacred secrets with you. But on the other hand, there are those that not only does He want to learn and to reveal things to, but there are others that He’s going to hide things from. It’s very strange, but look at this—verse 12: “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance;”—now, watch—“but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath. Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand” (Matthew 13:12–13).

b. To Conceal

Now, why did Jesus speak in parables? Sometimes people say, “Well, Jesus spoke in parables to make it very clear.” Only to a certain class. He spoke in parables to reveal and to conceal. “That those to have, to them shall be given more. But to those who have not shall be taken away, even that which they have.” Now, what does that mean? Well, it means, spiritually, the rich get richer. Have you ever heard in the material realm the rich get richer? It’s true in the spiritual realm. “To him that hath shall be given; to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.” You say, “Well now, why would Jesus do that? I mean, why doesn’t He just give more to the person who doesn’t have? Why does He give more to the person who already has? Why, spiritually, do the rich get richer?

Well, let’s go back to the material world. Why do the rich get richer in the material world? Suppose you were a businessman, and you had two businesses; and let’s suppose that you invested 50,000 dollars in each of those businesses. One business immediately began to lose money and was mismanaged; the other business immediately began to make money and to grow and to make money for you. What would you do? You would take the money that you’d invested over here in this business that’s losing money, and you would put it over here in the business that’s making money, wouldn’t you do that? You would give to him that hath, and to him that hath not you’d take away even what he has. If he doesn’t have the moxie, if he doesn’t have the drive, if he doesn’t have the incentive to make that business work, you take what you’ve invested there and you invest it somewhere else.

Now so there’s a truth about truth. And here’s the truth about truth: If you don’t use it, you’ll lose it. Now truth is not something you can just put in your pocket and say, “Well, that’s interesting.” It’s not meant to be interesting; it’s meant to be disturbing—disturbing enough that you will obey it. And so you must use it. Truth not used is taken away. Use it or lose it.

Now so what you have here is the master teacher. You have the method of His teaching, which is parables. You have the mystery of His teaching: both to reveal and to conceal. And you have the motive: that to those who have He’s going to give more; to those who have not He’s going to take away even that which they have. And so you have to understand that the reason that the Lord Jesus was doing this. Very frankly, this thirteenth chapter of Matthew is the very first time He ever used parables. Don’t get the idea that Jesus came teaching in parables. He didn’t. He began to teach in parables at this stage. You know why He taught in parables? You go back to Matthew 12. They said He has a demon. The hostility began to rise against the Lord Jesus Christ, and they began to carp and criticize and find fault. He began to teach in parables. Why? It was His righteous judgment.

You know, the Lord Jesus, in the Sermon on the Mount, you know what He said? He said, “Don’t cast your pearls before swine” (Matthew 7:6). Isn’t that what He said? “Don’t cast your pearls before swine.” And He was not going to take the pearls of His truth and cast them before those people who accused Him of having a demon. So He said, “To those of you who want to know truth, it is given; but to those of you who don’t want to know truth, I’m going to take away even the so-called truth you think you have.” So He taught in parables, not merely to make it clear, but also to make it obscure; not merely to reveal, but also to conceal. Now that’s all just by background.

Now we’re going to get into the first of these seven sacred secrets tonight, and we’re going to talk about “Has the Gospel Failed?” And this is, of course, one of the most prominent and well-known parables in all of the Bible. It is the parable of the sower. So go back now to chapter 13, verse 3:

“And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed,”—now, boys and girls, that doesn’t mean sew, like you sew up your britches; it means he’s planting seed—“some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: but other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear” (Matthew 13:3–9). Now not everybody that day had ears to hear. But He says, “Those of you who can understand, those of you who have ears to hear, let him hear.”

Now there are three basic things in this parable. There is the seed, the sower, and the soil. And we’re going to think about those: the seed, the sower, and the soil. And we’re going to find out why, what all of this means, and really then we’re going to ask ourselves this question: Has the gospel failed?

I. The Seed

Now, what is the seed in this parable? Well, we don’t have to guess about it. You know, verse 3 says that “a sower went forth” (Matthew 13:3); he sowed some seeds. Well, go over to verse 18, and Jesus explains this. And He says, “Hear ye therefore the parable of the sower. When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not…” (Matthew 13:18–19).

Now the seed therefore is “the word of the kingdom.” “The word of the kingdom” is the Bible. The Bible is like the seed. As a matter of fact, the Bible describes itself as a seed. And why is the Bible like seed? Because seed has life. My wife can tell you that one of the things that I ponder about often, and almost get philosophical about, is seed. I’m enamored by seed. Seeds are incredible things. Take a watermelon seed, a little thing no bigger than my little fingernail there, and you can put that in the ground, and that little seed will go out in the ground and suck out a vine, and then it will take that vine and suck watermelons out of the ground. It does. Where does it get all that? From the dirt and the moisture.

Now you say, “Well, sure, everybody knows that.” Suppose you’d never seen one before. I mean, you would say, “Oh, that’s a miracle!” I mean, think: you’d take that little thing and put it in the ground, and that’s what it does. It’s an amazing thing. But we’re just used to it. Charles Haddon Spurgeon said, “Everything’s wonderful till you get used to it.” You remember when you first could change the channel like this? Your kids are not impressed with that at all. But, you see, we just get used to things. And the Bible is a seed.

Let me give you some verses that teach this. For example, 1 Peter chapter 1, verse 23—the Bible says, “Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever” (1 Peter 1:23). See, the Bible is alive. Hebrews 4:12: “For the word of God is quick, and powerful.” The word quick is the word we get our word zoology from—zon, life; it’s the word we get our word zoo from. “The word of God is quick, and powerful.” And the word powerful is the word we get our word energy from: energes. The Bible is zon, energes; it pulsates with life. It’s not like any other book.

Friend, I have been preaching the Bible long enough to know there is power in the Word of God—I mean, power. Remember what I said: it is alive; it is powerful; it pulsates with power. It’s like a seed; and the secret of a seed is that it germinates life. It has life in it. Jesus, in John chapter 6, said to His disciples, “The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life” (John 6:63)—“The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.” A seed has life. If you want to have a crop, let me tell you, you can plow all you want, you can fertilize all you want, you can irrigate all you want; but if you don’t put a seed in, you’re not going to have a crop. Isn’t that true? I wish preachers would learn this.

You know, there are preachers who specialize sometimes in plowing and irrigation and fertilizer, but they fail to put the seed in. It’s not enough to tickle the soil. You’ve got to sow the seed. A sower went forth to sow. No church that is not a Bible-preaching church is going to grow; it’s not going to reproduce, because the life comes from the seed. “A sower went forth to sow.” The seed is “the word of the kingdom.” You want to be a soul winner? You’ll never be a soul winner without sowing the seed. You’ve got to sow a seed. All right, there are many ways to do it; but why don’t you pray that God will make you a seed sower? The seed is the Word of God.

II. The Sower

Now, let’s move to the second thing. If the seed is the Word of God, who is the sower of the seed? The sower of the seed in this parable is Jesus Christ Himself. Now, notice, in verse 3, He says, “A sower went forth to sow” (Matthew 13:3). Well, who is the sower?

Well, go over to verse 37, and look, if you will. You’re going to find out who the sower is: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man” (Matthew 13:37). Now the Son of man was a term that Jesus used to describe Himself. He, the Son of God, called Himself the Son of man, because He was both God the Son, and the God-man. And so He was the Son of man. That was one of His favorite designations of Himself. So He is Jesus Christ, the sower, and He is shown here just scattering seed with a lavish hand. He’s not careful about the seed. He says some seed falls on the worst sod; some falls on stony ground; some falls among thorns; some falls on good ground. He’s just scattering seed everywhere. That is the Son of man, the Lord Jesus.

Now He’s taught us to do the same thing, because He says, “As my father hath sent me, even so send I you” (John 20:21). So as He is a sower, I’m to be a sower. He is my example; I’m His follower. One of the things I think all of us need to do—and I’m going to ask you folks at Bellevue to do this—is to begin to scatter seed everywhere. It doesn’t make any difference where you are at any time: you never know when the seed is going to sprout. And don’t you be as much a soil tester as much you are a seed sower.

Now I’ve had enough experiences in life to know that, many times when you think that your seed is going to bring forth fruit, it doesn’t do it. And sometimes you think you’re just sowing on stony ground, or thorny ground, or hard ground, and shallow ground, and it brings forth fruit.

I can remember Mr. Brennan. He had a son—a great big, tall, crop-dusting son. And I wanted to go witness to his son. His son was so tall—he was a crop-duster—he actually hung both legs outside the airplane when he flew—literally. He couldn’t get them up there—he was that tall of a guy. And he’d been on drugs, but he got saved. And then he wanted me to come out to his house. And so I went to his house. He said, “Now my daddy doesn’t like you. As a matter of fact, my daddy hates you. But,” he said, “I want you to come, and I want to have some friends over.” So I went over to Mr. Brennan’s house, and I sat there and I opened my Bible, and I taught. He came in. I’ve never seen a stonier, harder look on any man in my life than Mr. Brennan. But I shared, you know, and talked, and tried not to notice him. Very frankly, I was a little intimidated by him. But I just went ahead and shared—and just sowing seed, sowing seed.

I had forgotten about that incident at that time until several years later—more than four years later. I was in a church service, and a man stood up to give a testimony, and I thought, “Well, I think I know that guy.” I looked at him. You know who it was? Mr. Brennan. And this was his testimony. He said, “Through the witness of that man”—and he pointed to me—“I came to know Jesus Christ as my personal Savior and Lord.” I thought, “My goodness!” I thought that guy, I thought if I ever I sowed on concrete, I did that night—and there he came to know the Lord Jesus Christ. The sower’s just sowing everywhere.

I was in Pensacola one time, and there was a man whose name was Mr. Forshay. And I had gotten his name somehow, and I went to his house to share with him. I’ve never told you this story. I sat down. I got him out in the living room. I wanted to get him isolated so I could share the gospel with him. And he seemed to be very open, but his mother came in. Now, folks, if I had been Cecil B. DeMille and I wanted to do some typecasting for a witch, she’d be number one. She had a face like a hatchet. And she came in and sat down on the couch across the room. Now I’m sitting by this guy, and she’s sitting over there. And she had a bowl of snapping beans and a colander. And I’m over there sharing the gospel with that man, and she’s over there snapping those beans; and every time she snapped one, I could feel my neck break: snap, snap, snapping those beans, just looking at me. It was as disconcerting as any witness I’ve ever been in. But I just kept on going. I said, “I’m not going to let the devil intimidate me; that woman is so full of the devil, she must be demon-possessed,” and I just went on. And, boy, she was snapping those beans just like that. Finally, I said to Mr. Forshay, “Would you like to pray and receive Christ as your personal Savior and Lord?” He nodded his head. By that time, he was probably thirty-five or forty years of age. He’d prayed and asked Christ into his heart.

I, you know, wanted to obey the Bible. It says, “Watch and pray” (Matthew 26:41; Mark 13:33). Well, I kept one eye on her while I was praying. But he prayed and asked Christ to come into his heart. Then I said to him, “If you really meant that, would you give me your hand?” And he gave me his hand. And, boy, then she stood up and started for me. I said, “Uh oh, here it comes. How do you fight a woman? What am I going to do?” And she started for me—and she put out her hand to let me know she too had prayed to ask Jesus Christ into her heart. I thought, “Adrian, what a klutz you are! How dumb you are! You’d already made up your mind what kind of soil that was. That dear, precious woman had come out because she wanted to hear about Jesus. And she sat there and saw her son get saved. And she got saved. You never know.

I got a letter a while back, Brother Jim, from Merritt Island. A man—he’s a Presbyterian minister—he said, “Forgive me for not writing you, but,” he said, “years and years ago I was a long-haired hippie, and you stopped and picked me up and shared Jesus with me.” He said, “I made out like I didn’t care at all what you said.” He said, “I stonewalled you, but,” he said, “I never could get it out of my heart. And,” he said, “God has saved me and called me to preach.” I don’t even remember it. I have no recollection of even picking the guy up.

But, folks, I tell you what: we need to go, just scatter the seed. Don’t test the soil! Just scatter the seed! Here’s the Lord Jesus Christ—He’s sowing with a lavish hand. Some falls by the wayside. Some falls in the stony places. Some falls among the weeds. Some falls on the good ground. The sower is the Lord Jesus Christ.

III. The Soil
But the main emphasis in this parable is the soil. Now there are four kinds of soil in this parable—and the soil represents the hearts of men and women, the hearts of those who hear the Word. For example, look in verse 4: “And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell on stony places”—verse 5 (Matthew 13:4–5). And then, verse 7: “Some fell among thorns” (Matthew 13:7). And then, verse 8: Some “fell into good ground” (Matthew 13:8). Well, what does that represent? Well, go over to verse 15, and you can see that it represents those who hear: “For this people’s heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed;”—so He’s talking here about the heart. And then He goes on to say—“lest…”—in that same verse—“lest…they should…understand with their heart” (Matthew 13:15). And so the soil is the hearts of people. And we’re sowing the seed in hearts.

Now there are different kinds of hearts. There are three basic reasons why a preacher can preach and people will not respond to his preaching, or why a soul winner can witness and people do not respond to the witness.

A. No Reception
First of all, there is the heart where the seed has no reception—the seed has no reception. Listen to verse 4: “And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up” (Matthew 13:4). Now, what does that mean:
“some…fell by the way side”? Well, go again to verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side” (Matthew 13:19).

Do you know Satan always attends church? He sends an emissary, if he doesn’t attend himself—the wicked one. And so Adrian is up here sowing seed. Now if your heart is a hard heart, a wayside heart, when I sow it, Satan just comes like a bird and steals the seed right off the surface; because while I’m here speaking tonight, you’re trying to decide whether or not you’re going to go to El Chico’s or J. Alexander’s or something like that; and you’re just all on what you’ve got to do tomorrow; or whether the kids’ clothes are ready for school tomorrow, or whatever. Your mind—Satan’s just stealing away the seed, because the seed has no reception in your heart.

What is the wayside? Well, in Bible times, the wayside is what we would call today the sidewalk—only they didn’t have sidewalks of concrete; they just had packed down soil. And many times the wayside is just a path through the field, or alongside of the field, and it has been trampled on, it has been trodden underfoot by this world, until it becomes so hard that it is impenetrable. And so the seed is the Word of God. The sower is Jesus Christ Himself. Nothing wrong with the seed; certainly nothing wrong with the sower; but the heart is so hard that the seed has no reception. It cannot get in. And there are many people like that. You may sit in this service tonight, and God knows why you’re even here; but you have a hard heart, and you’re not going to understand what I say, and the seed is not going to get into your heart and into your life tonight.

Look again in verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side” (Matthew 13:19). Your heart can get hard. There are some of you here tonight that may have a hard heart; certainly there are some listening to me by radio, I trust, that you have a hard heart. I don’t want you to have a hard heart; but you could have a hard heard. You see, in Hebrews chapter 3, the Bible says, “To day if ye will hear [God’s] voice, harden not your hearts” (Hebrews 3:7–8). Your heart can get hard.

Now anything you do long enough, you get good at. If you reject the gospel long enough, you become a professional gospel rejecter. Your heart can get hard. Have you ever heard anybody say something like this: “Preachers don’t preach like they used to when I was a boy”? Some of them do. You just don’t hear like you did when you were a boy. That’s the difference.

I illustrate it this way. If you’ve ever been out in the woods and you’ve seen some charred stump—maybe the stump of a pine—and it’s just the stump that’s there, and it is black and covered with charcoal, it’s just charred and burned over—now, what happened? Well, there was a time when somebody came in there and cut that pine tree down. And you know what happens when you cut a pine tree down? The sap, the resin, just oozes out. And then there comes a fire in the brush and the weeds and the bushes and everything all around that stump; and when the fire comes roaring by, that stump blazes and catches fire, and blazes brightly. But then, what happens? After a while, it burns itself out, and it’s charred and blackened.

Now perhaps in a year or so that underbrush grows up again, and again there’s a fire, and the fire comes to where that stump is; and that stump this time, if the fire is hot enough, it will flicker, it will burn, not nearly as bright, not nearly as long, and then it will go out. But, you know, there will come a time when, no matter how hot the fire is, it can be a roaring inferno; but when it comes to that stump, it just jumps over it. There’s not a glow. You know why? It is charred. It is hardened. It is burned over. It is seared.

The Bible speaks of those whose conscience is “seared with a hot iron” (1 Timothy 4:2). And I’ve been in services, folks, where the Holy Ghost of God is moving like a fire across the congregation. But there are people that just sit there and are not moved at all; they don’t feel one thing. They are not touched, because the seed does not get in. Their hearts are charred, hardened. They’re like the wayside that’s been trampled on; they’re like the stump that is bent over and burnt over; and that’s the reason the Bible says, “To day if ye will hear [God’s] voice, harden not your hearts” (Hebrews 3:7–8).

And I want to say something to you. If you have any inclination to come to Jesus, do it—do it. Don’t play with this thing called salvation. There’s a very interesting verse in John chapter 12, beginning in verse 37. The Bible says, “But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him: that the saying of [Isaiah] the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, Lord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed? Therefore they could not believe” (John 12:37–38).

B. No Root

Now, notice the sequence. At first, they would not believe, and then they could not believe. And so there’s, first of all, the seed that has no reception. The seed can’t get in; it falls on the wayside. But then, there’s another kind of seed. First of all, the seed with no reception; and, secondly, the seed with no root. It gets in, but it doesn’t get down. Look in verse 5: “Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth” (Matthew 13:5).

Now when the Bible says, “stony places,” it doesn’t mean soil with a lot of stones in it; it means soil that is shallow. In the Bible, there in Israel, if you’ve been to Israel, you know that there are great limestone ledges and limestone strata sometimes right under the earth. There may only be a half an inch of earth on top of solid rock. Now you don’t know there’s only half an inch of earth there; it may be feet deep so far as you know. But that’s what the Bible calls “the stony place.” And it doesn’t have much earth.

And so now, look at it: “Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth” (Matthew 13:5). They come up first. The shallowness causes the seed to sprout. It’s like an incubator. It’s warm. It’s warmer there. The sun is beating upon it. It’s right there on the surface. Why, it just springs up immediately! You say, “Well, what a wonderful harvest!” But now, notice in verse 6: “And when the sun was up,”—that is, all the way up—“they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away” (Matthew 13:6).

Some seed, no reception; some seed, no root.

Well, what does that speak of? Well, go over to verse 20. “But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it; yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended” (Matthew 13:20–21).

I’ve seen it happen so many times. I’ve been preaching the Bible long enough now that I’m getting a perspective. And I don’t get excited every time somebody shouts, “Hallelujah!” I don’t get excited every time somebody comes down the aisle weeping. Well, I do get excited. I take that back. But I try to see it in perspective—I try to see it in perspective—because I know that there are shallow individuals, and they are living in the realm of emotion; and you can preach, and maybe tell a moving story, or maybe do a great song like Greg Sims sang this morning, and everybody gets happy, and I get happy. And that’s wonderful. And nothing’s wrong with emotion. That’s fine. We’re to love God with all of our soul. But I want to tell you this—and I’ve told you before: Your emotions are the shallowest part of your nature. Salvation is the deepest work of God. And God doesn’t do the deepest work in the shallowest part. Don’t you ever forget that.

Salvation is in the spirit of man down deep; and so many times people have an emotional spasm, they get into meetings, and a certain kind of music, certain kind of preaching, certain kind of exhortation, and so forth, and they say, “Yes, I want to be a Christian, hallelujah!” But let the sun get up, let tribulation come, let persecution come, let somebody hurt their feelings, let the doctor give them a bad report, let them get fired from their job, let them have some problems in life: oh, they’re gone! They’re gone! They didn’t lose their salvation; they never had it. The seed got in, but the seed did not get down. And it happens so many times. These are the emotional people. You see, if your heart is a shallow part, it’s soon going to be scorched, and you’re going to wither.
C. No Room

Now, here’s the third seed. The first of the seed has no reception. Secondly, the seed has no root. Thirdly, the seed has no room. Look in verse 7: “And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them” (Matthew 13:7). That is, literally, it “crowded them out.” Well, look, if you will, in verse 22: “He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches…”—did you know that riches are so deceitful?—“the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful” (Matthew 13:22).

Now, in the first place, the seed could not get in. In the second place, the seed could not get down. In the third place, the seed can’t get free. It’s just choked by all of these things. There was a rival crop, and that rival crop was undisturbed. Like so many people, they just want to add Jesus Christ on; they don’t want to make Jesus Christ all. You say, “Well, I’d like salvation as a byproduct.” But, you see, the thorns, from time immemorial, from the Garden of Eden, represent that which is cursed; it’s typical of sin, and unless there’s repentance, you’re not saved—if there’s a rival crop, if you tried to make Jesus Christ a sideline.

So many people don’t know what repentance is. Repentance is not being broken over your sin; it’s being broken from your sin. The Bible says, “Thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins” (Matthew 1:21). It may surprise you to learn that Jesus didn’t come to save you from hell. He came to save you from sin. And if He can’t save you from sin, He sure can’t save you from hell. “Thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins.”

First time: no reception. Second time: no root. Third time: no room. Now, in each instance, there was nothing wrong with the sower, and nothing wrong with the seed. Now I don’t want to get cavalier about preaching, and no decisions; but I’ve learned, folks, that I can be right with God, I can preach a good sermon, and there can still be no results. And that’s not my problem, and it’s not my fault. I am the man who’s to scatter the seed. I can’t take credit if the seed grows. I certainly cannot take blame. What I must do is make certain that I’m preaching and teaching the Word of God.

D. No Refusal

But now there was a fourth kind of soil—and thank God for that! And this soil, it was not a matter that there was no reception, no root, no room, but this soil, there was no refusal; he just opens his heart. Look in verse 8: “But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear” (Matthew 13:8–9). This is the open heart of the man with sincerity who hears the Word of God. And, by the way, you know how you test your life as a Christian? Is there fruit in your life? Is there fruit in your life? Has your life been changed? Or are you just a church member? Is there fruit in your life? Is the Bible real to you? Is there joy in the Holy Ghost? Is Christ Lord? Do you have a desire to share the gospel of Jesus Christ? What right do you have to call yourself a follower of Jesus if the fruit of the Spirit is not there?

“Well,” you say, “maybe I’m just bad soil—not my fault.” Well, the Bible teaches that the soil can do something about itself. Let me give you a couple of verses, and I’m finished now in just a few moments. Jeremiah chapter 4, verse 3: “Break up your fallow ground, and sow not among thorns” (Jeremiah 4:3)—“Break up your fallow ground.” Do you know what fallow ground is? It’s ground that has not been plowed. It’s ground that’s not been cultivated. It’s just lying fallow. And God says, “Put the plow in and break it up.”

That’s what I want you to do tonight. I want you just to get those thorns out, to be willing to repent of your sin, in case you can’t get the thorns out apart from the Lord. But He will do that for you. Again, in Hosea chapter 10 and verse 12, he says this: “Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy; break up your fallow ground: for it is time to seek the LORD, till he come and rain righteousness upon you” (Hosea 10:12). See, you’re not destined to go to hell just because your heart is hard. Break it up. “A broken and a contrite spirit, thou wilt not despise, O God” (Psalm 51:17).

You know, I was preaching a revival, I was holding a revival—I guess I held it; it never got loose—in a southern Louisiana town—as a matter of fact, New Iberia, Louisiana. And if you’re from down there, New Iberia, it’s where they make Tabasco sauce, one of my favorite condiments. And I was down there in New Iberia, Louisiana, and I was preaching. And, folks, I’m telling you, it was as dead as four o’clock. Nothing was happening. I fasted. I prayed. I wept. I sought God. I did everything that I knew to do. Nothing was happening. It was just dead. Oh, a few folks came down the aisle because they were sorry for me; but it wasn’t a move of God.

And one night I preached my heart out; I tore my lungs out preaching the Word of God: and those folks just sitting there unmoved, undisturbed. I said to God, “God, I’ve got to have a word from you. I am frustrated.” Nobody needs to be frustrated if he’s a preacher of the gospel. It was one of those churches that didn’t have chairs like Brother Bob’s sitting on right now. It had those wooden chairs with those arms that kind of looked like the electric chair. Have you ever seen the electric chair? You know, they have those things for preachers to sit in, and they were up on the platform. I said to the pastor of that church, I said, “Pastor, you take the invitation. I’ve got to pray.”

This happened during the invitation. I was so, I guess, frustrated; and I opened my Bible. And I don’t recommend this as Bible study; but, folks, I was desperate. I said, “God, I’ve got to have a word from you. I’m going to let my Bible fall open at random, and I’m going to put my finger upon a verse of Scripture. Let it be for me.” I opened my Bible. I put my finger on a verse of Scripture. It was in Ezekiel chapter 3, verse 7. And it said this: “But the house of Israel will not hearken unto thee; for they will not hearken unto me: for [they are]…rebellious house” (Ezekiel 3:7–9). I said, “Oh, why didn’t I see that? I haven’t failed. I’m just the messenger boy. I preached right. My heart was right. The only reason they didn’t hear me, is, Lord, they didn’t hear you. They have not sinned against me. I haven’t failed. They’ve just hardened their heart against you.”

That was such a blessing, I almost shouted. I said, “Lord, that was so good: show me another one.” I’m telling it, folks, just like it happened. And I just turned the page and put my finger down on another verse—and, when I did, I almost came unglued. Here’s what it said: “And they, whether they will hear…”—listen, Ezekiel 2:5—“And they, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear…yet shall know that there hath been a prophet among them.” “Thank you, God. That’s it! Thank you, God. Whether they hear, whether they don’t…” You say, “Well, that’s just a coincidence you found those verses. Coincidence or not, it’s still true—it’s still true.

Conclusion

Whether they hear or whether they don’t, that’s not my business. My business is to scatter the seed, to sow the seed. Some falls on hard ground, the wayside—and there’s no reception. Some stony ground: there’s no root. Some falls on thorny ground: there’s no room. But I’ve been preaching long enough to know—thank God—some falls on good ground, and it brings forth fruit. Has the gospel failed? Absolutely not! There’s nothing wrong with the seed. The problem is always the soil.

Introduction

And today I’m going to be preaching on “Why Some Preachers Have Crop Failure”—“Why Some Preachers Have Crop Failure.” We’re going to find out that that some preachers preach and nothing really happens like they expected to happen or wanted to happen—and why. So Matthew chapter 13: a brand new series of seven messages on the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. Matthew 13, verse 1: “The same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side. And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore. And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: but other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear. And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables?” (Matthew 13:1–10).

Now we’ve all known about the Sermon on the Mount. That’s in chapter 5. But this is the Sermon by the Sea. The Lord Jesus is giving another sermon, and we need to understand the truths that are there, because these are such vital truths that, when you understand them, they will keep you from much misunderstanding that you would have if you did not understand them. Now, let me say that Jesus taught them, and Jesus was the master teacher. They said, “Never a man spoke like this man” (John 7:46).

I. The Method of Jesus’ Teaching
And I want you to notice now the method of His teaching. In verse 3, the Bible says that He spoke to them in parables. Now, what is a parable? Well, think of the word parallel, because both words are rooted in the same word. A parable is a method of teaching that lays one truth down alongside another truth, just like parallel lying. First of all, the Lord gives a truth in the natural world, and then He makes an application to the spiritual world. A little girl was not far from right when she said, “A parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning.” And so that was the method of His teaching: parables.

II. The Mystery of Jesus’ Teaching
This is the first time, so far as we can tell, that Jesus ever taught in parables. And He gives seven parables here, and these seven parables are called the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, as we will see in just a moment. So look in verse 11. Now, remember the method of His teaching was parable. But now notice the mystery of His teaching, in verse 11: “He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given” (Matthew 13:11). That is, “I’m teaching in parables to help you to understand the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.”

Now, what is a mystery in the Bible? A mystery, in the Bible, is some spiritual truth that you could not know by human discernment, by human logic, by human computation. A mystery is something that you can only know by the Holy Spirit and divine revelation.

I heard Bill Gothard tell about a college student who was in a class; and that professor in that class said, “Is there anybody in this class who believes the Bible?” And this college student who was a fine Christian stood up and said, “Yes sir, I believe the Bible.” And with that, the professor began, in excoriating terms, to humiliate this young man, and to ridicule the Bible, and to take it apart a piece at a time; and he said, “I’ve read the entire Bible through, and I want to tell you it is a bundle of confusion; it doesn’t make any sense at all to me.” And that young college student, filled with the Holy Spirit, said, “Sir, I mean you no disrespect; but may I tell you, sir, that the Bible is God’s love letter to His children. If you’ve read it and didn’t understand it, it’s because you’ve been reading somebody else’s mail.” Amen?

You see, listen, friend. These are things that are mysteries that you only know as God the Holy Spirit reveals them unto you. And here a mystery is something that you have to receive by a revelation. You lay your intellectual pride in the dust, “For God hath hidden these things from the wise and the prudent, and God hath revealed them unto babes” (Matthew 11:25; Luke 10:21).

III. The Motive of Jesus’ Teaching

The method of His teaching: parables. The mystery of His teaching: things that you could not understand any other way. But now, let’s notice the motive of His teaching. Why did Jesus teach by parables? The disciples ask this question, in verse 10: “[His] disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables?” (Matthew 13:10). And Jesus gave two reasons why He spoke in parables—number one: to reveal; number two: to conceal.

A. To Reveal

Now He spoke in parables to reveal. He wanted them to understand certain things. So He says, in verse 11, “I’m speaking in parables”—“Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given. For whosoever hath,”—verse 12—“to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath” (Matthew 13:11–12).

Now, what does that mean? Have you ever heard this expression: “The rich get richer, and the poor get poorer”? You say, “Heard it? I’m experiencing it. From the latter end, that is.” All right, the rich get richer, and the poor get poorer. Or, as they say in the country, “Them that has gets.” Now, that’s a principle; and it’s not only true materialistically and financially; it is definitely true spiritually. Jesus said, “I have a certain motive, and it is to reveal; and I’m going to reveal certain things to you.” And Jesus said, “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance.” That is, Jesus said, “If you have a certain thing, you’re going to get more.”

Now, why did Jesus reveal certain truths to these disciples? Why is He wanting to reveal truth to them? Because they had something. What was it that they had that caused them to get more? They had a hunger for spiritual truth and a willingness to act upon it when they heard it.
You know, Jesus walked the shores of Galilee, and He saw certain ones, and Jesus knew men. He needed not that anybody tell Him what was in man. He knew men (John 2:24–25). And He saw Matthew. He saw John. He saw Andrew. He saw others. Why did Jesus choose fishermen, tax collectors, others? Why did He choose these people? Not because they were wealthy, not because they were handsome, not because they were educated; but because there was something about these men. They had something, and the thing that they had was a hunger for spiritual truth and a willingness to obey that truth, because when Jesus called, they left their nets; they forsook it all, they followed Him.

There was a certain spiritual levity in the hearts and minds of these people. They had something, a hunger to know truth and a willingness to obey truth. “And to him that hath shall be given, and he shall have in more abundance.” And so our Lord here is willing to teach these men more, because they were teachable. You know what the Bible says, in Psalm 25, verse 9? The Bible says, “The meek will he teach his way” (Psalm 25:9). Do you know what the word meek means? It means, “teachable.” Are you teachable? You see, you may not be teachable today. And so you won’t get any. As a matter of fact, you’re in danger of losing what you already have. “To him that hath shall be given; but to him that hath not shall be taken away, even that which he hath.”

Here’s a man, let’s say, who has 100,000 dollars he wants to invest in business, so he invests 50,000 dollars in a business over here, and he invests 50,000 dollars in a business over here. Now, let’s say this business doesn’t do a thing. As a matter of fact, it’s just going backward. It’s losing money. It’s causing him all kinds of heartaches and headaches. And over here is a business that’s making money hand over fist. What’s he going to do? To this business that has he’s going to give more, and to this business that has not he’s going to take away the 50,000 that it already had and put it in this business. You see, he’s just going to invest his money where he’s going to get the biggest return. “To him that hath shall be given; and to him that hath not shall be taken away, even that which he hath.”

There is a spiritual principle in the world. It is in everything that we see, dear friend, that if you have a willingness to know truth, if you have a meek heart, if you have an obedient spirit, then “to him that hath shall be given.”

B. To Conceal

But not only did Jesus teach in parables to reveal; He also taught in parables to conceal. Continue to read. Look in verse 12 again from the other side: “For whosoever hath, to him shall be given,”—that is, he’ll have a revelation—“and he shall have more abundance:”—but now, watch the other—“but whosoever hath not,”—that is, a hunger for truth and a willingness to obey truth—“from him shall be taken away even that he hath. Therefore speak
I unto them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand. And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of [Isaiah], which saith, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive: for this people’s heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them” (Matthew 13:12–15).

Now, why did He say He spoke in parables? Because there were certain people He didn’t want to understand. You say, “You mean, the Lord didn’t want them to understand?” That is absolutely right. You see, if you will read chapter 12, you will read where Jesus just warned them about the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost and the unpardonable sin. He had done miracles that only God could do. He had taught as only God can teach. He had loved as only God could love. And yet, in their arrogance, and in their spitefulness, and in the hardness of their heart, they said that Jesus Christ cast out devils by the prince of devils (Matthew 12:24). They had truths, but they would not obey truth. And their rebellion reached a climax in chapter 12; and, in chapter 13, He starts to speak in parables.

Never spoke in parables before this, but now He starts to speak in parables. Why? “To him that hath shall be given, but to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which they have.” They had truth; they did not act upon truth. They had no love for truth. And now the Lord is teaching His own to reveal to them. But He’s also teaching a way to conceal to the others. Friend, if you do not use truth, you will lose truth. Truth is not something that you can just put in your pocket and say, “Well, I’ll spend that whenever I get ready.” You’ll use it or you’ll lose it. Truth not received, not acted on, not welcomed, is taken away.

Now I want to show you a passage of Scripture that will just...—oh, I’ll tell you, it’s a devastating passage of Scripture—so put your bookmark there in Matthew 13 and turn to 2 Thessalonians the second chapter—2 Thessalonians the second chapter. Don’t miss this. Here God is explaining why some people will follow the Antichrist when he comes. And the Antichrist is coming, and some, doubtless, who are listening to my voice right now will believe the lies of the Antichrist. You talk about a man who’s going to have persuasive powers: look in 2 Thessalonians chapter 2, verse 9. The Bible describes him: “Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders,”—he’ll be a miracle worker. He will have such ability of persuasion he’ll be able to make you think that red is blue, and up is down, and good is bad. He will make you, dear friend, where you would be willing to cut your mother’s throat. He’ll have such power of persuasion. You say, “Well, who’s going to believe him?” Well, let’s go on to read. The Bible says he’s coming, in verse 10—“...with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish;”—well, who’s going to perish? Continue to read—“because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.” Now there are some people who have a love of the truth and other people don’t have it. That love of the truth is what Jesus is talking about when He says, “to him that shall be given.” All right now, there are some who receive not the love of the truth that they might be saved. Now, look in verse 11: “And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion...”—who is sending them strong delusion? The Antichrist? No. The devil? No. Look at it—“And for this cause...”—what cause? They don’t have a love for the truth—“for this cause, God shall send them strong delusion,”—well, why would He do that? Well, continue to read—“that they all might be damned...”—it’s getting worse, isn’t it? God sends them delusion so that they will believe a lie, so that they will be damned. Well, why would God do that? Continue to read—“that they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness” (2 Thessalonians 2:9–12).

It is not that they had not first heard the truth. They had heard the truth, but they wouldn’t believe the truth. And why wouldn’t they believe the truth? Is it because they had intellectual problems? No, not at all! They wouldn’t believe the truth because they didn’t have a love for the truth. What did they have a love for? They had a love for unrighteousness. Look at it: “that they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.” Now, write it down big and get it in your heart. The opposite of truth is not error. The opposite of truth is sin. Now, learn that. It doesn’t say that they received not the love of the truth, but had pleasure in error. It says they “had pleasure in unrighteousness.”

Now here’s the situation. Over here is God’s truth, perfect truth. Over here is a man’s sin, his lifestyle, his unrighteousness that he loves; and he’s coming down the road of life, and he is confronted with truth, and he hears the gospel, and he knows that if he believes this truth, receives this truth, he’s going to have to turn from his unrighteousness. And so he makes a choice. And he says, “Over here is truth, and over here is my sin,” and he doesn’t have a love for the truth. He has pleasure in unrighteousness, so he chooses unrighteousness. And then the error comes in. Along with the unrighteousness comes the recompense of that unrighteousness, which is the error. And when a man has pleasure in unrighteousness, God sends him strong delusion that he should believe a lie.

When a man decides he’s going that way, God gives him a shove. God says, “You cannot have your sin with one hand and my truth with the other hand. You cannot have both.” “To him that hath it shall be given; but to him that hath not, shall be taken away, even that which he hath.” The Pharisees had come to a place where they’d heard truth, they knew truth, but they refused that truth. And Jesus then for the first time started speaking in parables. And He spoke in parables to reveal to His own, because “to him that hath shall be given.” But He also spoke in parables to conceal the truth from those who did not really want to know the truth.

Ladies and gentlemen, you’d better be careful how you hear. I want to ask you a question today. Do you have something? I mean, do you have a love for the truth and do you have a willingness to obey the truth? If you do, “to him that hath shall be given.” If you don’t, even that which you already have is going to be taken from you, and you’ll be sent strong delusion that you should believe a lie, and it will be God’s perfectly righteous judgment for a man who had rather have unrighteousness than to have God’s truth.

That’s why Jesus spoke in parables. His method of teaching: parables. The mystery of his teaching: things you couldn’t understand any other way except by divine revelation. The motive of his teaching: to reveal and to conceal.

IV. The Parable

Now, let’s look at this parable that we just read about—and we’re talking why some preachers have crop failures. Now Jesus said a man went out to sow, and as he was broadcasting his seed all over, some of the seed fell by the wayside. That’s the path that goes through the garden, or through the farm, packed down, hardened, because people walk on it, and it’s just crusty, and the seed can’t get in. Then, He said other seed fell upon stony ground. That doesn’t mean ground that has some rocks in it, but stony ground means ground that is solid rock covered with a thin layer of dirt only about a quarter of an inch deep; but from the surface it looks just as good as any other ground; stony ground, with a rock ledge underneath it. And some seed fell on that. And then, He said other seed fell among the thorns. And the thorns and the brambles came and choked it out. And then, He said other seed fell on good ground and it brought forth fruit.

When I was in Galilee there beside the Sea of Galilee with my wife one day, I said, “Honey, look at this.” And there was a farm, and there were some crops growing. There was the pathway, hard and deep down. And then, there were some rocky places where nothing would grow, or wouldn’t grow very long. And then, there were some of those big brambles and thorns. And then, there was a beautiful crop growing. I said, “It’s just like in the Bible, isn’t it?” Right there, the same spot where the Lord Jesus, or in the same vicinity where the Lord Jesus gave this Sermon by the Sea.

Now what I want us to learn from this parable now: we’re talking about strange mysteries of the kingdom, and there are seven of these strange mysteries. The first of these mysteries is why some preachers have crop failure, why sometimes we preach, and we preach a message that’s based on the Word of God and nothing really happens.

Well, there are three parts to this first parable. The parable, we call the parable of the sower—it really ought to be the parable of the soil—but there are three parts to it. First of all, I want you to notice the seed. Secondly, I want you to notice the sower. And, thirdly, I want you to notice the soil. And then I think we’ll see something, at least, of what Jesus is talking about.

A. The Seed

Now, what is the seed in this parable? Look again, if you will. We’ll go back to Matthew chapter 13, and look again at the parable, if you will, and notice in verse 3: “And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side.” Now, what are the seeds that He’s talking about? Well, let’s let the Bible interpret itself. Look in verse 19. Jesus said, “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart.” All right, what was sown in his heart? This is he which received seed by the wayside. All right, what is the seed? Well, continue: “But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word” (Matthew 13:19–20).

So, what is the seed? The seed is the Word of God—the seed is the Word of God. This sower who went forth to sow is like a preacher preaching the Word of God. And when the Bible calls itself seed, that’s very interesting to me, because seed has life, and this book has life. Jesus said, “The words that I speak unto you...they are life” (John 6:63). And Hebrews 4:12 says, “The Word of God is living.”

I want to tell you there is such power in this seed today. It has life to transform. And that’s why I enjoy preaching it, because I know that it’s not just dead words; it’s not merely philosophy, or history, or good ideas; but it is power. Oh, the power of the life of this Word!

Do you know why God has used Billy Graham all these many years? Because Billy Graham has been faithful to preach the Word of God. How many times have you heard Billy say, “the Bible says”—“the Bible says”? You see, and there’s power in that. When Billy Graham was in London, preaching in Harringay Arena, there was a medical doctor and another man sitting up in the stadium talking about the American evangelist. And they were criticizing him because they thought he was a little too flamboyant and a little too much of a showman. And they said, “Well, he’s probably a money grabber,” and so forth. And they were criticizing this man. They didn’t know Billy Graham.
And so Billy Graham got up and he started to preach. And you know how Billy preaches with that warmth and sincerity and the power of the Holy Spirit upon his life. And God came over that arena, and Billy gave the invitation; and that medical doctor who had been gripped by the life of the Word of God said to this man that was sitting next to him, “I don’t know about you, but,” he said, “I’m going forward to give my heart to Christ.” And that man sitting next to him said, “And I’ll go with you. And here’s your billfold: I’m a pickpocket.” That literally happened in Harringay Arena. Both of these men gave that testimony.

Now, what transformed them? Not the personality of that American evangelist. I thank God for the personality of Billy Graham. Not some logic in his mind. My friend, this book has power. It’s like a seed, and a seed has the ability to bring life. And, you see, it’s not just enough if you want to be a farmer to tickle the soil; you’ve got to sow the seed, see? All right now, if you want people to get saved, you’ve got to give them the Word. “He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him” (Psalm 126:6).

B. The Sower

All right now, we see what the seed is. Now, what about the sower? Who is the sower? Look again, if you will, please, in verse 3 of this chapter. And the Bible says, “And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow.” Who is this sower who is casting seeds all over the place? Well, look in verse 37 of the same chapter: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man” (Matthew 13:37).

Jesus is the sower of the seed. Everywhere Jesus went He was sowing the seed. The Bible says Jesus came preaching (Mark 1:14). And notice where He scattered this seed to begin with. Everywhere! I mean, He was just like He had seed to spare. He’s throwing the seed in the thorns. He’s throwing it on the wayside. He’s throwing it on the stony ground. He’s throwing it in the good ground. Just scattering seed everywhere!

And what a wonderful lesson there is for us there, because Jesus said, “As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you” (John 20:21). And we’re to be seed-sowers. Everywhere we’re to go we’re to scatter the seed. You see, friends, you cannot tell by casual observation what soil will be productive.

Now soil looks alike. You all look the same today. It’s hard for me to tell which one is the stony soil, which mind has weeds in it; and it’s hard for me to tell which is the hard heart, and the wayside, and so forth. It’s hard for me to tell that. I can’t tell that. If I were to say, “This man is interested; that man is,” you know, some of you can look at me and smile and nod your head while you’re figuring up a business deal. Sure! I mean, you fool me. Others, you know, you say, “Well, I’m meditating.” Your eyes are closed, and you’re asleep.

One man trying to impress his pastor, he said, “Pastor, give me a good prayer that I might pray when I enter the church.” The pastor knew his habits. He said, “How about this: ‘Now I lay me down to sleep.’”

Now it’s hard sometimes, though, to be able to tell what is the attitude of the heart. You can’t tell.

I remember one time in Florida I was out on a soul-winning mission, and I went to see a man named Mr. Forshee. And I went in to talk to Mr. Forshee about the Lord, into his house. And I asked for him, and he came out. I had reason to believe he wanted to be saved. And so I sat on the couch, and I opened the Bible, and I started to scatter the seed. I started telling him about the Lord Jesus Christ. And about that time a lady—or I think I should say a woman; looked like a woman to me—came in—oh, listen: I’ve only seen two ugly women in my life, and she was both of them. She came in. If I had been Cecil B. Demille trying to caste the Wicked Witch of the West, that would have been her. She had a face like a hatchet, and her eyes seemed to be the very mirror of evil. And she came in and just plopped herself down across the room. And she had a colander full of snap beans. And I was trying to talk to this man about the Lord Jesus, and she was snapping those beans—snap, snap—and looking at me. I felt like every bean was my neck. “Snap,” she’d say. I thought, “Dear Lord, who is this woman? Surely, I’m in a spiritual battle today.” And, you know, I just said, “Lord, help me to keep my mind on the subject.”

And I continued to witness to this man and continued to press the claims of Christ on him. And finally I came to the place where I thought he was ready, and I said, “Sir, with your permission, I’d like to pray for you and lead you in a prayer to receive Christ.” He bowed his head, and I prayed for him, and then I led him in a prayer where he opened his heart and asked the Lord Jesus to come in. And then I said, “Now, sir, if you meant it, will you give me your hand?” And he reached out his hand and put his hand in mine. And I said, “We’ll thank God for that.”

But then it started. Boy, she came off that couch and headed toward me. I said, “This is it. I’ve had it. I don’t know what she’s going to do, but it’s going to be terrible.” Well, she got up close to me, she slipped her hand in my hand, brushed a tear from her eye. She too was saying, “I want to trust Christ as my personal Savior.” I was so wrong on that day, I couldn’t have been wronger—if that’s a good word. There was nothing wrong with that little lady. It was all psychological in me. I had it all doped out that she wasn’t interested, that she was mean, she was hateful. That was all me. She had a hungry heart. She came in there and snapped those beans so she could listen to me talk about the Lord Jesus Christ.
You don’t know the soil, friend; you just scatter the seed. This farmer just scattered the seed everywhere; everywhere he went, he’s just scattering the seed. That rascally in your office that you think is so mean, so hard, so obdurate, who’ll never be saved, may be the first one to get saved. And that person you think has that tender heart may be just superficially emotional and will not really receive the Lord Jesus.

Now, you just scatter the seed. That’s what this man did. Remember the seed is the Word of God. The sower, Jesus. But not only Jesus; that’s us, for He said, “As my Father has sent me, even so send I you.”

C. The Soil

But primarily let’s look at the soil. There were four classes and four categories of soil on this particular day.

1. The Hard Heart of the Secular Hearer

First of all, there was the wayside soil. Look, if you will, in verse 4: “And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up.” Now, what does this refer to? Well, let’s let Jesus tell us. Turn, if you will, please, to verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side” (Matthew 13:19).

Now the wayside is hard. The wayside is the pathway through the field, and it has been packed down and hardened by traffic. The traffic of the world over it and over it and over it has made it hard and obdurate, and the seed cannot get in. This represents the hard heart of the secular hearer—the hard heart of the secular hearer. And there are some like that who are listening to me today. Your mind has been so beaten down by the things of this world, your mind has become such a footpath for materialism, that what I’m preaching today goes right off your back like water off a duck’s back, and the seed never gets in. It’s just lying right out there on the surface. And you’re sitting here scheming, thinking about other things, and the ol’ devil is just picking that seed away, and it never gets into your heart.

That’s one kind of soil. It is the hard-hearted soil. That’s the reason the Bible says, in Hebrews chapter 3, verses 7 and 8, “To day if ye will hear [God’s] voice, harden not your hearts” (Hebrews 3:7–8).

2. The Shallow Heart of the Superficial Hearer

Some of you have a heart, a secular heart, a hard heart. But not only is there the hard heart of the secular hearer; go on and look: there’s also the shallow heart of the superficial hearer, because now, read verses 5 and 6: “Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no depthness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away” (Matthew 13:5–6). This is what I call the shallow heart of the superficial hearer.

Now there are people who hear the Word of God: here the seed got in, but it couldn’t get down, because it had no root. They were only about that deep; there’s just a thin layer of dirt right on top of solid rock. And they looked so good outwardly. Oh, it looks like fertile soil, but you can’t see beneath the surface. There’s no depth there. They were superficial.

Do you know I preach to crowds like that too? I preach to people, and they’ll hear the Bible, and their chin will quiver, and a tear will come in their eye, and they get a lump in their throat, but they’ve still got a vacuum in their head. They never really receive the Word of God. They seem to. They sometimes come down aisles and join churches. Sometimes they make emotional statements about the Lord. But they’re superficial. One man was asked, “How big is your church field?” “Oh,” he said, “it’s seven miles wide, half an inch deep.” Well, I think I know some that are half an inch deep. They may be seven miles wide. The seed can get in, but it never gets down.

I’m not against emotionalism, but I am against superficiality. Do you know what Dr. Sidlow Baxter said when he was here? Do you remember Dr. Baxter? Dr. Baxter was talking about emotionalism and superficiality, and he said, “Your emotions are the shallowest part of your life. And God is not going to do his deepest work in the shallowest part.” Now here we see the hard heart of the secular hearer, and then we see the shallow heart of the superficial hearer—people who spring up. They say, “Yes, I want to serve the Lord Jesus,” while the flags are waving, the bugles are blowing, and everything is happy; but as soon as a little persecution comes, as soon as some discipleship is demanded, as soon as some hard times come, these candy-legged soldiers are the first to quit. They know a lot about sentiment, but they know very little about sacrifice. They’ve never been born again. The sun comes up. They’re scorched and they’re withered away, and we don’t see them anymore. That’s why some preachers have crop failure. They’re preaching to the shallow hearts of superficial hearers.

3. The Divided Heart of the Sinful Hearer

But now, thirdly, let’s look at another kind of soil. Not only is there the hard heart of the secular hearer, the shallow heart of the superficial hearer; but there is the divided heart of the sinful hearer. Look, if you will, please, in verse 7 of this chapter: “And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them.” Now, what does that represent? Well, look in verse 22, if you will: “He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the world, and he becometh unfruitful” (Matthew 13:22).
Now, in the first place, the seed couldn’t get in. In the second type of soil, the seed couldn’t get down. But in this soil, the seed got in, and the seed got down; but there was a rival crop that was undisturbed. The thorns were there, and the good seed was there, and the thorns were never dealt with; and therefore the thorns crowded out the good seed and choked it, and it became unfruitful.

Now, what does this represent? This represents a man who is not necessarily superficial. He hears the Word of God, and he receives it; but he never repents of his sin—he never repents of his sin. There is the divided heart of the sinful hearer. He wants the good seeds, and he wants the thorns and brambles at the same time. And you cannot have both. I hate to tell you that, friend. No, I’m glad to tell you that, because it is truth. You cannot have both. And Jesus said, in Luke 13:3, “Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.”

Now someone says to me, “Well, I tried this thing called Christianity for a while, and it didn’t work for me. I gave my heart to the Lord. I trusted Christ to save me, and now I’m back just like I was. It didn’t work for me.” I’ll tell you why it didn’t work for you, sir: because you tried to hold the Lord Jesus with one hand and this world with the other. You had a divided heart. You know what a Christian is? A Christian is somebody who has let go of the world with both hands and taken hold of Jesus Christ with both hands. Have you done that? Have you given Jesus Christ undisputed claim upon your life?

I don’t mean that you’re going to be perfect. I’m not perfect. I sin every day. You say, “How?” I’m not going to tell you. Every day, I have to come to God and say, “Oh, God, I’m sorry. I’ve failed. Forgive me. Cleanse me.” And He does. But I’m going to tell you something else. Before I was saved, I was running to sin. And now I’m running from it. There’s a difference in my life, and there is a desire in my heart to serve God, and I want the Lord Jesus Christ with all of my heart. Do you? Or has your garden been half weeds and half God? You can’t have it that way.

And the reason that some preachers when they preach have crop failure is there is nothing wrong with the seed, and there’s nothing wrong with the sower, but there’s plenty wrong with the soil. Sometimes he’s farming the secular heart. Sometimes he’s farming the superficial heart. Sometimes he’s farming the sinful and selfish heart. And therefore there’s no crop.

4. The Open Heart of the Sincere Hearer

But I want to tell you something else. Thank God there’s the open heart of the sincere hearer. Continue to read. Look, if you will, in verse 8 of this chapter: “But other...”—and I thank God for the but—“But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, and some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear” (Matthew 13:8).

I’ve been preaching the gospel long enough to know also that, if I keep scattering the seed, some of it is going to fall on good ground—and some of it already has today. Bless God! Hallelujah! I preached this morning at eight o’clock, and I just scattered a whole lot of seed over a big field; and out of that field there were some who said an everlasting yes to the Lord Jesus Christ. And I trust that what they said was so sincere that it will be seen by the fruit of their lives; it will bring forth fruit, because, dear friend, there is that kind of soil, and that’s what keeps you going. That’s what keeps you preaching.

Man, I go some place where I preached twenty years ago, and someone will come up to me with a face like the noonday sun and say, “Brother Rogers, you’re the one that preached the Word to me,” or, “You’re the one that sat in my home and led me to Jesus, and I’m so happy in Christ.”

Thank God for that good ground! Thank God for that good seed! And, friend, you just sow. You just keep on sowing. And if you go forth with weeping, bearing precious seed, you will doubtless come again with rejoicing, bring your sheaves with you (Psalm 126:6). But it is not our job to be successful. It’s our job to be faithful. Just scatter the seed—just scatter the seed.

I tell you, I was in a town in South Louisiana, a county seat town, holding a revival. I must have been holding it: it never got loose. And, boy, just nothing was happening. And a few people were coming, moderate crowds; but there was no movement of God. It was just—it was deathly. I did everything I knew to do. Yea, I searched my heart motives. You know, I wanted to make sure that I wasn’t just preaching for me or for any wrong motive. I said, “Dear God, you know that I want to be your messenger and bring glory to you and not to my own name.” I searched not only my motives; I searched my message. I said, “Lord, I know this is truth.” And I searched not only that, but I searched my methods. I said, “Maybe I’m not being hard enough on them.” Boy, I preached hard. Oh, boy, I walked up and down the spines with hot-nailed boots, and then poured the salt in—and that didn’t work; and then loved them—and that didn’t work. Man, I gave the invitation: a few people came forward, but it was like they were feeling sorry for me, you know. And there was no revival. There was no moving of God.

And I said, “God, I know I’m preaching your truth. I know I’m right with you. I know my motive is right. God, why no crop? Why no crop?” And during the invitation I went and sat down in one of those big chairs—looks like an electric chair like we have up here. And I sat down in that thing, and I said, “Pastor, you take the invitation,” right in the middle of the service. And I started praying, and I was kind of frustrated. I said, “God, you’ve got to help me. Lord, I don’t understand.”

Now I don’t recommend this always. I don’t recommend it most of the time. But I was desperate. I said, “Lord, I’m just going to let the Bible fall open at random and put my finger on a verse, and I want you to speak to me, God, from that verse.” Now I don’t recommend that. I call that the lucky dip, and I don’t think that’s the best way to study the Bible. But I needed a word from God, and I felt impressed to do it at this particular time. And so I was just sitting up there, and people didn’t know what was going on in the service, the invitation, and I’m sitting up there. I just let my Bible fly open, and I dropped my finger on a verse of Scripture, and it was a verse of Scripture in Ezekiel chapter 3, verse 7—and this is what it said. When I read it, I just almost shouted. It said this: “The house of Israel will not hearken unto thee; for they will not hearken unto me: for [they are]… a rebellious house” (Ezekiel 3:7–9).

And I saw it in a moment. I said, “Oh, thank you, God! Thank you! There’s nothing wrong with the seed, and there is nothing wrong with the sower. The problem is with the soil. “They will not hearken unto you because they won’t hearken unto me.” Well, that was such a blessing to my heart. I said, “God, that’s so good. Show me another one.” And I looked away and put my finger down on another verse. And I tell you, folks, when I read it, I almost came unglued. It was Ezekiel 2, verse 5—and this is what it said: “And they, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear...yet shall they know there hath been a prophet among them” (Ezekiel 2:5). I said, “Thank you, Lord! Hallelujah!” He said, “One of these days they’ll know. Whether they hear you, or whether they don’t, one of these days I’ll make them to know that I sent my prophet.” And God showed me in an instant a lesson that I’ve never forgotten: that it is not my job to make anything grow; it is my job to scatter the seed. Amen? That’s my job.

“A sower went forth to sow.” Jesus was that sower, and even his seed fell upon stony ground, and his seed fell upon hard ground, and his seed fell upon thorny ground; but some of it fell on good ground.

Conclusion

Now I want to ask you a question. What kind of ground are you? What kind of ground are you? You say, “Well, is that fixed? Is it irrevocable? Am I forever one type of soil?” Praise God, no! Praise God, no! That answer is up to you. And today you can choose to be that good soil. Today you can make the soil of your heart warm and moist and fertile upon which the good seed shall fall. Remember, dear friend, “To him that hath shall be given; and to him that hath not shall be taken away, even that which he has.” To him that has what? To him that has a hunger to know truth and a willingness to act upon it. Are you that way? If you are, you’re like good soil, and the seed will come and bring forth life and fruit.

God loves you. He wants to save you. He called me to preach and sent me to preach to you today. And He in His providence sent you here to hear the message. I pray God today that you’ll receive the Word, which is Jesus Christ, the living Word, the seed of life into your life.

Conclusion

Introduction

Take God’s Word, and I want you to turn to a key chapter in all of the Bible. It’s Matthew 13. If you understand Mathew 13, you’re going to have a penetrating insight into things that many people have never understood and need to know. I’m going to be talking to you in just a few moments about “What to Expect in the Coming Year.” I read in Matthew 13:10: “And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.” (Matthew 13:10–11) Underscore the phrase “the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven,” for, you see, the Bible is a mystery story, but the child of God can understand it. The child of God has a key that unlocks the mystery. But to those who are not saved, and to those who do not have the anointing and the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit, they cannot know the future course and events of this age that Jesus Christ here calls “the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.”

How important it is that you understand what Jesus Christ has to say about what is going to happen in the spiritual world in the future! When you know it, dear friend, it gives you a confidence, and it gives you an authority and a peace that comes with it. But if you don’t know these things, if you expect the gospel to do something that the Bible never says the gospel was meant to do, here’s what’s going to happen to you. First of all, you’re going to be disappointed. You’re going to expect the gospel to do something, and it doesn’t do it—and you’re going to be disappointed. And then, right on the heels of that disappointment is going to come doubt. You’re going to say, “Well, maybe it’s not true.” And then, following after that doubt is going to come despair. And then, the devil has you right where he wants you, and your problem will be that you do not understand what the Bible calls “the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.”

In the thirteenth chapter of the Gospel according to Matthew are seven parables. Understand these parables, my dear friend, and it will give you great confidence. Let me tell you why. For many people today, they feel that the gospel has failed. The gospel has not lived up to their expectation. They look, number one, at the world in its wickedness; and then they look, number two, at the church and its weakness. They see the church with its problems, with its sin, with its apostasy, with its arguments, with its division, with all of these horrible things, and they say, “Well, maybe there’s really nothing to it after all.”

Well, friend, you stay with me today, and pay attention to what I have to say from the Word of God—what God has to say through His Word today through this unworthy servant—and I believe with all of my heart it will put steel and concrete in your spiritual fiber. And you’ll be able to face the future with a confidence and an assurance that will enable you to live this coming year with authority. All right, I want you to see what these parables are and what you can expect in the coming year. Now I’m going to seem negative in the first part of this message; but if you’ll listen long enough, you’re going to understand that what seems to be negative is really going to be very positive.

I. Expect Many People to Reject the Gospel

Number one: What can you expect in the coming year? Number one: You can expect many people to reject the gospel—you can expect many people to reject the gospel. Let’s read the first of these parables here in Matthew 13, and I begin reading in verse 3: “And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell on stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no depth of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: but other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixyfold, some thirtyfold.” And now, here’s a message for you: “Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.” (Matthew 13:3–9) Do you have your ears on this morning? “[He that] hath ears to hear, let him hear.”

Here’s the parable, a very simple parable. A man is out sowing seed. Some seed falls on the hard place, the wayside, the path through the field. And, of course, the seed can’t get in, and the birds just come and eat the seed. Other seed falls on what he calls the stony place; that is, the earth was very shallow, about a quarter of an inch deep. It looked all right—the seed could get in, but it couldn’t get down. And, therefore, when the sun comes up, that little tender plant that has no root, no sustenance; it is withered and it just dies. Then, other seed falls on deep ground, good ground; but there are so many thorns there that the weeds come and choke out the seed, and it can’t survive. And then, other seed falls on good ground, and it brings forth abundance fruit.

Now, what is our Lord saying here? Our Lord is saying that the seed is the gospel, the sower is the Lord Jesus Christ. There is nothing wrong with the seed, but there is much wrong with the soil. And you’re going to find out, dear friend, that our Lord has said, because of the bad soil of men’s hearts, the gospel will not penetrate and will not bear fruit in every life. Now, don’t make the mistaken assumption that if Jesus Christ is presented in all of His beauty, and all of His purity, and all of His winsomeness, and all of His power that the world will just stumble over itself coming to fall at His feet. They will not. There’s the hardness of some men’s hearts; there’s the shallowness of some men’s hearts; there’s the wickedness of some men’s hearts that the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ will not penetrate. So, don’t be amazed, and don’t be surprised if everybody doesn’t accept the gospel. The Bible clearly and plainly teaches in this parable that many, many will reject the gospel of Jesus Christ for these reasons. And so, here’s the first thing you can expect in the coming year: don’t expect everybody to receive the gospel. Just don’t expect it, and therefore, you won’t be disappointed.

II. Expect Some Church Members to Be Lost
Number two—let me tell you what else to expect: Expect some church members to be lost. I read here in Matthew 13 now, and I want to read in verse 24—look at it: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field:”—again, there’s nothing wrong with the seed. It is good seed, and it’s sowed in the field—“but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.” Now the tares are weeds. I think the specific name is darnel. And these weeds look so much like wheat that it takes an expert to tell them apart. And we read in verse 27, “So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?”—that is, “Do you want us to go pull out the tares?” “But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.” (Matthew 13:24–30)

Now here our Lord is talking about the problem of counterfeit Christians and hypocrites in the Church. What can you expect in the coming year? You can expect some unsaved church members. You can expect some hypocrites in this church or any church where you belong. You say, “Well, if we had the right kind of pastor, we wouldn’t have any hypocrites.” Well, Jesus had one in His bunch. His name was Judas.

Now, let’s look at this situation: The sower—verse 37—is the Son of man, the Lord Jesus Christ; the good seed that He sows, the believers—verse 38; the enemy who sows the tares is the devil—verse 39; and the harvest is the end of the world—verse 39. So there are three basic things in this parable.

A. The Sowing of the Seed

First of all, there is the sowing. Who sows the good seed? Jesus. Who sows the bad seed? The devil. You see, the devil has attacked the church from the outside so long and found out it does no good. The more we are persecuted, the more we grow. So Satan very wisely and very cleverly said, “If I can’t beat them, I’ll join them.” And Satan is not fighting churches as much as he’s joining churches today. And so he works from the inside. That’s the good seed.

B. The Growing of the Seed

All right, there’s the sowing of the seed. And then, there’s the growing of the seed. Our Lord says in this parable, “Let both grow together.” Verses 28 and 29—there were some who said, “Lord, let’s go and pull out all the tares.” The Lord said, “Don’t do that. You’ll make a mistake; you’ll get some wheat.” Now, suppose old Bob over here is a tare, and old Jim, he’s wheat. Well, you see, we’d make a big mistake, because Jim just looks wicked and Bob just looks saved, you see. And so we’d just make a mistake. We wouldn’t know who’s who or what’s what. I mean, in all seriousness, folks—in all seriousness—had you been a member of that early church and our Lord gave you this assignment, our Lord said to you, “Go to the twelve disciples and find a lost man, and get him out of there; one of them is lost,” you know who we’d all head for? Peter—Simon Peter! I mean, if there was ever a guy that kept on blowing—as I’ve said before, about the only time he ever opened his mouth was just to change feet—I mean, he was constantly in trouble: cursing, swearing, denying Christ. Do you know who we would have said was “one person I’m certain is saved”? Judas. You know why? He was the treasurer.

Now I want to ask you a question. Who do people choose to be the treasurer? The man they have the most implicit trust in, right? You see, we would have made a terrible, horrible mistake. We don’t know who are the wheat and who are the tares—not at all! Our Lord knows. And so our Lord says, “Let both grow together.”

C. The Knowing of the Seed

There’s the sowing, the growing; but then there’s the knowing. He says, “At the end of the age, at the harvest, the angels are going to come. They’re going to gather the tares into bundles and burn them, and the wheat will be gathered into the barn.” Point: Don’t you get all bent out of shape and blown out of the water because there’s some hypocrite in the church. It may take you by surprise. It hasn’t taken our Lord by surprise. All right, okay. Expect it, and you won’t be disappointed. Expect some to reject the gospel, and you won’t be disappointed. Expect there to be hypocrites in the church, and you’ll not be disappointed.

III. Expect the Rise of False Cults and Weird Religions

Now, let me show you a third thing that you can expect: You can expect the rise of false cults and weird religions—you can expect it. Our Lord prophesied it. Matthew 13:31—continue to read: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh”—watch it—“a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.” (Matthew 13:31–32)

   Now herbs don’t become trees. But Jesus said, “Here’s something that’s strange. Here’s something that’s weird. Here’s something that’s abnormal. You take the mustard seed and plant it, and what is meant to be an herb, a shrub, becomes a tree so big, so large, that the fowls of the air come and lodge in its branches.” Our Lord is talking about an abnormal, grotesque, weird development, something that is contrary to the nature of the seed. And what our Lord is saying is that in Christendom and in the realm of religion you’re going to have a rise of false cults and apostasy. You’re going to have the final form of Satan’s super-church that’s going to come in the last days.
Friend, there is coming today, in a culmination of cultism, New Ageism, liberalism, and apostasy, a church that will be based upon false religion. Jesus Christ will not be a part of it. It will be the final corporation of the amalgamation of old Adam and sons, and it will be such that if you don’t know your Bible, you’re going to say, “Hey, something must be wrong. If the gospel is true, and if the Bible is right, why do we have all of these false cults? All of these false cults and all of these isms and weird things, they prove the Bible to be wrong.” That’s where you’re wrong, my friend. They prove the Bible to be right, for the Bible says, “In the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils.” (1 Timothy 4:1) And if we all believed alike, and if the church were all together, it would not prove the Bible right; it would prove the Bible wrong.

I want to tell you, folks, these false cults, these weird religions, they haven’t taken Jesus by surprise. You say, “Are you certain that’s talking about false religion?” Of course! Look in verse 32. He says in the last part of this verse that “the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches.” Now, who are the birds of the air? Well, pay attention. It’s not all that hard to understand. Look back in verse 4: “And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls”—that is, “the birds of the air”—“came and devoured them up.” (Matthew 13:4) Who are these birds that devour the good seed? Well, look in verse 19: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart.” (Matthew 13:19) The birds that devour the seed are the power of Satan. And yet here these birds are lodging in the branches of this grotesque tree. What is our Lord saying? Our Lord is saying, dear friend, that these false cults who deny the Bible and yet parade under the guise of Christianity will not take Him by surprise, nor should it take you by surprise.

IV. Expect to Find Sin and Corruption in the True Church
Now I hope you’re listening. What can you expect in the coming year? One: Do not expect everybody to believe the gospel. Two: Expect there to be hypocrites in the church. Number three: Expect there to be a rise of false cults and apostate Christianity. Number four—and it grieves me to say this—but you can expect to find sin and corruption in the true church. Look, if you will, in Matthew 13:33: “Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.” (Matthew 13:33)

Now, that’s a short parable; only one verse. What is the parable of the leaven? Well, when a woman bakes bread, she puts leaven in her bread. Our modern word for leaven is yeast. It works quietly, almost undetected; it puffs the bread up. Actually, though, it breaks down bacteria. It is a form of corruption, and it works best in lukewarm conditions. Now, folks, leaven in the Bible is an emblem and a symbol of sin. When Moses gave instructions for the Passover in Exodus 12, he said that the Passover feast was to be kept without leaven. (Exodus 12:20) In Leviticus 2, when our Lord said how to make the offerings to the Lord, He said, “Make those offerings without leaven.” (Leviticus 2:11) In 1 Corinthians 5, the Apostle Paul says, “Purge out...the leaven.” (1 Corinthians 5:7)

Jesus mentioned three measures of leaven in this parable. Look in verse 33 again: “The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal.” (Matthew 13:33) And there our Lord has the idea of three kinds of leavening influence. Jesus, in the Gospel, warned us to beware of the leaven of the Pharisees. (Matthew 16:11) Put in your margin Matthew 16:11. And then, Jesus, in Matthew 16:11, said, “Beware of the leaven of...the Sadducees.” And then, in Mark 8:15, Jesus said, “Beware...of the leaven of Herod”—“the Herodians.” (Mark 8:15) Three measures, three kinds of leaven, that Jesus warned against.

A. Legalism

The leaven of the Pharisees was legalism. The Pharisees had heads full of Scripture, but they had hearts full of sin. They could dot every i and they could cross every t, but they didn’t know how to spell the word. They had “a form of godliness, but [they denied] the power thereof.” (2 Timothy 3:5) Jesus called them “whited sepulchers.” (Matthew 23:27) They were whitewashed on the outside, but inside, they were full of corruption and dead men’s bones. They were like many folks who sit in this congregation and other congregations today. The devil has put forth that leaven of legalism: people who know the words, but they don’t know the music. They know the plan of salvation, but they don’t know the Man of salvation. They have the form, but they don’t have the life. Jesus said they were twice dead. Jesus called them a generation of serpents, (Matthew 23:33) “blind leaders of the blind.” (Matthew 15:14) The leaven of legalism.

B. Liberalism

And then, who were the Sadducees? Well, that’s just the opposite of legalism; that’s liberalism. The Sadducees said there was no demon, nor angel, nor resurrection from the dead. Jesus said, “Sadducees, you make a mistake for two reasons. Number one,” He said, “you don’t know the Scriptures; and, number two, you don’t know the power of God.” And that’s what makes a liberal, folks: a man who does not have confidence in the Word of God and the power of God. That’s just a recipe for a liberal. But, folks, let me tell you something. Liberalism and legalism are both deadly. You don’t have to choose either one: Legalism and liberalism are heads and tails of the same coin. And Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees,” and Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven...of the Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6; Matthew 16:11)

C. Licentiousness

Now, what about Herod? What was the leaven of Herod? Herod was a pleasure-mad, profligate, wicked king. There’s another kind of leaven that gets into the church, and it is sinfulness, worldliness, licentiousness. There is the leaven of liberalism, legalism, and licentiousness. Three measures—three measures. “Beware of the leaven...of Herod.” (Mark 8:15) Oh, how worldly our churches have become today! You know, you look at the average church member in the average church and you cannot tell the difference between him and the man of the world and the woman of the world, whereas the Bible says, “Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you.” (2 Corinthians 6:17) People of the church today, they go to the same places; they dress alike; they look alike; they drink the same things; they smoke the same things; they read the same things; they watch the same things as the people of this world. God has put a difference, dear folks, in us. We’re to be different. And a Christian ought to stand out like a diamond in a coalmine. But we don’t do it. There’s worldliness. It is the leaven of worldliness.

I hear so much today about the separation of church and state—which I believe in—but, dear friend, we need not only a message on the separation of church and state; we need a message on the separation of church and world. “Be...separate.” “Touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you.” And how that worldliness has permeated our churches today! But listen—listen! Don’t you let that cause you to lose your faith. Friend, it is prophesied; it is predicted. What did our Lord say? Our Lord said, not every one will believe the gospel. What did our Lord say? He said there will be hypocrites in the church. What did our Lord say? Our Lord said there’s going to be a false religion based on Christianity, but not Christianity. Our Lord said there’s going to be corruption, liberalism, legalism, and licentiousness in the church.

Now, dear friend, when you understand that, it’s going to help you to stand and to stay firm, because these things do not mean that the gospel has failed. As a matter of fact, Jesus clearly told us that it would happen.

V. Expect the World to Overlook and Despise the Kingdom of Heaven

I’ll tell you what else you can expect: You can expect the world to overlook and despise the kingdom of heaven. Look in Matthew 13:44 with me for just a moment: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.” (Matthew 13:44)
Now, what is this parable? Here’s a man out in a field. He’s walking along, and for some reason, he digs in that field. Maybe just on a hunch, or maybe he’s planting a tree or working as a farmer, or a sharecropper, whatever. And he brushes it back, and it is an immense, fabulous treasure. Now the man says, “Whoever owns this field, owns this treasure,” and he says, “I’m sure the owner of the field doesn’t know it’s here, or he would have already come for it.” He says, “I’m going to buy this field.” He goes back. He mortgages his house. He sells his animals. He sells everything that he has. He gets enough money, and he goes and he buys that field, because he knows when he gets that field, he gets what’s in that field, which is the treasure.

Now, that treasure, my dear friend, is the kingdom of heaven. It’s like a treasure hid in a field. Let me explain the meaning of this parable to you. The kingdom of heaven is in four stages. Understand this; and, friend, listen. It will help you to walk with confidence in this coming year.

A. The Kingdom of Heaven Is Prophesied but Hidden

The first stage is the prophesied but hidden aspect of the kingdom of heaven, when the kingdom of heaven was prophesied but hidden. Now, let me show you what I’m talking about. Look in Matthew 13:16: “Blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.” He’s talking to His disciples. “For verily I say unto you, That many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.” (Matthew 13:16–17) Now, verse 17 tells us that the prophets—those people who lived before the age of Jesus—they looked forward to the kingdom. They desired to see it, but it was hidden. It was promised but hidden before Christ came.

B. The Kingdom of Heaven Is Revealed

But then, for a brief period when Jesus Christ came to this earth, the kingdom was revealed. It was uncovered for just a moment. For just a moment, Jesus revealed the power and the glory of the kingdom. Now, in Luke 11:20, He said, “If I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you.” (Luke 11:20) Look in verse 17: “For verily I say unto you, That many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see.” What had they seen? They had seen the lame healed. They’d seen blind eyes opened, deaf ears unstopped, dumb tongues loosed. They’d seen the dead raised. They’d seen Jesus Christ do miracle after miracle. What had happened is this: that, for a moment, that treasure that had been hidden in a field had been uncovered. And He showed it to them, and they saw it.
C. The Kingdom of Heaven Is Buried in Mystery Form

But now, here’s the third form of the kingdom. First of all, it was prophesied, but hidden. Then, when Jesus Christ was here, He uncovered the kingdom. He displayed His glory. He displayed His majesty. But then, He buried the treasure again. And it’s very important that you understand this. The kingdom of heaven is now buried in mystery form. Luke 10:21—Jesus said, “I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent.” (Luke 10:21) The Bible says in Proverbs 25:2, “It is the glory of God to conceal a thing.” (Proverbs 25:2)

Now what God has done is just covered the kingdom up again. Why did He do that? Well, you see, Jesus Christ came and presented the kingdom; but they refused it. Now I don’t want to insult your intelligence; but Matthew 13 follows Matthew 12. And if you read Matthew 12, you’ll find out that Jesus Christ had displayed a marvelous and a wonderful miracle. He had healed a man who was blind and a man who was dumb. Do you know what His enemies said? His enemies said, “Well, He did it in the power of the devil.” They accused Jesus of being filled with Beelzebub, a devil. And from that time on, Jesus performed no more miracles. Jesus then began to teach in parables; no more miracles—parables! They said, “Why?” Because, my friend, not only is a parable given to reveal, but it’s also given to conceal. Jesus said, “It is given unto you to know the mysteries...but to them it is not given.” (Matthew 13:11) And He just buried the treasure, put it again beneath the ground. It was prophesied. It was uncovered. It was buried again. And, friend, it will not be uncovered again till He comes in all of His glory and majesty, and displays His kingdom. And, “The kingdoms of this world [will] become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ.” (Revelation 11:15) And righteousness shall cover the earth as waters that cover the sea. (Isaiah 11:9; Habakkuk 2:14) What a day that will be when Jesus Christ comes again! But until that time, men walk across the field of this world, and they trample under their feet the kingdom of heaven.

Hey, folks, don’t you expect this ungodly, unsaved, sin-blinded world to appreciate the things of the kingdom of heaven. They can’t do it. They’re blind. And what you and I love, they walk on. What you and I see as a treasure, they have no idea about. They are blind. “Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.” (John 3:3) It’s hidden from his eyes. And Jesus speaks in parables.

VI. Expect Jesus to Continue to Seek and to Save the Lost
I’m telling you what to expect in this coming year. Don’t expect everybody to get saved. Expect there to be hypocrites in the church. Expect there to be the growth of false cults and false religion. Expect the leaven of corruption to enter in: liberalism, legalism, and licentiousness. And expect, my dear friend, for this world to despise the kingdom of heaven. But I’ll tell you what else you can expect: You can expect Jesus Christ to continue to seek and to save the lost. Thank God for that. Listen to verse 45: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: who, when he had found one pearl”—“when he had found one pearl”—“of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.” (Matthew 13:45–46)

Now some people foolishly say that Jesus is the pearl of great price. Friend, Jesus is not the pearl of great price. Let me tell you why. We don’t buy Jesus. He’s not for sale. I mean, we’re bankrupt. If He were for sale, we have nothing to buy Him with. The one seeking the pearl of great price is Jesus Christ Himself. And who is the pearl of great price? The Church of the Lord Jesus Christ, which He has purchased with the silver of His tears and the gold of His blood. He has bought His Church.

The most beautiful pearls, they say, come from the floor of the Persian Gulf, where those tankers are going back and forth right now—hundreds of feet deep. Do you know how a pearl is formed? There’s a piece of grit, irritation, that comes into the body of the oyster. And the body of the oyster just encloses that and begins to bathe it with a substance known as nacre. And layer upon layer upon layer upon layer is built upon that which was ugly and a wound until he makes something beautiful of something ugly. That’s what the oyster does. It’s a picture of the Church built from the wounded side of the Lord Jesus Christ. And our Lord takes that which wounded Him and makes a pearl of great price. And layer upon layer upon layer upon layer, as the saints are added, that pearl becomes more and more beautiful. One of these days, it will be complete, and it will be taken from great depth to great height. It will be taken from darkness to light. It will be taken from the bottom and brought to the top, and made a diadem for His crown; for He bought it with His precious blood.

And He’s still in the business of doing that, my dear friend. Thank God He paid the price and bought that pearl. And you can expect Him to continue to do it, because, my dear friend, He is the merchantman who gave all for me and for you.

VII. Expect God to Judge Righteously

There’s one last thing that I want you to see: You can expect God to judge righteously. You say, “Pastor, what about all of the sin? What about all of this corruption? What about these false cults? What about those who trample the kingdom under their feet? What about these tares? What about these liberals? What about these legalists? What about these licentious people? Is God just going to overlook all of that?” Oh, no—oh, no. Friend, read the last parable—Matthew 13:47—and look at it: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind: which, when it was full, they drew to the shore, and sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away. So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.” (Matthew 13:47–50)

Have you ever seen the net called a dragnet work? One summer when I was a kid, I worked on a shrimp boat—one of the most interesting things I ever did. A great net pulled behind that shrimp boat, and for hours and hours and hours we dragged that net through the sea. And then a great winch would hoist that net to the deck. Folks, that’s an exciting time. That net is full of fish and squiggling, wormy kinds of creatures, and crabs—and only God knows what all is in that net—and the guy pulls the string, and it’s dumped on the deck, and everything is in there: It’s the most interesting thing you’ve ever seen. And those fishermen with those big gloves, they reach in there, and there are stingrays, and the crabs, and the eels, and all of these things. They begin to separate the good from the bad. God is saying that the kingdom of heaven is like a net that’s dragged through the sea; and not only do the good fish get in, but all of these vile and wicked things—these hypocrites, and these false cults, and all of this—it’s all there. But there’s coming a time, dear friend, when our Lord, who draws the net, will also sort the catch. He’s going to sort the catch. He knows.

Conclusion
Hey, don’t get all bent out of shape! I mean, don’t! You say, “Well, the gospel has failed.” My friend, there will be hypocrites. You keep on loving Jesus! There will be false religions. You keep on loving Jesus! There will be liberalism, and legalism, and licentiousness. You keep on loving Jesus! There will be some who’ll trample the kingdom beneath their feet. Some scientist will say, “I don’t believe the Bible.” You keep on loving Jesus! There will be some who’ll say we’re fools. You keep on loving Jesus! There will be scandals with television evangelists. You just keep on loving Jesus! There will be all kinds of things; but I’m telling you, my dear friend, one of these days our Lord is coming to uncover His treasure, take up His pearl, and sort His catch. That’s what’s going to happen, and we’re blessed because we know; because “unto us it is given to know.” Hey, folks, everything is right on schedule. Hallelujah!

Introduction

Would you be finding Matthew chapter 13, please. And this is the last of seven messages on “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” Now, why we call these mysteries is because Jesus called them mysteries. Jesus was speaking in parables. They asked Him why He spoke in parables, and, “He answered,” in Matthew chapter 13, verse 11, “and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven” (Matthew 13:11).

So the Bible is a mystery story. To those who do not know the Lord, to those who are not saved, to those who do not have the Holy Spirit inside them to illumine them and interpret the Word of God, the Bible is a mystery story. They may know facts. They may be able to name the kings of Israel. They may be able to give you a Bible chronology, but they don’t understand the deep things of God.

There are some sacred secrets that God reveals to His children through His Word. These are the strange mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. The Bible is to the child of God who prays, has the illumination of the Holy Spirit, and begins to obey the Word of God, it has a teaching, a ministry, that the unsaved know nothing about.

Now these are seven parables in this one chapter. And seven, being the perfect number, means that they have a certain completion to them. They are all-embracing, and they talk about the history of the gospel of Jesus. These seven parables begin with a time that Jesus was here on earth and began to preach the gospel to the very end of the age and the Final Judgment. And everything that happens from the time that Jesus was here until Jesus comes again is comprised in these seven parables. Now, when you understand these seven parables, you know what to expect. If you know what to expect, you’re not disillusioned, you’re not disappointed, you’re not discouraged; you don’t drop out. And when things look dark, or things look bad, you say, “You know, that’s wonderful. That’s exactly what Jesus said it would be like.” And so, if it gets dark, you can say, “It’s getting gloriously dark.” It is exactly, precisely, as the Bible has prophesied.

Sometimes we see the world with its wickedness, and the church with its weakness, and we see people refusing the gospel, and we think, “Well, maybe the gospel isn’t true; or, maybe our expectations will not be fulfilled.” But then, when we read Matthew chapter 13, we say, “Everything is exactly, precisely, on track.” So let’s look at them; and I want to tell you seven things that you can expect, seven things that you can just know are going to happen.

I. Expect Many to Reject the Gospel
Number one: Expect many to reject the gospel—expect many to reject the gospel. Don’t get the idea that if Jesus Christ is presented with all of His winsomeness, all of His beauty, all of His attractiveness, that people will fall all over themselves coming to know Jesus Christ. If you believe that, you’re going to have false expectations, and you’re going to be disappointed. Maybe you get into soul winning, and you think, “Well, all I need to do is clearly teach how to be saved, and that’s all people need. If they just had enough light, they would be saved.”

As a matter of fact, I heard a preacher say—I went to a church growth luncheon here in Memphis, Tennessee, and I won’t call the name of this preacher, but he is not in the ministry anymore—and he said, “The reason our churches are not growing,” he said, “we have not explained to people what they can have in the Lord Jesus Christ.” He said, “Anybody would be saved if you clearly presented who Jesus Christ is and told people what we could have in the Lord Jesus Christ.” I thought to myself, “That’s one of the most foolish statements I have ever heard in my life.” You can clearly and plainly articulate Jesus Christ, and people will reject Him.

And Jesus knew the hardness of human hearts, and so He gave this first parable, which is the parable of the sower. Look in Matthew 13, verses 3 to 9. Now I’m recapitulating. You’ve been here through these messages, but now we’re going to tie them all together.

“And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth; and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no depth of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up, and choked them: but other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear” (Matthew 13:3–9).

Now the Lord Jesus is talking about four kinds of soil upon which the good seed falls. The seed is the gospel message. But some fell by the wayside. And what is the wayside? Well, go over to verse 19. And, “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received the seed by the way side” (Matthew 13:19).

Now the wayside is the path through the field. They call that the wayside. And because it had been trampled hard, the seed would get down, but it couldn’t get in, because it just fell on hard ground, and the birds would come and devour the seed. And I’ve preached many times the gospel to the wayside crowd. Their hearts are hard. They don’t hear the gospel. It never gets in, because their hearts have been trampled by the cares of this world.

And then, some fell on stony ground. Now, look in verse 20: “But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it” (Matthew 13:20). “Boy,” he says, “hallelujah! This is what I want!” Look in verse 21: “Yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended” (Matthew 13:21). Now, in this case, the word gets in, but it doesn’t get way in. It just gets beneath the surface. And right beneath the surface is a rock ledge. And so this is the surface hearer, the person who you think is going to be a great Christian. He comes down the aisle, makes a profession of faith, you baptize him; and then after a while you don’t see him anymore. I call them Alka Seltzer Christians. They fizzle for a little while and then disappear; and they’re gone after you drop them in the water. They’re just gone. Now these are the people who have no root in themselves.

And then he says again, in verse 22, he talks about those who fell among the thorns. And look at these: “He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful” (Matthew 13:22). That is, there’s a rival crop. The word gets in, and the word gets down, but this man has never really truly repented of sin. And so the weeds and the thorns and the thistles choke out the word of God. And this is a person who does not truly know the Lord Jesus Christ.

And then, finally, he mentions the last category of persons, in verse 23. And, if you will, look at this: “But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty” (Matthew 13:23).

Now, what should we expect? Well, if you’re a soul winner, or if you’re a preacher, or you are an evangelist, expect many to reject the gospel, and don’t think that you have failed. I used to feel incriminated, absolutely incriminated, if I preached and there would not be a response. As a matter of fact, as a younger preacher, when I would preach and give an invitation, and there would not be a response, I would feel that I had horribly failed God. I would feel so much like a failure that I did not want to go to the door and shake hands with anybody. I would want a back door to get out of. And if somebody were to tell me afterward it was a good sermon, it would make me angry, because I would say, “What is wrong? What did I do wrong? How did I fail?” And then it finally dawned on me that I’ve not failed—not if I preached the Word of God. There was nothing wrong with the seed. Some seed falls on stony ground; some seed falls on shallow ground; some seed falls among weeds. But I’ll tell you something else I’ve learned. If you’ll keep on preaching, if you’ll keep on sharing, if you’ll keep on giving the gospel, some folks will get saved—some folks will get saved. And just don’t get weary; don’t get discouraged. There are people who will come to know the Lord Jesus Christ. Your job is just to scatter the seed. It is God’s job to make it germinate. It is their responsibility to open their hearts and receive the good word.

So in this world, in this life, as you live the Christian life, expect some people to reject the gospel. Don’t expect everybody to come to Jesus. Don’t think that the gospel has failed because the entire world does not come to Jesus Christ. The Bible teaches that we are a “little flock” (Luke 12:32). The Bible teaches that straight and narrow is the way, and few there be that enter therein (Matthew 7:14). We are the Master’s minority. We’re never going to take over this world with the gospel of Jesus Christ. If you think we are, you’re going to be discouraged. Now the Bible teaches that only twenty-five percent of the soil here was even ready to receive the word. And when that twenty-five percent received the word, not all of them brought forth the same kind of fruit.

II. Expect Many Church Members to Be Hypocrites
Now, here’s something else you can expect—and this will save you from a lot of disappointment. Expect some to reject the gospel, many to reject the gospel. Number two: Expect many church members to be hypocrites—expect many church members to be hypocrites, to be lost. Sometimes people tell me as a pastor, “Did you know there are hypocrites in the church?” I say, “Oh, hypocrites in the church? Do tell.” Listen. You could not be a pastor for as many years as I’ve been a pastor without realizing that there are hypocrites in the church. And that doesn’t mean that the gospel has failed, nor has it taken God by surprise.

Look now at the second of these parables—Matthew 13, beginning in verse 24: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field:”—nothing wrong with the seed now—“but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?”—that is, the tares. “But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of the harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn” (Matthew 13:24–30).

Now, what is the meaning of this parable? Well, wheat, you know, is that which makes bread and sustenance, and God’s children are represented as wheat. And then the tares are weeds that look like wheat, and they’re placed there by the enemy. The One who sows the wheat, the children of God, is the Son of man, Jesus—verse 37. The good seed, according to verse 38, are believers in the Lord Jesus Christ. The enemy who sows the weeds among the wheat is the devil—verse 39. The harvest is the end of the age, when God separates the wheat from the tares.

Now, what is the lesson here? Expect there to be hypocrites in the church. The devil is at work, and every church has them, and it’s not our job to go through Christendom and try to separate the wheat from the tares. Never get into a crusade against somebody else’s religion. That’s not your business. Your business is to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ. Now, surely, you should warn people of false doctrine—the Bible tells us that—but don’t you go around rooting out tares. That’s what I’m going to say. You will make some horrible mistakes. You will pull up some wheat, and you will leave some tares, because you cannot see an individual’s heart. You do not know that individual as God knows that individual. So in this parable, you have three basic thoughts. You have the sowing of the tares, the growing of the tares, and the knowing of the tares. The sowing of the tares: the devil did it. The growing of the tares: the hypocrites and the Christians are side by side, and they grow together. The knowing of the tares will come at the end of the age. The lesson: Don’t expect everybody to receive the gospel. Number two: Don’t get discouraged because of hypocrites in the church—just don’t do it. It doesn’t prove the gospel is false—not at all.
A counterfeit is the greatest compliment that anything that is real could have. Why do people counterfeit hundred-dollar bills? Because, evidently, a hundred-dollar bill is worth something. They don't counterfeit gum wrappers. You see, the counterfeit is a testimony to the worthwhileness, the validity, of the real.

III. Expect the Rise of False Cults
And so, what can you expect from the time that the gospel began to the end of the age? Don't expect everybody to accept the gospel. They're not going to. That doesn't mean the gospel has failed. Number two: Don't expect that everybody who calls upon the name of Jesus, or who names the name of Jesus, is really a true believer in the Lord Jesus Christ. If you do, you're going to be disappointed and discouraged, and you'll find some old hypocrite, and you'll say, “Well, if that's Christianity, I don't want anything to do with it.” Jesus has already warned you. Now, here's the third thing that you need to expect of these seven sacred secrets. You can expect the rise of false cults; you can expect the world to be filled with false cults.

Now, look, if you will, in Matthew 13, beginning in verse 31, and here's the third of these parables. Look at it right here: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof” (Matthew 13:31–32).

Now some people think, “Oh, isn't this sweet? From a mustard seed to a great big tree! Look how wonderful the gospel is!” But that's not the teaching. You see, a mustard seed is pungent and small. Mustard is fiery and hot. That speaks of the explosive power of the gospel. And that mustard makes a mustard plant, a shrub which is comparatively small, and it becomes a shrub. It grows into a shrub. But then, he said, it becomes a tree. Now shrubs don't become trees. The Book of Genesis teaches us that. So we're talking here about something that is unnatural, a monstrosity, some kind of unnatural growth.

And so, the birds that come and lodge in the branches, what do they represent—the birds that are lodging in the branches of this unnatural growth, this tree? These birds are demon powers. Now, remember in chapter 13, verse 4, where the birds came and stole away the seed? The same word for “birds” or “fowls” that is used in verse 3 is the same word that's used over here in verses 31 and 32. They represent demon powers. I can prove that, if you'll look in chapter 13, verse 19. Look at it again. He's saying here that it's the power of Satan. And, “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart” (Matthew 13:19). These birds that catch away the seed illustrate the devil.

Now, put this verse in your margin. I gave you this before, but this clears it up. In Revelation chapter 18, verse 2, God speaks of Babylon. Babylon was the cradle of all false religion, and even today that’s where Saddam Hussein is; that’s where the Tower of Babel was; that’s where the first type of Antichrist, Nimrod, founded that city so long ago. And God looks to the final judgment of the false religion, and He says, in Revelation 18, verse 2, “And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird” (Revelation 18:2). So Babylon is for the birds.

What He’s saying is that this thing that started out as a mustard seed has become a tree, and these dirty birds are lodging in the branches. And that’s the reason that you see false cults all places and everywhere. Dr. Lee used to call them “isms that ought to be wasms.” You see them all over. Now that doesn’t mean that the Bible is not true. I’m going to tell you something. If we did not have false cults, then you could say the Bible is not true—because the Bible says they’re going to come. The Bible says, “In the last days men shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils” (1 Timothy 4:1).

So don’t get discouraged if everybody doesn’t believe the Bible and everybody doesn’t come to Jesus and get saved. Don’t get discouraged if there are tares among the wheat—that is, hypocrites in the church. And don’t think that the gospel has failed or something has gone wrong if there are false cults all around the world. It is exactly, precisely, what Jesus said would happen. This mustard seed becomes a grotesque, monstrous tree; and the fowls which represent demon spirits lodge in the branches of this apostate Christianity. Now when you understand that, you can say, “Yes, it’s happening exactly as Jesus said.”

IV. Expect to Find Corruption in the Professing Church

Number four, what else can you expect? You can expect to find corruption in the professing church—not only hypocrites, but corruption in the church itself. Look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verse 33: “Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened” (Matthew 13:33). Now that’s talking about yeast. Here’s a woman—she takes three measures of wheat and she mixes it together, and she puts leaven in it; and the whole thing, these three loaves, swell up and puff up with leaven.

Now the idea here is the woman is sneaky. She’s hiding this leaven in the bread. Now unleavened bread is an emblem, a symbol, of purity. Leaven in the Bible is an emblem, a symbol, of sin. It speaks of evil and sin and corruption. In the Old Testament, the sacrifices were to be made without leaven. For example, the Passover is to be made without leaven. Exodus 12, verse 8: “And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast with fire, and unleavened bread” (Exodus 12:8). The sacrifices, in Leviticus 2, verses 4 and 5: “And if thou bring an oblation of a meat offering baked in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers anointed with oil” (Leviticus 2:4–5). And then Paul told the Corinthians who had let sin come into the church, in 1 Corinthians 5, beginning in verse 6, “Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump? Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us: therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth” (1 Corinthians 5:6–8).

So, what does leaven do? Leaven works quietly, stealthily. It works best in lukewarm conditions. And the devil—the devil—has said, “Well, if I cannot beat the church, I’ll join the church.” So he puts the tares in among the wheat, and he says, “Furthermore, I will corrupt the church. I will begin false cults to preach an antithetical gospel, a false gospel. And,” he says, “furthermore, I will stealthily put false teaching in the church.” And Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees” (Matthew 16:6; Mark 8:15; Luke 12:1). What was “the leaven of the Pharisees”? Legalism. He said, “Beware of the leaven of the Sadducees” (Matthew 16:6). What was the leaven of the Sadducees? Liberalism. And then he said, “Beware of the leaven of Herod” (Mark 8:15). What was the leaven of Herod? It was licentiousness. Herod was a pleasure-mad, licentious king. And all three of these things—legalism, liberalism, and licentiousness—have invaded the church of the Lord Jesus Christ in the last days.

Does that mean you and I should quit? Does that mean that there’s nothing to it? No, it means just the opposite: there is something to it. Why would Satan want to corrupt it if it were not good to begin with? Satan is a pervert. And so every now and then you will read, as we’ve been reading in our newspapers lately—have you been reading the horrible stories of apostasy in some of the churches, and things that are going on?—and some of it is right here in this city, and it’s so terrible. Or, every now and then you’ll read about some minister who goes off into licentious sin. That’s the leaven of Herod. Every now and then you’ll read about some person who is so strict and narrow, he’s a legalist and he wants salvation by works. That’s the leaven of the Pharisees. And then sometimes you will read about the man, like we read about—was it last Saturday?—in the newspaper, who denies the Resurrection and denies the deity of Jesus? He denies everything. He’s in this Jesus Seminar. They’re examining the words of Jesus to find out what they’re going to give Jesus credit for saying, and they're “examining Jesus.” I believe they ought to be examined. Good night! I'd just as soon trust a bunch of blind men in a cave with a jar full of lightning bugs to examine the noonday sun as these people examining the words of Jesus. What arrogance to say that Jesus said this, and Jesus said that, and what we can believe, and what we can't! Listen. That's the leaven of the Sadducees, who say that neither demon, nor spirit, nor resurrection. And we have this leaven with us today. Friend, is that going to cause me to close my Bible and not preach anymore? You'd better not believe that. I know—I know—it's exactly as Jesus said it would be.

Here's a woman who hides leaven in three loaves. Three loaves speak of that which is right, and fellowship with God, as we taught you. We don't have time to get into that, because let's go on through, but you can expect that Satan is going to corrupt the church and infiltrate the church with this kind of activity.

V. Expect God to Keep His Word to the Nation Israel

Now, here's the fifth thing you can expect. Now it's going to start getting more positive. You can expect God to keep His word to the nation Israel. You want to know what God is doing in the world today? You just watch the Middle East. Somebody asked me last week, said, “Pastor, what does the Bible have to say about America in prophecy?” I said, “Very little, if anything.” You want to know what God is going to do? Keep your eyes upon Israel. And we find this: God, in these last days, is going to keep His word, as He has sworn to do, to the nation Israel.

Now, look, if you will, in chapter 13 and verse 44, and you'll still see what God is up to in this day and in this age: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth the field” (Matthew 13:44). Now, what is the treasure hid in a field? It is Israel. And the parable is this: A man is walking through a field. He discovers there's a buried treasure in the field. He uncovers it. He sees what it is. He covers it back up again. He goes and buys the field. And so, when he owns the field, he owns what's in the field. He owns the treasure.

Now some people have the idea that the treasure hid in the field is the gospel of Jesus Christ, and that we are the man walking through the field, and we sell everything we have so we can buy the field and so that we can get the treasure. Well, the field is the world. The Church doesn't buy the world. Christians don't buy the world. And the gospel is not for sale. And the gospel is not discovered and then covered. I mean, none of that makes sense. But that's the way that some people interpret this parable. No. Jesus called Israel His peculiar treasure. And I want you to see that His dealing with Israel is in four basic steps, and you need to see these.

Step number one: There came a brief time when Jesus promised the treasure. That is, He made a solemn promise to Abraham. But the treasure was hidden. That is, it was covered before Jesus came. Israel was a nation that was ignominiously small when Jesus was here on earth. That is, the treasure was buried in the field for a brief time. Jesus simply uncovered the treasure. You’re in chapter 13; go back to chapter 12, and you’re going to find out how Jesus uncovered the treasure. Look, if you will, in verse 27. This is chapter 12 and verse 27. They had accused Jesus of casting out devils by the prince of devils, and Jesus said, “And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then”—watch this—“the kingdom of God is come unto you” (Matthew 12:27–28).

Now, what does that mean? Well, Jesus said, “I have come doing all of these miracles.” The treasure in the field was hid. Jesus said, “I’ve just uncovered the treasure. I have shown you the kingdom.” And that’s why Jesus did all of these miracles: to show the kingdom power. But the Jews refused Him; they lied about Him, they criticized Him, and they were compliant in the crucifixion of Jesus, as were the Gentiles, and the treasure now is covered again. But Jesus went to the cross to purchase that treasure. The treasure is now hidden. The treasure is now covered. People don’t understand God’s plan for Israel unless they know the Bible. The Bible says, in Proverbs 25, verse 2, “It is the glory of God to conceal a thing” (Proverbs 25:2).

So God has covered it up. That’s going to help you understand something. When you read the Gospel of Matthew, up to chapter 12, Jesus is doing miracles. But from chapter 12 on, Jesus doesn’t do any more miracles. Now Jesus does parables. Before chapter 12, Jesus didn’t do any parables; He did miracles. But after chapter 12, Jesus now is teaching parables; because before chapter 12, Jesus is uncovering—He’s uncovering the treasure. He is showing. He’s saying, “This is the kingdom of God.” They refused it, so Jesus said, “All right, I’m going to cover it up.” And now, hearing, they won’t understand. It’s covered. “I’ll speak to you,” He says, “in parables, but unto them it’s not given” (Matthew 13:11). That is, it is covered.

So then, finally, Jesus is going to come again in glory, and He is going to uncover this treasure. Israel is going to come; a nation will be born in a day. The people of this world now trample this treasure, and the nations of the world are gathering themselves together against Israel, but God is not finished with the nation Israel, His peculiar treasure. He has bought the field, which is the world, and He is going to take His peculiar treasure to Himself, and a nation will be born in a day. And you keep your eyes upon Israel if you want to know what Jesus is doing in this world today.

VI. Expect Jesus to Be Building His Church

Now, here’s the next thing you can expect. You can also expect Jesus, in spite of the fact that many reject the gospel, in spite of the fact that there are hypocrites in the church, in spite of the fact that there is corruption in the church, in spite of the fact that there’s the rise of false cults, in spite of the fact of the persecution of Israel, you can expect Jesus to be building His Church. He said later on, in Matthew 16, “Upon this rock I will build my church” (Matthew 16:18).

Now, what is this parable about? Well, it’s the parable of the pearl of great price. Look, if you will now, in chapter 13 and verse 45: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it” (Matthew 13:45). Now some people say, “Well, the pearl of great price, that’s the gospel. We sell everything that we have so that we can buy the gospel.” That’s insane—that’s insane. The gospel is not for sale. If it were, we wouldn’t have anything to sell anyway. We are bankrupt sinners. We have nothing. “In my hand no price I bring; simply to thy cross I cling.”

The man seeking goodly pearls is Jesus. The pearl of great price is the Church that He loves. Israel is called a treasure, never a pearl. The pearl is formed by something, an irritant in the side of the clam or the oyster, and then it is covered with a beautiful substance called nacre, layer upon layer upon layer, until it becomes something beautiful, this pearl, more beautiful than any other pearl that is grown, with succeeding layers. A diamond can be divided; an emerald can be divided, but not a pearl. For the Church is one body indivisible in the Lord Jesus Christ; and Jesus is the One who with the silver of His tears and the gold of His blood bought the pearl of great price. And as a pearl is taken from the depth of the ocean to realms of light, Jesus has lifted us. As the pearl goes from something ugly, a grit, a grain of sand, is made into something beautiful.

That’s what the Lord Jesus Christ has done for you, and that’s what He’s done for me. And Jesus has paid the price—the pearl of great price. And you can expect, friend, for Jesus to build His Church. I want to tell you something. We’re on the winning side, and don’t you let any hypocrite discourage you. Don’t you let any corruption in the church discourage you. Don’t you let any false doctrine discourage you. Don’t you let any persecution of the Jews discourage you. Don’t you let the fact that the Church seems to be ignored discourage you. Jesus is building His Church. He will build His Church. And I’m telling you, you can bank on it.
VII. Expect God to Judge Righteousness

Now, here’s the last and final thing you can expect. And, by the way, these seven parables just cover all of history. You can expect God to bring it all to judgment. You can expect God to judge righteousness. And that brings us to the last of these parables. And I can only touch on it, but look, if you will, in Matthew 13 now, beginning in verse 47: “Again…”—this is the one parable we’ve not touched on—“Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind: which, when it was full, they drew to shore, and sat down, and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away. So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Jesus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea, Lord” (Matthew 13:47–51). Well, I hope that they did.

Now this is a picture of a dragnet. By the way, you remember that show? Dum dum dum dum. You know, “Just the facts, ma’am.” It’s a dragnet. But just as a Sergeant Friday was dragging his net through the streets of Los Angeles to catch those wicked people, God has His net going through the nations of this world to win souls.

I spent a summer one time off the coast of Georgia—had a chance to spend some time on a shrimping boat. It was a great experience to go out shrimping. This boat—these were commercial shrimpers. And they had a net that they would drag behind this trawler. This net had two great big wooden objects they called doors, bigger than household doors, and behind these doors was a big net, a pouch; and they would let these doors down very heavy. They had iron bars on them, and they would sink to the bottom there on the sea. And they would scrape along the bottom of the sea and hold the mouth of that net open. And that trawler would go back and forth over the shrimp beds; and the shrimp, the crabs, the fish, the stingrays, the eels, everything would be swept into the mouth of that big net. And after they’d gone back and forth, and back and forth, there came a time that was so exciting to me. They would take the winch and the yardarm, and they would begin to bring that net up out of the sea. And it would be full of all kinds of wiggling, squirming things. And then it had a drawstring at the bottom; and he would pull the drawstring, and out of all that stuff would come on the deck of that ship all manner of evil. It’s amazing! Oh, of course, thousands of shrimp. There’d be stingrays. There’d be eels. There’d be crabs. And there’d be fish flopping, and all this stuff. And these men would put on their big rubber gloves, and they’d get out there, and they’d start throwing some things overboard; and just after they’d drawn the net, they’d sort the catch. And they’d take the good fish. They saved the fish also. They’d take the shrimp, and they’d put that on ice. But the other went overboard. And every time I read this parable, I remember just being there on that boat and working on that boat, and thinking how much that’s what it’s going to be like at the end of the age. Only it’s not fishermen that are going to be doing this; it’s angels that are going to be separating the good from the bad.

Now, friend, what is my job? What is your job in this day and this age? Our job is to draw the net. God’s job is the sort the catch. Our job is to draw the net. I know that when I preach, sometimes people come to Christ, and they’re not really saved; but that’s not my responsibility. I can’t cause anybody to believe. I can’t cause them not to believe. What I must do is preach the gospel. What you must do is preach the gospel. The kingdom of God is like a net that we just draw through the nations of this world. And then at the end of the age, God, the One who separates the wheat from the tares, the same God, is the One who is going to separate the good from the bad—and the parable of the net.

Conclusion

So, what does all of this tell us? Friend, listen. Here’s what it all tells us. God knows exactly, precisely, what the situation is going to be like. Do you know what God told us in Matthew 13? He told us—listen to me—He told us exactly what we see right here in March 1998 in Memphis, Tennessee. Is that not incredible? I mean, is not that incredible that Jesus, 2,000 years ago, said, “I’m going to tell you exactly what will happen”? “I’m going to tell you. Not everyone is going to hear the gospel. No. Not everybody who hears the gospel is going to be saved. No.” They’re not, but some will be saved. And we’re here tonight, and we’re saved. And He says, “Also, there are going to be hypocrites in the church, tares among the wheat.” And we see that. He said, “Also, there’s going to be corruption in the church, like leaven.” We see that. We’ve heard all the scandals. We’ve read all of that. We know that’s going to happen. And He says also that, “Israel is going to be persecuted, trampled like a treasure, buried in a field; but I’m going to come soon and uncover that treasure.” He said, also, “I’m going to build my Church.” And then He said, “Soon, and very soon, I’m going to come and sort the catch.” And when you read this, you say, “Isn’t it wonderful? It is happening exactly as God said.”

Now, you see, if you have false expectations, if you think that the gospel is going to convert the world, or if you think that hypocrites prove the Bible not to be true, or if you think that false cults will never arise, you’ll say, “What went wrong?” Nothing has gotten out of God’s control. It is exactly, precisely, as God says it will be: seven sacred secrets that we’ve learned from this wonderful chapter in the Word of God.
Introduction
Now, find Matthew chapter 13, and I want us to look, first of all, in verses 10 and 11, and then verse 45. Matthew chapter 13 and verse 10: “And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto to you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given” (Matthew 13:10–11). And now, begin reading, if you please, in verse 45: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it” (Matthew 13:45–46).

Now we’ve been talking for many Sundays now about “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” And what a blessing they’ve been to us, because they’ve uncovered truths and revealed to us things that we need to know to live in these last days! Jesus called these truths “the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven,” and the title for this series: “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” And in this day of anarchy in the streets, in this day of apostasy in the church, in this day of apathy in the hearts and lives of many of God’s children, it is so good that we can come back and review what we call the strange mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, because it is really the mystery of history; and God is telling us, in spite of all of the outward appearances of failure, that He is going to fulfill His plan: He is going to fulfill His purpose with Israel and with the Church.

And, today, we’re dealing with this parable of the pearl of great price. And the title of our message is “From Grit to Glory.” And you'll see why I've used such a strange title in just a moment—“From Grit to Glory”—as we think about this parable of the pearl of great price.

Now the story is relatively simple. Here’s a merchantman, a merchant, and he’s on a journey, and he has but one purpose: he’s seeking fine pearls, “goodly pearls.” And one day he sees the most glorious, magnificent, beautiful gem that he’s ever seen: one perfectly formed and beautifully colored pearl. He says, “That’s it! That’s what I’ve been looking for all of my life!” That is the pearl, the one pearl of great price. And he sells everything that he has. He empties his pockets, he takes everything out of the bank, he takes all of the other pearls and sells them, that he might possess this one pearl, this pearl of great price.

Now the story is very, very simple. You remember that a parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. The earthly story is quite simple. Now we want to discover, as we can together, the heavenly meaning, because the word parable and the word parallel are related words. A parable is an earthly story over here, and laid down parallel to it is a spiritual lesson. Today, the lesson is a very wonderful lesson, because it’s about you. Now you don’t want people talking about you behind your back, do you? Pay attention. It’s about you, because we’re going to see in just a moment that it is about you.

Now, let me say that the common, and perhaps the popular, interpretation of this parable is the wrong one. So many people think of the Lord Jesus Christ as the pearl of great price. And I will admit that it is a very romanticized idea to think of Jesus as the pearl of great price, because when you think of the pearl of great price, that sounds beautiful; it sounds like we speak of the Lord Jesus as “the bright and morning star” (Revelation 22:16). We of speak of the Lord Jesus as “the rose of Sharon” (Song of Solomon 2:1). We speak sometimes of the Lord Jesus as “the lily of the valleys” (Song of Solomon 2:1). We speak of the Lord Jesus as “the fairest of ten thousand.” And certainly the pearl of great price seems a good way to speak of the Lord Jesus.

But, friend, this is not the meaning of the parable. Jesus is not this pearl of great price. The way some people interpret it is just simply this: that Jesus is the pearl of great price; the merchant man is the sinner who is seeking God, and when he finds the Lord Jesus and all of His beauty, then he gives up everything and sells all that he has, in order that he might purchase Christ and salvation.

Now, really, if you think about that interpretation, you will understand just how foolish it is. Number one: it is foolish, because, dear friend, we are not seeking Jesus; He sought us. Now we don’t seek after the Lord. Now you say, “Now, wait a minute, Brother Rogers. I believe there are people who seek God.” Well, let’s see who’s right: you or the Bible? The Bible says, in Romans chapter 3, verse 11, “There is none that seeketh after God…no, not one” (Romans 3:11–12)—“none that seeketh after God.” You say, “Well now, wait a minute. I sought the Lord.” Well, friend, if you sought the Lord, you only sought the Lord because the Lord first sought you. The Bible teaches, “There is none that seeketh after God…no, not one.”

You think of Adam there in the Garden of Eden after Adam sinned and the great glorious communing presence of God was withdrawn from Adam. You would have thought that Adam would have been running all over the Garden of Eden saying, “God, where are you? O God!” But he wasn’t. It was God that came to the Garden and said, “Adam, where art thou?” (Genesis 3:9). Isn’t that right? It was God seeking Adam. Where was Adam? He was off hiding in the bushes from the presence of the Lord. And ever since that time right up to this present time, no man has of his own initiative sought God. We only seek God because He first sought us. And I’m so glad, dear friends, as we sang “Victory in Jesus,” He sought us and He bought us with His own precious blood.

I’ll tell you another reason that I know this common interpretation of this parable is wrong, dear friend, is that, even if we did seek Him, when we found Him, what would we have to sell in order that we might purchase Him? What does the bankrupt sinner have to sell? He has nothing. You see, we don’t have anything to sell spiritually with which we might purchase the Lord Jesus Christ. You say, “Well, I’ve got my own self-righteousness. I’ve got my own goodness.” Well, the Bible tells me, in Isaiah chapter 64, verse 6, that your righteousness is as filthy rags in His sight. “We are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags; and we all do fade as a leaf; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away” (Isaiah 64:6). There’s no goodness about us—not any! The Bible tells us, in Romans chapter 3 and verse 12, that in us is no good thing, and the Bible says in these words, “There is none that doeth good, no, not one” (Romans 3:12).

There are about four billion people upon the face of this earth. If you were to stand them heel to toe and put them in a line, that line of people would stretch out from the earth and go all the way around the moon, and come back to the earth standing heel and toe, and then would go around the world; one, two, three, four, five plus times, that line would go around the world. That would be a long line. I’d hate to stand in it. Now, let’s just suppose that you were to take a golden cup and start that golden cup at the head of that line, and say, “Pass it on,” and each person as it passes by you, you would put all of your goodness and all of your righteousness in that cup, and you just pass that cup right one down the line past those four billion people out around the moon and back again, and around the earth one, two, three, four, five times. When it got to the end of the line, when you look in the cup, it would be empty—it would be empty.

Let me tell you something, friend. When God sees our goodness, what we call goodness, He says, “As filthy rags.” I’m asking you a question. What would you have to pay to purchase this pearl of great price, if the pearl of great price represents Lord Jesus? You see, we have nothing to sell, but the third thing makes it the most absurd of all. Friend, you can’t buy Jesus. He’s not for sale. And there’s no possible way that you could purchase Him, if He were the pearl of great price. And if you had something to purchase Him with, He’s not for sale. “The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord” (Romans 6:23)—Romans 6, verse 23. Salvation is a gift. And the Bible says it is “not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us” (Titus 3:5). Salvation is not in the merit of man, but in the mercy of God. It is blasphemous to even think about buying the Lord Jesus Christ, somehow earning salvation by our own merit.

I will not work my soul to save,
For that my Lord has done;
But I will work like any slave,
For the love of God’s dear Son.
—Author Unknown

But I want you to see, dear friend, that salvation is not for sale. So Jesus is not the pearl of great price, and the merchantman is not the sinner.

What is the pearl of great price? The pearl of great price is His Church—His Church. Jesus is the merchantman, and the pearl of great price is the Church. You remember, the last parable that we discussed together was the treasure hid in the field, and we told you that treasure was Israel. And now we’re discussing the pearl of great price, which is the Church, because, you see, there are two things that are very precious to our Lord: Israel and the Church. And in the midst of all of the trouble, and the in the midst of all of the confusion, I want to tell you upon the authority of the Word of God, and with all of the emphasis and emotion and unction of my soul, that our God is going to fulfill His purpose with the nation Israel and with His Church. And what a word of comfort that is for us today!

So as we think about the pearl of great price, let me just tell you why I believe it is the Church, and then we’ll make some applications. In the Bible, Israel is called a peculiar treasure unto the Lord. Remember, in the parable before this there was a treasure hid in the field. The Church is never called, in the Bible, a treasure. Israel is called a peculiar treasure.

But, on the other hand, the pearl is not necessarily an Old Testament concept. The Jews, in the Old Testament, didn’t value pearls. It’s strange. You read all of the listing of all of the gems and the valuable things that they used as emblems and symbols of speech for the glory of God: the pearl was not one of them. Now you may read in the Book of Job about the pearl; but even when you read there in the Book of Job, it is a mistranslation: it should be translated the “crystal” and not the “pearl” (Job 28:18). The pearl is not an Old Testament concept; it’s a New Testament one.

When we move into the New Testament, we read about not casting your pearls before swine (Matthew 7:6). We read about the pearl of great price. We read about the gates in heaven made of pearl (Revelation 21:21). It is a New Testament concept. The pearl was valued by the Gentiles, and not by the Jews in the Old Testament. And this pearl of great price is a picture, as we’re going to see in just a moment, of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. And therefore it is a picture of you. Now we’re going to have a very simple outline this morning, and I know it will be easy for you to follow. There are three things I want you to notice about this pearl of great price.

First of all, I want you to notice how it was wrought. Secondly, I want you to notice how it was sought. And, thirdly, I want you to notice how it was bought. Now that’s a very simple outline, and we’ll just follow along together as we look at this pearl of great price.

I. How It Was Wrought
First of all, notice how it was wrought. You know, the formation of a pearl is a very interesting thing. I read several encyclopedias about pearls. I wanted to find out all I could about pearls since I was preaching on pearls—and very interesting reading of how a pearl is formed. That makes it a beautiful figure and a picture of the Church. And, incidentally, in the last encyclopedia I read it said that the best pearls come from the Persian Gulf, right near where the Lord Jesus Christ was there in the Middle East when He was talking about the pearl of great price. The most valued pearls come from the Persian Gulf, and they lie on the ocean floor sometimes at a depth of 150 feet. The divers go down for them, and there is a very special sea pearl oyster that produces the most beautiful of all pearls.

Well, how is a pearl formed? How is it wrought? Well, in that mollusk, or that oyster, comes a piece of irritant, some grit, some dirt, some impurity, some sand, something that comes, and it wounds the oyster. It wounds the oyster in his side. And when the oyster is wounded, the oyster reacts to that wound by secreting a substance called nacre. And this nacre, or mother of pearl, is secreted, and it just begins to envelope that grit, that piece of sand, that dirt, and layer upon layer upon layer is built until something beautiful is made out of something ugly, and something glorious is made out of something hurtful and harmful. And, before long, there is a gloriously beautiful pearl made of the ugly thing that wounded the oyster.

And I got to thinking about these pearls, and as I was reading it said the most valuable pearls are those without any blemish at all. And it would be the pearl of greatest price, one without any blemish. Some pearls have blemishes. But a pearl that would be very valuable would be one without any blemish at all. And it also said that some gems can be divided. You can take a diamond and divide it, or you can take a ruby and split it, but not a pearl. When you divide the pearl, you spoil it and you ruin it.

A. The Pearl Goes from Grit to Glory

Now, let’s just think for a little bit about the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ as we’re thinking of how that pearl was wrought, and then you’ll understand something of why our dear Lord from eternity past even formed an oyster and formed a pearl that it might be used, I believe, as an illustration of His Church. You see, the Church, like the pearl, has gone from grit to glory. You know, what we were, dear friend? We were some impurity; we were some irritant; we were some matter of dirt and hurtfulness that wounded our dear Savior. But from the wounded side of our dear Savior poured forth, not only water and blood; but love poured forth. And our dear Lord took that which wounded Him, and that which was ugly, and that which was dirty, and that which was impure, and laid upon it a beauty not it’s own. And Jesus took my life and your life, and He made something beautiful of them. We who nailed Him to the tree, and we who wounded our Savior, are the recipients of His love and of His beauty.

B. The Pearl Goes from Depth to Height

And so the pearl, I think, is a symbol and an emblem of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ, because the pearl has gone from grit to glory, but also the pearl has gone from depth to height. You think of this pearl lying down there in the bottom of the ocean floor in the mire and the silt of the sea, and some diver comes and he brings it up, and he opens it there; and that pearl, this beautiful pearl of greatest price, is so beautiful that it is fit for only one thing: not for the common man to handle, but for the diadem of a king. And so it rests upon the bosom of a king. That which was on the floor of the ocean, down in the mire, and down in the dirt, now rests upon the bosom of the king. Oh, again, what a beautiful picture of the Lord Jesus Christ, as we His Church, as we upon His bosom, and in the kingdom of our Lord and His Christ, will shine and flash forever, and give Him beauty and glory and pleasure!
C. The Pearl Goes from Darkness to Light

And then, not only did the pearl come from grit to glory, not only does the pearl go from depth to height; but, dear friend, that pearl goes from darkness to light. Can you think of a darker place than being on the inside of an oyster on the ocean floor? Can you think of any? The only thing darker than that I can think of would be the minds of unsaved people, darkened, dead in trespasses and sin. But we have been delivered out of the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of His dear Son (Colossians 1:13).

As I was studying about the pearl, I found out that the pearl is different from other gems in that other gems reflect light, but the pearl also absorbs light; it both absorbs and reflects light. Again, a wonderful picture of the Church that receives the truth of the Lord, and it comes into us. But not only does it come into us; it goes out through us and from us to give glory to our Lord. And so we have come, dear friend, from darkness to light.

From sinking sand He lifted me,
With tender hand He lifted me,
From shades of night to plains of light,
O praise His name, He lifted me!

—CHARLES H. GABRIEL

D. The Pearl Goes from Start to Finish

And I’ll tell you another reason that I believe that the pearl is such a marvelous figure of the Church is that the pearl goes from start to finish. Now what I mean by that is this: that it starts with such an insignificant, little starting, just a little grain of sand, just a little irritant; but then layer after layer after layer after layer is laid upon it until it emerges a beautiful, glorious pearl; that in order for it to be a pearl of great price, it has to be a perfect pearl.

And, again, that’s the Church. You see, the Bible speaks of the Church in Ephesians chapter 5, and the Bible says that the Lord is going to “present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing” (Ephesians 5:27). You see, dear friend, He’s going to finish us. Oh, He’s going to complete us! Layer upon layer, He’s building His church.

Did you know that several more layers of that pearl were added this morning in the eight o’clock service? When I gave the invitation, here came some more beautiful substance to cover that pearl, and our Lord is building His pearl. I don’t know when it will be complete. Perhaps before we finish today, someone will say yes to Jesus and God will say, “That’s it; it’s complete,” Jesus will come, and history as we know it will be finished. I don’t know when that pearl is going to be finished, but I’ll tell you this: “that he which hath begun good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ" (Philippians 1:6). And He is going to present it to himself a glorious Church without spot or blemish, or any such thing, hallelujah and hallelujah!

II. How It Was Sought

And so we see how it was wrought. And even in the formation of the pearl, we see a glorious, wonderful picture of the Church of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. But now, secondly, I want you to see, not only how it was wrought, but how it was sought. For, you see, here was a merchantman seeking goodly pearls, and thereby he becomes a picture of the Lord Jesus Christ, for Jesus Himself said it Himself in Luke chapter 19, verse 10: “For the Son of man”—Jesus—“is come to seek and to save that which was lost” (Luke 19:10). Here our dear Lord is the one who is seeking us.

And isn’t it amazing that He would seek us? Do you know one of the amazing verses in the Bible is Psalm 45, verse 11: “So shall the king greatly desire thy beauty” (Psalm 45:11)? The king desires us. He seeks us. He wants us. That’s marvelous indeed. You see, I’ve told you before, I told you the week before last when we dealt with the treasure, and I want to tell you again—please, please get it into your heart: He doesn’t love us because we’re valuable; we’re valuable because He loves us. You see, it’s His love that makes us valuable. He doesn’t love us for what we are, but He loves us for what He can make out of us.

And He is seeking us. He is the seeking Savior. He left heaven above to seek His Church, because, you see, the Church was in the heart and in the mind of God in eternity past. While there was no Church, there was still a Church in the heart and bosom of God. And that’s why the Lord Jesus came into this world: “to seek and to save that which was lost.”

But I want to tell you something, friend: the dear Savior is still seeking; He’s seeking today. And let me tell you, right now in this service that merchantman is seeking you; the Lord Jesus is seeking you. You say, how is He seeking me? How does the Lord seek?

A. He Seeks Through His Spirit

Well, He seeks through His Spirit, the Holy Spirit of God speaking to your heart. The Holy Spirit never shouts. The Holy Spirit never shoves. The Holy Spirit never twists arms. But that Holy Spirit is a still, small voice saying, “I love you; I want you; come to Jesus.” Haven’t you felt that in your heart? In those contemplative moments, haven’t you felt the Lord Jesus speaking to you? Oh, dear friend, don’t fight the Holy Spirit! That’s a battle you can’t afford to win. Don’t trample under your feet that still, small voice saying, “I love you; I want you; you belong to me; ‘come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden’ (Matthew 11:28).”
B. He Seeks Through Sickness

But not only does He seek through His Spirit; He seeks, dear friends, through sickness. Have you been sick lately? Have you been on a bed of affliction? Some of you, perhaps, are watching by television. You’re there in the hospital watching, some of you are at home, and that sickness has been the messenger of God, saying, “I love you.” You know, sometimes we get so busy that we think we’re almost invincible. Sometimes when our health is glowing and everything is going fine, we never think about having to meet God or give an account of ourselves. But then our Lord allows sickness to come, and we see that this body is not going to last forever; and we see that sooner or later the arm of flesh will fail us, will fail us all; and then we begin to think about “underneath are the everlasting arms” of God (Deuteronomy 33:27). Someone has said, “Sometimes God has to put us flat on our backs in order for us to look up.”

C. He Seeks Through Sorrows

And then, not only does God seek through His Spirit, and not only does He seek through sickness; sometimes He seeks through sorrows. Some of you have gone through deep grief. You’ve been to the graveside of a mother. Perhaps a little baby was taken by the icy hands of death, and you’ve been with a broken and a crushed heart, and yet, even through all of that, you feel God’s Holy Spirit just speaking tenderly to you, and saying, “I love you, and I’m greater than all of these sorrows, and I want to take you and turn every hurt into a hallelujah; I want to take and turn every tear into a pearl, and I want to turn every Calvary to an Easter.” And God, through sorrow, is seeking you.

D. He Seeks Through His Servants

Sometimes God seeks you through His servants. You know, this sermon is God seeking you. God is using me to seek. I prayed before I preached this morning that God would use me. I try not to preach a sermon until I soak it in prayer. That song, “The Old Rugged Cross,” was God seeking you. The song “Victory in Jesus” was God seeking you. God seeks through His servants. You’re not here by accident. God brought me here, and God brought you here, and God is telling you through me, “I love you; I want you; I’m calling you.” God seeks through His servants.

E. God Seeks Through Scripture

God seeks through Scripture. The Scripture is God speaking to you, saying, “Come unto me.”

I was reading, interestingly, a while back about a man who was an embezzler, a dishonest man; he cared not one whit for the things of God; an ungodly, profane, self-centered, selfish man. He was in a hotel, he was shaving with a straight razor, and he wanted something to wipe the foam and the lather from his razor blade. And there was a Gideon Bible that someone had left open on the dresser. He reached down and just snatched a page out of that Bible to use it to wipe off his razor. But when he did, his eye caught upon a verse of Scripture that said, “The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord” (Romans 6:23), and that arrested Him. And he begin to read, and found the Lord Christ as his personal Savior, confessed his crimes, was made right with God.

I read about a deep sea diver who on the bottom of the ocean found a bottle with a cork in it submerged there, and he brought it to the surface, opened it up; and on the inside was a gospel tract with the Scripture on it. He said, “If God loves me enough to follow me to the bottom of the ocean, I'll give my heart to Him.”

I want to tell you, dear friend, that God will follow you to the ends of the earth, saying, “I love you; I seek you; I want you.” And Jesus is standing today with nail-pierced hands and tears streaming from His eyes, saying, “Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest” (Matthew 11:28). Oh, how it was sought! “The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.”

Dear friend, He invites you to be saved today. Don't think He has not sought you. He has sought you. He is seeking you. He will seek you. And if you go to hell, it will not be because you cannot be saved; it will be because you refuse to be saved. As Jesus said, “And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life” (John 5:40).

III. How It Was Bought

Now the third thing I want you to notice about this pearl: not only how it was wrought, and not only how it was sought; but I want you to notice how it was bought. Look, if you will, in verse 46. The story goes on to tell about this man who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had and bought it. Now, who was it that sold all that He had that He might purchase us? The Lord Jesus who was “rich, but for our sake became poor, that we through Him might be rich” (2 Corinthians 8:9). He bought us, not with silver and gold, but with the silver of His tears and with the gold of His blood. He bought us.

Now as I thought about a passage of Scripture that I might use to illustrate the price that the Lord Jesus gave for us, I thought, “Where would I go that would describe the price that He paid?” and it seemed as though the Holy Spirit directed me to the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah, because it is there in the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah that the Lord Jesus Christ is spoken of as being “wounded for our transgressions” (Isaiah 53:5).

Remember how the oyster was formed? Remember that? Remember where that dirt, that impurity, that irritant, comes and it wounds the oyster, and out of that wound comes forth beauty? I believe Isaiah the fifty-third chapter pictures that perhaps as much as anything. And so, turn to Isaiah chapter 53, as we think about the price that was paid. Now, remember that the oyster, it reaches out and brings into itself and covers with something beautiful that which is ugly. It just seems to receive that which is harmful and transform it. And I want you to see what the Lord Jesus Christ did for me, and what the Lord Jesus did for you. Look, if you will, in Isaiah chapter 53, verses 5 and 6: “But he”—Jesus—“was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the LORD hath laid on him”—that is, on Jesus—“the iniquity of us all” (Isaiah 53:5–6).

Jesus took our sins. I want you to see what happened in dark Gethsemane. Jesus is alone there praying in the Garden of Gethsemane. The city sleeps, the disciples are asleep, but Jesus’ eyes will not close in sleep until they close in death. And Jesus is praying in such agony that the minute blood vessels, the capillaries, rupture in His brow and on the backs of His hands, and His sweat is as drops of blood. And what is He praying, and what is He saying? He’s saying, “O God, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done” (Matthew 26:39).

What was the cup that He was talking about? Not mere physical death, not merely the nails in His hands and in His feet, and the spear in His side, and the lash upon His back. What was that cup of which Jesus said, “O Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me”? In that cup was the sin of the world.

I want you to imagine that line again that we were talking about, that line of four billion people going out around the moon and coming back around the earth, and around the earth, and around the earth; and then I want you to multiply that by not only the four billion that live now, but by all who have ever lived, and all who will ever live. And I want you to see that cup as it passes down that line again, and into that cup I want you to see people this time as they put their sins, they put their lying in that cup, they put their lust in that cup, they put their lasciviousness in that cup, they put their hellishness in that cup, they put their hatred in that cup, they put their hopelessness in that cup, they put their fear in that cup, they put their rape in that cup, they put their murder in that cup, they put their arson in that cup, they put their perversion in that cup, they put it in that cup one after another, after another, after another; and when it’s been all the way through the line, Jesus in Gethsemane put that cup to His lips and He drank it all.

“Him who knew no sin, God hath made to be sin for us” (2 Corinthians 5:21). “All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the LORD hath laid on him the iniquity of us all.” The thrice-holy Jesus became sin for us. You cannot imagine what that meant for the Lord Jesus Christ to take your sin and my sin, but He took our sin. And that’s what verses 5 and 6 tell us.

Now I want you to look at verse 7 and see what it says. It says, “He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth: he is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he openeth not his mouth” (Isaiah 53:7). Now, what does that mean? It means, not only did He take my sins; but, because He took my sins, He took my shame. Oh, the shame that sin deserves! And the Lord Jesus suffered ignominiously a shameful death.

Did you know that they said all manner of things about Him that were not true? Look in verse 3: “He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief: and we hid as it were our faces from him; he was despised, and we esteemed him not.” Why? “Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows: yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted” (Isaiah 53:3–4). We looked at Him, and we said, “Well, He’s getting what He deserved.” That’s what people thought. People actually thought He was guilty. They thought He was dying as a common criminal. They accused Him of things. And Pilate said, “Are these things true?” And He didn’t open His mouth (Matthew 27:12–14; Mark 15:3–5; Luke 23:9–10).

Why didn’t He? Why didn’t He defend Himself? Why didn’t He say, “All right, Pilate, I want you to know that I am God’s substitute; and because I am God’s substitute I’m not really a sinner, but I’m taking these sins. I’m taking everybody else’s sins, and I’m dying as though I were a sinner.” Why didn’t He say that? Or, why didn’t He protest His innocence? He didn’t. Why not? Because, dear friend, a part of the punishment of sin is shame, and Jesus took that for me.

You see, Jesus could not have proven Himself innocent without proving me guilty. Had Jesus said, “I’m just bearing Adrian’s sin,” then He would have acted like a hero. But He didn’t die like a hero. He died like a criminal. When He took my sin, He took my shame.

You see, I’ll tell you He was speechless before Pilate, because, have you ever read in the Bible about that man who came to stand before the Lord, and the Lord said, “How did you come in here without a wedding garment?” And the Bible says, “He stood speechless; he didn’t have anything to say” (Matthew 22:12). And I tell you, if you stand before God without your sins pardoned, if you stand before Almighty God to be judged, you too will be speechless. You see, Jesus took my sin, and because Jesus took my sin, Jesus took my shame; and because Jesus took my sin and my shame, Jesus also took my separation.

Look, if you will, please, in verse 8 of this same chapter, as we think of the price that He paid for this pearl: “He was taken from prison and from judgment: and who shall declare his generation? for He was cut off out of the land of the living: for the transgression of my people was he stricken” (Isaiah 53:8)—“cut off.”
What does that mean? It speaks of separation. Jesus is hanging in agony and blood upon that cross. The heavens were darkened at noonday. The earth quaked and the rocks were broken in pieces; and Jesus, the darling Son of God, hung upon that cross between God and men, and the flaming fingers of lightening and fire flashed across the bosom of the sky. And that hellish crowd began to taunt Him and tease Him; and hell was having a holiday; and the devil was shouting for joy and glee that the Son of God was nailed to the cross. And Almighty God is pouring out the vials of His eternal wrath upon His own Son, and Jesus is separated even from God the Father.

He was cut off—cut off from His mother, cut off from His brethren, cut off from His friends, cut off from His Father—and He cries, “My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?” (Matthew 27:46; Mark 15:34). I’ll tell you why: because God is “of purer eyes than to behold [sinfulness]” (Habakkuk 1:13), and upon the Lord Jesus Christ was the sin of the whole world; and therefore He was cut off, because sin means separation. That’s what it means.

When David came to die, David could say, “Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me” (Psalm 23:4). But Jesus walked that lonesome valley all by Himself—by Himself—suspended between heaven and earth. He was cut off from the land of the living. You see, He took my sins, and because He took my sins, He took my shame; and because He took my shame, He took my separation; and because He took my sin, my shame, and my separation, He then took my suffering.

Look, if you will, in verse 9 of this same chapter—look at it: “He made His grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death” (Isaiah 53:9). Look at that word death. In the King James Version of the Bible that I have before me, it’s just the word death. And I’m not a Hebrew scholar, but the Hebrew scholars tell us that this word in the original is an intensive plural.

You say, “What does that mean?” Well, let me just give you a loose translation of it. He died a thousand deaths—He died a thousand deaths. It was not just a mere crucifixion. Other people have died by crucifixion. Think about it. Think what was happening in that transaction on that bloody hill that day, that hill called Calvary. How could one man bear the sins of so many men? Jesus died for all of them. He died a billion deaths upon that cross. You see, He died my death. He died your death. He died His death. He died her death. He died our death. You see, all of the sins of the world were compressed upon the Lord Jesus Christ.

And you say, “How could He suffer there on the cross in just a finite period of time my suffering, because if I die and go to hell, I’ll suffer for all eternity in hell?” I want you to pay attention. Jesus, being infinite, suffered in a finite period of time what you, being finite, would suffer in an infinite period of time. He died a thousand deaths. The sins of the world were distilled upon Jesus, and the centuries and the ages were compressed upon Jesus.

You cannot imagine how Christ suffered on that cross. You could not suffer as Christ suffered. You don’t have the capacity to suffer as Christ suffered.

Here’s a graveside, and here’s a little girl of three, and here’s a father of twenty-seven, and the mother has died. The little girl will weep. But soon she’ll be back to her toys. But not the father. She can sorrow as a little girl. He can sorrow as a man. He has a deeper capacity for sorrow.

My dear friend, I want to tell you there was no one who had a capacity for sorrow like Jesus. He said, “Look and see: there is no sorrow like my sorrow” (Lamentations 1:12). Jesus, being infinite, suffered in a finite period of time what you would suffer in an infinite period of time. The sin of the world was distilled upon Him, and the centuries were compressed upon Him, and on that cross He paid it all. And how we ought to love Him—how we ought to love Him!—because you see, the thing that hurt Him, the thing that wounded Him, He made something beautiful out of. He took it in. He took my sin. And when He took my sin, He took my shame. And when He took my shame, He took my separation. And when He took my separation, He took my sorrow and my suffering. He took it all. And because He did—glory to God!—there’s a pearl of great price. It means a lot to Him. He gave all that He had that He might buy it.

Conclusion

Think about it. Think how it was wrought. Think how it was sought. Think how it was bought. How you ought to love Him! How you ought to serve Him! How you ought to yield your life anew and afresh to such a wonderful, wonderful, Savi

Introduction

And that’s what we’re going to deal with tonight: “The Problem of Counterfeit Christians.” And I want us to begin reading here in Matthew chapter 13 and verse 24. The Bible says, “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field: But while men slept, his enemy came and”—by the way, the enemy is the devil, as we’re going to see in a moment—“and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field?
from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn” (Matthew 13:24–30).

Then I want you to go on down, if you will, to verse 36, and let’s begin reading in verse 36: “Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field. He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man; the field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one; the enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels. As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world. The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity; and shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear” (Matthew 13:36–43).

Not everybody talking about heaven is going there. Not everybody who claims to be a Christian is a Christian. Dr. Vance Havner said, “Many of our church members have been starched and ironed, but they’ve never been washed. They have been through the formality, but they have never met the Lord Jesus Christ.” And Jesus here has given us a parable, and you know what a parable is: it’s an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. Jesus has given us a parable, and this parable is at the same time a word of comfort; it is at the same time a word of warning; and it is at the same time a word of instruction.

A. A Word of Comfort

Now, how is it a word of comfort? As we’re going to see, it’s going to comfort those people who are confused and bewildered because of counterfeit Christians. I mean, there are some people who say, “If the Bible is true, and if it’s not contradictory, how come there are so many false brethren and so many counterfeit Christians? Why are there so many hypocrites in the Church?” Well, we’re going to understand it; and when we understand that God understands, and when we know that it has not taken God by surprise, then it will be a word of comfort for us.

B. A Word of Warning

Number two: It ought to be a word of warning, because I’m convinced, as surely as I’m standing here, there are a great host of people in this building tonight who are members of this church, if they should die tonight, they’d go to hell; members of this church who have never been saved. And the church, in many instances, rather than being a force for evangelism, has become a field of evangelism. And the people who are members of the church, many of them are religious but lost.

C. A Word of Instruction

And then, thirdly, it is a word of instruction, because it tells those of us who are saved what our relationship is to be to those within the church who may not be saved, and how we’re to handle those who are called “counterfeit Christians.”

Now, what is the heavenly meaning of this earthly story? I want to get right into it. It’s not a complicated story. A man went out, and he planted some wheat in his field. And then, while his servants were asleep, someone else came and planted a weed with the wheat. Now the weed is named a tare or tares—tares—and the people who know tell us that this weed is really darnel. And darnel looks so much like wheat that at first you cannot tell it from wheat; that is, until the time of the harvest, and then it’s very obvious that it is not wheat. And, of course, it just was all mixed in together, the tares and the wheat. And then at the harvest time, the man who had the field went into the field and he separated the tares from the wheat. He put the tares in the fire and gathered the wheat into his barn. A very simple story—oh, but what a great meaning in the story!

Now, let me just remind you of some things again. The man who does the sowing, according to verse 37, is the Lord Jesus Christ Himself. The seed that He sows are believers—Christians, you. The field, of course, is the world—in verse 38. The enemy who put the tares, or the weeds, in the field is the devil—verse 39 tells us that. And the tares are the children of the devil, and verse 38 tells us that. The reapers who are going to reap the harvest at the end of the age are the angels—verse 39 tells us that. And the time of the harvest is the end of the age. All of these things are quite simple.

But now, let’s see if we can look behind the surface, and I want to have a simple little three-point outline tonight. You know, God does things in threes; He just likes threes. So you notice a lot of my sermons have three points. But I want you to think with me tonight, first of all, about the sowing of the tares. And then I want you to think with me about the growing of the tares. Then I want you to think with me about the knowing of the tares: how God is going to deal with these tares in the end of the age.

I. The Sowing of the Tares

First of all, the sowing of the tares: who did it? No ifs, ands, and buts about it, the enemy who did it is the devil. Look, if you will, in verse 39: “The enemy that sowed them is the devil” (Matthew 13:39). Now the reason I’m bringing this message tonight is because it fits in with our message on spiritual warfare. One of the ways that the devil wars against the church is to infiltrate the church. It is the work of Satan to deceive people, as I preached this morning; but not only to deceive them, but also to dilute the Church with unsaved people. The devil is the false devil, is the chief counterfeiter. And as I said this morning, the devil is not against religion. He uses religion; he’s in religion up to his ears.

A. Why Did He Do It?

Now, why did he do it? Well, the Bible says, “An enemy hath done this” (Matthew 13:28), in this scripture. But Tyndale translates it this way: “An envious person hath done this”—“an envious person.” He is an enemy by envy. The devil has a great envy of God. The devil has always said, “I will be like the most High” (Isaiah 14:14). That’s what made him the devil. His burning unholy ambition is to dethrone God and to enthrone himself. So, why did he do it? He did it because he’s an enemy. Why is he an enemy? Whose enemy is he? He’s not primarily my enemy; he’s primarily God’s enemy. He hates me and he hates you because he hates God. You see, the devil is not all that interested in weeds or wheat; he’s interested in worship. The devil wants to be worshiped, and he wants to discredit God, and he wants totally discredit the kingdom of God and hurt the kingdom of God. And since the devil cannot get directly to God or at God, then the devil works against the work of God and the children of God. And so he does it by envy.

B. When Did He Do It?

When did he do it? Well, look in verse 25. The Bible says that he did it “while men slept.” “But while men slept, [the] enemy came and sowed [the] tares” (Matthew 13:25). Ladies and gentlemen, this church must stay vigilant. One of the reasons, when we give an invitation, that we take people out and counsel with them carefully and quietly is to keep the enemy from sowing tares in the field. So many people are processed. We give an invitation; we preach the gospel, and we draw the net. But then we fail to sort the catch. We do not go into the counseling room and quietly and confidently lay out the salvation. And some churches are so careless about the way they receive members. They’re just asleep at the switch. You know, I’m expecting some church today to start taking members in on the telephone and baptizing their photographs. They are just that interested in swelling the rolls with numbers and new members. But we need to make absolutely certain that the people who join our church—as best we can—know Christ as their personal Savior. It’s done while men slept. And if we’re sleeping, the devil is going to infiltrate this church with unsaved members. First Corinthians chapter 15, verse 34, says, “Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame” (1 Corinthians 15:34). That is, you ought to be ashamed that there are among you those who are unsaved, and it’s because you are asleep.

C. What Did He Do?

Now, let me describe the tares that the enemy sows for a moment. They are counterfeit Christians. Now the devil is the chief counterfeiter. I want you to just take your Bible and put your mark there in Matthew 13, and then I want you to turn to 2 Corinthians chapter 11. And 2 Corinthians chapter 11 is a chapter that we’re going to be dealing with quite a bit within our study on spiritual warfare; but turn to it with me—2 Corinthians chapter 11. And remember now, we’re talking about counterfeit things. We’re talking about false professors, imitation Christianity. You see, the plan of Satan is to imitate the work of God. And the best counterfeit looks the most like the original. And I want to show you what the devil has done.

1. He Has a False Jesus

The devil has a counterfeit Christ. Look in 2 Corinthians chapter 11 and verse 4: “For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached” (2 Corinthians 11:4). Did you know that there are a lot of churches today that say they believe in Jesus, and don’t believe in Jesus? Do you know there are a lot of churches today that talk about Christ that don’t know Christ? The Christ that they preach is another Christ; he is another Jesus. The devil has a false Jesus.

2. He Has a False Spirit

But not only does he have a false Jesus; he has a false spirit. Look again in verse 4: “For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit” (2 Corinthians 11:4). Now, friend, you can have a spiritual experience with the devil. You can receive a demon spirit into your heart. And that demon spirit can even give you happiness and pleasure. And that demon spirit can give you insight and knowledge. But what you’re having is fellowship with a demon spirit, not with the Holy Spirit. You say, “Brother Rogers, that’s kind of scary.” Well, I hope so—I hope so. Paul here speaks of people who name another Jesus who’s not the true Jesus; and then he speaks of people who receive another spirit who is not the Holy Spirit.

3. He Has False Ministers

Not only is there a false Christ, and a false spirit; but, friend, there are also false ministers. Look down in verses 13 and 14 of this same chapter. Paul goes on to say, “For such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ. And no marvel; for Satan himself [has] transformed into an angel of light” (2 Corinthians 11:13–14). And so, not only is there a false Christ, not only is there a false spirit; but, friend, there are false ministers who will preach this false religion, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ. And all over the world, and on television, and on radio, and from many pulpits there are men who are ministers of Satan, wearing clerical robes and called “reverend” and “doctor” and “bishop” and “pastor” who are emissaries of hell. That’s what the Bible teaches. I’m not trying to be mean, but I’m saying, dear friend, how the enemy has done a job, how he has sown the tares in the field. And there’s a Jesus which is not the true Jesus. There is a spirit which is not the Holy Spirit. There are ministers who have transformed themselves into the apostles of Christ but have not been called.

4. He Has False Brethren

But not only that: there are false brethren. Look, if you will, in chapter 11 and verse 26 of this same chapter. He goes on to say that he was “in journeyings often,”—that is, Paul was a traveling preacher—“in perils of waters,”—that is, he almost drowned—“in perils of robbers,”—people would pounce on him from the wayside—“in perils by mine own countrymen,”—the Jews turned on him because of the gospel he believed in—“in perils by the heathen,”—the unbelievers opposed him—“in perils in the city,”—he wasn’t safe when he was in the city—“in perils in the wilderness,”—he couldn’t escape to the country—“in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren” (2 Corinthians 11:26). Paul said, “Listen. Just as robbers and heathens and other people were giving me difficulty,” he says, “there were false brethren: people who said they were Christians, people who claimed to be members of a church, people who claimed to be a part of the whole missionary enterprise; but they literally put me in jeopardy.”

5. He Has a False Gospel

Notice what Paul is saying: a false Jesus, a false spirit, false ministers, and false brethren. And all of these have a false gospel, because Paul said, in Galatians chapter 1, verse 7—we’re not going to turn to it—but there is another gospel “which is not another; but there be some that…would pervert the gospel of Christ” (Galatians 1:7). And they have a false gospel. Now the devil is in the land today, and he’s not against preaching; he is for preaching. He’s not against spiritual farming; he is sowing seed, but he’s sowing weeds in God’s field of wheat.

Now, go back to Matthew 13, and let me just talk to you a little bit about these false brethren who believe in a false Jesus, who have received a false spirit, and who listen many times to false minister. What should we do?

a. Don’t Be Discouraged

Well, first of all, let me say that a Christian should never be too discouraged because of a counterfeit Christian. The counterfeit only proves the worthwhileness of the real. Every counterfeit Christian that you see is a validation, not a disproof, of Christianity.

When men counterfeit money—twenty-dollar bills—why do they counterfeit twenty-dollar bills? Because twenty-dollar bills are worth something: about eight dollars. And so that’s why they counterfeit twenty-dollar bills. You see, men don’t counterfeit gum wrappers; they counterfeit something that has some value to it. And every counterfeit Christian is an argument for Christianity, not against Christianity.

And don’t you ever let anybody tell you that Christianity is false because there are counterfeit Christians.

b. Don’t Stop Loving the Lord

Now, secondly, don’t you stop loving the Lord because of a counterfeit Christian.

I mean, just because there are some weeds in the field, would you say, “I’ll never eat any more wheat”? Just because some money is counterfeit, would you say, “I’ll never receive any more money”? Just because some doctors are quacks, would you say, “I’ll never go to a doctor again”? Just because some lawyers are shysters, would you say, “I’ll never go to a lawyer again”? Just because some preachers are false apostles, would you say, “I’ll never have anything to do with a man of God again”? Of course not! You know better than that.

Don’t be dismayed, and don’t be upset because of counterfeit Christianity. False preachers and cults and hypocrites have not taken God by surprise. That’s the meaning of Matthew chapter 13, this passage of Scripture. They do not disprove the Bible; they prove the Bible. And, friend, I’m going to tell you something that may shock you. There are some people who argue against Christianity, because we don’t all believe and act alike. But I want to tell you, if we all did believe and act alike, and if everybody who named the name of Christ were saved, it would disprove the Bible—it would disprove the Bible—because the Bible says there’s going to be these kinds of people. The Bible says they’re going to be hypocrites. The Bible says there will be false brethren. The Bible says that the enemy is going to sow tares among the wheat. So these things do not disprove the Bible; they prove the Bible.

II. The Growing of the Tares

Now the second thing I want you to notice: not only the sowing of the tares, but I want you to notice the growing of the tares. Look with me, if you will again, in verse 28 of this chapter—here we’re back in Matthew chapter 13: “He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them” (Matthew 13:28–29). Don’t go trying to pull the tares out of the church. Your job as a Christian is not to be a weed killer. Never, never, never join a crusade to root out false religion: you’ll do more harm than good. Jesus said, “Let the two grow together.” Never join any kind of a movement to persecute somebody else because of their faith. You will make a tragic mistake if you do. And Christianity and the history of Christianity is full of people who need to read this thirteenth chapter of Matthew. And some of the saddest days in the history of the church have been those that have gone to try to root out somebody else’s false faith or to persecute somebody else’s faith. Friend, it is a dangerous thing, because you do not really know who’s saved and who’s lost.

I’ll tell you, some of the very best Christians that you know, or some of the people whom you think are the best Christians, you know, are lost—are lost. When Jesus said, “One of you is going to betray me,” not a one of them said, “I bet it’s Judas”—not a one of them! They said, “Is it me? Who is it?” Listen. If Jesus had said, “Go in there and pick out the one who’s going to betray me,” one of them probably would have picked out Peter and said, “He’s such a big mouth. He couldn’t be saved. Get him out of here.” And another one picked out Thomas, and said, “Well, that guy never did have the kind of faith that he ought to have,” and would have gotten him out of there. And most of them would have left Judas. I want to tell you, Judas was the most trusted man in that group—Judas was the most trusted. You say, “How do you know?” They made him the treasurer, right? They made him the treasurer. He was the most trusted. And I want to tell you, dear friend, you would make a mistake if you were to go in this congregation and say, “Well, I know Bob Sorrell’s saved. See, he looks so saved.” But I want to tell you—no, he’s saved—look, you don’t know.

I was in a convention one time, and Dr. Gray Allison—by the way, Dr. Gray Allison has gone home from the hospital; we praise God for that—but Dr. Allison was there. And I was with some friends, and we were standing around the hall talking, and a preacher came up. And he was all hot and bothered about some liberals there in the Southern Baptist Convention. And so we were standing there, and he came up and he said to our group, said to Dr. Allison, “I want to ask you a question,” said, “do you believe that man is saved?” And I was wondering what Dr. Allison was going to say. Dr. Allison said, “I don’t know whether he’s saved or not.” He said, “I don’t even know whether you’re saved,” said, “the only man I know is saved is me.” That was a good answer, wasn’t it? “The only man I know is saved is me.”

And what a mistake we would make if we go around to start judging one another and trying to root out the weeds! Jesus said, “You just let them grow together.” And if you go to try to stamp out some false religion, I want to tell you, friend, you’re not going to stamp out that fire; what you’re going to do is to scatter the embers, and you’re just going to make martyrs out of them. And so our job is not to root out the tares; our job is to preach the gospel.

“Well,” you say, “what about church discipline? Aren’t we to have some church discipline?” The purpose of church discipline is not to root out and to remove; it is to restore and reclaim. It is a different thing altogether.

III. The Knowing of the Tares

Now, let’s notice one other thing, and I’ll be finished: not only the sowing of the tares, and not only the growing of the tares—they grow together; but I want you to notice the knowing of the tares. I want you to look, if you will now, please, in verse 40 of this same chapter: “As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world. The Son of man…”—that’s Jesus; that’s the Bible terminology for Jesus—“The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity; and shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear” (Matthew 13:40–43). God has a harvest time that is coming, and it’s coming at the end of the age.

Well, why does God tolerate the tares? I mean, why does God wait until the end of the age? Why doesn’t God just move in right now and start to separate the weeds from the wheat? I’ll tell you why: the harvest is not yet fully ripe. At the time of the harvest: when the harvest is ripe is the time to harvest, not before. And God is waiting for the ripeness of the harvest.

There’s a verse of Scripture that you might want to jot down—Revelation chapter 14, verses 14 and 15. Here’s what God said to the Apostle John and the vision that God gave to John. John said, “And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle. And an her angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, Thrust in thy sickle, and reap: for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest of the earth is ripe” (Revelation 14:14–15).

Now God is not going to come in judgment; the Lord Jesus is not going to put His sickle into this world and start the harvest until time is right—until the harvest is ripe. You see, goodness is not fully ripe, and evil is not fully ripe. Sometimes people ask me this question: “Adrian, do you believe the world is getting better or worse?” My answer is “yes”—“yes.” The grain is getting riper; the wheat is getting more golden and glorious. And the weeds are getting more noisome and more noxious. And so the harvest time is not yet. You see, the Bible says, “Judge nothing before [its] time” (1 Corinthians 4:5). But when the Lord comes, He is going to burn the tares.

Now you can deceive me, and you can deceive your wife, and you can deceive those who sow, and you can deceive those who cultivate, and you can deceive those who water; but you cannot deceive those who reap. You will not deceive God’s angels. You’re not going to deceive God’s workers—now, listen—or God’s reapers. Some of you here tonight think, “Well, boy, nobody knows that I’m lost. Nobody knows that I’m unsaved. I look just as good as everybody else.” Yes, you do. Some of you may think that you are saved, because God just lets you sit here tonight and doesn’t do anything with you or to you. He will at the end of the age. How sad it’s going to be for some of you who have sung in the choir to go to hell! How sad it’s going to be for some of you who have served as deacons to go to hell! How sad it’s going to be for some who have been preachers of the gospel to die and go to hell! Oh, what a fine-looking tare you have been! How much you’ve served and even sacrificed! But you have never been born again. And you think, because judgment hasn’t come, it will not come. But as surely as I stand here, judgment will come.

Conclusion

I’m going to close our message tonight, and I want to make just three applications very quickly.

A. Make Absolutely Certain of Your Salvation

B. Don’t Let a Counterfeit Christian Keep You out of Heaven

Now the second thing I want to say is this: Don’t you let a counterfeit Christian keep you out of heaven. There are some of you here tonight who have a grudge against some church member, some deacon, some preacher, somebody somewhere who did you bad; and that person was a member of a church, and you’re saying, “If that’s Christianity, I don’t want to have anything to do with it.” Well, friend, I don’t blame you, but that’s not Christianity—that is not Christianity. That is counterfeit Christianity, and that is false Christianity. It is not real Christianity. And there will always be hypocrites. One of the twelve disciples was a hypocrite, but the other eleven didn’t quit. And hypocrites have always been aboard the good ship Zion; but onward she sails, and heaven is her port.

C. If You’ve Been an Unsaved Church Member, Become a Christian Tonight

The third thing I want to say is this: that you can, if you’ve been an unsaved church member, become a Christian tonight. That doesn’t mean that you’ve been a hypocrite; it may mean, just as I preached this morning, you’ve been deceived. The devil has made your medicine your poison. The devil has deceived you, and you’ve never been saved. Tonight, you can come and say an everlasting yes to Jesus Christ and get saved.

Introduction

ould you be finding Matthew chapter 13. We’re in a series Sunday nights entitled “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom.” And, tonight, we’re going to be talking about “The Strange Mystery of the Counterfeit Christian.” I think you know that not everybody who claims to be a Christian is a genuine Christian. There’s an old Negro spiritual that says, “Everybody talking about heaven ain’t going there.” And that is true. Dr. Vance Havner—the late great Dr. Vance Havner—said, “Too many church members have been starched and ironed, but they’ve never been washed; they have never come to know the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Savior and Lord.”

And the study tonight will help us in a threefold way. Number one: It will give us a word of comfort. Number two: It will give us a word of warning. Number three: It will give us a word of instruction. Now it will be a word of comfort, because many people are confused and bewildered when they see so much hypocrisy, so many false cults, so much that parades under the banner of Christendom that is not real and genuine, and they think that perhaps the whole thing has gone wrong. For them, there is comfort. There will also be a word of warning, for there are many tonight who are not true believers in the Lord Jesus Christ, who perhaps think that they are saved, and they are lost. And they need to be warned; they need to be brought to a saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. And the third word is a word of instruction to tell us how to deal with these people, how to think about these people who are counterfeit Christians.

Now, let’s look at the parable itself. Remember there are seven parables. And what is a parable? A parable is an earthly story that has a heavenly meaning. The Lord would tell a story, just a plain story; and then the Lord would give us a very special meaning, a double application—the natural story, and then the hidden meaning. Now sometimes people have the idea that parables are given to reveal. And that is true, but that’s not all of the truth. These parables were not only given to reveal; they were given to conceal. This is the first time that Jesus spoke in parables, and this is the time when rebellion against Him was at its zenith. They have accused Him of having a devil, and Jesus had to warn them about an unpardonable sin; and then He began to speak with parables, because He said, “To those who have hungry hearts, unto you it is given to know. Unto them it is not given. To him that hath shall be given, and to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath” (Matthew 13:11–12).

And so Jesus now gives these seven parables. We talked about one last Sunday night. Tonight now, the second parable, and it is the parable of the wheat and the tares, and I begin now in verse 24. Let’s read together, beginning in verse 24: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field: but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went His way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, there appeared the tares also. So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst thou not sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn” (Matthew 13:24–30).

Now that is the story. The story is simply that a man has planted wheat in a field, an enemy came while the husbandman or the farmer was asleep, and he sowed weed seed that’s called here tares. The scientific name, horticultural name, is darnel, and it is a crop of weeds that look at first very similar to wheat—as a matter of fact, very hard to discern the wheat from the tares. And the enemy knew this, so he came and sowed in the field these tares.

And let’s look now at the various elements. There are seven elements in here in this parable that we need to identify. And let’s see what they are.

A. The Sower Is Jesus

The man who does the sowing is Jesus Christ Himself. Look, if you will, in verse 37 as the Lord begins to unfold this: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man” (Matthew 13:37). May I remind you again that the Son of man is a term that Jesus Christ used frequently to describe Himself, so the One doing the sowing in the field is Jesus Christ Himself—verse 37.

B. The Seed Are True Believers

Now the seed that He sows are true believers. Now I want to pause right here and say parenthetically, but very importantly, do not confuse the seed in this parable with the parable we just studied last Sunday night. In the parable of the sower, the first parable, the seed is the Word of God. In this parable the seed are true believers. And if you don’t understand that, you may get confused. In the first parable, the soil was the hearts of men; in this parable, the soil is the world. And so our Lord is sowing seed that is true believers all over the world; everywhere He’s putting His believers.

Now while the Lord is planting true believers, we’re going to find out that the enemy is planting false believers. Now there are true believers that are called the seed. For example, in Genesis chapter 3, verse 15, right in the front door of the Bible, the Lord said to Satan in judgment, “And I will put enmity…”—that is, to Satan, the serpent—“I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed” (Genesis 3:15). So there’s the seed of the woman, the good seed; there’s the seed of the serpent. And so the good seed is what the Lord Jesus Christ plants in the world. There’s going to be in this world in which we live a constant warfare between the seed of the woman and the seed of the serpent.

C. The Field Is the World

All right, the sower is the Son of man, the Lord Jesus; the seed, true believers, those who believe in the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Savior and Lord, those who are truly twice born. The third element is the field. The field is the world. Look, if you will, in verse 38: “The field is the world” (Matthew 13:38). We don’t have to guess about that. We’re not talking about the church now; we’re talking about the world in general. In this world there are saved people and there are unsaved people, but there are some unsaved people who appear to be saved people; there are counterfeit Christians in the world.

D. The Enemy Is the Devil

Now the enemy who has done the sowing of these false Christians alongside the true believers is the devil himself. The enemy is Satan. Notice in verse 39: “The enemy that sowed them is the devil” (Matthew 13:39). Now we don’t have to guess about that—very clear.

E. The Tares Are the Children of the Devil

Now the tares, therefore, are the children of the devil. Notice the enemy that sowed them is the devil, and the tares are the children of the devil. Look in verse 38: “The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one” (Matthew 13:38). Now sometimes people will talk to you about the universal fatherhood of God and the universal brotherhood of man. We may be brothers in our humanity, but we’re not spiritual brothers, and not everybody is a child of God. Jesus said to the Pharisees, the counterfeit believers of His day, “You are of your father, the devil” (John 8:44). And so it makes it very clear. The Lord Jesus said these tares are the children of the devil. And so, today, you know that we are thought of as if we’re bigoted or somehow even un-American if we just don’t put our arms around everybody else and say, “Well, we’re all headed to the same place, and your religion is just as good as mine.”

F. The Reapers Are the Angels

All right now, the reapers that are going to reap the harvest are the angels. Notice in verse 39 He says, “The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels” (Matthew 13:39).

G. The Time of the Reaping Is the End of the Age

And when will the reaping be done? At the end of the age. That’s the seventh element: the time of the reaping. Verse 40: “As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world” (Matthew 13:40). Now that gives you a clue that these seven parables that our Lord gave span the entire history of the Christian church, because the One who sows the seed is the Lord Jesus Christ. He began His ministry sowing good seed, and it goes all the way, these seven parables, to the end of the age, so this is all-encompassing. Here our Lord is unfolding the mystery of history—religious history. These are seven sacred secrets, strange mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.

Now we’re going to look at the tares tonight under three simple headings, very easy for you to remember, because they sound alike. We’re going to talk about the sowing of the tares, the growing of the tares, and the knowing of the tares. You can remember that: the sowing of the tares, the growing of the tares, and the knowing of the tares.

I. The Sowing of the Tares

Now, let’s think a little bit about the sowing of the tares. And look in verse 39: “The enemy that sowed them is the devil” (Matthew 13:39). Who did it? The devil did it. It is the work of Satan. Satan is a counterfeiter; he is a pervert; he is the one, the enemy who has done this. Now, let me make it abundantly clear, I hope, that the devil, therefore, is not opposed to religion. Religion is his chief tool; it is his stock and trade. Satan is in religion up to his ears.

Who did it? The devil. Why did he do it? Well, this same verse says, “An enemy hath done this” (Matthew 13:28). Verse 39: “The enemy that sowed them is the devil.” Tyndale translates this, “An envious person has done this.” Now, why would the devil do that? Do you think the devil is interested in weeds? No. Do you think the devil is interested in wheat? No. What the devil is truly interested in is not weeds, or wheat, but worship. The devil wants worship. He wants false believers. He is a counterfeiter. And let me say this about the devil, who is the chief counterfeiter of religion: he is a good one, and the best counterfeit seems most like the real; the more like the real it seems, the better the counterfeit. That’s the reason our Lord, the master teacher that He was, chose this parable, because wheat and tares, especially at the first, look so much alike.

Let me point out five false things that are in the world today, and you need to look out for them. This is the work of Satan.

A. A False Jesus

Did you know there is a false Jesus? Now if somebody comes to you and says, “Oh, we believe in Jesus”—a Jehovah’s Witness or a Mormon might say, “Hey, we believe in Jesus”—you find out which Jesus they believe in; you find out if they believe in the true Jesus. Put this verse down in your margin—2 Corinthians 11 and verse 4: “For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached,”—“another Jesus, whom we have not preached”—“or if ye receive another spirit, which ye have not received, or another gospel, which ye have not accepted, ye might well bear with him” (2 Corinthians 11:4). He’s saying, “You’re so gullible, you may accept him.” You may say, “Well, God bless you, brother.” “Oh, Pastor Rogers, they were so wonderful, and I asked them if they believed in Jesus, and they said yes.” Friend, there are demons that bear the name Jesus; even demons will bear the name of Jesus. And so there is a false Jesus.
B. A False Spirit

Second Corinthians 11, verse 4—there is a false Spirit. Second Corinthians 11 and verse 4: “For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit…” (2 Corinthians 11:4). Somebody says, “Oh, I know it’s real, because I had a spiritual experience.” You may have had an encounter with the devil. The Bible says, “Believe not every spirit, but try the spirits”—test the spirits—“whether they are of God” (1 John 4:1).

C. False Ministers

And if there’s a false Jesus, and a false Spirit, there are also false ministers. Second Corinthians 11, verses 13 through 15—Paul is describing these, and listen to him: “For such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ.” That is, they haven’t been called; they have appointed themselves. “And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works” (2 Corinthians 11:13–15). And when you look for the devil, never fail to look in the pulpit.

D. False Brothers

Satan has a false Jesus. Satan has a false Spirit. Satan has false ministers. And what does this false Jesus, and this false Spirit, and these false ministers, what do they produce? False brothers. Second Corinthians 11 and verse 26—Paul talks about the things that he endured, the suffering that he endured, and he says, in 2 Corinthians 11, verse 26, “In journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea,”—and then now, listen to this—“in perils among false brethren” (2 Corinthians 11:26). Paul said, “On top of all of this—the elements, the heathen, the difficulties—I’m having to contend with counterfeit Christians, false brothers.”

E. A False Gospel

A false Jesus. A false Spirit. False ministers. False brethren. And they have a false gospel. Galatians 1, beginning in verse 6—Paul said, “I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel: which is not another;”—what he’s saying is, “It’s another gospel, but it’s not truly the gospel. There’s only one true gospel, but it is not another”—“but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ” (Galatians 1:6–7). Learn this about the devil: he is a pervert. Satan is a pervert. And the thing that he wants to pervert more than anything else is the gospel of Christ. And Paul says, “But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now again, if any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed" (Galatians 1:8–9). I’ve told you before that word literally means, “let him be condemned; let him be damned.”

Now these false apostles with their false gospel may seem to do some good. They may do some good: they may clothe the naked, they may house the homeless, they may feed the hungry, they may be against abortion, they may be doing this or they may be doing that. But I want to tell you something: a counterfeit bill can do a lot of good. It can buy clothes. It can buy groceries. It can buy gasoline. But, friend, it will not pass the bank examiner. And a false Christian may do this, and this, and everybody will say, “Look what he’s doing! Look how good it is!” But there’s coming a day when he’s going to face the examination of the Lord Jesus Christ. “Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven” (Matthew 7:21).

Now, don’t you let some counterfeit Christian keep you out of heaven. And don’t you ever let anybody use a hypocrite as an argument against Christianity. A hypocrite is not an argument against Christianity; a hypocrite is a wonderful argument in favor of Christianity. Now, why? Well, men don’t counterfeit gum wrappers; they counterfeit what? Fifty-dollar bills, a hundred-dollar bill. Why? A hundred-dollar bill is worth something—about twenty dollars—so they counterfeit money. They don’t counterfeit that which is worthless; they counterfeit that which is worthwhile. And every counterfeit Christian, every false Christian that you see, is a testimony to the good, the worth, the reality, of the real. Don’t you understand that? And so, in a backward way, it’s sort of a testimony.

And another thing: Don’t you say, “Well, I don’t want to be a Christian because of hypocrites.” How foolish! How many of you eat bread? Let me see your hand. Sometime you eat bread made of wheat—wheat bread. My wife said, “Tell them whole wheat, Adrian.” All right, you eat bread. All right, would you say, “Well, because there are some tares in the world, I’m not going to eat any more bread”? Of course not! It would be just as foolish to say, “Well, because there are some hypocritical Christians, I’m not going to go to church; I’m not going to serve the Lord.” Every now and then, somebody says, “Oh, there are some hypocrites in your church.” I say, “Do tell.” Hey, folks, one of the twelve apostles was a hypocrite. We bought a dozen eggs: one of them was a hypocrite.

Now, don’t be dismayed. Hypocrites, counterfeit Christians, a false Jesus, a false Spirit, false apostles and ministers, false brethren, and a false gospel have not taken God by surprise. That’s the whole point. These things don’t prove what we believe not to be true; they’re proof that what we believe is true, because men are counterfeiting that which is worthwhile, and also because the Bible says that’s exactly what will be—not just was, but will be to the end of the age.

Now, when did he do this? When did the enemy do this? Look, if you will, in verse 25, and find out when the enemy did this. The Bible says, “But while men slept, [the] enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat” (Matthew 13:25). And it happens because those of us who are a part of that kingdom of the redeemed sometimes are asleep. God have mercy on us. “While men slept.” First Corinthians chapter 15, verse 34, says, “Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame” (1 Corinthians 15:34). There are those who are being led astray, and the reason they’re being led astray is because we have not been awake to righteousness, and some have not the knowledge of God. Too many sermons are like a lullaby to put people to sleep rather than an alarm clock to wake them up. And it could be that some of your loved ones are going to be the devil’s tares, because of your dullness and your drowsiness. We need to sound an alarm.

I got a letter a few days ago from a man asking my forgiveness. That man said, “I heard you preach, and you said that the Worldwide Church of God was a cult.” He said, “I was so angry at you,” he said, “because I was a member of the Worldwide Church of God. And,” he said, “lo and behold, I have understood now that the Worldwide Church of God was a cult, and I just want to thank you for being true to the Word of God.” And, by the way, there’s something happening in that cult. They are now turning. It’s an amazing thing, one of the great victories of our age. They’re not there yet, all of the way, but they’re coming; they’re now believing in the Trinity; they’re now believing in salvation by grace and many wonderful things. But the man said, “Thank you”—“Thank you”—said, “I had no right to be angry at you. You were telling me the truth.”

The Apostle Paul said, “Am I therefore…your enemy, because I tell you the truth?” (Galatians 4:16). Sometimes we’re out to win popularity contests, and the enemy sows the tares among the wheat, because men are asleep; they don’t sound the alarm as we should sound the alarm. So the first thing: the sowing of the tares—“An enemy”—an envious person—“hath done this” (Matthew 13:28).

II. The Growing of the Tares

Now, here’s the second thing I want you to notice: not only the sowing of the tares, but the growing of the tares. Begin now in verse 28, and look at this thirteenth chapter now and verse 28: “He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay;”—that’s old English for “no”—“lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them.
Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of the harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn” (Matthew 13:28–30).

Now our job today is not killing or rooting out weeds. Every now and then, somebody wants to go on a crusade against false religions. That is not our job. We can warn people, we can preach the truth, but it is not our job; it is not our assignment to try to root out or to stamp out false religion. If we do, we’ll do more harm than good. When you try to stamp out a fire, all you do is scatter the embers. And I want to say to you—listen very carefully: Never, never, never join a movement to persecute someone because of their faith! Let me say that again: Never, never, never join a movement to persecute somebody because of their faith! You’re to preach the truth. You’re to stand for the truth. But these people are accountable to God. God is the One who will judge them, not you. And if you try, you do far more damage than you will do good. And you may just root out some wheat while you’re trying to root out some tares.

I was at a Southern Baptist Convention one time, and some young preacher boys were all hot under the collar about some liberalism in the Southern Baptist Convention, and came up to Dr. Gray Allison, the immediate past president of Mid-America Baptist Theological Seminary. I was standing there in the group, and they looked at Dr. Allison, and they said, “Do you believe that da-da-da-da-da-da is saved?”—talking about somebody. I looked at Dr. Allison—I wondered what he would say. He said something that greatly blessed me and instructed me. He said, “The only one I know is saved is me. I’m not even sure about you”—“The only one I know is saved is me. I’m not sure about you.”

Now, folks, don’t you put yourself up to begin to root out the weeds. Now he’s not talking here about discipline in the church. Every church is to exercise discipline. The discipline in the church is not primarily to root out and remove but to reclaim and restore. Sometimes people have to be removed from a local church fellowship. He’s not talking about that: you missed the parable. The parable here is wheat and weeds in the world. The field is the world. Our job is to preach the glorious gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. I’ll tell you something else, however, though. While it’s not our job to go out and to persecute other people and start rooting out weeds, you’d better be careful you don’t spend your money to fertilize weeds. You’d better make up your mind that you’re going to put your money behind good Bible-believing, Christ-honoring work. I’m amazed at what some people will put their money into. They don’t know, they have no idea, that what they’re doing is subsidizing and underwriting the devil’s enterprise. Don’t fertilize weeds.

That’s one of the reasons why it’s always good just to do your giving through the local church. If you think I’m being selfish about that, I’m not. Joyce and I give outside the bounds of our church also, but we do our major giving through this church. You know, “Do your giving when you’re living, then you’re knowing where it’s going,” and, “Do your giving where you’re living, then you’re knowing where it’s going.” Be a part of something that you know is real. Don’t fertilize weeds.

III. The Knowing of the Weeds

But there’s the sowing of the weeds. There’s the growing of the weeds. The Lord said, “Just let both grow together until the harvest.” Now, here’s the last thing: the knowing of the weeds. There’s coming a time when these weeds and this wheat are going to be discerned, beginning in verse 40 of this same chapter. Look again: “As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world. The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity; and shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear” (Matthew 13:40–43).

Now, what does this tell us? This tells us that a harvest time is coming. Why does God tolerate tares? Why doesn’t God root them out right now? I’ll tell you why: because the tares are not fully ripe—neither the wheat nor the tares are ripe—until the end of the age. You say, “Well, some of these people have been dead for a long time.” They’re still not ripe. Let me give you a verse to put in your margin—Revelation 14, verses 14 and 15. John, the writer of the Apocalypse of the Revelation, John, the beloved Apostle John, has given a vision of the Final Judgment, and this is what he saw: “And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle.” You know what a sickle is? That’s what you reap wheat with, and tares. “And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, Thrust in thy sickle, and reap; for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest of the earth is ripe” (Revelation 14:14–15).

You see, what does he mean by that? Well, a man’s harvest doesn’t come when he dies. That harvest goes on and on and on. Let’s take a man like Hugh Hefner, who founded the Playboy empire, or the man who founded the Hustler magazine business, or any of these people like this. You think that I hate them? I don’t. I pity them. I fear for them. But, you see, they may live high, wide, and handsome; they may flaunt decency, morality—God alone knows how many homes have been blasted, how much disease has been spread, how many babies have been murdered by unwanted pregnancies, how many lives of little children have been warped and twisted, how many minds have been perverted, how much dirt and filth has come out of the evil recesses, the murky depths of that man’s heart—but soon—and he’s getting to be a senior citizen—soon he’ll die. But his influence will go on and on and on and on. He will corrupt somebody, who will corrupt somebody, who will corrupt somebody, who will corrupt somebody, who will corrupt somebody, who will corrupt somebody. It won’t be over until the end of the age, till God puts the last period upon the last sentence upon the last paragraph, the last page, the last book, the last volume of history. When it is over, then God gathers the evidence.

The same thing is true with a righteous person. Friend, your influence for good, for God, will go on and on and on and on after you die. As God said of Abel, “He being dead yet speaketh” (Hebrews 11:4). And I hope that when I’m dead and gone, if Jesus doesn’t come first, that my influence will go on and on and on and on until the ripples of this ministry will touch the shores of eternity. Then the harvest is ripe—then the harvest is ripe. That’s why God doesn’t judge at this time, because it’s too early to judge. But here’s the point of this parable: Don’t let the slowness of God’s judgment deceive you. You may be a fine-looking tare: the judgment is coming.

Notice that the tares are gathered into bundles to be burned. That’s interesting to me. I’ve noticed that in the world the unsaved people seem to be gathering together; they’re getting amalgamated; they’re all joining; they’re all merging; they’re all coming together; they seem to be bundling themselves up for the burning. This unity is not necessarily something that’s going to be a great blessing to them.

Conclusion
Well, it’s time to wrap this up. Let me just say three things in conclusion, all right? We’ve talked to you about the sowing, the growing, and the knowing of the tares. Let me make three applications very quickly.

A. Make Certain of Your Salvation

Application number one: Please, for God’s sake, for your sake, make certain of your salvation. If there is a false Jesus, if there is a false Spirit, if there are false brethren, and false ministers, and a false gospel, has the devil played a trick on you? He’d just as soon—rather, really—send you to hell from the pew than from the gutter. Let me give you a verse—2 Corinthians 13:5: “Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves.”

You say, “Well, I know I’m saved, because my Sunday School teacher told me I was; my mom told me I was; my dad told me I was; my pastor told me I was.” Friend, you examine yourself; prove your own faith. Do you have a Bible reason, if you were to stand before God right now, to say that you know that you’re saved? “Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves. Know ye not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be reprobates?” (2 Corinthians 13:5–6). I didn’t ask, do you know the plan of salvation? Do you know the man of salvation? Is Jesus Christ in you?

Somebody wrote these words:

Ye call me Light and see me not.
Ye call me Way and walk me not.
Ye call me Wise and follow me not.
Ye call me Fair and love me not.
Ye call me Rich and ask me not.
Ye call me Eternal and seek me not.
Ye call me Gracious and trust me not.
Ye call me Just and fear me not.
If I condemn you, blame me not.

—AUTHOR UNKNOWN

“Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith.” That’s the first thing.

B. Don’t Let a Counterfeit Christian Keep You out of Heaven

The second thing: If you’ve never yet given your heart to Jesus Christ, I beg you, don’t let a counterfeit Christian keep you out of heaven. Don’t hide behind some hypocrite. Don’t think that the true is not real because the false is there.

C. If You Are a Counterfeit Christian, Repent and Receive Christ

And number three: If you are a counterfeit Christian, I beg you in the name of Jesus, repent of that and receive Christ, Him only, as your Lord and Savior.
The Case of the Counterfeit Christian

Introduction
Now, take your Bibles, please, and turn to Matthew chapter 13: the second in a series of messages on the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. Jesus gave seven parables, and these are things, mysteries, that we need to understand. A mystery, in the Bible, is a truth that you cannot know apart from divine revelation. In the Bible, a mystery is a truth that you cannot comprehend with your mind alone, something you could not learn by observation or by human study. You would have to understand it by divine revelation.
And the mystery that we’re going to be talking about today is “The Case of the Counterfeit Christian.” And I want to read to you from Matthew chapter 13, the second of these parables, beginning in verse 24: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field: but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn” (Matthew 13:24–30).

Now, as I said earlier, not everybody who is talking about heaven is going to heaven, according to the old spiritual—and it is certainly true. Not everyone who claims to be a Christian is a Christian. Dr. Vance Havner said, “Many church members have been starched and ironed, but they’ve never been washed.” They have never truly been saved and born again by the Spirit of God.

Well, what about counterfeit Christians? And what is the truth that the Lord Jesus Christ is telling us in this parable that we call the parable of the wheat and the weeds, or the parable of the tares and the wheat? If you’ll learn the truths that are here, you’re going to find that there will be a truth to comfort you. You will find out that there will be a truth to warn you. You will find out that there will be a truth to instruct you. It will be a truth to comfort you, because when you see all of these false cults, and all of these unbelievers, and all of these people who are parading under the name of Christianity, who don’t belong to the Lord Jesus Christ, you’ll learn, as you study this parable, that God is still in control; and that will be a word of comfort to you. And, also, as you study this parable, you’ll find out that there are some who pretend to be saved, and perhaps think they are saved, who are not. That will be a word to warn you to make absolutely certain that you know that you belong to the Lord Jesus Christ. And then also there’s going to be a word to instruct you; because, what should we do with these people who parade under the banner of Christianity, and who name the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, but are not truly his children? They are counterfeit Christians. There will be a word here to instruct us.

But now, let’s just look at this parable from its normal sense, first of all, and just re-tell the story. It’s a very simple story. Jesus tells of a farmer who went out to a farm. He was a wheat farmer, and he had wheat seed, and he sowed his field with wheat seed, and he did a good job. He was a good farmer. And then he went back home, and he and his servants went to sleep; and while they were asleep, the enemy of this farmer came. And he had some seeds called tares—the modern name for that is darnel. It’s a noxious weed that looks very much like wheat. As a matter of fact, when it first springs up, even an experienced farmer cannot tell the difference between a tare and wheat. The tares, the blade, the stalk, and everything looks so much like wheat or barley that even an experienced farmer could not tell the difference. And the enemy sold these noxious weeds in the middle of the night.

And then the crop started to grow and grow and grow; and when it reached a certain point of maturity, then the difference was more obvious. And so the servants came to the farmer and said, “Look, I thought you had good seed.” He said, “I did.” Well, where did all of the tares come from? “Oh,” he said, “an enemy has done this.” They said, “Well, do you want us to go therefore and pull up all the weeds?” He said, “No, don’t do that. If you did, you’d root up some of my wheat also. Just let them all grow together until the harvest time, and when the harvest comes, we’ll bundle these tares together and cast them in the fire to be burned, and I’ll gather the wheat into my barn.”

That’s a very simple story, but it has a rich and a deep meaning. The disciples wanted the Lord Jesus to explain this parable, and so He does. Look, if you will, in verse 37: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man” (Matthew 13:37). So the farmer, again, is the picture of the Lord Jesus Christ. Son of man is a term that is used to describe Jesus Christ Himself. The man who sowed the seed is Christ.

Now, who are the good seed? Well, look, if you will, in verse 38: “The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom” (Matthew 13:38). And so the wheat represents children of God, children of the kingdom, those who have been born again, those who know the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Savior.

Now, what is the field? Well, verse 38 tells us the field is the world. And that is, His believers are to be out in the world representing the Lord Jesus Christ. The field is the world.

Well, who is the enemy who did the dastardly deed of sowing the tares? Well, look in verse 39: “The enemy that sowed them is the devil” (Matthew 13:39). And so we’re going to have some more to say about him, but already the parable is beginning to make more sense to us.

What do the tares represent? The weeds? Well, look in verse 38 again, the last part: “The tares are the children of the wicked one” (Matthew 13:38)—the children of the devil. You see, not everybody who lives in the world today is a child of God, not even all of the religious people. It was a religious crowd that crucified the Lord Jesus Christ. And Jesus said to the unsaved Pharisees, “You are of your father, the devil” (John 8:44). And so the tares represent the children of the wicked one.
Well, who are the reapers? Well, verse 39 tells us that the reapers are the angels—the last part of verse 39. So they’re the ones that are going to harvest both the wheat and the tares.

And then, what is the harvest? Well, verse 40 tells us what the harvest is: “As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world” (Matthew 13:40). And that literally means, “at the end of the age.” And at the end of this age is going to be the harvest time.

Now those are just the basic truths. There is the parable as it’s laid out before us. Now I want us to look at four truths today for our lesson from the Word of God. The first thing I want you to see is the sowing of the tares in the wheat. The second thing I want you to see: the similarity of the tares to the wheat. The third thing I want you to see is the survival of the tares with the wheat. And the fourth and final thing: the separation of the tares from the wheat.

I. The Sowing of the Tares in the Wheat

Okay now, first of all, let’s notice the sowing of the tares in the wheat. Why did all of this happen?

A. Who Did It?

Who did it? In the first place, we know that it was the work of Satan. And it tells us something about how Satan works. Satan works by imitation. Satan works by counterfeiting. You see, Satan’s burning ambition is to be like God. Martin Luther called Satan “God’s ape.” That means he mimics the Word of God. We say, “Monkey see, monkey do.” Well, Satan has made a monkey of himself indeed by trying to imitate God. And so he is the chief counterfeiter. It is the work of the devil, as he is the false farmer who has sowed the tares in God’s field.

And right away we learn something. Satan is not against religion. Satan uses religion. He is in religion up to his ears. And always remember that the worst kind of deception is religious deception. Satan here is counterfeiting the Word of Almighty God. And so, remember that it was Satan who did this.

B. Why Did He Do It?

Now, why did he do this? Why did he do this? Here in the parable it says, “An enemy hath done this.” Tyndale translates it this way: “An envious person hath done this.” And that is an apt and a good translation: “An envious person hath done this.” You see, what is Satan’s motivation in it all? Satan is not all that interested in weeds or wheat. He’s envious of God. And he’s trying to hurt the work of God, because he’s envious of God. He desires no crop at all. All he is working for is to somehow try to pull God from His throne as though that he might exalt himself. It is the work of an enemy. And you might as well learn this: that Satan’s real battle is not with you, whether you are weeds or wheat. His real battle is with God. And he will simply use you as a pawn in his war against God. He cannot get directly at God because God is God. But evil persons have always known if you can’t hurt someone, hurt someone that someone loves, and you’ve hurt that one anyway.

C. When Did He Do It?

Who did it? The devil. Why did he do it? Envy against God. When did he do it? Verse 25 tells us, “But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat.” Too many sermons are like lullabies to put people to sleep rather than like reveilles to wake them up. I pray God that this sermon today will be God’s alarm clock to scare the daylighters into you. Listen, friend. We need to wake up. You know what the Bible says in 1 Corinthians chapter 15, verse 34? “Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame” (1 Corinthians 15:34). Because some of us are asleep the devil is sowing tares in God’s field. “Some have not the knowledge of God,” because we’re asleep. Some of the members of your family, and some of your neighbors, and some in your Sunday School class, and some who work in your office are going to die and go to hell, because we are asleep. It was done while men sleep. Satan never sleeps.

II. The Similarity of the Tares to the Wheat

Now there is the sowing of the tares in the wheat. Secondly, I want you to notice the similarity of the tares to the wheat. Now, remember what we’ve said. The darnel looks very much like wheat, so much that even an experienced farmer could not tell the difference by casual observation. The Bible says about the devil that he is so clever that he would deceive the very elect, if it were possible (Matthew 24:24).

Now, remember that the plan of Satan is to counterfeit the work of God, to imitate the work of God, and thereby to hurt and discredit the work of God. And the best counterfeit looks the most like the original. I want you to put your bookmark there in Matthew 13 and turn to 2 Corinthians chapter 11 for just a moment and I want to show you something astounding. Second Corinthians chapter 11—turn to it because we’ll be there for just a moment—2 Corinthians chapter 11—and I want you to see what the counterfeiter has done.

A. There Is a Counterfeit Jesus

It may surprise you to know that the devil has a counterfeit Jesus. Did you know that? Look, if you will, in 2 Corinthians chapter 11 and verse 4: “For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached…” (2 Corinthians 11:4). Notice that phrase. It’s one of the most terrifying in all of the Bible: “another Jesus.”
Did you know that there are some who will come to your doorsteps under the guise of religion? “Adrian,” you say, “now, wait a minute.” “I want to find out who you are and what you are. Tell me, do you believe in Jesus Christ?” “Oh, yes,” he’ll say, “I believe in Jesus Christ.” “Well, what do you believe about Jesus Christ?” “I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God,” is what he’ll tell you. But when you get beneath the surface, when you pull away the veil of darkness, when you with the Word of God measure the beliefs of these people by the Word of God, you’ll find out that the Jesus that they’re preaching is not the Jesus of the Bible.

Did you know that there are demon spirits who have the name of Jesus, demon spirits who have been so deceptive that they have taken the name Jesus? I want to tell you that the master counterfeiter—the master counterfeiter—has people going up and down the land who are preaching Jesus, who are not preaching Jesus, but they’re preaching another Jesus, a counterfeit Jesus; and some people do not have enough of the Word of God in their mind, in their heart, to be able to discern between the two.

B. There Is a Counterfeit Spirit

Not only is there a counterfeit Christ; there is a counterfeit spirit. Look again in 2 Corinthians chapter 11, verse 4. Look: “If he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit, which ye have not received” (2 Corinthians 11:4). There is a counterfeit spirit. You say, “Oh, I must be a Christian, because I’ve had a spiritual experience.” A spiritual experience and making contact with the supernatural does not mean necessarily that you’re a Christian. The Bible says, “Believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false [spirits] are gone out in to the world” (1 John 4:1). And there is one false spirit who pretends to be the Holy Spirit.

Now you’re seeing, dear friend, when you’re dealing with the devil, you’re not just dealing with something easily understood. He is a deceptive person, and the Bible speaks of him “with all deceivableness of unrighteousness” (2 Thessalonians 2:10). The tares look so very much like the wheat.

C. There Are Counterfeit Ministers

And not only is there a counterfeit Christ, not only is there a counterfeit spirit; there are also counterfeit ministers. Look, if you will, please, also in chapter 11, verse 13. Continue to read the words and heed the words of the Apostle Paul. He speaks of some and he says, “For such are false apostles,”—that is, counterfeit apostles—“deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ.” That is, they themselves say that they are apostles of Christ. “And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light.” Don’t think that the devil is going to come wearing some long suit of red underwear with a forked tail and a pitchfork saying, “Boo! I am the devil.” That’s not the way he’s going to come. He’s going to come primarily as an angel of light. And look in verse 15, if you will: “Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works” (2 Corinthians 11:13–15).

The devil has ministers. The devil has them in pulpits across America. And many people look at them and say, “There is a man of God and a minister of righteousness.” And he is an agent of the devil. That’s what Paul says. And when you’re looking for the devil, never fail to look in the pulpits of America.

One time I was preaching a sermon on the devil, and after I preached a little boy in the church—I think he was meaning to compliment me—said “Mr. Rogers, when you were up there preaching, I could see the devil just as plain.”

Well, let me tell you something, friend. The devil has occupied many a pulpit. It’s no marvel. His ministers are transformed as ministers of righteousness.

D. There Are Counterfeit Brethren

Now, watch it. A counterfeit Christ, a counterfeit spirit, counterfeit ministers, and it goes on: there are going to be counterfeit brethren. Paul is talking about the things that he had endured as a servant of the Lord Jesus Christ. And I want you to notice, beginning in verse 24 of this same chapter, as he talks about he things that he had suffered as a servant of Christ: “Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one.” He had thirty-nine lashes laid upon his back. It would have been enough to have killed even a strong man. “Thrice was I beaten with rods,”—that is, they took clubs and they clubbed him—“once I was stoned,”—how terrible that must have been! And they thought he was dead; they left him for dead—“thrice I suffered shipwreck,”—he’d been in three shipwrecks. He goes on—“a night and a day have I been in the deep;”—he had been pickled in the Mediterranean floating around like a bobbing cork there for at least twenty-four hours—“in journeys often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, and perils of mine own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea,”—but now, watch the climax—“in perils among false brethren” (2 Corinthians 11:24–26)—“false brethren.” He’s reaching the climax now. Of the terrible, horrible, things that he had to do and endure; and he’s saying, “I know what it is to suffer, and I have suffered at the hands of some who claim to be Christians. But they’re counterfeit brethren. They’re not brethren at all. They are false brethren.”

E. There Is a False Gospel

Pay attention now—listen. A false Christ, a false spirit, false ministers, and false brethren: the enemy sowing the tares among the wheat. Go to Galatians chapter 1 for a moment. Let me show you something here. You’re in Corinthian—just turn right and you’ll come to Galatians. All right, Galatians chapter 1. There’s also a false gospel. A man says he’s preaching the gospel to you. He may not be preaching the gospel. Paul says, in Galatians chapter 1, verse 6, “I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel: which is not another;”—that is, it only claims to be another. There is but one true gospel—“but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ.” And then Paul says, “But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.” And I don’t mean to offend your sensibilities, but that could well be translated, “let him be damned,” “let him be judged, condemned of God.” “As we said before, so say I now again, if any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed” (Galatians 1:6–9). There is a false gospel.

Now what I’m talking about—and I hope you’ve caught the point—is the similarity of the tares to the wheat. There is a whole religious world out there sowed in the field called the world, and the people are not people of God. They don’t know the Lord. They’ve never been born again. They are not true Christians. They are counterfeit Christians; they are tares among the wheat. Now they may do some seeming good. And I’m not saying that they themselves are not altruistically motivated or they don’t do any good at all.

Take a counterfeit twenty-dollar bill. A counterfeit twenty-dollar bill can do some good. It can buy some milk and eggs. A counterfeit twenty-dollar bill can buy almost a tank of gasoline. A counterfeit twenty-dollar bill can do a lot of things, and it will pass here, and it will pass there, and do a lot of good/ But when it comes to the bank, the experienced bank teller will not let it pass there, and will not accept it, but reject it. And a counterfeit Christian may do some good deeds here, and do some other things there, and do a lot of things/ But when it comes to the judgment bar of God, God, like that, will see he’s not the real thing.

You see, I’m not saying that counterfeit Christians don’t do any good, or there’s not some truth to them, or that they don’t look good. I’m not saying that. I am saying, however, that they still are counterfeit. But I want to tell you something. There is a great blessing here if you if look at it for a moment. Counterfeit Christians do not disprove Christianity. Counterfeit Christians are one of the greatest confirmations of Christianity, for two reasons.

1. The Counterfeit Christian Is a Confirmation of the Worthwhileness of Christianity

Number one: Every counterfeit proves the worthwhileness and the validity of the real article. Men do not counterfeit gum wrappers; they counterfeit twenty-dollar bills. Why? Because twenty’s are worth something—about eight dollars. That’s why they counterfeit twenty-dollar bills: because they’re worth something. And every counterfeit Christian that you see is proof positive of the worthwhileness and the validity and the reality of Christianity.

Now if you were to find a counterfeit bill, you wouldn’t go to the bank, take all of the rest of the money out of the bank, would you? Would you say, “I’m not going to have any more to do with money,” because some money is counterfeit? No, you would know the very fact that some money is counterfeit is proof positive of the worthwhileness of your own money. Every hypocrite, every counterfeit Christian, is a confirmation, a wonderful confirmation, of real, true, biblical Christianity.

Suppose a farmer finds some tares in his field. It would be stupid for him to say, “Would you look at those hypocrites in my field! I’ll never have anything to do with wheat again!” But some people find hypocrites in the world and in the church, and they say, “Look at that! I’ll never have any more to do with Christ and the church again!” That, my friend, is foolish thinking.

2. The Counterfeit Christian Is a Confirmation of the Inspiration of the Word of God

I’ll tell you something else. Not only is the counterfeit Christian a confirmation of the worthwhileness of Christianity; but it is also a confirmation of the inspiration of the Word of God. Now sometimes people have the idea that if everybody believed just alike, and if all people who professed the name of Christ were true Christians, that would confirm the Bible. Friend, if that happened, it would prove the Bible is not the inspired Word of God; because Jesus said there would be tares and wheat right to the end of the age. And the Bible says, “In the last days men shall depart from the faith and give heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils” (1 Timothy 4:1).

Now if you did not find false believers, false prophets, false apostles, false cults, and counterfeit Christians—if you did not find them—it would be proof positive that this book did not come from God. You see, there is a confirming truth in this. I’m so glad that Jesus, in His marvelous, matchless wisdom, laid down for us here in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew this case of the counterfeit Christian, so that those of us who will come down through the ages and will be faced with these things need not panic and need not despair. We can say, “Yes, the Savior told us about that. It’s the work of the enemy, and we understand it.” But there is a confirmation, and there is a truth there that we need not to pass over very lightly.

III. The Survival of the Tares with the Wheat

Now the third thing I want you to notice. Now we talked first about the sowing of the tares in the wheat. It’s the work of the enemy, because he’s envious of God. The second thing we talked about is the similarity of the tares to the wheat—but yet in a very real way, they confirmed the Word of God to us. Now the third thing I want you to understand—and the mystery deepens—is the survival—the survival—of the tares with the wheat.

Why are the tares allowed to survive? Why didn’t the farmer just say, “All right, get your hoe, get your sickle, and go out there and cut them down and burn them up”? He didn’t say that. Look in Matthew chapter 13 and verse 28 again—look at it: “He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?” That is, the tares. “But he said, Nay;”—that is, no—“lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest” (Matthew 13:28–30). The survival—the survival—of the tares with the wheat.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, I want to make something here very clear to us. How do we deal with counterfeit Christians? How do we deal with false cults? Our job is not to kill weeds. Get that in your heart and in your mind. Crusades to root out false religion are not in the will of God. They do more harm than good. And you would make a tragic blunder. And never become a part of a movement that persecutes someone because of his faith. They are accountable to God and not to you. Never join a civil movement or an ecclesiastical movement that exists to root out unbelievers. It is unscriptural. It is unchristian, it is unwise, and it is also counterproductive. You would make some tremendous blunders.

I was at a convention one time, Southern Baptist Convention, and a young man came up; he was a young preacher. And some others of us were standing in the circle, and Dr. Gray Allison, who is the president of the Mid-America Baptist Seminary, was there. And this young preacher was disturbed about a certain man, some things he’d said or written. And he came into this little circle, and he looked Dr. Allison in the face, and he said, “Dr. Allison, do you think that man is saved?” I’ll never forget what Dr. Allison said to him. Dr. Allison said, “I don’t even know if you’re saved.” He said, “The only one I know is saved is me.”

Now that’s pretty good. The only one I know is saved is me. I don’t know whether Tommy Lane is saved. I believe he is. But I don’t know he is. He thinks I’m saved. He believes I’m saved. But he doesn’t know I’m saved. Do you know who knows I’m saved? Me and Jesus: that’s all. “What man knows the things of a man, save the spirit of the man that’s in him?” (1 Corinthians 2:11). And, friend, were you to go in with your sickle and start to harvest the wheat from the tares, were you to go in with your hoe and start to root up the wheat from the tares, you would make some terrible blunders. And, besides that, even if you were fighting error, when you tried to stamp out the fire, you’d scatter the embers.

Now here the Lord is not talking about church discipline. He’s not saying there’s not to be discipline in the church. There is. But discipline is not a matter of rooting out. Discipline in the church is a matter of restoring and bringing in. Here he’s talking about a crusade that goes to root out evil. How careful we must be! And not just any kind of evil:
spiritual evil. Now this doesn’t mean, on the other hand, that we have to pay to fertilize weeds. It doesn’t mean that either. But it does mean, dear friend, that they are answerable to God, and not to us.

IV. The Separation of the Tares from the Wheat

Now the last thing I want you to see: I want you to see the separation of the tares from the wheat; because the Lord is coming to the harvest time. Notice again in chapter 13, Matthew 13, and I want to begin reading in verse 30: “Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn” (Matthew 13:30). And then, notice in verse 40: “As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world”—or the end of the age. “The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity; and shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth” (Matthew 13:40–42).

Why does God tolerate the tares? Why doesn’t God burn them out? Why doesn’t God zap them? Why does God tolerate a counterfeit Christianity? Why does God tolerate hypocrites? Why does God allow all of this to go on? Is it because he’s powerless? No! It is because God has a divine plan, and God does not put the sickle in until the harvest is ripe.

Do you understand that? Not only the harvest of the wheat. The wheat is going to be harvested when it is ripe. But also the tares are going to be harvested when they are ripe. Turn to Revelation chapter 14, verse 14—Revelation 14, verse 14: “And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle. And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, Thrust in thy sickle, and reap: for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest of the earth is ripe” (Revelation 14:14–15)— “the harvest of the earth is ripe.”

You see, the end of the age is the harvest. Why does God wait till the end of the age? He is waiting for the crop to ripen. There’s a good crop that is ripening, and there is an evil crop that is ripening, and, dear friend, you could not be rewarded right now, because your reward is not yet ready, because your crop is not yet ripe.

Elmer Bailey has served here in this church twenty years, and he has done inestimable good among us. But, friends, we couldn’t balance the ledger now, because he has blessed lives that will bless lives that will bless lives that will bless lives that will bless lives that will bless lives.

Don’t you see that you’ll have to come to the end of the age for that harvest to ripen? And what about the ungodly? What about the false teachings? What about the blind leader of the blind? What about the false religionists? What about that man who does not stand on the Word of God? What about the children of the wicked one? They have cursed people who will curse people who will curse people who will curse people who will curse people. They can’t receive their reward yet. The harvest is not yet ripe. There’s coming a time when God Almighty will place that final period upon that final sentence upon that final paragraph upon that final chapter of history and the harvest will be reaped, because the iniquity will be full (Genesis 15:16).

And so the Lord lets both grow side by side. If you’re an unsaved person, whether you are a counterfeit Christian or an open infidel, let me tell you something. Don’t take refuge in the fact that judgment has not yet come. It’s not harvest time—it’s not harvest time. You may be a proud-looking tare. You may be so fine. You may be mingled in among the wheat today. And there’s not a one of us experienced enough to say, “There’s a tare, there’s the wheat; there are the tares, there’s the wheat.” But God knows. I pray God that you know whether you’ve been born again or not.

And you may say, “Well, I’m getting along fine. Those people sang a hymn. I sang a hymn. Those people said, ‘Amen.’ I said, ‘Amen.’ I mingle with them.” But there’s coming a separation time when the harvest will be ripe. It’s not harvest time yet. But God does have His harvest time. You may deceive those who plant, you may deceive those who water, you may deceive those who fertilize, but you will not fool God’s reapers. Both are growing together till the harvest.

Sometimes people ask me, “Brother Rogers, do you believe the world is getting better or worse?” And my answer is, “Yes, yes, it’s getting better, because God’s glorious wheat is ripening.” I’m seeing things happening among Christians that I never dreamed I would see happen. I’m seeing people who love God, who are sacrificing, who understand this book, who are exercising spiritual gifts and doing things that are absolutely marvelous in these days. I thank God for it. The golden grain is maturing. The world is getting better. I see things happening that I cannot believe that are happening.

And the tares and the children of this wicked world are reaching maturity. Unspeakable, unmentionable, filth and degradation, and blasphemy—for even Jesus Christ is made the object of ridicule, where sodomy is made the subject of entertainment, for little babies are being murdered, and snail darters are being preserved. The crop is getting ripe.

Is the world getting worse? Yes. Is the world getting better? Yes. Thank God for a book like the Bible. Without the Bible, you wouldn’t be able to understand all of this. But I want to tell you, ladies and gentlemen, that God has told us, as the Lord has looked down through the corridors of time, and He gave us this parable of the weeds and the wheat, and the case of the counterfeit Christians. He has told us there is coming a time where there will be the separation of the tares from the wheat.

Conclusion

Now, having said these things, may I make three pleas by way of conclusion—very brief, three words of admonition.

Number one: Make absolutely certain that you are saved—make absolutely certain that you are saved. Make absolutely certain that you are not a counterfeit Christian. The devil had just as soon send you to hell from the pew as he had the gutter. Do you know that you are saved? Does God’s Spirit bear witness with your spirit that you’re a child of God? The Bible says, in 2 Corinthians chapter 13, that a man is to examine himself whether he is in the faith (2 Corinthians 13:5). I’m not trying to get you to doubt your salvation. If you’re truly saved, I don’t think I could make you doubt it. But what I’m trying to say is, dear friend, do you know that you’ve been born again?

Ye call me Master and obey me not,
Ye call me Light and see me not,
Ye call me Way and walk not,
Ye call me Life and desire me not,
Ye call me Wise and follow me not,
Ye call me Fair and love me not,
Ye call me Rich and ask me not,
Ye call me Eternal and seek me not,
Ye call me Gracious and trust me not,

Ye call me Just and fear me not;
If I condemn you, blame me not.

—ENGRAVED ON THE CATHEDRAL OF LÜBECK, GERMANY

Do you know that you are saved?

The second word of admonition: If you’re not saved, don’t let a counterfeit Christian keep you from going to heaven. Don’t make the horrible mistake of saying, “I’m not going to have anything to do with wheat because of the weeds.” That’s the work of the enemy. And that’s one of the reasons that he did it, is to confuse you and keep you from coming to the Lord Jesus. But don’t let a few hypocrites in the church cause you to spend eternity in hell with all of them. Don’t ever make the mistake of fastening your eyes upon the faults of someone for whom Jesus died rather than looking to Jesus. I’m not asking you to put faith in any man. I’m asking you to put faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, who died in agony and blood for you upon the cross. And don’t you let a counterfeit Christian keep you out of heaven.
The third admonition is this: that you may be a tare, but only God can make wheat out of tares—and He will, by repentance and faith. If you'll repent of your sin and trust Jesus, I don't care what you've been—religious or non-religious, counterfeit Christian or an open infidel, deceived or deceiver—I'll tell you this much: If you'll trust Jesus, He'll save you today. The same Lord who saved me will save you. And He'll do it
The Mystery of the Mustard Seed

Introduction
Take your Bibles, please now, and turn to Matthew chapter 13, as we continue in this series of Bible lessons that we have entitled “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” And today the title of our message is “The Mystery of the Mustard Seed”—"The Mystery of the Mustard Seed." Or if we want another title, we might say “The Devil's Dirty Birds.” And you'll understand why I say that in just a moment. Matthew chapter 13, and we begin reading in verse 31: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof” (Matthew 13:31–32).

Now, remember that in Matthew chapter 13 there are seven parables, and all of these parables are called by the Lord Jesus Christ in this thirteenth chapter of Matthew “the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.” And a mystery is something in the Bible that you could not understand apart from divine revelation. It is something that with your human wit, wisdom, ingenuity, and learning you would never figure out. It is something that God must reveal to you in order for you to know it. And remember that a parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning, and our Lord, through the use of parables, has unlocked some deep, deep mysteries, some things we need to understand. And when we understand these things, it makes it a lot easier for us to live in today’s world, because, folks, this is a confusing world in which we’re living.

For example, we ask ourselves the question, What’s wrong with the preacher; what’s wrong with the Bible; what’s wrong with the church—that people don’t get saved when they hear the message? Well, there may not be anything wrong with the preacher. Remember the parable of the sower. The seed is the Word of God—we’ve already talked about that—but some of it fell on stony ground, and some fell by the wayside, and some fell among the thorns. And there wasn’t anything wrong with the preacher, there wasn’t anything wrong with the message, but the problem was with the soil upon which the good seed fell. And that explains the question of an unconverted world.

And then we ask ourselves another question: Why are there so many hypocrites in the church? People are always asking questions about hypocrites. They say, “Well, I don’t want to be a Christian, because there are hypocrites in the church.” Do tell. Hypocrites in the church! Well, what do you know? Well, that doesn’t take us by surprise. I’m not saying that it’s not sad, because there are hypocrites in the church; but in the next parable Jesus gave the parable of the tares among the wheat, and He showed how that the devil sows tares among the wheat. The tares were weeds. And we talk about the mystery of counterfeit Christians.

But now there’s another problem, and this is the problem of what I call apostate Christianity. Friend, I’ll tell you, it is amazing the things that people believe today who parade under the banner of Christianity. As a matter of fact, you just let your mind run riot, get yourself a notebook, and write down whatever you want to believe and however you want to behave, and I can find you somewhere a church where you’ll fit in pretty well. It’s amazing. I mean, just let your mind run.

I’ll tell you, there are two things that I have been blessed with as I preach the gospel. Number one: I think it’s strange that some people will not believe the gospel. And another thing: I think, how strange what some people will believe; I mean, what they really will believe! You can take any new ism and give it a fancy name, and let people go out and preach, and, honest, folks, there are some folks who will believe it. It’s really amazing! And we see this great, wide panoply of churches and denominations that are absolutely far removed from this book. They are not preaching the Bible. They are not honoring the Lord Jesus Christ. They are not under the blood of Christ. They are not filled with the Spirit. And yet there are thousands of people who will trudge Sunday to Sunday to these churches, come away with their heads fuller, their hearts emptier, and they’re bound in the chains of a false gospel. Not only are they not helped by it, but they are literally hurt by it. And Jesus said they are twofold a child of hell because of it (Matthew 23:15).

Now, how did all of this happen—this false, apostate religion? I mean, if the Bible is true, how did all of this happen? Well, the mystery of the mustard seed will help us to understand it. So pay attention, because in this message, the mystery of the mustard seed, our Lord tells us about the apostasy that will be in the last days. And I believe we’re living in the last days, as we think of the apostasy that’s all around us.

Now in the mystery of the mustard seed there are three basic elements that stand out. First of all: the seed. Remember He says the kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed. And then He said it’s planted in the ground, it grows to be an herb, and then becomes a tree. So the second thing: the tree. And then, thirdly, He says, “And the birds, the fowls of the air, come and roost in the branches—the birds.” And so we’re going to think under three headings. First of all, the seed. And as we think about the seed, I’m going to call that a strong declaration. And then we think just a little bit about the tree. And as we think about the tree, I’m going to call that a strange transformation. And then, thirdly, we’ll think about the birds roosting in the branches, and we’ll call that a Satanic habitation.

I. The Seed: A Strong Declaration

All right, are you ready? First of all, let’s just think of this strong declaration. Look again in verse 31: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field.”

Now, already, we know what the seed represents. How do we know what the seed represents? Because in the other two parables we’ve already seen that the seed is the Word of God. The seed represents the Word of God. That much we already know. The man who is doing the sowing, we already know who He is, because the other parables have already told us the man represents the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of man, our Savior. He’s the one doing the sowing of the seed. All right, so the seed is the Word of God, the gospel. The man is the Lord Jesus Christ himself. The field: we already know what the field is. The field is the world. All right, that much we’ve already learned in the other parables, in the parable of the sower.

A. The Strength of the Seed

But now, let’s look at this specific seed, and you’ll see why we call it a strong delegation. Why did the Lord say that the kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed? Because of the strength of this little seed. You see, mustard is strong. Mustard has bite. It has fire. It has pungency. And if you don’t believe it, you go eat in the Chinese Restaurant I ate in last night, and get one of those egg rolls, and put some of that mustard on that egg roll, and take a big bite, and you will know what I’m talking about. Mustard is fiery. It is hot. It is pungent. It stings. It bites. It burns. It blisters—it blisters.

You know, back in the olden days, when people thought they had pneumonia, or some sort of epizootics, or whatever they had, they would—and some of you ladies may still do this—make a mustard plaster and put it on your chest. Now I don’t know whether it cured pneumonia, but it will take the hide off. There’s just power. You take that mustard seed and grind it up.

And what is our Lord saying when He’s saying that the kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed? He’s talking about the strength of the seed. It bites. It burns. It blisters. It has power. It has pungency about it.

This is not a bland message that we preach, ladies and gentlemen. You know, somebody said, “The problem is the blind leading the blind.” I think the problem is the bland leading the bland. I think that we need to get back to the fiery proclamation of the Word of God and understand this is a zesty gospel that we preach. This is an exciting message that we preach. And the gospel of our Lord and Savior is a strong declaration.

B. The Size of the Seed

But not only the strength of the seed; I want you to notice the size of the seed. He says here in verse 31 it’s the least of the seeds. Well, how small—infinitesimally small—is this mustard seed! And what is this telling us? It’s telling us that the true gospel doesn’t have to have a lot of pomp and circumstance, and trappings, and all of the accoutrements that men want to add to it. Oh, the size of the seed: it’s small—it’s small!

C. The Simplicity of the Seed

And the simplicity of the seed. Just a little seed, but oh, what power there is in that simplicity!

You know, a great theologian came to the United States, and he was known the world over for his scholarship and for his intellectual insights into the Word of God; a man who had talked with the other scholars, a man who knew the original languages, a man who knew the backgrounds of all of the books, and a man who had veritably spent his life poring over the Word of God. He was there in a theological institution, and the young preachers were there sitting at his feet. This was their big opportunity to ask him questions. And they were asking him all of these great, long, double-jointed questions, you know, and he with a furrowed brow was giving all of his wisdom to these youngsters and these young men that I call embryonic theologues, and he was telling them all of these things. And then one young man raised his hand and said, “Sir, I would like to ask you a question.” He said, “In all of your learning and of all of your studies,” he said, “what is the most profound thought? What is the deepest revelation? What is the grandest truth that you have every learned?”

Well, that’s a big question. And the old man sat there for a while, and he thought, and he prayed, and he thought. He cleared his voice, and it got very quiet in that hall. He said, “Sirs, the greatest truth that I have ever learned is this: ‘Jesus loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so.’” Amen?

That’s it! That’s it! Oh, the simplicity of a seed! The simplicity of a seed! “Jesus loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so.”

D. The Secret of the Seed

And so, here he’s talking about a strong declaration: the gospel is like a mustard seed. But not only the strength of the seed, not only the size of the seed, not only the simplicity of the seed, but the secret of the seed is this: that a seed has life—a seed has life. And so does the gospel. Jesus said, “The words that I speak unto you...they are life” (John 6:63)—“they are life.” And therefore the Bible says we’re “born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever” (1 Peter 1:23).

I’m so grateful that I don’t have to preach a dead gospel. I’m so grateful that when I preach the gospel there is life. And I’m not just talking about some man’s enthusiasm. I am talking about something that is supernatural. These words are life. One of the things that has always encouraged me is that it does not really depend upon my ability but my faithfulness to the Word of God. That’s the reason I always try to give somebody something out of the Word of God that they can carry home with them.

You know, when farmers go out to sow, now there’s one man, he may just have a beautiful style scattering the seeds, you know, and another fellow just may be a clod as he puts the seeds down; but, you see, the difference is not so much in the style, but the seed, amen? I mean, if he’s planting the seed. Others may preach the gospel better than I can, but nobody can preach a better gospel than I can. Isn’t that wonderful? The gospel. You see, the secret of the seed is that the seed has life. “The I words that I speak unto you...they are life.” And Jesus said, “The kingdom of heaven is like to a...mustard seed.”

II. The Tree: A Strange Transformation

And so, point number one: a strong declaration—a strong declaration. Point number two: a strange transformation. Look what happened. Look, if you will, in verse 32: “Which indeed”—the mustard seed—“is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is What happened here? Something’s gone wrong.

Now, wait a minute. Is it an herb or is it a tree? Now, there’s a difference between an herb and a tree. An herb has no wooded tissue to it. An herb dies back, and has to be replanted and so forth; but a tree and an herb are different, and God makes a difference between a tree and an herb. And under ordinary circumstances, herbs don’t become trees.

Let’s just go back to Genesis chapter 1. Just turn back to Genesis chapter 1, verse 11, with me for a moment and see how God made this world operate—Genesis chapter 1, verse 11. All right, look. Here’s the way God made it to begin with: “And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed…”—just draw a circle around the word herb—“herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind.”—notice this: “after his kind”; that is, the tree and the herb are different—“whose seed was in itself, upon the earth, and it was so. And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind: and God saw that it was good” (Genesis 1:11–12). God made a difference between an herb and a tree. And herbs never produce trees, and trees never produce herbs. There is a difference.

But now we have a strange, weird development. Suddenly an herb becomes a tree. And, folks, that’s not meant to be. Now mustard never becomes a tree. Now you folks who have grown some mustard in your garden, you know better than that. Mustard is one of the greatest of the herbs. As a matter of fact, in the Middle East a mustard plant will grow almost seven feet tall, but it’s still an herb; it never becomes a tree. But here in this parable, the mustard seed, which grows, grows to be an herb, and then it becomes a tree.

Now something here is wrong. There is a strange development here. What our Lord is talking about here is a monstrosity: something that is not meant to be, something that is twisted, something that is perverted. And what He is talking about is the development of abnormal Christianity, the development of what I call apostate Christianity. You see, Jesus’ hearers were familiar with the Old Testament. And when Jesus talked about this tree with the birds lodging in it’s branches, I’m sure that some of his readers went back to Daniel chapter 4, verse 20. Just jot it in your margin. I want to read it to you—Daniel chapter 4, verse 20. It is the description of a Babylonian kingdom. And listen to this description: “The tree that thou sawest, which grew, and was strong, whose height reached unto the heaven, and the sight thereof to all the earth; whose leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and it was [food] for all; under which the beasts of the field dwell;”—and listen—“and upon whose branches the fowls of the heaven had their habitation: it is thou, O king, that art grown and become strong: for thy greatness is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, and thy dominion to the end of the earth” (Daniel 4:20–22).

Daniel had a vision of a great lofty tree, and in that tree the fowls were roosting in its branches. Daniel said that vision is a vision of a Babylonian kingdom; and Babylon, in the Bible—pay attention—is always a symbol of apostate religion—always a symbol of apostate religion, Babylonish religion.

Now I want you to see something else, if you will turn and look in Revelation chapter 18, verse 2—Revelation 18, verse 2: “And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird” (Revelation 18:2). Now is the picture coming together? Now do you see what this monstrosity is? It is the development of apostate religion.

Folks, I’ve tried to tell you before; I want to tell you again: the devil is not against religion. He’s in religion up to his ears; but it is false religion, apostate religion, something that is abnormal, something that is not meant to be. The herb is not meant to be a tree. The tree speaks of pride over far-reaching branches, and becoming a habitation for beasts and birds, and all kinds of unclean and creeping things, that God never really intended. And so, point two is what I call a strange development.

This monstrous tree that Jesus told about is the final form of the false super church that will be in the last days. It is the giant corporation of the amalgamated sons of old Adam. But here’s something that ought to encourage you: the rise of false cults—and there are plenty of them in America today, and there are plenty of them in Memphis today—the rise of false cults and liberal churches that deny the Bible did not take Jesus by surprise. Now that’s a word of encouragement to me. When Jesus looked down through the corridor of time, and Jesus saw this gospel herb becoming an apostate tree, the Lord Jesus predicted it. It’s abnormal; but it wasn’t unexpected.

III. The Birds: A Satanic Habitation

Now, let’s go to the final point. We’ve talked about a strong declaration: that’s the message of the mustard seed. We’ve talked about a strange transformation: that’s when an herb becomes a tree; and something grotesque, a monstrosity, happens, something that God did not plan, but something that God foreknew. Now, let’s go to the third point and deal a little bit with the birds. Look, if you will, in verse 32, and you’ll understand why I call this message, perhaps, “The Devil’s Dirty Birds.” Look. He says this seed “is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof” (Matthew 13:32).

Now, let me tell you what the non-thinking Bible teacher says about this. “Oh,” he says, “isn’t it wonderful? The Church starts with just a little seed, and then it becomes an herb, and then it becomes a great big ol’ kingdom tree, and then we got all the sweetest birds; we’ve got the little blue jays, and we’ve got the red birds, and the little canaries, and the little hummingbirds, and all of these.” That’s not what it’s talking about, folks. That’s not what it’s talking about: sweet little birds roosting in the branches. Remember, this tree is a monstrosity, and these dirty birds are the devil’s demons, who take pleasure in apostate religion.

I’m going to prove to you now that the birds represent the powers of darkness and the powers of the devil. Look here in Matthew chapter 13, verses 3 and 4. Now, remember, we’ve been in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew. The way to understand scriptures: to compare scripture with scripture, and understand scripture in its context; for as you know, a text without a context is but a pretext. Now, look in chapter 13, verses 3 and 4: “And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seed fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up” (Matthew 13:3–4). Now, let me say that the word that is translated “fowls” here in verse 4 is exactly the same word in the Greek that is translated “birds” over here in verse 32: no difference; the same word exactly, talking about the same group of varmints. All right now, look: “The fowls came and devoured them up.” Now, look, if you will, please, in verse 19, and see what that represents: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart” (Matthew 13:19).

Now, what do these birds represent? These birds represent the power of the devil to steal away the Word of God. That’s what they represent. Don’t get the idea of sweet little birds. I’ll tell you the kind of birds that He’s talking about right now. He’s talking about the yellow-bellied compromiser. That’s one of them. He’s talking about the self-righteous raven. That’s another one. He’s talking about the liberal loon, and the dead-headed denominational dodo, and these kinds of birds that roost in the branches of apostate Christianity. That’s what He’s talking about: people who have a form of godliness, but deny the power thereof (2 Timothy 3:5); people who are religious, but lost; and worse than being religious but lost, who are energized by the power of the devil.

Now, go back again to Revelation chapter 18 and verse 2, and look at it. If you think that I am misinterpreting this, look at it. Revelation chapter 18, verse 2: “And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils,”—literally in the Greek, “the habitation of demons”— “and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird” (Revelation 18:2).

Do you know what God’s saying? He’s saying Babylon is for the birds. That’s what He’s saying. He is saying, ladies and gentlemen, there will come a Babylonish religion in opposition and over against the true religion of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. And there will be multitudes who will be religious, but lost. Their ministers will be transformed as angels of light (2 Corinthians 11:14), and these people will be caught up in this Babylonish religion in the last days. “[Many] shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of demons” (1 Timothy 4:1). That’s what the Bible says.

You see, the devil has sent more people to hell through religion than any other way. It is not religion that people need. It was a religious crowd that crucified Jesus Christ. Men need to turn from religion to Jesus Christ. It is a personal faith in a living Savior, someone who can come into your heart and give you a new nature and make you born again. Do you know that? Have you experienced that? Some people don’t know the difference. They wouldn’t know one of the devil’s dirty birds if he flew in their window.

Now what we need, folks, is a course in spiritual bird watching. So I’m going to help you just a little bit. You know, these birds will fool you. Why, they’ll use the Bible. The devil quotes the Bible. They’ll do good works. Jesus said, “Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity” (Matthew 7:22–23). They may have Sunday Schools, church services, radio programs, revival meetings, Bible conferences, magazines, books, tracts, church camps, a wonderful youth program: “in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.”

Why, they may even be able to perform miracles. In Matthew chapter 24, the Lord Jesus said, “There shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect” (Matthew 24:24). Just because a man’s a miracle worker, that doesn’t mean the power of God is on him. Not at all! Not at all! The Bible speaks of the spirits of demons that have power to do miracles (Revelation 16:14). So we need a course in bird watching, don’t we? You see, here’s a strange development; and this strange development becomes a satanic habitation—this strange transformation to a satanic habitation. The birds, these devil’s dirty birds, come and lodge in the branches.

Let me just give you four questions that you can ask your prospective pastor if you move away from here, or four questions that you can ask any bird that pecks at your door. Find out whether or not he happens to be one of these in Babylon’s branches or whether he’s one who is a true servant, an emissary of the Lord Jesus Christ; the four tests, and then we’ll be finished. The first test is what I call the source test. The second test is what I call the Savior test. The third test is what I call the subject test. And the fourth test: the salvation test. Now these are four things that you can almost identify any bird with right away.
A. The Source Test

All right, first of all, the source test. When you go to a church, or when somebody comes to your door, ask him, “What is the source of your information? Where do you get this?” And if he has any other source besides the Word of God, he’s one of the devil’s dirty birds: whether that source is his own ideas; or whether that source is the tradition of men; or whether that source is another book that somebody else has written that’s supposed to be a companion book to the Bible.

Let me just show you what I’m talking about. Turn to the last book of the Bible, the Book of the Revelation, and before we read this I want to ask you a question. Did you read in the paper the other day where a great religious organization says they’re going to rewrite the Bible and take all the sexist terms out of it? And so, rather than praying, “Our Father which art in heaven” (Matthew 6:9; Luke 11:2), we’ll pray, “Our person which art in heaven.” You know, that sort of an idea. Did you read that in the paper? It gave me a pain I couldn’t locate; and I think sometimes I do. Just keep that in mind, and I want you to listen to Revelation chapter 22, verse 18: “For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book” (Revelation 22:18–19).

So we want to ask him a question; we want to ask her a question, whoever it is: What is your source of authority? Do you believe the Bible as the inspired, inerrant, infallible Word of God? Or have you taken from it, or have you added to it? The source test will help you in spiritual bird watching.

B. The Savior Test

The second test: the Savior test. Ask him what he believes about the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. For, friend, if he is wrong about Jesus, it doesn’t matter what he’s right about, amen? Turn to 2 John for a moment. You’re in Revelation—just go left two books or three. Look in 2 John. Look in verse 9: “Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God…”—he’s one of the devil’s dirty birds—“Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son.” This is 2 John 9. “If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed:”—and if somebody wants to come to your house and set up Bible studies in your house, you’d better find out what he believes about Jesus Christ. And, friend, if he’s wrong about Jesus Christ, don’t allow him to make your home headquarters for his studies, for the Bible says—“for he that biddeth him [even] God speed is partaker of his evil deeds” (2 John 1:9–11).

Ask him, “What do you believe about Jesus Christ? Do you believe He’s the Son of God?” Many will say, “Yes.” “All right, do you believe He’s born of a virgin? Do you believe that He is the only begotten of the Father? Do you believe He is God in human flesh?” Jesus was not, as Nicodemus said, “a teacher come from God” (John 3:2); He was God come to teach. “Great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh” (1 Timothy 3:16). And anybody who does not believe that Jesus Christ is God, very God, is of the evil one, and he that “abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God.” All right, so there’s the Savior test.

C. The Subject Test

The source test, the Savior test; the third test is the subject test. What do you preach? What is the theme of your message? More than anything else, what are you trying to get across? Is it the gospel of Jesus Christ? And make certain he understands what the gospel is. Do you know what the gospel is? This is the gospel: Christ died for our sin. He was buried. He was raised again on the third day, according to the Scriptures. That, ladies and gentlemen, is the gospel.

Now, you find out if that is his central message. I don’t care how good his message may be. If he’s not preaching the gospel, he’s one of the devil’s dirty birds lodging in the branches of apostate Christianity. Notice what Paul said, in Galatians chapter 1—just turn to it—Galatians chapter 1, for a moment, verse 8: “But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now again, if any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed” (Galatians 1:8–9).

“Sir, what is the subject that you wish to address me about? Have you come to declare the gospel?” Let me tell you the difference between a false cult and a true Christian. A false cult will come and say, “Believe some thing”; a true Christian will come and say, “Receive someone.” And that someone is Jesus. They will be lifting up the Lord Jesus Christ.

And you make certain, dear friend, that you put them to this source test: Do they believe the Bible? You put them to the Savior test: Do they accept Him as God, very God? You put them to the subject test: Do you preach and proclaim the gospel? And is that the driving theme and the dominate motive: to preach the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ? And make certain he knows what the gospel is. Therefore you’re going to have to know what it is.

D. The Salvation Test

And last: the salvation test. Find out about his own salvation. “You, sir, have you been born again? You, preacher, have you been born again? Have you been regenerated? And are you trusting the shed blood of Jesus Christ, and God’s grace, and that alone, to save you; or have you tried to mix in some of your good works? And do you think it is Jesus plus this, or Jesus plus that?” Find out if he preaches this message: “For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: not of works, lest any man should boast” (Ephesians 2:8-9). “Have you personally received Christ as your personal Savior and Lord? Have you been born again? And does God’s Spirit bear witness with your spirit that you’re a child of God?”

Now that’s a course in bird watching—bird watching—because, you see, the Bible says, if it were possible, the devil would deceive the very elect. Isn’t it marvelous how Jesus almost 2,000 years ago saw this strange monstrous tree that would be developed in our last days? Isn’t it amazing that as Jesus looked down through the tunnel of time, the Lord Jesus knew that there would come a monstrous development: an herb becomes a tree? Fowls of the air come, demon spirits, to lodge in its branches. And do you know what God said in Revelation chapter 18? “Come out of her, my people” (Revelation 18:4). Just come on out. You don’t belong perched on one of those limbs. Just come on out. Do you know Jesus? Are you saved?

Conclusion
I’m finished now, but there are two things you need to see in this. First of all, there’s a warning—a warning. What is the warning? The warning is this: Be certain that you know Christ as your personal Savior. You can be religious, but lost. You can have a form of godliness, and not know the power thereof. Again, I want to say, it is not religion you need; it is a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. You need to be born again. You need to be saved. You need for God’s Spirit to bear witness with your spirit that you’re a child of God.

And what a word of warning there is! But also for me there’s a word of comfort. And what is that word of comfort? It means that nothing has gotten out of control. Nothing has taken God by surprise. People say, “What’s the world coming to?” I’ll tell you what it’s coming to: it’s coming to Jesus—it’s coming to Jesus. The real question is not, what the world’s coming to, but who’s coming to the world. His name is Jesus. And the Bible says that all of these things are just simply signs of the last days. And false religion and all of these weird cults that we see, and these liberals who deny the Word of God and the deity of Christ, they don’t disprove the Bible; friend, they confirm the Bible. It’s exactly as Jesus said it would be.

So there’s a word of warning; but there’s a word of comfort. We’re on course, and we don’t have to worry about false religion. Everybody says, “Oh, the cults are going to overtake us! Apostasy is going to overtake us!” Well now, wait a minute. Truth is stronger than error. “Greater is he that is in you, than he that is in the world” (1 John 4:4). It’s not them that we have to worry about; it’s our ignorance and our lethargy and our failure to claim the Word of God. You put God’s truth in your heart, friend, and “greater is he that is in you, than he that is in the world.”

Introduction

Would you be finding Matthew chapter 13. In Matthew chapter 13, we have seven parables, and these are the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. Our Lord calls them mysteries, and He gives us one, two, three, four, five, six, seven parables that span history from the earthly ministry of the Lord Jesus Christ until the Final Judgment. And these seven parables help us to understand what the course of this age will be like; what to expect, so we will not be taken by surprise, we’ll not be disappointed, or have doubt come to us, because things may not be as rosy as we think that they ought to be. And we have looked at these parables. Remember what a parable is? A parable is an earthly story that has a heavenly meaning.

Now, first of all, we talked about the parable of the sower, and the mystery of the sower. And what did that parable teach us? Well, it taught us, among other things, that not everybody that hears the gospel is going to get saved. Don’t get the idea in your head that all we need to do is just tell people how to be saved and they will be saved. The sower may be fine, and the seed may be fine, but it also depends upon the soil, doesn’t it? And some seed will not fall on good ground, but some will. And we learn—and I know, praise God—that when I preach, and when you share, people are going to come to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Then, we studied next the parable of the tares. You remember the tares are weeds and wheat sown together. And what does that tell us? Well, the parable of the tares tell us that we can expect hypocrites in Christendom; in the church, and out of the church, there will be hypocrites. And so don’t be surprised when a hypocrite comes along, and don’t let some hypocrite keep you from giving your heart to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now, tonight, we come to the story of the mustard seed. Read now in verses 31 and 32: “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof” (Matthew 13:31–32). The title of the message: “The Strange Mystery of the Mustard Seed and the Devil’s Dirty Birds.” You’re going to learn from this why there are false cults in the world. You see, not only do you have those who reject the gospel, not only do you have those who imitate the gospel, but you have those who actually pervert the gospel. And we’re going to learn that in the parable of the mustard seed. False cults did not take our Lord by surprise, and they ought not to take you by surprise, because this world and this city is full of false cults and apostate Christians. And there are many who trudge to church Sunday after Sunday whose lives are not changed, and on top of that they are twice-fold the child of hell because they are in false religion. Now this false religion may be dead and decadent, or it may be set on fire—wildfire and zeal from hell—but it is not Bible-based; it is not Christ-honoring; it is not Spirit-filled.

Now, how did all of this develop? What has happened? Our Lord looked down through the corridor of time, and He told us some things. This is the mystery of the mustard seed. Now the devil has many ways to sabotage God’s work. In the parable of the sower, you remember, the devil catches away the seed that was sown. In the parable of the tares, he imitates the good seed. But in the parable of the mustard seed, he perverts and corrupts it. And you have to understand that all of these things can happen.

Now when we look at this parable of the mustard seed, we’re going to look at it under four headings, all right? First of all, the sower; then, the seed; then, the shrub; and then, the shade tree. And we’re going to look at all of these one at a time.

I.  A Sacred Sower

Now, first of all, who is this sower? Well, look again in verse 31. The Bible says, “Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field” (Matthew 13:31). Well, who is the man that does this sowing in these parables? Well, go back to verse 37: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man” (Matthew 13:37). Again, we have the Lord Jesus beginning something, starting something. He’s out there planting a field. The sower is the Son of man, Jesus. And I’m glad for that, because, you see, there will be a church. Jesus said, “I will build my church” (Matthew 16:18). In Philippians 1, verse 6, it says, “He which hath begun a good work in you will perform it” (Philippians 1:6). There will be a godly crop. God has promised, and we can bank on that: that He cannot fail; He must prevail. So I’m just going to pass very quickly over the sower. The sacred sower is Jesus—the sacred sower is Jesus.

II. A Small Seed

Now, secondly, not only are we going to look at the sacred sower, but we’re going to look at the small seed. Now, look in verse 31, again, of this same chapter. The Bible says, “The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: which indeed is the least of all seeds” (Matthew 13:31). This seed is very, very small, like a fleck of pepper that you put on your eggs this morning. So I want us to think about that. Why did Jesus say that the kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed?

A. The Smallness of It

Well, first of all, obviously, the emphasis is on the size, because He’s talking here about smallness. You know, we are a little flock. We are the Master’s minority. We are the faithful few. Don’t get the idea that the gospel is something large and grand, with a lot of fanfare and so forth. In reality, it is quite small in its simplicity. And it’s not so high and lofty that you can get up to it. It’s so small that few get down to it. And Jesus is talking about something here very small.

I remember hearing a story long ago about a great theologian who was in a seminary, and he had been lecturing the students. And this man was incredibly brilliant, and they had a Question and Answer session—Q & A—and they were asking him all of these deep, convoluted questions about theology. And then one student said to him, “Sir, what is the greatest thought that you’ve ever had, the greatest theological truth that you know?” And this man paused for a while and thought, and then he said, “The greatest truth that I know is this: Jesus loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so.” Oh, friend, that’s it—that is it.
B. The Strength of It

The smallness, the simplicity, of the seed. But, oh, think of a mustard seed now, not only the smallness of it, but the strength of it. Jesus said faith like a grain of mustard seed can remove mountains (Matthew 17:20). Again, he’s talking about strength in a mustard seed. You see, a mustard seed is fiery, is pungent. Do you know what mustard is? We had some in a Chinese restaurant the other day, and I put some on an egg roll—too much—and it almost blew the top of my head off. I’m telling you, folks, if you’ve got sinuses, that will take care of it. I mean, it will clear it out. How many of you, when you were a child, your mama used to put a mustard plaster on you? Let me see your hands. Yeah, a mustard plaster. You’d get something, and she would put a mustard plaster on your chest up here—supposed to take care of a cold. It didn’t do anything for the cold, but near about turned your skin fire engine red as she put that mustard plaster on there.

As a matter of fact, there’s a story about Darius the Great as he invaded Europe. He came into Europe, and Alexander the Great came to meet Darius of the Persians, and Darius sent Alexander the Great a bag of sesame seeds. And there were just thousands and thousands of sesame seeds, and he sent them by courier to Alexander the Great. And he was saying, “We’re going to cover the land like these sesame seeds. There are so many of us, you’ll never defeat us.” Alexander the Great sent him back a bag of mustard seeds, and he said, “You are going to meet fire and power and strength like you’ve never known before.”

C. The Secret of It

You see, the mustard seed speaks, yes, of smallness, insignificance, in many ways, but it speaks of strength. But think not only of the smallness of this seed, and the strength of this seed, but think, friend, of the secret of it. Here’s the secret. You see, the kingdom of heaven is like a seed, and a seed has life. Remember in all of these things our Lord is frequently mentioning seed. And He’s saying that the Word of God is like the seed, and we who are His saints, the good seed, are believers that are sown in the world. And, again, He’s using the word of a seed. Why? Because a seed has that germ of life in it, and it can reproduce. Somebody said—and I love this—“Any fool can count the seeds in an apple; but only God can count the apples in a seed.” Isn’t that a beautiful thought? “Only God can count the apples in a seed.” I mean, because a seed can reproduce and reproduce and reproduce and reproduce.

III. A Significant Shrub

And so you see the sacred sower, and then you see the small seed. Now, here’s a third thing you see. You see a significant shrub. This seed begins to grow, and it becomes a shrub. Look, if you will, in verse 32: “Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs” (Matthew 13:32). And so an herb is a bush that does not have a woody stem, but it has a pulpy stem, enough to support leaves and flowers and seeds—not a great lofty thing like a tree, but it is a significant shrub. And that represents what the gospel is supposed to be. You see, it may not seem like much compared to a great cedar of Lebanon, it may not seem like much compared to a mighty oak; but it is a shrub that can reproduce and bear whatever fruit that it is to bear, whatever flowers, whatever seeds. And not known for its prominence, not known for its loftiness, it speaks of lowliness and not prominence.

IV. A Strange Shade Tree

Now, let’s move on, and we’re going to tighten the focus a little bit. You see the sacred sower: that’s Jesus. You see the small seed: that is the pungent gospel that we preach. You see the significant shrub that comes up: that is what the gospel is supposed to do. But now, watch—watch. The fourth thing—and we’re going to slow down here—is a strange shade tree—a strange shade tree. Look in verse 32—don’t miss this now: “And [it] becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof” (Matthew 13:32).

Now, folks, shrubs don’t become trees—not in the natural world, they do not. What our Lord is talking about here is something that is monstrous, something that is unnatural, something that should not have developed—a strange development. Herbs don’t become trees. Put Genesis 1, verses 11 and 12, in your margin, if you don’t mind writing in your Bible. Let’s see how God created the world: “And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so. And the earth brought forth grass, an herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind: and God saw that it was good” (Genesis 1:11–12).

Now God says there’s an herb that yields fruit after its kind and there’s a tree that yields fruit after its kind. But the herb does not produce a tree; you’d never get an herb from a tree in the natural world. Stems of herbs never develop woody tissue. What our Lord is talking about here is something that is abnormal. Now, don’t try to read something normal into this. What our Lord is talking about is strange developments, mysteries in the kingdom. For example, it is not normal to have tares among wheat. A farmer does not expect that. You would not expect an herb to become a tree. Our Lord here is talking about a strange development.

Now people who don’t think straightly about these seven mysteries get all confused. And what they say is, “Isn’t that wonderful? Lookie there! The gospel starts from a little seed, and then it becomes a shrub, and then the shrub becomes a great big old tree, and all the sweet little songbirds come and twitter in the branches of the gospel tree. That’s not what it’s talking about. That’s 180 degrees from what He’s talking about. Friend, these are not sweet little birds that are in the limbs of this tree. Now Jesus did not explain this parable, did you notice that? He explained the parable of the sower. He explained the parable of the tares. But He didn’t explain this parable. He expected the people to have enough understanding of the Old Testament to understand what this parable was about.

Put in your margin Daniel chapter 4, beginning in verses 20 through 22. Daniel is telling Nebuchadnezzar what his kingdom was like. Now Nebuchadnezzar was the king in Babylon. Babylon is the root of all false religion. It was begun by Nimrod, whose name means, "rebel." It began with the Tower of Babel in Genesis chapter 11. It is the seedbed of all apostate religion from that time to this. And Daniel says of Nebuchadnezzar and his kingdom—listen to this—Nebuchadnezzar had a dream, he saw a tree, and Daniel says, "The tree that thou sawest, which grew, and was strong, whose height reached unto the heaven, and the sight thereof to all the earth; whose leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was [food]"—or "meat"—"for all;"—now, watch this—"under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and upon whose branches"—look at this now—"the fowls of the heaven had their habitation: it is thou, O king, that art grown and become strong: for thy greatness is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, and thy dominion to the end of the earth" (Daniel 4:20–22). Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, is a type of Antichrist, and he typifies, this monstrous tree is typical, of the final form of apostate Christianity in the last days.

The rise of false cults and liberal churches that deny the Bible is typified by this tree. They have not taken the Lord by surprise. It is abnormal, but it is not unexpected. You say, “Well, how do you know these are not just sweet little birds?” Well, look, if you will, in verse 32 of this chapter. Verse 32 say that “the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches” (Matthew 13:32). Well, who are these birds? Well, these birds are the ones that in this same parable come and steal away the seed. Look in verses 3 and 4—chapter 13, verses 3 and 4: “And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up” (Matthew 13:3–4).

Now, remember that Daniel said that the fowls were lurking in old Nebuchadnezzar’s tree, in the Babylonian tree. Now, look, if you will—go down now to verse 19 of this same chapter: “When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart” (Matthew 13:19). The birds represent the devil, the wicked one. They don’t represent sweet little songbirds. These are the devil’s dirty birds, and they are lurking in the branches of apostate Christianity. It’s so very clear.

Let me give you another scripture here that I think will clear this up almost completely—Revelation chapter 18 and verse 2: “And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit,”—and watch it—“and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird” (Revelation 18:2)—unclean and hateful birds in Babylon. Babylon stands for false religion. God said that Nebuchadnezzar, Babylon, is like a tree, and the fowls are going to lurk in the branches, the shade, of this tree. These are the devil’s dirty birds that are in the shade of this apostate Christianity. Satan is not against religion. He uses religion to accomplish his purpose. In these parables the birds stand for that which steal away the seed; they stand for that which is apostate and that which is wrong. This tree is a monster tree. By the way, when I was finished this morning, one of our children came up and handed me a card. It has a drawing on it. And on this drawing—it’s really a work of art; you ought to see it—it has a monster with two heads, and it says—this is what one of our children handed me this morning—it says, “Two heads are not better than one. Don’t be a monster. Follow God.” That’s pretty good: “Two heads are not...” You want to see that? That’s real art, isn’t it?

All right now, this tree is a monster tree. Shrubs don’t become trees. This is an absurd development of Christianity. And what God is saying is that Babylon is for the birds—these dirty birds that lurk in the branches of apostate Christianity. You’ve got the yellow-bellied compromiser, and the liberal loon, and the cultic crow, and the blasphemous buzzard—they’re all in the branches of this tree, all over in this city—every city—and this false religion has the power of Satan behind it. Listen again: “Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.”

I heard about a boy who had finished his core curriculum in college, and he wanted to coast a little bit so he could get his diploma and get out of there, so he was looking for what I called in college—and so did you—a crip course—that is, a course where you can just coast. And he asked his friend, “What would be a good course that I could get where I wouldn’t have to do any homework, just kind of coast through?” And his friend said, “Man, you ought to take that course in bird watching,” said, “old Professor So-and-So, he’s just a dopey old man.” He said, “Well, is it a hard course?” He said, “No, we never have any tests.” He said, “What do you do?” He said, “We get binoculars and walk through the woods and look at birds. It’s incredible! He’s an easy grader. You’ll make an A in that course. You won’t have to do a thing.” The guy said, “That’s exactly what I want.”
He signed up for the course, and when he got there, lo and behold, the old professor had retired, and there was a new young professor just out of graduate school there who really took ornithology very seriously. And the guy said, “Oh, I hope I didn’t make a mistake.” But the man lectured for a little bit, and this boy was just kind of dawdling, not even taking notes, still hoping it was an easy course. And then he came in for the first test, and across the front of the entire classroom were about fifty birds from here down—just the legs; just bird legs—that’s all—from one side to the other—just bird legs. And the professor said, “Now for the test, I want you to identify the birds represented by these legs, tell of their plumage, and tell of their habitat, and their call, and their feeding habits”—just bird legs.

This boy was so disgusted. He said, “How did I ever do this?” He was so angry that he slammed his book down, threw his pencil down, and began to stalk out of the class. The professor said, “Young man, just where do you think you’re going?” He said, “I am dropping this class.” He said, “Young man, what is your name?” He pulled up the leg of his trousers and said, “You guess.”

Now what we need is a course in bird watching, and I want to give you one right now so that you can spot these dirty birds, and because the Bible says that there will be in the last days. Now, let me tell you, they’re not easily spotted, because the devil is a master of deception and a master of camouflage. And our Lord said, “Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep’s clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves” (Matthew 7:15). Now if the devil will wear wool, he’ll also wear feathers. So you need to understand.

Let me tell you what these dirty birds may do. They may use the Bible; they frequently do. Here’s a scripture—2 Peter 3, verse 16. The Bible says that, “They that are unlearned and unstable wrest [the scriptures],”—that is, they “turn” the scriptures—“as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction” (2 Peter 3:16). Just because a man says, “I believe the Bible,” doesn’t mean he’s not an apostate. They may perform miracles. Matthew 24, verse 24: “For there shall arrive false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect” (Matthew 24:24). They may appear to do good works. Matthew 7, verses 22 and 23: “Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity” (Matthew 7:22–23). They may have Sunday schools; they may have church services, radio programs, revival services, Bible conferences, magazines, books, tracts, miracle-working power, mission societies, youth activities. Counterfeits often look like the genuine thing.
How, therefore, are you going to find out whether or not these who are lurking in the branches of apostate Christianity, this monstrous tree, this herb that has become a tree—how are you going to find out whether they are genuine or whether they are one of the devil’s dirty birds? I want to give you some tests. Jot these down on a piece of paper. Let’s let them start with the letter S, each one.

A. The Source Test

First of all, the Source Test. When a person approaches you about some kind of faith, or some kind of religion, you ask that person this question: Is the Bible, God’s Holy Word, the revelation that God gave through His Word—is that the source of your information, or do you get it from some place else? Do you get it from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures? Do you get it from The Book of Mormon? Do you get it from the Koran? Or, do you get it from the Word of God? Revelation 22, verses 18 and 19: “For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book” (Revelation 22:18–19). Now, folks, I want to tell you, if they don’t come from a Bible-based ministry, you know they’re a false cult, but that’s not enough, because some will say, “Yes, we believe the Bible is the Word of God.”

B. The Savior Test

So the second test: not only the Source Test, but the Savior Test. Find out what they believe about Jesus Christ. Ask, “Do you believe that Jesus Christ is the Messiah, the Christ, the Son of God, and God the Son, co-equal and co-eternal with Almighty God?” I frequently ask Jehovah’s Witnesses this question: “Do you worship Jesus?” They say, “Oh, we venerate Jesus.” I say, “No, do you worship Jesus?” Because in the Bible it is obvious that He is worshiped. Now if they worship Him and He is not God, they’re committing idolatry. If they don’t worship Him, they’re not practicing biblical faith. You see, ask them what they believe about the Lord Jesus Christ. And don’t just think this is incidental. Second John chapter 1, verses 9 and 10: “Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son. If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed” (2 John 1:9–10).

Now that doesn’t mean you can’t bring him in your house to witness to him. To receive means, to “welcome him as a brother in Christ,” as it would mean, the counterpart, to “bid him Godspeed,” and say, “God bless you. We’re all headed to the same place. You don’t believe in the full deity of Christ, you don’t believe that Jesus Christ is the virgin-born Son of God, and God the Son, co-equal and co-eternal with God the Father, but God bless you.” Oh, no.

C. The Subject Test

You, friend, have the Source Test. And then, you have the Savior Test. And then, you have the Subject Test. Find out, “Is your primary task preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ?” And, by the way, if some of you get on a pulpit committee sometime, and it is your privilege and your responsibility—and it is an awesome responsibility—to help find a pastor for a church, don’t be so silly as to ask him, “Do you preach the gospel?” What do you think he’ll say? I don’t care who he is, he’ll say, “Well, sure, I preach the gospel.” You ask him to tell you what the gospel is, and then ask him if he preaches the gospel. Find out if he understands what the true gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ is. Now Galatians 1, verses 8 and 9—Paul said, “But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now again, if any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed” (Galatians 1:8–9).

D. The Salvation Test

So there is the Source Test, the Savior Test, and the Subject Test. Is the subject the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ? Next, the Salvation Test. Now we’re talking about spiritual bird watching right now. Does that individual, does that group of people, do they believe in salvation by grace through faith in the shed blood of Jesus Christ and His atoning work on Calvary as the only basis for the forgiveness of sins? Now it’s not the blood of Jesus plus anything; it is not faith plus works. It is faith in the Lord Jesus Christ: the finished, the atoning, work of Calvary. Before we’re finished with the Book of Romans, I pray that you will have this so riveted upon your consciousness, what salvation is. Salvation is trusting the Lord Jesus as your Lord and Savior, receiving the gift of God—not any achievement. Ask this individual, “Are you depending on any achievement of your own for your salvation, or are you trusting exclusively in the grace of God?” The Salvation Test.

E. The Sanctification Test

The last test is the Sanctification Test. Is this individual living a righteous and a holy life? Do they teach purity? Do they teach "holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord" (Hebrews 12:14)? Do you preach and teach and live in accordance with the standard of holiness?
Now if a person can pass these tests, in my estimation, you can say, “I have a brother, a sister, in the Lord Jesus Christ.”

Conclusion

Now, let’s just wrap it all up. The sacred sower is the Son of Man, the Lord Jesus. And I can tell you, friend, the One who plants the good seed is going to reap the harvest. You can be sure there will be a harvest. You can be sure that the Lord is going to build His church. And then, the seed, the small seed, is the truth of God’s Word. It may be small, but it is strong, and it has a secret: it pulsates with life, and it will reproduce and reproduce and reproduce. The shrub represents not a great lofty tree, but the true Church of the Lord Jesus Christ that can reproduce over and over again. It does not put its roots down deep, because, “This world is not our home; we’re just passing through.” The tree—the tree—represents apostate Christianity. Daniel 4 teaches us that. Revelation 18 teaches us that. The very parable itself teaches us that these dirty birds that have been stealing away the seed come and find haven and rest in the branches of this tree.

Now, what does that mean to us? Let me just wrap it up. What does it mean to you personally?

Number one, it means a word of warning—a word of warning. Don’t get carried away by some false cult, some apostate Christianity. I’m amazed at how many people who were once in Bible-believing churches and are drawn aside because they do not have the ability to be a spiritual bird watcher. They don’t understand when our Lord said over and over again, “Beware of false prophets.”

It’s also a word of comfort. Friend, we don’t have anything to fear from the cults. We don’t have anything to fear from apostate Christianity as such. Truth is stronger than error. “Greater is he that is in [us], than he that is in the world” (1 John 4:4). But now, listen to me. We have everything to fear from our own missionary apathy, or lethargy, and ignorance of spiritual truth. That’s what we need to fear. Every now and then, somebody will say, “Oh, such-and-such a cult and such-and-such a thing is building a church, or a center, or a temple, or a mosque in our neighborhood! Oh, oh, oh!” but they haven’t evangelized, they haven’t taught, they haven’t witnessed. We don’t have anything to fear from them. What we must fear is our own lethargy and apathy and failure to preach the glorious gospel of Jesus Christ. Friend, we ought to be like Alexander the Great and say, “We’ve got a bag full of seed, and, Satan, you’re the one that ought to be afraid.”

Introduction

Now, if you have been here for a while, you know that we have been in a series of sermons in Matthew chapter 13. They’re parables, and you will remember that a parable is an earthly story that has a heavenly meaning. The word parable means “to lay alongside of.” And so, our Lord tells a lesson or a story in the physical, material world, and then He lays alongside of it a spiritual truth. Now, as we have already introduced this series of sermons, Jesus calls these spiritual truths “the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven,” and therefore we’re titling this entire series of sermons “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” We all love a mystery story, but now, in the Bible, a mystery is a spiritual truth that you could only know by divine revelation. It’s something that you couldn’t just figure out no matter how intelligent you are. It is something that God would have to reveal to you or you would never know it. And so, these things are so important that we understand them.

And today, we’re dealing with the lesson of the leaven. The sermon title that I’m going with tonight: “The Devil’s Bakery.” And I want you to see what happens here in this strange mystery that we’re looking at here in Matthew chapter 13 and verse 33:

>“Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.”

(Matthew 13:33) Now, that’s a mighty short text. But I’ll tell you the truth: you’re going to have to pray for me that I can get the message that I have on my heart unloaded in the time that we have because there’s so much truth in this one verse.

Now, let me say that I suppose that, of all of these parables, this one in verse 33 is misinterpreted more than all of the others. It is the most misunderstood, more than all of the others. Now, let me tell you what the normal interpretation is that people give, that I say is the normal interpretation but the wrong interpretation. And I believe that by the time we’re finished, you’re going to see that it is the wrong interpretation. Most people know what leaven is; and of course you know what leaven is—that’s yeast. That’s what the ladies put in bread to make it rise—and those biscuits. Who was it? Dr. Lee used to talk about those biscuits, those big ones, where the first bite was a half moon and the second bite was a total eclipse. That’s the kind of things that ladies know how to do with yeast to make those good tasting things. And yeast put in bread causes it to rise, and it just permeates all that lump of dough, and so forth.

And so, they say, “Well, the teaching here is quite obvious. They say that the woman is the Church; the leaven is the gospel; the three measures of meal, the world; and if the Church just presented the gospel, before long, the entire world would be Christianized. Oh, how wonderful that’s going to be! How beautiful that’s going to be! What a glorious age it will be where everybody and everything will just be under the sway of the gospel!” That sounds so beautiful, but, my friends, that is not the interpretation of this parable. And if you believe that it’s the interpretation of this parable, you’re going to be in for a long hard ride and will probably get so discouraged that you give up Christianity altogether.

Now, let me tell you, that’s the wrong interpretation for two reasons. Number one: when you read the Bible and understand the Bible, you understand that the Bible doesn’t teach that the world gets better and better and better. It’s going to get worse and worse and worse until Jesus comes. You read the twenty-fourth chapter of Matthew, for example. Don’t read it now, but our Lord talks of wars and rumors of wars, and men’s hearts filled with hate, and false prophets deceiving many. And then, you read where Paul told young Timothy, “In the last days perilous times shall come.” (2 Timothy 3:1) And then, he talked about all of these perils that we would face in the last days, and he talked about people “having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof.” (2 Timothy 3:5) No, I'd be very discouraged if I thought that the interpretation of this parable is that the gospel, like leaven, is going to permeate the whole world. It’s a wrong interpretation, number one, because the Bible doesn’t teach it.

It’s a wrong interpretation, number two, because experience has not taught it. Amen? You look around—or just read any newspaper; just see what it happening: war, crime, venereal disease, hate, false cults, disappointment, heartache—all of these things! No, we’re not headed for a golden age, not in this age. No, no, no! So, that isn’t what this parable teaches. I’m glad today that we don’t have to believe it that way because if we had to believe it that way, I, for one, would be mighty discouraged.

Now, there are three basic things that stand out in this verse. Here’s a lady who’s baking a loaf of bread. She has three measures of meal. So, first of all, I want you to notice the loaf. And then, I want you to notice the leaven. And then, I want you to notice the lady. And after we look at these three things, I believe we’ll have some kind of an understanding of what our Lord was talking about in this strange mystery of the kingdom of heaven, and we will understand something about Satan’s bakeshop this morning.

I. The Loaf
First of all, what does the loaf represent? Here we read in verse 33 about three measures of meal; that is, three measures of flour that you use to bake with. What is the significance of three measures of meal? What does it stand for? Well, let me just tell you, first of all, something that will help to understand what it stands for. Let the Bible interpret itself.

Now remember, the people to whom Jesus was speaking were familiar with the Old Testament. And the first time you find three measures of meal mentioned, you’ll find it there in Genesis chapter 18 and verse 6. And in Genesis chapter 18, verse 6, Abraham, the father of the faithful, had a visitor from heaven. And when the angel of Jehovah came to speak with Abraham and to make a covenant with Abraham, we read in Genesis chapter 18, verse 6 that Sarah took three measures of meal and made some food for them, a loaf of bread for them to eat. (Genesis 18:6)

Then, later on in the Bible, you’re going to find about how Gideon, who was that man of valor that God used to deliver Israel from the Midianites, how he had an angel guest; and Gideon’s angel guest came down, and we read in Judges chapter 6 and verse 19 how Gideon prepared a meal for them to share, Gideon and the angel of the Lord, from three measures of meal. (Judges 6:19) There I believe it is called an ephah, which, if you go back to your charts and measurements in your Bible, you’ll find out that an ephah is made of three measures.

All right. Then again, as you read on down through the Bible, you’ll find out that Hannah, who wanted God to bless her with a son and who was a godly woman, went out to worship the Lord, and as she went out to worship the Lord, Hannah, in 1 Samuel chapter 1 and verse 24, brought an offering to the Lord—again, an ephah, or three measures of meal. (1 Samuel 1:24) And Bible scholars tell us that in the Levitical offerings there was a certain offering called the “meat offering,” which literally means the “meal offering,” and that it consisted of three measures of meal—three measures.

Now, therefore, what does all of that represent? You see, from time immemorial, the breaking of bread together, the sitting down to a meal together, has always been symbolic of the most intimate of fellowship—breaking bread together. And so, three measures of meal, as we find it here in the Bible, symbolizes the fellowship of God with His people—the people with God and the people with one another. And that, ladies and gentlemen, is what all true spirituality is all about: fellowship with God, and because of that, fellowship with one another. It’s summed up in 1 John chapter 1, verse 3: “That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.” (1 John 1:3) And so, this—this three measures of meal, this loaf of bread—is symbolic of the people of God and God in His people.

Now, in case you have any doubt about that, I think that we could let the New Testament speak. Turn, for example, to 1 Corinthians chapter 10 and verse 17. Paul picked up this. Paul understood this Old Testament terminology, and Paul said in 1 Corinthians chapter 10, verse 17, speaking of the Church, “For we being many are one bread”—that is, one loaf of bread—“and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread.” (1 Corinthians 10:17) That is, Jesus Christ is the bread that we all feed on, and we ourselves have been baked into one great big loaf of bread.

Do you know how a lot of grains become bread? Well, you see, first of all, that grain of wheat goes into the ground and it dies. And then, it sprouts and brings forth more wheat. That wheat is harvested, that wheat is ground, that wheat is baked, and there’s a loaf of bread. What are God’s people? God’s people are those who have died to themselves, who have been broken, and who have been through the fires of judgment and tribulation, who have become one loaf, where we’re all equal. There’s no upper crust; we’re just a lot of crumbs held together by the Spirit of God. We are that one loaf. Now, that’s the symbolism that Paul gives. And as you trace the idea of three measures down through the Bible, you’ll find out that it symbolizes worship and fellowship with God. So, I think that much is fairly easy to understand.

II. The Leaven
The loaf, we understand that. But now, let’s move on to the next point: the leaven. And remember now that leaven is yeast, that which causes bread to rise, and so forth. What does that symbolize? Well, dear friend, it may make things taste good, and you may like those biscuits and that light bread; but in this passage, and in all of the Bible, leaven is invariably—listen to me now—a symbol of evil and sin, and something bad, and something malevolent, and something wicked, and something that corrupts.

Do you remember there in Exodus chapter 12 where the Jews were celebrating the Feast of the Passover? And the Lord told them to celebrate this feast. And they still celebrate Passover today. And the Bible says that they were to take the Feast of Passover with what kind of bread? Exodus 12, verse 8—you know, don’t you? Unleavened bread. (Exodus 12:8) And do you know what in the orthodox home they do when they’re keeping Passover today? And Jews have done it from time immemorial. They'll go through the house, and they'll cast out all of the leaven. They'll just look for leaven. And they'll go through, and in the more orthodox houses they'll take a broom and sweep the house. And they’ll take a feather, and they’ll dust all of the crevices. And they’ll take a cloth, and they'll wipe out all of the cabinets and move everything. And they don’t want even a speck of leaven in the house because it’s the Feast of Unleavened Bread. And they get all of the leaven out of the house because leaven, in the Bible, is symbolic of evil. I’m going to tell you why in just a moment.

Incidentally, ladies, many people believe that this is where the idea of spring housecleaning started—you see, Passover is in the springtime—as they would go through the house and sweep the house and look for even a speck of leaven. And then, you read over there in Leviticus chapter 2, verses 4 through 5, where the meat offering, which is really the meal offering—meat, in the Bible, doesn't mean “flesh,” necessarily; it just means “food”—this was a grain offering, and you read, again, that it was to be kept with unleavened bread.

I think we ought to just turn to that for just a moment. Let’s look in Leviticus chapter 2 while we’re there and let you pick up the sense of this as we read it—verse 4: “And if thou bring an oblation of a meat offering baken in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers anointed with oil.” (Leviticus 2:4) No leaven, because leaven is a symbol of sin; but oil, because oil is symbolic and emblematic of the Holy Spirit of God. And so, leaven is yeast, and that causes fermentation; and fermentation is literally corruption. It speaks of that which corrupts and that which puffs up. You know, when leaven starts to work, that bread, that dough, just starts to rise, and it gets huffy and puffy and it rises and rises. Well, that may be good in bread, but it’s not very good in Christians. Christians are not supposed to be puffed up.

Let me just go on while we’re searching this out. And lick your fingers now and turn to 1 Corinthians chapter 5, and see what Paul said about the people who are puffed up—1 Corinthians chapter 5. In the church at Corinth, there was some horrible immorality. Oh, we’ll just read about it in verse 1, and you’ll see what it was: “It is reported commonly”—this is 1 Corinthians 5:1—“It is reported commonly that there is fornication among you, and such fornication as is not so much as named among the Gentiles, that one should have his father’s wife.” (1 Corinthians 5:1) Here was a man living in an incestuous relationship with his father’s wife.

Now, how do you think the church at Corinth took that? Do you think that they were brokenhearted about it? Well, look at it in verse 2: “And ye are puffed up”—I guess they were proud of their sense of tolerance. You know, they didn’t want to discriminate against anything or anybody; and, rather than mourning, they were puffed up. He says—“And ye are puffed up, and have not rather mourned.” (1 Corinthians 5:2)

But now, I want you to see this phrase “puffed up” in its proper context. Continue to read, if you will, please, in verses 6 through 8. Look: “Your glorying”—that is, your puffing—“is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?”—now, the little leaven he’s talking about is the sin that was in that church—“Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us: therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.” (1 Corinthians 5:6–8) Leaven stands for malice and wickedness. Unleavened bread stands for sincerity and truth. Don’t you see it so plain there? Don’t you see how puffed they were? Don’t you see how full of leaven they were in this particular church? And the leaven had already started to work in the church at Corinth. Leaven is symbolic of evil.

And, incidentally, I asked my wife about this yesterday. I said, “Honey, you bake a lot of bread”—and boy, she is a good bread baker—and I said, “Honey, tell me about the yeast; tell me about the leaven.” I said, “How do you do that?” And one of the things that I learned was that if you wanted to start, it works best in a lukewarm condition. Now, you let a church get lukewarm and the devil’s already got his work two-thirds done, right? It’s a culture that starts in a lukewarm condition. But it works quietly; it works insidiously. It continues to work and work and work.

And so, if you’re going to understand this parable, you’re going to have to understand, number one, that the loaf represents the fellowship of God’s people from time immemorial. We are one bread, one loaf. Paul is saying that same thing again when he says, “Purge out that old leaven.” Again, he’s using that same symbolism. The leaven is a symbol of that which is evil.

Now, let’s go on. Jesus mentioned three kinds of leaven. If you want to know what Jesus meant by leaven, well, why don’t we just continue to read the Bible. You know, somebody said, “It’s amazing how much light the Bible will throw on those commentaries.” And that is the truth.
Friend, let’s turn to Matthew 16. Now remember, we’ve just been in Matthew 13. It’s inconceivable to me how some people can say that the leaven represents the gospel, but I would say that seven out of ten commentaries say that it does. Maybe eight out of ten will say that the leaven represents the gospel, when it doesn’t. It represents sin and evil and wickedness that our Lord warns us against. Look in Matthew chapter 16 now, just a few chapters later, same book, and look in verse 6: “Then Jesus said unto them, Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6) Now, Jesus said leaven is something that you’re to be afraid of. “Take heed…beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of [the leaven] of the Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6) A little bit later I’m going to show you in the book of Mark where He said, “Beware of…the leaven of Herod.” (Mark 8:15) There are three kinds of leaven that Jesus said to beware of, and I want to mention them.

A. The Leaven of the Pharisees: Legalism
The leaven of the Pharisees was legalism. Do you want me to tell you what a Pharisee was like? Well, just keep on turning. Now, go to Matthew chapter 23 and let’s just see what a Pharisee was like.

1. They Were Gatekeepers
Well, you have to feel sorry for these Pharisees. Look in verse 13: “But woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men: for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in.” (Matthew 23:13) So, they weren’t saved people. They weren’t in the kingdom. They call themselves the gatekeepers, but they didn’t go in; and they wouldn’t let other people go in.

2. They Were Stumbling Blocks
Now, rather than being gatekeepers, they were stumbling blocks; and oh, they loved to pray. Look in verse 14: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye devour widows’ houses, and for a pretence make long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater condemnation.” (Matthew 23:14) Now, isn’t that strange? They were intercessors who were extortioners. Same verse. They devoured widows’ houses, and they made long prayers. Oh, they would stand up in church and on Saturday—they met on Saturday—make a long prayer; and then on Sunday—which would be Monday to us—they’d be out striking up a dirty deal and doing some poor widow out of her money. Oh, Jesus knew about these Pharisees.

3. They Were Soul Winners
And then, notice again, they were soul winners. Oh, they always showed up for visitation, but they were soul winners who corrupted people rather than brought them to Jesus. Look in verse 15 of this same chapter: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte”—boy, on the night of visitation, if they came to the sea, that didn’t stop them; they’d get in the boat and go to the other side to make one visitor—“and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves.” (Matthew 23:15) Every person they won they didn’t win for heaven; they won him for hell. They were evangelistic, but they were the devil’s evangelists. They would make someone else a cold, bitter, hard, bitter Pharisee. And if you’ve ever tried to win a Pharisee to Jesus, you’ll know that’s the hardest thing to do.

4. They Were Hypocrites

Well, let’s go on. I don’t have time to go into all of these things. I think we’ll pick up the real sense of a Pharisee if you’ll go to verse 25: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye make clean the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full of extortion and excess”—now, if you’re going to wash a cup, it’s good to wash it within and without. But if you only have a choice to do one of the two, it’s far better to wash the inside than the outside because you drink out of the inside—“Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first that which is within the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be clean also. Woe unto you scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whitened sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men’s bones, and of all uncleanness. Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.” (Matthew 23:25–28)

You know, the Jews didn’t want to touch anything dead, lest they become unclean, so one way that they would keep from walking on a grave by mistake is they had whitewash, and they’d just whitewash these tombs. And they would glisten in the sun, and they were beautiful. I’ve seen them even now in the Middle East, these whitewashed tombs. But if you just scrape back the whitewash and go on the inside—rottenness and dead men’s bones. Jesus said, “That’s what you Pharisees are like. You’re like a cup that’s been washed on the outside, dirty on the inside. You’re like whitewashed sepulchers. Your religion is all external. You don’t have the real thing on the inside.” That’s what legalism is. It is profession without possession. It is laws without life. It is living by rules that are outward rather than righteousness that is inward. These Pharisees had heads full of scripture and hearts full of sin. They knew the words, but they didn’t know the music. They had never been born again. And that, my friend, is legalism. And oh, how hard legalism is to deal with!

People who are bitter, hard—Pharisees. Remember, the Pharisees were the ones who helped to crucify the Lord Jesus Christ. What a self-righteous bunch they were! Why, they even paid tithe of mint, anise, and cummin. Look, if you will here, in chapter 23, verse 23, I believe. I think it’s a good time to preach a little sermon here on the tithe, and let’s just slip this one in while we’re in the neighborhood. All right, look: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and —listen. Let me tell you how punctilious they were, how rigid they were, how careful they were to keep even the most meticulous laws. Have you ever had a little mint plant out by your backdoor? We used to have one. Joyce would go out there and pick the leaves off and put them in the iced tea. Well, they had them back in this day, a little mint plant. And so, they’d go in there: “One leaf—that’s for me; two leaves—that’s for me; three leaves for me; four, five, six, seven, eight, nine; nine for me—one for God.” That’s really tithing, isn’t it? I mean, that’s narrowing it down. Every tenth leaf they gave to God, even their little garden herbs. But He said—“[you] have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith”—they didn’t know anything about this. It was all external. It was not internal. They didn’t know anything about justice, mercy, faith, these things. Jesus said—“these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.” (Matthew 23:23)

Jesus never said they ought not to tithe. He commended them for tithing, and He commends you for tithing. Every Christian ought to tithe. Say “amen.” Say it louder. Amen, good. All right, every Christian ought to tithe. “These ought ye to have done.” (Matthew 23:23) You know what? Somebody said this about tithing: “Abraham commenced it. Jacob continued it. Moses commanded it. Jesus commended it. Who am I to cancel it?” You see. But the problem wasn’t that they tithed; their problem was that they thought that they could get remission of their sins for a dime out of a dollar. And you can’t do it. You can’t buy your way to heaven; you can’t work your way to heaven. You can’t keep enough rules, you can’t keep enough laws, to make you a child of God. You’ve got to repent of your sin and receive a new nature. You’ve got to be born again.

God pity the legalist! The world is full of legalists. It is a leaven that has corrupted the church of the Lord God, people who are trying to work their way to heaven. Most of the people in America are egomaniacs strutting their way to hell, thinking they’re too good to be damned. Jesus said to these scribes and Pharisees, He said, “Ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?” (Matthew 23:33)

B. The Leaven of the Sadducees: Liberalism

So, that’s one kind of leaven Jesus warned about—Matthew chapter 16, verse 6: “Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees.” (Matthew 16:6) Then He also said, “Beware of the leaven…of the Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6)

Now, who were the Sadducees? Well, they were another political party. And what did a Sadducee believe? Well, if the Pharisee was a legalist, and Phariseeism stands for the leaven of legalism, the Sadducee stands for the leaven of liberalism. Now friend, the devil is very wise. On the one side, if he can’t make you a legalist, he’ll try and get you with liberalism. You see, that’s just opposite sides of the gospel road. And he doesn’t care which ditch he wrecks the gospel car in, whether it’s legalism or liberalism.
Now, you say, “Why do you say the Sadducees were liberals?” Well, I can prove it to you. And let’s just take our Bibles and see what a Sadducee was. Turn to Acts chapter 23 and verse 8—Acts chapter 23, verse 8—if you want to know what a Sadducee believed. Now remember, Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven…of the Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6) Now, here’s what Dr. Luke, who wrote the book of Acts—he gave us a little interpretation of the Sadducee, and he said, “For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, neither angel, nor spirit: but the Pharisees confess both.” (Acts 23:8)

Now, see, the Sadducees and the Pharisees were opposite, but they were both wrong. The Pharisee was a legalist. He believed in the Resurrection, he believed in angels, he believed in spirits and was lost as a goose. The Sadducee didn’t believe in the Resurrection, didn’t believe in angels, didn’t believe in spirits, and he was lost, too. One was a legalist, and the other was a liberal; but neither were children of God. And Jesus warned and said, “Beware of the leaven…of the Sadducees.” (Matthew 16:6) You see, they were the sophisticated group—no angels for them, no Resurrection for them.

And you’ll have to admit he’s done a pretty good job of permeating churches with Sadducees too, hasn’t he? We’ve got a group of preachers today, an anemic brand of preacher, who tries to explain away hell. He’s tried to remodel heaven. He’s tried to minimize sin, laugh at the ideal of the blood atonement. And he recommends culture for Calvary, and reason for revelation, and good works instead of the new birth. He’s a liberal, pure and simple. And that is the leaven of the Sadducees.

Incidentally, do you want me to tell you what makes a liberal? Do you want me to tell you why some preachers become liberals, why some seminaries go liberal? Do you want me to give you a recipe for a liberal? All right, let’s just find it right now. Turn to Matthew chapter 22—we’ve been all around those chapters—Matthew chapter 22, and look in verse 23. The Sadducees were always on Jesus’ case, always arguing with Him. “The same day came to him the Sadducees, which say that there is no resurrection, and asked him, saying, Master, Moses said, If a man die,” (Matthew 22:23) and so forth and so on. I’m not even going to read what they ask Him because I don’t have time. But they thought they had real neat little problem. They had a little conundrum. They had a little something they thought Jesus couldn’t answer. “Boy,” they said, “we’re going to catch Him with this one.” And it dealt with the Resurrection. And they had this little argument that they had that they wanted to give Jesus about the Resurrection to prove there was no Resurrection.

And I want you to notice how Jesus answered these people, and the way Jesus answered them tells me what the recipe for a liberal is. In verse 29: “Jesus answered and said unto them, Ye do err”—that is, “You make a mistake.” Why?—“not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God.” (Matthew 22:29) That’s the recipe for a liberal. You just take in a man who doesn’t understand the Bible and doesn’t know the power of God, and he’ll turn out a liberal. That’s what a liberal is. A liberal is somebody who cannot accept the Word of God and the works of God. That’s what a liberal is. He can’t just say, “God said it, and I believe it; and that settles it.” We’ve said before, if God said it, that settles it, whether you believe or not, amen? He just can’t accept that. “Ye do err, not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God.” (Matthew 22:29)

Why does a liberal have difficulty with the miracles, and crossing the Red Sea dry shod, and a whale swallowing Jonah, and all that? He just doesn’t have a great enough God, that’s all. He does not understand the power of God. No wonder he’s going to get in mistakes. That’s what makes a liberal. That’s why the Sadducees were Sadducees. And somebody said, “They don’t believe in the Resurrection. That’s why they’re so “sad,” you see. That’s what makes them that way. They just don’t understand the Word of God and the power of God.

C. The Leaven of Herod: Licentiousness

And so, Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees” (Matthew 16:6)—legalism; “Beware of the leaven…of the Sadducees” (Matthew 16:6)—liberalism. But what about “the leaven of Herod”? Look in Mark chapter 8 and verse 15. This is a third kind of leaven that Jesus told us to beware of: “And he charged them, saying, Take heed, beware of the leaven of the Pharisees”—we’ve already dealt with that—“and of the leaven of Herod.” (Mark 8:15)

Now, who was Herod? Herod was a pleasure-mad king. Herod was a profligate. He was a man who lived in worldliness and licentiousness. And if the leaven of the Pharisees is legalism, and the leaven of the Sadducees is liberalism, the leaven of Herod is licentiousness; that is, living a profligate life, not taking the things of God seriously.

And this is a leaven that has infiltrated so many churches today. America is amusing herself on to the graveyard of the nations, and churches have forgotten to weep while the world has forgotten how to blush. And Madison Avenue has put the leaven of Herod into the churches. We’ve been told by Madison Avenue that happiness is a new car, or happiness is a certain vacation trip, or happiness is wearing a certain kind of clothes, or happiness is eating a certain kind of food. We’ve been told by Madison Avenue that happiness comes from a pill, or comes out of the mouth of a bottle. That’s all the leaven of Herod. It is a materialistic, worldly spirit that has swept into the churches.

And friend, if the devil can’t get us by legalism, and if the devil can’t get us by liberalism, then he’ll try worldliness—amen?—to make us like this world, to so water us down that there is no difference. And we might be believing the same things, but we become so much like this world that the old spirit of King Herod, which is still alive today, infiltrates the world. And the devil doesn’t care how he destroys the work of God. Whether it be by legalism, whether it be by liberalism, whether it be by licentiousness; whether it be the leaven of the Pharisees, the Sadducees, or of Herod; it doesn’t make any difference to Him. But Jesus said, “Beware of that leaven.”

III. The Lady
Now, let’s move on. We’ve talked about the loaf. The loaf stands for fellowship with God and man—the people of God. We are that loaf. The leaven—a spirit of evil that works quietly, steadily, penetrating, corrupting, puffing up. All right, let’s look, thirdly, at the lady. What does the lady represent? Now ladies, don’t get mad at me now for what I’m going to tell you, but the lady represents the power of the devil.

Now, hold it. A woman in the Bible can represent that which is good or that which is evil, just like men in this story. In these other parables, some men represent good and some evil, just like the birds. Remember, the birds in these particular parables represented the power of the devil, but a bird doesn’t always have to represent the power of the devil. The Holy Spirit descended on Jesus like a dove, right? You just have to see the context in which he’s using it. In this particular passage, because of the other things that we know and the things we’re about to find out, a woman represents here the power of the devil.

You see, a woman out of place in the Bible, a woman who is connected with false religion, represents the power of the devil. The Church is called the “Bride of Christ.” So, there a woman is spoken of in the good sense. But the false church is spoken of as a harlot, the devil’s bride, you see? Now, this woman here represents the power of Satan. I want you to notice three things that this woman did. I want you to notice the act that she did here in verse 33. (Matthew 13:33)

A. It Was a Devilish Act
The first thing I want you to notice: it was a devilish act. You know, God would never do such a thing. The devil is at work. And, as I’ve said, this woman, and always symbolically in the Bible, a woman out of place religiously represents the power of Satan. It was a devilish act, therefore. The devil was at work, and the devil is at work. He’s always been at work to corrupt the work of God.

B. It Was a Deliberate Act
But a second thing I want you to notice is it was a deliberate act. Notice in verse 33, the Bible says she “took, and hid.” (Matthew 13:33) She knew what she was doing. It wasn’t that it just slipped out the shelf. It wasn’t that it just happened. Here was something that was planned.

Now, the devil has a scheme to ruin the work of God. The devil knows what he’s doing. You know, the Bible says in Ephesians chapter 6 and verse 11—it says, “Put on the whole armour God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.” (Ephesians 6:11) That word wiles is the Greek word methodeia. It’s the word we get our word methodical from, or methods, or Methodist. Now, I’m not saying the devil is a Methodist or the Methodists are devils. Now, don’t get me on that. I’m not saying that. We love our dear Methodist brethren. But why were Methodists called Methodists? Because of dear John Wesley. Boy, I wish we had a thousand, million like him. Dear John Wesley said, “God’s work ought to be done methodically; it ought to be done decently and in order,” so these people came to call themselves Methodists.

But the devil also has methods. The Bible calls them “wiles,” but it comes from this word that means “methodical.” And, you see, the devil knows what he’s doing. The devil is systematically trying to infiltrate and thereby weaken and destroy the work of God. It was a deliberate act: she took and she hid the leaven in three measures.

Now, right away, you know then she’s not representing God. Jesus said, “That which you heard in secret, declare openly.” (Mark 4:22; Luke 8:17) We’re to publish glad tidings. Jesus said, “I’ve done nothing in secret.” (John 18:20) But here is a sneaky cook. Here is woman on the sly who is putting the leaven in the bread that’s supposed to be unleavened. Remember, this meal offering was supposed to be unleavened, but with oil. Oil is a symbol of the Holy Spirit, but here in the oil, only leaven. No Spirit—only sin, only corruption, only wickedness permeating the work of God. You look around at the condition of Christendom today, and you look around at the legalism, look around at the liberalism, look around at the licentiousness, and you’ll understand the devil has done exactly what Jesus Christ said he would do. See? That’s exactly what Jesus said would happen, and that’s exactly what Jesus warned us about.

Conclusion

And so, we see the loaf. We see the leaven. We see the lady. Now, what does all of this mean to us? And I’ll be finished.

A. A Word of Warning

Well, first of all, there’s a word of warning. O God, help us to beware of legalism and liberalism and licentiousness! Amen? I don’t want that in this church. I don’t want it in my life. Jesus gave us this to show how the devil would destroy and corrupt us, if we’d allow him to. Now, what a word of warning there is! Friend, God put this in the Bible for us to read and to heed.

Now, as you deacons pray, you say, “Don’t let us become that kind of a church.” As you teachers teach, you say, “God, don’t let us become that kind of a church.” As this preacher preaches, I want to continue to cry out against these things and warn against these things. See? There’s a word of warning here.
B. A Word of Comfort

But there’s also a word a comfort here because as I said before, if I thought according to the common interpretation, which is a misinterpretation, that the leaven stands for the gospel that’s going to permeate the whole world, frankly, folks, I’d be discouraged. But I’m not discouraged. Man, I’m encouraged! I’ll tell you why I’m encouraged: because it’s working out just like Jesus said it would. And that’s an encouragement; that’s a proof to me this book is true—when in the last days perilous times do come, when in the last days there is liberalism. I’m not saying these things are good, but I am saying, ladies and gentlemen, that nothing has gotten out of hand, and nothing has taken God by surprise, and God is not walking back and forth in heaven wringing His hands, saying, “What am I going to do? What am I going to do?” God knows what He’s going to do. There is no panic in heaven, only plans. There’s a word of comfort to be had here.

And, you see, Jesus warned of dark days and perilous days and horrible days that were going to come upon the earth, days just like we have today. But then, He said, “When [all of] these things…come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh.” (Luke 21:28) And for the Christian, bad news is good news when he understands the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. A Christian can say, “Praise God, it’s getting gloriously dark,” you see, because he understands the Bible and what God is doing.†

Introduction

Would you turn, please, to Matthew chapter 13. In Matthew chapter 13, our Lord gives a series of seven parables that are “The Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” And a parable, as you know, is an earthly story, but it has a heavenly meaning. That is, you see the normal, natural meaning, and then you look beneath the surface to see the deeper meaning. Now sometimes people think that Jesus taught in parable to make it simple. He also taught in parables to make it complex; not only to reveal, but to conceal. And so He says that He did it—if you’ll notice in verse 11—He does this, “Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries”—the mysteries—“of the kingdom of heaven” (Matthew 13:11).

And, tonight, we’re going to study the parable that is in verse 33. If you will look at it, it’s a very short parable: “Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven...”—now, ladies, what is leaven? Yeast—“is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal,”—that's flour— “till the whole was leavened” (Matthew 13:33). Now this is a mystery that we're going to entitle “The Strange Case of the Sneaky Housewife.”
Now, what is all of this about? I suppose this parable, this earthly story with a heavenly meaning, is one of the most misunderstood parables of all of these seven. Now, remember that yeast, or leaven, is what you put into bread to cause bread to rise. Now the normal, usual interpretation of this parable is wrong, and it is 180 degrees from what the Bible teaches; and I’ve read it in our Baptist Sunday School literature and other places. The normal, usual interpretation of this is that the leaven is the gospel, the woman is the Church, the three measures of meal is the world; and we’re to take the gospel and put it into the world until all of the world knows about the Lord Jesus Christ, until the entire loaf has been leavened or permeated with the leaven. That is, it is our job, our duty, our joy, and our responsibility to just touch the whole world with the gospel of Jesus Christ—and one of these days that will be done.

Now that interpretation is wrong—and it is obviously wrong for these reasons. First of all, the Bible does not teach that the whole world is going to be reached with the gospel of Jesus Christ. As a matter of fact, the Bible teaches just the opposite: that in the last days there’s going to be much, much wickedness and much rebellion.

Now you’re in Matthew 13—why don’t you just fast-forward to Matthew 24 and see what the Lord Jesus says the last days are going to be like, in verse 3: “And as he sat upon the mount of Olives, the disciples came unto him privately, saying, Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world?” Now the Lord is going to look right down through the corridors of time to the end of the age. “And Jesus answered and said unto them, Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many. And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. All these are the beginning of sorrows. Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name’s sake. And then shall many be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another. And many false prophets shall rise, and shall deceive many. And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come” (Matthew 24:3–14).

Now the gospel is going to be preached around the world, but the loaf is not going to be changed, the whole thing, by the preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ. As a matter of fact, the Apostle Paul said, “In the last days perilous times shall come” (2 Timothy 3:1).
Now we know it’s wrong, because the Bible does not teach that the leaven is the gospel, and that the woman is the church, and that the three measures of meal is the world. The Bible doesn’t teach it, and experience doesn’t teach it. I mean, after 2,000 years of the preaching of the gospel, we see a tidal wave of hatred and war and violence and unbelief and false cults. Now if you don’t know your Bible, if you thought that this parable taught that ultimately that we were going to Christianize the world, you’d get discouraged; you’d say something is wrong, the Bible is not true. But our Lord doesn’t want us to be discouraged, because when we get discouraged, then we begin to doubt, and then we go into despair. But our Lord is telling us in this parable that nothing has gone wrong. This is not the normal, natural teaching.

And if you would think of the other parables that we’ve already talked about—the parable of the sower and the seed—what did our Lord clearly tell us? There’s nothing wrong with the sower, and nothing wrong with the seed; but there’s something desperately wrong with the ground, and not all the ground is going to bear fruit, not everybody’s going to believe the gospel. Or, for example, the parable of the tares, that up until the end of time the wheat will grow, and false Christianity, the seeds of the devil, the weeds, the wicked weeds, will be right in there with God’s wonderful wheat. And then, in the parable of the mustard seed—if you remember last Sunday night—that mustard seed that became a tree represents a corrupt form of Christianity; and the devil’s dirty birds are sitting, roosting in the branches of that tree. It does not teach that the gospel is going to permeate the whole world. As a matter of fact, we are a little flock. We are the faithful few, we are the Master’s minority; and we need to keep that in mind. And, you see, the gospel was never given to save civilization from wreckage; the gospel is given to save men from the wreckage of civilization. I don’t want you to have the wrong interpretation of this parable; because so many people do, and when they have it, they get confused.

Now there are three basic things in this parable that I want you to understand. If you’ll understand these, I think you’ll understand the whole thing. Now these three measures of wheat—this woman is going to bake some bread, so I want you to think first of all about the bread that is baked. And then, there’s leaven that’s put in the bread—well, actually, yeast. And so think of the bread that is baked, and think of the leaven that is latent. She puts it in there, and it begins to work. And then, think of the woman that is wicked. Now, remember, the bread that’s baked, the leaven that’s latent, and the woman that’s wicked, and you’re going to understand what our Lord is teaching us and what we can look for in these last days.
I. The Bread That Is Baked

Now, the bread that is baked. Now we’re in verse 33. What is the meaning of three measures of meal? Our Lord doesn’t give us the meaning. He explains the other parables; but He doesn’t explain this one, nor did He really explain the parable of the mustard seed. He just gave us a running start and then gave us some way, some measure, by which we might bring our minds and engage our minds to find out what the rest of these parables mean. So what is the bread that was baked? What is the meaning of three measures of meal?

Well, if you know your Old Testament history, as these Jews would have known it, immediately they would have recognized three measures of meal. Abraham, who was the father of the faithful, the brightest star in the Hebrew heavens, was one day under a place called the oaks of Mamre. I’ve visited this spot as I’ve visited the Holy Land. And there were three angels that came to visit Abraham, to talk with him; and God was going to make a covenant with Abraham; and, when Abraham realized that he had three angel guests, he said to Sarah—and take your Bibles and turn to Genesis 18 and verse 6, and see what Abraham said to Sarah—Genesis 18 and verse 6: “And Abraham hastened into the tent unto Sarah,”—now Sarah was his wife—“and said, Make ready three measures of fine meal, knead it,”—that is, you know, do what women do when they squeeze it together—“and make cakes upon the hearth” (Genesis 18:6). That is, “Sarah, we’ve got angels for our guests, and I want you to take three measures of meal, I want you to make three cakes for these.”

Now the word unleavened is not mentioned here, but just simply three measures of meal. There was, again, a man who had an angel for a guest. His name was Gideon. Turn to Judges chapter 6 and verse 19. In Judges chapter 6 and verse 19, the Bible says, Gideon, when he saw this angel, and this angel said to him, “Hail, thou mighty man of valour” (Judges 6:12). Gideon was hiding from Midianites, and when he realized that he was hosting an angel, the Bible says, “And Gideon went in, and made ready a kid, and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour” (Judges 6:19). So here is Gideon again baking bread for angels.

Now, with Abraham, it was three measures. With Gideon, it was unleavened bread. In the Old Testament, in the Levitical law, the Jews made an offering to the Lord; and the offering to the Lord was made of three measures. For example, let me give you a couple of verses here that would point that out. Numbers 15, verse 9—it speaks there of “a meat offering,” and the word meat does not mean, “flesh,” but it means, “food”—“a [food] offering of three tenth deals of flour mingled with half an hin of oil” (Numbers 15:9). Oil is an emblem of the Holy Spirit. But they take three measures to offer to the Lord, and these three measures that are to be offered to the Lord are unleavened bread. Put also Leviticus chapter 2, verses 4 and 5: “And if thou bring an oblation of meat offering baked in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil” (Leviticus 2:4–5).

Now, what are we getting here? We’re getting that this, this blessed bread, is something to satisfy the heart, the mind, of God. And when Jesus is talking to these Jews about three measures of meal, immediately they would go back to Abraham as he entertained guests from heaven. They would go back to the meal offering that is in the Old Testament that is three measures of meal. And I think Jesus picked this same thing up when in the New Testament—remember the parable of the man that had a visitor that came at nighttime, and he didn’t have anything to set before him, and so he went next door to his friend and said, “Friend, lend me”—what?—“three loaves. I need three loaves of bread, because I have a guest that’s set before me” (Luke 11:5–6). And what did those three loaves of bread represent? They represented the Holy Spirit. He says later on in that same parable, “If you, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall God give the Holy Ghost to them that ask him?” (Luke 11:13).

So the idea of this bread is this bread is blessed bread. This bread represents that which satisfies the heart and mind of God. And what it really speaks of is communion and fellowship with God and man, because the breaking of bread, unleavened bread, has been an emblem of fellowship with God from the Passover Feast right on down to the Lord’s Supper.

And when we get to the Lord’s Supper, put this verse down—1 Corinthians chapter 10, verse 17—here’s what the Bible says of all of us: “For we being many are one bread...”—he’s talking about us. We’re many, but we’re—“one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread” (1 Corinthians 10:17). We feast on that bread, and we are that bread. We feast on Him, and He feasts on us. It speaks of communion, whether it be angel food, or whether it be us as that which is consumed by heaven. How is bread made? Remember, in the parable of the wheat and the tares, the wheat is what? The children of God, the good seed. Well, what is bread? It’s just wheat. It’s wheat that has gone through death; it is wheat that has gone through brokenness; it is wheat that has gone through fire; and it is wheat that has been mingled together with every other grain of wheat until it makes one loaf. That’s what we are tonight. We’re one loaf. We’re God’s wheat. We’re God’s seed. We have been harvested. We’ve died. We’ve been crushed. We’ve been broken. We’ve been through the fire. We’re fused together. We’re one loaf.

So think, first of all, about the three measures, and just put in your mind bread that is baked, blessed bread. It pictures the Church. It pictures fellowship with God. It pictures communion with God, in so many symbols.
II. The Leaven That Is Latent

Now, let’s move to the second thing here in verse 33. There’s the bread that is baked—three measures. There is also the leaven that is latent. Now it is hidden there. This sneaky housewife comes into the kitchen, and she just slips in. The Bible says she hides leaven in these three measures. Now leaven, in the Bible, is not a symbol of that which is good; leaven is a symbol, in the Bible, of that which is evil. It stands for evil, that which is hidden, that which is latent, that which works slowly, that which works surely. You see, leaven works quietly; it’s undetected. It’s symbolic of evil. What leaven really does, what yeast really does, it causes fermentation, it causes corruption, it causes things to swell up, things to puff up; and therefore it’s a symbol of evil. And, by the way, it works best in lukewarm conditions. That’s what leaven is.

The ordinary hearer of Jesus, when he heard Jesus talking about three measures of meal, he would think about Abraham’s offering; he would think about the meal offering in the Old Testament. When the ordinary hearer heard Jesus talk about leaven, he would think of that which is evil and that which corrupts. Why? Because they knew about the Passover. And how was the Passover to be taken? Put in your margin Exodus 12 and verse 8: “And they shall eat flesh in that night, roast with fire, and unleavened bread” (Exodus 12:8). The Passover Feast was to be with unleavened bread. Why? Because leaven is an emblem, a symbol, of evil. As a matter of fact, from that time on, the Jews began to go through a ritual before they would have the Passover Feast. The mother would go through the house and remove every bit of leaven from the house. She would go into the cabinets and look in the crannies of the kitchen cabinets and anywhere in the utensils before the Passover would be kept, and take away any leaven. As a matter of fact, the little Jewish children, as a part of the ceremony, would get a feather and a dustbin to go through the house to try to find some leaven, to get the leaven out of the house, because they were going to keep the Passover. Now, remember again that the meal offering in the Old Testament was to be without leaven—Leviticus 2, verses 4 and 5: “And if thou bring an oblation of meat offering baken in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour” (Leviticus 2:4).

Now you might understand, with this in mind, why the Apostle Paul was speaking to a very worldly church, the church at Corinth. They had allowed sin in the church, and they were kind of proud about the fact that they were one of these kinds of open-minded churches. And they were glorying in that fact—glorying in that fact—and here’s what Paul said, in 1 Corinthians chapter 5, verses 6 to 8. He said to these carnal Corinthians, “Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump? Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us: therefore let us keep the feast,”—he’s talking to Christians now—“not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth” (1 Corinthians 5:6–8). Unleavened bread stands for sincerity and truth; leavened bread speaks of malice and wickedness. And that helps us to understand 1 Corinthians chapter 5 and verse 2, when he says, “You’re puffed up, and have not rather mourned” (1 Corinthians 5:2). What does leaven do? It just puffs you up. You see, Jesus humbles us. Sin puffs us up. And so a little sin had puffed them up.

Now I want to say that I personally believe that, every time leaven is used in the Bible, it is used as an emblem of sin. Now some say, “Oh, no, there are one or two incidences where leaven is not spoken of as that which is evil.” And the classic one—and I want to give you this just for your information if you’re a Sunday School teacher—is Amos 4, verses 4 and 5, where it seems like leaven is an emblem of that which is good. But be careful. Looking at this text will show just the opposite. Here’s what Amos says: “Come to Bethel, and transgress; at Gilgal multiply transgression; and bring your sacrifices every morning, and your tithes after three years: and offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven, and proclaim and publish the free offerings: for this liketh you, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord GOD” (Amos 4:4–5). And they say, “There it is, pastor: ‘offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven.’”

Friend, this is bitter irony; this is bitter sarcasm. He’s not praising them for offering a sacrifice with leaven. Listen to it. Listen to what he’s saying. He’s saying to these worldly people who were trying to have one foot in the world and the other in the service of God, “Come to Bethel, and transgress.” Now Bethel was where the house of the Lord was. He says, “You come there, but you’ve sinned; at Gilgal, multiplied transgressions. Bring your sacrifices every morning, and your tithe after three years, and offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven.” He’s saying all of that is sin: “You’re hypocrites!” He’s not saying that’s good; he’s saying, “You’re transgressing! You’re sinning! Your worship is corrupt!” That’s what he’s saying. When you understand this text, folks, the bread that is baked is blessed bread, but the leaven that is latent is that which corrupts that which is good and wonderful, and that which is holy.

Now Jesus warned against leaven. If you want to understand what Jesus thought about leaven, Jesus warned about three kinds of leaven. Now you’re in Matthew 13—just turn over to Matthew 16 for a moment, and look, if you will, in verse 11—Matthew 16. This is a key verse, so I’ll wait for you to turn to it. Jesus said to them, “How is it that ye do not understand that I spake it not to you concerning bread, that ye should beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees?” (Matthew 16:11). Now He’s saying, “It’s not just literal bread that I’m talking about. There is leaven. Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees.”
Now I want us to think about leaven. Actually, Jesus warned about three types of leaven.

A. The Leaven of the Pharisees

He warned about the leaven of the Pharisees. Who were the Pharisees? Well, the Pharisees were very religious people. They had heads full of Scripture, but they had hearts full of sin. Their religion was external, not internal. They had profession, but they didn’t have possession. They had laws, but they didn’t have life. Now you’re in Matthew 16—just turn to Matthew 23, and see how Jesus describes these Pharisees. And you have to ask yourself is there some Phariseeism in you. Look, if you will, in Matthew chapter 23, verse 13. Look at it: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men: for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in” (Matthew 23:13). In verse 13, they pretend to be gatekeepers, but what they really are is roadblocks. And then, look in verse 14—they pretend to be intercessors, but they are extortionists: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye devour widows’ houses, and for a pretence make long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater damnation” (Matthew 23:14)—or “greater condemnation.” Look, if you will, in verse 15. They pretend to be converters, but they’re really corrupters: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves” (Matthew 23:15).

Every one of their converts is doubly damned. And why is this? Because the legalist who’s never been born again, the religionist, doesn’t think he needs Jesus. The hardest people to win are self-righteous Pharisees. Look, if you will, in verses 16 and 17—they pretend to be guides, but they’re blind: “Woe unto you, ye blind guides, which say, Whosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the gold of the temple, he is a debtor.” Do you see how carefully they use their words? Remind you of anyone? “Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gold, or the temple that sanctifieth the gold?” (Matthew 23:16–17). They claim to be guides, but they were blind. They pretend to be givers, but they were takers. Look, if you will, in verses 23 and 24. The Bible says, “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint and anis and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone” (Matthew 23:23–24). They were selfish and self-centered, devouring widows’ houses, and yet they were so careful to tithe. Look in verses 25 through 28—they pretend to cleanse, but they themselves were filthy: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye make clean the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full of extortion and excess. Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first that which is within the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be clean also. Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres,”—that is, graves; they would whitewash their graves lest they touch them, back in that time. He says, “You’re like a whitened”—a whitewashed—“tomb”—“which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men’s bones, and of all uncleanness.” They pretend to cleanse, but they themselves. Look in verse 28: “Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity” (Matthew 23:25–28). They pretended to cleanse, but they were filthy. They pretended to be mourners, but they were murderers. Look, if you will, in verses 29 through 32: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous, and say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets. Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that ye are the children of them which killed the prophets. Fill ye up then the measure of your fathers” (Matthew 23:29–32).

B. The Leaven of the Sadducees

Now we could spend a month here just talking about what Phariseeism is; but I’m trying to give you some idea of what leaven is. Jesus said, “Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees.” What was the leaven of the Pharisees? It was legalism. But Jesus also said—go back to Matthew 16, verse 11—Jesus also said, “Beware of the leaven of the Sadducees.” Now if the leaven of the Pharisees was legalism, the leaven of the Sadducees was liberalism. May I tell you that liberalism and legalism are heads and tails of the same false religion. The Sadducees were liberals. Put this in your margin—Acts 23, verse 8: “For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, neither angel, nor spirit: but the Pharisees confess both” (Acts 23:8). Now the Pharisees were the fundamentalists, and the Sadducees were the liberals; but neither one of them had the true Spirit of God in their hearts. The Sadducees said, “We don’t believe in angels, we don’t believe in spirits, and we sure don’t believe in the Resurrection.” They were the sophisticated crowd. And Jesus said, “Beware of that,” because not only is legalism going to penetrate God’s loaf—remember the church is the loaf, the bread—not only is legalism going to penetrate the loaf like leaven, but also liberalism.

I don’t know which I’m more afraid of: liberalism or legalism? Both are deadly. By the way, you want me to give you a recipe for a liberal? You know what a liberal is? I’m talking about a theological liberal. We’re in the Book of Matthew—go to Matthew 22, and look, if you will, in verse 23: “The same day there came to him the Sadducees, which say that there is no resurrection, and asked him, saying, Master, Moses said, If a man die, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother. Now there were with us seven brethren: and the first, when he had married a wife, deceased, and, having no issue, left his wife to his brother: likewise the second also, and the third, unto the seventh. And last of all the women died also. Therefore in the resurrection whose wife shall she be of the seven? for they all had her.” And, by the way, I don’t think I’d want to be married to her. It would be dangerous. Now, watch this: “Jesus answered and said unto them,”—here’s what makes a liberal, right here; watch it—“Ye do err,”—that is, “You do make a mistake”—“not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God” (Matthew 22:23–29). That’s the recipe for a liberal right there. What was wrong with these Sadducees? They did not understand the works and the Word of God. And Jesus said, “Beware of legalism. Beware of liberalism.”

C. The Leaven of Herod

Now there’s another kind of leaven that Jesus said to beware of, and you find that in Mark chapter 8 and verse 15: “And he charged them, saying, Take heed, beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod” (Mark 8:15). Now, what was the leaven of Herod? The leaven of the Pharisees was what? That was legalism. The leaven of the Sadducees was what? That was liberalism. And the leaven of Herod was licentiousness, or license. You see, Herod was a pleasure-mad king. He lived in opulence. He really didn’t care much for legalism or liberalism; he just simply cared for himself. He was living in pleasure. He was a lover of pleasure more than a lover of God (2 Timothy 3:4).

Now I want to ask you a question. Has not the devil today injected those three things into the church? Legalism, liberalism, and license—has he not? Those are the things that Jesus said beware of—beware of. And when He said there was a woman who hid leaven—yeast—in three measures of meal, He went on in His further teaching, so there would be no misunderstanding, to teach them what leaven stood for. Remember that Paul said, “Purge out the leaven; get it out of the church. A little leaven will leaven the whole lump” (1 Corinthians 5:6–7).

III. The Woman That Is Wicked

So let’s move on to the final and third thing now, as we’re coming in to the home stretch. We think about the bread that’s baked. That represents fellowship with God and man. We are that loaf; we keep the feast with unleavened bread. Then, we think about the leaven that is latent. It comes in; it works quietly, stealthily; and it begins to infuse the whole thing, and puff it up. And, today, rather than being unleavened, we have the church in modern society that is full of legalism, liberalism, and license. Now, here’s the third thing, and let’s talk about the woman that is wicked. Here was a woman that hid in three measures of meal leaven. Now she represents devilish deception.

Now you say, “Why is that?”
A. A Deliberate Act

Well, first of all, notice what she did. It was a deliberate act. Look, if you will, in verse 33—go back, if you will, to Matthew 13, and look in verse 33, if you will, and see this. It’s not done accidentally. He said, “The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid three in measures of meal” (Matthew 13:33). That is, she knows exactly what she is doing. She took it. She’s not doing it by chance. This woman who’s doing this dastardly act does it of her own volition. It is a deliberate act. And may I say that Satan knows what he is doing. Satan is out to sabotage the work of God.

B. A Deceitful Act

But, not only was it a deliberate act; it was a deceitful act. Notice it said she hid it. She’s not doing this openly. This is something that is done stealthily. Now Jesus said, “I’ve done nothing in secret” (John 18:20). And we’re not out to hide the gospel. Don’t try to make this leaven the gospel, and the three loaves the world. We’re not out to hide the gospel. We’re out to make the gospel known; we’re out to shout it from the rooftops. But it is Satan working beneath the surface. He is the master of deception.

C. A Devilish Act

And so it is a deliberate act: she took it. It is a deceitful act. And because it was deliberate, and deceitful, it was a devilish act. It doesn’t take much to see the power of Satan behind all of this, putting that leaven in that which is to be unleavened.

Now you say, “Pastor, why was this a woman?” Well, because the Church, the bride of Christ, is called a woman. We are the Church; we are the bride of Christ. Now all you ladies that are sick and tired of all the male references in the Bible, the most classic and grand reference to mankind, and the most ennobling, is that we’re all a bride. So you’re having your day right now. I’m going to tell you, ladies, the Church is a bride, and the Bible speaks of the Church as the bride of Christ. But what does the Bible speak of the false church as being? A harlot—a harlot. Whenever you see a woman doing something wrong, something wicked, in the Bible, that speaks of that which is wicked and deleterious and harmful and hurtful. As over in the Book of the Revelation: “Thou sufferest that woman Jezebel...to teach and to seduce my servants to [do things that are evil]” (Revelation 2:20). You see, this woman, this woman in the kitchen, this sneaky housewife, is the bride of the devil. She represents the false church, not the true Church. She is representing Satan’s work in these last days to infiltrate the Church of the Lord God with legalism, liberalism, and license. Therefore, friend, you listening on radio, before you go to church to worship, it would be good to check out the kitchen, be good to see who’s in the kitchen. Don’t go by the taste test alone. Read the ingredients, and see what is there, because the devil wants to infiltrate—and he does it many ways.

Now the devil doesn’t have just one way to work. Remember there in the parable of the sower, how does he work there? He catches away the seed. Remember there in the parable of the tares, how does he work there? He imitates the seed. You remember in the parable of the mustard seed, how does he work there? He corrupts the seed. In the parable of the leaven, he infiltrates the Church. Now, why is the Lord doing this? Folks, what the Lord is doing is showing us what is going to happen; and these parables go from the time when Jesus began to sow the seed until the end of the world at the Final Judgment, as we’re going to see, as he separates the wheat and the tares, and we’re going to see later, the good fish from the bad fish. So I hope this is just opening your eyes a little bit.

Conclusion

We’ve got some more wonderful parables coming up now: the parable of the treasure hid in the field, the parable of the pearl of great price, the parable of the net and the great draw of fish. And when we’re finished, do you know what you’re going to do? You’re going to sit back and say, “You know, the Bible is a wonderful book; and everything is tracking exactly, precisely, as God said it would." You’re not going to have false expectations. Therefore you’re not going to be discouraged. And therefore you’re not going to doubt. And therefore you’re not going to be in despair. But you’re going to say, “Hallelujah,” because our same God who’s taught us all of these things has also taught there is a true Church. And the Lord Jesus said, “I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it” (Matthew 16:18).

Introduction
All right, take your Bibles, please, now, and turn, if you will, to Matthew chapter 13, verse 44. Emily, that was just beautiful. Thank you for reminding us one more time of the liberty that we have in the Lord Jesus Christ. “If the Son”—that is, Jesus—”shall make you free, you will be free indeed” (John 8:36). I have enjoyed the parables in Matthew 13. There are seven parables that are called “the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven.” These are truths that you could never learn from schoolbooks, things that you could never figure out by human ingenuity or deduction, but things that you must learn by divine revelation. And so parables were given by the Lord Jesus to conceal and to reveal: to conceal from those who are unspiritual, but to reveal to those who want to know.

And one of the great truths that we’re going to learn today is the truth of the treasure hid in a field. And I’m reading here Matthew chapter 13, verse 44: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth the field” (Matthew 13:44). That’s just one verse, and a very simple parable.

Now, remember, a parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. What is the earthly story? It’s a very simple story. Here’s a man out in a field. Maybe he’s plowing, maybe he’s walking; but somehow he discovers that in that field is a very precious treasure. He uncovers it, because it’s a buried treasure. He looks at it for a while. He marvels in its beauty and its worth. And then he covers it back up. And he goes off and finds who owns that field, and he says, “Say, I’d like to buy your field.” And he purchases the field, not for the field’s sake, but for the treasure’s sake, because he intends to come back and get the treasure; for he knows, when he buys the field, he’ll have the treasure also.

Now that’s the earthly story. What is the heavenly meaning? Well, like all of these parables in Matthew 13, they’re so easily misunderstood. Let me tell you what the common interpretation is; it’s so wrong, but this is the interpretation that you’ll find in the majority of the commentaries, and quarterlies, and so forth, and taught so many times erroneously in Sunday School lessons. People say that the treasure hid in the field is the Lord Jesus Christ. He is the great treasure. And, also, there’s a parable that follows this one, the parable of the pearl of great price. And Jesus is often called the pearl of great price. Often, Brother Lane, in gospel music, Jesus is called the pearl of great price, and Jesus is called that hidden treasure.

And so people have the idea that Jesus is the treasure hid in a field. The man who finds the treasure is the sinner who’s been awakened to the riches of the gospel; and when he sees just how wonderful Jesus is, then he goes and sells all that he has, buys the field, so that he can have Jesus, and now he’s a Christian.

Now, doesn’t that sound sweet? Friend, that’s so wrong—that’s so wrong. It couldn’t be more wrong. All right now, listen. Why is that wrong? Well, in the first place, these parables were given in sequence, and they’re all linked together. And so Jesus has already given us the keys to the interpretation of the parable. And what does the field represent? We don’t have to guess what the field represents. The field is not the Scriptures where the gospel is hidden; but look in verse 38 and you’ll see what the field is. The field is the world. And so don’t say that Jesus is hidden in the Scriptures, as some people erroneously think that this parable teaches. He may be tucked away in the Scriptures; but that’s not what this parable teaches. For in these parables the field is the world.

And who is the man that finds the treasure? The man is not a sinner man. The man is Jesus Himself. Look in verse 37: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man” (Matthew 13:37). Now almost every time in the parables there’s a man who does something, and that man consistently is Christ, the Son of man. He’s not some sinner or something; but the man is the Lord Jesus Christ. And so we know that the treasure hid in the field is not Christ; He’s the one who discovers the treasure. And, by the way, Jesus is not hidden in the world. If you were to look for Jesus, that’s the one place you’d not look for Him. And remember the field is the world. The field is the world. And so Jesus is not hidden in the world.

In the next place, if this treasure represents Jesus, notice what this man did. He found the treasure, and then he hid it again. Now, is a Christian supposed to hide Christ once he finds Him? Of course not! We’re supposed to proclaim Christ. But then it gets even more absurd if you make this treasure hid in a field the Lord Jesus Christ. Here the man, after he discovers Christ, so they say, he goes and sells all that he has to buy the field so to possess the treasure. Do you think Jesus Christ is for sale? Do you think that you can buy salvation? Of course not! Thank God, thank God, thank God, “the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord” (Romans 6:23). I want to tell you, sirs; I want to tell you, ladies: The gospel and Christ is not for sale; and you can’t buy Him with anything.

Now the next thing I want to tell you: If you could buy Him, what would you buy Him with? I mean the sinner is absolutely, totally, completely bankrupt in the sight of a righteous and holy God. An unsaved sinner has nothing to sell with which to buy Christ. The interpretation that makes the treasure hid in the field of Christ is obviously, patently erroneous.

Okay, what is the true interpretation? Well, a part of the key to understanding the true interpretation of this is to understand when Jesus gave this parable. Look, if you will, please, in verse 36: “Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field” (Matthew 13:36); that is, “Make known to us the parable of the tares in the field.” You see, Jesus had already given four parables, and He gave four parables out in public, what we call the Sermon by the Sea. And all of the people were there, the saved and the lost, the disciples and the Pharisees; all of them were there, and Jesus gave four parables.

Remember what He gave. We have the parable of the stubborn soil, the soil that wouldn’t bring forth. And there was nothing wrong with the seed, but there was something wrong with the soil. And what a discouraging parable that must have been: the parable of the stubborn soil! And then, remember, He gave the parable of the treacherous tares, these old hypocrites sown in the field. The Son of man sowed the good seed, and then an enemy came and sowed the tares. How discouraging that must have been to the disciples! And, then again, Jesus gave the story of that mustard seed: that monstrous mustard seed, that maverick mustard seed, that mustard seed that was supposed to be an herb and became a tree. And what a revolting development there was of this apostate Christianity and Christendom that was going to come out of the pure gospel! Oh, how discouraging that must have been to the disciples!

And then, Jesus gave the parable of the loaf and the leaven. Remember the story of the leaven that we talked about last Sunday, how this leaven just permeated everything, and leaven is a symbol of evil. Why, I imagine after Jesus gave those four parables, the disciples were so low they could have sat on the curb and dangled their feet. I mean, it was just discouraging. Here Jesus is showing what’s going to happen, as He’s looking down through the tunnel of time, and He’s showing all of these kinds of developments. And we say, “Oh, no, that’s terrible! That’s awful! All of these things that are going to happen!” How discouraged they must have been as Jesus foretold apostasy in the church, and anarchy in the world, and apathy in the pew!

Jesus told it all. But now He brings his disciples aside after these first four parables. The parables are divided into four and three: four, the earth number; three, the divine number. Now He’s going to give three more parables. And now He brings His disciples aside. He starts to talk to them about two things that are very precious to Him: number one, a treasure hid in a field; number two, a pearl of great price. I’m going to show you that the treasure hid in the field is the nation Israel. And I’m going to show you next week that the pearl of great price is the Church. I’m going to show you that Jesus Christ is the One who has purchased these with His own blood. Jesus, who gave all, that He might find this treasure and bring this treasure to Himself; and Jesus, who gave all, that He might possess this pearl and bring it to Himself.

Now you may doubt that the treasure represents Israel, but I don’t think you will if you’ll just stay with me for just a little bit and understand how the Lord Jesus is saying to his disciples, “Look, in spite of all that seems to be going on that’s getting out of hand, I want you to know that I have purposed to do two things: number one, I’m going to keep the solemn promises to Israel; and, number two, I’m going to bring my Church on through. “I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it” (Matthew 16:18). And if you understand what Jesus is saying today, my, what an encouragement it is going to be to you who live in these terrible and troublesome times!

There are three things I want you to notice about this treasure that is hidden in the field. And remember, the field is the world, this treasure that’s tucked away in the world of humanity that I call the nation of Israel. Three things I want you to notice. First of all, I want you to notice that Israel was sovereignly blessed. Secondly, I want you to see that Israel was sadly buried. But I want you to see, thirdly, that Israel has been sacrificially bought. That’s what this parable teaches.

I. Israel Was Sovereignly Blessed
Israel was sovereignly blessed—sovereignly blessed. God is the great God, the King, the Lord, the Sovereign. He can do no wrong. And God chose the nation Israel. God chose the Jewish people. Now you may not agree with it. You may not like it. You may not understand it. But, friend, you can’t change it. God chose the Jews. Somebody said, “How odd of God to choose the Jews.” But He did—He did.

I want you to look with me in Exodus chapter 19 and verse 5 for a moment. And I want you to turn to these verses because they’re worth seeing now. Exodus chapter 19, verse 5—here’s what God says to Israel: “Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me…”—just underscore that phrase—“a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine” (Exodus 19:5). “A peculiar treasure unto me above all people”: that’s what God said to Israel. “You are a peculiar treasure.”

Look in Deuteronomy chapter 14 and verse 2 and you’ll get the same idea. Just keep on going right there—Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy—all right, Deuteronomy chapter 14 and verse 2. God speaks again to Israel: “For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth” (Deuteronomy 14:2). God chose them to be a peculiar people, different from any other people upon the face of the earth.

And then I want you to see Psalm 135. Just turn to Psalm 135 and look at verse 4 with me: “For the LORD hath chosen Jacob unto himself, and Israel for his peculiar treasure” (Psalm 135:4)—“Israel for his peculiar treasure.” Now, you see, these people who were listening to Him knew this Old Testament, and they knew that God said that Israel was a treasure, and they knew that God said that Israel was a peculiar treasure.

Now you say, “Brother Rogers, why, though, does this speak of Israel? How do you know it doesn’t speak of the Church?” Because nowhere in the Bible is the Church ever called the treasure. The Church is called the body of Christ, the bride of Christ. The Church is called the pearl of great price. The Bible calls the Church many things, but the Bible never calls the Church a treasure. And, incidentally, the Bible never calls Israel a pearl. That’s a New Testament term. The Old Testament Jews didn’t value pearls. They were not listed among their gems and things that they valued.

You see, the treasure is uniquely Israel, and Israel was sovereignly chosen by Almighty God. God set His affection upon them. They are the chosen people. You say, “Well, why does God want to bless the Jews and not everybody else?” Well, friend, that’s not it. He wants to bless everybody else through the Jews. Now understand this: God did not choose the Jews to be a reservoir into which He would pour His blessings; God chose the Jews to be a pipeline through which He would send His blessings to all of the world.

You see, when God made His covenant to Abraham, what did God say to Abraham? God said to Abraham, “Through you shall all the nations of the world be blessed” (Genesis 12:3). See? That’s why God chose these people: as a kingdom of priests to minister the message and love of God to all of the world. And I thank God that the Bible came from the Jews, and I thank God that my Savior, my Messiah, the Lord Jesus, came from the stock of Abraham, a descendant of David. Yes, thank God that God chose this nation to be a blessing to all of the world. But they are the chosen people, a peculiar treasure.

And if you want to know what God is up to, you keep your eye upon the Jews. Ladies and gentlemen, as the Jew goes, so goes the world. And God’s yardstick, and God’s blueprint, and God’s outline, and God’s program of what He is up to, is going to measured by the Jews. Do you want to know what’s going on? Don’t keep your eyes on Washington. Don’t keep your eyes on Moscow. Don’t keep your eyes on Paris or Tokyo. Keep your eyes on the Middle East. As the Jew goes, so goes the world.

But the point I’m making right now is that Israel was sovereignly blessed—sovereignly blessed. The great sovereign God, of his own free will and volition, decided that He was going to choose the Jewish nation. All right, they are a peculiar treasure, a peculiar treasure—no other treasure just like them. That’s the first point: Israel sovereignly blessed.

II. Israel Was Sadly Buried
The second point: Israel was sadly buried. You see, here was a treasure, but now it’s hid in a field. It’s not in a bank vault somewhere. It’s not on display. It’s not bringing glory to anybody or anything, but here it is hidden in a field. When Jesus Christ came into this world, He found this treasure, and found that it was lost for its plan and its purpose.

For 400 years, Israel had been buried in the field, which is the world. For 400 years, the nation Israel had had no prophet. For 400 years, the nation Israel had known no power. For 400 years, the nation had exercised no purpose. They were lost years. Here was a nation in disgrace and despair: buried, as it were, in the field of the world, crushed under the iron boot of Rome. Oh, the temple was going on, but it was filled with moneychangers. The priests were corrupt. The scribes and the Pharisees were tainted with greed and hatred and all of these things. Israel was a nation in poverty, and Israel was a nation in misery, and Israel was a nation ripe for judgment. And Israel was a nation that was not fulfilling her destiny. She wasn’t being a blessing to anybody, not even herself. Yet God said, “Through these shall all of the nations of the world be blessed.” They were sovereignly blessed, but then they were sadly buried.

And look, if you will, in Matthew 15. We’re in Matthew 13, but look, if you will, please, in Matthew 15 and you’ll get the idea of what I’m talking about. The nation Israel was lost, like a treasure lost in the field. In Matthew 15 and verse 24, Jesus answered and said, “I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel” (Matthew 15:24). A nation buried, a nation lost: those are the ones to whom Jesus came.
III. Israel Was Sacrificially Bought

Now the third thing I want you to notice: not only was Israel sovereignly blessed, not only was Israel sadly buried; but Israel was sacrificially bought. You know, what did the man do in the parable? He covered the treasure back up and he went and bought the entire field. And how much did it cost? It cost him everything that he had. Now we’re going to slow down on this last point just a little bit. I want you to notice three things about the fact that Israel was sacrificially bought. I want you to notice, first of all, that Jesus revealed the treasure. And then Jesus redeemed the treasure, in order that Jesus might reclaim the treasure. That’s what the parable shows us now.

A. Jesus Revealed the Treasure

First of all, that Jesus revealed the treasure. It was hid in the field, but Jesus found it, Jesus uncovered it, Jesus displayed it. And for a brief glimpse in the earthly ministry of Jesus that is exactly what the Lord Jesus Christ did. Jesus Christ came and performed miracles, and taught lessons, and made statements, to give them just for a moment a flicker, a glimpse, into glory, to show them what this treasure really was. Jesus uncovered it.

Now, remember we’re in Matthew chapter 13. Just go back to Matthew chapter 12 and you’ll see this. You see, chapter 13, I’m going to tell you something very profound—pay attention: chapter 13 follows chapter 12. Have you got that? Okay now, that sounds facetious, but pay attention. In chapter 12, the Pharisees had accused Jesus Christ of casting out demons by the prince of demons, by Beelzebub. Jesus had just healed a man who was blind and dumb, and Jesus had performed a miracle that only God could perform. Jesus had taught as only God could teach. Jesus had loved as only God could love.

And what was the truth of that? What was the emphasis of that? What was it all about? Well, look in verse 28: “But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you” (Matthew 12:28). Just underscore that. For a brief moment, the kingdom of God was there. For a brief moment, the kingdom that God had planned and purposed was uncovered. Jesus came and He pulled away the dirt; and Jesus came and pushed away the rocks; and Jesus, for a moment, in all of His glory, revealed the kingdom of God.

All right, He uncovered it, He revealed it, and it was glorious. But what was their response to it? Look, if you will, in Matthew 13 now. Why did Jesus speak in parables? Why did Jesus give the parable of the treasure hid in the field? Listen to Matthew 13, verse 13: “Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand. And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which saith, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive: for this people’s heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them” (Matthew 13:13–15).

Oh, friends, what did they do when the King was there, and the kingdom of God was there, and the miracles of God were there? They said He was casting out devils by the prince of devils. So blind were they, so deaf were they, so dumb, so stupid, they could not understand, they could not see. And so the treasure is uncovered for just a moment. But now Jesus just covers it back up with parables and stories hard to understand. He’s covering it all back up. Before, He was uncovering; but now he starts to cover it back up. He starts to hide it back. And in chapter 21 of Matthew He says, “The kingdom is taken from you now, and it’s going to be given to a nation that will bring forth fruit” (Matthew 21:43). He’s talking there about the Church, a holy nation.

And then Jesus stood upon the Mount of Olives with salty tears—and I want you to look in Matthew 23, verse 37, and see what the Lord Jesus said. Look now—it’s all right here in this part of the Gospel of Matthew. In Matthew chapter 23, verse 37, Jesus, from the Mount of Olives, looks down upon Jerusalem and says, “O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!” Then I can see Jesus as He looks down upon that temple from the Mount of Olives and He says, “Behold, your house is left unto you desolate” (Matthew 23:37–38)—covered over, buried again, desolated.

B. Jesus Redeemed the Treasure

Jesus, for a moment, gave them a glimpse of glory. Jesus, for a moment, pulled back the muck, the mire, and let that kingdom shine through. It was revealed by Jesus. But then, dear friend, not only did Jesus reveal the treasure, but Jesus redeemed the treasure. Go back to Matthew chapter 13 and look again in verse 44: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth,”—that is, he hides it again. Why? Well, he has a plan—“and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field” (Matthew 13:44).

Now, what is the field? The field is the world. Who bought the world? The Lord Jesus. And how did he buy it? First Peter tells us, “[For] ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold…but with the…blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot” (1 Peter 1:18–19). What did he buy this field with? The Bible says this man gave all that he had. Friend, that’s what Jesus gave on the cross. He purchased Israel, and He purchased the Church, with the silver of His tears and with the gold of His blood. “For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life” (John 3:16).

Jesus gave it all. You cannot even begin in your wildest imagination to understand the price that was paid for Israel and the price paid for the pearl of great price. One great preacher said, “Tongue cannot tell, throat cannot sing, hand cannot paint the tragedy that was enacted on the hill called Calvary. Gather the wail of the icy winds that howl through the frozen north; extract the heart despair of a mother watching wild beasts tear at the throat of her baby; capture all of the hopeless shrieks of the damned and the land of shadows and unending doom—and with all of this at your command, you will still be unable to paint the picture that is Calvary.” Only the damned in hell can begin to know the price Jesus paid.

C. Jesus Will Reclaim the Treasure

This man in the parable gave all—He gave all. He was rich, became poor, that through His poverty, we might be rich. Jesus revealed the treasure. Jesus redeemed the treasure. And why? Because Jesus is going to reclaim the treasure. Now, just pay attention: here’s where it gets good. Why did that man buy that field? Why did he cover the treasure up and go off? Because he was going to forget the treasure forever? No, he was coming back for that treasure. And I want to tell you, ladies and gentlemen, God is not finished with the nation Israel. And that’s what Jesus was talking about, and that’s what Jesus was prophesying. He bought the field in order to return for the treasure.

Now, listen. I read Matthew 23 about how Jesus wept over Jerusalem. But I want you to go back to Matthew 23. There’s a verse I left out and I want to read it now. Matthew 23, beginning in verse 37 again: “O Jerusalem,”—Jesus said—“Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which were sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate.” I’m glad it doesn’t end there. I’m glad there’s another verse. Look in verse 39: “For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord” (Matthew 23:37–39)—not, “if you say,” but, “till ye say.”

Did you know they’re going to say that? Did you know that? One of these days—one of these days—Israel will know her King. One of these days, they’re going to say of the Lord Jesus Christ, the Messiah, “Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.” This One who bought this treasure is coming back to receive this treasure unto Himself.

The Apostle Paul knew that. You turn to Romans chapter 11—see what Paul said. Look in verse 1. Romans chapter 11, verse 1: “I say then, Hath God cast away his people? God forbid” (Romans 11:1)—“God forbid.” Do you think that God is going to forget the Jew? Paul says it is absolutely unthinkable: “God forbid”—“God forbid.” God has not cast away His people. Go on and see what God says is going to happen. Look in verse 25—Romans 11:25: “For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery...”—remember now we’re talking about the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven— “For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits; that blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in.” There’s a period of time known as “the fullness of the Gentiles.” The Bible calls it “the fulness of the Gentiles.” We’re living in the times of the Gentiles. It’s the time when that treasure that was uncovered is covered over again.

But then notice in verse 26: “And so all Israel shall be saved: as it is written, There shall come out of Sion the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob: for this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins” (Romans 11:26). Hallelujah! Glory to God! Did you know there’s coming a time when multiplied millions of our precious Jewish friends are going to receive Christ as their Lord and Messiah? Did you know that? “Blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in.” God has not forgotten that treasure covered in that field. Jesus paid too great a price for that treasure to forget it, and to walk off and leave it forever. He’s coming back, ladies and gentlemen, to receive this treasure unto Himself.

Now I want you to turn to Psalm 89. You know, some of my amillennial friends—if you don’t know what an amillennialist is, I’m not even going to tell you, because I don’t want to mess you up—but some of my amillennial friends tell me that God is finished with the Jew, and that He’s not dealing with the Jew anymore, and that the Church is spiritual Israel, and all of that. But I want you to see what God says here in Psalm 89, verse 27. He’s speaking about David. Let’s get the thought in verse 20: “I have found David my servant; with my holy oil have I anointed him” (Psalm 89:20). And then, notice in verse 27: “[And] I will make him my firstborn, higher than the kings of the earth. My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and my covenant shall stand fast with him. His seed also will I make to endure for ever,”—that means there will always be a Jewish people. Listen—“and his throne as the days of heaven. If his children forsake my law,”—and they have—“and walk not in my judgments;”—and they haven’t—“if they break my statutes,”—they have—“and keep not my commandments;”—they haven’t; then God says this—“then will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with stripes” (Psalm 89:27–32)—and He has.

The Jews have known unmentionable persecution and heartbreak and atrocities under Pharaoh, and Nebuchadnezzar, and Alexander the Great, and Nero, and the Turks, and under Hitler, and under Russia today, and some of the Arab nations today. And some who name the name of Christ and who call themselves Christians—God forbid—have persecuted Israel. I spoke with Menachem Begin here a few months ago, and I said, “You may feel that Christians are not a friend to Israel, because Jews have suffered at the hands of some who call themselves Christians, but,” I said, “not real Christians—not real Christians.” Just as there are some who say they are Jews who are not real Jews, there are some who say they are Christians but not real Christians. But these Jews have suffered, and they have suffered.

Listen to what God says. God says, “If they break my statutes, and keep not my commandments; then will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with stripes.” But you put a big star by verse 33: “Nevertheless my lovingkindness will I not utterly take from him, nor suffer my faithfulness to fail. My covenant will I not break, nor alter the thing that has gone out of my lips. Once have I sworn by my holiness that I will not lie unto David. His seed shall endure for ever, and his throne as the sun before me. It shall be established for ever as the moon, and as a faithful witness in heaven” (Psalm 89:33–37).

That’s what God says. God says that the Jewish nation is indestructible. God prophesied that the Jew would be disobedient. God prophesied that the Jew would be dispersed. God prophesied that the Jew would be discredited. But God also prophesied that the Jew would not be destroyed. He is coming to receive that treasure hid in a field. The king of Egypt could not exterminate him. The Red Sea could not drown him. Jonah’s whale could not digest him. The fiery furnace could not devour him. The gallows of Haman could not hang him. The nations of the earth have not been able to assimilate him. And the dictators of this world cannot annihilate him. He is God’s treasure hidden in a field bought with a great price, and the One who purchased that treasure is coming back to reclaim it, and don’t you forget it.

Oh, Israel is going through some sorrow; Israel is going through some heartache, because there’s coming—and he’s right on the horizon right now—a false Christ, an antichrist, that many of the Jews will believe is the Messiah. And he will betray them and turn on them. Jesus said, “I’ve come in my Father’s name, and you’ll not receive me; but if another shall come in his name, him ye shall receive” (John 5:43). But they’re going to see that they’ve been betrayed.

And God says in the Book of Zechariah that He’s going to “pour out upon them the spirit of supplication, and they’re going to look upon me whom they have pierced, and they’re going to mourn for Him as one mourneth for his only begotten son” (Zechariah 12:10). And a nation shall be born in a day, and they shall proclaim Christ as their Lord and Savior—the mystery of Israel’s history—for Jesus revealed the treasure, Jesus redeemed the treasure, and one of these days, Jesus is coming—glory hallelujah!—to reclaim that treasure. And it fills my heart—it just fills my heart—to know that God has not cast away His people, that God will keep His word. And when Jesus told this parable, after He’d been so rejected by this people, Jesus gave us an insight, and Jesus told us, here’s a nation, sovereignly blessed, sadly buried, but, my dear friend, sacrificially bought; and He bought the field that He might come back and reclaim the treasure.

Conclusion

Now, let me make just three little applications and I'll be finished—just three applications. You say, “What does this have to me? I'm a Christian; I'm not a Jew.” Well, there are some Jewish Christians. But you say, “I'm part of the Church; I'm not a part of Israel. What does this have to do with me?” Three things—many other things, but three I'm going to mention today.

Number one: I just want you to refuse to worry, because everything’s on schedule—everything’s on schedule. Worry is a sin. You take worry and turn it around: you have faith. You take faith and turn it around: you have worry. Jesus gave us these parables of the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven so that, when it looks like things have gone wrong, we'll be able to understand that God knows what He's doing, and God is keeping His promises with the nation Israel even sometimes when it looks like He isn’t. Everything is on schedule. God’s taking care of it, friend. As I said last week, He’s not walking up and down in heaven wringing His hands, saying, “What am I'm going to do? What am I'm going to do?” “There’s no panic in heaven, only plans,” is what Corrie Ten Boom said—and I agree. “No panic in heaven, only plans.” And so, dear friend, things are in God’s hands, and everything is on schedule.

The second application I want to make is this: that if God is going to keep His word to Abraham. And He will: that same God will keep His word to you. God’s not going to break His word. God said, in Psalm 89, “I will not alter the thing that has gone out of my lips” (Psalm 89:34). And just as God is a covenant-keeping God with Israel, God is a covenant-keeping God to the new Israel, the Church—those who trust Him, those who believe in Him. And I want to tell you today that, if you'll give your heart to Jesus Christ, if you will enter into a covenant of faith with Jesus Christ, if you will receive today Christ as your Lord and your Messiah, on the authority of the Word of God, the God who cannot lie, He will save you today, and He’ll keep you. He will! He will! He will! God cannot lie! He cannot!

The third thing I want to say, just by way of application, friend, from my viewpoint, and from the things that I know about the Bible, I believe Jesus is about to come back for His treasure. I believe that. The One who revealed it, the One who redeemed it, is about to come and reclaim it. Soon and very soon I believe that God is going to put the final period upon the final sentence upon the final paragraph upon the final page of history, and history as we know it will have come to an end, and the trumpet will sound, and the dead in Christ will rise, and we which remain in our life will be caught up to meet our Lord in the air (1 Thessalonians 4:17).
But I want to ask you a question. If that were today—and it may well be—would you be saved? Do you know that you’re saved? Does God Spirit bear witness with your spirit that you’re a child of God? If not, you need today to receive Christ. And you can receive Christ by faith. You are not saved by good works. You are not saved by joining a church. You’re not saved by getting baptized. You are saved by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. The Bible says, “Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved” (Acts 16:31).

I’m glad the Bible doesn’t say, “Everybody that wants to be saved, run around the block.” Some crippled children can’t run. I’m glad the Bible doesn’t say, “Everybody that wants to be saved, give a hundred dollars.” Some don’t have a hundred dollars. I’m glad the Bible didn’t say, “Everybody that wants to be saved, read a chapter in the book.” There are some who can’t read. But there’s something everyone can do, and that’s to receive Christ as his personal Savior and Lord. “Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved.” It’s simply glorious; it’s gloriously simple.

Have you done it? Will you do it? Will you say to this great covenant-keeping God today, “O God, I’m a sinner, and I’m lost, and I need to be saved, and I want to be saved; and, Jesus, you died to save me on the cross, and you promised to save me if I would only trust you; I do trust you now, Jesus; now I trust you will all my heart forever; I trust you, Jesus”? And He’ll save you today, and you can go home a child of God. You can go home with your sins forgiven. You can go home with heaven as your destiny.
The Strange Mystery of the Buried Treasure

Introduction

We've been studying seven parables. Jesus called them “The Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” They're all in Matthew chapter 13. Turn to Matthew chapter 13, and in just a moment we're going to study about “The Strange Mystery of the Buried Treasure.”

There's not a boy, not a red-blooded American boy, I do not believe, who has not dreamed of finding a buried treasure somewhere. Maybe you dug for it in your backyard. Maybe you still fantasize about finding somewhere a treasure chest, a trove of treasure.

Well, our Lord tells us a parable about that. It's a very short parable. As a matter of fact, it's one verse—verse 44: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth the field” (Matthew 13:44). A man, going through a field, finds a treasure in the field. He uncovers it. There it is. He knows it's not his, because the field is not his. So he covers the treasures, goes and buys the field, and, lo, with the field he has the treasure.

Now, what is the interpretation of this parable? Remember that a parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. What is the interpretation? What is the meaning of this very earthly story? What does it tell us? May I say that the usual interpretation is the wrong interpretation; and I've heard it over and over again, and it is definitely wrong.

People say, “Well, the treasure: that is the gospel. The field: that's the Bible where the gospel is hidden. The man is a sinner who goes into the Bible and finds the treasure. And then he gives up everything in order to be a Christian. He sells all that he has in order to be a Christian.” Of course, this could not be the proper interpretation. We read in these parables that the field is not the Scripture, but the field is the world. Look in verse 38: “The field is the world” (Matthew 13:38). The man in this parable is not the lost sinner seeking heaven, but the man in these parables is Jesus. Look again in verse 37: “He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man” (Matthew 13:37). All right, what is the treasure? It couldn’t be Christ. It couldn’t be the gospel, because Christ or the gospel is not hid in this world. This world is not a friend to the Lord Jesus Christ. And who would be able to hide Jesus once he found Him? And why, once he found the Lord Jesus, would he hide the Lord Jesus? And, again, Christ is not for sale. “In my hand no price I bring.” We can’t buy the field, or the treasure in the field. Salvation is the free gift of God. And if we could buy it, what would a bankrupt sinner have to buy it with? It’s obvious that that’s not the right interpretation, albeit that is the normal interpretation. The gospel is not for sale.

The key to understanding all of this is that Jesus is speaking to His disciples in private, and He’s saying to them, “It’s not given to them to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to you it is given” (Matthew 13:11).

Now in the first part of these parables—remember there are seven of them—if you read the first part, they’re kind of discouraging. For example, in the first part, you have the parable of the stubborn soil. Remember the stony soil, and the thorny soil, and all of those things? So there’s the parable of the stubborn soil. That’s kind of a negative parable. And then, the next parable, you have the parable of the treacherous tares, these weeds that are sown among God’s good wheat, the hypocrites in the church. And then, in the next parable, you have that story of the monstrous mustard tree, this malevolent monstrous tree in which the fowls of the heavens, these birds that want to steal away the seed, are in that tree—and that tells us about the rise of false cults. And then, in the next parable, you have the parable of the lethal leaven, where that woman hid that leaven in that loaf of bread, you remember, and it permeated the whole thing; and we showed you that leaven is an emblem, a symbol, of evil, and it speaks of Satan’s insidious work as he tries to infiltrate the church with the leaven of sin.

Well, by now, I guess they had their chin on their chest. And our Lord now is going to give them something that’s going to encourage them—and not only encourage them, but to encourage us. Now we’re going to get a little lesson in history and prophecy, and we’re going to find out that the treasure is the nation Israel. The treasure hid in the field is the nation Israel.
I. Israel Is a Treasure Sovereignly Chosen

First point, if you make these points and write them down: Israel is a treasure sovereignly chosen. Now I thought a while before I wrote that sentence, so I hope it gets in your head. Israel is a treasure sovereignly chosen.

Now, let me give you some Scripture to back that up. For example, in Exodus chapter 19, verse 5: “Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine” (Exodus 19:5). Now God calls Israel His peculiar treasure. Then, in Deuteronomy chapter 14, verse 2: “For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth” (Deuteronomy 14:2). Israel is God’s chosen, and they’re God’s chosen treasure. Psalm 135 and verse 4: “For the LORD hath chosen Jacob unto himself, and Israel for his peculiar treasure” (Psalm 135:4).

God keeps saying that Israel is chosen, and Israel is a treasure. Nowhere in the Bible can I ever find where the Church is called a treasure. Nowhere in the Bible can I ever find where Israel is called a pearl. But in these next two parables we’re going to see a picture of the nation Israel and the Church in the last days. Israel is the treasure, and the Church is the pearl. Israel is God’s chosen nation, and Israel is a treasure unto Almighty God. Don’t argue with God about Israel. If you don’t understand why God chose the Jews, that’s none of your business. Somebody said, “How odd of God to choose the Jews.” But He did. And they are a treasure unto the Lord. And if you want to know what’s going on in the world, study the Jew, because the Jew is God’s yardstick, the Jew is God’s blueprint, the Jew is God’s outline, the Jew is God’s program. As Israel goes, so goes the world. Study the Bible, and you won’t find much about America in it; but you will find over and over again about God’s peculiar treasure, which is Israel.

II. Israel Is a Treasure Sadly Covered

First point—brief point: Israel is a treasure sovereignly chosen. Second point: Israel is a treasure sadly covered. Now this is God’s treasure, but this treasure was covered in the field, in the world. When Jesus came into this world, Israel, for all practical purposes, was lost unto her original plan and purpose. The kingdom that God had promised to His people, the kingdom of heaven, was languishing. Israel was under the iron boot of Rome. They had gone for 400 years as a little, obscure, insignificant nation, being subjected to Rome, the temple itself overrun with moneychangers. As a matter of fact, Jesus called them the lost sheep of Israel. When Jesus came, in Matthew 15, verse 24—you can just see it a few chapters later—He said, “I have not come but to the lost sheep—the lost sheep of the house of Israel” (Matthew 15:24).
III. Israel Is a Treasure Sovereignly Claimed

A treasure chosen. A treasure covered. But Israel is also a treasure sovereignly claimed. Now, listen. It was chosen, covered, and claimed. Now our Lord came to this earth—and what did He do? That treasure that He had hid in the field—and the field is the world—He uncovered it. When our Lord came to this earth, He displayed for three and a half years the kingdom of heaven, and He said, “I came to the lost sheep of the house of Israel” (Matthew 15:24). He revealed the treasure.

Now you’re in chapter 13—if you go back to chapter 12, look in verse 28. And they were criticizing Jesus for casting out demons, and they said, “Well, the only way He cast out demons is by Beelzebub, the prince of demons.” But Jesus said, in verse 28, “But if I cast out devils”—or demons—“by the Spirit of God,”—now, watch this—“then the kingdom of God is come unto you” (Matthew 12:28). There was the Lord, the King of the kingdom, right in their midst. And what did they do when they saw the King? They refused Him. They spurned Him. They were blind to spiritual reality. They said, “He has a demon.” So what was His response to that? Well, that’s in chapter 12. Look in chapter 13, beginning in verse 13: “Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand. And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of [Isaiah], which saith, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive” (Matthew 13:13–14).

The kingdom is uncovered. There is a glimpse of glory. There is the very King doing miracles in their midst. But they’re blind to that reality, and the kingdom is buried again. And Jesus is now speaking to them in parables, not only to reveal, but also to conceal. This is the first time Jesus spoke in parables—in this thirteenth chapter, the first time. Why? Because as He came to reveal the kingdom of heaven, that kingdom was spurned, neglected, refused, lied on; and the Lord that had chosen the treasure uncovered the treasure and then covers it back again.

But now Jesus is going to reveal. He revealed the treasure, covered it back up again, and went to redeem that treasure. He’s the One who paid the price to buy the field. First Peter 1, verses 18 and 19: “Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers; but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot” (1 Peter 1:18–19). Jesus purchased the field with His own blood. “For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son” (John 3:16). And He is the One who chose that treasure, covered that treasure. He’s the One who’s coming to reveal the treasure, to redeem the treasure, and to reclaim the treasure. The Lord Jesus is going to come back to this earth, and He has bought Israel with His own blood. And He’s going to come back to this earth to reclaim the treasure that He has redeemed. He bought the field in order to return for the treasure.

Now, here’s the point I want you to get in your heart and mind, because things are beginning to boil in the Middle East again, and we see foregleams of Armageddon. Listen to me. God is not finished with the nation Israel. I want to give you some scriptures.

Matthew chapter 23, verses 37 to 39—Jesus, coming down the Mount of Olives, going into that Eastern Gate, stopped at a point where I love to stop when I go to Israel, a spot where Jesus wept great salty, copious tears—and here’s what He said: “O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate.””That is, the treasure’s covered. But watch this: “For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord” (Matthew 23:37–39).

One day, friend, the scales will fall from Israel’s eyes, as they fell from the eyes of the Apostle Paul, and when they see Him, they’ll say, “Blessed”—“Blessed”—“is He that comes in the name of the Lord.” The Apostle Paul said the same thing in Romans 11, verses 25 to 29. He said, “For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery…”— remember now, he’s talking about a mystery; this is the strange mystery of a buried treasure—“that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits; that blindness in part is happened to Israel,”—that is, the treasure’s covered—“until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in. And so all Israel shall be saved: as it is written,
There shall come out of Sion the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob:”— sometimes people say, “Oh, he’s talking about spiritual Israel.” God never calls spiritual Israel Jacob. That’s a name for fleshly Jews: Jacob—“for this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins. As concerning the gospel, they are enemies for your sakes:”—that is, they turn away from the gospel; you Gentiles got saved—“but as touching the election, they are beloved for the father’s sakes. For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance” (Romans 11:25–29). Do you know what that means? God never changes His mind when He makes a solemn promise. “The gifts and calling of God are without repentance.” God says, “I’m coming back for my treasure.”

Let me give you another verse concerning God’s solemn promise to Israel—Psalm 89, and I’m going to read 10 whole verses here, verses 27 through 37. And he’s speaking now of David—King David, who epitomizes the highest and most noble king that Israel ever knew: “Also I will make him my firstborn, higher than the kings of the earth. My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and my covenant shall stand fast with him. His seed also will I make to endure for ever, and his throne as the days of heaven. If his children forsake my law,”—and I say they have—“and walk not in my judgments;”—and they have not—“if they break my statutes,”—and they have—“and keep not my commandments;”—and they have not kept them—“then will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with stripes.” And God has done that. But now, watch this: “Nevertheless...”—nevertheless. God prophesied that the Jew would be disobedient, dispersed, discredited, but not destroyed. Even to this very day there are madmen like Saddam Hussein who want to destroy Israel. The King of Egypt could not do it. The Red Sea could not drown Israel. Jonah’s whale could not digest Israel. The fiery furnace could not devour Israel. The gallows of Haman could not hang Israel. And the nations of the world have not been able to assimilate Israel. And the dictators cannot annihilate Israel. Israel is God’s chosen people. And God prophesied in the last days He would bring Israel back.

When I was playing high school football, May 14 and 15, 1948, Israel became a nation—a nation born in a day, after eighteen centuries. And now they are back in the land, speaking the same kind of Hebrew that Amos preached with. Other nations get assimilated. They’re dispersed. They can’t be found. When was the last time you had a conversation with an Amalekite?

But Israel is like the Gulf Stream that meanders about three miles off my hometown of West Palm Beach, Florida. It is a river that flows in the ocean. And you wonder, how can a river flow in the ocean? But if you ever have the privilege—and I hope one day you’re so blessed that you can get in a boat; that’s where I’d love to be tomorrow—get in a boat, and go out and go across that water that’s about the color of this carpet that I’m standing on until you come to the Gulf Stream. And it’s like somebody has poured a bottle of blue ink, indigo ink, right there, and there’s that river flowing. And you say, “How does that happen?” Why doesn’t it get dispersed? Israel is like a Gulf Stream, flowing in the ocean of the nations; and she maintains her identity, and God has kept this people as His peculiar treasure.

Yes, she’s been buried in the field, and Israel has suffered unspeakable atrocities and persecution under Pharaoh, and under Nebuchadnezzar, and under Alexander the Great, and under Nero, and under the Turks, and under Hitler, and under some who call themselves Christians—and may God have mercy have mercy on us for that—and under Russia, and today under the Arab nations. But I want to tell you that Israel is God’s treasure. Jesus came. First of all, God chose the treasure. Then the treasure is covered. And then the treasure is purchased by our Lord. And He’s going to come back and redeem His treasure. You could no more destroy the Jews than you could remove God from His throne.

Let me give you another verse from Jeremiah chapter 31—verses 35 to 37—listen to this: “Thus saith the LORD, which giveth the sun for a light by day, and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars for a light by night, which divideth the sea when the waves thereof roar; The LORD of hosts is his name: if those ordinances...”—now, what ordinances is he taking about? The sun, the moon, the stars, the mighty oceans, the tides. He says—“if those ordinances depart from before me, saith the LORD, then the seed of Israel also shall cease from being a nation before me for ever. Thus saith the LORD; If heaven above can be measured,”—if you can tell me how high is up—“and the foundations of the earth searched out beneath,”—if you can find something this earth is resting on—“I will also cast off all the seed of Israel for all that they have done, saith the LORD” (Jeremiah 31:35–37). God says, “You want me to cast off Israel? I’ll do it when you can pull down the sun, moon, and the stars, and tell me how high is up and show me something the earth is resting on.” God will keep His word to Israel. Israel is His treasure. And every Jew you see in Memphis, or in Israel, or in Poland, or wherever you see one, is a testimony to the faithfulness of God.

Now He’s going to come back for His peculiar treasure. He came. There was a treasure chosen, a treasure covered, and a treasured purchased. But He’s coming back for His treasure one day. Let me give you a couple more scriptures, and we’re going to come to a conclusion. Malachi 3 speaks of the Second Coming of our Lord—verses 3 and 4: “And he”—that is, Jesus—“shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver:”—now, what is silver? It’s a treasure—“and he shall purify the sons of Levi,”—who are the sons of Levi? That’s the Jews—“and purge them as gold and silver, that they may offer unto the LORD an offering in righteousness. Then shall the offering of Judah and Jerusalem be pleasant unto the LORD, as in the days of old, and as in former years” (Malachi 3:3–4). And now Malachi 3, verses 17 and 18: “And they shall be mine, saith the LORD of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels...”—they’ll be mine—“in that day when I make up my jewels; and I will spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him. Then shall ye return, and discern between the righteous and the wicked, between him that serveth God and him that serveth him not” (Malachi 3:17–18). When our Lord comes, He’s going to separate the sheep from the goats.

And then, let me give you these two verses, and then I’ll just come to a conclusion. There’s coming a time, folks—and my heart yearns for that time when God’s beloved treasure, Israel, will recognize their King. Zechariah 13, verse 1: “In that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for uncleanness” (Zechariah 13:1). “There’s a fountain filled with blood, drawn from Emmanuel's veins.” And then Zechariah 13, verse 9: “And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as silver is refined, and will try them as gold is tried: they shall call on my name, and I will hear them: I will say, It is my people: and they shall say, The LORD is my God” (Zechariah 13:9). He’s coming, friend, for His treasure.

Conclusion

Now, what does that mean to us? Well, it means, number one, that everything’s on schedule. It means, number two, if God kept His word to Abraham, that same God will keep His word to us, amen? If God has sovereignly kept His word to Israel, we know that He’ll keep His word to us. Number three, I believe, strongly believe, that the signs of the times are telling us that our Lord is just about to step out of the glory and uncover the treasure that He’s bought. Don’t you believe that? Now Israel is the treasure. Next week we’re going to talk about the Church, which is the pearl.

Introduction

Take your Bibles and turn to Matthew chapter 13. And we are continuing a series on “The Strange Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven.” And we’ve seen the mystery of the fruitless farmer who put his seed in the soil—and stubborn soil and rocky soil and thorny soil didn’t bring forth fruit. We’ve seen the mystery of the treacherous tares and the wild weed that was sown among the true seed. We’ve seen the strange mystery of the monstrous mustard, about the mustard plant that became a monstrous tree, a monstrosity. We have seen the parable of the leaven and the sneaky housewife who hid leaven in three measures of meal. And it’s time for some good news. And there’s good news in these seven parables also. And, tonight, we’re going to see some good news: “The Strange Mystery of the Precious Pearl.”

Look, if you will, in Matthew 13, verse 45: “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it” (Matthew 13:45–46). A very short parable. Now, remember that a parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning. And these parables explain mysteries. Go back to verses 10 and 11 of this same chapter and you’ll understand what I’m talking about. It’s the reason why I call them mysteries: “And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them...”—that is, the ones to whom the parables are not given—“but to them it is not given” (Matthew 13:10–11). So these are wonderful mysteries, mystery stories, sacred secrets that God is letting us in on.

And this is the story of a priceless pearl; a man, a merchantman, who loves pearls, traveling the world around; then he finds that one great, priceless, precious pearl, sells everything that he has in order to purchase that one pearl—and Jesus said this is a parable of the kingdom of heaven.

Now I’ve been thinking about this message for a long time, and I, some years ago, clipped from the newspaper a story about a pearl. I was astounded when I saw it. It was in The Commercial Appeal. The title of the article was “Monstrous Pearl is a Gem of a Deal,” and it tells about a pearl—you’re going to be surprised when you hear this—this pearl, as big as a football, weighed fourteen pounds—the world’s largest known pearl. “A football-sized gem that weighs fourteen pounds will soon go on the block in Los Angeles for ten million. Listed in the Guinness Book of Records, the pearl comes with a history almost as rich as its price tag. An estimated 6,000 years old, the gargantuan gem was reportedly found in the Philippines in 1934 by a diver who drowned while trying to retrieve it from the shell of a giant clam. The ten-million asking price is considered a bargain, for some have valued it much higher.” Well, I tore that out. I said, “That just reminds me of this parable of a pearl of great, great price.”

I don’t suppose there’s any parable in these seven that has been more misinterpreted than this parable of the pearl of great price. Let me tell you how it is misinterpreted, and then let me tell you what I believe is the truth concerning the pearl of great price.

Now the average interpretation—and I’ve seen it in our Sunday Baptist Sunday School literature—is that the merchantman is the lost sinner who is seeking the Lord Jesus Christ. He’s on a search for God. That’s the merchantman who’s looking for lost pearls. They say, “That just pictures a lost sinner trying to find salvation, trying to find God.” That is so obviously wrong, because the sinner is never on a search for God. To the contrary, the sinner never takes the initiative. God must take the initiative. Let me give you a scripture that will prove that. Romans chapter 3, verse 11, says, “There is none that seeketh after God” (Romans 3:11). So this merchantman cannot picture a lost man seeking God. And, as a matter of fact, just the opposite: God seeks man. Adam hid from God in the Garden of Eden. And had not God taken the initiative and gone after him, and said, “Adam, Adam, where art thou?” (Genesis 3:9) Adam never would have come to the Lord. Put it down big, put it down plain, put it down straight: If you sought Him, it was because He first sought you, amen?
Now, secondly, the way this is often interpreted is, the merchantman represents the sinner seeking Christ, and when he finds Christ, he sells all that he has in order to buy Christ. Well, that’s ridiculous. A sinner is bankrupt. He has nothing in the sight of God. What can he sell? What can he give? He has nothing at all. He has no riches of his own to buy Christ with. There are almost six billion people on the face of this earth. If you would put them heel to toe, they’d make a line so long it would go out around the moon and circle back to the earth and then go around the earth a number of times. If you were to take that line of people, all six billion people, standing heel to toe, and take a golden cup, and pass it down the line, and say for each person to put his goodness in that cup, when you got to the end of the line, the cup would be empty—the cup would be empty. There is in us, in our flesh, no good thing.

Again, let me give you another scripture—Romans chapter 3, verse 12: “They are all gone out of the way,”—talking about sinners—“they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no, not one” (Romans 3:12). Isaiah 64:6: “But we are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags; and we all do fade as a leaf; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away.”

What would a lost sinner buy Christ with? Number one: We’re not seeking Christ by nature. Number two: If we were, we didn’t have anything to buy Him with. And, number three—and you listen very carefully: Jesus Christ is not for sale—Jesus Christ is not for sale. That’s blasphemy to say that you could buy the Lord Jesus Christ. Salvation is not something that you earn, that you can buy. Titus 3:5 says it is “not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us.” And the Bible says again, in Romans chapter 6, verse 23, “For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord” (Romans 6:23). You will never buy the Lord Jesus Christ.

And so, what is the pearl of great price? The pearl of great price is not Jesus. I’ve often heard Jesus called the pearl of great price. But He is not the pearl of great price. The pearl of great price is the Church—the Church. The merchantman is the Lord Jesus who has purchased the Church with His own precious blood.

Now the last time we talked together, we talked about a treasure that was hid in the field. Israel is called God’s peculiar treasure. That’s the treasure hid in the field. The Church is never called a peculiar treasure, and Israel is never called a pearl. The pearl represents the Church purchased by the Lord Jesus Christ. And there are three things tonight I want you to see about this precious pearl and “The Strange Mystery of the Precious Pearl.” I want you to see how this pearl was wrought; I want you to see how it was sought; and I want you to see how it was bought. And then you’ll thank God for the wonderful salvation that we have in the Lord Jesus Christ.
I. How the Pearl Was Wrought

How is a pearl formed? How is a pearl wrought? The formation of a pearl is a wonderful picture of the Church. I did some research. I got the encyclopedia and read about pearls, and I found out that the best pearls come from the Persian Gulf. They come from a depth of about 150 feet beneath the water. They come from an oyster known as the seed pearl oyster. And the way the pearl is formed is that inside the oyster, or inside the clam, there comes some impurity, some bit of dirt, some grit, some irritation, and it imbeds itself in that living being beneath the ocean. And then the oyster or the clam begins to exude a substance known as nacre, and it begins layer by layer by layer to cover that hideous, that ugly thing, that gritty thing, that filthy thing; and it covers it and covers it and covers it until something beautiful has been made. And this pearl begins to grow and grow and grow. I also found out that a pearl is not like any other gem, because a pearl is made of something living. And, also, a pearl cannot be divided. An emerald can be divided. A diamond can be divided. An opal can be divided. But you can’t divide a pearl without destroying it.

And so now I want you to notice how the pearl represents the Church.

A. It Goes from Grit to Glory

First of all, it goes from grit to glory. I love the song that we just heard. God can’t remember our sin anymore. Why? Because it has been covered by His grace. He has taken that grit, that grime, that is there, and, layer by layer, He has covered it. He was wounded for our transgressions, and He has taken our guilt, and He has clothed it with His glory. The Church has gone from grit to glory like the pearl.

B. It Goes from Depth to Height

The Church has gone from depth to height like a pearl. The pearl down in the bottom of the ocean has come now and has been brought up out of the troubled sea, and has been made fit to be worn in the bosom of the King to be on display in the glory. And we will shine forever in the glory. Having come from great depth, the Church is going to great height.

C. It Goes from Darkness to Light

The Church has been taken from darkness to light. You’ll never find a darker place than inside an oyster at the bottom of the sea. But that pearl is taken from darkness to light. And the pearl is a gem that not only absorbs light, but it reflects light, and therefore it is a picture of the Church. As a matter of fact, perhaps the writer of the hymn had this in mind when he wrote,
From sinking sand He lifted me,
With tender hand He lifted me;
From shades of night to plains of light,
Oh, praise His name, He lifted me!
—CHARLES H. GABRIEL

D. It Is Formed from Start to Finish

Like the Church, the pearl has gone from grit to glory, from depth to height. The pearl has gone from darkness to light. And the pearl, like the Church, is formed from start to finish. You see, the pearl grows layer by layer by layer. It is grown gradually, indivisibly, with no blemish if it is a perfect pearl. A cannot be divided. It cannot be carved. There are not two Churches, there are not Churches, but in the end there is one Church without spot or wrinkle, any blemish whatsoever. So this pearl of great price represents the Church, and you see how it was wrought.

II. How the Pearl Was Sought

Now I want you to see how it was sought. Look again at the Scripture. The Bible says, when this merchantman has found this pearl of great price, he went and sold all that he had and bought it. Now I’m talking now on how it was sought. Wonder of wonders that Jesus was seeking me and He was seeking you. Wonder of wonders that He loves us. Psalm 45, verse 11, says, “So shall the king greatly desire thy beauty” (Psalm 45:11). You are very precious to Him. You are a beautiful thing to Him. You were in His heart before the foundation of this world. He is the seeking Savior. Luke 19:10: “For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.” Jesus is the merchantman. Jesus is the One seeking the pearl.

How does He seek? Well, He seeks through the Holy Spirit. Before I came out here tonight, I got on my knees and prayed. Before I preached this morning, I got on my knees and prayed, because I am dependent upon the Holy Spirit of God to seek you out, because it is the Holy Spirit of God that puts His finger on your heart and convicts you of sin. And if the Holy Spirit of God is speaking to you tonight, don’t trifle with Him. God speaks through His Spirit.

God speaks through suffering and sickness. Have you been sick? Have you been in pain? Has some bad message come from the doctor? Well, that’s God that’s seeking you. Sometimes a man has to be put flat on his back in order to look up. Sometimes God seeks through sorrows. Many a time at a funeral I’ve been able to lead somebody to Jesus that otherwise, from my estimation, would not have come to Him.

God seeks through the Scriptures and through songs. So many ways God is seeking you. And you might think that you’re here tonight just by your own will, but I believe perhaps God has engineered your being here tonight, because God wants you to understand that He loves you, He desires you, and He wants to save you.

III. How the Pearl was Bought

So you see how the pearl was wrought, and God made something beautiful out of something ugly. You see how the pearl was sought: the Lord desires us. And I’ve said it before: God doesn’t love us because we’re valuable; we’re valuable because He loves us. He set His attention on us. Now, here’s the third thing I want you to see: how this pearl was bought. The Bible says the merchantman sold all that he had and bought this pearl. That’s the reason why I know that the pearl is an illustration, a picture, of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Let me give you a verse for your margin—2 Corinthians 8:9: “For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich.” When a man sells all that he has, do you know what he is at that moment? He’s bankrupt—he’s bankrupt. Jesus left heaven.

Think of the price that the Lord Jesus Christ paid. He became a pauper. Jesus came to a manger that I might go to a mansion. I was thinking again this afternoon about the suffering of Jesus, thinking about the fearful price He paid to buy the pearl of great price. It is a pearl of great price.

Think of the anticipatory sufferings of the Lord Jesus. Do you know what it is to anticipate trouble? My brother and I would get in a fight. My mother would say, “You boys are going to get it when your dad gets home.” Well, friend, that was worse than the whipping. All afternoon I lived in anticipation of my dad coming home.

And you know that many times the anticipatory suffering is terrible in itself. Jesus, from the moment that He was aware of Himself as a youth, was living in the shadow of a cross. Psalm 88:15 speaks of the Lord Jesus in prophecy, and it says, “I am afflicted and ready to die from my youth up.” When Jesus, the little lad, was playing with the shavings of Joseph’s carpenter shop, every beam that He saw reminded Him of the crossbeams that He would be nailed upon. Every nail that He saw would remind the Lord Jesus of those nails that would be put in His quivering palms. The Lord Jesus, when He would go to the temple, every sacrifice in the temple He would see, every lamb that was slain, would remind Him that He was the Lamb of God that would take the sin of the world. Every rose that others may see the flower, Jesus had to see the thorns: it would remind Him that He would be crowned with thorns.

I think of the sufferings of Jesus in dark Gethsemane. Gethsemane deeply moves my heart. Gethsemane was where the Lord Jesus Christ drank that bitter cup, where Jesus prayed—and it was a sincere prayer, not a mock prayer: “Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me” (Matthew 26:39). Oh, the agonies of Gethsemane! Jesus knew that He must become sin. Jesus knew that the wrath of Almighty God, the fires of God’s wrath, would burn themselves out upon the Lord Jesus Christ. He asked His disciples to watch and pray, but their eyes closed in sleep, and the city slept. But from that time on Jesus would not close His eyes until He closes His eyes in death—dark Gethsemane.

I think of the price that Jesus paid when He stood before Pilate and had a mock trial and lost an election to a common criminal.

I think of the indecencies that they put upon the Lord Jesus when they stripped Him naked, when they beat Him with clubs, when they spat in His face, when they put a wilted reed in His hand. They crowned Him with a crown of thorns. Why? Why? Because He was purchasing the pearl of great price.

The Bible says that He gave all that He had, this merchantman did. I see, as they flayed His back to ribbons of flesh that are hanging down because of some psychopathic dungeon keeper who flailed Him with a cat of nine tails. Men would often die of this. And then, they laid Him down on that splinterly wood, nailed Him to that cross, and dropped that cross in a hole with a thud. Then, the heavens are black, the sun refuses to shine. God the Father turns His back upon God the Son. And God the Son cries out, “My God, my God, why hast thy forsaken me?” (Psalm 22:1; Matthew 27:46; Mark 15:34). Of course, the answer is in the next verse: “But thou art holy” (Psalm 22:3). God is a holy God, and a holy God cannot look upon sin. And the Lord Jesus now is hanging upon that cross, a mangled form on a rough-hewn cross, and every nerve is a pathway for the feet of pain to tread upon. But, oh, only the damned in hell can begin to know the anguish, the suffering, the utter midnight of His heart as God, the mighty maker, died for man, the creature of sin. He could have called 10,000 angels, but He didn’t do it. He died alone on Calvary.

Conclusion

So, what does all of this tell us? Well, very simply and very plainly, here’s what it tells us: that we cannot buy Him. He is not for sale. We are not seeking Him. He sought us. And Jesus took my sin, your sin. He covered it with the glory of His grace. He made something beautiful out of something that wounded His side. We are that pearl of great price.

Introduction

Open, if you will, to Matthew chapter 14 tonight, and I want to talk to you a little bit about “How to be an Unsinkable Saint.” We all love the story of Peter and Jesus, where Peter walked on the water to come to Jesus. Now, some have ridiculed that story. They don’t believe it’s possible for a person to walk on water. We live in a generation that takes for granted that man can fly through space and have difficulty believing that God can walk on water.

We believe the miracles of the Word of God. But why this story? Why is it included in the Word of God? Because there is a sense—listen—there is a sense in which all of us need to learn to walk on water. In this particular story, we’re going to see in a moment Jesus seemed to have a special purpose in sending the disciples out on the Sea of Galilee when a storm was brewing. He knew all things. The winds and the waves obeyed Him. So they certainly did not trick Him. He knew that a storm was brewing. And the Bible tells us that “Jesus constrained his disciples to get [in the] ship, and…go [to] the other side.” (Matthew 14:22)

So, we’re in Matthew chapter 14, and let’s begin reading in verse 22: “And straightway Jesus constrained his disciples to get into a [boat], and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away”—“the other side” is the other side of the Sea of Galilee, which, by the way, is one of the most beautiful bodies of water on the face of the earth, and a place that I have visited many times and love very much—“And when he had sent the multitudes away, he went up into a mountain apart to pray: and when the evening was come, he was there alone”—but now, notice verse 24—“But the ship was now in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves.” (Matthew 14:22–24)

I. The Problem of the Storm

Let’s think a little bit here about the problem of the storm. Here was a storm. And the ship here, now, is in the middle of the sea. It’s being tossed like a cork on the waves, and the wind is in their face. Actually, if you look at it, this is a threefold problem and may be very much like the problem that you have right now.

A. The Distance from the Shore

First of all, the distance from the shore. They’re smack dab in the middle. The Bible says they were “in the midst of the sea.” (Matthew 14:24) That is, it is as far from one shore as it is to the other. You might as well go forward as to go back. Do you find yourself now in the middle of a problem?

B. The Direction of the Wind

Think not only about the distance from the shore, but think about the direction of the wind. The wind was contrary. I can see them now with their backs bent to the oars, perspiration on their brow, fear on their face, their backs aching, because the wind is contrary. Does it seem not only are you in the middle of a problem but that the winds of life are in your face?

C. The Darkness of Night

And then, not only the distance from the shore and the direction of the wind, but the darkness of night. The Bible says it was “the fourth watch of the night.” (Matthew 14:25) And I’ve done a little study on this. That’s the darkest hour of the night. So, evidently, it was pitch black. They could hardly see anything, maybe could hardly see their hand before their face. Have you ever been there? Not only are you in the middle of a problem; not only are the winds against you, but you’re in darkness. You don’t know what’s what, know where is where, who is who. It doesn’t seem to make sense.

II. The Performance of the Savior
That’s the problem of the storm. Now, here’s the second thing: I want you to see the performance of the Savior. I want you to see what Jesus did now in the midst of the storm. Look, if you will, in verses 25 through 27: “And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit”—plain English: they thought it was a ghost—“and they cried out for fear. But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid.” (Matthew 14:25–27)

Now, they saw Jesus in the midst of their storm, and Jesus was undismayed and unafraid. Now, you know that I am from Florida. I was Florida-born, Florida-bred, and when I died, I thought I’d be Florida-dead. But I got captured and brought up here, for which I am very grateful. But one thing I miss is the ocean. I miss the water. People tell me, “Well, you can go look at the Mississippi River.” I say, “Send up a flare.” I love the wind. I love the waves. I love the sea. And I would have loved to have seen the Lord Jesus Christ doing a lot of His miracles, teaching and preaching and healing the sick, and even raising the dead; but, other than seeing Jesus on the cross, or walking out of that tomb, if I could have seen Him in His flesh—just had a chance—I think I would have loved to have seen Jesus walking on the water.

And just think about it: to see His robes just flowing in the winds; to see the wind in His hair, the foam on His beard. Just see Jesus now planting His footsteps on the sea in the midst of that storm. Just conjure that up. What a picture that is! And notice what Jesus says to them, in verse 27: “But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid.” (Matthew 14:27)

Now, look at the little phrase there: “It is I.” (Matthew 14:27) Do you see that? Nod your head. Do you see it? You don’t see it? You’re not looking. Look! “Be of good cheer; it is I.” (Matthew 14:27) Now, it’s very important. Why do I want you to see that? I’m not playing games with you. What He literally says is, “Be of good cheer. I am.” Now, He didn’t mean, “I am of good cheer.” He’s saying, “Don’t be afraid. Cheer up. I am the Great I AM.” That’s literally what this word says in the Greek: “I am.” “Well,” you say, “what does that mean?” That’s the most sacred name for God in the entire Bible. When Moses said, “Who shall I say sent me?” Yahweh said, “You tell them I AM sent you” (Exodus 3:14)—the sacred name for God; the Great I AM. Now, when He said that, here’s the reason they should be of good cheer:
A. A Declaration of Deity

Number one: that was a declaration of deity. There are certain “I am’s” in the Gospel of John. “I am the way. I am the truth. I am the life.” (John 14:6) “I am the bread of life.” (John 6:35) “I am the light of the world.” (John 8:12; 9:5) “I am the door.” (John 10:7,9) “I am the good shepherd.” (John 10:11,14) “I am.” “I am.” “I am.” He keeps using this phrase: “I am.” Here in the midst of this storm, He says, “Be of good cheer. I am.” It was a declaration of deity. And what He was saying is, “Look, don’t get spooked; don’t get frightened. I was in existence before this thing was even a vapor. I am in control.” It was a declaration of deity.

B. A Proclamation of Presence

But what else it was is this: it was a proclamation of presence. “Here I am!”—I AM. You see, when Moses said, “Who shall I say sent me?” God said, “Tell Pharaoh I AM sent you.” (Exodus 3:13–14) Now, what does that mean? It means that there never was a time when He was not. There never will be a time when He will not be. He never came into existence. He’s never going out of existence. He always was, always is. He is the I AM.

Now, what does that mean to you right now? If He was the I AM to them, He is the I AM to you. He’s always present. He is the I AM. There never was a time when He was not, never was a time when He will not be. I heard a great preacher one time—Shadrach Meshach were his first two names, Lockridge his last name; S. M. Lockridge. Shadrach Meshach Lockridge was preaching on the Twenty-third Psalm. I was sitting in the congregation. He started out saying, “The Lord is my shepherd.’ I just want to take the first three words, ‘The Lord is.’” And that’s as far as he got. He preached all night on “The Lord is.” He always has been is; He always will be is. He just is. And I thought, “You know, amen!” He is the Great I AM.

C. An Announcement of Abundance

Do you have a problem tonight? He is the God in the midst of your problem. A declaration of deity, a proclamation of presence, and—listen—an announcement of abundance. Now, why do I call it an announcement of abundance? Because “I AM” is an unfinished sentence. I AM what? Well, what do you need? Fill in the blank. Now, in Him we’re complete. (Colossians 2:10) You may not believe this, but I’m telling the truth now: Jesus is all you really need. You don't need anything else but Jesus. And not only is He necessary; He is enough. He is the great I AM.

I found this: “To the artist, He’s altogether lovely. To the architect, He’s the Chief Cornerstone. To the banker, He’s the Hidden Treasure. To the baker, He’s the Living Bread. To the biologist, He is the Life. To the builder, He is the Sure Foundation. To the doctor, He is the Great Physician. To the educator, He’s the Great Teacher. To the farmer, He’s the Lord of the Harvest. To the florist, He’s the Rose of Sharon. To the geologist, He’s the Rock of Ages. To the jurist, He’s the Righteous Judge. To the jeweler, He’s the Pearl of Great Price. To the lawyer, He’s the Advocate. To the publisher, He’s the Good Tidings of Great Joy. To the philosopher, He’s the Wisdom of God. To the preacher, He’s the Word of God. To the sculptor, He’s the Living Stone. To the statesman, He’s the desire of all nations. To the theologian, He is the Author and Finisher of our faith. To the traveler, He is the New and Living Way. To the sinner”—that’s us, folks—“He’s the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world. To the Christian, He’s the Son of the Living God, the Savior, the Redeemer and Lord.” He is the Great I AM.

III. The Program for the Saints
Now, we’ve seen the problem of the storm. We’ve seen the performance of the Savior: He’s walking on the water. Question: Why? Just to fill up a place in the Bible? No. There is a program for the saints. Here’s the third thing I want you to see. Now, this is what deals with you, with me. This is not just what God taught Simon Peter; it’s what He’s teaching all of us. Here’s God’s way for you to walk on water. Notice in verses 28 and 29: “And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And He said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.” (Matthew 14:28–29)

Now, would you like to walk on the water? Now, remember here that our Lord is teaching a spiritual lesson, and the spiritual lesson is that whatever your problem, whatever it looks like is going to sink your ship, is no problem to God. Let me give you some steps for walking on the water.

A. The Vision
Step number one: We’ll call it “vision.” You must see Jesus. Look again, if you will, in verse 27 and 28: “But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I”—literally, “I AM”—“be not afraid. And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.” (Matthew 14:27–28) They saw Him walking on the water. Faith is looking to Jesus and keeping on looking. What did Peter see when He saw Jesus? Don’t miss this because this is the heart of the whole thing. When Peter saw Jesus walking on the water, Peter saw that what looked like it would be over Peter’s head was already under Jesus’ feet. That’s very important that you see this. What Peter thought was going to be over his head was under Jesus’ feet.

John 16, verse 33: Jesus said, “In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.” (John 16:33) You have tribulation? Jesus has overcome. No matter what it is, take your problem and double it, and double it again, and—listen to your pastor—Jesus has overcome it. “In this world [you] shall have tribulation…I have overcome the world.” (John 16:33) What you think is about to sink your ship is under His feet. Why did Peter say, “Lord, if it be you, bid me come to you on the water”? (Matthew 14:28) Do you think that Peter was just seeking a thrill? Do you think he just wanted to go back and say, “Guess what I did”? No. There was something about Jesus walking on the water, and Peter seeing that drew the heart of Peter like a magnet to Jesus. Now, what Peter was saying is, “Lord Jesus, I want to put my feet where you have put yours. I want to walk in victory with you. I want to be one with you, Lord, walking on the water.” That’s what I pray you will see tonight, what I’ll see tonight: a vision of Jesus conquering, superior, overcoming. Have you seen this?

B. The Voice

Now, first of all, there is the vision. You must see Jesus. Number two: There is the voice. You must hear Jesus. Now look, if you will now, in verse 28: “And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And He said, Come”—“Come.” (Matthew 14:28–29) Have you ever heard Him say that to you? “Come.” If you listen, you’ll hear Him saying that.

Now, Peter did not start out of that boat until he was ordered out of that boat, until he was invited. Peter didn’t name it and claim it. All faith is based on a word from God. That’s what we’ve been talking about in our series in Hebrews chapter 11, “Champions of the Faith.” We’ve given you Romans 10:17 over and over again: “Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.” (Romans 10:17) And the Word of God reveals the will of God. When Peter got out of that boat after Jesus said, “Come,” (Matthew 14:29) he was not really walking on the water as much as he was walking on the Word. He is supported by the Word of God.

C. The Venture

How do you walk on water? You see Jesus. Understand who He is, that He has overcome the world. Then, you hear Jesus. There is the vision. Then, there is the voice. And then, there is the venture: He obeyed Jesus. Now, most of us here believe that Jesus can walk on water. Most of us believe that, theoretically, we could. I’m talking about over our problems. But that’s all: it gets not much further than our notebooks, and therefore it never really is faith. I’ve told you many times the difference between the belief and faith: faith is belief with legs on it. Faith is obeying. Matthew 14, verse 29: “And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water.” (Matthew 14:29) Faith is venturing everything in God’s faithfulness. It is committing yourself to the Word and then to the waves. That’s very hard for me to do.
D. The Victory

Faith’s vision: you see Jesus. Faith’s voice: you hear Jesus. Faith’s venture: you obey Jesus. And then, notice the victory. He walked on the water. You must prove Jesus. Now, notice again verses 29 and following: “And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me. And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt? And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased.” (Matthew 14:29–32)

Use your imagination. What was it like for Peter? What was the sea like? Was it like concrete, or was it like Jell-O? Was it slippery? I don’t know. But here’s Peter out there. Now he’s a fisherman. He’s made his living on that water. And he steps over the gunnel of that boat and puts his feet down on something solid. And he begins to walk. He says, “This is wonderful! Look at this! Look! Look at this! I’m walking on the water!” About that time, he sees some boisterous wave; maybe it slaps him in the face. He looks around, and he sees the howling wind; and he stops saying, “This is wonderful!” and he says, “This is impossible! I can’t do this!” And he begins to sink.

He takes his eyes off of Jesus and puts them back on the storm. And when he does, he begins to sink. You’re saying to me, “That’s right, Adrian. You’re telling me to get out of the boat and walk on the water. You see what happened to Peter? You see how Peter sank?” Yep. I wish that wasn’t in the Bible. That’s one of the saddest things in the Bible, you know—when old Peter sank and drowned there and John dragged him back in the boat and said, “That fool should have never gotten out of the boat to begin with. Now we’ve got to go tell his family. We’ve got to have a funeral.” That was a sad funeral, Peter’s funeral; oh, it was a sad funeral. And the disciples were criticizing one another for ever letting Peter get out of the boat. And Jesus was there, saying, “Oh boy, did I make a mistake! Inviting that man to get out of that boat—that was just a tragic thing! What a sad funeral that was, right?”

Now, listen to me. I’d rather walk a little way on the water with Jesus than not to get out of the boat at all. You may have a sinking spell, but you will not drown. And though we deny Him, He cannot deny Himself. (2 Timothy 2:13) You know, the Bible says, “The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord…Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the Lord upholdeth him with his hand.” (Psalms 37:23–24) Well, friend, you can trust the Lord. I’ll tell you one thing about Peter: he may have had a sinking spell, but he walked further on the water than anyone else there that day did. Don’t be afraid to trust the Lord.

And I want to ask you another question: How did Peter get back into that boat? One of two ways: either he walked back on the water or he came back in the arms of Jesus.
Either way sounds pretty good to me. He did not drown. He either walked back to that boat or he came back in the arms of Jesus. And so, that is faith’s venture. You must get out of the boat.

E. The Value

Now, let’s move on and think of faith’s value—the value. You must worship Jesus. This is the whole point. The idea was not that Jesus was showing up or doing some magical trick. No. Go down to Matthew 14, verses 32 and 33: “And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased. Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God.” (Matthew 14:32–33) All of this brought about the worship of the Lord Jesus Christ. You see Jesus. You hear Jesus. You obey Jesus. You worship the Lord Jesus Christ. You see what He can do.

Conclusion

You know, I thank God for storms. I don’t know what songs they sang back in Peter’s time, but they just may have been singing that song by Andrae Crouch:

Through it all, through it all,
I’ve learned to trust in Jesus.
I’ve learned to trust…His Word.

—ANDRAE CROUCH

Now, you may want to stay in the comparative safety and comfort of the boat, but I sincerely believe this: you’re safer on the waves with Jesus than you are in the boat without Him. I believe that. Sometimes we’re afraid to send our children overseas to be missionaries. If our children are in the will of God, I’d rather have them overseas. I’d feel safer about them there than I would in the back bedroom out of the will of God. You can trust them to our Lord. If He says, “Come”; just get out of the boat with both feet.

Now, God is not calling us to walk on the water literally. He may, but that’s not what the point of this story is. What God is calling us to do is to see whatever we think is a great problem as already under His feet. And if we will see Him, if we will hear Him, if we will obey Him and worship Him, we’re going to be walking on the water.

You know what? One of these days the trumpet’s going to sound. Jesus was up on the mount of the glory, up there alone, praying. And they were down there in the midst of the sea, pulling on the oars. They didn’t see Him, but He saw them. You say, “Well, it was nighttime.” The night and the dark are alike to Him. He saw them. He knew they were there. He sent them there. He constrained them to go over to the other side. He didn’t tell them to go under; He told them to go over. He sent them into a storm to teach them a lesson. And He came down from the mountain where He was there praying, and came down to help them out of that problem.
Do you know where Jesus is right now? In the mountain of His glory. Do you know what He’s doing right now? He’s praying for us. Do you know He has His eye on you? He knows about you this very moment. And I believe soon He’s going to step off the mountain of His glory and come, this time not walking on the water but stepping on the clouds. And He’s going to say, “Come!” and we’re going to rise to meet Him in the air. What a day that will be!

Introduction

I want you to take God’s Word and find, if you would, Matthew chapter 14, as we prepare our hearts to take the Lord’s Supper. An incredible story here in Matthew chapter 14. We’re going to begin reading in verse 22. It’s the story of Jesus walking on water. Now, this story has been ridiculed. Modern man often ridicules this story. And I have thought, “How ridiculous that puny man, who can walk in space, has difficulty believing that God can walk on water!” But this is the story, and I want you to listen to it—verse 22: “And straightway Jesus constrained his disciples to get into a ship, and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away. And when he had sent the multitudes away, he went up into a mountain apart to pray: and when the evening was come, he was there alone. But the ship was now in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves: for the wind was contrary. And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit” and they cried out for fear. But straightway
Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid. And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me. And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt? And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased. Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God.” (Matthew 14:22–33)

What a wonderful story this is! And it has a very wonderful lesson for us, and I'll tell you what the lesson is: the lesson is to teach you how to get on top of your troubles. And that's what we're going to be talking about tonight: “How to Get on Top of Your Troubles.”

Now, you know that all of us have troubles in this world. And our Lord here was not showing off when He walked on water. It certainly wasn't a publicity stunt. He wasn’t merely demonstrating His power. But, you know, every miracle that Jesus gave, every miracle that Jesus performed, had a deeper lesson than the miracle itself. It was not only a demonstration of His power, but it was a declaration of His wisdom and His plan for us. I think it was G. Campbell Morgan that said, “Every parable that Jesus taught was a miracle of instruction, and every miracle that Jesus performed was a parable for our instruction.” Now, that does not mean, when I say that the miracle was a parable, that I believe the miracle did not happen. Indeed, it happened. But there is a lesson in this miracle for us to learn. And that's what I want us to see tonight as we look at this particular message: “How to Get On Top of Your Troubles.”

Now, as I began to read, the Bible says that Jesus constrained them to get in a ship and to go across the sea. (Matthew 14:22) That is, they were there in a storm, not because they were out of the will of God; they were in a storm because they were in the will of God. Now, the storm did not take Jesus by chance or by surprise. If Dave Brown can forecast the weather, I can tell you that Jesus had no difficulty knowing that a storm was coming. He's the master of the winds and the waves. And, knowing this, the Lord Jesus constrained them to get in a boat, and He sent them into the teeth of a gale and a storm. Why? Because He wanted them to learn a lesson.

Now, Jesus is a different teacher than many teachers. Many teachers give the lesson and then the test. But Jesus gave the test and then the lesson. And He wanted them to learn a very wonderful lesson. And, of course, there are many, many things that are in this particular passage of Scripture; but what I want us to see tonight, and what I've drawn out of it, is God’s plan for us to learn how to get on top of our troubles.

Now, these people literally had troubles. They had a problem. There was a threefold problem. First of all, they were right, the Bible says, in the midst of the sea, the Sea of Galilee. Many of you have been there and seen it—a beautiful body of water. The old rabbis used to say that God made all of the seas and oceans for various reasons but He made the Sea of Galilee just for Himself. It is an incredibly beautiful sea, and it’s there like a topaz some days, nestling there in those Galilean hills and mountains round about it. And as they were there in the midst of that sea, about five miles across, they’re a great distance from the shore.

And then, not only was there the distance from the shore, but there were boisterous winds. The winds were contrary. And so, there they are, bending their backs to the oars and getting nowhere fast, perspiration on their brow, their faces white with fear. These were seasoned fishermen, but they were terrified; so it must have been some incredible storm. And then, the Bible says, when Jesus came walking on the water, it was the fourth watch of the night. That is, it was the fourth watch; it was about three in the morning. That is, it is the darkest part of the night.

So, there they are, out there in the middle of this sea, monstrous waves all around them, and they’re thinking to themselves, “We are going under.” Jesus said, “Go over.” But it looked like they were going to go under.

Now, doubtless, some who are listening to me tonight by radio, some who are in this building, and some who may listen later by tape know something of how those disciples felt because tonight, like they were in the middle of the Sea of Galilee, you’re right in the middle of a problem. And it seems like everything is against you. You cannot make progress. The winds are boisterous, and it is so dark that you can’t see your hand in front of your face. There are some tonight who are in a domestic storm, and your home is going through great turmoil. There are some of you who are in a financial storm, and you feel that you’re just about to sink. There are some of you who are in a physical storm. You’ve been to the doctor, and you’ve gotten a bad report; and there is some greedy malady that is gnawing away at your body. Some of you are in some dilemma, some situation, some problem, some heartache, some storm; you’re right now in the middle of that storm. And I believe that Jesus Christ performed this miracle not merely to rescue His disciples—He could have rescued them by not letting them get in the storm to begin with—but He performed this miracle that it might be a lesson to those of us who live today.

Now look, if you will, in verse 25. Right in the midst of that storm, in verse 25, it says, “And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea.” (Matthew 14:25) There was the Lord Jesus walking on the sea—not running on the sea, not crawling on the sea, but walking on the sea. That is, He’s undismayed. He is unafraid. There He is walking.

Now, I am from Florida. I was born in West Palm Beach, Florida. I love the ocean. As a matter of fact, this afternoon, I’ve been looking at a lovely book that somebody gave me about Palm Beach, Florida, and I was just going through that book and looking at those places that were scenes of my boyhood memory. I've always had some kind of an old ragtag boat and spent most of my years growing up recreationally out on the water. I love the ocean. I love the strength of the ocean, the smell of it, the beauty of it, the excitement of it, the intrigue of the ocean. And there are many times that I would have loved to have seen the Lord Jesus Christ. I mean, I would have loved to have seen Jesus as He healed the paralytic. I would have loved to have seen Jesus as He fed the five thousand. I would have loved to have seen Jesus—yes, I would—when He came out of that grave. I would love to have seen Jesus—and I will see Him—when He comes again. But, you know, there is one scene I just think, if I could pick it out, that I'd just really like to see more than any other: I'd like to see Jesus walking on the water in the midst of that storm. I can just see Him there with the foam on His beard. I can see Him there with the wind in His hair. I can see His garments flowing there. And I see those waves. And the waves, you see, were still tempestuous, so He'd have to go up one wave and down another. He's walking on the water. There is that kingly form striding across that troubled sea.

Now, when the disciples saw Him at first, they didn't recognize Him. They thought it was some sort of a spirit, a ghost. And Jesus, recognizing their fear, spoke to them, and Jesus said—and I want you to look at it because there's a wonderful lesson here in what the Lord Jesus said—verse 27: “But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid.” (Matthew 14:27) Now, that's what the King James says, and that is a proper translation. But let me tell you how it also may be translated. “It is I” may be translated this way: “I AM”—not “I am afraid,” but “I AM.”

A. Jesus Is the Great I AM

Now, what Jesus is saying to them is “I am the great I AM.” “Well,” you say, “you sound like you don't know how to talk right, preacher.” No, I AM is the most sacred name for deity that God gave to the Jews in the Old Testament. When Moses endeavored to lead the Jews out of the land of Egypt into the Promised Land, He said, “They won't believe me. I need some credentials. I need to tell them under whose authority I’m operating. I need to tell them who sent me.” And God the Father said, “You tell them I AM sent you” (Exodus 3:11–14)—not “I WAS,” not “I WILL BE”; just simply “I AM.” There never was a time when He was not. There never will be a time when He will not be. He is the great, eternal, self-existing Almighty God. He is I AM. And Jesus, in the gospels, took that name and He applied it to Himself. Jesus is the great I AM.

1. A Declaration of Deity

Now, when He said that, He was declaring, first of all, that He was Deity, that He is God. And it spoke of His power. That sacred name says, “Don’t worry about this storm. I am greater than this storm. You see these waves? The great I AM was in existence when this wasn’t even a vapor. And the wind and the waves must obey me.” And so, Jesus showed, first of all, a declaration of deity. He showed His power.

2. A Proclamation of Presence
But then, also, I like I AM because not only does it speak of His power, but it speaks of His presence. You see, He didn’t say, “I was,” or He didn’t say, “I will be”; He just simply said, “I am.” Now, what does that mean to you today? Well, the Jesus who was the I AM in the midst of their storm then is the same Jesus who is the I AM in the midst of your storm. I mean, He doesn’t change. When so many times we wish we could have been back there when all this good stuff was taking place, friend, a lot of good stuff is taking place today. He does not change. He is the I AM in the midst of your storm. There’s a declaration of deity. There’s a proclamation of presence. He is the great I AM.

One time many, many years ago, I heard a famous black preacher, Shadrach Meshach Lockridge. Shadrach Meshach Lockridge preached on the Twenty-third Psalm. He was going to preach on the Twenty-third Psalm, but he never hardly got past the first verse. As a matter of fact, he hardly got past the first two words. And he got there and he bogged down and thrilled me. He started out preaching this way: “The Lord is”—and he couldn’t get any further; just “the Lord is…” And he said, “You know, the Lord always has been, is, and the Lord always will be is.” I like that: “The Lord always has been, is, and the Lord always will be is.” The Lord Jesus said, “I am,” and He is. Friend, He is very real to you today. He is God. And He’s God in the midst of your storm, and He is God with you right now.

3. An Announcement of Abundance
But not only was it a declaration of deity, not only was it a proclamation of presence, but, you see, it was an announcement of abundance. You know what I AM is? It’s an unfinished sentence—it’s an unfinished sentence. I AM what? You fill it in. What you need, He is! You see, the Bible says, “In Him we are complete.” (Colossians 2:10) Jesus is not only necessary; He’s enough. To the artist, He’s altogether lovely. To the architect, He’s the Chief Cornerstone. To the banker, He is the Treasure. To the baker,
He is the Living Bread. To the biologist, He’s the Life. To the builder, He’s the Sure Foundation. To the doctor, He’s the Great Physician. To the educator, He’s the Great Teacher. To the farmer, He’s the Lord of the harvest. To the florist, He’s the Rose of Sharon. To the geologist, He’s the Rock of Ages. To the jurist, He’s the Righteous Judge. To the jeweler, He’s the Pearl of great price. To the lawyer, He is the Advocate.
To the publisher, He’s good tiding of great joy. To the philosopher, He is the wisdom of God. To the preacher, He’s the Word of God. To the sculptor, He is the Living Stone. To the statesman, He is the desire of all nations. To the theologian, He is the Author and Finisher of our faith. To the traveler, He is the new and living way. To the sinner, He is “the Lamb of God [that] taketh away the sin of the world.” (John 1:29) And to me, to you, and to every believer, He’s the Son of the living God, our Savior, our Redeemer, our Lord. He is the I AM. All that we’ll ever need, friend, is in Jesus. And if He is in you, in Him you’re complete. (Colossians 2:10)

And so, here comes the Lord Jesus out there in the midst of their storm, and He says, “Don’t be afraid.” Why? “Because I am the great I AM.” Tonight, if you’ve got a storm, I want you to get your eyes off the waves, your attention away from the winds and the darkness of the night, and I want you to see the Lord Jesus Christ walking on the water.

Now, how are you going to get above your problems? I want you to see what they did then. And this is what you must do.

I. You Must See Jesus

Number one: You must see Jesus. Look, if you will, in verses 27 and 28: “But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid. And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.” (Matthew 14:27–28) Now, what Peter was simply saying is, “Lord, I have seen what you can do. I have seen, Lord, what looked like it was going to be over my head is already under your feet.” Peter had a vision of Christ, who is absolutely, totally victorious.

Now, if you’ve got a problem tonight, I want you somehow—through the Word of God, through this message, by whatever means that God ordains for you—to get a glimpse of Jesus. Now, most all of us need in the midst of our storm to see Jesus. You see, that storm was what was about to engulf them. But the very thing that was about to engulf them was what brought Jesus to them. The storm they thought was going to drown them was for Jesus a forty-eight-lane superhighway. The very thing that looked like it was going to be over their head was under His feet. It was the storm. It was the wind, the waves, and the water that brought Jesus to them.

Now Peter, when he said, “Lord, if this is you, let me come and walk with you on that water,” I don’t think Peter was saying, “Boy, I’d just like the thrill of walking on water,” just like some people want to bungee jump. That’s not what he’s talking about. He’s just not saying, “Man, I want to go back and tell all my friends that I walked on water.” That’s not what he’s talking about. I don’t think Jesus would have ever fulfilled a carnal desire like that. What Peter was saying is, “Lord, I want to share that victory with you. I want to put my feet where your feet are. I want to become one with you. I want victory in Jesus. I want to share that victory.”

Now, the Lord Jesus wants you to share victory with Him. He wants you to learn that whatever is about to be over your head is really under His feet. But you have to see that. You have to see Jesus as the victor. You have to see Jesus as the overcomer.
You see, Jesus said, in John 16:33: “These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace”—now, do you need peace? Listen to it—“In the world ye shall have tribulation”—that is what? Storms—“but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.” (John 16:33) Now, He said, “That’s the way you can have peace. My victory, my overcoming, is your overcoming.” So, first of all, you must see Him.

II. You Must Hear Jesus
Now, secondly, not only did they see Him, but they heard Him. You must hear Him. “Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And he said, Come.” (Matthew 14:28–29) “Come.” (Matthew 14:29) Now, Peter did not start out until he was ordered. Had he just jumped out of the boat to go to Jesus, he would have sunk. That would not have been faith; that is presumption. And right here you learn the difference between faith and presumption. Presumption is going before you’re bidden, taking matters in your own hand. Today we call it “name it and claim it.” You think it, you’ll sink it! Faith is getting a word from God and acting on it. Now, Jesus said to Peter, “Come.” (Matthew 14:29) Now, had he not stepped out then, it would have been disobedience and absolute unbelief.

Now, in your problem, whatever it is, you need to hear Jesus speaking to you. You need to get a word from God. And that’s why you have to listen carefully. That’s why you have to develop that kind of a relationship where, not only can you see Jesus, but you can hear Jesus.

III. You Must Obey Jesus
Now, if you would get on top of your troubles, you must see Jesus, you must hear Jesus, and you must obey Jesus. Look in verse 29: “And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.” (Matthew 14:29)

Now, what is faith? Faith is not believing that God can get you out of your problems. Almost anyone can do that—just believe that He can. Faith is trusting the Lord and obeying the Lord. Do you know the difference between faith and belief? Faith is belief with legs on it. Faith is getting out of the boat, as it were, to go to Jesus.

Now, when you see Jesus and you hear Jesus, He’s going to tell you what to do; He’s going to speak to you. Now, He didn’t tell all the disciples to get out of the boat; He only told Peter to. But He had a plan for every one of them, and He has a plan for you. And you must learn to obey the Lord Jesus.

IV. You Can Prove Jesus
You must see Jesus. You must hear Jesus. You must obey Jesus. And then, you can prove Jesus. Look, if you will, in verses 29 and 30: “He walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me.” (Matthew 14:29–30)

Now, next to seeing Jesus walk on the water, I’d like to have seen Peter walk on the water. I’d like to have seen this whole thing. I mean, I’ve often wondered—haven’t you?—what it was like. I mean, was it hard like this platform? Or was it soft like Jell-O? What was it like? What did it feel like walking on the water? Was it kind of bouncy like a trampoline? What was it like? I don’t know. The Bible doesn’t tell us. But there he is, walking on the water. I can see the big fisherman. He’s been on that water many times. He puts one foot out. Feels pretty good. Another foot out. That feels pretty good. There’s Jesus. “Here I come, Lord.” And he’s walking. He’s saying, “This is wonderful. This is absolutely incredible. This is fantastic.” Then he sees the waves. He says, “This is impossible. This is impossible. What am I doing out here?” And when he takes his eyes from Jesus and he puts his eyes on the circumstances, he begins to sink.

Now, that’s exactly what the devil is trying to get you to do right now. You’ve got a problem, and you were going with me for a while. But you say, “Now, wait a minute, pastor. If I do what you tell me to do, I’m going to be just like Simon Peter. I’m going to sink.” Well, you know, I’ve thought about that, too. And maybe I ought not to tell you to do this, because boy, it sure was a sad funeral when they buried old Simon Peter after he’d drowned that day. I mean, you know, the Lord was there, and said, “You know, it’s a shame Peter drowned, being such a young man.” Oh, they cried over him. Jesus said, “I never should have asked him to do that—to get out of the boat and risk so much like that.” And John said, “You know, we knew better than to let that fool out of the boat. Why did we let him get out there like that?” It was a sad, sad funeral when old Peter drowned like that.

No, he didn’t drown, and neither will you! “The steps of a good man are ordered by the LORD: and...though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the LORD upholdeth him with his hand.” (Psalms 37:23–24) I don’t know how far Peter walked on that water, but he walked a lot further than I ever have and you ever have. And, you know, sometimes, if doubts come, that doesn’t mean that the whole thing has been a failure. And if sometimes we have sinking spells, our Lord knows our humanity. But we’ve got to trust Him. We’ve got to obey Him. We’ve got to see Him. We’ve got to hear Him. We obey Him, and then we’ll prove Him. I’ll tell you one thing: Peter did not drown. I don’t know how he got back to the boat. I don’t know whether he swam back. I don’t know whether he walked back. Or I don’t know whether he came back in the arms of Jesus. But he came back to the boat. He got back in the boat.

Now, the point, the whole matter, is this: that you will never know what God can do for you, and through you, until you begin to live by faith. Many of us don’t live by faith. I mean, we want to see it all clear before we’ll get out of the boat and trust the Lord. Now, don’t jump out of the boat until you hear God. But put yourself in a position where you see Him, where you hear Him, where you obey Him, and where you prove Him. I don’t know, Brother Jim, what Peter was singing when he walked back to that boat, but I think he was singing:

   Through it all, through it all,
   I’ve learned to trust in Jesus,
   I’ve learned to trust in God.

You see,

   If I’d never had a problem,
   I wouldn’t know [He] could solve them.

——ANDRAE CROUCH

V. You Worship Jesus

So, first of all, you see Jesus. Learn that He is victorious. Then, you hear Jesus. Then, you obey Jesus. Then, you prove Jesus. And here’s the wonderful thing: then, you worship Jesus. The next verse says they worshipped Him. (Matthew 14:33) That’s what it’s all about.

Do you know what your problems are? They’re just God’s way to bring you to Him just to cause you to trust Him, to depend upon Him, to see how wonderful He is. And without the problems, many of us would never truly see Him and let Him deliver us and worship Him as we ought to worship Him.

Conclusion

You know what I want to ask myself and ask you tonight? What is there about my life that cannot be explained apart from Jesus? And what is there that Jesus is doing for me that causes me to worship Him and give Him praise? I tell you, in the last three or four years, God has been so real to me that sometimes I just lift my hands to Him in praise, and I say, “Oh, you are a God of might and miracle! How I praise you for the storms you’ve brought me through!”

We need to learn to trust Jesus—not just to walk on water physically, but to get on top of our problems and to know that everything that looks like it’s about over our head is already under His feet."

Introduction

I want you to open your Bibles, if you would, please, to Matthew chapter 16—Matthew chapter 16, and I want to talk to you about “The Church of Jesus Christ.” If you are looking for a cause, if you are looking for excitement, if you are looking for a thrill, if you are looking for meaning and worth in your life, may I commend to you the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ?

Now if that sounds dull, just hang on for a moment. I want to say that the grandest organization and organism that this world has ever known is the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. I begin reading here in Matthew chapter 16, verse 13: “When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist: some, Elías; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets. He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto him, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven”
(Matthew 16:13–18).

Now there are some today who say that the Church is on her way out. And they are absolutely correct—they are absolutely correct. May I tell you, dear friend, Jesus has called the Church out of this world. And Jesus has sent the Church out back into this world to witness to this world, and soon He’s coming to take His Church out of this world altogether at His Second Coming. Thank God the Church is on its way out and up and on forever.

And so I want to talk to you about the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. And I’m not just talking about Bellevue Baptist Church, but His Church. I thank God for this church, but sometimes we get in trouble when we compare ourselves with other people. We look around and we say our church is better than their church. And we compare this particular church with some other particular church, or this denomination with some other denomination. Comparisons are always dangerous.

I heard of a two brothers who were thieves, rascals, drunkards, extortionists, strong-armed men, and they were just terrible. Anything you could say about them was not bad enough, hardly. And one of the brothers died, and the other came to a preacher and said, “I’ll give you a thousand dollars if you’ll preach my brother’s funeral and call him a saint.” The preacher said, “You’ve got a deal. Give me the thousand. And there was the funeral, and there was this rapscallion there in the casket; and this minister stood up and said, “The man in this casket is a liar, a thief, a pervert, a murder, an adulterer, a wicked man; but, compared to his brother, he’s a saint.”

We can compare and make ourselves feel pretty good, can’t we? Comparisons all depend on where you start. But, dear friend, I think it’s time that we got out the Bible and compared our church to God’s standard right here, and just say what the Lord Jesus says, and see what the Lord Jesus declares here in His Word about what a church ought to be. And I want you to look with me at six very wonderful things about a church that I pray God He’ll make true about this church and your church, whoever you are and wherever you are.

I. The Saving Faith of the Church
The very first thing I want you to see is what I am going to call the saving faith of the Church—the saving faith of the Church. Now Jesus was there at a very beautiful place, Caesarea Philippi. I’ve been there on a number of occasions. There’s beautiful Mount Hermon up there in the sky with its snowcap, and Jesus is standing there, and He’s asking His disciples, “Who do people say that I am?” And they said, “Well, some say you’re Elijah, some say you’re John the Baptist, and others say that you’re one of the prophets.” And then Jesus looks at them, and He says, “But who do you say that I am?” And, oh, what a question that is! And Simon Peter, who was always so quick to speak, opened his mouth and said, “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.” And Jesus said, “That’s right, Simon Peter. But don’t get puffed up about it. You didn’t figure it out yourself. Flesh and blood didn’t reveal it to you, but my Father which is in heaven showed you that.” And then Jesus said, “You’re Peter,”—that word Peter means, “a small rock”—“but upon this rock”—and He used another word for rock which meant, “a rock ledge”—“I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.”

What is the saving belief of the Church? What is the saving faith of the Church?

A. A Personal Conviction About Christ

First of all, it is a personal conviction about Christ—a personal conviction about Christ. Jesus said, “Who do you say that I am?” And may I ask you that question, those of you in that balcony, those of you down here, those of you here in the front row: Who is Jesus Christ to you? I’m not asking who He is to Adrian Rogers. I’m not asking not what Bellevue Baptist Church believes about Jesus Christ. I want to ask you the most penetrating question today that I could possibly ask you: What do you think about Jesus Christ? Who is Jesus?

Now the saving faith of the Church is based in a personal conviction about Christ. Simon Peter said, “Thou art the Christ, the Messiah, the Son of the living God.” Jesus said, “That’s right, Simon. But don’t get puffed up; you didn’t figure it out. My Father showed that to you.” And I want to say to any of you right now, if you want to know who Jesus Christ is, you lay your intellectual pride in the dust and ask God to show you—and God will speak to you. It does not come by education. I want you to understand this. Simon Peter had spent three years in the presence of the Son of God. He had heard Jesus Christ teach. And yet with all of that, that was not enough to convince him; God had to show him. My preaching will never convince you that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. Only the Holy Spirit can show you that.

B. A Personal Confession of Christ

All right, a personal conviction about Christ: who do you say He is? Secondly, a person confession of Christ. Listen. Simon Peter not only believed it, but He confessed it. He said it openly and publicly: “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God” (Matthew 16:16). My dear friend, your conviction must be followed by confession, if you’re a part of the New Testament Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ clearly, plainly, and without stutter or stammer, said, “But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven” (Matthew 10:33).
But Jesus said, “Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven” (Matthew 10:32). That’s the reason this morning, when I’m finished, I’ll give an invitation for those of you who are convicted that Jesus Christ is the Son of God to come forward. “Let the redeemed of the LORD say so” (Psalm 107:2). You cannot be ashamed of the Lord Jesus and sneak into heaven. “For the scripture saith, Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed” (Romans 10:11).

Years ago, I heard the story of a young lady in a revival crusade. She was in the back of the auditorium, weeping copiously, and under deep conviction of sin. Somebody went back there to witness to this young lady and ask her if she would come forward and confess her faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. She said, “Oh no, I can’t go down there in front of all of those people. Isn’t there some way that I can be saved right here back where I am?” Do you know what that personal worker told her? He said, “No, you cannot be saved unless you are willing to come forward.” I know what you are thinking, but let me finish the story.

The next night, there was another great move of the Spirit of God. The young lady was in approximately the same place in that mammoth auditorium; again she is weeping. The personal worker went back and said, “Would you like to be saved?” The same person talked to her. She said, “Oh, yes, I would.” He said, “Would you come forward and confess Christ?” She said, “Oh, no, can’t I be saved back here?” He said, “I’m sorry, you can’t be saved back here.” The third time that happened. He went to talk to her. He said, “Young lady,” as she was weeping, “won’t you come and give your heart to Christ?” She said, “Oh, yes, I will! I’ll go anywhere, I’ll do anything, if I can just have peace with God.” He said, “Now you don’t need to come forward. You can be saved back here.”

Oh, listen, dear friend. Let me tell you something. If you are ashamed of Jesus, Jesus must be ashamed of you. If you confess Jesus, Jesus will confess you. “For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation” (Romans 10:10).

C. A Personal Conversion Through Christ

There is, my dear friend, a personal conviction about Christ—“Thou art the Christ”—a personal confession of Christ; and that, my friend, leads to a personal conversion through Christ. Listen. Jesus said to this man whose name was Simon—do you know what Simon means? Simon means, “unstable.” And Jesus gave him a new name. Jesus said, “I’m going to say to you that thou art Peter.” And the word Peter—Petros—means, “rock.” Here is this one who’d been so unstable that the devil could sift him like wheatF he is no longer unstable. No longer is he an oatmeal character. Now he is a rock. He doesn’t get a piece of the rock. He is a piece of the rock. I mean, he becomes, my dear friend, a different person.

You see, when there is a conviction about Christ, when there is a confession of Christ, there is a conversion through Christ. And the Lord Jesus literally changes you from the inside just as He changed Simon Peter so long ago. And the Bible says, “If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature” (2 Corinthians 5:17). Oh, hallelujah for that! And I tell our folks around here—listen, friend—to be saved is not just to join a church; it is to be radically and dramatically changed for all eternity. And if your religion hasn’t changed your life, you’d better change your religion. You do not have New Testament salvation.

You know the problem today is, folks, that you can join churches today easier than you can some social organizations or some country clubs. The church today has become some sort of institution where anybody can get in and nobody gets out. What started out as a sheepfold has become a zoo. No, my friend, it is to be made up of those who are born again, those who have a conviction that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the Living God, those who are not ashamed to confess that Jesus Christ is the Son of the living God, and because of that have been changed radically, dramatically by a new birth for all eternity. That is the saving faith of the Church.

II. The Supernatural Formation of the Church

The second thing I want you to notice: I want you to notice the supernatural formation of the church. Jesus said to Simon Peter, “Peter, you are right. I am the Christ, the Son of the living God. You have confessed it. You are not ashamed of me.” And then he says, “And upon this rock, I will build my Church” (Matthew 16:17–18). Jesus said He is going to build His Church. I love that. I told the Lord about it before I left my study: “Lord, I praise you for this, that I have not been called to build this church. It is not my responsibility. It is only my response, Lord, to your ability.” Jesus is the builder of the Church.

Jesus builds the Church. He didn’t say, “I will build your Church.” He didn’t say, “You will build my Church.” He said, “I will build my Church.” Isn’t that a blessing? Friend, the Church can’t fail. The Church can’t fail, because the sovereign builder of the Church is the Lord Jesus Christ. This is the supernatural formation of the Church. I’ve talked to you about the saving faith of the Church. Now I’m talking to you about the supernatural formation of the Church. Flesh and blood cannot build the Church. Jesus said, “Flesh and blood did not reveal this to you, but my Father which is in heaven” (Matthew 16:17).
It is God’s work to reveal who Jesus is. It is God’s work to build the Church. The Bible says, “The Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved” (Acts 2:47). Flesh and blood cannot and will not build the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

III. The Solid Foundation of the Church
Now there’s a third thing I want you to see. First of all, I’ve talked to you about the saving faith. And then I’ve talked to you about the supernatural formation of the Church. Now I want you to see the solid foundation of the Church. “Upon this rock I will build this church” (Matthew 16:18). Some people think the Church is built upon Simon Peter, because Jesus calls Simon Peter a rock. But Jesus calls Simon Peter a small rock, a boulder. But then Jesus is making a play on words. He uses another word for rock which means, a “rock ledge,” a “stratum of rock,” “bedrock,” or a “stone mountain,” if you will. And He says, “Upon this rock.” What rock? That I am “the Christ, the Son of the living God.” “I will build my church.”

Friend, the Church is not built on Simon Peter. It is built on Jesus Christ—on Jesus Christ. The Apostle Paul clearly knew this. First Corinthians chapter 3 and verse 11: “For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ” (1 Corinthians 3:11). Thank God I don’t have to look back to some ancestral priest for my authority. I look up to the living God. That’s the solid foundation of the Church.

IV. The Sweet Fellowship of the Church
I want to speak to you, fourthly, not only about her solid foundation, but I want to speak also to you about the sweet fellowship of the Church. Jesus said, “Upon this rock I will build my ekklesia.” Now that’s the word that is used in the Greek language, and it literally means, “my called out ones”—“my called out ones.” People that I have called out of every race and kindred, tribe and nation, rich and poor, young and old, black and white, people from every spectrum of society, is my Church. This, my dear friend, is the fellowship of the Church.

Now, think of the Church as a spiritual house. Think of the Lord Jesus as the sovereign builder. Think of God the Father as the architect. Think of faith in the Lord Jesus as the Son of God as the foundation, Jesus as the foundation. But how are we going to build this spiritual house? Well, our Lord builds this spiritual house out of folks like us. This building is not the Church. It’s just a sheep shed. Friend, the Church is the blood-bought Body of Christ believers who are spiritual stones. Put in your margin 1 Peter chapter 2 and verse 5. Now, remember that Jesus was talking to Peter when He said, “You are Peter, and upon this rock I’ll build my Church” (Matthew 16:18). And Peter, therefore, understood what Jesus said. And, later on, when Peter wrote his epistle, in 1 Peter chapter 2 and verse 5, he spoke to his brothers and sisters, and said, “Ye also, as lively stones,”—that means, “living stones”—“are built up a spiritual house”
(1 Peter 2:5).

Do you get it? Christ is the foundation. Now we are getting ready to build upon this foundation. And He takes a you, and a you, and a you, and they, and these, and those, and us, and we, and He puts us all together stone upon stone. And He builds a spiritual house, not a church building. Nothing wrong with church buildings, but some people confuse the church building with the Church.

I read about a man who was filling a form one time, and they asked him, “What is your church preference?” He said, “Red brick.” Now he had confused the building with the Church. And we do it all the time. We say, “I’ll see you down at the church.” Don’t we do that? I do that, and you do that. But, folks, I mean let’s be specific, the Church is not these sticks and stones, but it is these living stones built upon the Lord Jesus Christ.

Listen to it—1 Peter 2:5: “Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.”

Now, let me just say a couple of things about the sweet fellowship of the Church.

A. We Are Built Together

First of all, dear folks, we are built together—together. You’re a stone; he’s a stone, she’s a stone; they’re a stone. And we are built together. Nobody ever saw a one-brick building, okay? Nobody ever saw a one-brick building. Have you ever heard anybody say, “Hey, I don’t need those folks down there”? You do, if you’re going to be part of a church. You can’t be a one-brick building.

The Bible says that we are built together—we’re built together. You see, that is so important. You can shove bricks around. But it’s hard to shove a building around, isn’t it? You see, that’s where the power comes, and that’s where the strength comes. We are built together. What is a brick lying out on the ground? Not much. But together we are part of the Body of the Lord Jesus Christ. That is the principle of cooperation.

B. We Are Bound Together

Not only are we built together; if we are built together, we are bound together. You know, a building is not a not a stack of stones. They are stones that are fitted to one another and bound together by mortar. You see, I belong to you. You belong to me. We belong to one another. These stones that make up this physical building, which is not the church, but is the church house, these bricks on the outside, one brick rests upon another brick. Another brick rests upon that. One brick holds hands with this brick, and another hand holds hands with that brick. Friend, I stand on the shoulders of those bricks before me. There are others who will come after me who will stand on me. I stand with this one, and this one stands with me. Together—we are bound together.

Now, again, a brick by itself is not very strong. At least, it’s not impressive. It can’t do much, and it can be carried around—but not a building. A brick by itself, a stone by itself, may not be beautiful; but, oh, friend, when they get together, how beautiful that is!

An architect told me years and years ago, when I first got out of seminary, something I’ve never forgotten. We were building a building. He was an old man. I went into his architectural office, and he said to me, “Young man, good architecture is not an arrangement of beautiful materials; it is a beautiful arrangement of materials.” Isn’t that neat? I mean, look around. We’re not altogether beautiful. But together we are beautiful—together we are beautiful: beautiful, because the Lord has taken you, and you, and him, and her, and us, and them, and He has put us together.

C. We Are Blessed Together

Oh, friend, this is the sweet fellowship of the Church. The Lord just has quarried us out, this stone and this brick, and this rock, and He has put us together. And we are built together. And we are bound together. And, therefore, my friend—listen to me—we are blessed together—we are blessed together. Listen. Peter says, “Jesus is the foundation. You are the stones.” And once our Lord builds us together, what for? He says, “A spiritual house.” Do you know what that means? A house for the Holy Spirit—a house for the Holy Spirit. First Corinthians 3: “Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?” (1 Corinthians 3:16). Friend, this building is not His temple; we are His temple. And He lives in us when we meet together. “For where two or three are gathered together in my name,”—what?—“there am I in the midst of them” (Matthew 18:20). You see, we are a spiritual house, and when we meet, the Lord says, “This is where I live.” The Lord dwells in the midst of His brethren. That’s so exciting to me.

I heard about a church where it was rumored that the President of the United States was going to come and worship in that assembly. Oh, the word got out. You know, “The President’s going to be there”—“the President’s going to be there.” Everybody was all excited about the President coming. The truth of the matter was, he wasn’t coming. One lady who’d never been to church, or had not been to church for many, many years, called up and she said to the pastor, “Oh, is it true that the President of the United States is going to be present Sunday morning? If so, I want to come. And how could I get a reserved seat?” He said, “Madam, the President will not be here, but the King of kings will, and that ought to be good enough for you.” Amen?

Oh, Jesus is here when His people worship. We’re built up as a spiritual house. You see, here’s the sweet fellowship of the Church: we are built together; we are bound together; we are blessed together. And don’t you tell me, dear friend, that you can be as good a Christian without the Church. It’s ridiculous! Oh, no, my dear friend! Listen. We are living stones, built upon Jesus Christ, and we are built together, and we are bound together, and we are blessed together. And I’m glad that I’m part of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

V. The Sure Future of the Church

Now, let me talk to you next not only about the sweet fellowship of the Church, but let me talk to you about the sure future of the Church—the sure future of the Church. Jesus said, “Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church,”—and then He says something that just thrills me, and He says—“and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it” (Matthew 16:18). And there He’s talking about the sure future of the Church.

Oh, we have enemies today—we really do. Our battle is not with flesh and blood, but with the demonized, organized, and mobilized forces of hell. But thank God we already have the victory. And I’m so glad, Brother Jim, we sang this morning, “Oh, Victory in Jesus.”

Now when the Lord Jesus says, “And the gates of hell shall not prevail against it,” He’s not saying primarily that the Church will survive. It will survive. But that’s not what He’s saying. He’s saying that the Church will thrive. It’s not that we’re going to be on the defensive. It’s not the gates of the Church that He’s talking about; it’s the gates of hell that will not prevail. He’s not saying that the Church is a fortress, and hell can’t get in. He’s saying that the Church is an army that hell can’t withstand. Do you understand that? You see, what He is saying is that it’s not that we’re behind closed doors and hell has its battering rams trying to get in. That’s not what He is saying. He is saying, dear friend, that we are on the offensive. When He says, “the gates of hell,” it literally says, in the Greek language, “the gates of Hades.” And He’s talking about the unseen world, the shadowy world of sin, sorrow, and death. We alone have the answer to those problems.

When Samson was armed with strength, he carried away the city gates of Gaza. But when Jesus went into the tomb, He carried away the gates of hell. My dear friend, through the Lord Jesus Christ we have an answer. Thank God hell has no dominion, sin has no power, death has no hold, that Jesus, through the gospel, cannot break. The gospel of Jesus Christ goes through the dominion of hell like a white-hot cannonball through a crate of eggs.

The gates of hell shall not prevail against the Church. The Church is not temporary. The Church is eternal. Dear friend, sin, death, hell, sorrow, the grave, and everything cannot withstand the power of the gospel of Jesus Christ. Hey, does that excite you? Listen, folks. Everybody’s trying to find something to belong to motorcycle clubs—vroom, vroom—well, something. Boy, listen. If you’re in a motorcycle club, I love you. That’s all right, fine. Listen, friend. There’s mountain climbing, doing this thing, that thing. You want something exciting? Throw in your heart, your life, to the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

VI. The Sacred Function of the Church

One last thing I want to say, and I'll be finished. I've talked to you about, dear friend, the sweet fellowship of the Church, and the sure future of the Church. Let me talk to you, last of all, about the sacred function of the Church—the sacred function of the Church. The Lord Jesus said to Simon Peter, “I'm going to build my Church.” And then He says, “I will give to you the keys of the kingdom of heaven. And whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven. And whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven” (Matthew 16:18–19). The keys of the kingdom tell us of the sacred function of the Church.

What do keys represent? Keys represent two things: number one, authority—if you have keys to this building, you have some authority here; number two: they represent responsibility. You’ve got keys to this building. You’ve got some responsibility here, right? We don’t just put them in a box and say, “Anybody want some, take them”—keys to anything. Remember when your boy turned sixteen and you gave him the keys to the car—at least, you let him use them, you know, oh, for a little while—and finally there came a time when you saw enough responsibility in that boy that you may have given him enough authority, you gave him his own key, or his own car that had a key? You remember when you first gave your child a key to the house, and you figured now they could put that key around their neck on a little chain where they wouldn’t lose it, or something—they come home after school and unlock the house themselves?

You see, what does a key mean? A key speaks of authority. It speaks of responsibility. And Jesus says to Simon Peter, “Now you’re in my Church, and I’m going to build my Church. But here’s the way I’m going to build my Church. I’m going to build it through people just like you. And I’m going to give you the power to bind and to loose.” And so, actually, I don’t want to get too convoluted here, but this is a future perfect tense, and what He says is that whatever you bind on earth shall have already been bound in heaven; and whatever you loose on earth shall have already been loosed in heaven. It’s not us who are doing it. We’re not doing the binding and the loosing. We just have the keys our Lord has given to us to use because of what He has already bound and what He’s already loosed.

You see, here’s the exciting thing. What is the key? The key is the saving gospel of Jesus Christ: that He is the Son of the living God, that through Him we can be changed for eternity, and we can be keepers of those keys, and preach the gospel, and whatever we bind will be bound in heaven. That is, we can bring souls bound in the golden chains.
of the gospel and lay them at Jesus’ feet, and what we loose will be loosed in heaven. Sin’s power is broken, and we can set the captives free through Jesus Christ. What a thrill it is to know that God has entrusted to us the keys of the kingdom, which is the glorious gospel of Jesus Christ!

And churches don’t need to be snooty religious country clubs with steeple:s on top. My dear friend, we need to be churches preaching a white-hot gospel. You listen to me, dear friend. The church must evangelize or fossilize. We must go out and bring the lost to Christ. And a church that has misused, abused, or neglected the keys is not just simply missing a blessing; it’s guilty of high treason against heaven’s King.

Conclusion

Now, may I be personal with you for a few moments—and I’ll be finished. And I want every mother’s child who names the name of Jesus to listen to me. Do you realize that you have been given the keys, just like Simon Peter?—authority and responsibility. How many people are you bringing to Jesus Christ? Did you know that some of us come to the house of God without even inviting a friend to attend, much less be a soul winner? We come here, sit, soak, and sour, thinking we’ve done God a wild favor when we come to church: “I went to church Sunday morning.”

What on earth are you doing for heaven’s sake? What are you doing to bring people to Jesus Christ? He has given to you the keys of the kingdom of heaven. No wonder Andrew Murray said, “There are two classes of Christians: soul winners and backsliders.” There are more than 5,000 people in this sanctuary right now. If there were only 5,000 Christians in the world, no more than is in this building, and those 5,000 in one year—365 days—reproduce themselves twice, the first year there would be 15,000 Christians—just twice! If they did it three times, there would be 20,000 the first year—20,000, if there were no other Christians in the world! Now if they taught each one of their converts to do the same thing, then think how that’s going to grow! In ten years, every soul on earth would be born again Christians—three a year! That’s the principle of multiplication.

Christianity hasn't failed; it just hasn’t been tried, folks. Are you trying to tell me that you praying, weeping, loving, yearning, learning, and listening could not bring three souls to Jesus Christ in a year? You say you couldn’t do it? That’s not humility on your part; that’s arrogance on your part: that you would refuse to obey and listen to God tell you what God would have you to do. The sacred function of the Church is that we have been given the keys of the kingdom.

You say, “Pastor, I am not gifted.” Listen to these words. If you cannot preach like Peter, if you cannot pray like Paul, you can tell the love of Jesus and say, “He died for all.” Let none hear you say, “There’s nothing I can do,” while the souls of men are dying and the Master calls for you. That’s the reason why I’m telling you, dear folks, the most exciting thing I know is the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Introduction
Turn, please, to Matthew 16, and we’re going to be speaking today on “The Church Triumphant.” We said this was the year of victory. We’re claiming victory in the Lord Jesus, so I want us to think of the Church triumphant. The Bible teaches that the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ cannot fail—that, indeed, it will be triumphant.

Matthew 16, beginning in verse 13: “When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist: some, Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets. He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:13–19)

Every now and then, we hear people say the Church is on its way out—that the Church Age is over: the Church has had her day, and after a while, the Church will just be a shabby beggar on a forgotten corner. Well, I want to agree: The Church is on her way out. Jesus Christ has called her out of this world. Jesus Christ has sent her out into this world. And one of these days, the Lord Jesus is coming to take the Church out at His Second Coming, amen? Thank God, we’re on our way out. Thank God, we’re on our way up to be with our dear Lord forever. And the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ is triumphant—not shall be; is triumphant.

Now the scripture that I read to you took place about six months before the crucifixion of the Lord Jesus Christ. And, in a sense, it is the final examination that the Lord Jesus has given to His disciples after they’ve been with Him in three years of seminary. And the examination has two basic questions: number one, “Who do people say that I, the Son of man, am?”; (Matthew 16:13) number two, “Who do you say that I am?” (Matthew 16:15) Well, people were saying He was John the Baptist, Elias, or one of the prophets. And then Jesus really narrowed in the questioning, and He said, “But who do you say that I am?” It was at that time that Simon Peter, who frequently spoke, and was frequently wrong, spoke up this time and got an A-plus. Simon Peter said, “You’re the Christ, the Messiah, the Son of the living God.” And Jesus said, in effect, “Simon, you get an A-plus. Now, don’t get puffed up about it. You didn’t figure it out. It’s not because you’re such a good student. ‘Flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven,’ (Matthew 16:17) He’s the One that showed it to you.” And then Jesus said, “Peter, ‘upon this rock I will build my church; and the [very] gates of hell shall not prevail against it.’” (Matthew 16:18)

Now, there are some things I want you to learn about the Church of the Lord Jesus this morning: “The Church Triumphant.”

I. The Foundation of the Church
Number one: I want you to see the foundation of the Church—the foundation of the Church. Look again in verses 16 and 17: “Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:16–17)

Now the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ is to be built upon a rock, upon a foundation stone. The question has arisen: Who, or what, is that rock? Now our Roman Catholic friends tell us that that rock is Simon Peter—and here’s why they say the Church is built upon Simon Peter: because the name Peter is “rock.” Peter is a form of petros, and petros is the Greek word for “rock.” Peter was Rocky I. And so Jesus said to Peter, “You are a rock, and upon this rock I’ll build my Church.” (Matthew 16:18) “So,” they say, “it’s clear—as plain as the nose on your face: Jesus called Peter a rock, and then He said, ‘I’m going to build my Church upon this rock,’ and so the Church is built upon Simon Peter. Simon Peter is the rock upon which the Church is built.”

Ah, not so! The Church was not built upon Simon Peter. The Church is built upon none other than the Lord Jesus Christ. Now, when Jesus called Peter a rock—you don’t see it in the English language here, the English translation, but in the Greek in which it was written—it is very clear that Jesus is making a play on words, and He uses two different words for rock. Now, here’s what Jesus said: “Thou art Peter”; that is, “You are a rock.” But the word that He uses here is petros, which means a “boulder,” or as we would say over in Arkansas, a “little rock.” All right, “Now you are a little rock.” But then Jesus said, “Upon this [petra]”—petros is masculine gender; petra is feminine gender—“Upon this [petra] I will build my church.” Two different words in the original language: one, “little rock”; the other word means “foundation stone.” The other word means “rock ledge.” The other rock—the other word—means “bedrock; great, massive, monolithic rock.” “Upon this [Gibraltar] I will build my church.” He’s making it very clear that, while Peter is a little rock, the Church is not to be built upon such a little rock, but the Church is to be built upon the Lord Jesus Christ. And I am infinitely glad that I don’t have to look back to some ancestral priest or some ancestral apostle as the foundation of the Church. I am so glad that the Church is built upon the Lord Jesus Christ.

And, incidentally, when you go home, take your Bibles, and turn to 1 Peter 2, and read the entire chapter, and you’ll find out that Peter understood clearly what Jesus Christ was talking about. In that chapter, Peter calls all Christians “living stones.” (1 Peter 2:4) That is, every one of us is a stone. But he calls Jesus the “chief cornerstone.” (1 Peter 2:6) Peter knew that Christ was the foundation of the Church, the chief cornerstone, and he knew that the rest of us are living stones, little rocks, built upon that foundation stone. And so that is exactly what Jesus was talking about. And it was Paul who told us in 1 Corinthians 3:11: “For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.” (1 Corinthians 3:11) And so the foundation of the Church is the Lord Jesus.

The Church’s one foundation
Is Jesus Christ, her Lord.,
She is His new creation
By [Spirit] and the Word.

II. The Formation of the Church

Now, the second thing I want you to see today: Not only the foundation of the Church—and thank God the foundation stands true and firm, the Lord Jesus Christ—but I want you to see the formation of the Church. What good is a foundation if you don’t build a building upon it? And the Lord Jesus said in verse 18, “Upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) That’s the reason I said the Church will be triumphant: because Jesus said He would do it, and He won’t lie. He can’t lie, and He can’t fail. He said, “I will—I will, I will—build my Church.” Now, if Jesus had said, “Upon this rock you will build my Church,” we might worry a little bit, because we’d say, “We can fail.” But He didn’t say that. He didn’t say, “Upon this rock you will build my Church.” He didn’t say, “Upon this rock I will build your Church.” He said, “Upon this rock I will build my church”—“I will build my church.” And so the Church is built upon none other than the Lord Jesus Christ. He is the Christ, the Son of the living God. That is the rock upon which Jesus is going to build His Church.

Now, how does He build His Church? I mean, what does it mean to build His Church? What is the Church? Is the Church a material, physical building like this one? Of course not! Sometimes people call this “the church,” and we all use that terminology: “I’ll see you down at the church.” We like to think of the church as a building, a material building. One man was filling out a form, and they said, “Church preference.” He said, “Red brick.” No, no, no! That’s not the Church; that’s where the Church meets. By the way, the Church is not a denomination either, and the Church is not an organization. What is a church? A church is a called-out body. The very word church means “someone who has been called out.” It is an ecclesia, and the word ecclesia means—it’s a combination of two Greek words—it means “to call out.” For example, if I were to say, “You and you and you, come up here,” and you got up and came out of that congregation, you would be called out; you would be brought out of the rest. And that’s exactly what the word means: It means “people who have been called out.” And the Lord Jesus Christ in this world has called us out of this world with a holy calling: out of the world and unto Himself. And that is what the Church is—the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now, if you haven’t been called out by the Lord Jesus, you’re not a part of the Church; you may have your name on the roll, but you’re not a part of the Church. Jesus said, “Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.” (Matthew 7:22–23) The real Church is going to be called out again at the Second Coming of Christ. We’re called out of the world to Him, and then we’re going to be called out with Him when He comes again.
When I was a boy, we used to play in an old scrapyard down at 34th Street in West Palm Beach. And I would go down there and play in that place. I was amazed to see what things had been thrown away. It was back during World War II, and they had some scrap airplanes down there and other things that had been somehow destroyed or discarded in the war. And we would get in the fuselages of those old airplanes and play and have a big time. And they moved that metal around with a great electromagnet, and that magnet that was on the end of a crane would come and pick up huge things like the carcass of an automobile and so forth. What power was in that magnet! I was intrigued by that magnet. But I noticed there were certain things that magnet would not pick up. It didn’t pick up aluminum. It didn’t pick up brass. It would not pick up copper. And yet it would pick up all that iron. Do you know why? It had an affinity for the iron, but not for the brass, not for the aluminum, not for the copper. Now some of the iron was rusty, and some of the brass was shiny; but it made no difference. It was the iron that went up, and not the brass.

You know, that’s what it’s going to happen when Jesus comes: His coming is going to be like a great electromagnet. And those of us who have an affinity for Him—those of us who share His nature—are going to be caught up. You can look out here. Some of you are polished brass, and some of you are rusty iron. And, you know, if we were to choose, we’d say, “Hey, that brass, that looks pretty neat. He must be a Christian. Hey, that guy is kind of rusty. We don’t think he’s saved.” But, you know, “the LORD sees not as man sees.” (1 Samuel 16:7) God sees us on the inside, and when He comes, we’re going to be caught up to be with Him.

The formation of the Church is this: that the Lord Jesus Christ, by His grace and by His power, is calling people out. Thank God—thank God, thank God—He called me. And you ought to praise Him that He called you. Listen, friend. It wasn’t your idea. You love Him because He first loved you. (1 John 4:19) Had He not called, you never could have come. Hallelujah, we’re the called-out ones! That’s the formation of the Church. He said, “I will build my church,” and that’s the reason it cannot fail.

III. The Fellowship of the Church

Now, the third thing I want you to notice is the fellowship of the Church. What the Lord Jesus said is this: “I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) Did you know it’s His Church? It’s so precious to Him. Listen to me. Jesus Christ and the Church are distinguishable, but they are inseparable. Now, listen. Christ and the Church are not identical, but Christ and the Church are inseparable. That’s the reason it’s so absolutely absurd and foolish for a person to say, “Jesus, yes; and church, no. I believe in Jesus, but I don’t want to have anything to do with the church.” That’s ridiculous, folks. If you love Jesus, you’re going to love what Jesus loves—and Jesus loves the Church. It is an absolute false and bogus Christianity that does not love the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Jesus called His Church by three things. His Church, in the Bible, is described, first of all, as His Body. Remember there in Ephesians 1? He’s the head, and the Church is the body, (Ephesians 1:22–23) right? Right! Nod your head; look intelligent. Okay, number two: The Church is called in Ephesians 5 His bride. (Ephesians 5:23) We are the Bride of Christ. And also, in the book of the Revelation, the Church is called the bride of Christ. (Revelation 21:9; Revelation 22:17) And then, thirdly, the Church is called His building in 1 Corinthians 3 (1 Corinthians 3:9) and also here in Matthew 16. The Church is a building—not a physical building, a spiritual building: Christ, the foundation; the rest of us as living stones to make that building.

A. The Church Is the Bride of Christ

All right, what is the Church? The Church is a body. The Church is a bride. The Church is a building. Got that? All of those things talk to us about the Lord Jesus Christ. Now, let’s think of the Church as a bride. Now so many times the women say, “The Bible always uses masculine terms to describe us. Why can’t we be described like women?” You know, “If any man be in Christ, he is a new [creation].” (2 Corinthians 5:17) Women say, “Why doesn’t it say, ‘If any woman be in Christ, she is a new creation’? Why is it always speaking in masculine terms?” Well, this time, women, you win: The Church is spoken of in a feminine term. And we ugly-looking men up here, we’re brides; we’re part of the Bride of Christ. And, in that sense, all of us are part of the Bride of Christ, if we are in the Church. The Church is the bride. He is the heavenly Bridegroom.

Now, let’s just imagine that this morning there is a young bride and groom. They’ve been married several weeks, and somebody in Bellevue Baptist Church comes up to that young groom and says, “I’d like to have you for my guest. I’d like for you to come over to my house this Thursday evening for dinner. We’re going to have a marvelous dinner—and a seven-course meal. And it’s all for you. And it’s in your honor. I just think so much of you, and we just want you to come over.” He says, “Well, fine. Let me go ask Susie. You know, I just married Susie. Let me go ask Susie and see if she can come to it.” “Oh, no, it’s not for Susie. You see, we don’t like Susie. As a matter of fact, we don’t want to have anything to do with Susie. It’s not for Susie. It is for you. We think a whole lot of you, but we really don’t think very much of Susie. As a matter of fact, we just don’t like Susie at all, and she cannot come.” I want to tell you, if that fellow doesn’t want to wear a wooden overcoat, he’d better decline the invitation, amen? I mean, Susie will fix his wagon, isn’t that right? And if he’s any kind of a groom at all, he’s going to say, “Listen, if you don’t like Susie, you don’t like me. And I don’t like you if you don’t like Susie. I mean, Susie is precious to me. And if you love me, you’re going to have to love Susie, because I love Susie so much.”

Now I’m going to tell you something, folks. You can say bad things about me and get away with it more quickly than you can say bad things about my Joyce. As a matter of fact, if you say anything real bad about Joyce, I just might get carnal and put you on the ground, because she is my bride and I love her. And I want to tell you something. You listen to me. When you criticize the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ, do you know what you’re doing to Jesus? He is the heavenly Bridegroom. He loves the Church. He died for the Church. The Church is His bride. And you’d better be very careful before you go around criticizing the bride of the Lord Jesus Christ.

B. The Church Is the Body of Christ

And not only is the Church His bride; the Church is His body. He’s the head, and we’re the body. Now, what man says, “Well, I just love my head, but I just hate my body; I mean, I’m going to take care of my head, but I’m not going to do a thing for this body”? That’s ridiculous! The head and the body are not identical, but they’re inseparable. You see, there’s a union, a vital union. And how foolish for a person to say, “Oh, I love Jesus, but I just don’t go down to church; you don’t have to go to church to be a Christian”! Friend, let me tell you something. If you love Jesus, you’re going to love what Jesus loves. And the Church is the body of the Lord Jesus Christ. He is the head. We’re the body. Christ is the invisible part of the visible Church; and the Church is the visible part of the invisible Christ; and we are one with our Lord.

C. The Church Is the Building of Christ

But not only that; the Church is His building. He inhabits the Church. Now I’m not talking, again, about these physical buildings. I’m talking about us. He lives in us. You remember there in Matthew 18 where the Lord Jesus said, “Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I”—where?—“in the midst of them.” (Matthew 18:20) Now Christ is always in our heart. Everywhere we go, we’re never alone: He’s there. But there is a peculiar sense—there is a unique sense—in which Jesus Christ meets when His people meet. He is standing in the midst of the golden lampstands, which is the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. You’re going to find Christ here in our midst. Brother Jim has quoted several times that, when we sing, He is singing in the midst of the brethren. When we have a song service, the Lord Jesus is here joining in, and singing praise, and giving glory to the Father with us. “For where two or three are gathered together…”

You see, a church is a building. What is a building for? A building is to be inhabited. Why does He build this building? So He can live in it. And we are the temple of God. Corporately, He lives in us. And so the Lord Jesus is here in a very special way when we meet together that He’s not at other times.

You know, every now and then, the President of the United States will attend a worship service. One day, Ronald Reagan may attend the services here. And when the President attends the worship services, generally, the Secret Service, they go out ahead and make certain that everything is going to be all right, and they check up on the pastor to make certain he’s not a subversive of some kind. And they don’t want anything to be embarrassing or anything, and they want everybody to be safe. They want the President to be safe. And they do all of that. Now, in this particular church, the President thought that he might attend that church. And they’d done all the preliminary work. And then at the last moment there was a change of plans.

Well, they were making plans. It was members only, first, and all of this, and everybody was wanting to be there. And the news was out, and after a while, the pastor got a little exasperated because of the phone calls. And one lady called the church office, and she said, “I need to know, is the President of the United States going to be there Sunday morning? We need to make our plans as to whether or not we’re going to attend. Can you tell us, please, if the President will be there?” The pastor got a little exasperated. He said, “No, ma’am. He will not be, but the King of kings will be!” Amen? “The King of kings will be—the Lord Jesus.” “Where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them.”

And, by the way, suppose we knew that the President of the United States were going to visit these services, what would we do? I want to ask you a question, Jim. If you knew that you knew that Ronald Reagan were coming—now, be honest. Look, you be honest this morning, won’t you? Look at me. Look. All right now, listen—if you knew that the President was going to come, would you practice better with the choir? I’m glad you’re honest this morning. You really would. Boy, you’d pull out a sugar stick, or get a brand new one, and you’d really practice. You’d do good, wouldn’t you?

Now I want to be honest. If I knew the President were coming, I’d just study better and harder. And, you know, I’d work on the message, and you’d want to be here. You’d say, “Well, we can’t be gone that Sunday. The President’s going to be there that Sunday.” You’d want to be faithful. You’d want to be here, wouldn’t you? We’d probably want to kind to have the grounds looking good? And you’d kind of vacuum the floors, and look and see if there were any smudges around, and pick up paper—everything! Why, the President is going to be there, right? Oh, friend, listen. The King of kings is here every Sunday, isn’t that right? We ought to sing and preach and pray, and keep these grounds as to honor Him, the Lord Jesus.

Now we’re not talking about these physical buildings as being the Church; this is the church house. But, oh, He inhabits this place when we are here, because we are His building. The people are His building. So, remember this about a church: A church is
His bride, and you can’t love the groom without loving the bride. The Church is His body: You can’t love the head without loving the body. And the Church is His building: It’s where He is present. And so, dear friend, if you love the One who built the building, you have to love the One who lives in that building, and love the building that the One lives in: the Lord Jesus Christ. That’s the fellowship of the Church. He says, “I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18)

IV. The Faith of the Church

Now, the next thing I want you to notice is what I want to call the faith of the Church. Now, why did Jesus Christ ask them this question: “Whom do men say that I…am?” (Matthew 16:13) Because He wanted to see if they understood the faith of the Church. And Jesus received the right answer in verse 16: “And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” (Matthew 16:16) And, by the way, that’s the rock upon which the Church is built—the fact that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. That is the confession of faith upon which every true church is built: that Jesus is Christ, Messiah, the Son of God.

Now, listen—listen. There are a lot of churches today—so-called “churches”—that are not churches at all, because they don’t make this confession. Any organization is merely an organization and not a church if they do not confess that Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of the living God. And when you say, “He’s the Messiah, the Son of the living God,” that speaks of His deity.

Now Jesus Christ is not a great religious leader. You never speak of Jesus Christ the Great. You might say, Peter the Great, Charlemagne the Great, Alexander the Great, but not Jesus the Great. He is Jesus, the One and only. If there’s something that used to rub my fur the wrong way—and still does when I hear it—it’s this rock opera Jesus Christ Superstar. I thought that was dead, but the other day I heard somebody is putting it on around here somewhere: Jesus Christ Superstar. He’s not a superstar. You see, a superstar is the best in a category.

For example, at the Super Bowl, they have a quarterback from Florida and a quarterback from California. It’s obvious the quarterback from Florida will be best just because of where he’s from; but these two men are superstars. Of all of the quarterbacks—and there are a lot of them—these fellows have come to the top of their profession. They are superstars. They are the best in a category. You see, Jesus is in a category all by Himself. Understand what I’m talking about. I mean, He is the unique Son of God. He’s not the best of all the sons of God; He is the only begotten Son of God. He is not a Christ; He is the Christ—the Christ—the Son of the living God. This is the faith of the Church.

Now because of this, let me tell you how you get into the Church. Let me tell you how you become a part of the Church. Three things are necessary.

A. To Get into the Church, There Must Be a Conviction

First of all, there must be a conviction that He is the Christ, the Son of the living God. How did Simon Peter know that He was the Christ, the Son of the living God? Was Simon Peter that smart? Was he that intelligent? No! Jesus said, “Simon, you get an A, but don’t get puffed up about it. You didn’t figure it out. Flesh and blood didn’t reveal it to you. My Father revealed it to you.” (Matthew 16:17) I’ve told you this many, many times; I want to tell you one more time: Anything I can talk you into, somebody else can talk you out of. They had been with Jesus for three years, and yet it still took something supernatural for them to understand who He was. After three years of teaching, still God had to reveal it to them.

Do you understand that? You see, I can preach truth; but only He can impart truth. And that is why, ladies and gentlemen, He builds the Church. We can’t do it. I can’t just get a people—a group of people—in a room and say, “I’m going to make Christians out of you. Now, listen to this. Doesn’t this make sense? You all agree with that? Now you’re all Christians.” No! That would be head knowledge. What Jesus said to him was, “God revealed it to you.” You see, we are called out by the Holy Spirit of God. Many of us do not understand how dependent we are upon the Holy Spirit of God for this thing called conversion: that He is the One who gives that conviction that He’s the Christ. It takes a divine, supernatural revelation. God takes the initiative.

B. To Get into the Church, There Must be a Conversion

Not only is there a conviction; there’s also a conversion. You see, when He said, “You are a rock, and upon this greater rock I’ll build my Church,” (Matthew 16:18) what was He saying? He was saying, “Peter, you and I now have the same nature—the same nature. We’re both made of the same substance.” You know, he didn’t have a piece of the rock; he was a piece of the rock. Peter understood this, and Peter said in his epistle we are “partakers of the divine nature.” (2 Peter 1:4) See, we’re made like unto Him. So it’s not just enough to be convinced that He’s the Christ, the Son of the living God. You have to be made like Him. There’s a supernatural conversion when we share His nature.

C. To Get into the Church, There Must be a Confession

All right now, watch: a conviction, a conversion, and a confession. Peter says it openly and plainly, unashamedly, “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” (Matthew 16:16) You see? Not ashamed of the Lord Jesus. Now Jesus said, “If you’re ashamed of me, I’ll be ashamed of you.” (Mark 8:38; Luke 9:26) It is when we’re convicted, converted, and confess the Lord Jesus Christ that we are called out of this world and we become a part of that organization, that organism, His body, His bride, His building, which is the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. And without this, no one can qualify for church membership.

V. The Future of the Church

Something else I want you to notice: not only the faith of the Church, but the future of the Church. Jesus said, “Upon this rock I will build my church;”—verse 18—“and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.” (Matthew 16:18) That is, the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ cannot fail; it will not fail. Every now and then, people talk about how dark things are getting for the Church. There will be persecution for the Church; there will be more and more. Ten years from now, you’ll say, “I believe what the pastor said.” If the Lord tarries ten years, the persecution is going to get greater. But I want to remind you that when Jesus Christ gave this statement about the future of the Church, things never looked darker outwardly, for around the corner was the crucifixion. The crowds were now leaving Him. His work was misunderstood. It was a dark hour when Jesus said, “I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.” Never put your eyes upon outward circumstances. Always remember this promise. The future of the Church is as bright as the promise of God.

Now Jesus said, “The gates of hell shall not prevail against [the Church].” Many people have the idea that the Church is standing strong, and hell has a battering ram. That’s not the idea. It is the Church with the battering ram, and the forces of hell behind the gates. And, literally, what He’s talking about is this: The gates of hell are in the Greek language the gates of Hades—that is, the abode of the dead—and the devil has taken people through sin and death and kept them captive. But Jesus said, “Those gates cannot keep them.” We have the ability to set the captive free and to bring them out. Jesus has the keys of death and of hell; and, therefore, the gates of hell shall not prevail against the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus, who called the Church out—Jesus, who sent the Church out—is the One who’s going to come to catch the Church up. And we are going up with the Lord Jesus Christ, and the devil cannot keep us.

VI. The Function of the Church

Now, one last thing I want you to notice as we think about the Church triumphant: I want you to think about the function of the Church. Let’s continue to read verse 18: “Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it”—that is, “will not succeed against it,” “will not be able to withstand it.” “And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:18–19)
Now this is the reason that some people, again, believe that the Church is built upon Simon Peter. That’s the reason some people believe that Simon Peter was the first pope, because they say that Jesus gave to Peter the keys of the kingdom. And since Peter has the keys of heaven, you can’t get into heaven unless Peter lets you in. And, therefore, in all of the comic strips and everything, there’s St. Peter at the golden gate with the keys, and he lets you into heaven. And you have to go and tell Peter, you know, if you want to get into heaven. That’s all ridiculous! The Bible doesn’t teach that at all. Jesus doesn’t say here “the keys of heaven”; it is “the keys of the kingdom of heaven.”

Now Peter is not the one who lets you into heaven. Back in the fifties, they used to sing a song about smoking cigarettes, and one of the lines in that song was, “Smoke, smoke, smoke that cigarette. Puff, puff, puff and if you smoke yourself to death, tell St. Peter at the Golden Gate that you hate to make him wait, but you just gotta have another cigarette.” Remember that song? All right, well, the idea is that there will be no smoking in heaven, you know, just like some folks stand out here on the front of the church hoping that it will last them until they get out and the preacher doesn’t preach too long. Well, Peter’s not the guy—Peter’s not that guy.

No, listen, friend. What He’s talking about is that back in this time every scribe had a key that he wore on a girdle. It was a sign of knowledge and authority. Now Jesus has given us knowledge, and Jesus has given us authority. Jesus here is speaking, obviously, symbolically when He says, “I give [you] the keys of the kingdom of heaven.” There’s no material key that unlocks, so it must be Jesus is talking here about authority. “Well,” you say, “but He gave it to Peter, and look what it says to Peter: ‘Whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.’” (Matthew 16:19) Wonderful! That’s in chapter 16. Turn to chapter 18 now; look in verse 18—same Jesus: “Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven.”

The keys of the kingdom of heaven are given to every blood-bought child of God who confesses that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God.

Now, do you notice something? In 16, He says, “thou”; in 18, He says, “ye.” What’s the difference? Ye is plural. And let’s read it like a Southern Baptist would read it: “Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever [you all] shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven:”—that’s what it means: “you all; every one of you”—“and whatsoever [every one of you] shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 18:18) The keys of the kingdom of heaven are given to every blood-bought child of God who confesses that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God.

And what is the purpose of keys? To unlock. And what is the key? It is the gospel of Jesus Christ that unlocks the prison house of despair and unlocks the treasuries of heaven. And with this Bible, and with God’s Word, and with the fact that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, we have the key that sets men free. We have the keys to the kingdom of heaven, and the Lord Jesus has given us those keys. And what, therefore, is the function of the Church? It is to use those keys. I want to tell you, the function of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ is evangelism; and if we don’t go out in evangelism, we will go out of existence. I told you last week, we’ll evangelize or fossilize, and that we have a main calling, and that is to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ.

I believe we ought to fight abortion. I believe we ought to fight communism. I believe we ought to fight liquor. But let me tell you something, friend. You can fight liquor, and not be a Christian. You can fight communism and abortion, and not be a Christian. But, dear friend, you cannot make a man a real Christian without changing him on these other issues. What I’m trying to say is this: that if we don’t preach the gospel, we’re going to fail, folks. And you know what I want to be known as? I don’t want to be known as a liquor fighter. I don’t want to be known as a man whose instincts are in the political realm. I don’t want to be known as a communism fighter. I don’t want to be known as an anti-abortionist. Oh, listen. I don’t mind being known by all of these things, but I don’t want to be known by those things. You know what, when they think of Adrian Rogers, I want them to think of? Gospel preacher. Now, that might sound old-fashioned; but I want to be known as a preacher of the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. I’m going to pay my respects to all of these things; but I want to tell you, dear friend, that the Church is the one that has been given the monopoly on the gospel of Christ. And if we don’t preach it, nobody else is going to preach it. Jesus has given the Great Commission to His Church. Jesus says to the Church, “I’ll give unto you the keys of the kingdom of heaven.” (Matthew 16:19)

And I pray God—oh, I pray God—that you’ll see that those keys are not just given to Peter and not just given to Adrian; they’re given to you, and they’re given to every blood-bought child of God. And if you’re in that Church, and you believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, at the same time, correspondingly, you’re going to want others to believe it too, and to be called out, and to be a part of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Someone wrote these words:

> If you cannot preach like Peter,
> If you cannot pray like Paul,
> You can tell the love of Jesus
> And say, “He died for all.”

Introduction

Take God’s Word and turn with me, please, tonight to the Gospel of Matthew chapter 16—we’ll begin reading in verse 13. The grandest organization that this world knows anything about is the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. I’m so delighted to be a part of His Church, this visible expression of the grandest organization and organism that the world has ever known: the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. I want to talk to you tonight about “The Church Triumphant.”

Now the scripture that I’m going to read takes place about six months before the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. He has been teaching and preaching, ministering to His disciples, discipling them, if you will, developing them and bringing them to this critical moment. And now they’ve been in school, and Jesus is giving the final examination. I want you to listen. Matthew 16, verse 13: “When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist: some, Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets. He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona:”—that means “son of Jona”—“for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:13–19) Thank God for the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

And let me tell you why the Church is the Church Triumphant.

I. The Foundation of the Church

First of all, I want you to think about the Church as a spiritual building. Now the Church is not a literal building, not a physical building. This building, beautiful as it is, is not a church. It is a church house; we meet here. But you’re the Church. You see, the building is not the Church, but the spiritual building has a spiritual foundation. Now I want you to see the spiritual foundation of the spiritual building. Verse 16: “Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:16–18) And in verse 18 you have the foundation of the Church.

Now, what foundation is the Church built upon? Someone says, “Well, if you read it, it’s obvious: the Church is built upon the foundation of Simon Peter, for Jesus says, ‘Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church.’” But may I say plainly, clearly, without stutter or stammer, without equivocation, the Church is not built upon Simon Peter, nor did Jesus say that He would build His Church upon Simon Peter. That is a careless reading of this passage of Scripture. The word Peter is an English translation of the Greek word petros, and it simply means “rock.” Jesus said to Peter, “Peter, you’ve been unstable up to this time, but now, Peter, you are a rock.” And then He says, “Upon this rock I will build my church.” In the Greek language, it is obvious He uses another word for “rock.” He uses the word petra, which is the feminine form of the word for “rock.”

And He says, “Now, Peter, you’re a rock,” but that word means “a rock like a boulder.” But then He uses another word, an entirely different word, and the word petra means “foundation rock.” It means bedrock. It means a strata of rock. It means a mountain of rock. And Jesus said, “Upon this larger rock, this solid rock, this bedrock, I will build my Church.” And we’re going to see in a moment that He is not talking about Simon Peter, but He is talking about Himself, for Simon Peter has said, “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God,” and He said, “That’s right. And on this rock I will build my Church.”

The Apostle Paul understood it that way. In 1 Corinthians chapter 3, verse 11, the Apostle Paul said, “For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.” (1 Corinthians 3:11) We sing it:

The Church's one foundation

Is Jesus Christ her Lord,

She is His new creation

by [Spirit] and the Word.

—SAMUEL J. STONE

No, the Church is not built upon Simon Peter, and I, for one, am very glad that it’s not built upon Simon Peter. Though Peter was saved, he was certainly subject to the foibles of human nature. And right after this grand confession where Peter got an A-plus for his answer, he then got an F in prophecy, because Jesus began to say to Simon Peter, “I’m going to go to the cross; I’m going to suffer and die,” and Peter said, “No, Lord, this can’t happen to you.” And Jesus had to say, “Get thee behind me, Satan: thou art an offence unto me.” (Matthew 16:23)

No, the Church was not built upon Simon Peter, is not built upon Simon Peter; the foundation of the Church is Jesus Christ. And I thank God that I don’t have to look back to an ancestor, priest, prophet, or apostle, but I can look to Jesus Christ as the living, sure foundation of this church and every church.

II. The Formation of the Church

The second thing I want you to see is, not only the foundation of the Church, but I want you to see the formation of the Church. How is the Church built? Well, look in verse 18 again—Jesus said to Peter, “I say…unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) Friend, I cannot tell you how many times it’s been a blessing to me since I’ve been in the ministry. Jesus did not say to me, “Adrian, you will build my Church.” And He certainly didn’t say, “Adrian, I’ll build you a church.” He said, “Upon this rock I will build my church.”

Flesh and blood can never build a church of the Lord Jesus. It will not; it cannot. The Church is not a material, physical building. The Church is more than an organization. The word church is a translation of the Greek word ekklesia. It’s a word we get ecclesiastical from. And the word ekklesia is two Greek words put together: ek, meaning “out of,” and kaleo, which means “to call.” And so the Church is the “called out ones.” The word ekklesia just simply means “an assembly of called out people.” They have been called out. If it’s used in an ecclesiastical way, that just means they are spiritually called out. It could refer to a town assembly or anything. The word church just simply means “people who have been called out.” That’s what it means.

That’s what a church is: the Church is the people of God, those who have been called out. There are many people in the world, but the Church is made up of those that God has called out of the world. There are some who have their name on this church roll, but they’re not a member of this church. How could they have their name on this roll and not be a member of this church? Because, friend, they’ve never been called out of the world. All they have is a name on a piece of paper. But they’re not members, because they are still in the world; they’re still of the world; they have never been saved; they’ve never been born again. How are people added to the Church? They are called out of the world into the Body of Christ. And who does that? God does that through His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ, by the power of the Holy Spirit. And Jesus said, “Upon this rock”—that I’m the Christ, the Son of the living God—“I will build my church.” And, friend, He’s just calling out stones, building blocks for that spiritual building.

III. The Fellowship of the Church
Now, here’s the third thing I want you to see. Not only the foundation and formation of the Church, but I want you to think about the fellowship of the Church. I had us to sing, “We are one in the bond of love.” You see, my dear friend, you and I, and all of us that are saved, are a part of His body. I belong to you, and you belong to me, and together we belong to Jesus Christ, because He calls it His Church. Christ and the Church are not identical, but Christ and the Church are inseparable.

Now I said the Church is like a building. And Jesus Christ is the foundation, and we are individual stones built upon that foundation. Peter makes that very clear in his epistles. But not only is the Church like a building; the Church is also like a body. There are many analogies. Christ is the head, and we’re the members of that body. And not only are we individual members, but we’re members one of another. We interrelate; we’re in the body together.

Now another analogy of the Church is, not only is the Church like a building, and not only is the Church like a body, but the Church is like a bride. We find this in Ephesians chapter 5. Christ is the bridegroom, and the Church is the bride.

Now, you think about it. Think about all that has to do with fellowship. For example, if the Church is a building, and Christ is the foundation, we’re built one upon another. We’re in it together like bricks in a wall. What holds those bricks together? “Well,” you say, “the mortar.” Well, it does. But it also holds them apart. And that mortar is love, that holds us together and also holds us apart. You know, all bricks have some rough edges, but the mortar of love makes up for those rough edges. All bricks have some indentations. But that mortar of love fills those indentations. And that’s what makes us one in the bond of love. We are held together by the love and Christ, built upon the foundation of the Lord Jesus Christ.
And, independently, we’re not much. Friend, this building has some bricks in it. You can push a brick around, but I’d like to see someone push this building around. You see, independently, we’re not much; but, together, we’re something. You see, that’s the fellowship of the Church. The Church is like a body, with Christ as the head; and we’re members together. Now, if this hand is related to the head, and this hand is related to the head, and rightly related, friend, they have to be related to one another. They have to cooperate with one another, because there is a common head, even though they are individual members. Thank God for that. That’s the fellowship of the Church.

And the Church is the Bride of Christ. Now some people say, “Well, I love Jesus. I just don’t love the Church.” Well, I want to tell you something about this man standing up here. Don’t come up to him and say, “Adrian, I love you, but I don’t love Joyce.” You’re in bad trouble with me if you talk that way. “Well, Adrian, I’d like to have you over for supper, but don’t bring Joyce. We don’t like her. We don’t want to fellowship with her.” Friend, I want to tell you, if you don’t love Joyce, you don’t love me. That’s just the way it is. I’ll tell you something else. I’m a peace-loving man, but you lay hands on her, and I’ll put you on the ground as fast as I can. I mean that with all my heart, because she’s my bride. I love her. And Jesus loves the Church. Don’t ever make the mistake of saying, “I love Jesus, but I don’t love the Church.” That’s like saying, “I love the foundation. I care not for this building”; “I love my head, but I don’t care for my body”; “I love the groom, but I don’t like the bride.”

Now that’s the fellowship of the Church. We’re in it together. And think again of the Church as a building. “Upon this rock I will build my church.” “Know ye not that ye...”—that’s all of us—“ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?” (1 Corinthians 3:16) Where does the Holy Spirit live? In us. Now He lives in us individually, but now He’s talking about all of us plurally: “ye.” As you would say in the South, “You all.” “You all are the temple of God, and the Spirit of God dwelleth in you.”

It was rumored that the President of the United States was going to visit a particular church. One lady who had not attended very regularly called the church office, and she said, “Is it true that the President of the United States is going to be in the service this Sunday morning? And, if so, is it necessary to reserve seats? Because I surely want to be there.” The pastor was quite irate. He said, “Madam, the President of the United States is not going to be here. But the King of kings will be. And that ought to be good enough for you.” Amen? “The King of kings will be.” “You are the temple of God, and the Spirit of God dwells in you.”

Friend, that is the fellowship of the Church.
IV. The Faith of the Church

Now I want you to think with me not only about the fellowship of the Church, my dear friend, but I want you to think about the faith of the Church. Go back, if you will, to Matthew chapter 16, and remember now that Jesus is giving Simon Peter a test. Look in verse 13: “When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist.” (Matthew 16:13–14) Why did they say John the Baptist? Well, I guess because He was preaching repentance.

Some say Elias. Why did they say He was Elias? Because He was prophesying. Others said Jeremias. Why did they say Jeremias? Because He was weeping. He was “a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief.” (Isaiah 53:3) And others said, “He’s one of the prophets.” But He said to them, “Let’s not be second-handed about it. Who do you say that I am?” And Simon Peter answered and said, “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.”

Now, my dear friend, that is the faith of the Church. What is the true confession of faith that everybody must make in order to be a part of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ? Your confession, your faith, will be the same as the faith of Simon Peter.

Now I want you to notice three things about what Simon Peter said here.

A. A Positive Conviction

First of all, it was based on a positive conviction. “Who do you say that I am?” Not, what does Adrian Rogers say? Not, what does some book say? Not, what have you read? what have you heard? But “who, Peter, do you say that I am?” There, my dear friend, is what I want to call a very positive conviction. Simon Peter said, “You’re the Messiah; you’re the Christ; you’re the Son of God.” Now, friend, you must believe that in order to be a part of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now you’re not going to figure it out. Jesus said, in effect, to Peter, “Peter, that’s right. In this examination you get an A. But don’t get puffed up about it. You did not figure it out. The only way you know it is by divine revelation.” And I’m so keenly aware of that when I preach. As I’ve told you a thousand times, I can preach truth to you, but only the Holy Spirit can impart truth to you. “Flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.” There is a positive conviction.

Now, you think about it. Jesus had been teaching Simon Peter for three years—the very Son of God, intense study. No seminary course had ever been like this. And still Simon Peter was dependent upon the Holy Spirit to understand just who Jesus is: “Flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.” When God reveals it to you, dear friend, nothing will be able to shake you. Peter did deny the Lord out of fear, but he never denied the Lord out of unbelief. He knew who Jesus was. “Thou are the Christ, the Son of the living God.” It is a positive conviction.

B. A Personal Conversion

And, my dear friend, that leads to a personal conversion. Now you have to understand what Jesus is doing when He says, “Now, Peter, you are a rock.” You see, look. Peter says, “Jesus, you’re the Messiah.” And Jesus says, “Thank you. And, Peter, you are a rock.” They’re just giving each other names; they’re just describing each other. And then Jesus said, “Upon this bedrock I’ll build my Church.”

Now, why did Jesus say, “Peter, you’re a rock”? Well, because He was describing the new nature that Peter had. The word Simon, which is his natural name, means “unstable.” Do you remember what Jesus said? “Simon, Satan has desired you, that he might sift you like wheat.” (Luke 22:31) He was something unstable like wheat that could be sifted. But now He says, “Simon, you are now a rock. And upon this rock, the bedrock, I’ll build my Church.” What He is saying is, “Peter, you have the same nature I have. You have been a partaker of the divine nature. You have a rock nature. You are a piece of the rock.” That’s what He is saying: “You now have my nature.” Peter understood this. Peter never thought of himself as the foundation of the Church, but he spoke of himself and other believers as holy stones, living stones, built upon a foundation. (1 Peter 2:4–8) And he realized that he had the nature of his dear Lord.

C. A Public Confession

Now you see what qualifies a person to be a part of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. First of all, a positive conviction: “Thou are the Christ, the Son of the living God.” Secondly, a personal conversion. And, thirdly, a public confession. A positive conviction, a personal conversion, and a public confession. Openly, publicly, unashamedly, he says, “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.”

Are you ashamed to confess the Lord Jesus Christ? Some people wonder why in our churches we give a public invitation, ask people to come openly and publicly, and let it be known that they’re not ashamed of the Lord Jesus Christ. Simply this: Jesus said, “If you are ashamed of me, I’ll be ashamed of you.” (Mark 8:38; Luke 9:26) But Jesus said, “If you confess me before men, I’ll confess you before my Father which is in heaven.” (Matthew 10:32) Now the confession doesn’t save you. It just shows that you’re saved. It shows that you’re not ashamed of the Lord Jesus Christ. Now no one can qualify for membership in the Church unless he shares the faith of the Church.

V. The Future of the Church

Now, let’s move on. I’ve talked to you about the foundation of the Church. I’ve talked to you about the formation of the Church. I’ve talked to you about the fellowship of the Church. I’ve talked to you about the faith of the Church. Now, here’s the part that I really love. I want to talk to you about the future of the Church. Look in verse 18 now—and Jesus said, “And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church;”—now, notice the last part of verse 18—“and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.” (Matthew 16:18)

Now, when Jesus said this, His ministry was at the lowest ebb. I mean He was about to be crucified; the crowds were leaving Him; the public opinion was turning on Him in many ways; but Jesus said, “I will build my church; and the [very] gates of hell shall not prevail against it.” Now some people use this as a text to prove that the Church will survive. It will—but that’s not what Jesus is teaching here. Jesus is not teaching that the Church is on the defense and trying to survive, and is going to make it to the very end. He’s speaking here about gates. He’s not talking here about swords and cannons, but gates. Gates are not weapons of war. Nobody ever saw an army going forth carrying gates to destroy the enemy with gates. What He is saying is that there is a dominion called hell. Hades is the Greek word. Jesus speaks of “the gates of Hades.” There is a dominion, a city of prisoners, the city of the dead, the abode of the dead, locked in by these gates.

You see, the sinister minister of fear and death is Satan. In Hebrews chapter 2, verses 14 and 15, the Bible says that, “Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood,”—that is, he’s talking about us, calling us children: we have flesh and blood—“he also himself likewise took part of the same;”—that is, Jesus became flesh and blood—“that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil; and deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage.” (Hebrews 2:14–15)

Do you know the one all-consuming fear that people have? It’s death. And it’s death that keeps men slaves. Every fear, every phobia, flows from the poison fountain of the fear of death. But Jesus Christ suffered, bled, and died to obliterate Satan’s kingdom; and the gates of hell and death cannot hold the Church. What Jesus Christ has done is to invade the enemy’s territory. He’s gone right into the city of the dominion of the dead—spiritually dead and physically dead—and He’s moved right into that, and He’s called out people for His name. He said, “You belong to me.” “You belong to me.” “You belong to me.” “And we’re not staying here; we’re breaking out. And the gates of hell won’t stop us. We are coming out.”

People say the Church is on its way out. It sure is, friend. Jesus has called the Church out, and then Jesus has sent the Church out, and soon He’s coming to take the Church out. And, my dear friend, those who have been buried, and those who are still alive, are going to be caught up to meet the Lord Jesus in the air. (1 Thessalonians
This is the future of the Church: “and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.”

Why? Because Jesus has the keys of death and hell. Now those gates cannot prevail against us.

Dr. W. A. Criswell said he was on an airplane, and seated next to him was an eminent theological professor. And they got in a conversation. And Dr. Criswell asked this professor about his family. And the professor told him about his wife. Then the professor said, “Dr. Criswell, my wife and I had a son, only one boy. He was a very young little boy that we loved with all of our heart. But one day our son came home from school and had a headache, and he didn’t want to go back to school the next day, because his head hurt. So we let him stay home. And he developed a fever. And soon it was a raging fever. And they called the doctor, and the doctor said, ‘Sir, your son has spinal meningitis, and in a little while he will be dead. We cannot help him. Medical science cannot save the life of this little boy.’”

And Dr. Criswell told how that professor told about how his little boy died. He said, “I would go and spend as much time as I could in his bedroom with him. We took him home and brought him home so that he might go to heaven from home.” And he said, “The doctor came to the house and made a visit, and told the professor—he said, ‘Professor, if you have anything to say to your boy, you ought to say it now, because it will not be long.’” And this eminent theological professor went in and sat by the bedside, and took his little boy by the hand. The sun had not yet set, but the illness was taking the sight from the boy. And the little boy said, “Daddy, it’s getting dark, isn’t it?” And the professor said, “Son, it’s getting real dark.” And he said, “Daddy, it must be almost nighttime.” The professor said, “Yes, son, the night is coming.” And then, Dr. Criswell said that little boy said, “Well, Daddy, I’d better go to sleep. I feel so tired.” He said, “Yes, son, you’d better go to sleep.” Then he said the little fellow had a way of fixing his pillow. He fixed it a certain way, and fixed his hands a certain way. It was his habit when he slept. And he fixed his pillow just the way he fixed it, fixed his hands just the way he would fix them, before he’d go to sleep. And the little fellow said these last words to his daddy on this earth. He said, “Well, Daddy, I’m very sleepy. I’m going to go to sleep. Good night, Daddy. I’ll see you in the morning.”

And Dr. Criswell said, “That professor looked out of that plane window for a long time. He couldn’t say anything else for a while. And then he turned back and looked at Dr. Criswell and said, “And, Dr. Criswell, I can hardly wait till the morning.”

And, friend, there’s a morning coming—there’s a morning coming. I believe that’s what Jesus Christ is talking about when He says, “Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it”—the gates of death and hades. Friends, we’re breaking out through the Lord Jesus Christ.

VI. The Function of the Church

One last thing I want you to see. Not only the future of the Church, but I want you to see the function of the Church. Look, if you will now, in verses 18 and 19: “I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:18–19) Some people have the idea that Peter is the fellow with the keys, letting people in and out of heaven. We make a lot of jokes about that. There used to be an old song called, “Smoke, Smoke, Smoke that cigarette.” Do you remember that song? No, you’re too young.

Smoke, smoke, smoke that cigarette
Puff, puff, puff and if you smoke yourself to death
Tell St. Peter at the Golden Gate
That you hate to make him wait
But you just gotta have another cigarette.

—MERLE TRAVIS

Do you remember that song? All right, so that old song, that idea—there’s old St. Peter there, he’s the one checking people in and checking people out.

Friend, when Jesus said to Peter, “Peter, I'll give to you the keys to the kingdom of heaven: whatever you bind I'll bind and whatever you loose I'll loose,” he was not just talking to Peter. Let me give you a profound statement. Chapter 18 follows that. Now, look in chapter 18, if you will, where Jesus said, “Verily I say unto you, Whosoever ye”—ye, you all—“shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye”—plural, you all—“shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 18:18) Not just Peter: this is a promise to the Church to bind and to loose. We have the keys of the kingdom of heaven.

In Bible times, they had scribes, and these scribes wore as an insignia on their girdle a set of keys. And they were symbolic, and they spoke of the knowledge that the scribes were supposed to have. And the key stands for knowledge; it stands for truth. Luke 11 and verse 52 would point that out. (Luke 11:52) What’s Jesus saying? Jesus is saying, “Listen. I am going to give you my spiritual authority. I am going to give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven.” What are the keys of the kingdom of heaven? The gospel that we preach, the truths of God’s Word, that Jesus is the Christ the Son of the living God, that men, women, boys, and girls are saved by faith in Him. And with the power of the gospel we can bind the power of Satan and we can loose and liberate souls.
What is the function of the Church? It’s not to fight communism. I hate communism. I’m glad to see that communism has imploded. It’s not to fight pornography. I hate pornography. But that’s not the purpose of the Church. It is not to fight liquor. I hate liquor, and every time I get a chance, I’m going to do it damage, if I can. And I’m going to do damage to pornography, and I’m going to do damage to abortion. I’m going to do damage to communism, and anything I can. But, my dear friend, the function of the Church is evangelism: bringing people to Jesus Christ using the keys of the kingdom. And the church that does not go out in evangelism will go out of business. We’ll evangelize or fossilize, dear friend. That is the purpose of the Church.

Jesus has given us the keys. Jesus has given us the ability to bind the powers of darkness, and to liberate souls, and bring people to Jesus Christ. God alone knows how many times I’ve preached. God alone knows how many times people have come to Christ. How many souls that I’ve had the joy of introducing personally to Jesus Christ, I don’t know. I’m not a record-keeper. It’s not one of my fortes. But I’m going to tell you something, friend. There, to me, is no greater joy on this earth than bringing a soul to Jesus Christ—no greater joy. You let Congress make the laws; you let Hollywood have the fame; you let the President run the nation; you let Wall Street handle the finances; you let me be a winner of souls, and I’ll be happy. “He that winneth souls is wise.” (Proverbs 11:30) That is the function of the Church.

Conclusion

Do you know the mark that a man knows Jesus? He wants everybody else to know Him. That’s the mark that you know Jesus Christ. Friend, the foundation of the Church is Jesus Christ. The formation of the Church, it is the supernatural work of the Holy Spirit: “I will build my church.” The fellowship of the Church: we’ve been called out of this world; we’re different. The faith of the Church is that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. We confess it. We become like the Lord Jesus. We share His nature. The future of the Church: the gates of hell can’t keep us in. The function of the Church is to tell everybody that Jesus saves.

Father, I pray that you will seal the message to our hearts. Thank you for our own dear local fellowship, this visible expression of your great invisible Church around the world. Lord, even that Church is really not invisible, because there are local congregations all over this world, black, white, red, and yellow, different denominations, different forms of worship, but one dear wonderful Savior who’s the Christ, the Son of the living God. In His dear name I pray. Amen.

Introduction

Turn to Matthew chapter 16, would you, please, and look up here.

This is the time of year that students are taking tests, some of them hoping to graduate. I heard of a youngster who came home, and his father said, “How did you do on your examinations?” He said, “Well, Dad, I’m afraid I flunked my history test.” The dad said, “No, you need to be more positive.” He said, “Okay, I am positive I flunked my history test.”

The scripture that I’m going to read to you is really an examination. The disciples had been with the Lord Jesus Christ in the greatest seminary of all. He had been teaching them for almost three years. And now he comes to the conclusion of His ministry with them, and He’s going to give them a final examination. And I want you to notice how it goes here in Matthew chapter 16, and we begin in verse 13: “When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist: and some, Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets. He saith unto them,”—and here’s the major question on the exam— “But whom say ye that I am...”—and, by the way, is that not the greatest question of the ages?— “whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona:”—that is, “You aced it; you got 100; you got A-plus”—“for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:13–19)

I’ve already said that the greatest organization and the greatest organism on the face of this earth is the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. It is absolutely totally foolish to talk about loving Jesus without loving what Jesus loves; and Jesus loves the Church.

Now there are several things I want you to learn about the Church, and I want you to pay attention, because God’s plan for every person listening to me is this: number one, that you be saved; and, number two, that you be an active participant in a local New Testament church. And if you’re not that way, you’re not right with God, okay? So, pay attention. I want you to listen.

I. The Saving Confession of the Church

All right, first of all, I want you to think with me about what I’m going to call the saving confession of the Church. Write that down: the saving confession of the Church. What must you confess? What must you believe in order to be saved? Here’s what you must believe in order to be saved. You must believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. That’s where you put your faith. You must be a true believer in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Simon Peter is asked a question: “Peter, who do people say that I am?” “Well,” they said, “some say that you’re John the Baptist. Others say that you’re Elijah. Others say that you’re one of the prophets.” “All right now, Peter, who do you say that I am?”—“who do you say that I am?” Peter says, “You’re the Christ, the Son of the living God.” Do you believe that? Do you believe that Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of the living God?

I want you to think about this saving confession, and listen to me very carefully.

A. A Personal Conviction About Christ

It was a personal conviction about Christ. Put it down: a personal conviction. Now he said, “What are other people saying?” “Well, some say this, and some say that, and some say the other.” “Now, Peter, what do you say personally? What is your conviction?” Peter says, “I believe—I personally believe—that you are the Christ;”—that means the Anointed One, the Messiah—“I believe that you are the Son of God.”

Now, how did Peter come to this conclusion? Well, not by taking a poll. Not by going out and saying, “What do others say?” Nor did he come to this conclusion because he had figured it out. Not by intellectual investigation. Now, remember he had been almost three years with Jesus Christ, and yet Jesus said, "Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven." (Matthew 16:17) Now, how can you know who Jesus Christ is? Not by taking a poll, not by asking what others think. Very frankly, it makes no difference what others think. Number two: not by bringing your mind and your intellect to the Bible to try to dig truth out of the Bible with your flesh and your blood, your mind, your intellect, your emotions. You'll never know God except by divine revelation.

Now, listen. Jesus said, "Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona. You're blessed, but remember this: It doesn't matter what others say; it doesn't matter what you think. What matters is what God reveals to you." Now I hope you get this, because if you don't get this, you're going to miss the whole thing. Stop looking around and studying world religions. Stop, my friend, bringing your carnal mind to the Word of God. Lay your pride in the dust, and ask God to reveal to you who Jesus Christ is. And I tell you, He will. I promise you on the authority of the Word of God, if you want to know who Jesus Christ is, you can know, but not by taking a poll, not by intellectual prowess, but by humbling yourself and opening yourself to the Word of God. The Bible says, "God hath hidden these things from the wise and the prudent, and hath revealed them unto babes." (Matthew 11:25; Luke 10:21) Are you willing to come with a childlike faith? You say, "Oh, no, I want to strut into the presence of God." Well, you're not going to strut into the presence of God. "Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona." His was a personal conviction about the Lord Jesus Christ.

B. A Personal Confession of Christ

But, secondly, I want you to see not only was it a personal conviction of Christ; it was a personal conviction about Christ, but it also was a personal confession of Christ. Now Simon Peter was not ashamed, not afraid, to confess what he knew about the Lord Jesus Christ. Are you ashamed to confess Christ? Then you're not going to heaven. Even if you have the conviction, and yet you don't make the confession, you are not going to heaven.

Listen to Romans 10, verses 9 and 10: "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth—confession is made unto salvation." (Romans 10:9–10) Now you're in Matthew 16. You could go backward to Matthew 10, but let me just read it to you. Matthew 10, verses 32 and 33—Jesus said, "Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven." (Matthew 10:32–33)
Now, suppose Jesus said to Simon Peter, “Simon Peter, who do you say that I am?” And suppose Simon Peter said, “Well,” to himself, “in my heart, I know who He is, but there are too many people standing around here. I don’t want to be identified with Him openly and publicly, so I’m not going to make this great confession that He is the Christ, the Son of the living God.” There are some of you sitting in this building this morning, you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, but you’re ashamed to confess Him before men. I want to tell you something. Walking down a church aisle doesn’t save anybody. Shaking a pastor’s hand doesn’t save anybody. But what it indicates is what saves you: that you’re not ashamed of the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus said frankly, clearly, plainly, “If you’re ashamed of me, I’ll be ashamed of you.” The faith that will not lead to confession will not lead to heaven.

Now you may be somewhere out in a desert where there’s nobody to confess to. That’s one matter. But when you sit in a congregation like this, and an opportunity is given to you to make an acknowledgement of your faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, then you ought to gladly say, “I want to do it.” How could you believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, and be ashamed of Him? It’s impossible. It’s impossible, if you truly believed it that He is the very Son of God.

C. A Personal Conversion to Christ

We’re talking, friend, about the saving confession of the Church. It was a personal conviction. It was a personal confession. And it was a personal conversion. Notice what Jesus said. Jesus said, “And I say...unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) Now Jesus is making a play on words. We’re going to see later that Jesus is the foundation of the Church, that Jesus is the bedrock upon which the Church is built. But Jesus says to him, “And I say that you are Peter.” Now his name, prior to this, has been Simon. What does the name Simon mean? It means “something unstable.” Remember the Scripture, “Simon, Satan has desired you, that he might sift you as wheat.” (Luke 22:31) We could call him “Shifty.” But now Jesus calls him “Rocky.” Jesus gives him another name: Peter—petros. It means “rock.” It means “boulder.” He says, “That’s all right, Peter. Now I’m going to change your name. No longer are you Simon Johnson Barjona.” That’s what it means—Simon Johnson, son of John. “Now your name is Peter.” Maybe his nickname was Rocky. “Now you’re Peter. You are a rock.”

Now Jesus is the foundation rock. We’re going to see that later on. But now Peter has the same nature as Jesus. Peter doesn’t just have a piece of the rock; he is a piece of the rock. He has become a partaker of the divine nature.

Now, let me tell you this about Christians. A Christian is not just a nicer person. A Christian is somebody who’s had a miracle. He has become a partaker of the divine nature.
Have you become a partaker of the divine nature? Have you? I mean, does God live in you? Has there been a change in your nature? The Bible says, clearly and plainly, “If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature” (2 Corinthians 5:17) —“a new creation.”

Christians are not a tadpole who finally turns into a frog; Christians are a frog turned into a prince by the kiss of grace. There is a divine, supernatural change.

You have a change in your life. Has there been a change in your life? Or have you just joined a church?

Now, what is the saving confession of the church? It is a personal conviction about Christ: “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” It is a public confession of that Christ: “I believe that you’re the Christ, the Son of the living God. This is what I say.” And it is a powerful conversion. Now you have become a piece of the rock. Now I say to you that that’s what a New Testament church is built upon. Nobody is qualified for membership in this church, or any church—your church out there—who does not believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God; who’s not willing to confess openly and publicly and unashamedly that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, and has had a transformation by receiving Jesus Christ into their heart and into their life.

Do you know what has happened to so many churches today? Churches have become sort of social clubs. But, obviously, it’s easier to get into some churches than some social clubs. At least they have some standards. Many churches today, rather than a sheepfold, have become a zoo, where everybody gets in and nobody gets out. The Church of the Lord Jesus Christ is built upon a saving confession.

“Who do you say that I am?” Peter said, “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” Have you said that? Have you confessed that? Has there been a change in your life? Has there? I say, has there?

II. The Sovereign Construction of the Church

All right, let’s go on. The second thing I want you to see: not only the saving confession of the Church, but I want you to see the sovereign construction of the Church. Notice what Jesus says. Just keep your Bibles open: “I say...unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock...” —I’m reading now verse 18—“and upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) Now the Church is sovereignly constructed. Jesus did not say, “You will build my Church.” He didn’t say, “I will build your church.” Jesus said, “Upon this rock I will build my church.” Flesh and blood cannot build a church of the Lord Jesus Christ. It is Jesus’ Church, and He is the One that builds it.
Now we’re not talking about the building. We’re not talking about this building here. This building is just a sheep shed. This is not the Church. This is where the Church meets. You are the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

I heard one day about a man who was filling out a form, and on that form it said, “church preference.” He put “red brick.”

We’re not talking about a building. We’re talking about a group of people that Jesus Christ has redeemed by His shed blood.

Now Jesus is the architect of the Church, Jesus is the builder of the Church, and Jesus Christ is the foundation of the Church. Jesus says, “Upon this rock I will build my church.” Now some people say that the Church is built upon Simon Peter. That’s absurd. The Church is built upon Jesus Christ. The Bible says, clearly and plainly, in 1 Corinthians 3, verse 11, “For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.” (1 Corinthians 3:11) Jesus is the foundation of the Church. Jesus is making a play on words. Jesus said, “I say unto you that you are Peter;”—the Greek word there is petros—if we were to anglicize it—“and upon this rock I will build my Church.” But He doesn’t use the word petros again. He uses another word. “Thou art Petros, and upon this petra I will build my Church.”

What’s the difference between petros and petra? One word means “a rock, like a boulder.” Another word means “a rock like a rock stratum; a ledge; a foundation; a massive rock.” Now Jesus says, “Peter, you’re a piece of the rock. You’re a boulder, but I am the foundation, and upon this foundation stone I will build my Church.” What is the foundation stone upon which the Church is built? What Peter’s just said: “You’re the Christ, the Son of the living God.” “That’s right. And upon that rock I will build my Church.”

On Christ the solid rock I stand,
All other ground is sinking sand.

—Edward Mote

The church’s one foundation
Is Jesus Christ her Lord.

—Samuel J. Stone

I’m not looking back to some ancestral priest. I’m so grateful the Church is not built upon Simon Peter. Simon Peter was a sinner like you are, like I am. If you continue to read this chapter, in a few verses later Jesus had to rebuke Simon Peter and say, “Get thee behind me, Satan. You’re an offense unto me.” (Matthew 16:23) The Church is built upon the Lord Jesus Christ. He is the solid rock. He is the One who is building the Church. And, therefore, I want to tell you something, folks. The Church will be built. The Church will be completed. Philippians 1:6: “He who hath begun a good work in you will perform it.”
God starts God will complete. He will present it to Himself a glorious Church without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, (Ephesians 5:27) and don’t you feel beleaguered. You are on the winning side. And we have beneath us the foundation of the Lord Jesus Christ.

I heard of a woman one day who was dying, and she seemed to be comatose. Others standing around the bedside thought she could not hear what was being said. But, many times, people who are dying, who cannot articulate, cannot speak, they can hear, they can understand. And so they were talking about her. She was a great Christian, had a glorious experience with the Lord Jesus Christ, and somebody said, “Well, she’s sinking.” She opened her eyes and said, “Sinking? How can one sink through a rock?” She was resting on the Lord Jesus Christ, and so am I.

III. The Spiritual Composition of the Church
So there’s the sovereign construction of the Church. Here’s the third thing I want you to see. I want you to see the spiritual composition of the Church. Now Jesus said, “Upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) Well, what is the composition of the Church? What does He build the Church out of? Out of stone, living stone. Now Simon Peter knew he was not the foundation. Put in your margin 1 Peter 2, verse 5. Now here’s what Peter thought about that. Here’s what Peter himself wrote about that. He said, “Ye also, as lively stones,”—that is, living stones—“are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood” (1 Peter 2:5) — “an holy priesthood.” Now what Peter is saying is that, “Jesus taught me one day that He was the foundation and I am a stone.” But he says, “You also are living stones.” We’re not dead stones; we’re living stones. And we are built upon the foundation of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now the very word church, He says, “I will build my church”—it’s the Greek word ekklesia, and it means “a called out assembly.” What the Lord Jesus Christ is doing in Memphis, He’s calling out some people. In Toledo, He’s calling out some people. In Spain, He’s calling out some people. In Japan, He’s calling out some people. In Jakarta, He’s calling out some people. In Australia, He’s calling out some people. And He’s calling them by the Holy Spirit and by the preaching of the Word of God: a stone here, a stone here, a stone here, a stone here. And all of these stones are built upon the foundation, the Lord Jesus Christ. He is a living stone. He is a living stone. He is a living stone. You are a living stone if you confess that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. And the Master Builder, the Lord Jesus Christ, is putting stone upon stone upon stone. Here’s a stone, here’s a stone, here’s a stone. And what our Lord Jesus Christ is doing is building a spiritual house.

Now, let’s think about that for a little bit. Let’s think a little bit about the composition of the Church.
A. We Are Built Together

Friend, first of all, I want you to know that we are built together. That’s the reason we must have the church. We are a building. You ever hear of a one-stone building? Do you ever hear of a one-brick building? No! Friend, you can take a stone and push it around. You could take a brick and shove it around. It’s hard to shove a building around. Besides that, one stone, one brick, doesn’t make a house. Therefore, you, apart from me, and I, apart from you, I’m not what I ought to be, what I could be. We are standing together.

B. We Are Bonded Together

Listen to me. We are built together, and because we are built together, we are bonded together. Now you don’t just take stones and stack them up. Stones have to be bonded together. Jesus Christ is the foundation. We are living stones like Peter. “Peter, you’re a rock; you’re a boulder.”

Now our Lord is taking these stones, these living stones, and He’s putting them in place. What keeps them from falling apart? They’re bound together. What is the mortar that holds us together? What is the mortar that holds Bellevue Baptist Church together? It is love. We are bound together by love. We sing, “We are one in the bond of love.” It’s that love that holds us together. I’ll tell you, without the love of Jesus Christ Bellevue Baptist Church would fly apart. People look at this church. They can’t understand this church. They say, “Who are those people? What brings them all together? What is the commonality that they have? They come from different backgrounds, different educational achievements, different tastes, different proclivities, even root for different ball teams.” Some folks don’t even root for Florida. Now, what is it? What is it that holds us together? What is the mortar? Friend, it is l-o-v-e—love—that holds these stones together.

Besides that, not only does the love hold us together; love holds us apart. You know, every stone is not perfect. Some stones have bulges and bumps, and other stones have cavities and chips. But where there’s a bulge, the mortar gives; and where there’s a cavity, the mortar fills. Isn’t that what love does?

You know, if I were to get right up real close to Jim Whitmire, and stayed at Jim Whitmire real close, and we’d just get up there just real close, and I’m just rubbing on him and him rubbing on me, I want a little mortar in there, don’t you, Jim? Yeah, you see, it’s the mortar. And, by the way, I’ve been working with Jim Whitmire since 1964. Can you believe that? I’m about to teach him how to sing.

C. We Are Blessed Together

Now, let me tell you something, folks. What keeps us together? What binds us together? We are built together. We are bonded together. Now, listen. And because we are built together and bonded together, we are blessed together. People say, “Well, you can be just as good a Christian outside the church as you can be inside the church.” Just one thing wrong with that: it’s not so. It’s just not so. Friend, I’m telling you that when we come to worship on Sunday morning, when we come, Peter says, “Ye...are built up a spiritual house.” (1 Peter 2:5) What does that mean? A place for the Spirit to live. God’s Spirit comes. Why did Jesus say a little later, in Matthew chapter 18, “For where two or three [of you] are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.” (Matthew 18:20) I’m telling you, folks, that Jesus Christ is in this place this morning in a way that He’s not out there—in a way He’s not out there.

Now He’s omnipresent. There’s no place where He is not, but there is His manifested presence. When God’s people come together, God comes to dwell with them and to meet with them, and we are blessed together. How good it is when God’s people get together! That’s the reason the Bible says we are not to forsake “the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more.” (Hebrews 10:25)

One woman heard that the President of the United States might visit a particular church. She wanted to be there to meet the President of the United States. And so she called the church office, got hold of the pastor, and she said, “Is it true that the President of the United States will be in your service this Sunday morning?” He said, “No, madam, it’s not true; but the King of kings will be there, and you’re welcome to come.”

Amen? Listen. Jesus Christ said, “Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.” Can you be a Christian without being a church member? Well, yes, I guess you could be a bee without a hive, and a sailor without a ship, and a parent without a family. In my estimation, if you’re truly saved, you’re going to want to be a member of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. You say, “Well, it looks like church on the losing end.” Well, friend, I want to tell you something. When Jesus said this in Matthew chapter 16, “Upon this rock I will build my church,” His ministry was at its lowest ebb. The crowds had all forsaken Him, and Calvary was right around the corner. And yet Jesus said, “I will build my church.”

Woodrow Wilson said, “I had rather temporarily fail with a cause that must ultimately succeed than to temporarily succeed with a cause that must ultimately fail.” I’ll tell you, the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ is His Church, and He said, “I will build my church.”

IV. The Singular Commission of the Church

Now here’s the next thing I want you to see. It’s what I want to call the singular commission of the Church—the singular commission of the Church. What is it? We talked about the construction, the composition, the confession. What is the commission of the church? Well, listen to it in verse 19. Jesus said, “And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:19) Now, away with these jokes about St. Peter holding the keys to let you in and out of heaven at the pearly gates. That’s just all superstition. He’s not talking about that at all. What’s He talking about when He says, “I will give to you the keys of the kingdom of heaven?”

What are the keys of the kingdom of heaven? The truth, gospel truth: salvation through the Lord Jesus Christ. The word key here stands for knowledge. Back in Jesus’ day there were scribes. These were people who were teachers of the Word of God, and the scribe would wear a key on his belt: not to unlock doors with; it was a symbol to symbolize the truth that he held. For example, the Bible says, in Luke 11, verse 52, “Woe unto you, lawyers! for ye have taken away the key of knowledge.” (Luke 11:52) He’s speaking of knowledge. Here’s the key—Matthew 13, verse 52: “Therefore every scribe which is instructed unto the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old.” (Matthew 13:52) What He is saying is this: “I’m going to give to you some truth, some keys that you can use to get people into the kingdom of heaven.” What a blessing and what a responsibility!

What is my responsibility and what is your responsibility? Now you say—listen to me—that you have made the confession, “Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God.” You believe that you are part of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, what the Lord said to Peter, He’s also saying to you that He is placing in your hands—listen—the keys of the kingdom of heaven. Now here He tells Peter, “Whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” He says the same thing to all of them over here in Matthew chapter 18. It’s not simply to Peter. It’s not that Peter only is the keeper of the keys. We all are keeper of the keys. We’re all custodians of the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ.

What is the singular commission of the Church? Let me tell you what it is. The single commission of the Church is to bring souls bound in the chains of the gospel and lay them at Jesus’ feet. Our job is to win souls to Jesus Christ.

Now our job is not to fight communism. Our job is not to fight pornography. Our job is not to fight gambling. Our job is not to fight abortion. Our job is not to fight racism or sexual perversion. The gospel of Jesus Christ applies to all of these things. But, friend, listen to me. You can make a man an anti-communist, you can make a man an anti-bigot, you can make a man an anti-pervert without making him a Christian, but you can’t make him a Christian without making him an anti-these other things. You see, the change is in the heart, and if we forget our singular commission, our singular commission is winning souls.

Somebody says, "Well, we need to clothe the naked." Yes, we do. Somebody says, "We need to house the homeless." Yes, we do. Somebody says, "We need to feed the hungry." Yes, we do. But that is not our singular commission. And if we're not careful, all we're doing is making the world a better place to go to hell from. Our singular commission is to bring souls to Jesus Christ. Do you believe that? I hope you believe that. You know, it's so easy to get sidetracked. The devil doesn't care whatever else we may do as long as we're not bringing souls bound in the golden chains of the gospel and lay them at Jesus' feet.

Now, what does this mean: "Whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven; whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven"? The Greek scholars tell us—and it's absolutely true—that the construction of this verse says this: that whatever you bind on earth shall have already been bound in heaven. Now, listen. Whatever you loose on earth shall have already been loosed in heaven. Now what Jesus is saying is not that earth's will is going to be done in heaven, but what Jesus is saying is that heaven's will be done on earth when you use the keys of the kingdom. Now He is saying, "Look, I have bound Satan. I have loosed the Holy Spirit. I have come to set the captives free. You have the keys. Whatever you bind, I've already bound. Whatever you loose, I've already loosed." What a privilege is ours! That is the singular commission of the Church: evangelism.

Jesus takes this Book of Matthew, and He ends it, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost...and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matthew 28:19–20) Question: Are you a soul winner? You say, "Well, no, but I'm a Christian." To be a Christian without being a soul winner is like being a bus driver who won't drive a bus. It's a contradiction in terms. You say, "Well, I'm not gifted to do it." If you cannot preach like Peter, if you cannot pray like Paul, you can tell the love of Jesus, and say, "He died for all." Don't let me hear you idly say, "There's nothing I can do," while the sons of men are dying and the Master calls for you.

Now I don't want to hurt your feelings, but I want you to listen to me today, and it's not a fun sermon. But if you're not endeavoring to bring souls to Jesus Christ, you're not right with God. You may be a church member. You may be heaven-bound, but you're going to heaven second class, and you're going to be ashamed when you meet the Lord Jesus Christ. This is the singular commission of the Church.

V. The Settled Consummation of the Church
I must hurry. I want you to see the settled consummation of the Church—the settled consummation of the Church. Now, notice this—Matthew 16, verse 18: "And I say unto thee,
That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church;—now, listen to this—“and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.” (Matthew 16:18) The word that is translated "hell" there is the word hades. It means "the abode of the dead." What's He talking about? It's not, "Here's the church behind walls with massive gates, and hell is banging on those gates, but hell cannot break through." No, that's not what He's talking about. Gates don't prevail. Nobody takes gates off to war with them. The idea is not here that hell is on the offense and the Church is on the defense. No, that's not what He's saying at all. Nor is He saying that the Church is going to invade hell and take over hell and possess hell. What do we want with hell? No. What He is saying is this: “Because of your faith in Me, Simon Peter, the very domain of the dead cannot hold the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.”

Conclusion
Folks, we're breaking out—we're breaking out. The very gates of hell, the very domain of the dead, cannot stop the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ. Centuries have come and gone, the saints have died, but one of these days the trumpet will sound. One of these days our Lord will come, and the dead in Christ shall rise first, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against the Church. Friend, we're going up. Some people say, “Well, the Church is on its way out.” You know, they are absolutely correct. Jesus has called the Church out. Jesus has sent the Church out. And, one day, He's coming to take the Church out.

I heard a preacher one time, a country preacher. He told a remarkable story. I may have shared it with you—I don’t remember. But he said, “In a pond, a particular pond, there was a great, huge catfish—I mean, a big one—and that catfish would swim around that pond. He owned that pond, and all the little minnows were afraid of him. But, eventually, he would catch them and gobble them up—just swallow them, swallow them, swallow them whole, just suck them in: in goes a minnow. He had a belly full of minnows swimming around on the inside of him, a great big old huge catfish. But one day he made a mistake. He swallowed a very special minnow, took him in; and that special minnow began to swim around, and then swam over to the side of that catfish and began to chew on his side, and chewed a hole in the side of that big old catfish, and swam out. And all the other minnows swam out with him.

That big old catfish is death. He's been swallowing this person, swallowing that person, swallowing this person, swallowing that person. One day He swallowed Jesus. That was his mistake, because the Lord Jesus Christ has eaten a hole in the side of death, and become the death of deaths, and the very gates of hell will not prevail against the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.
Let me tell you something, friend. If you say that you’re saved, you’re going to love the Church of Jesus Christ. You’re going to attend the Church, you’re going to defend the Church, you’re going to commend the Church, and you’re going to extend the Church, if you love Jesus Christ. I love the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Introduction

Take your Bibles, please, and turn to Matthew chapter 16—Matthew chapter 16. We begin reading in verse 13: “When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist: some, Elias; and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets. He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:13–19)

I want us to think on this subject: “The Great Escape”—“The Great Escape.” Now the scripture that I just read to you took place about six months before the crucifixion of the Lord Jesus. And He has been tutoring His disciples; He has been teaching them. They have been in school with Him for three years, and now comes examination day. First question: “Who does everyone else say that I am?” (Matthew 16:13) And they had various opinions.
Some thought perhaps that Jesus was John the Baptist; others thought perhaps that Jesus was Elijah; others thought that Jesus was Jeremiah; others thought that He was, indeed, some great prophet, one of the prophets. But then Jesus asked the second question, the most important question, the crucial question: “But who do you say that I am?” (Matthew 16:15) And Simon Peter answered.

Now Simon Peter was always quick to speak, but most of the time, about the only time he opened his mouth was to exchange feet, for he was always putting his foot in his mouth. But this time he got it right the first time. He got an A-plus. He said, “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” (Matthew 16:16) And Jesus said, “You’re absolutely right. But don’t get puffed up about it. You didn’t figure it out yourself. It’s not because you’ve been such a good student. You had help on this examination”—“flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.” (Matthew 16:17) And then, after this, Jesus gave one of the most tremendous, fabulous lessons on the Church that is in all of the Bible. And since today we’re talking about loving the Church, that will be our lesson for study today. So I want us to learn some things about the Church.

I. The Foundation of the Church
The first thing I want us to learn is something about the foundation of the Church—the foundation of the Church. Now there’s a lot of confusion about the foundation of the Church, but I want you to notice what Jesus said to Peter after Peter said that Jesus was the Christ. Notice in verse 18, and Jesus says to Peter, “And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) Now there are some people who believe therefore that the Church is built upon Peter, and here’s the reason they believe that. The word Peter, a translation of the Greek word petros, means “rock.” When something is petrified, it’s turned to a rock. And the word petros means “rock.” And here’s what Jesus said to them—here’s what they think He said, anyway: that, “Peter, you’re a rock”—and they’re right; Peter was a rock—“and upon this rock I will build my church.” So they say the Church is built upon Peter. But what they fail to see and understand is that Jesus in this one sentence uses two different words for rock. Now you don’t see it there in your English translation, but Jesus uses two words for rock. The first word He uses is the word petros, and the second word He uses is the word petra. One is the masculine form; the other is the feminine form—petros and petra.

Now, what is a petros? What He called Peter was a petros, and that means “a boulder, a chip of rock, a piece of rock”—for you folks from Arkansas, “a little rock.” All right, and then He uses another word, and this word, petra, means “bedrock, foundation rock, an Outcropping of stone coming up out of the earth, a mighty rock.” “Peter, you’re a little rock, but upon this mighty rock I will build my Church.” (Matthew 16:18)

What is the Church built upon? Not upon Simon Peter, but upon Jesus Christ. You see, Simon Peter had just said, “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God,” (Matthew 16:16) and Jesus says, “That’s right, and on that rock I will build my Church.” Peter knew that he was not the foundation. Peter in his own writings says that Jesus is the chief cornerstone and we are living stones built upon Him. (1 Peter 2:4–8) The Apostle Paul said in 1 Corinthians chapter 3, verse 11, “For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.” (1 Corinthians 3:11) And I’m so glad that the Church stands, really, upon her Lord Jesus today.

How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord.
—ROBERT KEENE

The Church’s one foundation
Is Jesus Christ her Lord,
She is His new creation
By Spirit and the Word.
—SAMUEL J. STONE

I heard about a dear little lady who was dying, and her loved ones were there in the hospital room. And they thought that perhaps she was in a coma; they thought that she could not hear them. Her pulse rate was very weak, and there seemed to be very few vital signs. And one of them said to the other, “She’s sinking.” The little lady opened her eyes and looked up, and she said, “I am not.” She said, “How can any one sink through a rock?” She was resting on the Lord, and she said, “I’m not sinking.” Oh, dear friend, underneath is the foundation of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

You know, some people think that in order for you to be a minister of God you have to be in apostolic succession from Simon Peter right on up, and they say to me, “Where do you get your authority to preach?” Friend, I want to tell you, it’s not from some ancestor priest; it’s from my living Lord, who is the foundation stone of His Church. And I’m so glad that He is. Jesus is the foundation of the Church.

II. The Formation of the Church

Now, the second thing I want you to notice: not only the foundation of the Church, but the formation of the Church. Jesus said, “Upon this rock I will build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) So not only is He the foundation, but He’s also the architect and the builder. He is building His Church. Now, notice He doesn’t say, “Upon this rock I will build your Church,” nor does He say, “You will build my Church.” He says, “Upon this rock I build my church.” (Matthew 16:18) The Church is built by the Lord Jesus Christ—Jesus and Jesus alone! Flesh and blood cannot build the Church. The Church is a spiritual house, and it is spiritual work. It is “not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the LORD.” (Zechariah 4:6) Men can build a denomination, and men can build a building; but only Jesus can build a church.

And, incidentally, this building is not the church. I hope you know that. This building—thank God for it! I love these buildings. I love every square inch of this place. But I want to tell you, these buildings are not the church; they’re where the church meets. And if something were to happen to these buildings—if they were to evaporate, disintegrate, explode, or burn, or something, God forbid—there would still be Bellevue Baptist Church; we’d still have a church. We’d meet in a stadium somewhere. We’d meet in a field somewhere. We’d meet in homes somewhere. But there would still be the church, for we are the church. Don’t confuse the building with the church.

I heard about a man one time who was filling out a form, and on that form there was a question for church preference. He wrote, “Red brick.” Now that man had confused the church with the building. Now I want to tell you that I think red brick buildings are nice, but I tell you, my preferences for churches is the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ, of which Jesus Christ is the foundation and Jesus is the builder.

Now, how does He build His Church? By calling people to Himself. The word church is a Greek word, ekklesia, and it means “a called-out assembly, people who are called out.” Jesus looks into this world and calls out that one, and He calls out this one, and He calls out that one, and He just says, “Come! I want you. You are a part of my called-out assembly.” And as we’re called to Him, we are separated from the world.

Now some of you may have your name on this church roll, but you’re not a part of Jesus’s Church. Why? Because you’ve never been called out of the world; you’ve never been separated from the world. You’re still in the world. There’s no difference between you and the people that you work with tomorrow. You may have your name on this church roll, you may have been through that pool; but you’re nothing but a baptized pagan. You’ve never been born again. Church membership is not the way to heaven; Jesus is the way to heaven. And you’re not in the Church until Jesus has called you out and until you have come out.

“Oh,” you say, “I’m a big worker in the church.” So was Judas. Jesus said in Matthew 7, verse 22, “Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works?” And then Jesus said, “And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.” (Matthew 7:22–23) They are prophesying in His name. They’re casting out devils in His name. There are many wonderful works He called “iniquity.” I want to tell you, if you teach in a Sunday School class, if you give your money to this church, if you sing in the choir, if you usher in this place, if you work on these grounds, and you’re not born again, God calls it “iniquity.” You say, “It’s good works.” God says, “It’s iniquity”—iniquity, if you’ve never been born again.

Oh, dear friend, the devil had just as soon send you to hell from the pew as the gutter. And so a church is an assembly of people that have been called out of the world, separated from the world, separated unto the Lord Jesus Christ. It is Jesus who is building the Church.

III. The Fellowship of the Church

Now, the next thing I want you to notice: I want you to notice the fellowship of the Church. If Jesus builds the Church, that means He loves the Church. It’s His Church, and therefore we are to love Him, and we are to love it. And therefore we are to love one another. We are a called-out assembly. We have been called out; and therefore we have been brought together, because we have been called out.

You know, one of the strange things to me is that someone will say, “Well, I love Jesus; I just don’t love the church.” That’s ridiculous! Did I hurt your feelings? That’s ridiculous! Hurt them twice now. Now, listen. You can’t love Jesus without loving His Church. You see, Jesus and the Church are inseparable. They are not identical, but they are inseparable. Jesus describes His Church under three figures. The Church is a body—His body. He’s the head; we’re the members of the body. The Church is His bride. He’s the groom, and we’re the bride. And, thirdly, the church is His building. He’s the foundation, and we’re the living stones that He occupies. So the Church is a body, a bride, and a building.

A. The Church Is a Body

Now He’s the head of the body. Wouldn’t it be ridiculous if I got up this morning and I said to my head, “I’m going to take care of you; I really like you, head; I’m going to brush your teeth, and I’m going to wash your face, and I’m going to shampoo and comb your hair; but I don’t care for this thing down here from the neck down; I just don’t care for this at all, so I’m not going to bathe it, and I’m not going to dress it, and I’m not going to eat it; I’m not going to care for it; I love the head, but I don’t love the body”? Now that would be silly, just as silly as the man who says, “I love Jesus, but I don’t love the Church.” He’s the head; the Church is the body. Jesus Christ and the Church are not identical, but they are inseparable.

B. The Church Is a Bride

Or let me give you another illustration. Jesus is the bride. Suppose here’s a bride and groom. They get married, and they have a wonderful wedding. And then, shortly after the wedding, someone says to the groom, “Say, we’d like to have you come over to our house for dinner tonight.” “Well,” he says, “fine, wonderful. I’ll go ask my bride.” “Oh, no, no, no! We don’t want her. We didn’t mean her. You see, we don’t like her. As a matter of fact, we can’t stand her. All we want is you.” Now, what do you think that bridegroom’s going to do? What do you think he’d better do? You think he’s going to say, “Well, all right, just so long as you love me, it doesn’t really make much difference whether or not you love my bride”?

Friend, listen. When you love the bridegroom, you’re going to love the bride. When you love Jesus, you’re going to love the Church.

C. The Church Is a Building

And the Church is His body. The Church is His bride. And the Church is His building. What’s this building for? He inhabits it; He lives in it.

One man called a pastor up in Washington, I’m told, and asked this question: “Will the President of the United States be in your services this morning?” The pastor said, “No, but the King of kings will be there. That ought to be enough for you,” amen? “The King of kings will be there.”

You see, this is where the Lord Jesus is in a very special way. “Where two or three are gathered...in my name, there am I in the midst of them.” (Matthew 18:20) And I want to tell you that Jesus Christ is present in the midst of His Church like He is in no other way.

And I’m saying, dear friend, the fellowship of the Church is this: When you love Jesus, you’re going to love what Jesus loves—and Jesus loves the Church. Therefore, I must love you, and you must love me, and must love us, because Jesus does. That’s the fellowship of the Church. It is His body. It is His bride. It is His building. He built it. “I will build my church,” (Matthew 16:18) the Lord Jesus said.

IV. The Faith of the Church

Now I want you to notice not only the foundation, and the formation, and the fellowship, but I want you to notice the faith of the Church. What is the faith of the Church? Well, notice again Peter’s confession of faith when Jesus asked Simon Peter, “Whom do men say that I the Son of man am?” (Matthew 16:13) And I want you to notice Peter’s magnificent confession of faith in verse 16: “Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” (Matthew 16:16) And, my friend, that is the faith of the Church: that Jesus is the Christ, the Messiah, the Son of God. That is the faith of the Church. That’s what makes us one. We are united in that one faith that Jesus Christ is God’s Son. From that truth are multitudes of truths, but they all find their heading in that one central affirmation of faith: Jesus is “the Christ, the Son of the living God.” And you cannot be a part of the Church unless you have the faith of the Church, and that is the faith of the Church that has become the foundation of the Church.
A. Personal Conviction of Faith

And I want you to notice that Jesus, first of all, asked, “Who are other people saying that I am?” (Matthew 16:13) Why did He ask that question that way? Was Jesus really interested in His public relations? Jesus was never concerned about what others thought about Him from that point of view. All He is doing is just zeroing in. What He is doing is showing them that they must have a personal faith of their own.

Now it’s not enough—it’s not enough, dear friend—for you to know what others think about Jesus Christ. Do you know what the burning question is today for you? Who do you say that Jesus Christ is? Who do you say? You say, “Well, I have an orthodox pastor.” Well, that doesn’t make any difference. Who do you say that Jesus is? You say, “Well, my mother and my daddy were Christians.” That doesn’t make any difference. Who do you say that Jesus is?

I heard about a man one time who was a Methodist, and a Baptist was talking to him, trying to get him to come to the Baptist church. He said, “I can’t do it.” He said, “My mother was a Methodist, my daddy was a Methodist, my granddaddy was a Methodist, my grandfather, grandmother, was a Methodist, and I’m a Methodist.” Well, this Baptist was a little irritated. He said, “Well, if your mother was a moron, and your daddy was a moron, and your granddaddy was a moron, and your grandmother was a moron, then what would you be?” “Oh,” he said, “I guess I’d be a Baptist.”

Well, I’m not asking you about your ancestors. I want to know, who do you say that Jesus is? You see, there must be this personal conviction of faith. It must be yours. And the only way that you’re going to know who Jesus is, is not for me to tell you; the only way that you’re going to know who Jesus is, is for God to tell you. “Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.” (Matthew 16:17)

I want you to know that Peter had been to school for three years, and he still hadn’t figured it out—for three years, under the best teacher the world has ever known, the Lord Jesus Christ, and yet he has not figured it out. Why? Because it is not something you figure out; it is something you learn only by revelation. And so, therefore, when he finally did get the right answer, it wasn’t because he was intellectually astute; it was because God the Father had revealed it to him. And I’m glad that it’s that way, for God “has hidden these things from the wise and the prudent, and has revealed them unto babes.” (Matthew 11:25; Luke 10:21) Now I can tell you that Jesus is the Christ, and I am going to tell you, Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; but, friend, anything I can talk you into somebody else could talk you out of. But something God the Father tells you—something God the Father shows you—is yours forever. When God the Father reveals to you that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, you have it forever.

We hear about these people sometimes, oh, they were once Christians, they were once Evangelicals, and then they became Buddhists, or they got into some cult. They got into this thing, and that thing, and they say, “I don’t believe that Jesus is the Son of God anymore.” Well, dear friend, they never did believe it—they never did believe it. No man can ever see by divine revelation that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and ever again deny that. John says, “They went out from us, but they were not of us, because they continued not”—“They went out from us, because they were not of us”—and then, John said—“had they been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us: but they went out, that they might be made manifest that they were not all of us.” (1 John 2:19) I want to tell you something, friend: When God gives it to you by revelation that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, it’s yours forever. That doesn’t mean there has to be a flash of light or thunder. But if you just have that quiet awareness that the Bible is true and that Jesus is the Son of God, and you know because you know that you know that it is true, it is because God the Holy Spirit is speaking that to your heart. And thank God for that. You see, this is the faith of the Church: that Jesus is “the Christ, the Son of the living God.” (Matthew 16:16)

B. Personal Confession of Faith

And then, it’s not enough for there to be that personal conviction of faith; there must be that personal confession of faith. Peter was not ashamed to say it. He said it openly, outwardly, boldly, unashamedly: “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” (Matthew 16:16) And at that time, Jesus said, “Yes, and you are a rock.” (Matthew 16:18)

Now some people say, “Oh, this is when Peter became stable, so Jesus is now calling him a rock.” No, this wasn’t when he became stable. I don’t know if he ever did become stable. I guess after Pentecost he did; but even then, he and Paul got into it. Let me tell you something about Peter. Peter certainly wasn’t stable at this time, because right a few verses later Jesus has to call him the devil. Or, He doesn’t really call him the devil; He speaks to the devil through him. But He says, “Peter, you’re acting like the devil”—“Get thee behind me, Satan: thou art an offence unto me.” (Matthew 16:23) And this same guy was not very stable when he cursed and swore and denied that he knew the Lord Jesus. And, again, he wasn’t very stable when he tried to keep Jesus from going to the cross and all of that. No, Jesus did not call him a rock because he became stable. But remember who Jesus is. Jesus is the Rock; Jesus is the bedrock. And now he says to Peter, “You’ve got a nature like I have. You are a piece of the Rock—you are a piece of the Rock. You are a rock. You share a nature like me. Peter, you have become a partaker of the divine nature. You are one with your Lord.”
How does one become one with Jesus? By being born again. And how does one get born again? By confessing that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God. “Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved.” (Acts 16:31) When you believe on Him, mister, you become one with Him. You become a partaker of the divine nature, and you become a piece of the Rock. Hallelujah! That’s what He’s saying: “Peter, thou art a rock now.” I’m a rock. You’re a rock. We are together the servant and His Lord. And so that is the faith of the Church.

V. The Function of the Church

Now I want you to notice with me, if you will, for just a moment, the function of the Church. What is the function of the Church? Why are we put here? What are we supposed to do? Well, look, if you will, in verse 18. And Jesus said, “I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” (Matthew 16:18–19) It literally says, “Whatever you bind on earth is already bound in heaven; whatever you loose on earth is already loosed in heaven.” That is, “You are so one with me that you can ratify what heaven is doing. You are one with your Lord, and I’m in the midst of you. And when you speak, I speak.”

Oh, what’s He talking about here? Well, in this time when Jesus gave this teaching, there were a group of people known as scribes, and these scribes were teachers that taught with authority—at least they were supposed to have authority. And they were supposed to be reservoirs of truth, storehouses of knowledge. And as an indication of that, they wore around their girdle, around their belt, a key, and that key was symbolic of knowledge. It was a symbolic key, very much like the key to the city; but this was a key to knowledge. Now what Jesus is saying is, “I am giving you a key that unlocks everything.”

What is the key that Jesus gives us? The key is the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. With that, dear friend, we can bind all of the powers of darkness, and with that we can loose the prison house of despair and set the captives free. Jesus said, “Whatever we bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever we loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.” And I’m so glad that I can stand here in this pulpit without stutter, stammer, fear, or apology, and tell you on the authority of the Word of God, “Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved.” (Acts 16:31) For, friend, I’ve got the key—I’ve got the key. It’s Jesus. He is the One who has commissioned us. We are ambassadors for Christ. And the Lord Jesus has given to us the keys of the kingdom of heaven. And our job as a church is one thing—and that is to preach the gospel.
We are against communism; but others can be against communism. We are against the liquor business; but others can be against the liquor business. We’re against pornography; but others can be against pornography. But I want to tell you, there’s one thing that no one else can do, should do, ought to do, and can do effectively like the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ—and that is to preach the gospel. That’s what we’re here for. That’s what you’re here for. You have the key. I have the key.

If you cannot preach like Peter,
If you cannot pray like Paul,
You can tell the love of Jesus,
And say, “He died for all.”
—AUTHOR UNKNOWN

That’s the function of the Church.

VI. The Future of the Church
But let me just come to the most important thing. Let me talk to you about the future of the Church—the future of the Church. Look again, if you will, please, here in Matthew chapter 16. And the Lord Jesus says in verse 18, “And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.” (Matthew 16:18) Now, what does this mean: “the gates of hell shall not prevail against it”?

Some people think this means that the Church will survive. And the Church will survive—but that’s not what this means. At least, that’s not the primary meaning, not to me. You see, so many people have the idea that here’s the church like a fortress, and we’re all inside, huddled, trying to make it out till Jesus gets here, you know. And here are all of the forces of hell with all of their battering rams just beating and beating and beating and beating on the church. Yet, the gates of hell don’t prevail; there she stands. That’s not the picture. Nobody beats on anything with gates. Gates are not a weapon of offense. What does he mean: “the gates of hell shall not prevail”? Gates are not weapons of offense; gates are weapons of defense. The idea here is not a church on the defensive; the idea here is a militant Church.

Now, I think it will be a little clearer if we understand what we mean by “the gates of hell”—“the gates of hell.” Literally, this word is “the gates of Hades”—“Hades.” Now there are several words that are translated “hell” in the King James Version of the Bible. This word is the Greek word Hades, and it does not necessarily mean that burning, fiery place called “hell.” Now there is a burning, fiery hell. I believe in that kind of a hell. But there’s another word used primarily to describe that hell.
Incidentally, some sailors came to the chaplain onboard a ship, and said, “Chaplain, do you believe in hell?” He said, “Yes, I do. Why did you ask?” They said, “Very simply, for this reason: If there is a hell, and you don’t believe in it, we sure don’t want you for a chaplain; and if there is no hell, we don’t need any chaplain.”

There is a hell—there is a hell. But that’s not what Jesus is talking about here. There’s a different word that’s used here. There is the word Hades: “And the gates of [Hades] shall not prevail against it.” And what does that mean? It means “the abode of the dead, the place to which the departed spirits go when they die.” And so it’s the city of the dead. There is a great domain of death, a great walled city of death, and it has iron-barred gates. And none seem able to escape, and we’re born inside that city of death.

I want you to look in the book of Hebrews for just a moment. Now, don’t lose your place there in Matthew 16, but I want you to look in the book of Hebrews chapter 2 for just a moment—Hebrews chapter 2. This is the exciting part, so stay right here now. Hebrews 2, verse 14: “Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood,”—he’s talking about us. We’re the children he’s talking about. We’re partakers of flesh and blood. That is, when we were born into this world, we came in a human body; we were wrapped up in a human body—“he also himself likewise took part of the same;”—Jesus took a human body, too. Why did He do that?—“that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death...”—you see, in order for Jesus to redeem us, He had to die. In order for Him to die, He had to be die-able. And in order for Him to be able to die, He had to have a human body. So He became flesh here, the Bible says, that he might die. And why did He want to die?

Because He wanted to—“destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil;”—He’s going through death to destroy death. He’s going to meet the enemy in his own backyard and destroy him. Who is it that has the power of death? It is the devil. And what is the devil doing with the power of death? Look, if you will, in verse 15—“and deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage.” (Hebrews 2:14–15) The devil keeps everybody in bondage through the fear of death.

We all learn very young that there’s something called death. We see flowers die. Our little puppy gets run over. The kitten dies. Then, granddaddy dies. And then, the neighbor boy dies. And then, it dawns on us: We’re going to die. And this brings a bondage to us, and we hate to get old. And we’re careful, and we’re fearful. Ladies and gentlemen, there is no greater bondage than the fear of death, and it is the poisoned fountain out of which all other fears and neurosis grow. And the devil uses this fear of death to keep us in bondage in this city of death, this high-walled city with iron-barred gates; and we’re prisoners inside this city afraid of death. But Jesus came to deliver us.
Now I’m going to talk to you now about what it means—what “the gates of death” means, what “the gates of Hades” means, that will not be able to prevail against the Church. Inside this city of death, there has come an invader, and he’s come down in our midst. His name is Jesus, Son of God. He entered. He came over the walls, and He came inside the compound. And He’s in here with all of those of us who are in bondage and living in fear. And right in enemy territory, right inside the walls, and inside those iron-barred gates, He’s building an organization, an organism. He’s calling out people, and He’s saying, “Listen: You see those gates over there? We’re going out; we’re going through. We’re going to escape.” And He starts to call people. He says, “Hey! Come over here! We're breaking out! Hey, lady, come on! We’re breaking out! You, sir, come on! I want you to be a part of our group. You come with me. We’re breaking out!” And all over this city of death, in the very midst, in the enemy territory, He is calling out people—calling this one, calling that one, calling this one: “Say, you can come, lady. Come on!” He’s calling, and He’s saying, “Come!” And they say to Him, “Are you sure we can get out?” He says, “Yes. I’m He that was dead and alive. I’ve got the keys of death and hell; and we’re going out—we’re going out! And I want you to know, no matter what happens, I am victorious over the grave, and death cannot keep its prey. And we are breaking out. And the gates of hell will not prevail against the Church.” That’s the future of the Church, friend. Because He lives, we’re going to live. He is the Victor. He has the keys of death and of hell.

Years ago, I heard Dr. W. A. Criswell tell of how he was sitting on an airplane, and he found himself sitting beside a renowned theological professor. Criswell said, “Oh, how I praise God that I was able to talk with this man that I’d never met.” And they shared great fellowship, and then Criswell said to this man, “Do you have any children?” “Oh,” he said, “we had a little boy. He died very young.” Criswell said, “Would you tell me about it?” And the professor said, “Well, the little fellow came home from school one day and told his mother that he had a headache. She put him to bed. The next day, he said, ‘Mommy, I don’t feel like going to school. My head hurts.’” They called the doctor. The doctor called a specialist, and the specialist diagnosed it as a very severe form of meningitis. And the doctor told this theological professor, “Your little boy will be with you but for a few hours.”

And this man said that he sat by the bed of that son to watch his son, to be with him, and to pray for him. And the little boy said to his daddy, “It’s getting dark, isn’t it, Daddy?” It was high noon, but he said, “Daddy, it’s getting dark.” The little fellow’s sight was failing him. And his dad, knowing the darkness that was in his own heart, said, “Yes, son, it is getting dark.” He said, “Well, Daddy, don’t you think I’d better go to sleep, then?” The professor said, “Yes, son, I guess you’d better go to sleep.” And he said the little boy had a way of fixing his pillow just so and fixing his hands just a certain way he did before he went to sleep. You know, all have habits of sleep. And the little fellow fixed his hands just so there upon his face and there upon his pillow. And he looked at his daddy, and he said, “Goodnight, Daddy. I’ll see you in the morning.” And he closed his eyes in death.

Criswell said that professor turned his face away from him and looked out that airplane window for a long time, “I suppose,” he said, “because he didn’t want me to see the tears that were in his eyes. And then,” he said, “he turned back to me, and he said, ‘Dr. Criswell, I can hardly wait till the morning.”

I want to tell you, friend, the morning is coming—it is! We're breaking out! Your grandmama in the grave—Jesus has the keys! Your baby, like my baby that’s buried there in West Palm Beach—we’re breaking out of this place! Those of us who live here in this city of death—we’re breaking out! And the gates of hell shall not prevail against us. That, my dear friend, is the future of the Church.

Conclusion

And I believe that Jesus Christ sent me here today as His servant to call you, to invite you, to tell you that He is the Christ, the Son of the living God, so that the Holy Spirit of God could say, “That’s right: He is”; so that God the Father could reveal it to you; and so that you could confess it openly and publicly and unashamedly as Simon Peter did: “I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God”; and so that you could become a piece of a Rock, and you could enjoy the future of the Church.

Introduction

Would you be finding, please, Matthew chapter 17 in the Word of God? May I tell you that ours is a special generation. Beyond the shadow of any doubt, in my heart and mind, we are living on the edge. We’re living on the edge of eternity. We’re living in the closing shadows of an age. And I want us to think about the frontiers that we face. We have a committee in our church called The Frontiers of Faith. Now, the frontier is the leading edge, and that’s where we are at as a church. And I heard a preacher one time say, “I’d rather be Peter, James, and John asleep in the Garden of Gethsemane than to be a Christian asleep in these pregnant days in which we live.”

Now, let me give you the background. Actually, I said Matthew 17, but let’s back up just a little bit and look in the last two verses of chapter 16. Jesus is speaking, and He says, “For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels; and then he shall reward every man according to his works”—now, listen to the words of Jesus—
“Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom”—now, go down to chapter 17, verse 1—“And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment”—boys and girls, that means “His clothes”—“was white as the light.” (Matthew 16:27–17:2)

I. We Are Living on the Edge of the Lord’s Return

Let me just stop there and talk about some things that I’m going to tell you. At least, let me tell you what I want to tell you. It’s good to tell you before I tell you; then I’ll tell you I told you. But congregation, church, listen to me: we are living on the edge—on the edge of the Lord’s return. Now, in this passage of Scripture, Jesus said, “There are some of you standing here who will not see death ‘til you see the Son of man come in all of His glory.” (Matthew 16:28)

“Well, pastor, He didn’t come, did He? That was two thousand years ago. And all of those people are dead; they died. But He said, ‘You’ll not die ‘til you see the Son of man coming in His glory.’” Well, in order to understand that in the last part of chapter 16, you have to go to chapter 17 and see what our Lord was talking about. Now, in chapter 17, the first three verses, it tells us that Jesus went up on a mountain, and He was transfigured; that is, His inner glory came to the surface. His face was like the sun, His clothes in splendid white, and there He is in all of His glory. And along with Him there is Moses and Elijah. As verse 3 says, “There appeared unto them Moses and [Elijah].” (Matthew 17:3) Now, what you have here is a preview of the Second Coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. And when Jesus said, “There are some of you who are standing here who will not taste of death ‘til you see the Son of man come in His glory,” (Matthew 16:28) that’s what they were seeing. They were seeing a foretaste of glory—of the Resurrection, and the Glorification, and the Second Coming of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now, look in verse 1—chapter 17, verse 1. The Bible says this happened “after six days.” (Matthew 17:1) That is, He says, “I’m going to come,” and then after six days He is transfigured. Now, I don’t think that’s incidental. I think there’s a great lesson there for us because six is the number of a man. There have been six thousand years of recorded history. Now, there’s coming after these six thousand years of recorded history another thousand years, which is the millennial reign of the Lord Jesus Christ here on this earth. Six is the number of a man. Satan’s number, Satan’s superman, as you know from the book of the Revelation, is 666. Now, you say, “Well, pastor, he’s just talking about six days there. You’re talking about six thousand years.” Well, this is symbolism. The Bible says, “[With the Lord] one day is...as a thousand years, and a thousand years as [a] day.” (2 Peter 3:8) This stands for the six thousand years of human history that are going to come to a close.

And as we look around, folks, as we look, we cannot help but feel that we’re living in the closing shadows of the six thousand years of human history. Think of the terrorism; think of nation against nation; think of this nation of ours that is divided right down the middle. And, unless we get that healed, you can say goodbye to America because a “house [divided] cannot stand.” (Mark 3:25) And we’re living in treacherous times. Think of what is happening in the Middle East. Do you know what all of this terrorism is really about? It’s about Israel. It’s not about America; it’s about Israel. We’re a friend to Israel. And not only is it about Israel; it’s about Jerusalem. And there are those who resent the fact that God’s chosen people have the holy city. Zechariah chapter 12, verse 3: Our Lord is talking about His coming, and He says, “In that day will I make Jerusalem a burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.” (Zechariah 12:3)

We’re living in dark days. Arnold Toynbee, the great historian, had this to say—and I don’t think he knew what I’m preaching about tonight, but he said this—and listen: “The stable character of the past six thousand years of civilized history is being changed and falling apart.” Now, that was a secularist. But he’s saying this six thousand years that we’ve known, it’s undergoing a change, and the wheels are coming off of it. And that is true. Now, that doesn’t mean that we have to go around with our head between our knees and ask this question: “What’s the world coming to?” We already know the answer. It’s coming to Jesus, amen? It is His. But the signs of the times tell us that we are living in the last days.

Now, that ought not to cause you to panic. Really, it ought to cause you to say, “You know, the seventh day is about to dawn.” The Bible speaks of the saints in Revelation chapter 20, verse 6. The Bible says they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years. (Revelation 20:6) Jesus is going to live and reign here on this earth, and all of us are going to help Him administrate the earth. And I think I’d like to be the sheriff of this county. Well, we have a good sheriff. I don’t mean that disparagingly. But friend, there is a time when right, that has been on the scaffold, will be on the throne.

And so, don’t get all jittery, boys and girls, about Jesus coming. When I was your age, I used to think, “Oh no, He’s going to come in my age. I won’t get to grow up. I won’t get to go to college. I won’t get to get married. And I want to get to do all these things I want to do.” Well, boys and girls, never, never feel bad about that. I’m telling you that you will get things so much better than those things that you’re worried about missing when Jesus comes. You wouldn’t even think twice about wanting the Lord Jesus to come. You would pray, “Even so, come, Lord Jesus.” (Revelation 22:20) Folks, I’m telling you, you don’t need to get nervous. I heard a preacher say—a country preacher: “You can’t make God nervous.” And there’s no panic in heaven. And our Lord Jesus Christ, here, is giving us a picture of the last days.

I read some years ago about a man who was spending the night in Switzerland. He’d never been there before. And in the middle of the night, or early in the morning, he heard this rumbling, cracking noise, and he’d never heard it before. And he thought, “I don’t know what this is. I wonder if this is the end of the world.” And he said to his host who had him there, “What is going on?” “Oh,” he said, “I’m sorry I didn’t tell you. But this mountain is fixed so that when the sun comes up, it begins to melt the ice. And the cracking noise that you heard was the melting of the ice in that great ice floe that is there.” He said, “It’s not the end of the age; it is the dawning of a new day.” And that’s what we need to understand: that when our Lord comes—glory, hallelujah!—we have something glorious to look forward to.

Now, the Bible tells us that when these disciples were there and Jesus was transfigured, there were two other figures that stepped on the scene. Look in verse 3: “And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias”—now, that’s just the New Testament way of saying, “Elijah appeared with Him”—“talking with him.” (Matthew 17:3) So, they’re having a Bible conference up there. Here’s Jesus glorified, and here are Moses and Elijah. Now remember, this is all a wonderful preview, a picture.

Now, I want you to think about Moses and Elijah. I want you to think, especially, how they went to heaven. Moses died and went to heaven. Moses was buried on Mount Nebo, and he is buried there and will stay buried there until the resurrection. This is a picture of that resurrection, when Moses appears with Jesus in the glory. Now, Elijah never died. He was taken to heaven in a whirlwind, in a chariot of fire. Why do we have this? Because it represents the saints of all of the ages. There are some saints, like Moses, who have died, and they’ve gone to the ground. And when Jesus comes, they’ll be raised. And there are some saints like Elijah who will never die but will be raptured when Jesus comes again. Some will sing, “O grave, where is your victory?” Others will sing, “O death, where is your sting?” (1 Corinthians 15:55) I believe there are some living in this auditorium, very likely, who will never die but will be caught up to meet the Lord Jesus Christ in the air.

Now, there was Moses, and there was Elijah; but the central person in this story is the Lord Jesus Christ. Look in verses 4 through 8: “Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for [Elijah]”—now, that was a dumb thing to say. Peter gets all excited and says, “Let’s have a building program, and let’s just set up a campground up here”—“While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them”—that bright cloud was the Shekinah glory of God—“and behold a voice out of the “cloud”—that’s the voice of God—“which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid. And Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid. And when they had lifted up there eyes, they saw no man, save”—or, “except”—“Jesus only.” (Matthew 17:4–8) Now church, I want to tell you, that’s what it’s all about: Jesus only! Say, “Jesus only.” Say it again: “Jesus only.” They saw Jesus only.

A. It’s Jesus Only in Creation
It’s Jesus only in creation. Do you know why we have creation? Do you know why we have all this world and every minute electron and every mighty planet and star? For Jesus. It was all made by Him. It was all made for Him. It’s all coming back to Him. And the answer to creation, very simply, something that the scientists will never, never, never, never, never ever know until they know the truth of the Bible—in creation, it is Jesus only.

B. It’s Jesus Only in Redemption
In redemption, it is Jesus only. I was watching a program last night on CNN. I very seldom watch CNN, but somebody called me and told me to watch it. And in this program they were talking about those of us who are Christians, what they call “evangelical Christians” or “fundamentalist Christians,” and one of the things that seemed to be giving them the biggest consternation was we believe that salvation is in Jesus only. I hope you believe that. The Bible says, “Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.” (Acts 4:12) In redemption, as well as creation, it is Jesus only.

C. It’s Jesus Only in the Bible
Folks, it is Jesus only in the Bible. Do you want to understand this Bible? It is a “Him book.” It is written about Him. If you read the Bible and you don’t find Jesus, you’d better re-read it. You missed the message of the Word of God. Jesus said, “Search the Scriptures…[these] are they which testify of me.” (John 5:39) And, “He [showed] them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself.” (Luke 24:27) It doesn’t say, “He showed them all the things concerning Himself in the Scriptures,” but “in all the scriptures the things concerning himself.” (Luke 24:27) In the Word of God, it is Jesus only.

D. It’s Jesus Only in Prophecy
In prophecy, it is Jesus only. The book of the Revelation says that this is the spirit of prophecy—listen to it—that “the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.” (Revelation 19:10) Now, what are you waiting for? Are you waiting for the antichrist? Are you waiting for Armageddon? Are you waiting for the Millennium? Oh no, all those things are ancillary. In prophecy, it is Jesus only. We’re not looking for something to happen; we’re looking for someone to come.

E. It’s Jesus Only in the Church
It is true in the church. What is the purpose of Bellevue? Jesus only—Jesus only. The Bible says, “Unto him be glory in the church.” (Ephesians 3:21) Now, if we have this meeting tonight and Jesus doesn’t get the glory, we have misused and abused our responsibility and missed a blessing.

Friend, in creation, it is Jesus only. In redemption, it is Jesus only. In prophecy, it is Jesus only. In the church, it is Jesus only. Congregation, before long, I’m going to retire, but I want you to be a Jesus-only church. “They…lifted up their eyes, [and] saw…Jesus only.” (Matthew 17:8) I believe we’re living on the edge—on the edge, the very edge—of our Lord’s return.

II. We Are Living on the Edge of a Satanic Rampage
Now, number two: We are living on the very edge of a satanic rampage. What can you expect in the last days? Well, look now in verses 14 through 18: “And when they were come to the multitude”—now, they’re up on the mountain, and then Peter, James, and John, they come down from the mountain, and there’s a multitude down there in the valley—“And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is a lunatick, and sore vexed: for ofttimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him. Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour.” (Matthew 17:14–18)

Now, I want you to see the contrast. Up there on the mountain is Jesus. Down here in the valley is a demon-possessed boy. And I believe the Scripture is teaching us here that in the last days we’re going to see a revival of demonism like we’ve never seen before. We are going to be up against the organized, mobilized, demonized forces of hell, and Satan is going to let loose everything that’s in his artillery. The Bible says in the book of the Revelation, he’s “come down upon you with great wrath, for he knows that he hath but a little time.” (Revelation 12:12) Satan is like a cornered animal. And you’re going to have this kind of thing coming down.

Now Jesus comes down, and He looks at the situation. First of all, there were the disciples who were a miserable failure. This man said, “Master, I brought my son to your disciples and asked them to do something, and they could not”—a demon-possessed boy; a brokenhearted Savior. Jesus rebuked them. He said, “Oh, you faithless generation. How long shall I be with you? How long shall I suffer you? Bring him to me.”
Now friend, our job, our responsibility, is to bring people to Jesus Christ. “Bring him to me.” (Matthew 17:17) And Jesus spoke; the demons fled; and a little boy cuddled in the arms of his father with gratitude, thanking Jesus for what He did.

Now friend, that Jesus is in you. And, “greater is he that is in you, than he that is in the world.” (1 John 4:4) And never—no, never, ever, ever, never, ever—think that Satan has power in your life, except what you let him have. Jesus rebuked them for their faithlessness. Had they had faith, they could have done the same thing that He did.

Now, there was a shame there. These disciples had failed. Would to God that we would hang our heads when we fail the Lord Jesus Christ! We’re living on the edge of a demonic manifestation. You’re going to see more and more of it in these last days. Now, to be forewarned is to be forearmed. You teach your children. You get your heart clean and pure. I don’t know what this election going to bring, but I know this much: that Jesus is King. We didn’t vote Him in, and we won’t vote Him out. He is King. No matter what happens, Jesus is Lord. Jesus is King. And never, ever, ever forget it. And never be discouraged if it doesn’t turn out like you want it to turn out.

III. We Are Living on the Edge of a Supernatural Revival

Now, here’s the third thing about these frontiers of faith: not only are we living on the very cutting edge of our Lord’s return; not only are we living on the cutting edge of demonic oppression, but we are living on the edge of a supernatural revival. I like this part. Now, look in verses 19 through 21: “Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out? And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you”—now, listen to this—“verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say to this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting.” (Matthew 17:19–21)

Now, they said, “Jesus, why couldn’t we do what you did?” And, by the way, the Bible says, “When they were come apart…” (Matthew 17:19) They were embarrassed even to speak about it in public. And Jesus said, “The reason you couldn’t do it is because of your lack of faith.” (Matthew 17:20) There are so many blessings that we miss because of our lack of faith. But then, Jesus gives a wonderful promise, and I want you to listen to it. He said, “If you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, you could say to this mountain, ‘Be removed and be cast into the sea.’” (Matthew 17:20)

Now, what was the mountain? The mountain was the difference between what was happening up there when Jesus was transfigured and the valley down here where this demon-possessed boy is. Jesus is not telling us that we’re to go around casting literal mountains into the sea. Now, if He wanted that done, it would be no problem to Him; but you’re missing the message. Here was a mountain of despair. Here was a mountain of demonism. Here was a mountain of the occult. Here was a mountain of broken-heartedness. And Jesus said, “If you believe, you can have the power to remove this mountain and bring heaven and earth together.” That’s what He was talking about.

A. The Size of the Mustard Seed
Now, what He says is this: “If [you] have faith [like] a grain of mustard seed…” (Matthew 17:20) Now, you know what a grain of mustard seed is like? It’s like that fleck of pepper that you put on your eggs this morning. It was the smallest seed they knew anything about. And He said, “If you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, you can say to this mountain, ‘Be removed and be cast into the sea.’” (Matthew 17:20)

Now, get the lesson, and don’t miss it. What Jesus is saying is this: that the least amount of faith is greater than the greatest amount of difficulty. That was a good place for an “amen.” Now, the least amount of faith is greater than the greatest amount of difficulty, amen? Now, you know the problem with that amen? It was kind of weak because you don’t really believe it. You believe that’s good preaching, but that’s all you think about. You know, “It’s preaching.” No, friend, it is truth! Now, listen—listen. Jesus said, “If you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, you can say to this mountain, ‘Be removed and be cast into the sea.’” (Matthew 17:20) A mustard seed went to battle against a mountain and decimated it. It’s kind of like David going against Goliath, only a greater contrast.

B. The Secret of the Mustard Seed
Now, think with me, boys and girls, about a mustard seed. Think about the secret of a mustard seed. What is the difference between the mustard seed and the mountain? Well, size. But that’s not what He’s talking about here. A mustard seed has life—it has life. A mountain has no life. When we have the life of God in us, then we can go against the mountains and remove them because a mustard seed has life. No scientist on earth ever has, ever will, ever can synthesize a seed. A seed is a little miracle.

C. The Source of the Mustard Seed
And then, think not only about the size of the seed and the secret of the seed, but think about the source of the seed. Now, if you have faith, well, where does that faith come from? Faith is the gift of God. You cannot just have faith in your pocket, like pocket change to spend for whatever you want. If God wants a mountain removed, God will give you mountain-moving faith. Faith comes from God. Faith is the gift of God. Faith is like breathing. God gives you air, and God gives you lungs; but He doesn’t breathe for you. You can smother if you want. But oh, listen—God wants to put that seed of faith in your hand.
D. The Sowing of the Mustard Seed

And think, not only of the source of that seed, but, friend, think of the sowing of that seed. What is a seed for? A seed is not a museum piece. What is your faith for? You plant it. You see, the seed has life. And when you take that little bit of faith that God has given you and you plant it, God will give you more. Now, in another gospel, that little boy’s father—it’s another description of this same episode—that little boy’s father said to Jesus, “Lord, if you can do something for my son, please do it.” And Jesus said to him, “If you can believe, all things are possible to him that believes.” (Mark 9:22–23)

Now, he said, “Lord, if you can.” Jesus said, “No, if you can—if you can believe.” Do you know what that father said? Something I’ve said to the Lord many times this week: “Lord, I believe; help [my] unbelief.” (Mark 9:24) Have you ever said that to the Lord?

You know, you don’t have to have perfect faith. This father didn’t have perfect faith. His faith was so small it was like a grain of mustard seed. And it was a very fragile faith. But he said, “O God, I believe.” And then, all the doubts rush in on him. He says, “God, help my unbelief.” You know, a weak faith is still a wonderful thing—not that I want you to have a weak faith; but friend, a weak faith can lay hold of a mighty God. Do you believe that? It did here. This man said, “Lord, I believe; help [my] unbelief.” (Mark 9:24)

Jesus was going through the city one time, and the crowd was all around Him; and there was a woman who was sick, and she’d tried so many doctors and couldn’t get any relief or release. And she saw Jesus, and she said, “If I can just touch the hem of His garment, I will be healed.” (Matthew 9:21) And I want to tell you, friend, that was a superstitious faith. That’s really not Bible faith. And yet, it was Bible faith. There were a lot of things she didn’t understand. That was superstition. It’s a wonder we haven’t gotten several denominations, some called the Hemites, and others called the Touchites, and so forth. “If I can just touch the hem of His garment, I’ll be healed.” She touched the hem of His garment, and immediately she was healed. Jesus said, “Virtue went out of me.” (Mark 5:30; Luke 8:46) And Jesus said to her, “Blessed is your faith.” (Matthew 9:22; Mark 5:34; Luke 8:48)

Now, I want to tell you, she had a weak faith, but she had faith. You start with the faith you have. If your faith is like a grain of mustard seed, plant it. Use it. Say, “God, I’m like that man. I believe; help my unbelief”—because in one mustard seed there are thousands and millions of mustard seeds, if they’re planted. So, you think of the size of the seed; you think of the secret of the seed; you think of the source of the seed; you think of the sowing of the seed. God put that faith in your heart for you to serve Him.

Conclusion

I want our church to have a mighty revival. You see that tent over there? That represents what we’re going to do now at Love Offering time. You see that tent has some cords. We call them ropes. And it has some stakes. The bigger the tent, the longer the cord and the deeper the stakes. Now, what we’re going to be doing is lengthening our cords. We’re going to be strengthening our stakes, driving them down deep into the promises of God’s Word.
Mustard Seeds and Mountains

Conclusion

Introduction

Would you take your Bibles, please, and turn to Matthew chapter 16. And as you’re turning, I want to remind you that the chapter divisions as we find them in our versions of the Scriptures were not inspired, as such. Now all of the Bible is inspired—every jot, every tittle, every word, every sentence, every paragraph, every thought is inspired of God, without error; but the chapter divisions have simply been arranged so you and I could find the place more easily, when the pastor says, “Turn to chapter 16,” and so you are able to get there very quickly. So I want you to understand this particular instance I don’t believe that the chapter division is right—or I believe that chapter 17 should begin with verse 27 of chapter 16.

So now we’ll start with verse 27 of chapter 16 and just pretend we’re in chapter 17, all right? And then we’ll read right on into chapter 17: “For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels; and then he shall reward every man according to his works. Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom. And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias”—that is, Moses and Elijah—“talking with him. Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for [Elijah]. While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid. And Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid. And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Jesus only” (Matthew 16:27–17:8).

This is the Transfiguration chapter in the Bible; and it is indeed a chapter of great contrast, the chapter, as we shall see as we continue our reading in a moment, that speaks of mountains and mustard seeds. It’s a chapter that speaks of glory, and it’s a chapter that speaks of despair. For we’re going to see in just a moment that Jesus Christ came down off the mountaintop, from the place of holy communion, down to the valley of human defeat. And there are some wonderful lessons for us in this chapter that I want to call “Mustard Seeds and Mountains.”

I. The Period of Time Indicated
Now, first of all, I want you to notice the period indicated—the period of time that is indicated here. Look in chapter 17, verse 1: “And after six days…”—“After six days”—all Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and I don’t believe that the Holy Spirit recorded these words simply to waste paper and ink—“After six days”—now, what is he speaking about? “After six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart” (Matthew 17:1). The transfiguration was a preview of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. Remember in the last part of chapter 16 Jesus said to His disciples, “There be some standing here, which will not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom” (Matthew 16:28).

Now we know that the disciples have been dead for almost 2,000 years, and Jesus has not yet come in His kingdom. And yet Jesus said there were some who were standing right there who would not see death until they saw Him coming. What was He talking about? Jesus here was talking about the Transfiguration, for the Transfiguration was a preview of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. The Transfiguration was a foretaste of glory; the Transfiguration was a glimpse into the future. And indeed there were some standing there—Peter, James, and John—who did not taste death until they saw the Son of man, the Lord Jesus Christ, in His glory, in His kingdom, because that’s what the Transfiguration was right there, in my opinion.

Now, what is the significance of “after six days?” Six is the number of man, and it speaks of failure. Seven is the perfect number. And whatever else you may say about man, you can say this about man: he is no seven. Man is a six; he is one less than seven. And so six days represents 6,000 years of human history. You see, man’s recorded history upon this globe has been 6,000 years. But there’s a new day coming—there’s a great day coming—and after six days of failure is going to come the perfect day, the millennial reign of the Lord Jesus Christ. There is coming, after 6,000 years of failure, 1,000 years of peace and righteousness when the Lord Jesus Christ shall rule and reign; and just as the Transfiguration was the Second Coming of Jesus in miniature—six days, or the history of man in miniature, foretelling that after six days our Lord is going to come—and the seventh day is going to be the millennial rest of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

You see, we are living right now late in the shadows of the sixth day. It’s a day of failure. We’re failing internationally. We’re failing economically. We are failing domestically. And we are failing spiritually. And for the first time in history man is afraid of what he knows; his head and his hands have outrun his heart. And the more he learns, really, the less he knows. You see, he is smart enough to split the atom, but he’s not good enough to be trusted. If we’re so smart, why are we in the mess that we’re in? There seems to be a shortage in America today of everything but crime and filth; and these things seem to be in greater abundance than ever before. I’m saying that six speaks of failure.

Do you know what Arnold J. Toynbee, the noted historian—we certainly wouldn’t call him an evangelical Christian—but he said this—and I quote: “The stable character of the past 6,000 years of civilized history is being changed and is falling apart.” That’s what Arnold Toynbee had to say: “The stable character of the past 6,000 years of human history is being changed and is falling apart.” I’m saying that we speak, when we speak of six, of a failure, and we speak of man. But the Bible says it was after six days that Jesus was transfigured. So I want to tell you—praise the Lord—there is hope, because the dawn comes just after the darkest hour of the night. There is coming—praise God—there’s coming a glorious sunrise when Jesus comes again.

Now, does the Bible teach that things are going to get worse before Jesus comes? Yes! You know, if you’re looking for the world to get better and better, you’re going to be disappointed. The Bible doesn’t teach the world is going to get better and better; to the contrary, the Bible says, “In the last days perilous times shall come” (2 Timothy 3:1). The Scripture teaches that it’s going to get darker and darker, and worse and worse. But that shouldn’t bother you if you’re a Christian, because, number one, it’s prophesied; and, number two, it speaks of the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ; because remember that the dawn comes just after the darkest hour of the night. So if you’re a Christian, you can say, “Praise God, it’s getting gloriously dark!”

You know, when you see all of these things begin to come to pass, Jesus said, then, “Look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh” (Luke 21:28). And you don’t have to be sitting around with your head between your knees saying, “What’s the world coming to?” You can say, “Praise God, look who’s coming to the world! Jesus Christ is coming again!” And so 6,000 years of recorded human history do nothing but tell us there is the seventh day, the millennial reign, 1,000 years of peace, when the Lord Jesus Christ shall rule and reign hereupon this earth. And the signs of the times are telling me that we’re living late in the sixth day. As a matter of fact, I’ve stopped looking at the signs; I’ve started listening for the shouts. I believe that Jesus is coming in my lifetime. And so it may be dark; but, in a sense, that’s very good news.

I heard of a traveler in Switzerland who was spending the night high up in the Alps in a chalet there, and in the middle of the night—or what he thought to be the middle of the night—he heard a rumbling, a cracking, a roaring. It seemed like there was an explosion, and it seemed as though he could feel even the ground quivering some. It frightened him, but he got through the night. The next day he met his host at the breakfast table and said, “I heard a horrible noise last night.” He said, “I thought it was the end of the world.” And his host just laughed and he said, “Well,” he said, “we’re on the western side of this slope. But,” he said, “when the sun comes up on the eastern side,” he said, “the rays of the sun begin to warm that ice, and sometimes there is a melting and a cracking of the ice that causes an avalanche; and what you heard was caused by the sun coming up. It wasn’t the end of the world. It was the dawning of a new day.” And I think many times what we think is the end we fail to understand is the dawning of a new day.

You know, Christians ought to be optimistic people. Christians who know the Lord ought to be optimistic. I don’t care how dark it is. I believe, tucked away here in chapter 17, verse 1, is a blessing for our heart, if we would see it: “And after six days...”—six being the number of failure, the number of man—“after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John...and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them” (Matthew 17:1–2). And so the first thing we want to notice in our study this morning is the period indicated: “After six days...Jesus was transfigured.”

II. The Persons Involved

Now the second thing I want you to notice: not only the period indicated, but the persons involved. Who were these who were involved in this dramatic, glorious, wonderful episode? Well, there are three groupings.
A. The Three Disciples

First of all, there were the three disciples. Look in verse 1: “And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John” (Matthew 17:1). And so the first group of persons: the three disciples.

Now, why Peter, James, and John? Well, they were in that inner circle, that inner trinity of disciples, whom Jesus loved. And for some reason Jesus took these three, these special three. Now that brings up a real question: Does God play favorites? Does God have favorites? Why would God say to Peter, James, and John, “You come up here; I’m going to show you something that the others will not see; and perhaps the others will not understand”? Someone has well said, “God may not have any favorites, but He certainly has some intimates.”

Now you think about that—you think about that. Did you know that there are certain people who know the mind and the heart of God more than other people? And, you know, the Bible says that, “Certainly the Lord God will do nothing except He showeth it first to His servants the prophets” (Amos 3:7). I believe that God chose a little intimate group of people and said, “I’m going to reveal to you some truths; I’m going to give you a preview of the Second Coming of my Son and His reign and glory.”

And do you know, ladies and gentleman, I believe that God is doing the same thing today. I thank God today that there are some men who are very close to the Lord. They may not be God’s favorites, but they are certainly God’s intimates. And God has spoken to the hearts and minds of these men, and these men are telling us that the signs of the times and the witness of the Spirit speak of the soon coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. I thank God that we have some men today who can read the signs of the times and can tell the handwriting on the wall.

B. The Two Participants

But not only were there the three disciples in verse 1; but there were also the two participants in this transfiguration. Look in verse 3: “And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and [Elijah] talking with him” (Matthew 17:3). Now to be transformed is this: the word that we translate transform is the Greek word metamorphosis. It means, “to change form.” Jesus changed His form there. He had a body like our bodies of flesh and blood and bone; but there on the mountaintop suddenly Jesus was changed, and He was given a glorified body and a glorious, almost indescribably beautiful, body. The Bible describes the shining “as white as light” (Matthew 17:2). And there appeared with him two persons: Moses and Elijah.

Now the disciples are watching, but Moses and Elijah and Jesus are there. And the three of them are having a Bible conference. They’re talking and they’re fellowshipping. Why Moses? And, why Elijah? Well, if Peter, James, and John represent those who will be looking for the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ, Moses and Elijah represent those who will be participating in the Second Coming of Jesus.

Why Moses and Elijah? Well, there are two things that are very interesting about Moses. First of all, Moses was the lawgiver, and we think of him as the chief of the lawgivers. And Elijah was a prophet, and we think of him, perhaps, as the chief of the prophets. But I don’t think that’s the major reason they were chosen. Moses, you know, died on Mount Nebo and was buried. But Elijah never died. Elijah was raptured. That’s a word that may shock some of you, but Elijah just went to heaven in a whirlwind, in a chariot of fire. He never tasted of death. And so these two represent two very important groups of persons who will be upon the earth when Jesus comes again. Some will be in their graves and will be resurrected. Moses represents the resurrected crowd. And others will not be in their graves; they’ll be walking around like we are today when Jesus comes, and will be raptured. And Elijah represents the raptured crowd. See, when Jesus comes, there’s going to be a resurrected crowd, and there’s going to be a raptured crowd.

Look in 1 Corinthians chapter 15, and I think it will be clearer for us, for just a moment—1 Corinthians chapter 15, and let’s begin reading in verse 51. Paul says, “Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep…”—now the sleep here refers to the death of the Christian. In the Bible, for the Christians, death is called sleep, but not all Christians are going to die—“We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we”—those who have not yet died—“shall be changed” (1 Corinthians 15:51–52).

So, you see, the dead—that represents the Moses crowd—are going to be raised incorruptible; we—the rest of us who are still alive—and notice I said “us,” because I expect it to be us—we’re going to be changed in a moment. And then as we go on down to read in verse 54: “So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality…”—the word mortal means, “that which can die”—“shall have put on immortality,”—that which can never die—“then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory.” And then, notice particularly verse 55: “O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?” (1 Corinthians 15:54–55).

Now, notice verse 55 in the context of all of this. This is the twofold anthem of the redeemed. When Jesus Christ comes, we’re all going to be singing and praising and shouting. And when we come to meet Him in the air, there will be two groups: there will be the Moses crowd; there will be the Elijah crowd. There will be the Resurrection crowd; there will be the Rapture crowd. Do you know what the Resurrection crowd is going to say? Look in verse 55. The Rapture crowd will be singing, “O death, where is “O death, where is thy sting?” They never tasted the sting of death, the Elijah crowd: “O death, where is thy sting?” And what’s the Resurrection crowd going to be singing? They’re going to turn around and look at that old grave, and they’re going to say, “Grave, where is your victory?”

Oh, listen, dear friend. There’s something very wonderful that’s going to take place when Jesus comes again. Some are never going to taste the sting of death; others are going to be loosed from the hole of the grave. And we’re going to be brought up to meet our Lord in the air. And how glorious it’s going to be for the Elijah group, those who never taste of death!

Alexander MacLaren was a great expositor of the Scripture of yesteryear, and Alexander MacLaren said, “The primitive church...”—now when he says primitive, he means, “early”: the early church—“The primitive church thought more about the Second Coming of Jesus Christ than about death or about heaven. They were not looking for a cleft in the ground called a grave, but a cleft in the sky called glory.” I hope that’s what you’re looking for.

It’s going to be wonderful for the Elijah crowd; but it’s going to be thrilling also for the Moses crowd. Do you know what I read one day that Charles Haddon Spurgeon had to say, Brother Tommy? Spurgeon was different from most of us. Do you know what most of us are hoping? Jesus will come in our lifetime so we won’t have to die. But do you know what Spurgeon said? One of the greatest preachers, in my estimation, that has ever lived, and perhaps ever will live, other than Paul and Jesus Himself, Spurgeon, said, “I hope that I get to die before Jesus comes.” That’s strange. He said, “I want the thrill of the Resurrection.” He said, “I just want to come out of that grave.” He said, “I just want to be able to look back and say, ‘O grave, where is thy victory?’” (1 Corinthians 15:55). I think Spurgeon is the only man I ever heard or read about that said that.

But it’s going to be thrilling, friend; it will be thrilling. It doesn’t make any difference whether you’re in the Elijah crowd, or whether you’re in the Moses crowd: you’re going to have something to sing about. And we will be singing together—1 Corinthians chapter 15, verses 51 through 55. And, you see, it’s thrilling for the Elijah crowd. But you think about the Moses crowd. Do you realize that Moses prayed 1,500 years before this event, “[Lord], shew me thy glory” (Exodus 33:18), and it took 1,500 years for that prayer to be answered? You know, there’s a lot of living to do after we die. Oh, let me tell you something, friend. Death doesn’t end it all if you are a child of God.

C. Jesus Himself

But listen. Not only were there the three disciples, and not only were there the two participants; but, thirdly, the third one that I want to mention in this grouping was Jesus Himself—Jesus Himself.
Notice again in verse 2: “And [Jesus] was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. And, behold, there [was] Moses and Elias talking with him. Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him” (Matthew 17:2–5). And then verse 8: “And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Jesus only” (Matthew 17:8).

Now, listen: three disciples, two participants, but only one Jesus. Don’t forget that: only one Jesus. And if you miss that, you’re going to miss the impact of everything that He’s saying: “This is my beloved Son…hear ye him.”

Now Peter must have been a Baptist: he wanted to start a building program up there on the mountaintop. But the Lord was not interested in that right then. There’s nothing wrong with a building program. But that wasn’t the time. God’s plan for this world can be put into two words; God’s plan for your life can be put into two words: Jesus only—verse 8—“Jesus only.” If you miss that, you miss the whole thing. You see, Jesus only is the clue to everything.

You want to understand the meaning of things? It’s in these words: Jesus only. It’s true in creation. All creation was made by Him, all creation was made for Him, and all creation returns back to Him. And the tiniest electrons or the mightiest planet that has ever been swung into space has just one reason for existence. Do you want me to tell you what it is? Jesus only—Jesus only. It’s true, dear friend, in redemption and in salvation. The gospel is simply good news about Jesus: that’s all it is. You see, the gospel is not a program; the gospel is not a plan; and it is not a philosophy that saves. It is Jesus—one person—Jesus only. It’s true in the Bible. Do you want to understand the Bible? Do you want me to give you the key to the Bible? The key to the Bible is Jesus only. You have to understand the Bible in the light of Christ, and understand Christ in the light of the Bible. Jesus only is the clue to the Bible. It’s true in prophecy. You want me to tell you the meaning of prophecy? Why, we’re not looking for something to happen; we’re waiting for Someone to come. Jesus only is true in the Church. The Bible says, “Unto him be glory in the church” (Ephesians 3:21). What does the Church exist for? Jesus only, and that’s it. “This is my beloved Son, hear ye him” (Matthew 17:8).

III. The Program for the Interval
Now, thirdly and finally, I want you to notice with me this morning, not only the period indicated—after six days—and not only the persons involved—three disciples, two participants, but only one Savior—but, thirdly, I want you to notice the program for the
Now, what are you and I to be doing? What are we to be doing in the interval before the seventh day gets here while we’re living in the shadows of the sixth day?

Now it’s not to be mistaken that following this mountaintop of transfiguration there was the valley of despair. Notice, beginning in chapter 17 and verse 14, as we continue to read now: “And when they were come to the multitude,”—that is, back down to the valley—“there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy upon my son: for he is a lunatick, and sore vexed: for ofttimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him. Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? How long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour. Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out?” (Matthew 17:14–19).

Down from the mountaintop of transfiguration came the Lord, down from the holy place of communion, this place of human defeat. And there was sickness there; a crushed and a bleeding heart was there; a father who had met an obstacle that had broken him in spirit and heart was there. Preachers were there too; religious workers were there, and they had gone through the procedures. They had rebuked the devil; they had shouted and they had groaned. But nothing had happened. And then Jesus spoke; and there was no struggle, no groaning, and no long battle. Jesus simply spoke, and the devil fled. And a happy boy cuddled in his father’s arms and sobbed out his gratitude to God. And a glorious, happy father embraced his boy and looked with tear-stained eyes into the face of Jesus Christ, the Son of God. Jesus transformed the situation, not only on the mountaintop, but down in the valley.

And the disciples were perplexed. The disciples wanted to know, “Master, why couldn’t we do it? Why were you able to do it, and why were we not able to do it?” And then Jesus Christ spoke to them. And look again in verse 19: “Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could we not cast him out? And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you...”—please underscore that, defeated people, discouraged people—“nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting” (Matthew 17:19–21).

A. Moving Mountains

I trust that God will give me the strength this morning and the wisdom to get across to you a glorious truth. What are we to be doing in the period while we wait for Jesus? What is the program for our interval? We are to be moving mountains: that is our job.
We are to be moving mountains. We’re not to be on the mountaintop gazing into the heavens; we are to be down in the valley moving the mountain. Peter wanted to build some tabernacle on the mountaintops. He liked it up there on the mountaintop. Jesus said, “Look, there’s something to do down there in the valley if you want something to do; rather than building a tabernacle on the mountaintop, come back in the valley.”

Move the mountain, and you’ll have heaven right on earth. Just take the mountain out between, and what’s on the mountaintop is going to be down in the valley. Do you understand what I’m saying?

Jesus said, “This mountain.” He wasn’t just talking about any mountain: “Say unto this mountain, be thou removed.” He was talking about the same mountain they’d just been up on: the same mountain up there where Peter wanted to build some tabernacles. Jesus said, “Don’t build a tabernacle up there. You go back down in the valley. Take the mountain out of the way. Bring heaven to earth.” That’s our job while we’re waiting. We’re to be mountain movers.

Now you say, “Literally?” No, Jesus was not talking literally here. You’ll miss It. Now if there’s a need for mountains to be moved literally, they can be moved. But if that’s all you see, you’re missing it. There are mountains of fear, and mountains of sickness, and mountains of doubt, and mountains of poverty, and mountains of temptation, and mountains of struggle, and mountains of demonism. Here was a man who had a problem like a mountain, and Jesus had just moved that mountain. That’s what it’s all about. What, ladies and gentleman, is the program for the interval while we’re waiting on that seventh day to dawn? It is moving mountains.

B. Faith as a Mustard Seed

And what is the power for moving mountains? It is faith. And what is the symbol for that faith? It is a mustard seed. Look at it again—and in just a moment we’re to be finished. Look at it again in the end there—chapter 17, verse 20: “For verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you” (Matthew 17:20)—“faith as a grain of mustard seed.”

Now, why did Jesus say, “faith as a grain of mustard seed”?

1. The Size of the Mustard Seed

Number one—and I want to speak about three brief things about the mustard seed, and we’ll be finished—number one: I want you to notice the size of the mustard seed: extremely small. As I’ve said before, just about the size of a fleck of pepper that you put on your eggs this morning. That’s small. And Jesus said, “You see that mustard seed? If you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, you can move a mountain.”

Now Jesus was not putting a premium on little faith, but Jesus was teaching a lesson that we need to learn: that the least amount of faith—are you listening?—the least amount of faith is greater than the greatest amount of difficulty. A mustard seed and a mountain: it is a David and Goliath experience. In the realm of the spirit, a mustard seed went to battle against a mountain and whipped it—the size of a mustard seed. Here was a father who said to the Lord Jesus, “Master, if you can do something for my son, do it.” And Jesus said unto him, “If you can believe; all things are possible to him that believeth” (Mark 9:23).

Oh, friend, please, please understand there’s only one way to live this way—and it’s the faith way. A mustard seed of faith is greater than a ton of will, a mountain of determination, or an ocean of scheming. “If you have faith like a grain of mustard seed…"

2. The Source of the Mustard Seed

First of all, the size of the seed. And then, secondly, the source of the seed. “If you have faith,” Jesus said. Where do you get it? Where do you get it? What’s the difference between a mustard seed and a mountain, other than size? Friend, here’s the difference. No man can manufacture a mustard seed; no laboratory can synthesize a mustard seed. Men can make a mountain, but men can’t make a mustard seed, because a mustard seed has life, and life is supernatural. And all faith is supernatural. Where do I get faith? How can I get faith? How can you have faith? If we’re to live here and move mountains, where are we going to get that faith? I tell you, there’s only one place that you’ll ever get that faith—and that’s from God. The same God who can make a seed is the One who puts faith in your heart.

Now the Bible says, in Hebrews chapter 12, verse 2, we are to be “looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith” (Hebrews 12:2). Do you know what that means? It means that faith comes from Him. It means that faith goes back to Him. He is “the author and the finisher”—He is the start and the goal—“of our faith.” It is from Him; no man can ever manufacture a mustard seed.

Do you want this kind of faith—mountain-moving faith? Then you must remember that it comes from Jesus Christ. You cannot clench your fist, grit your teeth, and say, “I’m going to believe.” Faith is a supernatural thing. He must give it, and He will give it—are you listening?—but you must open your hand to the seed. He will not place it in the clenched fist. The reason that you don’t have faith is not that you cannot; it is that you have not opened your hand; you’ve not opened your heart; you’ve not said, “Lord, I receive.” Listen, friend. If you need to believe, you can believe. And if God is wanting you to have faith—and He is, I promise you, on the authority of the Word of God—He will give you the faith that you need if you will just simply open that stony heart, unclench that clenched fist, and say, “Lord, place the mustard seed in my hand.”
3. The Sowing of the Mustard Seed

Now the final thing about the seed, and then we’re finished: the size of the seed—very small, but it can move a mountain; the source of the seed—it only comes from God; the third thing—the sowing of the seed. A seed is not meant to be a museum piece; it is meant to be planted in the ground. And only when it is invested in the ground does it bring forth life. “Except [it] fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone” (John 12:24). We are to plant it. You see, when you put a mustard seed in the ground, it will shed its little overcoat, cuddle away in the arms of Mother Nature; and then it will burst open with joy and with delight and spring up from the dark earth. You see, your faith may be very small this morning, but if you'll just use the little faith that you have, it will grow. That’s the secret of a seed: it can grow—it can grow. And in one seed are thousands of seeds. And in thousands of seeds are millions of seeds.

You know what some of you are waiting on? You’re waiting until you've got all the faith in the world until you start; and therefore you’ll never start. Do you know, in this same chapter where this father had a little demon-possessed boy, he said to Jesus, “Lord, I believe;”—now, watch—“help my unbelief” (Mark 9:24). His faith was so small, so weak; but he acted on what he had, and he got more. His faith was like a grain of mustard seed, but he put it in the ground, and it started to grow.

Today, you’re not perfect. I’m not perfect. I don’t have perfect faith. You don’t have perfect faith. But by the grace of God I’m going to use what faith I have, even though it be like a grain of mustard seed.

Conclusion

Now, listen, friend. What’s it all about? Jesus is coming. He’s coming soon. But in the meantime, down here in the valley we’re to be in the mountain-moving business. That’s the program for the interval: moving mountains by faith.
Preparing for a New Millennium

Introduction

Would you take God’s precious Word and find Matthew chapter 17. And when you have found it, look up here, if you would. We are facing a new year.

I heard about a man who looked in the newspaper and read the obituary column and found his name in it. So he went down to the newspaper and said, “Look, you’ve made a mistake. I’m not dead. I’m here alive. You’ve made a mistake. I want you to put a retraction and let people know tomorrow that I am not dead.” They said at the newspaper, “We don’t print retractions. But I’ll tell you what I’ll do. I’ll list your name in the morning with the new births and give you a brand new start.”

Well, today, we are getting a brand new start—really, the first Sunday of a new year—and I thank God for that. But we are getting ready for the close of a millennium, and we are preparing for a new millennium. That’s what we are going to be talking about this morning: “Preparing for a New Millennium.”

Now, what is going to happen in the world today? Well, some will want to party. I’ve been reading that people are making plans where they are going to be and what they are going to be doing as we usher in a new millennium. It is going to be a great time to party. Others are going to want to panic. They are going to say, “Oh, good night! This is the end of the world, and we don’t know what is going to happen; but it is very foreboding.” And then, there are those of us who know the Lord; and we are going to want to praise. So you can either party, panic, or praise. I choose to praise as we enter into a new millennium. Now we do believe, and I believe, that we are living in the receding shadows of an age. I believe that our Lord is soon to come; and I believe that we need to learn how to prepare for a new millennium, and we need an earth-shaking, mountain-moving, devil-defying faith in Almighty God.

With that in mind, let’s look in the Word of God. I asked you to turn to Matthew chapter 17, but actually I want to began reading and get a running start with the last verse in chapter 16, because these two are conjoined together inseparable, and you’ll not understand chapter 17 unless you read the last verse in chapter 16. Jesus said, “Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom” (Matthew 16:28). Now He’s talking about His Second Coming. And that was 2,000 years ago. And He was saying there are some who are standing here who will not die until they see the Second Coming. Well, that brings a little problem unless we read the next chapter.

Now, look, if you will, in the next chapter: “And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias and talking with him.” Elias is the New Testament way of saying Elijah—Moses and Elijah talking with Jesus. “Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.” Now Peter had said in all of his life some dumb things, and about the only time he ever opened his mouth was just to change feet; but I believe this is one of the dumbest things that he said right here. And, “While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid. And Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid. And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save”—or except—“Jesus only” (Matthew 17:1–8).

Now I want to talk to you a little bit about getting ready for a new millennium, preparing for a new millennium; and I want to write on your heart this morning four thoughts that come from the passage of Scripture that we have before us.

I. Wake Up—Time Is Passing

Thought number one: Wake up—time is passing. Look, if you will, here in chapter 16, verse 28, and chapter 17, verse 1: “Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom” (Matthew 16:28). Now, read chapter 17, verse 1: “And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart” (Matthew 17:1). What our Lord was doing is giving to the disciples a preview of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. They were going to see in miniature a preview, a prefiguring, of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. And the Bible says that Jesus was taken up into a mountain and there He was transfigured. The word transfigured is, in the Greek language, the word we get out English word metamorphosis from, and it means actually, “a change where the inner nature comes to the surface.”

For example, all of us know that the caterpillar goes into the chrysalis, or cocoon, and goes through a metamorphosis, and comes out a butterfly. Well, the inner nature of that worm is a butterfly. What was the inner nature of our Lord Jesus Christ? It was glory. And so He is transfigured; He is metamorphosed. He goes through a change of form where the inner glory comes to the surface. And so there was around His shoulders the robes of light that the angels had woven. And all of it is a preview of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. It was a foretaste of glory divine.

But now here’s what I want you to notice. I want you to notice when it took place. Look, if you will, in chapter 17, verse 1: “After six days” (Matthew 17:1)—“After six days.” Now I don’t believe the Holy Spirit of God ever wastes words. Why does this say it comes after six days? Well, six is the number of a man. Man was created on the sixth day. The Antichrist is called what? What is the number of the Antichrist? Six six six: the man of sin. Put in your margin Revelation chapter 13 and verse 18. “Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six” (Revelation 13:18). That is 666.

Now this scripture says after six days Jesus is transfigured. What does that have to do with us? Well, folks, we are living in the closing shadows of six days—six days. There are 6,000 years—6,000 years, 6,000 years—of recorded human history. Now the Bible tells us, in 2 Peter chapter 3, verse 8, that, “one day is with the Lord as a thousand years” (2 Peter 3:8). So what we have are six of God’s days: one, two, three, four, five, six. And after six days they see Jesus coming in power and glory. Why is that there? Well, to me it tells me that Jesus is about to appear. I believe that we are living in the closing shadows of the sixth day, and I believe that our Lord is about to step on the scene.

Now this is a dark hour. It’s a dark hour internationally, economically, domestically, religiously; and for the first time in history man is afraid of what he knows. His head and his hands have outrun his heart, and we are being faced with things for which we have no answer. The plague of AIDS is a good example. The tinderbox in the Middle East is another example. The famine that is in places in our world is another example. And we just don’t know what to do. You would think with all of our inventions, all of our knowledge, we would come to a millennium ourselves. But our millennium has become pandemonium.
Man’s day is marked by failure. After six days, then we are going to see the coming of our Lord.

I heard of a little boy who got a toy for Christmas; and he and his father were trying to put it together, and they could never get the toy put together. It was one of those you assemble yourself. After a while they read on the box it said, “This is an educational toy to teach your youngster how to cope in today’s world. No matter how he puts it together, it will be wrong.”

Now that’s the way we are today. I mean all of the statesmen, all of the philosophers, all of the mathematicians, all of the politicians—all of them together—they are not able to make it work. We are sinking lower and lower into the mire. That’s man’s sixth day. And the great historian Arnold J. Toynbee said this: “The stable character of the past 6,000 years of civilized history is being changed and is falling apart.” And I said, for the first time man is afraid of what he knows. For example, you are going to hear more and more—I read the newspaper this morning about the Y2K problem. Y stands for year; 2 is obvious; K stands for kilo or thousand. So it’s the year 2000 problem.

What is the year 2000 problem? Well, to put it in a nutshell, on January 1, the year 2000, as the clock strikes midnight by the hour across twenty-four time zones in the world and enters into a new millennium, something is going to happen. Many computers, according to the experts, are going to cease to work. And it’s just a problem that was not adequately prepared for by computer programmers; they just did not think about it. And I’ve been reading. I’ve got stacks of books and clippings and all of this. There are those who say that the sky is going to fall; airplanes will fall out of the sky banks will close; there will be murder, mayhem, absolute devastation. Others are saying, “It will only be a blip: don’t worry about it.” But reasonable people say there are not enough computer programmers to reprogram the computers, and we are going to have serious problems. Some are saying that our very way of life may be changed for a while, because there will be a chain reaction—and, when I said nobody really thought of it, there were some who thought about it who made a warning, but they were kind of blown off, very much like the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. When preachers preach about the Second Coming of Jesus, people just kind of look past that.

Now in a matter of days—I’m not saying it will happen, but you need to be prepared for the possibility in a matter of days that—wave after wave of computer malfunctions, the scope of which could ultimately affect every level of society, every area of life, every country of the world, will be upon us. Now you may not own a computer. I own one, but I don’t know how to turn it on or off. You may not own a computer, and you may say this will not affect you; but from what I’ve been reading, it will affect all of us, because we are bound
Now here are certain things that we do know are true. Some things we don’t know, but here’s what we do know. The deadline—the deadline—is unmovable and inescapable. That much you can say is true. The deadline is unmovable and it is inescapable. Now, when is it coming? After six days—after six days. And, by the way, you know, I get a real blessing out of this, Brother Jim, when they are talking about Y2K; you know, all over the world—all over the world—they are talking about Y2K. Do you know what that means? That means 2,000 years after the birth of a baby whose name is Jesus. Isn’t that great? Isn’t that great? I mean, whether they realize it or not, all over the world, today is recognizing that there was a baby who has changed the course of history. Y2K—2000 years after His birth. But, friend, you add that 2,000 years to the past 4,000 years of human history, and you have six days—six days. “One day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day” (2 Peter 3:8). “Adrian, are you trying to set a date?” Well, not exactly—not a day, not an hour. But there are certain times and seasons that we ought to be aware of.

I was thinking about this Y2K program and problem, and my mind went to Genesis chapter 11. In chapter 11, a man was building a one-world government, where God had said they were to scatter abroad across the face of the earth, but they wanted to build a one-world government in contradiction to what God had said. And you may turn, if you wish, to Genesis chapter 11, and let me just read with you the first eight verses. And I want you to listen to it, because it is very significant. And the Bible says, “And the whole earth was of one language, and of one speech.” Did you know that the whole earth today is of one language and one speech? It’s not English. Do you know what it is? COBOL. You say, “What is COBOL?” That’s computer language. I mean, all of the computers operate now with one language and one speech. “And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there. And they said one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and burn them thoroughly. And they had brick for stone, and slime had they for mortar. And they said, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth” (Genesis 11:1–4).

Now, let me just stop right there, and I want you to listen to the number six here. “Let us”—one—“build us...”—two—“a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us”—three—make us...”—four—and, “lest we be scattered abroad”—five. And then, go back up, if you will, to verse 3: “let us make brick, and burn them.” Six is the number of a man. Six times they used the personal pronoun us, we, us. They are talking about man who is going to build with his brick and slime; he’s going to build his high-rise to hell. He’s going to build his utopia. He’s going to build his tower of blunders. He says, “We’re going to make us a tower whose top may reach unto heaven.”

And now, beginning in verse 5: “And the LORD came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of men builded. And the LORD said, Behold, the people is one,”—that is, it is a one-world government—“and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do.” That is, they are going to have a one-world government, and it doesn’t look like there’s any way to stop it.

“Go to, let us go down,”—now, who is the us? Well, it is the Holy Trinity: Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. The Trinity is taught in the Old Testament as well as the New—“and there confound their language, that they may not understand one another’s speech. So the LORD scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city” (Genesis 11:5–8).

Now here are men that are saying, “Well, look, we have finally reached utopia. We don’t need any birth from above. We’ll just have a building from below. We’ll just build a building whose top may reach unto heaven. We are going to have us a one-world government.” And, by the way, the man who founded this city of Babel was named Nimrod, and his name means, “rebels,” and he’s a type of the Antichrist, who will lead a one-world government. And so here are all of these men building their high-rise to hell, building the tower of blunders, building their great power. This is really funny. Now they say, “We’re going to build a tower whose top may reach to heaven.” If you have a sense of humor, you’ll appreciate this. The Bible says, “God came down to see their tower.” Their tower was going to “reach unto heaven.” And God says, “I’ll know what I’ll do. I’ll throw a wrench in the works. I’ll destroy their ability to communicate.” And everything went haywire from there on.

Now, is that going to happen? I don’t know—I don’t know. I’m just giving you food for thought this morning. I’m not trying to set dates, and I’m not trying to tell you what’s going to happen with Y2K—and I’ll tell you why: because I don’t know. But that doesn’t bother me, because you don’t know either. I am just simply telling you, friend, that these are pregnant days in which we are living, are they not? And I’m going to tell you something else. The Bible says, “after six days.” Then Jesus gives them this preview of glory where He is coming again.

II. Look Up—Jesus Is Coming
So the first thing I want to put on your heart and in your mind—and write it down: Time is passing—wake up. Turn to your neighbor and say, “Wake up.” Would you do that? Okay, time is passing—time is passing—wake up. That’s the first thought. “After six days...” (Matthew 17:1). Folks, six days of human history, 6,000 years, are coming to a close. Now, here is the second thought: Look up—Jesus is coming. Wake up—time is passing. Look up—Jesus is coming. Notice again what happened here. In verse 2, it says, “And [he] was transfigured” (Matthew 17:2). That is, His glory is shown. Now the dawn comes after the darkest hour of the night. And when things look like they are going to be very dark, then God brings in His seventh day. The seventh day is about to dawn. We call that the Millennium.

Now the word millennium—millennium—means, “thousand years.” Jesus is going to rule and reign here on the earth for a thousand years. Did you know that? The Bible teaches that. Turn to Revelation 20:6 when you get home and read it. And the Bible says, “Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power; but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.” See, that’s the seventh day. Man’s number is what? Six. What’s God’s number? Seven. The sixth day is coming to a close. The seventh day is about to begin, and we will be priests of God and of Christ, and will reign with Him for 1,000 years. Now the world is not going to get better and better. It is going to get worse and worse until Jesus comes. But we don’t need to go around with our head between our knees, saying, “What’s the world coming to?” We can say, “Look who’s coming to the world!” Jesus is coming again. And the signs of the times tell us that we are living in the closing shadows of the sixth day. Now we can’t set dates, but we need to be aware.

Now, let me show you what’s going to happen here.

A. Three Witnesses

First of all, look, if you will, in chapter 17, verse 1, and see that there were three witnesses: “And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart” (Matthew 17:1). That is, they are there by themselves. And, by the way, I believe this high mountain was Mount Hermon—over 9,000 feet; stays snow-capped most of the time. I’ve been to Mount Hermon many times. And Jesus took Peter, James, and John. Why did He take them apart? Well, He tells us in the last chapter: “There are some of you here who are going to be witnesses of this thing. You are not going to die till you see me come in glory.” And He says, “All right, come on up here, boys.” And up there to the mountain they go—up on the mountaintop—Peter, James, and John. They were witnesses. As a matter of fact, Peter, later on in his epistle, in 2 Peter chapter 1, says, “We...were eyewitnesses of his majesty.” He said, “of his glory.” He said, “We were not telling you fables. We were there. We saw this manifestation of His coming in glory” (2 Peter 1:16).

Now, why did He take three? Well, they were witnesses. The Bible says, “In the mouth of two or three witnesses a thing will be established” (Deuteronomy 19:15; Matthew 18:16; 2 Corinthians 13:1). So put it down: there were three witnesses. Three is the number of witness. They were there witnessing, to say, “Yes, Christ is coming again.” That’s the reason Peter wrote in his epistle that we are to be ready for the Second Coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. In 2 Peter chapter 1, verses 16 and 17, Peter said, “For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eyewitnesses of his majesty. For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice from the excellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount” (2 Peter 1:16–18).

Now, what is the import of all of that? That they were witnesses to teach us that we should be looking for the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. And I’m telling you that God has His witnesses today, spiritual men who are telling us the same thing that Simon Peter, who was a witness so long ago, said.

B. Two Participants

So, first of all, let’s do our arithmetic. There were three witnesses. Number two: there were two participants with the Lord Jesus there that day. Look, if you will, in verse 3: “And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and [Elijah] talking with him” (Matthew 17:3). Wouldn’t you have loved to have heard that conversation: Moses, the great lawgiver; Elijah, the great prophet; and Jesus, the Savior of the world? Now you have three witnesses, but you have two categories: you have the Moses crowd, and you have the Elijah crowd. What you have here is a microcosm of the Second Coming of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now, what happened to Moses? Moses died and was buried on Mount Nebo. You can read that in Deuteronomy 34, verses 5 and 6. And the Bible says that he was buried there in the land of Moab—Moses died and was buried in Moab—Deuteronomy 34 (Deuteronomy 34:5–6). But what happened to Elijah? Elijah never died. Read 2 Kings chapter 2, verse 11: “And it came to pass, as they still went on, and talked, that, behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven” (2 Kings 2:11). He rode a chariot of fire into heaven. He never died. So Moses died and was buried. Elijah was raptured. He never died.

Now, notice there are three witnesses—Peter, James, and John—but there are two categories. There’s the Moses category and the Elijah category. Now, what does that picture? Well, that pictures the Second Coming of Jesus. What is going to happen? Put in your margin 1 Corinthians chapter 15, verses 51 and 52. Paul said, “Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep...”—by the way, the word for sleep here means, “to die”—“We shall not all [die], but we shall all be changed. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed” (1 Corinthians 15:51–52). Not everybody is going to die. Some are going to die, but not everybody is going to die when Jesus comes.

When Jesus comes after six days—when Jesus comes—what’s going to happen? Well, there are going to be some like Moses, who was buried, who are going to be raised. And there are going to be some like Elijah, who have never died, who are going to be raptured. Now, raised or raptured, are you going? That’s the question, see? Are you ready? Are you ready? You can be in the Moses crowd, or you can be in the Elijah crowd; but I want you to be there when He comes, because, when He comes, dear friend, we are going to sing a song of redemption. Do you know what that song of redemption is going to be? Paul tells us about it in 1 Corinthians chapter 15. There are going to be some in the Elijah crowd, who will never die. They are going to say, “O death, where is thy sting?”—“you didn’t sting me.” There are going to be some in the Moses crowd, who are going to say, “O grave, where is thy victory?”—“you didn’t keep me” (1 Corinthians 15:55). This is the song of the redeemed, when our Lord comes again, and that’s the reason that you had Moses there and Elijah there. One died and was raised; and another never died, and was translated, and went up into glory.

C. One Savior

Now, stay with me. There were three witnesses. Three is the number of testimony and witness. God wanted this thing testified. Number two: there were two participants, Moses and Elijah—those who have died, who will be raised when Jesus comes; and those who have never died, who will be raptured when Jesus comes. Okay now, three witnesses, two participants, but only one Savior—only one Savior. Look, if you will, in verses 4 through 8—it is so important that you see this: “Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for [Elijah]. While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid. And Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid. And when they had lifted up their eyes,”— watch it—“they saw no man, [except] Jesus only” (Matthew 17:4–8).
Now I ask you to turn to your neighbor and say, “Wake up.” Just turn to your neighbor and say, “Jesus only”—“Jesus only.” Listen, folks. This is what it’s all about—this is what it’s all about. Yes, three witnesses. Yes, two participants. But the central figure here is the Lord Jesus Christ: “Jesus only.” Now old Peter wanted to get in a building program. But the Lord said, “No, no, no,”—in verse 8—“here’s my plan. It is Jesus only.” Folks, listen to me. If you want to understand everything, or anything, you’ve got it in two words: “Jesus only.” You say, “That’s silly, Adrian.” It is not silly. I mean, it is true in creation. People are wondering, “Well, how did the universe come into being?” The scientists are still racing their motors. I’ll tell you why: “Jesus only.” “For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things” (Romans 11:36). It is summed up in just one word: “Jesus only.”

People, it’s true in redemption. How are we saved? We’ve not saved by churches, creeds, codes. What is the gospel? The gospel is good news about one person: “Jesus only.” There is only one way to heaven—and that’s Jesus. That’s the key to the Bible. You want to understand the Bible? Friend, it is a Him book. It is about Him. The message of the Bible is Christ only. You see the Bible in the light of Jesus, and you see Jesus in the light of the Bible. The key to the Bible is Jesus only. It is the key to prophecy. People want to understand prophecy. The Bible says, “The spirit of prophecy is the testimony of Jesus” (Revelation 19:10). We are not looking for something to happen; we are looking for someone to come. And His name is Jesus only. It is true in the church. The Bible says, “Unto him be glory in the church...throughout all ages” (Ephesians 3:21). Why does this church exist? Turn to your neighbor and say, “Jesus only.” That’s it—that’s it. Listen, folks. Jesus is God’s plan. God there said, “This is my beloved Son. Hear Him” (Matthew 17:5). And I hope you’ll hear Him today.

III. Sober Up—Satan Is Coming

Now, what are we saying? And I’ve got to go quickly on. First of all, time is passing—wake up. Jesus is coming—look up. Number three—I want you to see this: Satan is working—sober up. Now, notice, if you will, in verse 9 now: “And as they came down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the Son of man be risen again from the dead” (Matthew 17:9). But then look in verse 14: “And when they were come [down] to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is a lunatick, and sore vexed: for oftimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they cold not cure him” (Matthew 17:14–16).

Now Jesus came down from the Mountain of Transfiguration, down into the valley of misery and defeat. There was satanic power there, because there was a boy there who was demon-possessed. There was sickness there, and there was sorrow there. There was a father there with a crushed and bleeding heart. And there was shame there, because they brought this boy to the disciples that they should cast the devil out of him and heal him; and they couldn’t do it. And then Jesus spoke. Look, if you will, in verse 17: “Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour” (Matthew 17:17–18).

Jesus spoke. There was no struggle. There was no groaning, no long battle. Jesus spoke, and the devil fled; and a little boy cuddled in his father’s arms; and the father, with tear-stained eyes, looked to Jesus who had power over Satan. And I want to tell you today that Jesus’ power has not diminished, and God is not dead, and He is not sick. Jesus spoke, and Satan fled. This is a decade of demons; and Satan is like a cornered animal. He knows that he has a little time, and he is the real enemy. And the Bible teaches in the last days there will be an outburst of demonic energy.

IV. Pray Up—Mountains Need Moving
So now, watch. Wake up—time is passing. Look up—Jesus is coming. Sober up—Satan is working. Here’s the last thing: Pray up—mountains need moving. Now I begin to read verse 19. The disciples came to Jesus apart—they were ashamed to talk in public—and said, “Why could not we cast him out? And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing”—underscore this—“shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting” (Matthew 17:19–21). Pray up—mountains need moving.

Now, what did Jesus say? Listen to me. They said, “Why can’t we do it? How could you do it? Why couldn’t we do it?” Jesus said, if you had faith like a grain of mustard seed, you could say to this mountain, “Be removed, and be cast into the sea,” and it would be done. Now, what good would that have done to remove that mountain? No good whatever. Is Jesus talking about a literal mountain? Not at all! What He is talking about is removing mountains of doubt and fear and disease and hatred and strife and unbelief and demonic power. You see, listen. You’ve got to get it in this context. Listen. The God that made the mountains could pulverize every one of them. But that’s not what this world needs is for every mountain to be brought low. What this world needs is for the power of Satan to be broken.

Now, notice what is happening. Up on the mountaintop is the glory of God. Down in the valley is pain and suffering and heartache. What our Lord says is, “Get this mountain out of the way, and bring heaven to earth, and bring earth to heaven.” That’s what He is saying:
just get the mountain out of the way, and get the power of heaven down here on this earth. And He said, “If you had faith like a grain of mustard seed...” (Matthew 17:20). Now Jesus is not saying, “Have little faith.” What Jesus is saying is this: that the least amount of faith is greater than the greatest amount of difficulty. This is David and Goliath. A little mustard-seed David went against a Goliath mountain and slew it. That’s what He’s talking about. The least amount of faith is greater than the greatest amount of difficulty. Jesus is not saying, put a premium on little faith; but what Jesus is saying is there’s a difference between a seed and a mountain; and a seed has life, and a mountain doesn’t; and only God can make a seed, and only God can give faith.

Faith is not there for you to spend for whatever you want. Only God can make a seed. You can’t manufacture a seed. You can’t manufacture faith. But God will place that in your hand. And if God wants you to move mountains, God will give you mountain-moving faith. And the least amount of faith is greater than the greatest amount of difficulty. But you have to open your hand and receive that faith, because faith is the gift of God. And, once you receive it, it is not a museum piece. You plant it. You put it in the ground. For in one mustard seed there are thousands and billions of mustard seeds. Faith is meant to be used. Take the faith that God gives you. Plant it. Use it. It’s time, ladies and gentlemen. Listen—listen to me. We’d better sober up, because Satan is working. And we’d better pray up, because mountains need moving—mountains need moving.

Conclusion

How do we prepare for a new millennium? I mean, if time is passing, if Jesus is coming, if Satan is working, what do we need to do? We need to believe God and believe that He means exactly what He says. Nothing is impossible. You don’t believe that, do you? You say, “Well, there are a few things impossible.” Well, friend, why don’t you just read the Bible and make up your mind who’s right: you or God? With faith. You see—listen—that doesn’t mean you can do anything you want. God is not going to give you faith for whatever you want.

There was a man who wanted a Midas touch so everything he would touch would turn to gold. He got the Midas touch, and everything he touched turned to a muffler. You’re not going to be able to do whatever you want. That would make you God. But I’m telling you that faith is a gift of God. You get your heart right, and anything God wants done will be done, even if it means taking a mountain and casting a mountain into the sea.

You know the problem with many of us today? We are just unbelieving believers. Leonard Ravenhill said, “One of these days somebody is going to pick up this book, read it, and believe it, and the rest of us are going to be ashamed of ourselves.” Listen—listen to me now. Time is passing. Jesus is coming. Satan is working. Mountains need moving. Why don’t you say, “Dear God, we’ve got one more year—one more year—before a new millennium. I want to be a pre-millennial mountain-mover—a pre-millennial mountain-mover—getting ready for your coming.”

Introduction

Will you take your Bibles and find Matthew chapter 17. We are going to talk today about Bible prophecy. We are entering a new millennium, and I believe there is much truth that needs to be preached and taught at this time.

I heard about a man who read the newspaper, and he read the obituary column, and in the obituary column he found his own name. “Ugh,” he said, “I’m not dead. They shouldn’t have done that.” So he went down to the newspaper and found the reporter and said, “You have made a mistake. You have put my name in the obituary column. But I am not dead. Tomorrow, would you print a retraction?” The man said, “We do not print retractions. But I’ll tell you what I will do. I will list your name tomorrow morning among the births and give you a brand new start.”

Well, we have, really, a brand new start. This is the first Sunday of a brand new year, and you are in a wonderful place, because this is the first day of the week, the first Sunday of a new year; but it is also in many respects the end of an age, and we are getting ready for a new millennium.

Now, what is going to happen on January 1, the year 2000? Well, there are some who are going to party. People are making plans for where they are going to be and what they are going to do to bring in, to ring in, a new millennium. And so parties will be going on all over the world. But not only are some going to party; some are going to panic. Some will be scared stiff. They say, “Oh no, everything now is coming to an end, coming to a conclusion, coming to a climax.” And some who will not party, or panic, will praise. We will say, “Thank God, we know what is about to transpire—and because we are not children of darkness; we have the Bible.”

Now I want us to look into God’s Word this morning and to get some thoughts for the end of an age and a beginning of a new age. And the title of our message this morning is “Preparing for a New Millennium.”

Take your Bibles, and we are in Matthew chapter 17, but I want us to take chapter 16 and read the last verse of chapter 16, because it is virtually impossible to understand chapter 17 unless you understand chapter 16. As I have often told you, the chapter divisions are not inspired; they have been put there by translators. I sometimes suspect they are put there to keep preachers from preaching too long. I want us to begin at the end of chapter 16 and look in verse 28, and then read on, beginning in chapter 17. Jesus said, “Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom. And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias”—now Elias is the New Testament way of saying Elijah—“talking with him. Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.”

Now Peter often said some rather inelegant and stupid things, but this is the best—or the worst—of all of them right here. Peter, about the only time he opened his mouth was to change feet, and he made a real faux pas here, in my estimation: “While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased: hear ye him. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid. And Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid. And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man save”—or “except”—“Jesus only.” (Matthew 16:28–17:8)

Look at me and listen to me for just a moment. I want to give you four thoughts for the end of an age, and I want to prepare you through the Word of God for the coming new millennium. Now I pray that these four thoughts will be written not only on your notes but be written in your heart.

I. Wake Up: Time Is Passing

Thought number one: Wake up: time is passing. Look at verse 28: “There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom.” (Matthew 16:28) Well, that was two thousand years ago. And Peter, James, and John have died, and Jesus has not yet come. So, was this a mistake? Did Jesus expect them to see His Second Coming in their lifetime? Not at all! The next chapter explains it. What Jesus is going to do is to give them a preview of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. He is going to give them a foretaste of glory that shall be revealed when He comes again. And so you read in chapter 17 and verse 1: “And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain.” (Matthew 17:1)

And then, verse 2 says He was transfigured. The word transfigured is a translation of a Greek word. It’s the Greek word we get our English word metamorphosis from. A metamorphosis is when that which is on the inside comes to the outside; the inner nature is displayed and comes to the surface. The metamorphosis of a caterpillar is when the inner glory of that caterpillar changes and it comes to the outer, and that caterpillar becomes, after going through a chrysalis or a cocoon, a butterfly. And so that caterpillar goes through a metamorphosis, a change of form. Jesus, on the Mountain of Transfiguration, went through a metamorphosis.

Now had you seen the Lord Jesus Christ in His ordinary walk among men, He would have looked like every other man. You would not have been able to pick Him out. He did not have a halo around His head as He walked and talked, as the artists paint Him. No, He looked like an ordinary person. Judas had to point Him out in the Garden of Gethsemane. Remember that? There is “no form nor comeliness...that we should desire him.” (Isaiah 53:2) But what was His inner nature? The inner nature of the Lord Jesus was glory. And at this time He was metamorphosed, and His inner glory came to the surface, and His face like the noonday sun, white as light. And the angels had wrapped robes of light around the Lord Jesus Christ, and He was transfigured there before Peter, James, and John; and that was a picture of the Second Coming of the Lord Jesus Christ. But what I want you to notice is this—and look at it very carefully. Look in chapter 17, verse 1: “And after six days…”

Now the Holy Spirit does not waste words. Why is that in the Word of God: “after six days”? Well now, let me tell you something. Six is the number of a man. Man was created on what day? The sixth day. And what does the Bible tell us that the number of the Antichrist will be? 666—Revelation chapter 13 and verse 18. (Revelation 13:18) Man is imperfect. Seven is the perfect number. Man is imperfect, so man is no seven; man is a six. And so six is the number of a man. And the Bible tells us that this preview of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, this preview of the Second Coming, this foregleam of glory, takes place after six days.

Now, keep that in mind and let’s see if we can learn something there, because 2 Peter chapter 3 and verse 8 says this: “But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.” (2 Peter 3:8) So we could say it’s been six days, or we could say six thousand years. You see, there are six thousand years of recorded human history. Six of man’s days are coming to a close, and we are getting ready for the seventh day. Seven is the number of perfection. Six is the number of imperfection. And six speaks of man. Seven speaks of glory. After six days, Jesus is transfigured. His glory, His coming in power and glory, is displayed.

Again, I remind you there have been six thousand years of recorded human history, and man’s sixth day is coming to a close this year, and I believe we are getting ready for that seventh day when our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ is going to rule and to reign here upon this earth. Man’s six days have not been millennium; they have been pandemonium. And for the first time in history man is afraid of what he knows. His head and his hands have outrun his heart. And we are talking about cloning human beings. We are talking about genetic engineering. We are doing all kinds of weird and sometimes wonderful things. But we have new diseases that we cannot control. There are plagues that are not only epidemic, but pandemic. AIDS is a world specter. Hunger is every place. The Middle East is a tinderbox. And the great historian Arnold Toynbee said this: “The stable character of the past six thousand years of civilized history is being changed and is falling apart.” We don’t know what is about to happen, but all of us have sort of an ominous feeling. The stable character of the United States government seems to be right on the brink.

We don’t know what is about to happen, and many people are concerned about a problem called what? Y2K. Y: that stands for year; 2: that’s obvious; K stands for kilo or thousand. And it’s the Year 2000 problem, the year that we are about to go into; and the Y2K problem simply means that when we enter into a new millennium, our computers will malfunction. Now we have a technological age, and we are dependent upon computers far more than we know. Whether you own a computer or operate a computer, computers have so very much to do with your life. And man has in all of his inventions, all of his glory, come up with these computers that run and regulate our lives.

Now there are many people who are doomsayers, calamity howlers, who tell us, when the clock strikes midnight, that planes will fall out of the air, that hospital equipment will no longer work, that pacemakers will stop in people’s chests, that all kinds of horrible, terrible things are going to happen; and basically, you won’t be able to get food or gasoline or electrical power, and everything in the world will just close down. And then there are other people who are saying just the opposite. They say, “Well, we’ll have a little blip; we’ll have some trouble. Maybe there will be some embedded chips and so forth, and maybe we won’t have it all done, we won’t have it all ready; but it’s not going to be the end of the world.”

Now somewhere between those two brackets something is going to happen. You say, “Pastor, tell me what will happen.” I don’t know. But that doesn’t bother me. You don’t know either. And nobody knows. And I have been reading. I have a stack of materials, and I can read everything. Anything you want, either good or bad, I can give you stuff about that. I’ve got all that stuff. I’ve read books. I’ve read newspaper clippings and so forth. But I can tell you this: Leading military people, leading government officials, leading business magnates, say that there is a great problem looming on the horizon. I’m not talking about some backwoods preacher like myself. I’m talking about people who are in the world who are in the know. Somewhere, somehow, I think that we could have at the close of this age a calamitous problem. I’m not saying we will. And by the way, I’m not telling you to get a ton of spam and go to Wyoming. But what I am saying is this: We need to be aware of these days in which we are living. These are incredible days.

Now what makes me think that God may have something in His mind is to read Genesis chapter 11, because in Genesis chapter 11 there was a city that was founded by a man whose name is Nimrod. The word Nimrod means “rebel.” He is a type, a picture, of the Antichrist. And God had told the people after the flood to replenish the earth, to scatter abroad; but instead of God’s plan they wanted a one-world government, so they came to Babylon, and in ancient Babylon they said, “We are going to build us a tower.” Now Babylon ever since that time has been a symbol, a type, of man’s utopia, man’s ability to do without God, but to do his own thing. And in Genesis chapter 11, we read about men who get together, and they said, “Go to now, let us build us a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven, and let us make for us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the earth.” And in those two verses you find the word us or we six times. God is not mentioned in this at all. This is man. Man is building his utopia. Man is building his high-rise to hell. Man is building his tower of blunders. And led by this man, this type of the Antichrist, this Nimrod, whose name means “rebel,” they are building this great, colossal masterpiece, “whose top may reach unto heaven.” (Genesis 11:4) This is the crowning project. The Bible says they are building it with brick: “Brick had they and slime for mortar.” (Genesis 11:3)

So they are building this great, great tower. It is man’s crowning achievement, and it symbolizes a one-world government. And the Bible says they all spoke the same language. Now, notice—and it’s really kind of funny when you think about it—they said, “We are going to build a tower whose top will reach unto heaven.” And then the Bible says in Genesis chapter 11, “And God said, ‘Let us go down and see the tower which man has built.”’ (Genesis 11:5) What does it mean, “Let us”? Well, the Trinity is taught in the Old Testament. Father, Son, and Holy Spirit said, “Let’s go down and see this tower.” Now here is the funny part. They said, “We’re going to build a tower to heaven.”

God says, “Let’s go down and see the tower.” Yeah, there it is, right down there: their great tower that is going to reach unto heaven.

What a joke! Man building a tower unto heaven! Man doesn’t need to build from beneath; he needs to be born from above. This symbolizes man’s religion, man’s pride, man’s utopia, man’s all of it. But God said, “Now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do.” (Genesis 11:6) Man had come to a place, as I’ve said, where his head and his hands had outrun his heart. Just like today, we are talking about cloning human beings. We are talking about genetic engineering that will mix together animal flesh and human flesh—all kinds of strange things.

Do you know what God said He was going to do in that day when the whole world was of one language and one speech? God said, “I know what I’ll do. I’ll just throw a wrench in the works. I’ll go down there and destroy their ability to communicate.” That’s the reason now we call it the Tower of Babel, because they began to babble. One man would say, “Pass me a brick.” He’d say, “What did you say?” He said, “What did you say?” I say, “What did you say? What did you say?” And the first thing you know, the whole thing comes apart. It all comes crashing down.

Well, is the whole world of one speech and language today? Yes. That language is COBOL. It is the language of computers. And my computer speaks to your computer that speaks to your computer that speaks to his computer. And that’s a worldwide language.
God says, “I’ll just confuse all of that. I’ll just confuse all of that. And now, let’s see what happens to man’s utopia, man’s great high-rise to hell.”

Now we are still living in a Babylonian age. You know things are different, but they are always the same, aren’t they? And so, what are we talking about? We are saying that this comes to pass after six days. I remind you again there are six thousand recorded years of human history. Even Arnold Toynbee says that.

Now you say, “Pastor, are you trying to set a date for the Second Coming of Jesus?”
I would never do that. Everybody who has ever tried to do that has made a fool out of himself. But the Bible says we are to be ready; we are not to let that day take us as unawares; (Luke 21:34) and I think it is significant in the Bible that this will transpire after six days. “Pastor, are you saying that airplanes will fall out of the sky because of Y2K?” I’m not telling you anything. I don’t know. But I’ll tell you one thing. It would be far better to be prepared for it, and it not happen, than that you not be prepared, and it happen. And when I’m talking about preparation, I’m just talking about spiritual preparation, looking for those things, because I believe we are going to have one of the greatest opportunities to witness the saving gospel of Jesus Christ that we have ever had in this last year. I believe that people are going to be thinking more about the Second Coming of Jesus; they are going to be thinking more about spiritual things than any time since mankind this year. What a wonderful opportunity to witness the saving grace of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ!

So, put it down. Wake up: time is passing. Turn to your neighbor and say, “Wake up.” Good. Thank you. That will help me.

II. Look Up: Jesus Is Coming
Now, here is the second thing. Wake up: time is passing. Here is the second thing: Look up: Jesus is coming. Now what you have here is the Second Coming of Jesus Christ in preview—in microcosm, if you will. Now I want you to notice something about the Second Coming of the Lord Jesus Christ. Look, if you will, in chapter 17, verse 1: “And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into a high mountain apart.” (Matthew 17:1) Now, does God have favorites? Well, He does have intimates. He took Peter, James, and John apart so they could see this transfiguration. Why did He do that?

A. Three Witnesses
Well, there were three witnesses. In the Bible, three is the number of witness. “By the mouth of two or three witnesses shall a thing be established.” (Deuteronomy 19:15; Matthew 18:16; 2 Corinthians 13:1) That’s what the Bible says. So here are three witnesses. And Peter in 2 Peter chapter 1 says, “We…were eyewitnesses of his majesty”; “we heard the voice; we saw His glory.” (2 Peter 1:16–17) And so He wanted these witnesses there to be a testimony there. So, put it down: three witnesses. And God has given that testimony so we can join those three witnesses and we today can be part of those witnesses and say Jesus is coming, amen? No ifs, ands, or buts about it; no stutter, no stammer, no apology: Jesus is coming again. Beyond any shadow of any doubt, He is coming again. Three witnesses.

B. Two Participants
But then, notice, not only three witnesses; I want you to notice how the focus tightens now. There were two participants there that day on the day when Jesus came in preview. Look in verse 3. And the Bible says here in verse 3, “And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him.” (Matthew 17:3) Now I would have loved to have heard that conversation. There is Jesus in His glory, as He will be when He comes again; and there is Moses, and there is Elijah.

Now, why Moses and Elijah? Well, Moses is the great lawgiver; Elijah, the great prophet. That’s part of it, but that’s not all of it. What happened to Moses? Well, you remember that Moses walked to his own funeral. Moses died without ever going into the Promised Land. And the Bible tells us in the book of Deuteronomy that Moses was buried on Mount Nebo in the land of Moab, and no man knew his burial place, because God buried him, or sent an angel to bury him, and God performed the funeral. There is Moses. He died and was buried. But what about Elijah the prophet? He never died. The Bible says that at the close of Elijah’s ministry there appeared a whirlwind and a chariot of fire, and Elijah went to heaven without dying. He was just caught up in a chariot of fire, and he went to heaven without dying. And now here are Moses and Elijah. If Moses is there, his body would have been brought from the grave; and Elijah is there, and he is one who has never died. And so there is Moses, and there is Elijah, on the Mount of Transfiguration.

What does that picture for us? Well, when Jesus comes again, there are two categories of people who will be on the earth. There is the Moses crowd and the Elijah crowd. There will be those who have died and will be raised from the dead, like Moses; and there will be those who will never have died and will be raptured without dying. And so all of us are going to be, if we are saved, in the Moses crowd or the Elijah crowd. We are going to be with those who have who have died and been buried and then are raised, or we are going to be with those who are raptured. So, raised or raptured, when Jesus comes, if you are saved, you are going to meet the Lord in the air. And that’s what the Apostle Paul said, isn’t it, in 1 Corinthians chapter 15? “Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep,”—we shall not all die—“but we shall all be changed,”—that’s the Rapture. Not all are going to die, but all are going to be changed—“in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible.” (1 Corinthians 15:51–52) “We which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord.” (1 Thessalonians 4:17)

So, are you going to be in the Moses crowd, or are you going to be in the Elijah crowd? You don’t know, and I don’t know; but we’re going to be in one or the other, right? There are three witnesses, and there are two participants that are a microcosm of all of us. There is Elijah who never died. There is Moses who died and came out of that grave. And that’s the reason the Apostle Paul says in 1 Corinthians 15—the Apostle Paul is writing that great Resurrection chapter, and it’s as though he is just mocking death and he is mocking the grave, and he says—“O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?” (1 Corinthians 15:55)

Now that is the twofold anthem of the redeemed. Those who are raptured will say, “Death, where is your sting? I never felt it”; and those of us who’ve been buried and come up are going to say, “O grave, where is your victory?”—one or the other. When our Lord comes, that’s what’s going to happen. Some will never know the sting of death. Some will not be held by the iron bars of death, will come up out of the grave, and be raised when Jesus Christ comes. And that’s what Jesus was talking about when he said, “There are some of you standing here who will not see death till you see the Son of man come in His glory.” (Matthew 16:28) And after six days He took them up into a mountain and showed them these things.

C. One Savior

So you have three witnesses. Now, tighten it a minute. You have two participants. But tighten it a little bit more. You have only one Savior. This is very important. I want you to see this. And it’s so important that you see it. And the Bible says in verse 4, “Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here; if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them; and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased;”—now, listen to this—“hear ye him. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid. And Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid. And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save”—or “except”—“Jesus only.” (Matthew 17:4–8)

Now, folks, look at those two words: “Jesus only.” That’s it! “Jesus only.” You want to know the meaning of everything? It is Jesus only. Now, listen. You may think that’s an overstatement. We live in a universe. We live in a great big world—billions of light years. Why? Scientists are trying to figure out the reason for creation. You want to know what it is? Jesus only. “For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things.” (Romans 11:36) There is nothing made that was not made by the Lord Jesus. The answer to creation is Jesus only. People say the world needs saving; the world needs redemption. Where is redemption going to come from? From Buddha? From Mohammed? From Confucius? Mary Baker Glover Patterson Eddy? Where is redemption going to come from? Jesus only. “Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.” (Acts 4:12) Not some creed, not some code, not so some cause; but Jesus only.

Friend, do you want to understand prophecy? Everybody wants to understand prophecy. They want to understand the meaning of some toe on the left foot of some beast in Revelation. The Bible says, “The testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.” (Revelation 19:10) It’s not what is going to happen; it’s who is coming. We’re looking for Jesus only to come. What is the purpose of the church: building buildings, raising money? No! The Bible says, “Unto him be glory in the church.” (Ephesians 3:21) It is Jesus only. That’s what everything is about. And when Jesus comes again, we are going to understand what God is moving toward. The entire universe, all of the plan of God, the sweep of all the ages, comes down to those two words: Jesus only. “There are some of you standing here who will not taste of death till you see the Son of man come in His glory.” (Matthew 16:28)
What a day that will be when all the universe bows its knee and every created thing says, “Jesus only”! And Hitler will confess it. And Johnny Carson will confess it. And Jay Leno will confess it. And Bill Clinton will confess it. And, Mark, you will confess it. And I’ll confess it. And the angels will confess it. And everybody will confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father. Jesus is coming.

III. Sober Up: Satan is Working

Listen. Wake up: time is passing. Look up: Jesus is coming. Here is the third thing: Sober up: Satan is working. Do you think that Satan has just rolled over and is playing dead? No! Look now, if you will, beginning in verse 14: “And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: for ofttimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him. Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him; and the child was cured from that very hour.” (Matthew 17:14–18)

Now they’re up on the mountaintop. Peter is wanting to build tabernacles up on the mountaintop. But the problem was down in the valley. It is so easy for us to have our heads in the clouds of prophecy, to want to build tabernacles on mountaintops, but down in the valley was a brokenhearted and a crushed father. Down in the valley was a little boy who had been used and abused by the devil; a little boy, for whatever reason, who had a demon spirit in him. There was suffering there. There was sorrow there. There was shame there, because this man had brought his boy, demon-possessed, to the very disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ, the ones who could and should have done something for him. And the man looks at Jesus and says, “Lord, I brought him to your disciples, and they couldn’t do anything for him.”

Time is running out in this message, but let me tell you something. If we are at the end of the age, the Bible says that Satan will “come down upon you, having great wrath, for he knows that he has but a little time.” (Revelation 12:12) And in this last year you are going to see the demons of hell—if this is the last year. I’m not setting a date, but I know we are living at the end of an age. You are going to see all of the artillery of hell let loose upon the church. We are going to see more demon activity, more lies, more distortion, more heartache, more unmentionable things happen, as Satan is like a cornered animal coming down.

And so I’m going to just give you this point very quickly and I’m going to pass on. But what I’ve said is: Wake up: time is passing. Look up: Jesus is coming. Sober up: Satan is working. Satan is working. We are living in a deadly time. And Jesus came to this little boy, and Jesus spoke, and the devil fled. There was no groaning; there was no yelling; there was no contest. Jesus just simply spoke, and this little boy was healed. And I want to tell you something, folks. You listen to me. Jesus is still alive and well, and His power has not diminished. Two thousand years have not taken away the power of the Lord Jesus Christ. He is still able. God is not dead, and God is not sick. We need to understand that. And so here was the power of Satan as over against the power of Christ. Time is passing. Jesus is coming. Satan is working.

IV. Pray Up: Mountains Need Moving

Now, here’s the final thing I want you to see. Not only do you need to sober up, because Satan is working; you need to pray up, because mountains need moving. Now, listen to me. Look, if you will, in verse 18: “And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour. Then came the disciples to Jesus apart,”—that is, they got Him off to the side; they were so embarrassed they didn’t want to talk with Him in public—“and said, Why could not we cast him out? And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief…”—He didn’t say, “Because of my lack of power,” but—“Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you,”—when Jesus says, “verily,” it means, “pay attention”—“for…I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you…”—underscore that—“nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting.” (Matthew 17:18–21)

Now I said, “Pray up, because mountains need moving.” Jesus said, “If you had faith like a grain of mustard seed, you could say to this mountain, ‘Be removed and be cast into the sea.’” Do you know what mountain He was talking about? Mount Hermon. Do you know how big it was? Over nine thousand feet! It stays snow-capped most of the time. Jesus said, “If you had faith like a grain of mustard seed…” A grain of mustard seed is no bigger than a fleck of pepper that you put on your eggs this morning. He said, “You could say to this mountain, ‘Be cast into the sea,’ and it would be done.”

Now Jesus is not putting a premium upon little faith. He is not saying, “Let your faith be little.” What Jesus is saying is this: The least amount of faith is greater than the greatest mountain of difficulty. That’s what He is saying. It is David and Goliath. A little David mustard seed went to battle against the Goliath mountain and slew it.

Now, is He talking about just removing literal mountains? Well, God could do that. He could pulverize every one of them. But you know good and well that’s not what the world needs, is to have every mountain thrown into the sea—that’s not what the world needs. You have to understand what Jesus is saying. What has happened? They have been up there on the mountaintop. What is down here in the valley? Suffering and pain and anguish and fear and demon-possession—and Satan having a heyday. Jesus says, “Get this mountain out of the way. Bring heaven to earth. Remove the mountain. What you saw on the mountaintop, let’s bring the power of it down into the valley.” He said, “If you just had faith like a grain of mustard seed...”

What’s the difference between a mustard seed and a mountain? Given enough time, men can make a mountain. Give them enough bulldozers, and they can make a mountain.

King Herod, by the way, made his own mountain. You can see it if you go to the Holy Land. Men can make a mountain. But no man can make a mustard seed. You see, a mustard seed has life, and faith has life. Only God can give faith. You cannot make yourself believe. You can’t clench your fist and grit your teeth and say, “I’m going to believe.” That may be positive thinking, but it’s not faith. Faith is supernatural. It has the life of God in it. Only God can make a seed. That is the source of the seed. The size of the seed is what He’s saying: If you just have small faith, use it. In another Gospel—not in Matthew 17, but in Mark—that father said to Jesus, “Jesus, if you can do anything for my son, do it.” Jesus said, “If you can believe, all things are possible to him that believes.” And do you know what the man said? He said, “Lord, I believe. Help my unbelief.” (Mark 9:22–24)

Have you ever been there? All of us are. Do you think you have perfect faith? The only thing you do perfect is sin. That’s the only thing I do perfect is sin. We don’t have perfect faith. This father said, “I do believe; but help my unbelief.” Take the faith that you have, because there’s the source of the seed, the size of the seed, but there’s the sowing of the seed. You’ve got to take that little faith that you have, just like that man did, and took his little faith and planted it. A seed is not a museum piece. A seed is supposed to be put in the ground and planted. Take your faith, whatever it is. Be like that man, and say, “Lord, I believe; help my unbelief. I’m going to use whatever faith I have. It may be as small as a grain of mustard seed, but I’m going to plant it. I’m going to invest it. And that little seed will go down in the warm earth, and huddle in the warm earth, and one day it will throw off its little overcoat and burst with joy and spring up.” And in one seed there are thousands of seeds and billions of seeds. You just plant the faith that you have. “To him that hath shall be given.” (Matthew 13:12; Matthew 25:29; Mark 4:25; Luke 8:18; Luke 19:26)

God is not demanding perfection out of you. I’ll tell you what He is demanding out of you: that you open your heart, your life, and let Him put that mustard seed of faith; and then you take and plant it, and then you say in this decade of demons, “I am getting in the mountain-moving business.” You say, “I don’t think I can be a mountain mover.” Well then, you can’t. But if you had faith as a grain of mustard seed, nothing would be impossible to you. That doesn’t mean you can have what you want. That doesn’t mean believe for a new Cadillac. No. God only gives faith when He wants something done.
But many of us don’t have faith, because we’ve not opened our heart to the faith that God has. If God wants you to move mountains, God will give you mountain-moving faith—if you just open your heart, open your life, to Him.

Conclusion

Now, folks, listen to your pastor today, not because I’m the pastor, but now listen to what we’ve said. It was after six days that this happened. Does that ring something in your heart and mind? Wake up: time is passing. He took Peter, James, and John up into a mountain, and there He was glorified and transfigured. Look up: Jesus is coming. They went down in the valley, and there was a little demon-possessed boy, and a brokenhearted father, and paralyzed disciples. Sober up: Satan is working. “Why couldn’t we cast him out?” “Because of your unbelief.” “This kind cometh forth by nothing but prayer and fasting.” Pray up: mountains need moving.

What we need is an earth-shaking, mountain-moving, devil-defying faith in God as we close out this millennium, amen? Let’s do it. Let’s believe God. I want to believe Him more. I want to take my little mustard seed and put it in the ground. I want to see mountains crumble. I want to see heaven come to earth. I want to see demon-possessed children set free. And I want to see His name glorified. He’s coming. Folks, I believe we are living in the closing shadows of the end of an age. “Even so, come, Lord Jesus.” (Revelation 22:20)

Introduction

When I was a young Christian, in the church that I attended, we used to sing a chorus. Maybe you remember it.

Have you any rivers that seem to be uncrossable?
Have you any mountains you cannot tunnel through?
God specializes in things that seem impossible.
He knows a thousand ways to make a way for you.
—OSCAR C. ELIASON

And I’m speaking today to some people who have some difficulties; I mean, some mountains: mountains of heartache, mountains of debt, mountains of despair, mountains of satanic opposition. And you say, “Oh, God, what am I going to do with this mountain that is facing me?”

Well, today, we’re going to have a lesson in how to remove mountains. Look in God’s Word, if you will, in verse 1: “And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light” (Matthew 17:1–2). And then go over to verse 20, if you will, of this same chapter, and look in verse 20: “And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and”—what’s the next word? What is it?—“nothing...”—“and nothing...”—say it with me one more time—“and nothing shall be impossible unto you” (Matthew 17:20). That’s God’s Word: “Nothing shall be impossible unto you.”

Have you any rivers that seem to be uncrossable?
Have you any mountains you cannot tunnel through?

God specializes in things that seem impossible.

Jesus said, “Nothing, nothing, absolutely nothing, shall be impossible unto you” (Mark 10:27). I agree that seems pretty big. That seems like, “Well, maybe we’d better water that down, or explain that away.” Why don’t we just believe it? Why don’t we just simply believe what God has said?

Here’s a lesson in mountain moving. This chapter that we’re reading from is a chapter of contrasts. We read of mountains and mustard seeds. We read of glory, and we read of despair. Jesus has gone up to this exceeding high mountain, and He’s transfigured. The word transfigured literally means He is “metamorphosized.” There’s a metamorphosis. This word is the Greek word that we get our English word metamorphosis from, which means, “a change of form,” but not just a change of form; a change where that which is on the inside comes to the surface. The glory of God was in the Lord Jesus Christ, and that glory burst forth on the mountain of transfiguration. You see, God starts with the inside and goes toward the outside. Satan just covers the outside, because he has nothing on the inside. Satan knows how to masquerade, but Jesus was metamorphosized. That glory that was in Him came to the surface.

And what a day it was! What a beautiful thing it was, as the glory of our Lord shone there on that mountaintop, and His face shone like the noonday sun! His garments glistened as the snow. And God spoke from the glory, “This is my beloved Son” (Matthew 17:5; Mark 9:7; Luke 9:35).

There are three basic things I want you to see as we look in this chapter about moving mountains.

I. The Glory That We Are to Anticipate
First of all, I want you to see the glory that we are to anticipate. Do you have it? The glory that we are to anticipate. What was the reason for this transfiguration? I mean, what was it all about? It was a preview of the greatest event this world will ever know, and that is the Second Coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Now I want you to look in your Bibles, in chapter 16, and just back up to verse 27: “For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels; and then he shall reward every man according to his works” (Matthew 16:27). That is a promise from the Word of God. Jesus Christ is literally, actually, visibly, bodily coming back to this earth again. Jesus said it, and it will happen. This same Jesus is coming again. But now, look in verse 28: “Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom” (Matthew 16:28).

Now some people have thought, “Well, Jesus made a mistake,” because all of the apostles died, and He had not yet come. But, oh, no! He never makes a mistake. What He is saying is, “I am going to give you a preview, some of you who are now living; I am going to give you a preview of my coming in glory.” And that’s what the transfiguration was. It was a preview of the Second Coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Now there should really be no division between chapter 16 and 17. I remind you that the chapter divisions were put there after the Bible was written. I think they were put there to keep preachers from preaching too long. So these chapter divisions are not a part of the inspired Word of God. I’m happy to have them, but chapter 16 flows right on in to chapter 17. And He says, “There are some who will not see death, till you see the Son of man coming in power and glory,” and then it tells of the transfiguration of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now I want you to look at it very carefully, and look in chapter 17, verse 1: “After six days…” (Matthew 17:1)—now, why is that recorded?—“After six days…” Well, six is the number of man. There are 6,000 recorded years of human history. “One day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day” (2 Peter 3:8). “After six days…” There have been 6,000 years of recorded history. And, friend, we’re on the threshold of the seventh day. The seventh day is the thousand-year reign of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. We call that the millennium. It’s just around the corner. We are living in the closing shadows of the sixth day. There have been 6,000 years of history. There is coming a day when the desert will blossom as a rose. There’s coming a day when the lamb and the lion shall lie down together (Isaiah 11:6). There’s coming a day when “the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea” (Habakkuk 2:14). And Jesus, our Lord, shall rule and reign here on this earth. And His kingdom will come; His will be done on earth as it is in heaven (Matthew 6:10; Luke 11:2). After six days of failure, then the Lord Jesus will appear.

It’s a dark hour. It’s a dark hour domestically and internationally. It’s a dark hour scientifically. For the first time in history, man is literally afraid of what he knows—I mean, afraid of what he knows! His head and his hands have outrun his heart, and we’re creating the ability to destroy ourselves. And then, we’re afraid because of what we don’t know. Have you been reading recently about the plagues that are beginning to bubble up around the earth, strange new diseases? I used to read the Book of the Revelation and read about those plagues, and I thought, “Well, surely we’ve got penicillin. We’ve got other things. Don’t worry about the plagues.” But it’s a dark hour. But, friend, it is gloriously dark, because our Lord is about to come. We’re living at the close of six days of history, and that seventh day is about to dawn on us.

Somewhere years ago, I read about a man who was spending a night in a chalet in Switzerland. And in the middle of the morning, early in the morning, he heard this noise, this roaring, and this rumbling, and this crackling. He was frightened. He thought maybe it was the end of the world. He told his host—he said, “I was so frightened this morning. What was that?” “Oh,” he said, “it was just the sun hitting the ice slopes, and the ice was cracking and melting as the sun came up in the morning.” He said, "What you thought was the end of the world was the dawning of a new day.” And, friend, what some people think is the end is really the dawning of a new day. There is that seventh day coming. Our Lord is going to come, and He’s going to rule and to reign upon this earth.

A. Three Witnesses

I want you to notice those who were involved this day. Look, if you will, in verse 1: “And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John, and brought them apart” (Matthew 17:1). Who do these represent? Well, these represent the witnesses. They were there to see it. And do you know why they saw it? They were looking for it. They were there when Jesus said, ”There will be some of you standing here who’ll not die until you see the Son of man come in glory” (Matthew 16:28). And they were there, Peter, James, and John, and they saw it. Now He had told them; they were looking for it, and they saw it. Some of us are looking for Him to come the second time. And I want to say, friend, that He’s told others that He’s coming also.

You see, God took Peter, James, and John apart from the rest. That’s very interesting. Does God have favorites? I wouldn’t say He has favorites; but He has some intimates. He has those who are on the inside. And, “Surely, the Lord GOD will do nothing, except He reveals His secret to His servants the prophets” (Amos 3:7). I want to say that spiritual men today, all of those that I know, are looking for Jesus to come at almost any moment.

B. Two Participants

There were three witnesses. But then, not only were there three witnesses; there were two participants. Look in verse 3: “And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with them” (Matthew 17:3). Now Elias—that’s just the New Testament way of saying Elijah. So here’s the Lord Jesus Christ up there on, I believe, the top of Mount Hermon, a beautiful mountain. And there appears Moses the great lawgiver. There appears Elijah the great prophet. And there appears, there’s the Lord Jesus, the Savior, and Jesus is transfigured before them, and they talk.

Why Moses and Elijah? Well, again, Moses gave the law, and Elijah was the prophet. And Jesus fulfilled the law, and the prophet spoke of Jesus. But I believe there’s another reason. Moses and Elijah represent the two groups that will be involved when our Lord comes in power and in great glory. Now, let me tell you what happened to these two. Moses died and was buried. Put in your Bible margin Deuteronomy 34:5–6: “So Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD. And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab.” And nobody knows where his grave is. Moses died and was buried. Do you have that? And yet Moses was on the Mount of Transfiguration.

Now, what about Elijah? Elijah never died. He never saw death. Put in your margin 2 Kings 2:11: “And it came to pass, as they still went on, and talked, that, behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven.” Elijah never died. He was caught up in a whirlwind in a chariot of fire. He was raptured. Moses died and was buried. Elijah never died. He was taken up into heaven. And now on the Mount of Transfiguration, which is a preview of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ, there is Moses, and there is Elijah.

Now, put this verse in your margin—1 Corinthians 15:51–52. Here’s what the Apostle Paul says is going to take place when Jesus comes: “Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep,”—that is, not everyone is going to die—“but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.”

Do you see it? There’s the Moses crowd: “the dead shall be raised incorruptible.” There’s the Elijah crowd: “and we shall be changed.” If Jesus Christ were to come today, all of the dead saints would be raised like Moses was, and all of the living saints would be “changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye.” Those are the two groups that are going to be present with our Lord when He comes to receive His own. There’s the Moses crowd and the Elijah crowd.

I used to think I always wanted to be in the Elijah crowd, till I read the other day something Charles Haddon Spurgeon said. Spurgeon said, “I’m so glad. I hope I die before Jesus comes, because,” he said, “I want to experience the thrill of the resurrection.” Think about it. Think about it—whether you’re in the Moses crowd, or whether you’re in the Elijah crowd, whether you have died and come out of that grave, or whether you’ve changed and caught up. That’s the reason the Apostle Paul said, “When this comes to pass,” “then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?” (1 Corinthians 15:54–55). The Elijah crowd will say, “O death, where is your sting? You never stung me.” The Moses crowd will say, “O grave, where is your victory? You can’t hold me when Jesus comes, when Jesus comes in glory.” What a day, what a day that will be! And here we have that story there in a preview of the glory we should anticipate. We should be looking for it.

C. One Savior

Peter got so excited. He said, “Lord, let’s go into a building program. Let’s just build something up here.” You know, you can count on Peter to do something dumb almost all the time. And look, if you will, in verse 4: “Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here:”—I’ll say, that’s an understatement—“if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for [Elijah].” Now Peter made some big mistakes, but this one was king size. “While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them:”—that was the Shekinah glory of God that overshadowed them—“and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him...”—so you have three witnesses. You have two participants. But you have only one Savior. His name is Jesus—“hear ye him. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid.” Boys and girls, that means they were scared stiff. “And Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid.” Now, mark verse 8: “And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save”—or except—“Jesus only” (Matthew 17:4–8).

Now if you want to know what everything is all about, I mean, if you want to get it in two words, just put a circle around “Jesus only.” If you want to know what God is up to, it is this: Jesus only.

It’s true in creation. Why the universes? Why did God make it all? It was made by Him and for Him. What’s the world coming to? It’s coming to Jesus. What’s the purpose of creation? Two words: Jesus only.

It’s true in redemption. How are we saved? Not by a program, not by a plan, but by a person. You want to understand salvation? You can put it in two words: Jesus only.

It’s true in the Bible. You want to understand this book? You want to know what the Bible is all about? Friend, you can put it in two words: Jesus only. It’s a Him book. It’s about Him. And you have to read the Bible in the light of Christ, and see Christ in the light of the Bible.

It’s true in prophecy. People want to talk about prophecy. But, friend, “Jesus is the spirit of prophecy” (Revelation 19:10). You make a mistake if you read the Bible and study prophecy and try to see what’s going to happen. It’s not about a happening; it’s about a person. It’s about the Lord Jesus. We’re not waiting for something to happen, but for Someone to come. What’s the key to prophecy? Jesus only.

And it’s true in the church. I was thinking, Jim, about the music you sang that blessed me so much today about Jesus—about Jesus. We need to love the Lord Jesus, who said, “And I, if I be lifted up...will draw all men unto me” (John 12:32). What is the purpose of this church? It is Jesus only. He said, “I will build my church” (Matthew 16:18). He didn’t say, “You’ll build my church,” or, “I’ll build your church.” Jesus only.

II. The Grief That We Must Alleviate

Now there’s the glory we anticipate. But now, wait a minute. There’s the grief we must alleviate. Look now in verse 14: “And when they were come to the multitude...”—that is, now they’ve come down from the mountaintop, down from the mountain of glory, down into the valley—“And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is a lunatick, and sore vexed; for ofttimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him. Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour” (Matthew 17:14–18).

Now Jesus comes down from the mountain of transfiguration to the place of misery. And in that valley there was satanic power. There was a boy who was demon-possessed. In that valley there was sickness and sorrow and despair. In that valley there was a father with a crushed and a bleeding heart who had come up against a mountain of difficulty. And in that valley there were some preachers, and they had no power. They’d gone through the ministerial function. They had rebuked the devil. They had shouted. They had prayed. They’d gone through their form and their ritual. And nothing had changed. And then Jesus came and He spoke. There was no struggle, no groaning, no long battle. Satan released his grip on this boy. He was healed. Smiles came back to his face, and a happy boy cuddled in the arms of his father. And the father, whose heart had been crushed, looked into the face of Jesus. And with tears of gratitude he began to give God praise for the victory.

And then the Lord Jesus looked at these disciples. They asked Him a question, in verse 19: “Then came the disciples to Jesus apart,”—that means, they had to get Him off in a corner; they were ashamed to ask in public—“and said, Why couldn’t we do it? Why couldn’t we cast out that devil? What was wrong with us?” Why were you able to do it, and we’re not able to do it?” Here’s the answer, in verse 20: “And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain...”—what mountain was He talking about? The one He’d just been on, this mountain. He was up on an exceeding high mountain—“ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you” (Matthew 17:19–20).

III. The Gift That We Are to Appropriate

That brings me to the third thing I want to say today about moving mountains. There’s the glory we should anticipate. There is the misery we must alleviate. And, therefore, there is the gift we must appropriate. Now, what is the gift that we must appropriate? It’s faith—it’s faith. How do we move mountains? With faith. What kind of faith? Well, look and see what our Lord says here in this marvelous passage of Scripture. Look at it: “And Jesus said unto them... If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed...” (Matthew 17:20). Now we say, “Well, pastor, do you believe that?” Well, yes, I believe it—I believe it. I believe that the problem in the twentieth-century church, very plainly put, is a lack of mountain-moving faith. It’s a problem in my heart, in my life, when it’s not there. It’s the problem in your heart and in your life when it is not there.

Somewhere I read about a lady who lived in a house; and in front of her house was an ugly and unsightly hill, and it blocked the view of the valley as she wanted to see it. She came upon this promise in the Word of God, and so she thought she’d try it. So she prayed all night that that hill, that mountain, would be removed that was blocking her view. All night long she prayed and asked God to remove that mountain. When the sun came up, she opened her blinds and looked out—and it was still there. And she said, “Ha, just as I expected—just as I expected.” Oh, friend, we really have never really learned how to believe God.

Now, why did our Lord say that faith is like a grain of mustard seed?

A. The Smallness of the Seed

Well, think of the size of a mustard seed. It is so small. Think of the smallness of the seed. Now our Lord was not putting a premium upon small faith. Our Lord loved great faith. But what is our Lord saying? He is saying the least amount of faith is greater than the greatest amount of difficulty. He’s comparing a mustard seed to a mountain. This is a David and Goliath experience in the Spirit. A mustard seed went to battle against a mountain and slew it—a mustard seed! You know what that says to me? “Adrian, you must not have very much faith. Maybe your faith is not even the size of a mustard seed.” We boast about our faith; but Jesus said, “If you had faith as a grain of mustard seed...”
B. The Secret of the Seed

The smallness of the seed. But think of the secret of the seed. No man can manufacture a mustard seed. Given enough time, they can make a mountain; but they can’t make a seed. Bulldozers can mound up a mountain; but you cannot manufacture or synthesize a seed. Why? Because a seed has one ingredient that is absolutely necessary—and it is life—life, life. A seed has life.

Faith is supernatural. Faith is not positive thinking. Faith is not desiring something and then believing you can have it, naming it and claiming it. You can’t claim it until God names it. Faith is the supernatural gift of God. Only God can make a seed. You read about that in Genesis. That’s the reason why I don’t believe in this monkey mythology called evolution. Friend, it’s unmitigated stupidity—unmitigated stupidity—that out of inorganic matter can come life. Life comes from God, and faith comes from God. “Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God” (Romans 10:17). And the Word of God is called a seed. And you’ve got to open your hand and let the Lord put that seed in your hand, because you can’t work it up.

C. The Sowing of the Seed

There is the size of the seed. There’s the secret of the seed—the source of the seed. There is the sowing of the seed. What’s a seed for? It’s not a museum piece. A seed is to be planted. Now God will give you faith, but God will not believe for you. Is faith the gift of God? Yes. Does that mean God will believe for you? No. Breathing is a gift of God. God gives you air, and God gives you lungs, but you can smother if you want to. God gives you faith; but you must believe. You must take the seed of faith and put it in the ground, because there’s life in that seed. And out of that seed there comes life and more seeds. And if you’ll take that little seed of faith and put it in the dust of despair, out of that seed of faith will bloom the flowers and the fruits of God’s grace and God’s glory.

When our Lord said, “Remove this mountain,” was He talking literally? No, He was talking figuratively. He’s talking about figures: like faith is like a mustard seed, difficulty is like a mountain. It would have done that man there that had a demon-possessed boy no good to move that mountain. But what was up on that mountain? The glory of God was on the mountaintop. What was down in the valley? Despair and heartache. And what was He saying? He’s saying, “Get rid of the mountain. Bring heaven to earth—bring heaven to earth. Remove that span between heaven and earth, and get the power of God that’s on the mountaintop down in the valley, and get the mountain out in between.”

You say, “Well, pastor, I just don’t have that kind of faith.” Well, I think most of us don’t. We ought to have. We could have. We should have. By God’s grace, we will have. They said, “Master, why couldn’t we do it?” He said, “Because of your unbelief” (Matthew 17:20). Oh, they believed in Him, in a sense, but they were unbelieving believers: “Because of your unbelief.” And then He said, “This kind, these kinds of demons, they don’t come out without prayer and fasting” (Matthew 17:21). Some versions leave out that last thing, “and fasting,” but I believe it ought to be there. “This kind doesn’t come out except by prayer and fasting.” Why do we have such little faith? Very simply: we’re not very serious about this matter. God does business with those that mean business.

When are we going to get serious? We’ve got a world that’s in the grip of a personal devil. You say, “Well, pastor, can we believe for other people?” That father believed for his son. As a matter of fact, in the other Gospels, that father came to Jesus and said, “Master, if you can do anything for my son, please do it. I brought him to your disciples, and they couldn’t do anything.” And Jesus looked at him, and Jesus said, “If you can believe, all things are possible to him that believeth.” And you remember what he said? Here’s what he said. He said, “Lord, I believe; help my unbelief” (Mark 9:23–24). Have you ever felt that way? “Lord, I believe; help my unbelief.” He had the faith of a mustard seed. He didn’t have big faith. He just had little faith. But our Lord took the faith that he had and used it.

You don’t have to have perfect faith. It’s not great faith in God that you need; it’s faith in a great God that you need. If you’ve got faith like a grain of mustard seed, plant it, put it in the ground, and begin to believe God and trust God, and you’ll see mountains of hate and despair and difficulty and disease and deprivation and demonism flee away.

Conclusion

There’s the glory we anticipate: Jesus is coming. There’s the grief we must alleviate: a world is in the grip of Satan. There’s the gift we must appropriate—and it is faith. O God, help us to believe! God, help this pastor to believe! God, help this church to believe! We need in these days, these closing days at the end of the sixth day of history, we need an earth-shaking, mountain-moving, devil-defying faith in God.

Have you any rivers that seem to be uncrossable?

Have you any mountains you cannot tunnel through?

God specializes in things that seem impossible.

He knows a thousand ways to make a way for you.

Mustard Seeds and Mountains—Learning to Think Small

By Adrian Rogers

Date Preached:  August 4, 2002

Main Scripture Text:  Matthew 17:20

“And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible to you.”

MATTHEW 17:20

Introduction

Take God’s Word and find Matthew chapter 17, a familiar passage of Scripture, verse 20. The disciples were wondering why they had no power, and they came to Jesus; and they wanted to find from Jesus why they were powerless against a demon spirit. And, verse 20 says, “And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily”—that means “truly”—“I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you.” (Matthew 17:20)

Now, a mustard seed is very small, about like that fleck of pepper that was on your eggs this morning, if you had pepper on your eggs—very small. A mountain, of course, is very big. What is Jesus saying? Jesus, I believe, is saying that the least amount of faith is greater than then greatest amount of difficulty. Now, what I want us to do tonight is to learn to think small.

Joyce told me on one occasion, “Adrian, I married you for your brains, not for your looks.” She said, “It is the little things that count.” Just a joke—just a joke.

But, in the Bible, the Bible puts a big emphasis upon small things. Now, let me say that again: the Bible puts a big emphasis upon small things. Don’t despise something because it is small because small things have very big consequences. When you take an atom, which is infinitesimally small, and divide it and split it, you have nuclear fission. And, the smallest of entities can cause the biggest of explosions.

I clipped this from The Commercial Appeal and put it in my files: “‘Misplaced Comma Costs’”—listen to this—’‘Seventy Million Dollars.’ A comma in the wrong place of a sales contract cost Lockheed Martin Corporation seventy million, The Financial Times reported today. An international contract for the US-based Aerospace Group C130J Hercules had the comma misplaced by one decimal point in the equation that adjusted the sales price for changes to the inflation rate, the London-based newspaper said. (In Europe, commas are used instead of periods to mark decimal points.) “It was a mistake,” the newspaper quoted James A. “Mickey” Blackwell, President of Lockheed’s Aeronautics division, as saying, “but the customer whom Lockheed refused to name held them to the price at an extra cost of seventy million dollars.”

Now, if you have a Bible and there is a comma in it, look down at the comma and ask yourself, “Is that comma worth seventy million dollars?” In the wrong place, it could cost seventy million dollars. Small things are vitally important.

And, I say, the Bible puts a big emphasis upon small things.

When I was in school, the teacher told us a little story—and I think we have all heard it. It is talking about a battle that was lost because the blacksmith did not have the proper nail to put the shoe on the horse. And, it goes something like this: “For the want of a nail the shoe was lost. For the want of a shoe the horse was lost. For the want of the horse the rider was lost. For the want of the rider the battle was lost. And, for the want of the battle the kingdom was lost—all for the want of a nail.” You see, when you lost the nail, you lost the shoe, you lost the horse, you lost the rider, you lost the battle, and then you lost the kingdom. Small things have great import.

And, Jesus said that the faith of a grain of mustard seed can move mountains. (Matthew 17:20) So, there are three things tonight I want us to learn about small things.

I. Small Things Make Up a Ministry of Fruitfulness

Number one: Small things make up a ministry of fruitfulness. If you want to be fruitful for the Lord, be faithful in the small things.

I was thinking in the Bible about the small things that God used. For example, God used Moses and his rod. And you can read about it there in Exodus chapter 4. God used Moses and his rod to lead the children of Israel out of bondage and out of barrenness and into blessedness. Moses was out on the backside of the desert, and he had been stripped down. Somebody said that Moses spent the first forty years of his life learning to be somebody, the next forty years of his life learning to be nobody, and the last forty years learning what God could do with somebody who had learned the first two lessons.

And so, there he is, a nobody out on the backside of the desert, just a rod in his hand. And, God said, “Moses, what is that in your hand?” And, he says, “A rod.” “Cast it on the ground, Moses.” And, he did. The rod became a serpent. And then, He said, “Now, pick it up, Moses.” Every word that Moses said came right from his heart because his heart was in his throat. “Pick it up, Moses.” And, Moses picked it up. He said, by the way, “Pick it up by the tail.” That leaves the business end free, doesn’t it? “Pick it up by the tail.” And then, the rod then became a rod again, but from there on out it was no longer the rod of Moses; it was the rod of God that opened up the Red Sea.

Now, I might ask you the question: What do you have in your hand? You say, “It is not much.” Well, a little is much if God is in it. God used David, a little boy with a sling, to go out against Goliath. And, there was Goliath, the original Big Foot, belching out blasphemies against the God of Israel. And, little David had come there. He is just a kid, a little peach fuzz on his chin. The Bible says he was “ruddy, and of a fair countenance.” (1 Samuel 17:42) There was Goliath, over nine feet tall. I could not scratch the top of his head without standing on my toes and reaching way out, and then I doubt that I could make it then. And, the NBA would love to have had him. Here is Goliath, and David says, “Why doesn’t somebody go out there and put that guy to sleep?” And, everybody else says, “No, we can’t do that. Look how much bigger he is than we are.” And, David was thinking, “Look how much smaller he is than God is.” And, David took a sling, now just a teenage boy with a sling, and went out there and defeated Goliath. Billy Sunday said, “He hit him right on the coco, and he went down for the count of ten.”

Now, if God used Moses with a rod, God can use you. If God used David with a slingshot, God can use you. I read in the New Testament where God took a little lad, his lunch—the Lord Jesus took the lunch that that boy offered to him, with five loaves and two fish—and Jesus fed five thousand men plus the women and children with a little lad’s lunch. If God used that little lad’s lunch, God can use what you have.

I read in the Bible of a woman named Dorcas. And, Dorcas evidently didn’t have a lot of skills, but one thing she did: she was a seamstress. And, she had made little coats and jackets and things for people, and she had sewed herself into the hearts and lives of so many of God’s people, as they wept for her when she went to heaven. Acts chapter 9—you read the story. Now, maybe you are a little seamstress. But, if God used Dorcas, God can use you.

I read in the Bible where God used a woman named Mary who had an alabaster box of perfume, and she took it and broke it and anointed the head and the feet of the Lord Jesus Christ with that alabaster box of perfume. And, they criticized her, and they called it a waste. But, the fragrance of what Mary did has filled the world for two thousand years. And, Jesus said, “Wherever the gospel is preached, that will be spoken of her” (Matthew 26:13; Mark 14:9)—a small thing in the eyes of many, not small in the eyes of God.

Jesus went to the temple one day and watched the offering being taken. Now, I don’t know what you give, but I tell you, Jesus does. And, when we take the offering, Jesus observes it even today because He is here in the Spirit. And, He watched what people were putting in. And, there came a widow, and she put in a widow’s mite (less than an American penny). She put it in the offering plate. And, Jesus said that that little widow—now listen. There were many rich men there, the Bible says—but that little widow gave more than they all—not more than any of them; more than all of them. Now, why was that? Well, first of all, she gave all that she had. But secondly, did you know that millions and billions of dollars have been given to the cause of Christ through the example of that little widow? Many, many hearts for two millennia have been moved to give because that little widow there did a small thing. But again, little is much when God is in it.

Jesus said, “You can’t even give a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple and lose your reward.” (Matthew 10:42) Did you know that while we are here, our workers are over there in the nursery? Have you ever thought about that? Did you know that this church has a “bawl room”? They are over there bawling, those kids. They are over there. And there, in Scripture, is, “We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed.” (1 Corinthians 15:51) Those little babies are over there in that place, and we have workers changing diapers and giving cups of cold water in the name of the disciple. Did you know that every time a nursery worker gives a baby a cup of cold water it is recorded in heaven? Did you know Jesus had a ministry where He observed small things?

Jesus was never a college president. Jesus was never a governor. He was never a king. He never commanded an army. Jesus held little children in His hands. Jesus talked about flowers. Jesus talked about seeds. Jesus walked little back pathways. He talked about a lost coin. He talked about a boy who had run away from his father. He said, “I know the very numbers of the hairs of your head.” (Matthew 10:30; Luke 12:7) Jesus was interested in small things. He has transformed the world.

And, all of us have to remember how small we started. All of us started when a tiny little sperm was united with an egg. And actually, you were a winner from the very time you were conceived because there were a lot of sperm there trying to be first, and you were first, so you were a winner. You are a winner from your conception. But, you were so small. And, by the way, when that egg and that sperm come together, that is a child. Somebody said, “Oh, that is not a child any more than a bolt and a nut is a Ford in a Ford factory.” Oh no, friend. All you add, once that egg is fertilized, is nutrition. That’s it. Nothing else is added. You started so small, and baby, look at you now.
A man came into town, a little town, and he said to somebody standing there, “Any great men born here?” The old timer said, “Nope, just babies.”

Nobody is born a great man; we are just born babies. But, when God wants to do something, God takes a baby. God wanted to deliver the children of Israel from Egypt. He sent Moses, just a baby. And, he was a goodly child. When God wanted to deliver mankind, He didn’t send an army. He sent His Son, a little baby born of a virgin.

No wonder the prophet Zechariah asked this question in Zechariah chapter 4 and verse 10: “Who hath despised the day of small things?” (Zechariah 4:10) Don’t despise the day of small things. Now, what was happening is they were trying to build the temple, and they were having a difficult time. They were out of finances, and morale was low; and opposition was great, and it looked like they would never be finished. And, their beginning was so small. But, Zechariah was saying, “Listen, don’t get discouraged because it is small.”

And we, though we are large church, we don’t need to get carried away with bigness and noise and numbers. Elijah was a little discouraged, and God put him in a retreat center up in the mountains. And, God gave him an illustration about what is very important—1 Kings chapter 19, verses 11 and 12. And, here is what God said to him: “And he said, Go forth, and stand upon the mount before the LORD. And, behold, the LORD passed by, and a great and strong wind rent the mountains”—boys and girls, that means “tore” or “shook” the mountains—“and brake in pieces the rocks before the LORD; but the LORD was not in the wind: and after the wind an earthquake;; but the LORD was not in the earthquake”—first of all, there was a tornado; then there was an earthquake. And, God is not in either one of these—“and after the earthquake a fire”—there was a holocaust; a great forest fire comes sweeping through—“but the LORD was not in the fire: and after the fire a still small voice.” (1 Kings 19:11–12) Now, so many times in our lives we are not satisfied unless we see a cyclone, an earthquake, or a holocaust, but we need to learn to listen to the small voice, to the mustard seed things of God. If you want to be fruitful, I want to tell you that small things are the measure of our fruitfulness.

II. Small Things Are the Measure of Faithfulness

Number two: Small things, friend, are the measure of your faithfulness. The Bible says in Luke chapter 16 and verse 10: “He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in [that which is] much.” (Luke 16:10) Now, listen carefully. It doesn’t say, “If you are faithful in the least, you can be faithful in the much.” It says, “If you are faithful in the least, you are faithful in the much.” Why? Because everything big is made up of small things. It follows, as night follows day, as surely as I am standing this pulpit tonight, if I am faithful in that which is small, I have to be faithful in that which is much because everything big is made up of something small. “Little drops of water and little grains of sand make the mighty ocean and the pleasant land.” And, it is the small things—it is faithfulness in the small things—that really matter.

And, what God is saying in this passage in Luke chapter 16 is very important. Jesus there is talking about giving. He is talking about money. And, He said, “If you are not faithful in the unrighteous mammon”—that is what He calls money—“who will commit into your hands”—“into your trust”—“the true riches?” (Luke 16:11) So, the true riches are not what you have in the bank but what you have in your heart and in your character—the influence. And, God is saying that if you are not faithful with money, He cannot trust you with spiritual things. Sometimes people think that if we are faithful in spiritual things, then God will trust us with money. It is just the opposite. If you have money, it may be a test. God may be giving you a test. And, by the way, God doesn’t call money the big thing; God calls money the small thing. And, He says, “If you can’t handle money, I can’t trust you with the true riches.”

Now, God measures us, and God may be testing you, with money. God tests you with the small things. Now, it’s a great privilege to be the pastor of Bellevue Baptist Church, and I don’t take it lightly. As a matter of fact, I tremble when I think of the responsibility, and I smile when I think of the joy, to be the pastor of this church. But friend, I am not worthy to be the pastor of this church if I cannot be faithful in small things. Somebody asked me one time, “Well, preacher, what is it like to preach to thousands of people on Sunday morning?” I said, “It is exactly like preaching to ten people.” What difference does it make? If a man would not be faithful preaching to ten people, he couldn’t be used preaching to thousands of people.

Sometimes I talk to these preacher boys, and they say, “Well, I don’t have a place to preach. I wish I had a place to preach.” Good night! There are six billion people on the face of the earth. The places to preach are everywhere. I have preached in rescue missions. I have preached in trailer parks. I have preached on bus benches. You don’t have to be introduced in order to preach. You don’t have to be paid in order to preach. If you are faithful in that which is least, you may be faithful in that which is much.

When I was a college student at Stetson University, some of us used to go from Stetson University over to Daytona Beach and preach on the streets. It wasn’t a school activity; it wasn’t required. We just preached because we wanted to preach. And, I can remember one time standing on a bus bench and preaching to people there on the streets of Daytona Beach. They allowed me to be the preacher because I had the loudest voice. And, I was standing on that bus bench, preaching to people up and down. And, we had maybe six, eight, ten people standing there. And, after I preached, I came down, got off the bus bench, turned around, and saw a well-dressed man, a businessman in a gray flannel suit, standing in front of a hotel.

I approached the man, and I said, “Sir, may I ask you a question?” And, he said, “Yes, sir.” I said, “Sir, do you know the Lord Jesus Christ as your personal Savior?” He said, “Yes, son, I do.” I said, “You do?” He said, “Yes, I do.” He said, “I know Jesus Christ. He is my Lord and Savior.” What a joy that was! He said, “Who are you?” I said, “I am Adrian Rogers.” He said, “Who, sir, are you?” He said, “I am Doyle Carlton.” And, I said, “We are just preaching.” He said, “Do the schools send you over here?” I said, “Oh no, they probably wouldn’t like it if they knew we were here.”

And, he said to me, “Young man, I want to get to know you.” And, we became friends. Mr. Doyle Carlton, he was the one who was instrumental in my coming to the First Baptist Church of Merritt Island, Florida, where he was a leading member there of that church, and became one of my dearest personal friends and next-door neighbors—as a matter of fact, he was the one who brought a shotgun out when your pulpit committee came and tried to move me away. It was supposed to be a joke, but I am not sure he was joking—but a dear, wonderful personal friend. And, in a very real sense, beyond any exaggeration, I am standing here tonight preaching to you because I was standing on a bus bench preaching so long ago. That was just a part of the plan of God. God takes small things, and God can use small things in a very wonderful way.

You know, sometimes when I preach, before I preach, somebody will come up to me and say, “Pastor, thus-and-such a person that I have been praying for—my uncle, my aunt, my father, my mother, my brother, my sister, my son, my daughter—is going to be here. Preacher, preach real good.” Hey, folks, I preach the best I can every time I preach—I really do. It doesn’t matter how big the crowd is or how small the crowd is. I do the best I can. If I could do better tonight, I would. I hate to admit it, but this is the best I can do, folks. It is the best I can do. And, it is a shame before God to do less than your best, whether you are preaching on a bus bench or preaching to ten thousand people. “He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in [that which is] much.” (Luke 16:10) And, we need to be faithful in the small things. The things that make men fruitful are their ability to be faithful in the small things. And, the things that mark men’s faithfulness are the small things.

I was reading and researching for this message about Michelangelo, the great sculptor. And, a friend came by and saw Michelangelo, who was working on a piece of statuary. And, he was working very carefully. A month later, the friend came back and found Michelangelo working on the same statue in just about the same place and said, “Well”—to Michelangelo—“what have you done? It has been a month. What have you done?” He said, “Well, I smoothed a line here and polished an arm over here, and I took those few flakes of marble off the brow and the forehead, and so on,” he replied. And, the friend said, “Those are only trifles.” And, I want you to listen to what Michelangelo was reported to say: “True, they are but trifles; but trifles make perfection, and perfection is no trifle.” So, faithfulness in small things is a mark of really extraordinary service.

III. Small Things Are a Means of Forcefulness

Now, here is the third thing I want you to see: small things are a means of forcefulness—fruitfulness, faithfulness, and forcefulness. You see, Jesus says that a mustard seed can go to battle against a mountain and remove it. What a mighty force are small things, especially when small things get together. Small drops of water make an ocean. Small flakes of snow make a blizzard, can bring a town to its halt. And, foolishness in small things can lead to disaster.

Many of us don’t watch the small things. Most of us are battling with weight. I mentioned Zig Ziglar a while back. Zig is a personal friend. I have known him for, well, thirty-five years. Zig Ziglar said, “As a younger man, I was, by design, by choice, twenty pounds overweight,” and I thought to myself, “That is a strange thing for anybody, by choice, to be twenty pounds overweight.” And, he said, “You might ask why I was twenty pounds overweight by choice.” He said, “Because nobody ever made me put anything in my mouth. That is, every mouthful, I chose to put there. Nobody ever put a spoonful of food in my mouth; I put them all in my mouth.” Now, you don’t gain twenty pounds overnight. I mean, how much food can a man put in his mouth at one time? It is the small things. It is bite by bite that we put on weight.

Now, you see, small things have a force for good or for evil. Now, think of those who have been faithful in small things and God gave them force in big things. For example, I mentioned David here a while back. Before David became Israel’s greatest king, he was a shepherd, and he was faithful to his flock as a shepherd boy. And, because David was faithful as a shepherd boy, God gave him an entire nation to shepherd. And then, as a shepherd boy, one time he killed a lion and a bear—no small thing, but it was a small thing compared to Goliath. And, before David went up against Goliath, David had already gone up against a lion and a bear. Now folks, I don’t know what kind of a battle or what kind of a Goliath is going to come against me or against you, but I want to be ready. And, the way to be ready is to be faithful in the small things.

I think of Timothy. Timothy, who was Paul’s protégé, and Paul was his mentor—Timothy was faithful in service to Paul. And, later on, he took Paul’s place—faithful in the small things.

I think in the Bible about Elisha, who poured water on the hands of Elijah. You know what that means? He was his valet. He just stood there with a basin and poured water while Elijah washed his hands. And, Elisha became the successor to Elijah and was used mightily with a double portion of the Spirit of God.

I don’t know how many preacher boys we have here tonight, but we have some Mid-America students who are here. I want to say to you Mid-America students—and I want you to listen to me—I have known men too big for God to use. I have never known a man too small for God to use. God uses small things. And, if you are big in your own sight, I doubt very seriously that God can use you.

Now, I want to say this about small things: When I say, “Despise not the day of small things,” and when I say that God can use faith as small as a mustard seed, God is not saying that we ought to do small things when we can do big things. It is a sin to neglect the small things. It is a sin to do only small things when you could do big things and should be doing bigger and better things.

Soon Bellevue Baptist Church is going to celebrate her centennial. Next year is our centennial year. Bellevue Baptist Church began as a handful of people on Bellevue Avenue in Midtown Memphis, Tennessee, which was then in the outskirts of Memphis, Tennessee—a handful of people, small. I wonder what those people would think if they could be transported here to this campus today. But, thank God that they began small. But, they had a vision, and this church has always had a vision to do big things.

And, I think of the early church. It started as a small entity. And, I did a little research there in the book of Acts. For example, it began with the twelve. And, Jesus chose twelve, and, of course, one of them was a hypocrite. And then, in Acts chapter 1 and verse 15, we learn that those twelve had become 120. (Acts 1:15) That is pretty good growth. But then, in Acts chapter 2, verse 41, we learn that added to the twelve, and then they are 120, that three thousand souls came to know the Lord Jesus Christ. (Acts 2:41) And so, that equals 3,120 souls. And, Brother David, Acts chapter 2, verse 47 says more were being added to the church daily. (Acts 2:47) They didn’t wait until Sunday to grow. And then, in Acts chapter 4 and verse 4, we read that five thousand men, plus women and children, families—that would be twenty thousand if you add the women and children, say, a wife and two children—so that makes the early church there in just a few months with twenty-five thousand members. (Acts 4:4) And then, in Acts chapter 5, the Bible says they filled Jerusalem. (Acts 5:28) And then, in Acts chapter 6, verse 7, the Bible says that the number of the disciples was multiplied. (Acts 6:7) They are not adding any more; they are multiplying. And, the church is growing exponentially. One Bible scholar said that the church had a membership in excess of 250,000 in six months.

People ask me, you know, “How big will Bellevue be when it is big enough?” Bellevue will be big enough when all six billion people on earth know the Lord Jesus Christ. You know, if we reach this community, we are going to have to have a lot of Bellevues. If we reach our world, we are going to have to have a lot of Bellevues. There is nothing wrong with a small church. I have pastored small churches. I love them. There is something wrong with any church that is not growing if it is in an area where there are unsaved people. And, I want Bellevue to grow. So, if we are faithful in that which is least, we will be faithful in that which is much. And, it will be a matter of fruitfulness. It will be a matter of faithfulness. It will be a matter of forcefulness.

Now, God wants us to grow. Listen to John 15, verse 2: Jesus said, “Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it”—that means “he prunes it”—“that it may bring forth more fruit.” (John 15:2) God is interested in growth. When I interview a staff member for Bellevue Baptist Church, there are two things I want them to have. If they don’t have these, I don’t want them. Well, I don’t want them on our staff. I will love them, but I will say, “Shoo, get away.” Number one: I want them to have a heart for God. I want them to have a burning, blazing, passionate, emotional love for Jesus Christ. If they don’t have that, I don’t care what else they have. Number two: I want them to have an ambition for growth. I want them to have an expansive mind. I want them to see things grow, because Jesus said, “I have called you, and ordained you, that you should go and bring forth fruit.” (John 15:16)

And, if you want to glorify God—John chapter 15 and verse 8: “Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples” (John 15:8)—much fruit.

Now, if you are one of these that yawns during the invitation and you are not concerned about reaping the fruit, seeing souls saved, there is nothing wrong with you that a good dose of salvation or an old-fashioned revival wouldn’t cure. Now, we don’t despise small things. But, when you are faithful in that which is least, you will be faithful in that which is much.

I read this statistic—I have not done the arithmetic; I assume it is true—that if we would start with one Christian, and that one Christian would win one person a year and teach his disciple to do the same, and that one teach his disciples to do the same, in thirty years, there would be twenty-five million born again, beginning with just one Christian. Now friend, we don’t have twenty-five million Southern Baptists in the whole wide world. I have been here for thirty years. Who should not be able to win one soul a year and teach that soul to reproduce him or herself? You see, Christianity has not necessarily failed; it has just not ever been tried. Jesus said you are going to bring forth fruit. A wise man once said, “Any fool can count the seeds in an apple. Only God can count the apples in a seed.” Because, when we teach the principle of multiplication now, we need to think small. But, it is a shame—it is a shame—for us to be doing small things when we could be doing big things.

Dr. Lee—bless his memory—came to this church in 1927, had a great sermon. Some of you old-timers heard Dr. Lee preach that sermon called “Chasing Fleas.”
Morris Mills, are you back there? Lift your hand. Yes. Did you hear Dr. Lee ever preach that sermon on chasing fleas? I am sure you did. I think it is in the book called Bread from Bellevue’s Oven. And, the text was 1 Samuel chapter 24 and verse 14. It says, “After whom is the king of Israel come out? after whom dost thou pursue? after a dead dog, after a flea.” (1 Samuel 24:14) David is talking to Saul and said, “Saul, why are you bothering yourself with such a small insignificant thing? Why are you chasing fleas? There are better things to do.” And, here is what Dr. Lee said: “A king who had a crown, a scepter, and a throne; a king who had an army at his command, doing what? Chasing a flea. Wasting great energies on cheap trivialities. Despising great opportunities. Dishonoring himself with cheap littleness. A king shooting a cannon at sparrows, charging anthills with drawn swords, fishing for minnows with an anchor hook.” And then, Dr. Lee warned against becoming slaves to small anxieties, and small ideas, and small ambitions.

What made me think of that is an article I read in the paper a while back. It talked about some whales that were beached in San Diego. And, people tried to free these whales, but they had run ashore and they had run aground. And, they couldn’t get them off the beach, and the whales died on the beach. And, what the whales did that got them in that difficulty—they were chasing minnows. Chasing minnows, they beached themselves. And, the headline of the article that I read said this: “Giants Perish While Chasing Minnows.” God forbid that this wonderful church will ever perish by chasing minnows!

What a mighty God we serve! And, I challenge you, I charge you, I admonish you to be faithful in the small things, but never ever fritter away our time chasing minnows, things that do not matter. There is a lost world out there. God has given us so much, and I pray God that we will learn to appreciate the small things, and therefore we will do big things. Don’t minimize small things. That which is despised among men is highly esteemed with God.

Conclusion

And, I want to say also that the highest place is not necessarily the biggest place, and the greatest ministers are not always in the biggest pulpits. Some of God’s greatest preachers are in crossroads churches, overworked, unpaid, underappreciated. But, God knows their name. And, I want to say also that whatever you do, whether it is a small gift, a widow’s mite, a cup of water, if you do it in the name of Jesus, no gift is small if it is given in obedience and love. And, if you have faith like a grain of mustard seed, plant that faith. And, I am telling you that in God’s will, in that mustard seed are thousands—yea, millions—of mustard seeds. And again, the least amount of faith is greater than the greatest amount of difficulty.

Introduction

Would you take God’s Word and find Matthew chapter 18? And when you’ve found it, just look up here for just a moment. In a moment, we’re going to begin reading in verse 15.
I was driving down the highway one day, and Paul Harvey was talking. And he has little witticisms and things that he says, and he said that there was an ad that appeared in a Midwestern newspaper that said this, or something like this: “Will the party or parties who, on two different occasions, cut my fence, trespassed on my property, and killed some of my cows, please come back just one more time?” What do you do when somebody trespasses against you? Do you invite them back so you can shoot them?

Well, look in verse 15: “Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more”—“one or two more”—“that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican. Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. And if he shall neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican. Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until seventy times seven.” (Matthew 18:15–22)

I want to talk to you tonight about how to heal broken relationships. And I think all of us who’ve been in the service of our dear Savior for very long have had somebody who has wronged us, who has trespassed against us.

I. A Painful Problem
And it is a very painful problem. Actually, the word to sin is hamartia, which literally means “to miss the mark” or “to be out of bounds” or “to trespass.” Now, this is a painful problem. When somebody sins against another person, trespasses against that person, and a relationship is broken, a fellowship is severed. Now, let me tell you why it’s such a painful problem.

A. Sin Disgraces the Father
First of all, it disgraces God the Father.

☞ My daddy had a brother who had never visited our home. That brother lived in Denver. And one day he was going to be in West Palm Beach, Florida, and visit in our home. Mother had stayed up that night to cook a turkey, and I had to sleep in a bed with my grown brother. Both of us by this time were big boys. I was playing football, and he’d come back from the Army. We were sleeping on one narrow bed because we had company in the house and the other bed was given to the company. And my brother rolled over in the middle of the night and pulled the blanket off of me. And I rolled over and pulled it back off of him. And then he gave me a knee, and I gave him an elbow. And it was dark in that room, but two grown boys were up there in a fistfight in the middle of the night. And I'm sorry to tell you this, folks, but that's the kind of preacher you've got. And we were in a fistfight, making a ruckus.

Mamma was up late at night basting that turkey. She threw open the door and turned on the light. And boy, that time, my brother had a big mouse up here on his eyebrow, and the blood was coming down, just like that, down his cheek. She looked at me. She had a basting spoon about that long in her hand. And she said, “Look what you've done to your brother!” I said, “Mamma, he started it.” She said, “You be quiet,” and she hit me with that spoon right up here. And she hit me with the side of it and left a crescent mark right up there, a cut right up there, on my head. And when she saw that, she reached up and hit the back of her hand, like, “Oh, look what I've done to Adrian!”

Folks, it was a bad night. The next morning, when we came to breakfast, my brother came to breakfast with a great big knot upon his head, and I had this half-moon scar on my head. There was my daddy's brother, first time in our home, looking across the table at us. My father was mortified; my mother, humiliated—and well they ought to have been. I wonder if there’s not shame in heaven over the way some of God's children act. I mean, we shame God the Father when we don't get along as brothers and sisters.

B. Sin Discourages the Faithful
It disgraces the Father. It also discourages the faithful. There’s nothing worse than being in a church where there’s not harmony, nothing sweeter than being in a church where there is harmony. “Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!” (Psalms 133:1) Our Lord Jesus, in John chapter 17, prayed, “Lord, that they might be one, that the world might believe that you’ve sent me.” (John 17:21) Did you know that our unity is a form of evangelism?

C. Sin Delights the Foe
But not only does it disgrace the Father, and not only does it discourage the faithful, but it delights the foe. Oh, how Satan loves to see brothers and sisters who cannot get along! The cause of Christ is hurt more by church squabbles and fusses, I believe, than by false doctrine. So I'm certainly not making it easy for false doctrine, but I'm just simply saying that this thing is a perplexing problem.

II. A Proper Perspective
Now, if you're going to solve that problem, you're going to have to get a proper perspective. Look, if you will, in verse 15: “Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.” (Matthew 18:15) Now, when I’m talking about a proper perspective, I want to mention three things.

A. Consider the Relationship

The very first thing you need to do is to consider your relationship to this person who has sinned against you. He is your brother. He’s speaking here using masculine terms, but it could well be a sister. But what this literally means is “somebody out of the same womb.” That’s what the word brother literally means: somebody that has come out of the womb of grace, somebody who, along with you, calls God “Father.” And you need to consider that relationship.

“Well,” you say, “maybe he’s not a brother. Maybe he’s never really been saved. Maybe he just has his name on a church roll.” Well, if he’s not a brother, then he’s lost and he’s blind; he’s on the road to hell; he all the more deserves your pity and your prayer. But if he is a brother, then to harm him is to harm you because you’re both not only brother and sister, or sister and sister, but you are members of the same body. So just consider that relationship. No matter what an individual does or no matter how they trespass against us, they are to be loved.

Put these verses down. First John chapter 3, verse 16: “Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren”—“we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.” (1 John 3:16) And listen to Galatians chapter 6, verse 10: “As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially [those] of the household of faith.” (Galatians 6:10)

B. Consider the Responsibility

So, when you’re getting this proper perspective, first of all, consider the relationship: this is a brother. Now secondly, consider the responsibility. Look, again, if you will, in verse 15. He says that “if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.” (Matthew 18:15) Every failing Christian is another Christian’s responsibility. When one brother fails, it’s up to another brother, another sister, to lift him up, because the Bible says in Galatians chapter 6 and verse 1: “Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.” (Galatians 6:1) So, consider your relationship, and consider your responsibility. If somebody trespasses against you, it is your responsibility to try to make it right.

C. Consider Yourself

And when you consider your relationship and you consider your responsibility, how important it is for you to consider yourself! Listen to Galatians 6:1: “If a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself.” (Galatians 6:1)

Now, how do you consider yourself? Well, you have to ask yourself, if you’re trying to straighten somebody else out, are you sinning in a similar area? The Apostle Paul wrote in Romans chapter 2, verses 1 through 3—listen to this: “Therefore thou art inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou art that judgest: for wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest doest the same things. But we are sure that the judgment of God is according to truth against them which commit such things. And thinkest thou this, O man, that judgest them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?” (Romans 2:1–3) I mean, how dare we go to anybody and try and straighten anybody out if we ourselves are failing likewise?

And then we have to consider also, have we been praying for this individual who sinned against us? Now, Samuel said in 1 Samuel 12, verse 23: “God forbid that I should sin against the LORD in ceasing to pray for you.” (1 Samuel 12:23) And we have to ask ourselves about the individual that we want to go straighten out, have we set a good example before him? Are we ourselves an example in that area? Hebrews 12, verse 13: “Make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way.” (Hebrews 12:13) That is, if you don’t walk straight, somebody else is liable to be turned out of the way.

III. A Prescribed Procedure
All right, we’ve talked about a problem. We talked about a perspective. Let’s talk about a procedure. What is the prescribed procedure if somebody trespasses against you?

A. Visitation
Well, first of all, you go see them. You lovingly visit and confront them. Look in verse 15: “Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone.” (Matthew 18:15) How are you to visit him?

1. Visit Privately
You visit him privately. Somebody sins against you, you don’t tell another soul on this earth. You go to that individual; don’t tell anybody else. Well, why should you not tell somebody else? Well, they might take up an offense, and the Bible says that it’s wrong for people to take up an offense. Proverbs chapter 16, verse 28: “A froward man soweth strife: and a whisperer separateth chief friends.” (Proverbs 16:28) And Proverbs 25 and verse 9 says, “Debate thy cause with thy neighbour himself; and discover not a secret to another.” (Proverbs 25:9)
Now, if Jim Whitmire sins against me, I go to Jim. Or if I perceive that Jim has sinned against me, I go to him. I don't need to tell Bob Sorrell. I don't need to tell anybody else. I go to Jim, and I speak to Jim alone about it. Why do I do this? Well, maybe Jim didn’t really sin against me. Maybe I just thought he did. Maybe I’m wrong in my facts. And sometimes we can be wrong.

I may have told you about the little boy who went to a birthday party. His mother said, “If you misbehave, I’ve asked Ms. Jones to send you home, and you’ll get a spanking when you get home.” He hadn’t been gone ten minutes before Ms. Jones came walking him back to the house. She snatched him up and spanked him and said, “Now, what did you do wrong?” He said, “I didn’t do nothing wrong. That party ain’t ’til tomorrow.”

Now, sometimes we just assume things that are not true. And so, if I go to an individual, and I confront him, and he says, “Now Adrian, that’s what you think; but now, let me give you the facts…”

2. Visit Lovingly
I am to visit him privately, and I am to visit him lovingly. The greatest test of love for a brother is, are you willing to confront him if and when he does wrong? Proverbs 27, verses 5 and 6: “Open rebuke is better than secret love. Faithful are the wounds of a friend; but the kisses of an enemy are deceitful.” (Proverbs 27:5–6) Now, when you go to this brother, this sister, you don’t go to tell him off. The Bible tells us clearly, in verse 15, that we’re there to gain our brother. (Matthew 18:15) You go to win him, not to condemn him.

Now, if somebody sins against you and somebody trespasses against you, do you know what human nature is? Human nature is this: human nature says, “He sinned against me. If he wants me to forgive him, let him come to me.” Isn’t that what human nature says? “If he comes to me and asks me to forgive him, I’ll forgive him. But am I to go to him and seek him out?” Absolutely! “Why?” Because the Bible says we’re to be “kind…tenderhearted, forgiving one another”—how?—“as God for Christ’s sake [forgave us].” (Ephesians 4:32) I want to ask you a question: Did God come and seek you out? Indeed, He did. We love Him why? Because He first loved us. “God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners…” (Romans 5:8) Now, if somebody sins against us, we do not have the luxury of waiting for them to come to us. We go to them. And the Bible is very clear about this.

3. Visit Humbly
So how, in this thing of visitation, how do we do it? We visit him privately. We visit him lovingly. We visit him humbly. Again, in Galatians chapter 6, verse 1, he says, “If a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.” (Galatians 6:1) When you’re trying to straighten somebody else out, you’d better pray a whole lot, and make certain that you go very humbly because you yourself are not perfect.

B. Restoration
So, what do we do? First of all, there is visitation, and hopefully there is restoration, because verse 15 says, “If he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.” (Matthew 18:15)

1. Forgive Freely
Now, Simon Peter, who was listening to all of this, got to thinking of all of that. And evidently, Simon Peter had been sinned against by some fellow quite a bit. And this guy kept coming back to Simon Peter and saying, “Simon, I'm sorry.” Or maybe Simon had been going to him and confronting him, and he’d been confessing and repenting and saying he was sorry. So, Simon wants to know, “Where are the limits?” Go down to verse 21: “Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times?” (Matthew 18:21) Remember the sermon the other night? Seven, being the perfect number—“Till seven times?” (Matthew 18:21) Evidently, there must be some limit. And I think what Peter was thinking: “The more a person sins, the less possibility there is for forgiveness.” I mean, after a while, you get saturated with this thing. You say, “That’s it!” Peter is wondering where that is. What the Lord says is, “This is not a matter of mathematics. When you’re considering forgiveness, forget the arithmetic.” And so Jesus says, “No. Seventy times seven.” And what Jesus meant when He said, “seventy times seven,” I thoroughly believe, is, “You forgive him to infinity. If he repents, then you forgive him, not seven times, but until seventy times seven.”

2. Forgive Fully
That’s a very interesting thing, because the truth of the matter is, if you forgave him one time, and you truly forgave him, then that sin is gone. It is dissolved. It is obliterated. You forgive him the next time—that sin is gone, forgiven, obliterated, buried in the grave of God’s forgetfulness. And if that is true, you’re not keeping a record; so every time you forgive him, it’s really the first time. It’s the first time. It’s not the seventh time or the eighth time because the other times don’t count. They’re gone. You’re not keeping score. Love does not keep a record. So you forgive that brother freely before it becomes an infection. You forgive him fully.

By the way, if you go to a person and ask for forgiveness, make sure it’s forgiveness that you get, because a proud person will say, “Oh, that didn’t matter. That’s all right. Forget it.” Say, “No, I want you to forgive me.” Don’t just take his shrug and say, “It doesn’t matter.” It does matter, for your sake and for his sake, that there be some closure. And if he just says, “Oh, just forget it,” forgetting comes as a result of forgiveness, and there can be no forgetting until the slate is clean.

3. Forgive Finally
And don’t be sloppy when it comes to getting forgiveness. Forgive freely, forgive fully, and forgive finally. I mean bury it in the grave of God’s forgetfulness. We are to forgive one another “even as God for Christ’s sake hath forgiven [us].” (Ephesians 4:32)

C. Confirmation
Well, that brings up a problem. What if the individual will not hear you, as frequently is the case? He might say, “I did not do wrong. I don’t owe you an apology. I don’t need forgiveness.” Or he might say, “I’m doing wrong. So what? Get out of my face.” Then what do you do? Well, you have to get some confirmation. First of all, there’s visitation, then restoration. But what if that doesn’t work? Then you get confirmation. So you get some people to go back with you. Look in verse 16: “But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more”—“one or two more”—“that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.” (Matthew 18:16) So, you need to get somebody to confirm what’s going on.

Now, the Bible makes it very clear that two or more are necessary to witness and to confirm something, because you could be wrong and he could be right. We all have blind spots. I have some. If I knew where they were, they wouldn’t be blind spots. We all have them. And so, it’s good, if we can’t get this thing done, to bring somebody else there for some confirmation. Now, this is not the Baptist Gestapo, these that you’re bringing. They are to come, not to witness against him, but to witness to him, to try to win this individual back.

D. Confrontation
Well, suppose he turns a deaf ear to these. Suppose he stonewalls these. You’ve gone to him privately. You have gone to him humbly. You’ve gone to him lovingly. He won’t hear you. You take some godly friends back with you. They confirm that he’s done wrong, and he won’t hear them. Then, after visitation and confirmation, then what do you do? Well, then you tell it to the church. It gets more and more serious. Look in verse 17: “And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church.” (Matthew 18:17) Now, this is getting very serious. The matter now is brought to God’s leadership there in the church. And this individual is confronted with spiritual leadership. Again, the desire is not to condemn him, not to expose him, but to reclaim him. This ought to cause an individual who is challenged now by the church to go into deep self-examination. And the church ought to examine and say, “Have we truly ministered to this individual? Have we prayed for him or her? Have we lovingly entreated this individual?”
E. Excommunication

Well, suppose he will not hear the church. Then what happens? Well, he must be excommunicated, put out of the church. Look, if you will, at the last part of verse 17: “But if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican.” (Matthew 18:17) It doesn’t say, “Republican”; it says, “publican.” Publicans were the tax collectors of that day, and they were, most of them, dishonest people. And it was an epithet, almost a word synonymous with a shyster, a charlatan, a crook. A heathen man was a man outside the household of faith. That is, he needs to be told, “We’re sorry, my friend, but you cannot continue to live that way, to disgrace the Father, to distress the faithful, to delight the foe. You cannot do that and be in communion with this church.” And the Apostle Paul wrote in 2 Thessalonians chapter 3, verses 14 and 15: “And if any man obey not our word by this epistle, note that man, and have no company with him, that he may be ashamed. Yet count him not as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother.” (2 Thessalonians 3:14–15) Don’t just keep fellowshipping him. Don’t let him feel that he’s still in the communion, in the fellowship. Admonish him. Love him. Pray for him. But don’t let him continue to disgrace God.

In the Corinthian church there was a man who was living in incest; actually, he was sleeping with his father’s wife. I take it to mean by that language, when it doesn’t say his mother, but his father’s wife, that this was his stepmother. It was a terrible thing. Paul said, “Why, we don’t even see the heathen acting that way.” Here was a man, a member of the Corinthian church, and Paul said in 1 Corinthians chapter 5, verse 5: “To deliver such an one unto Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus.” (1 Corinthians 5:5) Now, what that meant—“to deliver him to Satan”—was to take away that umbrella of protection. And he’s excommunicated, he is turned out, not because we don’t love him, but because we do love him. We’re talking about the destruction of the flesh here; we’re talking about, actually, his physical body, or that carnal fleshly nature. It could be one or the other. It could be both.

Paul had another man that he dealt with, and two of them, Hymenaeus and Alexander. First Timothy 1, verse 20: “Of whom is Hymenaeus and Alexander; whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.” (1 Timothy 1:20) They had been members of the fellowship, but they had been living now in spiritual sin, blasphemy. So we are to excommunicate, or to put out of the fellowship.

Now, this is to be done as the last resort. It is not, if we find somebody who has failed, that we’re to put them out of the fellowship. I mean, people—all people—fail. You do, don’t you? Nod your head. I see some of you not nodding. You do, don’t you? Nod your head.

One man said he was so distressed with evil in the world today he got to talking with God, and he said to God, “God, why don’t you destroy these evil people?” And God said, “All right, I will. I’ll start with you.” That is what he imagined hearing God say: “I’ll start with you.”

I mean, all of us, even the best of us, fail. And a church is not a museum of saints; it’s a hospital for sinners. Romans 14:1, in a paraphrase, says, “Receive a brother into the church, even if he scarcely believes Christ can save him.” (Romans 14:1) And we ought to take babes in Christ; weak, stumbling people; people who fail; people who get into sin, and love them, confront them, help them, build them up—not exclude them. They need the church. But what this is talking about is a recalcitrant person, a stubborn person, an obdurate person, a person who says, “No, I will not change. This is my chosen way. This is my lifestyle. I repudiate this love. I am stubbornly set in my own way. I will not hear a brother who’s come to me. I will not hear a committee that’s come to me. I will not hear the church that has challenged me.” And we say with a broken heart, “We’re sorry, brother. We’re sorry”—“We’re sorry, my sister. We’re sorry”—“but you cannot continue to live that way and be in the fellowship of this church. We count you as a heathen.”

Well, what do you do with a heathen? You love them and try to win them to Christ. It doesn’t mean that we’re not concerned about this individual. We love them and try and win them to Christ, but we do not let them poison the fellowship. We don’t let them hurt and distort the cause of Christ.

And so, if there’s somebody that has sinned against you, don’t make it a matter of gossip. Don’t come and tell me what some church member has done wrong. Go to that individual. Pray. Consider yourself. Go lovingly, humbly, gently, and try to win your brother. And if he won’t hear you, get a few trusted friends, spiritually mature people, and go back. And if he won’t hear them—she won’t hear them—then bring it to the church, and the church must confront. And if they won’t hear the church, it would break our heart, but we would have to treat them as though they’ve never met and known the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ and attempt with all of our heart to win them to Christ.

Conclusion

I say that to say this. Some years ago, I told our deacons that I was not satisfied with the way that we’re practicing church discipline. We do practice church discipline, and we have practiced it, and we will continue to practice it. And we’re trying to find even better ways to practice church discipline in our church because what we want is a holy church, amen? We want a holy church. We don’t want a church where we think we’re better than other people. We don’t want a church that has no room for those who have fallen and are hurting. We want to help those kinds of people. But we want a church that, when we say, “O God, bless America, and send revival to America,” God won’t have to say to us, “Why don’t you clean up your own act, first of all? And why do you allow, and why do you countenance, things that I have clearly and forbidden in my Word?” So we’re going to be coming to you shortly with a plan that we’d like for you to know about that will help you, to encourage you, to deal with people that you’re burdened about, brothers or sisters that trespass.

Now, you may or may not know that we already have in our church an arbitration committee. Sometimes people—good people—just fall out. They need a third party to listen. We do that. Wonderful things have happened through arbitration here in the church. So I just wanted you to know this so you’ll be praying about it, and let you know that the one thing I don’t want in this church is a sanctimonious group of people who are a self-appointed one-person sin-seeker committee trying to find fault in other people. That’s not what we want. We want to help those who are struggling and those who are fallen. But we do, on the other hand, want our church to set some standards and hew to those standards.

You know, so many churches today, rather than being a sheepfold, they become a zoo, where everybody gets in, and nobody gets out. So we just want you to know this and to be praying with us about it, and you’ll be hearing even more about it later on.

Introduction

Find Matthew chapter 18, and while you’re finding it, I remind you there was an evangelist who was the Billy Graham of his day, Dwight L. Moody. Moody did not have a seminary education, but he had a great mind and a penetrating insight into the things of God and human nature. Dwight L. Moody said, “I believe that the sin that is causing Christians more difficulty than any other is the sin of an unforgiving spirit.” And, he said he believed that that sin, more than any other sin, was holding back the power of God in prayer in the hearts and lives of people. Now, I cannot prove that he is right. I think, most likely, he is. But, for him to even say that means that forgiveness is a problem that many people have not properly dealt with. Perhaps tonight your heart is harboring some heartache or some hurt that somebody has given to you and you don’t know how to deal with it.
Well, I want you to find in Matthew chapter 18 a story that the Lord Jesus told, and I’m going to begin reading in verse 21: “Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until seventy times seven. Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants. And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand talents”—now, how much is that? Well, the Bible that I have says here in the margin that if that were silver it would be $52,800,000. Now, if that is true, Jesus must have said that with a twinkle in His eye, because that was more than the entire taxes of the nation for that year—“But forasmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made. The servant therefore fell down, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. Then the lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt. But the same servant went out, and found one of his fellowservants, which owed him an hundred pence: and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay me what thou owest”—and the margin of the Scripture that I have right here, the notes say that was about forty-four dollars. Now, there’s a vast difference, I submit, between fifty-two million dollars and forty-four dollars—“And his fellowservant fell down at his feet, and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. And he would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt. So when his fellowservants saw what was done, they were very sorry, and came and told unto their lord all that was done. Then his lord, after that he had called him, said unto him, O thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me: shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellowservant, even as I had pity on thee? And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, that he should pay all that was due unto him. So likewise shall my heavenly Father also unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their trespasses.” (Matthew 18:21–35)

Now, let me say that many people in this building and outside this building who are listening by radio are chained in a prison. And, some are chained there by the chains of guilt, and others are chained by the chains of bitterness. Now, those who are chained by the chains of guilt are chained there because they have done wrong and they have not yet gotten forgiveness. Those who are chained by bitterness are chained in a prison, not because they have done wrong and have not yet gotten forgiveness, but somebody has wronged them and they have not forgiven that individual. And, I want to speak to those who may not yet have forgiven somebody who has wronged you, and I want to say that bitterness is a terrible prison. I believe that bitterness has caused murders. It has caused wars. It has caused divided churches. It has caused divorces.
And, we need to learn how to deal with bitterness. We need to learn how to forgive one another.

Now, one of God’s greatest gifts to us is forgiveness. Thank God He has forgiven us. Thank God for His grace that forgives us. Now, to forgive literally means “to release a debt.” When we sin, we sin against God, and heaven has sued us for damages. There’s a debt that we cannot pay. When forgiveness comes, the debt is cancelled. If, for example, you owe me a thousand dollars, and you cannot pay, and I say, “I forgive the debt,” it cost me a thousand dollars to forgive that debt. There are no free pardons. Forgiveness costs. The forgiver forgives the forgivee, and the forgiver pays the debt. And so, there are no cheap forgivenesses. When the Lord Jesus Christ forgave us, it was not cheap. Although our forgiveness was free, there was a price paid. For example, Ephesians chapter 1, verse 7 says: “In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace.” (Ephesians 1:7)

Remember what we said? Grace is “God’s riches at Christ’s expense.” It cost the precious blood of Jesus for God to forgive us.

I. The Reasons for Forgiveness

Now, I want you to think of somebody who has wronged you. And, if you are harboring a hurt in your heart—there’s somebody who’s done you wrong, truly done you wrong—and you’ve not settled that thing in your heart, I want to give you tonight some compelling reasons why you ought to forgive that individual.

A. We Should Forgive One Another, Because God Has Forgiven Us

Now, first of all, we ought to forgive one another because God has so willingly forgiven us. That’s what this parable is all about. We’re the ones that had the fifty-two-million-dollar debt, and God, in the riches of His mercy, forgave us. Now, if God has forgiven me, then I ought to forgive you. Ephesians 4 and verse 32 says: “Be ye kind…tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ’s sake hath forgiven you.” (Ephesians 4:32)

I received a letter some time ago from a woman who was in the hospital here in Memphis. She was from Rome, Georgia. She said, “I was away from home over here. I needed surgery. Some young men from your church who did not even know me came to the hospital and donated blood on my behalf, and they left a note.” And, here’s what the note said: “We gave our blood for you because Jesus gave His blood for us.” Wasn’t that beautiful? “We gave our blood for you, because Jesus gave His blood for us.” I don’t know who those young men are, but I can tell you, that was a wonderful testimony.

I want to say that I need to give forgiveness to you because Jesus gave forgiveness to me. That’s the reason, number one, that we ought to forgive.

B. If You Do Not Forgive, You Shut Out the Forgiveness of God
Number two—here’s another reason you ought to forgive: If you do not forgive, you shut out the forgiveness of God. Jesus says in the Sermon on the Mount, in Matthew chapter 6, verses 14 and 15: “If you don’t forgive men their trespasses against you, neither will your Heavenly Father forgive you your trespasses against Him.” (Matthew 6:15) Now, in plain English, an unforgiving spirit is unforgivable. As long as you have an unforgiving spirit in your heart, you cannot get the forgiveness of God. You, in a very real sense, destroy the very bridge over which you must travel. How dangerous it is to fail to forgive one another! The only person who can afford not to forgive is the person who never ever really needs forgiveness.

C. An Unforgiving Spirit Will Do Us Great Emotional Damage
Let me give you a third reason that we ought to forgive: we ought to forgive because if we don’t forgive, the unforgiving spirit that we have will do us great, great emotional damage. The Bible calls this unforgiving spirit “bitterness,” and bitterness is an acid that destroys its container. So many times, people don’t want to forgive because they feel that they ought to take revenge; they feel that they ought to get even. And, as I’ve told you many times, that’s exactly the wrong thing to do, is to get even, because some live on the hellish level, and that is to return evil for good; some live on a human level—that is, to return good for good and evil for evil; and some live on the highest level, the heavenly level, and that is to return good for evil rather than evil for evil, or good for good, or even good for evil. So, there are three levels of life: there’s the heavenly level, the human level, and the hellish level.

Now, if you’re up here right with God and living with God, and somebody sins against you, and you say, “I’m going to get even,” what do you do? You lower yourself. You come to their level when you get even. You see, why not just continue to hate? Because hate will boomerang on you. It will come back to you. It is an acid that will destroy its container. Not only do you forgive an individual for their sake, but you forgive an individual for your sake. Now, that’s very hard to human nature, because if somebody has truly hurt you—I mean, truly hurt you—human nature doesn’t want to let them off the hook. But, what you don’t understand is that you also are on the hook. When you forgive, you set a prisoner free and discover that that prisoner is you.

D. Forgiveness Destroys a Broken Fellowship
Now, here’s another reason that you ought to forgive: not only has God forgiven you; not only is an unforgiving spirit unforgivable; not only does an unforgiving spirit eat you like a canker, like a cancer, like an acid to destroy you; but when you do forgive, forgiveness restores a broken fellowship. If there’s a person that you have an unforgiving spirit to, you have a broken fellowship. That’s the reason Jesus said in Matthew chapter 18, verse 15: “Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.” (Matthew 18:15) Again, Matthew 5, verse 24—Jesus is talking about bringing your gift to the church, and He says, if, when you’re there, you recognize that there’s a broken relationship between you and a brother, He says, “Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.” (Matthew 5:24)

“A brother is a very precious thing. I had a brother—not a brother in the flesh, but a dear brother, preacher brother, that I loved very much and still do love very much. He wronged me. He did something that was wrong. He ought not to have done it. And, there was something that rose up in me that said, “I’m finished with him. I can’t trust him. He’s been dishonest.” And then, I thought to myself, “Now, why should I do that? I love this man. He is a brother. I refuse to let his mistake ruin what has been a good relationship.” I prayed about it, gave it to God, went and restored the relationship, and today that man—I’ll not tell you his name—is a precious brother and a friend.

“Well,” you say, “what if the man who has wronged me is not a brother?” Well, he is still a potential brother. Now, if he is not a brother, he’s a potential brother, and if you have an unforgiving spirit toward him, then what chance do you have to bring him to Christ? Would you let your sense of revenge, the attempt to get evil, cut off an opportunity to bring him to the Lord Jesus Christ? Let me tell you about the person who has wronged you: that person who has wronged you is more than a person who has hurt you; he is a person who needs you.

II. The Requirements for Forgiveness

Now, these are reasons to forgive, and they are all Bible reasons. Now, those are the reasons, but let me talk to you about the requirements. Remember what I told you that forgiveness costs? The king, it cost him fifty-eight million dollars or whatever the number was, when he forgave. It cost him 52,800,000 dollars, according to the margin here, to forgive. And, when God forgave us, it cost the silver of Jesus’ tears and the gold of His blood. Forgiveness is costly. Jesus is the model for our forgiveness. “Be ye kind…tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ’s sake hath forgiven [us].” (Ephesians 4:32) Now, how should you forgive? Listen to me.

A. Forgive Freely

First of all, forgive freely. Have you ever wronged a person and needed forgiveness, and after they stuck the knife in and twisted it, after they berated you, after they castigated you, after they scorned you, after they excoriated you, after they whipped you up and down and poured salt in the wound, finally they said, “Well, that’s okay; I’ll forgive you”? I feel like saying, “Never mind. I’ve already paid.” No. Forgive freely, not after you’ve collected your revenge. And, forgive freely before the wound gets infected. Cleanse it quickly. That’s what Jesus did. And, as a matter of fact, when Jesus was on the cross, while they were crucifying Him, Jesus was praying for their forgiveness. We should be so anxious to forgive people that, not only do we forgive them if they come to us and ask forgiveness, but we should literally seek them out to forgive them.

In this same chapter, go back to verse 15 and look at it: “Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.” (Matthew 18:15) Now, don’t go to tell him off; go to get him back. Go to gain your brother. Do it freely. Take the initiative. Is there somebody who has wronged you? I challenge you, in the name of Jesus, to say, “I will go to that person. I will not wait for that person to come to me.”

B. Forgive Fully
Not only forgive freely, but forgive fully. Don’t forgive half-heartedly. Don’t pretend, “Oh, it didn’t matter.” If a person says to you, “Would you forgive me?” and you say, “Well, that’s no big deal. Don’t worry about it,” no, that’s not forgiveness. The reason we say that it’s not a big deal and not to worry about it is our pride. We don’t want to admit how deeply we have been hurt. Don’t ever let a person say that if you come to that individual for forgiveness and they say, “Never mind, just forget it.” No, it cannot be forgotten until it is cleansed. And, if somebody asks you to forgive them, don’t just act big and magnanimous. Truly forgive them. Make sure it is forgiveness that you get. Don’t merely apologize if you’ve done wrong. Ask an individual, in the name of Jesus, to forgive you.

C. Forgive Finally
Forgive freely. Forgive fully. And, forgive finally. Once you forgive, bury it in the grave of God’s forgetfulness and don’t bring it up again. It costs to forgive. You have to taste a little bit of Calvary when you forgive, and the way to do that is to let the Spirit of the Lord Jesus be in you. It is not in me by nature. By nature, I want to get even. By nature, I want to strike back. But it is only when the nature of Jesus Christ has free reign in my heart that I can truly forgive.

This brings up a real question. Peter asked the question, “How often shall I forgive my brother?” (Matthew 18:21) Notice in verse 21: “Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until seventy times seven.” (Matthew 18:21–22) Now, that’s Matthew, but I want you to put in your margin “Luke chapter 17”—and Jesus is speaking on the same subject—“verses 3 and 4”: “Take heed to yourselves: If thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him—now, notice this—“and if he repent, forgive him. And if he trespass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him.” (Luke 17:3–4)

What if somebody did the same thing to you seven times in one day, but each time they come, they say, “I’m truly sorry; I repent”? Jesus says that you’re to forgive. Now, you say, “That’s absurd.” I imagine that most of us have come to God seven times in a day and asked Him to forgive us, have we not? “And be ye kind...tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ’s sake hath forgiven you.” (Ephesians 4:32) But, here’s the verse that I want you to notice—verse 3. This is Luke 17, verse 3: “Take heed to yourselves: If thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him.” (Luke 17:3) You cannot forgive anybody that has not repented. God does not forgive without repentance, neither should we. And so, that’s a very interesting thing. If I’m to seek out a brother, and that brother has wronged me, and I need to forgive him, how can I forgive him if he says, “I’ve done nothing wrong,” or if he says, “I have done wrong, and I’m going to continue to do wrong,” and there’s not a repentant spirit? How can I forgive him? It’s a very big question. What you need to do, and what I have done, is to forgive in this sense: that I give forgiveness out of my heart, and I put it in the bank on escrow. I unload it. I download it. I refuse to carry that burden in my heart. Even if the individual cannot receive that forgiveness, I have offered it. I have given it. It is there. All they need to do is to write the check of repentance and faith, and they can lay hold on that forgiveness. I have put it in the bank in escrow for them.

Is that not what Jesus did for us when He died on the cross? He provided forgiveness for us. It is there, but we can’t receive it, though He has given it, until we repent and receive it by faith. So, you can download it even if they don’t load it. Even if they don’t receive it, you get it off of your heart. And, even if they don’t repent, you can in your heart refuse to carry that spirit of bitterness.

III. The Results of Forgiveness

Now, what happens when you truly forgive?

A. Release

First of all, there will be release. The results are this: when you forgive, you are set free from the prison of bitterness. When God forgives you, you’re set free from the prison of guilt. And, there’s not a reason on earth that you should start tomorrow dragging the chains either of bitterness or guilt.

Now, I’m not a perfect person. God knows that I fail in many ways, but I give Him glory. And, I thought about it before I preached this message. There’s nobody on God’s green earth that I have resentment or bitterness against. And, so far as I know, there’s no unconfessed, unrepented-of sin in my heart and in my life. You say, “Well, you think you’re somebody.” No, that’s normal. That’s the way a Christian ought to live. That’s just plain, average Christianity. That’s not super-normal, like I’m saying, “Hey, look at the big guy up here who says that he doesn’t have any bitterness or any guilt.” That’s just the grace of God. That’s the way we are to live.

What fools we are to drag these chains with us! We can start every day as clean and pure as the driven snow. There’s no reason for us—none whatsoever—to live in a prison house of bitterness, or a prison house of guilt. If you’re guilty, if there’s some unconfessed, unrepented-of sin, the Bible says, in 1 John 1:9: “If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.” (1 John 1:9) If He didn’t do it, He’d be unfaithful, a liar. If He didn’t do it, He’d be unjust, a crook. God is not a liar, and God is not a crook. “He is faithful and just to forgive us, and to cleanse us”—not from some, but—“from all unrighteousness.” (1 John 1:9) And, we are to forgive our brothers. If they won’t repent, then we just put forgiveness in the bank for them. Whenever they come along and write the check of repentance and faith, they can receive that forgiveness.

B. Reconciliation

Now, there’s going to be release when you do that. And, most likely, there will be reconciliation. You’re going to gain some brothers, some sisters, and they’re going to be precious. Those people that have been restored by forgiveness will be your dearest and nearest friends.

C. Revival

And, I believe that when there’s release and reconciliation, there will be revival. Some of you knew Miss Bertha Smith, one of the great Christian premier missionaries that Southern Baptists have ever had. She was a dear and a precious friend to Joyce and myself. Others of you knew Dr. Charlie Culpepper, who taught missions at Mid-America Baptist Theological Seminary. Both Charlie Culpepper and Bertha Smith were in the great Shantung Revival in China. Both of them said that when the missionaries on the field who had been out of sorts with one another over petty things began to confess their faults one to another, and pray one for another, and to ask for forgiveness and to give forgiveness, that a great and a mighty revival was set loose. And, I believe, in your family, a revival can take place like that—I believe, in a business; I believe, in a school, in a church, in a community. When people begin to believe in the Bible, the Word of God, and begin to practice it, then they are set free.

So, question: Is there anybody—anybody—that you’re harboring hate against, anybody that you are carrying a grudge against? Is there bitterness in your heart? In the name of Jesus, deal with it, because if you don’t, you have destroyed the bridge over which you yourself must travel. If you don’t, you will have in your life an acid that will destroy you, that will hinder your prayers, and that will keep you from having genuine spiritual revival in your life.

Conclusion

Now, let’s bow our heads in prayer. Heads are bowed, and eyes are closed. And, would you just pray over the message for a moment? Would you say, “Lord, you know so-and-so. I’ve really harbored bitterness toward that person. They’ve hurt me so bad”—maybe it’s a former husband, a former wife; maybe it’s a mother, a father; maybe a schoolteacher; maybe a former business partner; maybe somebody has stolen money from you; maybe somebody has hurt your child, molested a loved one, and you just have such bitterness in your heart. Friend, give it to Jesus. Unload it. Get rid of it—not just simply by saying, “I’m not even going to think about it any more.” You can’t handle it that way. You can’t just stuff it. Give it to Jesus, and let Him take it away. And, if you need to go seek that brother out to forgive them, that sister out to forgive them, that unsaved person out to forgive them, tell the Lord that you’ll do it. Make up your mind that you’ll do just that.

Lord, show us how to react to this message. In the name of Jesus. Amen.†

Introduction

Take God’s Word this morning and find Matthew chapter 18. In a moment we’re going to begin reading verse 21. Most of you have heard of an evangelist named Dwight L. Moody. Dwight L. Moody was the counterpart of Billy Graham today. He was America’s best-known evangelist. And God gave Moody a great insight into the Word of God and into human nature. Dwight L. Moody said there’s one sin, one failure, that’s doing more to hold back the power of God in revival in the lives and hearts of Christians more than any other sin. Do you know what he said it was? He said it was the sin of an unforgiving spirit. I want to talk to you about forgiveness. And the title of the message is simply that: “Forgiveness.”

Now I begin reading here in Matthew chapter 18, verse 21: “Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until seventy times seven. Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants. And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand talents. But forasmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made. The servant therefore fell down, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. Then the lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt. But the same servant went out, and found one of his fellowservants, which owed him an hundred pence: and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest. And his fellowservant fell down at his feet, and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. And he would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt. So when his fellowservants saw what was done, they were very sorry, and came and told unto their lord all that was done. Then his lord, after that he had called him, said unto him, O thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me: shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellowservant, even as I had pity on thee? And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, till he should pay all that was due unto him.” And then, the Lord Jesus makes this application. He says, “So likewise shall my heavenly Father do also unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their trespasses” (Matthew 18:21–35).

That’s what the Lord said. Let me give you the background for what he has said. The Lord Jesus was talking, in Matthew chapter 18, about a brother in the church who sins. And then he said, if we have a brother who’s sinned, we should go to that brother to gain that brother (Matthew 18:15). In verse 15 of this chapter, he told us to obviously seek out that brother and forgive him. Well, Simon Peter got to thinking about that. Simon Peter was wondering. Perhaps Simon Peter had somebody who had wronged him and he had forgiven him several times. And Simon Peter thought surely there must be some limit to forgiveness; surely, I mean, we just can’t keep on forgiving people for the same things over and over again. So Simon Peter asked the Lord a question. He said, “Lord, how many times if a man sins against you should you forgive him: once, twice, three, four, five? Oh,” he said, “I know what it must be. Seven, that’s the perfect number. How many times shall we forgive him? Seven times?” The Lord said, “No, not seven times; seventy times seven.”

Now our Lord did not mean 490. By using that idiom, he meant, as many times as he sins forgive him—or out into infinity. Forgiveness is not a matter of mathematics. Just forget the arithmetic. It’s a matter of the heart, not of the head. It is not a matter of totaling up and figuring up. Every time he comes in repentance and says, “I repent,” you are to forgive him. You say, “But look how many times I’ve forgiven him.” No, you don’t say that, because you’re to forgive him as God forgave you. And when God forgives, He does what? He forgets. So every time you're forgiving him, how many times is that? It's always the first time, because all the other times have gone. Isn't that wonderful? See? You always forgive the first time, because all of the other times are gone. When God forgives us, He always forgives us the first time, because all of those other sins are buried in the grave of his forgetfulness. And so you don’t keep records. You just simply forgive as many times as forgiveness is needed.

Then the Lord Jesus told this story. He said, “Let me let me show you what I’m talking about.” He said there was a man who owed his master an astronomical term, 10,000 talents. Now when the Lord Jesus said 10,000 talents, He must have said this with a twinkle in his eye, because that was more than the total taxes of the entire country for the year. I mean it was an incredible amount of money. In today’s standards, it is multiplied millions of dollars. No one could pay it unless he was a king himself. And so here was a man who owed all of this money. How he got into such debt, who knows? But it was there. And he owed it to his master, and he couldn’t pay it. So he cries out for mercy. And the lord, the master, says, “All right, you can’t pay it. I will forgive you.” And he does forgive this man. And then the man who’s been forgiven this astronomical sum goes out and finds another man who owes to him several pence, a few hundred dollars; and he takes this poor man by the throat and says, “You pay me what you owe me.” He says, “I can’t.” He says, “And into prison you go.” And it was told to the king what had happened. And the king found this man who’d been forgiven the multiplied millions and put him also in prison and delivered him to the tormentors. And then the Lord Jesus made this application: “So shall your heavenly Father do to you if you forgive not every man his trespasses against you” (Matthew 18:35).

Now, dear friend, there are two basic thoughts that are in this entire story: number one, we have been forgiven; number two, we are to forgive others.

I. We Have Been Forgiven
Now you think of your sin as a debt that you owe God. Have you ever thought about being in debt to God? Why are you in debt to God? Number one: He created you. Number two: He redeemed you. Number three: He takes care of you day by day. The earth that you walk on, the air that you breathe, and the food that you eat, has all come from God. And by creation, Calvary, and care we’re indebted to God. And we’ve not fulfilled our obligations to God. We’ve become poor stewards. We’ve not given Him the honor. We’ve not given Him the glory. We’ve not given Him the praise. We’ve used His resources. We’ve abused His love. And we’re in debt. And we have been hauled into heaven’s court. And we have been sued for damages. And we have found that we are guilty and in debt. And we are assessed with an astronomical sum that we cannot pay. The Bible says, “Our sins have mounted up to the heavens” (Ezra 9:6). So sin is a debt owe.

Secondly, sin is a debt I cannot pay. Morally and spiritually, I am bankrupt before Almighty God. I have nothing to offer. You say, “Well, I can offer Him something.” What are you going to offer Him? Even your righteousness is as filthy rags in his sight (Isaiah 64:6). Sin is a debt I owe. Sin is a debt I cannot pay. Sin is a debt that God has fully paid for me.

Now, listen. When that king forgave that servant that 10,000 talents, what did it cost that king? Ten thousand talents. You listen to me, dear friend. There is no such thing as God overlooking sin. That king did not simply overlook that debt. That king absorbed that debt. When that king said, “I forgive,” at that moment it cost him dearly. God does not overlook your sin. God has paid for your sin. And therefore He forgives. I owed a debt I could not pay, and therefore Jesus paid a debt He did not owe. I owed a debt I could not pay, and therefore Jesus paid a debt He did not owe. With the silver of His tears and the gold of his blood He purchased my redemption.

It costs to forgive. There’s no such thing as free forgiveness. There are no bargain pardons. When you forgive a person, whatever that person did, you absorb the cost into yourself. On the cross, Jesus was paying the debt that I owed, that you owed. God did not just simply cancel the debt. He could not until He first of all paid it, because He’s a righteous and a holy God. Now He paid that price. Do you know why He paid that price? It was worth it to Him. It was worth it. Hebrews chapter 12 and verse 2 says, “For the joy that was set before Him, He despised the shame and endured the cross” (Hebrews 12:2). It was worth it. Have you ever noticed that, if you pay for something that you really want, you don’t mind paying the price? But have you ever bought something on a bargain that really, even though it was a bargain, you were sorry that you bought it, later on?

A businessman told me something. He said, “The most expensive suit I ever bought cost me ninety dollars.” The man’s a member of this church. I said, “Tell me about it.” He said, “I bought a suit off the rack.” He said, “I knew I didn’t like it when I bought it.” But he said, “I bought it because it was marked down to ninety dollars.” He said, “I wore it one time.” And he said, “It cost me ninety dollars to wear a suit one time.” He said, “That’s the only time. I never took it out again.” He said, “I didn’t like it when I bought it.” And he said, “It was expensive because it was cheap.”

Listen to me, my dear friend. The bitterness of poor quality lingers long after the sweetness of cheap price has been forgotten. If you buy something, and you like it, and it’s worth it, after a while you will say, “Yes, I paid a big price, but look what I got.” My dear friend, forgiveness is costly. It’s not cheap, but it’s worth it. It’s worth what you pay for it. Jesus, “for the joy that was set before Him, despised the shame, endured the cross and went to Calvary” (Hebrews 12:2). It costs to be forgiven. Sin is a debt I owe.
Sin is a debt I cannot pay. Sin is a debt that the Lord Jesus Christ paid for me. Horace Bushnell said that, “Forgiveness is man’s deepest need and God’s highest achievement.” Thank God because of Calvary the old account was settled long ago.

II. We Are to Forgive Others

Now the second thing I want you to notice—I have been forgiven a great debt: now what the Lord Jesus Christ is saying in this passage of Scripture is, because we have been forgiven, we are to forgive others. Now this man who had been forgiven the multiplied millions was legally right to demand this man pay him who owed him a few hundred dollars. But he was morally wrong.

And I want to give you, dear friend, some moral reasons why he should have forgiven this man who owed him a few hundred dollars.

A. The Grace Factor

Number one: There is the grace factor. Have you got that? The grace factor. You see, here was a man who had received grace, and therefore, “Freely ye have received, freely give” (Matthew 10:8). Ephesians chapter 4, verse 32: “And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ’s sake hath forgiven you” (Ephesians 4:32). You pass on what you have received. God forgives you. You forgive others. The grace factor.

There was a man in a large business, who embezzled a sum of money. They did an accounting. They did a survey and audit. The blame was fixed upon a certain man. That man knew that they’d found him out. The senior partner in that large firm sent for that man and said, “Come into my office.” He went into that office with trembling, because he figured, “Number one, I’ll be fired; number two, I’ll probably spend some time behind bars.” He stood before the senior partner. And the senior partner said, “Is it true? Have you done thus and such?” The man bowed his head, knowing he’d been found out, and said, “Yes, it is true.” Then the senior partner in that firm said, “I want to ask you a question.” He said, “If I forgive you and you keep your job, can I trust you from henceforth.” He said, “Oh, if you would forgive and let me keep my job, I promise you can trust me. Oh, yes, you can trust me.” Then, he said, “Very well, I forgive you. And we will retain you. But before you go I want you to know something. You’re not the first in this business to ever make that mistake.” He said, “I made the same mistake years ago and was forgiven. And,” he said, “the grace I have received is the grace that I give to you. May God have mercy on us both.”

B. The Guilt Factor

You see, dear friend, there’s the grace factor. I’ll tell you another reason that we need to forgive: not only the grace factor, but the guilt factor; because if I don’t forgive, I myself am guilty. I mean, if I don’t forgive you, I don’t get forgiven. Jesus said, “If ye forgive not men their trespasses against you, neither shall your heavenly Father forgive you your trespasses against Him” (Matthew 6:14). An unforgiving spirit is unforgivable. The man, the woman, who will not forgive destroys the bridge over which he or she must travel. Your guilt remains. Your debt remains when you refuse to forgive others.

C. The Grief Factor

My dear friend, there’s a third reason: not only the grace factor, not only the guilt factor; but the grief factor. What happened to this man who refused to forgive the man who owed him a few hundred dollars? When his lord found about it, he said, “All right, take him, cast him into the prison, and deliver him to the tormentors till he’s paid all.”

Now you think of the grief that this man had because he would not forgive. First of all, he was cast into a prison. There are many people who are listening to me in this place by television, or by tape later on, and you find yourself right now in a prison of your own. You are making a prison house of bitterness and out of bondage. You have become a slave, imprisoned and captured. You can’t live a productive life, because you’re enjoying the luxury of an unforgiving spirit.

But not only was he cast into prison; dear friend, he was tormented. How many people are tormented with high blood pressure, memory, and emotional problems? How many are tormented because they cannot forgive and forget and release, and are back in debt. There is the guilt factor that adds to the grief factor because of the burden of that you now have a double debt. You have a debt that you owe to God because your sin is not forgiven. And you have a debt that you owe to the man who owes you a hundred dollars. Do you know what we do? Somebody wrongs us, and we just write in our mind a little I.O.U: “I owe you for that. And I’ll get you.” We put it in our pocket. But have you ever thought about it? When we have those little I.O.U.’s, then we’re in debt to them. I mean, they’re supposed to be in debt to us, and we say, “I’m going to pay you back for that.” We get in debt to them. And it’s an incredible thing that we end up ourselves the debtors, not only to God, but we are in debt to those who’ve sinned against us, because we’re trying to pay them back. So there’s the grief factor.

D. The Gain Factor

But, dear friend, there’s another reason that we ought to do it: what I call the gain factor. You see, if we do forgive, we’ve gained our brother. Now I told you, Jesus Christ is talking about how to gain a brother who’s sinned. And notice in Matthew chapter 18—you’re still there, go back to verse 15. And He says, “Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother” (Matthew 18:15). An unforgiving spirit makes foes. A forgiving spirit makes friends. How should you forgive? Ephesians chapter 4, verse 32: “And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ’s sake hath forgiven you” (Ephesians 4:32).

III. How to Forgive
Let me tell you how to forgive.

A. Forgive Freely
First of all, you are to forgive freely: “Freely ye have received, freely give” (Matthew 10:8). Now when I say freely, I mean you’re to be so ready to forgive somebody that you don’t wait for them to come to you and ask you to forgive them. You go to them. You run them down in order to forgive them. You catch them in order to forgive them. Isn’t that what Jesus said there in Matthew 18, verse 15? Go to your brother. It doesn’t say, “Wait there for your brother to come to you.” Go to your brother. Tell him in secret his fault between you and him alone. And if he will hear you, you have gained your brother.

Has somebody wronged you? Would you take the spirit of Jesus and go seek that person and forgive them? Do you know what we do? We wait around for a while and we say, “Let them stew in their juice.” I mean, let them be like a worm in hot ashes. And so, finally, we criticize them, we castigate them, we bruise them, we blister them, we burn them, we bash them, and we batter them. And then we finally say, “Okay now, I forgive you.” You say, “Never mind. I’ve already paid—I’ve already paid.” Listen. You forgive before that bitterness becomes an infection. You forgive freely.

You say, “No matter if they haven’t even repented?” Oh no, if they haven’t repented, you can’t forgive them. Let me just make a point here. There is no such thing as forgiveness, number one, without payment. Somebody must pay. And there’s no such thing as forgiveness without repentance. Somebody must repent. God does not forgive without repentance. The Bible says, “Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish” (Luke 13:3). Never forgive anybody if they don’t repent. You can’t forgive them if they don’t repent. It is immoral to forgive them if they don’t repent.

Let me give you a verse to put in your margin. Write this down please—Luke chapter 17, verse 4. Now, you write it down. Let me read it to you. Jesus said, “And if he trespass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him” (Luke 17:4)—I mean, if he does it one, two, three, four, five, six, seven times in a day. How many of us think that a person who’s done the same thing seven times a day ought to be forgiven? Human nature doesn’t say so, but Jesus says so; not only seventy times seven, but seven times a day, the same thing—but only if he repents. There is no forgiveness without somebody paying a price. And there is no forgiveness without somebody repenting. The one who does the forgiving pays the price, but the one who is forgiven must repent.

“Well,” you say, “Brother Rogers, if I therefore don’t forgive them, does that mean that I’m to be brittle, harsh, hateful, and hurtful to them?” No, no. You’re to love them. You’re to have the spirit of forgiveness. What is the spirit of forgiveness? That’s what Jesus Christ had when they were nailing Him on the cross. Jesus did not say, “I forgive you.” Why? Because they’d not repented. They were in the act of their sin. But what did He pray? He prayed, “Father, forgive them” (Luke 23:34). You see? He wanted their forgiveness. He sought their forgiveness. And so should you.

And, my dear friend, the attitude of forgiveness is what I’m talking about. Even before you forgive there should be the attitude of forgiveness. The attitude of forgiveness will free you. The act of forgiveness will free them. But you must have the attitude so hopefully one day the act can come. Hopefully, one day he will come and say, “I repent; I’m sorry; I turn; I was wrong,” and then when he or she says that, then that attitude becomes an act. And not only are you free now, but he or she is free. You’re to forgive freely.

B. Forgive Fully

The second way you’re to forgive is you’re to forgive fully. Now what so many times we do is this. When somebody has wronged us, and then they finally come to us and confess it, do you know what many of us are prone to do? To make light of it. Do you know why? Our pride wants not to let it be known how badly we’ve been hurt. And so, what do we say? “Oh, never mind. That’s okay. It’s okay.” Hey, folks, that’s not forgiveness. That won’t do them any good, and it won’t do you any good. When there’s a wrong that’s been done, there needs to be confession, repentance, and forgiveness. Don’t just gloss over it. Don’t say, “Oh, forget it.” Friend, it cannot be forgotten until it’s been forgiven. Forgetting is the result of forgiveness. Make certain that it is full forgiveness that you get and that you give. When I wrong somebody, and I come to them and I say, “I’m sorry; I did you wrong, and I want you to forgive me,” and they say, “Oh, never mind,” I say, “No, wait a minute. I do mind.” Look at me and tell me you, “Forgive me.” That’s what satisfies the heart—my heart and their heart as they forgive me.

C. Forgive Finally

You see, we’re to forgive freely. We are to forgive fully. And then, my dear friend, we are to forgive finally. I mean, you see when God forgives, God forgets. It’s over, it’s done, it’s gone, and it’s paid. What happens to forgiven sin? The Bible says that God removes our sins from us “as far as the east is from the west” (Psalm 103:12), not as far as the north from the south. You can measure from the North Pole to the South Pole. But you go east just as far as you can go. You go west just as far as you can go. That’s how far He’s removed our sins from us. The Bible says He’s cast them behind His back (Isaiah 38:17). Isn’t that wonderful? Do you know where your sins are? Behind God’s back. He turns around. He can’t see them. They’re still behind His back. They’re gone and out of His sight. He hath buried them in the depths of the sea and posted a No Fishing sign. Friend, they’re gone—they’re gone. When God forgives, God says, “Their iniquities will I remember no more” (Hebrews 8:12).

Now, listen. Intellectually, God doesn’t forget. God can never forget anything. For that matter, He can’t learn anything. Has it ever occurred to you that nothing ever occurs to God? I mean, God is God intellectually, and He knows everything. If He forgot, He’d change. He can’t change. But what He says is, “I will remember them against you no more.” When you forgive somebody, it doesn’t mean you get amnesia. I mean, you know it happened. But, you see, that is removed from the account side of the ledger. It’s not like you keep saying, “You owe me; I’m holding this up before you.” No, no, you don’t do that anymore. You forgive it, and you let it go. And at the moment you free that other person, at that moment, my friend, you become free.

I heard of a businessman who liked to keep records in his office. He kept records of almost everything, especially his correspondence. His files were bulging. His secretary said, “Look, we’ve got to clean these files. How about letting me go through the files and pull out this stuff and put it in the shredder?” Reluctantly, he said, “Okay, okay, you can do it. But before you do that, make a copy of everything.”

Have you done that: said, “This goes in the shredder, but I’ve got the copy over here”? Oh, you forgive, my dear friend, freely, fully, and finally. Bury it in the grave of God’s forgetfulness. Cut it loose, and let it go. And if he does it again, she does it again, it’s the first time you’re forgiving that offense. So you don’t keep numbers. It’s just the first time. And if it happens seven times a day, and if he repents, she repents, you don’t judge and say, “You did it six times; you don’t mean it.” Listen, dear friend. That’s fatalism and cynicism. There must always be the time that you’re going to believe that individual is going to mean business with you and mean business with God.

Now, how are you going to forgive? I mean, you don’t have the strength to forgive. Dear friend, forgiveness is not an emotion. It is an act of the will. And it is an act of the will that is aided by the will of God. “For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure” (Philippians 2:13). The emotion follows. But you must decide that you want to forgive, and then call out to God and ask God to help you. It takes two to forgive: you and Jesus. Someone wrote a long time ago: “To err is human. To forgive is divine.”

Corrie Ten Boom is a woman whose testimony we’ve all heard. She hid the Jews in Holland from Hitler’s storm troopers. As a result, she found herself in a Nazi concentration camp in Ravensbrück. Corrie Ten Boom and her sisters suffered unmentionable brutality, indignity, horrors, humiliation, and saw friends and loved ones die. But, by the grace of God, she was kept. A spirit of forgiveness was working in her heart.

In 1947, Corrie Ten Boom, after the war, was in West Germany. She was speaking on the subject of forgiveness like I’m speaking on it this morning. But when she’d finished, there was a man in her audience who had been a prison guard in that concentration camp. The Spirit of God had convicted that man of his need for forgiveness. And he came up to Corrie Ten Boom; and when he approached, she looked at him. She remembered his face. It had been molded into her consciousness and riveted into her soul. That was the face of the one who had brutalized and humiliated her, and now he was coming with his hand extended asking for forgiveness. Corrie Ten Boom said, “I froze. I knew what I ought to do, but,” she said, “I knew I could not do it.” She said, “It was like my hand was paralyzed. I could not reach out and take that man by the hand.” She cried out to God, and she said, “Oh, God, I can’t forgive him. But, Lord, you can. Help me, God.” By an act of her will, she placed her hand in that man’s hand. She said, “When I did that, my body became warm, and my spirit was filled with light,” as Almighty God did in her, through her, and for her what humanly she could not do.

Conclusion

My dear friend, God not only commands us to forgive; He enables us to forgive. Again, let me tell you something. There are some in this building that have been so wronged against by parents, husbands, wives, and employers that in order for you to forgive you’re going to have to have your own private Gethsemane and your own private Calvary. But if you’ll do it, you’ll have your own private Easter. I promise. It costs. But it’s worth it.
Sacredness of Marriage

Introduction

Find Matthew chapter 19 in the Word of God. We spoke last Sunday night about the Bible and what it would say about something called same-sex marriage. And anybody who is alive, with his eyes open, who can read black print on white paper, knows that such a thing as a same-sex marriage is really, in God’s sight, an impossibility. And we talked about that. But I want us to go further on and not only talk about what is not right, but to talk about what is right. And I want us to think tonight about marriage as God intended: one man for one woman ’til death do them part.

I asked Joyce—I said, “Sweetheart, will you love me when I’m old and wrinkled?” She said, “Of course I do.” She’ll say later, “Adrian, I didn’t say that. You just said I said that,” which is true.

But I want us to read here, from the Word of God, Matthew chapter 19, verses 1 through 6: “And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coast of Judaea beyond Jordan; and great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there. The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain”—or “they two”—“shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain”—or “two”—“but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.” (Matthew 19:1–6)

Now, I want to talk to you about the sacredness of marriage. We see marriage, as we know it, as God intended it, to be unraveling. And experts tell us that soon half of all children will grow up in single-parent homes and most mothers will work outside the home. Much of this problem is caused by divorce. In the first three verses of our chapter, the matter of divorce comes up, and the disciples ask Jesus, “Can a man just divorce his wife for any reason?” And Jesus, in answering that question, tells us about what marriage is intended to be: one man for one woman 'til death do them part: “For this cause shall a man leave [his] father and [his] mother, and...cleave [unto] his wife...they twain shall be one flesh...[and] what God hath [therefore] joined together, let not man put asunder.” (Matthew 19:5–6)

Divorce is an American tragedy because divorced parents produce broken children, and broken children produce broken homes, which produce broken children, which produce broken homes, which produce broken children. It is a vicious cycle. God has said in His Word, in Malachi chapter 2 and verse 16, that He hates divorce. (Malachi 2:16) God literally hates divorce.

Now, I know that the intellectuals of our day have different ideas. They have taught us that sex between unmarried people really is incidental; it causes no moral problems.
And, you young people in the choir, let me tell you, God absolutely, totally, forbids any kind of sexual liaison outside of the bond of holy matrimony. We’ve been taught also that homosexuality can be accepted as normal, what they call today “an alternative lifestyle.” We’ve been told today that unmarried motherhood really poses no serious problems. And we’ve been taught that marriage is not sacred because really, nothing is sacred. And our great commandment today is “Thou shalt not be judgmental.” And so, the new god in America is the god of tolerance. I believe it’s time that somebody spoke up for the family and for family faithfulness.

I. Marriage Is Made in Heaven
And so, I want you to see, first of all, that real marriage did not come from the swamps of immorality, or by evolution, but marriages are made by heaven. Look in verse 4: “And he answered”—these are the words of Jesus now—“And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall clove to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh?” (Matthew 19:4–5) Now, all marriage counseling, all marriage preaching, all marriage design can be summed up in three words that Jesus just gave: leave, cleave, and one flesh.

A. The Priority of Marriage

Now, what your job is as a parent—and many of you are parents who have children who are getting to be marriageable age, or you have little children who one day will be marriageable age—your chief assignment from God, so far as that child is concerned, is to prepare that child to leave home; that is, to work yourself out of a job to where that child no longer needs you.

Now, I’m so grateful for the home. I’m grateful for the home that I had, where it never, never ever entered into my mind that my father might leave my mother. And, of course, he did not. I cannot tell you the security that I had as a child. Now, I did not come up in a wealthy family. As a matter of fact, I suppose our family would be classified as lower middle class. I was born during the Great Depression. And the Great Depression began in 1929. I was born in 1931. I have a real good idea that I was not planned. As a matter of fact, I got bold enough to ask my mom about it one day, and she just smiled; and I knew the answer. I was not planned, but I was in God’s plan. And I came along back in those days, and work was hard to come by. Some of you who are older know something of what it was like in the Great Depression in those days. And it still bothers me to death to go into a restaurant and have one of my children order a hamburger and take a bite out of it and leave the rest on the plate. It gets all over me, not because I’m stingy, not because I don’t want to spend money; I just cannot bear to see things go to waste. That’s the way we were raised.

But we had some wonderful times as a family. We lived in Florida, which was wonderful. I was born and raised in paradise and didn’t know it. And really, I mean, I was a grown man before I’d seen snow. The first time I saw it, I thought it was grits all over the ground. I didn’t know what it was. But because my dad sometimes did not have work—he was never a lazy man—but there would be times when we would go over to a place called Singer Island right off the coast of Florida there with the Lake Worth Lagoon between West Palm Beach and Singer Island. We would go over there—the most beautiful, pristine beaches you’ve ever seen—and we kids would search for minnows so my dad could fish. My mother would bring some Crisco and a big black frying pan and some bread, and my dad would catch fish. We’d build a bonfire there on the beach, and fry those fish, and eat those pork and beans, or whatever they called it—Van Camp’s Pork & Beans. I remember one time we had a can in the fire, and it exploded and hit us all with hot beans. I’ll never forget that. But, you know, I look back on those experiences. The best times I ever had as a child I had because my parents didn’t have much. When we were together as a family, when Dad worked, Mom stayed home. We sat down at the table together and had a meal together, and had family fellowship, and lived together as a family.

Now, those are wonderful times, but you can’t live that way all the time. And so, my father taught reliance. He taught us to work. We had to work. He didn’t give us a lot of things. So many times parents are saying, “You know, I want to give my children things I never had.” Well, if you can do that, I’m happy for you. But I hope that you can give your children the things you did have, that you learned from your parents, those things of honesty and decency and industry and fidelity and faithfulness, and know what it is, if you do wrong, to be carried out to the woodshed, and have the board of education applied to the seat of knowledge. That happened in our home. But a parent comes to the place where that parent has to work that child out of a home. The child has to learn to leave father and mother and cleave to his or her wife. Now, that’s difficult.

Anna Mow wrote an interesting article that I read one time, and I’ve never forgotten it. She said, “In child-parent relationships, there are two kinds of love. There is need love, and there is need-to-be-needed love.” A little baby is going to love father and mother, not because father and mother are wise or gentle or kind or anything else; the baby just loves the parent because the baby needs the parent. And that is need love. Parents have children because they need to be needed. I met a family today who is going all the way over to China to get a little baby. And I thought to myself, “That’s wonderful!” Why do they do that? Because they want somebody to need them. They want somebody that they can pour out love on because that person needs them. And so, we come into this world with need love, and parents have children—they need to be needed. And so, when you get need love and need-to-be-needed love, that is a wonderful relationship between parent and child—and that’s the way God intended. But then, that child will grow.

I looked at this group of young men here standing here. Jim, I saw you smiling at them. I saw you thinking, “That’s wonderful.” And it was wonderful. And Ken, you’ve done a great job training them. These young men standing up here, I’ve known many of them since they were babies, and now they’re growing up. And I just sat over there, and I looked; and I said, “They’re turning into young men, these kids that I’ve known that were knee-high to a grasshopper. Now they’ve grown up.” Well, they’re becoming now more and more self-sufficient. They are coming more and more to a time when they want to establish their identity. They’re coming more and more to a time where they want to have some autonomy of their own. And that’s not bad. That’s exactly what they’re supposed to do. That’s what they’re supposed to be. They’re supposed to be, finally, men who can say, “As for me and my house, we will serve the LORD” (Joshua 24:15) —to start a new family, to have a godly seed. That’s what we’re trying to raise them to do: to step out of the nest, out of the home, where they don’t have mother and father to watch over them.

Sometimes parents, when a young man begins to assert his independence, his autonomy—sometimes, and it mostly is the mother, but sometimes the father—we have this need love, and so we begin to create artificial needs to keep them dependent upon us, to keep the apron strings tied. And we don’t want them to go off and find somebody else and marry somebody else. And mothers sometimes just commit emotional incest to keep that child dependent, because while the child no longer has the need love, the parent still has the need-to-be-needed love. And so, when the child is trying to break away, to grow up, to assert his or her independence and autonomy, the mother is making rules now that are maybe unnecessary and the father is building hedges that ought not to be there.

Now, there are some restrictions that ought to be there. A man told me one time—he said, “Adrian, raising children is like building executives in business. You let them make mistakes; you just don’t let them make any big mistakes.” Now, you have to allow your children, if he wants to buy that old clunker car with his savings and you know it’s wrong—maybe that’s the lesson he needs to learn: that he’s about to pour money down a rat hole. You need to let him make some of those small mistakes like that. But you don’t let him marry the wrong girl, if you can help it. I’ve seen Joyce pray my kids away from some, but there’s that need-to-be-needed and there is that need love.

Now, when a child doesn’t have that need love as much as he or she ought to and they begin to assert themselves, sometimes a parent will say, “You are rebellious”—and they’re not rebellious. But by calling it rebellion, you sometimes engender rebellion and make rebellion out of something that ought not to be rebellion at all. Folks, I’m telling you what we do as parents—and it’s something contrary to human nature—is this: that we work ourselves out of a job, but not out of a relationship. The tighter you hold them, the more they’re going to want to get away. But when you release them, they don’t want to get away. Oh, they may go off and get married. That’s what you want. But when you release them, they will come back as the best friends you’ve ever had. You work yourself out of a job, but you don’t work yourself out of a relationship.

Now, “for this cause shall a man leave [his] father and [his] mother.” (Matthew 19:5) The highest relationship—the highest relationship—in human relationships is not parent-child. The highest relationship is not child-parent. The highest relationship of human relationships is husband and wife. God says that is one flesh. (Matthew 19:6) We leave father and mother, but we cleave unto our mate. Now, this is God’s plan for us. Parents are not the supreme commitment, therefore. Your parents are not your supreme commitment. Now, you’re to honor your parents. And if your parents are old and feeble, and there’s no one else, and they don’t have the means, it’s your responsibility, your duty, to take care of them. And the Bible says, if you don’t do it, you’re “worse than an infidel.” (1 Timothy 5:8) But your parents are not your supreme commitment, and your children are not your supreme commitment, according to the Bible. Mate-to-mate is higher than parent-to-child, or child-to-parent.

Now, I want to say to you men, you businessmen, your business is not your supreme commitment. I’m sick and tired of seeing these corporations move people around to the hurt of the home. A man is not a success when he has a divorce at twenty-eight, an ulcer at thirty-five, and a cardiac arrest at fifty. He may have a pocket full of money, but God’s plan is that a man puts his wife first of all human relationships.

B. The Permanence of Marriage
“For this cause shall a man leave father and mother”—leave is the first word—“and shall cleave unto his wife.” (Matthew 19:5) That’s the second word: “cleave unto his wife.” (Matthew 19:5) The word cleave means “to weld” or “to glue.” You know, when a thing is welded together, it’s many times stronger at that part than it is at any other time. Divorce is never even to be thought of. When you get on the matrimonial airplane, you throw away your parachute. You show me couples who think of divorce as an option, and I will show you a couple that already have a great potential for the disintegration of the marriage. But you show me a couple who have just, as it were, clipped the word divorce out of their dictionary, and I’ll show you a couple who are going to stand together. Now people, whether they stay married or whether they get divorced, they all have problems. I tell our young people when I counsel with them, “There are no problems too big to solve; there are just people too small to solve them.”

C. The Purpose of Marriage
So, our job is to leave father and mother. Our job is to cleave to our wives. That is, we become mentally, morally, psychologically, and spiritually one flesh. And then, the Bible says, that we are one flesh. That’s the third word: “one flesh.” To leave speaks of the priority of marriage. To cleave speaks of the permanence of marriage. And one flesh speaks of the purpose of marriage: that we come to be one flesh. Now, we’re one flesh. Why? What does that mean? Why one flesh? This is why homosexual marriage is such a misnomer.

1. One Flesh Physically
One reason for the one-fleshedness is for multiplication. God said, “Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth.” (Genesis 1:28) Malachi chapter 2, verse 15: “And wherefore one? That he might seek a godly seed.” (Malachi 2:15) I tell our young people when they’re planning to get married, “I hope you plan to have children.” Children are meant to be a blessing. We have something happening in America today with a growing number of young married adults who have decided not to have children. Do you know why they’ve decided not to have children? They think they’re going to have more freedom. They think that they’re going to have more possessions if they don’t have children. They say, “Children are too costly; and if we have children, we’re going to have to decrease our standard of living.” Now friend, there is no higher standard of living than to have blessed children. What a blessing children are! They call these people who are doing this “DINKs”: double income, no kids. That’s right. They’ve named it. That’s their philosophy.

2. One Flesh Psychologically
No! Why are we one flesh? For multiplication. “Be fruitful, and multiply.” (Genesis 1:22) Not only for multiplication—that’s physically—but psychologically we are one flesh for communication. Not only are we to be lovers; we’re to be friends. Your wife is not to be your competitor; she’s to be your completer. She is your helpmeet.

A husband and wife are like a bow and a violin: separate, they don’t make music; together, they make wonderful music.

3. One Flesh Spiritually
And then, we’re to be one flesh, not only physically, and one flesh psychologically, but we’re to be one flesh spiritually. Joyce is my soulmate spiritually. We pray together. We prayed together this morning for you and for this service, and we pray every day for our children, for our grandchildren. And we have that communion and that love, that spiritual love. If people don’t know that, I feel sorry for them. These kids who are having sexual liaisons, and they talk about “going all the way,” that’s the one thing they don’t do—they don’t go all the way. You haven’t gone all the way until you have that commitment, that love that leads to that physical, psychological, and spiritual union and communion together, the spiritual communion.

I feel sorry for these people who think they’re smarter than God. Madalyn Murray O’Hair, who died a few years ago—and most think that she was murdered—but she was the famous atheist. She acted so self-sufficient. But they found her diaries, and somehow they became public property. As a matter of fact, her diaries were auctioned off to pay her tax bill. But in her diary, many, many, many times was this statement, or something like it: “Somebody, please love me.” Isn’t that sad? “Somebody, please love me.” Now, here was a person who acted so self-sufficient, but she needed love. “Somebody, somewhere, love me.”

Now, marriage is a divine institution made of God. “For this [reason] shall a man leave [his] father and mother, and…cleave [unto] his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh.” (Matthew 19:5) To leave, to cleave, one flesh.
II. Marriage Is Marred by Hell

Now, if that is true that marriage has been made by heaven, marriages have also been marred by hell. Look, if you will now, in verse 7: “They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away?”—that is, Moses, in the Pentateuch, gave provision for divorce. And they said, “If God’s plan is one man for one woman ‘til death do them part, why did Moses make this provision for divorce?” And notice Jesus’ answer in verse 8—“He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you”—that is, what was allowed was not God’s primary purpose, not what God intended, not what God wanted. And then Jesus said—“And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication”—that word comes from a Greek word, porneia, which means “sexual immorality.” It could be before or after marriage. Here He’s talking about the context of marriage because He says, “putting away a wife”—“except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery. His disciples say unto him, If the case of the man be so with his wife, it is not good to marry. But he said unto them, All men cannot receive this saying, save they to whom it is given.” (Matthew 19:7–11)

Now, the devil is working against our homes. And, of course, I want to say that the chief thing that the devil wants to do, in my estimation, is not begin homosexual marriages, but to destroy Christian marriages and to wreck our homes. And perhaps there needs to be much preaching about homosexual marriage and its fallacies, but God knows—God knows—that we need to emphasize the home in this church and in all churches across America. And after the first of the year I’m going to begin a series of Sunday night messages on the home and on the family, God willing.

Now, in this passage, God allowed divorce in a case of fornication, but God did not command divorce. If you have an unfaithful wife, if you have an unfaithful husband, that does not mean that ipso facto, necessarily, you’re to be divorced. Forgiveness, restoration, is far better than divorce. Read the story—read the book of Hosea and read about Hosea and his wife Gomer. Gomer had many lovers. Actually, she became a prostitute, but Hosea found her, forgave her, restored her, and restored the home. (Hosea 1–14)

Now, there are many reasons that people give for divorce, and they’re fallacious reasons. They will not pass at the judgment bar of God. For example, there are people who say, “Well, we’re getting divorced because the love has gone out of our marriage.” Now, if you don’t hear anything else, I want you to hear what I’m about to say now: it is not love that keeps your marriage together; it is your marriage that sustains your love. Now, remember that. Don’t just simply get the idea that, because something called love has gone away, then you are free to get a divorce. Jesus has commanded us to love. Ephesians chapter 5 and verse 25—He says, “Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it” (Ephesians 5:25)—or literally, “gave Himself up for it.”

Sometimes a man will come to me and say, “I’m going to get a divorce.” I say, “Why?” “Because I don’t love my wife any more.” He doesn’t get any sympathy from me. I say, “Well, choose to love her; learn to love her. God has commanded that you love.”

Now, what kind of a God would command me to do something I cannot do? Suppose God says to me, “Adrian, jump over this church building. If you don’t do it, you’re a sinner.” Can God command me to do something I cannot do and then blame me for not doing it?

If God says, “Husbands, love your wives,” (Ephesians 5:25) that means that you can love your wife. You see, love is a choice. As a matter of fact, the older women are to teach the younger women to love their husbands. We’re not talking about romance here. Listen to Titus 2, verse 4, speaking of the older women: “That they may teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children.” (Titus 2:4) We are commanded to love.

Now, we need to understand, therefore, the difference between what the world calls love and what the Bible calls love. The Bible word love goes far beyond emotion. Do you remember when you were dating, when you were in high school, or college, or wherever it was, and you were looking for a mate? If you were like the average person, this is what you were looking for: you were looking for someone who was popular, someone who had personality, somebody who thought your jokes were funny, somebody who had a beautiful face, somebody who had a nice figure. And you, if you had a chance, you would say to that person, “I love you.” But that probably was not accurate. It’s certainly not accurate according to the Bible word love. What you were really saying is “I want you. I want you to satisfy me.” And she, if you were a man, would respond to you the same way, because we see in this other individual certain qualities, and we think, “If I can acquire those qualities, then those qualities are going to make me happy.” But that kind of love is conditioned upon those qualities: personality, intelligence, popularity, the face, the figure. But if that’s why you get married, then you see what a trap that is? I mean, when you married her, she was beautiful, but now she’s fat and forty, and he’s bald and bulging. And all of those things that you thought were so important, they’re not there any more.

And so, what happens to the marriage? You see, that’s a conditional love. And if you have that conditional love, it’s going to engender some attitudes, and we see these all the time in marriage. First of all, there’s fear: “I’ve got to keep up the conditions that caused this man to love me to begin with.” That’s what keeps Walgreens in business, and this dependency upon the beautician and the cosmetician, and the man who cannot grow old gracefully because he says to himself, or she says to herself, “I’ve got to maintain this condition.”

Or, if it doesn’t bring fear, it’s going to bring guilt. You’re going to say, “I have failed. I no longer have what it takes. I have a Supreme Court figure: no appeal.” And you feel guilty. You feel you’ve let your mate down. And if it doesn’t bring fear and it doesn’t bring guilt, it’s going to bring anger when that person no longer loves you because you don’t have those particular qualities that you used to have.

And you’re going to feel used, like a man who takes a sweet Valencia orange, takes his penknife, cuts a plug out of that orange, puts it up to his lips and squeezes it, and says, “I just love oranges—just love them,” but then, when the juice and the sweetness is gone, he wipes his mouth and throws it on the ground like a piece of garbage. That’s what happens sometimes to some marriages when people feel that they have been used, because that love is conditional love.

Now, the Bible says that a husband is to love his wife as Christ loved the Church—and that love is an unconditional love. It is not performance-based love. “But God commended his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.” (Romans 5:8) And Romans 5, verse 6: “For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly.” (Romans 5:6) When you have this unconditional love as Christ had for the Church, let me tell you what it’s going to do for your home. It’s going to give security in the place of fear. It’s going to give peace in the place of guilt. And it’s going to give joy that’s going to replace this anger.

This kind of love is an act of the will. How does God love us? Do you think God loves us romantically? Do you think God loves us because we’re lovely? No, God loves us as an act of His will. James 1, verse 18 says, “Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.” (James 1:18)

Now, to the world, love is just a series of emotions: “I love you because you make me feel good. I love you because you make me happy. You’re pretty. You’re soft. You’re good. You’re strong.” Read the glamor magazines. No, don’t read them. I don’t read them. Why am I saying that? See what the world’s standards are. The world has not got the foggiest of what real love is. Ask them to explain it, they’ll say something like a grasshopper on roller skates. No, real love has strength in it. Real love is commitment. You are to love your wife as Christ loved the Church.

C. S. Lewis was a brilliant man. I don’t agree with everything C. S. Lewis had to say, but he was brilliant. He had some penetrating insight into love and marriage, and he loved his wife dearly. And here’s what he said: he said, “There’s a difference in loving and being in love.” Now, the kids talk about “being in love.” You kids in the choir, listen to this. Don’t go to sleep on me. Here’s what C. S. Lewis said: “Being in love is a good thing, but it is not the best thing. There are many things below, but there are also many things above it. You cannot make it the basis of a whole life. It is a noble feeling, but it is still a feeling. Who could bear to live in that excitement for even five years?”—he said if you tried to live with the excitement that you had as teenagers in love, or young marrieds, he said you couldn’t do that—“But, of course, ceasing to be in love does not mean ceasing to love. Love, in a second sense, love, as distinct from being in love, is not merely a feeling”—listen to this. He’s talking about real love—“It is a deep unity maintained by the will and deliberately strengthened by habits, reinforced by the grace which both parents ask and receive from God”—“They can have this love for each other even at those moments when they do not like each other”—now, say “amen” right there. Now listen, they can have this same love even when they don’t like each other. I know there are times when Joyce does not like the way I’m acting, but I know, I’ve never doubted, that she loved me. Listen to this—“They can have this love for each other even at those moments when they do not like each other, as you love yourself even when you do not like yourself”—have you ever said, “I hate myself for doing that”? But you never stop loving yourself. You see, there’s a deeper love. Now, Lewis goes on to say—“They can easily retain this love even when each would easily, if they allowed themselves to, be in love with someone else. Being in love first moved them to promise fidelity. This quieter love enables them to keep the promise. It is on this love that the engine of marriage is run. Being in love was the explosion that started it.” That’s the reason I said to you, friend, it is not love that keeps your marriage; it is your marriage that keeps your love—the deeper kind of love.

Now, sometimes people say, therefore, “Well, you know, we’re going to get a divorce because we don’t love each other any more.” Friend, that doesn’t wash. And then, sometimes people say, “Well, you know, we’re going to get a divorce because it would be better for the children.” I’ve heard that ’til I’m sick of it. “It would be better for the children than for the children to hear us wrangle and fuss and fight. For the children’s sake, we’re going to get a divorce.” Now friend, I want to see you look God in the face and tell God it’s for the children’s sake. It is not for the children’s sake. It is your selfishness that causes you to do that. If it were for the children’s sake, you would get together, and you would solve this problem, if the children were really in mind. If you think it’s for the children’s sake, ask the children, and see what the children think about it—and you’ll come up with a different idea.

Someone says, “Well, I owe it to myself to be happy.” No, you don’t. God’s plan is not for you to be happy; God’s plan is for you to be holy. If you’re happy, that’s a fringe benefit, but you don’t owe it to yourself to be happy. There’s no such thing as an American right to be happy. Let me tell you what you owe: you owe it to your wife or your husband to keep your word when you made a marriage vow. You owe it to your children that they will have their own parents. You owe it to yourself to be a man of honor. And if you put away the wife of your youth, you’ve lied to God. You have dishonored yourself. You don’t owe it to yourself to be happy. You owe it to yourself to keep your word.

“Well,” you say, “God is telling me, pastor, to get a divorce.” No, He’s not. God does not have a special dispensation for you. When you pick up the Bible and read it, God doesn’t tell you that you are a special exception. When you get married, as I say, you get on the matrimonial airplane, you throw away your parachute.

Now, you can make a decision to do something about a bad marriage. Marriages are not generally healed overnight, but the direction of a marriage can be changed. Why did you get married to begin with? I’ve seen couples who in many areas have a wonderful marriage but ten percent of the marriage is wrong, and because ten percent of the marriage is wrong, they throw away the other ninety percent. You know, they get married looking for a new deal, and then it becomes an ordeal, and they want to throw it away.

III. Marriage Can Be Marked by Hope

Now, let me come to the conclusion here. Marriage is made by God. Marriage is marred by divorce. But marriage can be marked by hope. I’m talking to many people who are listening through radio, and many in this building, whose marriages have already failed. And if you think I’m trying to make you feel bad, I am not. If you have children—and I’ve met some already today whose homes have been broken—I know you parents have hearts that have been broken; I know that. I’m talking to some of these kids in the choir whose parents are divorced; I know that. If you think that I’m trying to be a heavy and make you feel bad, I am not. And I want to tell you this: that divorce is not the unpardonable sin.

Now, listen to me carefully. Divorce is not a dead-end street. God does not hold a grudge. God is not angry with you. There are those who would like to make divorced people second-class citizens, somehow not equal to the rest of us. Friend, if you’ve failed in marriage, just like if you failed in any other way, God is a God of mercy and God is a God of forgiveness. And nobody has sinned themselves beyond the love and grace of God. And once you come to God, and you fail, and you confess that sin, whether it be divorce or any other kind of sin, and honestly repent of it, and receive Jesus, the Bible says, in Romans 8, verse 1: “There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.” (Romans 8:1) And again, the Bible says in 1 John 1:7: “But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ [God’s] Son cleanseth us from”—what?—“all sin.” (1 John 1:7) And those of you who have friends who’ve been divorced, who’ve come from broken homes, don’t you look upon these people—if they’ve come to God for forgiveness and cleansing—don’t you look upon them as second-class citizens. “The blood of Jesus Christ [God’s] Son cleanses us from all sin.” (1 John 1:7) And there’s not a mother’s child in this building who is not a sinner who has needed the grace of God and hopefully has received the grace of God. The Bible says also in Isaiah 1:18: “Come now, and let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.” (Isaiah 1:18)

And there are divorced people. They might come to Bellevue and say, “Well, Pastor Rogers is against divorce.” Yes, I’m against divorce because God is against divorce, but that doesn’t mean that you’re not welcome here. I have a friend down in Florida, Peter Lord, who has a sign above his church door—he did when he was pastor there—and you walked into the church, there was a sign that said, “Sinners only welcome here.” This church is not a museum for saints: it’s a hospital for sinners. And we’ve all sinned and come short of the glory of God. (Romans 3:23)

I remember reading in the Bible about a woman taken in adultery—in the very act. They brought her to Jesus. They wanted to stone her, but Jesus said, as they went away realizing their own sin, “Doth no man condemn thee?” She said, “No man, Lord.” He said, “Nor do I; go, and sin no more.” (John 8:10–11)

I remember reading in John chapter 4 about a woman who’d been married five times. A thirsty woman had gone from husband to husband trying to find security and happiness and joy, and she never found it. She had a washed-out, broken life ’til she came to Jesus, and Jesus saved her, and Jesus changed her. (John 4:1–42)

God is the God of new beginnings. First Corinthians 6, verses 9 through 11: “Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.” (1 Corinthians 6:9–10) That is, if you’re living a life of sexual immorality, this is your lifestyle, this is your practice—there’s no compunction, no remorse, no guilt, no shame, no repentance—God says you’re going to hell. But notice what He says in verse 11: “And such were some of you”—not such are; were—“but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.” (1 Corinthians 6:11)

Now, when we see people who have broken lives and broken hearts and broken homes, what should we do? We need to do exactly what Jesus would do. Jesus was a friend of sinners. Jesus received them. Sure, divorce is wrong, and we’re never going to lower the standard here at Bellevue Baptist Church—not because we’re mean, but because we’re kind, because we want to set a standard for these kids in the choir, and other kids. We want to say, “This is God’s plan: one man for one woman.”

And so, if this were a cliff and we didn’t want our kids to fall off the cliff, we would build the wall as high as we could. But suppose some fall off, and they fall on the rocks down below. If this were a cliff, a mountain cliff somewhere, what is our job as a church? Our job as a church, friend, is to build this wall as high and strong as we can, but also to have an ambulance service down there at the bottom of the cliff to go down there to pick up the bruised and the broken and to tell them, “God loves you, and we love you, and it is never too late for God.”

And we cannot afford to wrap our robes of self-righteousness about us and say to these people whose lives have been broken, “There’s no room for you here at Bellevue Baptist Church.”

Conclusion

Now, let me just wrap this up. If you are now married, you make very certain that Christ is the head of your home and that your home is not built on mere romance or conditional love, that you have an unconditional love for your mate. Let Jesus give you that love.

Secondly, continue to feed your love day by day. Never take it for granted. I tell my wife—I try to tell her every day, many times, “I love you, darling. You’re precious to me. You’re beautiful to me.” I try to give her a number of hugs and a number of kisses every day to assure her of my love. You men, never flirt with another woman. Never cease to flirt with your own wife. Let her know that you love her, not necessarily for those physical traits, though it’s always wise to say something about those. But love your wife. If you don’t love your wife more now than you did when you married her, the chances are you love her far less.

Number three: If you have failed, if there’s immorality, if there’s been a divorce, ask God to forgive you. And if you are the one in the divorce, and it wasn’t your fault, and you were opposed to the divorce, forgive the partner. “Well,” you say, “they’re still doing wickedly.” Then ask God to give a spirit of forgiveness in your heart. And if you’re married and have a Christian home, make it a testimony to the world.

You know, I’ve had people tell me, “Adrian, what you preach about the home is not as important as what I see you practice.” Your home can be a testimony. Make your home a testimony in your neighborhood. These kids, this world, need to see a godly home personified. That may be the greatest lesson that you’ll ever give: just to let others see what a godly, Christian home ought to be. There are kids today, many of them grown up in the ghetto or wherever, they have not got a clue as to what I’m talking about. Find some. Invite them into your home, and let them see what a real home ought to be. And to you kids in the choir who are yet to be married—forgive me for turning my back—guys and gals, you listen to your pastor. In the name of Jesus, you keep yourself sexually pure, and you only marry a child of God. The Bible says you’re not to be “unequally yoked together with unbelievers.” (2 Corinthians 6:14) If you marry a child of the devil, you’re going to have the devil for a father-in-law. You marry in the Lord. Keep yourself pure and wait—wait for the right person.

I told my granddaughter the other day—I said, “I want you to know something: it’s better to marry a man worth a million who doesn’t have a cent than to marry a man who has a million and not worth a cent.” Now, if you can find one who has a million and worth a million, you’ve done good. But marry in the Lord.[]
Same-Sex Marriage and the Word of God

Introduction

Take God's Word and find, if you would, please, Matthew chapter 19, and I want us to read here, in just a moment, some Scripture. We in America are in a moral free fall, and unless something happens, unless people speak up, we're going to hit the bottom with a sickening thud.

Now, most Americans would rather not spend time talking about homosexuality, much less homosexual marriages, but we're, in a way, forced into a corner. The fallout is like a mushroom cloud that covers the land, and it is impossible to escape and unwise to be silent. All the major newspapers and the television news shows have reported the stunning news that four—I say, four—judges in Massachusetts have set the stage for same-sex marriage in America. This ruling ignores the history of our country. It ignores thousands of years of norms of Western civilization. And it is certainly, beyond the shadow of any doubt, contrary to the Word of God.

Matthew chapter 19—I begin in verse 1: "And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coast of Judaea beyond Jordan; and great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there. The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him"—or “testing him”—“and saying unto him,
Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?”—now, they wanted some information about marriage and divorce. But, Jesus goes back to the root of the matter in verse 4—“And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said”—this is Jesus now—“For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain”—or “they two”—“shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.”

(Matthew 19:1–6)

Now, if people disagree with that standard for marriage—and there may be some here tonight, or listening through radio—I would submit that it would be better for you to take it up with Jesus than to take it up with me. Just read the Word of God and tell God that this is wrong.

Now, some people say, “Well, it’s nobody else’s business who is married to whom. In America, anyone ought to be permitted to marry someone else, if they wish.” Well, that’s not true in America, and it never has been. For example, an adult can’t marry a child. No adult is permitted to marry a child. In America, you cannot marry a close blood relative. It is forbidden. In America, the law says you can’t marry someone who is already married. In America, the Bible teaches that you can’t marry a group of people. In America, you can’t marry an animal. Now, before long, somebody will want a law that allows a man to marry a monkey. You think that’s funny, and it sounds funny; but somebody will say, “Keep the government not only out of my bedroom but out of my barn.” And, the Bible, of course, speaks against bestiality and cohabiting with animals. No. In America, even now we’re not free just to marry whomever or whatever we wish. And, since the founding of this country, and in Western civilization, and pretty much all around the world, you are prohibited from marrying a person of the same sex.

Now, we don’t allow these things for a good reason. Biblical marriage is the joining together of a man and a woman to bring the next generation into the world and provide those children with mothers and fathers who will assume unique obligations and responsibilities.

Now, after forty years in America of this moral relativism, American people still have the understanding of this basic truth that God means for marriage to be between a man and a woman. Pew Research recently has released studies that show that the public rejects homosexual marriage by a margin of fifty percent to thirty-two percent. And interestingly, nearly eighty percent of all Republicans oppose homosexual marriage. Governor Romney of Massachusetts, who is the governor of Massachusetts, where these judges made their ruling, said a few days ago, on November 18, “I agree with three thousand years of recorded history. Marriage is an institution between a man and a woman, and our Constitution and laws should reflect that.” And our President, George W. Bush, issued a statement recently from London, England, when he was there meeting with Tony Blair, and he said this: "Marriage is a sacred institution between a man and a woman. Today's decision of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court violates this important principle." Then our President said, "I will work with the congressional leaders and others to do what is legally necessary to defend the sanctity of marriage." So, the governor of Massachusetts and the president of the United States have spoken clearly, and I hope that other wise people will speak clearly on this matter.

Now, this cultural storm has been brewing for the last decade, and a handful of power-obsessed judges have determined to force the homosexual agenda down the throats of the American people and to change the legal definition of marriage. I do not have a vocabulary strong enough to state as clearly as I wish the dangerous ramifications of what is happening in the United States and other Western nations.

For thousands of years, traditional marriage has been celebrated by every culture on earth as the cornerstone of society. But think what has happened recently in America. In the late sixties and early seventies, we had something called a "no-fault divorce," which is an oxymoron. And then, we had radical feminism. I’m not talking about women needing and wanting and expecting equal rights, which they should have; I’m talking about radical feminism that hates marriage and the home. And then, we had a sweeping social revolution led by Hugh Hefner and his ilk—this sexual revolution began, and it has carried on 'til today. We’re reaching the apex—or the bottom—of the pit, whichever way you claim to describe it, that is literally ripping apart the home and dismantling the society that we’ve known, before our eyes.

Now, on top of all of this, we see other straws in the wind. In the middle of this past year, July 28, the New York Board of Education announced the creation of a gay-oriented high school in New York City. That is, the high school is set up especially for homosexuals. And the mayor of New York, Mayor Michael Bloomberg, said, “Everybody feels that it’s a good idea.” Well, he’s wrong about that. And, if you’ve noticed—I guess maybe you’ve noticed; I haven’t; I’ve read this because I don’t watch the television sitcoms; I love my wife’s husband too much for that—but in the sitcoms today so many of them now feature a homosexual character in a positive light.

Now, the legal acceptance of homosexual marriage was little more than a pipe dream just a few years ago, but now it seems to be taking on the proportion of a tidal wave. And the reason for that is that we have lost our moral anchor. We’re back in the time of the Judges, where the Bible says, “Every man did that which was right in his own eyes” (Judges 17:6; Judges 21:25)—not which was wrong in his own eyes; “that which was right in his own eyes,” because he has no anchor, no moral standard, so he does what he thinks is right. But the Bible says, “There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.” (Proverbs 16:25) G. K. Chesterton said this: he said, “The danger, when men stop believing in God, is not that they will believe in nothing, but they will believe in anything.” And that’s where we’ve come today. So, there are those who want us to be accepting of a homosexual lifestyle. And most of these, or many of these, who believe that believe in natural evolution. And because they believe in natural evolution, they also believe in cultural evolution. In last Friday’s Commercial Appeal, Ellen Goodman wrote an article, and she said this, and I quoted it—I’m quoting it verbatim: “The evolution of gay rights and marriage laws now merge into the definition of marriage written by the Massachusetts court.” What she’s saying is that laws evolve, just like the human race has evolved. And so, we are expected now to accept what they call an “evolution process.”

Well, what we’re going to do tonight is look into the Word of God and see what the Word of God has to say about homosexuality, and then briefly see what the Word of God has to say about marriage. Now, I want to give you some scriptures, and you may jot these down.

I. Homosexuality Is a Moral Problem

I want you to see, first of all, that homosexuality in itself is a moral problem. That’s the first point: homosexuality is a moral problem. Now, what does the Word of God have to say about homosexuality? Now folks, I’m going to give you some black print on white paper, something that it would take an awful lot of fancy footwork to equivocate over. Here it is. Leviticus 18, verse 22: “Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination.” (Leviticus 18:22) Now, who said that? God said that. And again, to those who may want to quibble or argue with me, or call me intolerant, or call me a homophobe, or whatever, I would ask you, please, to take it up with God, and read this back to God, and just simply say, “God, that is wrong; I don’t agree with that.”

Again, Romans chapter 1, verses 26 through 28—God speaks of His judgment upon an ancient civilization, and He says this: “For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections”—underscore the phrase “vile affections”—“for even their women did change the natural use”—underscore “natural use”—“into that which is against nature”—underscore “against nature”—“and likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman”—underscore “natural use of the woman”—“burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly”—underscore “unseemly”—“and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet”—or “fitting”—that is, these kicks have a kickback. They receive “in themselves that recompence of their error”—“And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient” (Romans 1:26–28)—or “not fitting.” It is a reprobate mind that argues for this lifestyle. And the reason that people argue for this lifestyle is they do not like to retain God in their mind.
Now, the Bible makes it clear that this is a sin against God, and unless it is forgiven like any other sin, it will be judged at the Final Judgment. Notice 1 Corinthians chapter 6, verses 9 through 11: “Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not”—now, underscore this—“shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators”—what is a fornicator? That’s a person who practices sex outside the bonds of holy matrimony. Fornication, even if you’re not married, is a sin against the person you will marry. Fornication is adultery against the person you will marry. All sexual activity outside the bonds of holy matrimony is called fornication, and it’s clearly forbidden—“Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters”—and this is the worship of anything other than the Almighty. And we have today our sex idols. It’s remarkable here that God would mix idolatry into this list of sins; but when you understand how the ancients perverted their religion and actually made sexual gods like Baal and Aphrodite and others, then you can understand why He put idolaters here—“nor adulterers”—an adulterer is somebody who has extramarital sexual liaisons, who has a sexual relationship with someone other than his or her spouse—“nor effeminate”—the word effeminate here is translated in many Bibles “homosexuals”—“nor abusers of themselves with mankind”—and then he goes into another litany—“nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners”—now, listen to this—“shall inherit the kingdom of God.” (1 Corinthians 6:9–11) Now again, that’s black print on white paper. If this is your lifestyle, if you are a fornicator, if you are an adulterer, if you are a homosexual, and this is your lifestyle, God says, “Don’t deceive yourself: you’re not going to heaven.” That’s what God says. Again, you can’t make it say anything else but that.

“Well,” you say, “Pastor Rogers, I’ve committed adultery. Is there no hope for me?” “I’ve committed fornication. Is there no hope for me?” “I am a homosexual. Is there no hope for me?” Of course there’s hope for you, because the next verse, verse 11, says, “And such were some of you”—don’t you like that?—“And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.” (1 Corinthians 6:11) God never says that it’s hopeless. God never says, if you’ve failed, if you’ve sinned, there’s no hope for you. But God says if you blatantly, willfully, arrogantly continue on in an unholy, ungodly lifestyle, it means that you’ve never met the God of grace and the God of glory that Eddie sang about, and you need to be saved. In the Old Testament, in the New Testament, and in historic Christianity, homosexuality has always been treated as a sin, and the Bible is explicitly clear. Now, the homosexual community may say that it is not, and the homosexual community may say what I’m saying now is unloving, and hate speech, and certainly not politically correct; but that still doesn’t change the Word of God. The Word of God is still there, and we don’t have today morality by majority that changes the Word of God.
Now, let me say that homosexuality is a sin of choice. Nobody is a victim of homosexuality, as such; but like any other sin, homosexuality is a sin of choice. Adultery is a sin of choice. Fornication is a sin of choice. Lying is a sin of choice. Prejudice is a sin of choice. These things are wrong. There is only one physical, sexual relationship that is sanctioned and hallowed by Almighty God, and that is one man married to one woman in a marriage that is a lifetime commitment 'till death do them part. And that is God’s unchanging standard. I’m not about to change it. I couldn’t if I would. I wouldn’t if I could. And it makes no difference what the Massachusetts Supreme Court has to say about it. Adultery, fornication, lesbianism, homosexuality, bestiality, and other deviation is a breaking of the Seventh Commandment, that says, “Thou shalt not commit adultery.” (Exodus 20:14)

Now, someone says, “Well, what if a person is born a homosexual? What if the problem is in his genetics? Are we to blame people who are helpless victims?” Well, friend, I want to say that homosexuality, as I’m going to point out, is not a genetic problem, as such. Someone may be born with proclivities toward that kind of sin, and some people may be born with proclivities toward adultery or alcoholism. We’ll deal with that in just a moment. But the point I’m making is that, according to the Word of God, homosexuality is a moral problem.

II. Homosexuality Is a Spiritual Problem

Number two: Not only is homosexuality a moral problem; it is, therefore, a spiritual problem. The seeds of this sin come from the heart. It is a spiritual problem. Put in your margin “Mark chapter 7,” and begin in verse 21: “For from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness: all these evil things come from within, and defile the man.” (Mark 7:21–23) Now, if a person says, “I have these urges, so therefore it must be all right for me to do them,” I would say, “Do you think it’s all right for you to commit adultery because you have that desire? Do you think it’s all right for you to commit fornication because you have that desire? Do you believe it’s all right for you to commit murder because you have that desire? Do you believe it’s all right for you to be a thief because you have that desire? Do you believe it’s all right for you to be covetous because you have that desire? Do you believe that it’s all right for you to do wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, have an evil eye, blaspheme, and be filled with pride and foolishness because you have that desire?” These things are a spiritual problem. They come out of the human heart. All of us have a potential for all kinds of sin because we’re human beings. That doesn’t make it right.

We hear much today about “latent homosexuality.” And a person says, “I have latent homosexuality; therefore, it must be all right.” Well, some people have latent adultery.
Some people have latent thievery. Some people have latent murder. Some people have latent lying. There are all kinds of perverse desires in the human heart. But that does not remove the guilt, nor does it remove the responsibility to respond to our sinful nature in a positive and redemptive way. That’s what redemption is all about. That’s why the Apostle Paul said, “And such were some of you.” (1 Corinthians 6:11) Here’s what the grace of God does to those things, those latent desires that human beings have.

Number one: He forgives the sin. Number two: He changes our human nature. Number three: He imparts to us power to live a godly life.

Now, I grant you that some people have a greater propensity to one kind of sin and others to another kind of sin. Very frankly, I’ve never had a propensity toward homosexuality. I’ve had a propensity to sin—but not that. Other people would not have a propensity to do some things that I’ve had a propensity to do. But whatever propensity a person may have does not excuse the sin. Some may have a great propensity for incest, or for child pornography. They may be driven by it. That doesn’t make it right. Some people may be genetically inclined to alcoholism. Some people can drink with seeming impunity. Other people have a genetic weakness toward alcoholism. But that doesn’t make it right. Others seem to have an inborn desire for adultery. Let us all confess that we’re all born with an inclination to sin, but that does not make any individual sin right that God condemns. Do you think that God would cripple someone and then blame them for limping? Do you think that God would give a person an uncontrollable desire and then say, “If you do that, you have sinned”? No.

III. Homosexuality Is a Social Problem

Homosexuality is a moral problem, and homosexuality is a spiritual problem. Now, you say, “It’s nobody else’s business.” Well, let me say, thirdly, that homosexuality is a social problem. The problem affects and defiles an entire nation. Leviticus chapter 18, beginning in verse 22—God is speaking to His people going into the land of Canaan, and here’s what God says to them: “Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination. Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith.” (Leviticus 18:22–23)

When I said you can’t marry an animal, you tittered a little bit, but in today’s society where we have humanized animals and animalized humans, who is to say, if I want a monkey for a mate, that’s not all right? Who’s going to tell me what I can or cannot do? “Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination. Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith; neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: it is confusion. Defile not ye yourselves in any of these things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you.” (Leviticus 18:22–24) God said, “This is the reason I destroyed and cast out the Canaanite civilization.” They had gone into sexual perversion to such a degree that they were actually cohabiting, ultimately, with animals, pushing back the frontiers of sin. Genesis 19 tells us of the history of Sodom and Gomorrah, their open and vile homosexuality, and the resulting annihilation of these nations. And the Bible tells us that God left Sodom with its smoking ruins as an example to “those that after should live ungodly.” (2 Peter 2:6) God left them as an example.

Homosexuality was the downfall of Jerusalem. In 1 Kings chapter 14, God tells why He brought judgment to Jerusalem back in those days, beginning in verse 24. The Bible says, “And there were also sodomites in the land: and they did according to all the abominations of the nations which the LORD cast out before the children of Israel”—that’s why God cast them out. And then, the Bible says—“And it came to pass in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, that Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem” (1 Kings 14:24–25) because those who were living in Jerusalem had taken on the very habits, the very lifestyle, of those that God drove out so that there could be a Jerusalem to begin with.

Anybody who studies secular history can find in a study of secular history what has happened when homosexuality overcomes a nation. Greece reached its apex as an empire three hundred years before Christ. If you visit Greece, as some of us have done, go to the Parthenon, the Acropolis, see that beautiful building that came out of the Golden Age of Pericles, perhaps the most architecturally perfect building in the world, and realize that that was an antiquity in the times of Christ. We have nothing like that in modern society that we can point to for beauty. But Greece, at the peak of its national glory, allowed homosexuality to become an important influence, and then the Grecian Empire, the Greek Empire, began to die.

The same thing happened to Rome. Rome was the greatest empire the world ever knew. The Roman Empire was unparalleled in power and pomp, but it began to decline because of sexual morals. Fourteen Roman emperors were homosexuals. Nero, who led his nation to the graveyard of nations, was controlled by homosexual passions, and they were unbridled. I’ve been to Pompeii and Herculaneum in Italy. The ashes covered it all, but when they uncovered the ruins there of these opulent civilizations, you see the most grotesque and vile depictions of sexual deviancy. Was Vesuvius the judgment of Almighty God?

I’m talking about homosexuality being a social problem. Think of the diseases that we’re faced with, not only because of homosexuality, but because of heterosexual unfaithfulness. Think of all of the diseases here in our city: epidemics of syphilis, gonorrhea, and herpes among heterosexuals who fail to keep God’s law of one man for one woman. Study history and see that God has rewarded chastity with good health, and God has punished promiscuity with disease and death. We’ll say more about that later on. Four out of five AIDS victims are homosexuals, according to the latest statistical report that I have received. Of the rest, many are victims of contaminated blood donated by homosexuals. Some are intravenous drug users who share needles with homosexuals, some are women who have been infected by bisexual men, and some are children who were born to women who’ve been infected by these practices. The AIDS epidemic could be radically, dramatically changed, and ultimately cured, if all we would do is live by this book. That’s it—just live by this book! God’s plan: one man for one woman 'til death do them part.

“Well,” you say, “Pastor Rogers, it makes no difference what two consenting adults do so long as no one gets hurt.” That’s the problem. People do get hurt. And we as a society carry the baggage. We pay the debt, and we have innocent people who are hurt. Someone says, “Do you believe, therefore, that AIDS is the judgment of God?” No, no. God knows how to judge a whole lot better than that. The Judgment is coming. Do you think a little baby that dies of AIDS is under the judgment of God? No. That baby is suffering because some people think they’re wiser than God, and transgress the laws of God and the laws of nature, and do that which the Apostle Paul spoke about there in Romans. They do that which is contrary to nature; and so, others get hurt.

If a man takes a baby in his arms and steps out of a twenty-story building, the man is going to be hurt; the baby is going to be hurt. It’s not the baby’s fault, but that doesn’t mean that it’s all right, therefore, to step out of a twenty-story building with a baby in your arms.

No. Others get hurt. Now, when God judges, judgment is going to come at the Judgment Day, and it will be with exactitude. But sin is an equal opportunity employer, and people get hurt. It’s a sin against society.

Now, there are people who will argue with me. I’ve been preaching long enough to know that I’ll get some hate mail and I’ll get some arguments—and I don’t want that, but I’m not afraid of it. You see, there are people who don’t want to hear. Romans 1, verse 26: “For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature.” (Romans 1:26) Now, people are free to choose. They’re not free not to choose, and they’re not free to choose the consequences of their choice. They choose, and then their choice chooses for them.

Now, I want all people to have the right for the freedom of speech. If a person believes I’m wrong, or believes the Bible is wrong, or believes the Bible is a bundle of blunders, or believes that I have twisted and misrepresented the Bible, that individual is certainly free to say so. But I do not believe that a person has a right to a social lifestyle that may destroy the family and bring disease and death that is associated with it.

Now, homosexuals have learned that Christians—so-called Christians—who confront them are bigots, and the American religion today has become the religion of tolerance. Now, what is the proper attitude? Well, number one, we will always have compassion to those who are struggling with this moral failure as we would with a person who’s struggling in any area, whether it be drugs, whether it be alcohol, whether it be promiscuity, whether it be pornography. They’re people who need help, and we’re here to help them. But it’s one thing to help people who struggle against a sin; it’s another thing to give in to people who parade it and promote it. We won’t allow that to be paraded and promoted before our children, if we can help it. We will help those who need help, but we’re certainly not going to aid and abet those who want to push their lifestyle upon us. Romans 1:32—it speaks of these, “who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them.” (Romans 1:32) Today we live in a society that gets its pleasure from watching moral perversion.

You know what the last legs of a nation are? Turn to Isaiah chapter 3 for a moment. Look in verses 8 and 9 of Isaiah chapter 3. God speaks of what happened to His ancient people Jerusalem. He says, “For Jerusalem is ruined, and Judah is fallen: because their tongue and their doings are against the LORD, to provoke the eyes of his glory”—now, listen to this—“The shew of their countenance doth witness against them; and they declare their sin as Sodom, they hide it not. Woe unto their soul! for they have rewarded evil unto themselves.” (Isaiah 3:8–9) Sin that used to slink down back alleys now struts down main streets with pride. “They [show] their sin as Sodom, [and] they hide it not.” (Isaiah 3:9) Now, God goes on to say, “Say ye to the righteous, that it shall be well with him: for they shall eat the fruit of their doings. Woe unto the wicked! it shall be ill with him: for the reward of his hands shall be given him. As for my people, children are their oppressors, and women rule over them. O my people, they which lead thee cause thee to err, and destroy the way of thy paths. The LORD standeth up to plead, and standeth to judge the people.” (Isaiah 3:10–13)

Somebody needs to speak. Yes, we will have compassion with those who are struggling. Yes, we will resist those who want to normalize this and make us accept their lifestyle or be called wicked or intolerant. Those who want to worship here who need help are always welcome, and they will be treated with kindness and compassion. Those who want to push their lifestyle will find godly resistance. Those who suffer will find compassion. If a person has a disease, how he got that disease is not as important as the fact that he has it and needs help. He’s suffering, and we need to show compassion and help to the best of our ability. But we need to protect our families. We need to protect our children. We need to speak without stutter, stammer, or apology.

IV. Homosexuality Is a Solvable Problem
Now finally, I want to say that this is a moral problem; it is a spiritual problem; it is a social problem; and I want to say it is a solvable problem. Homosexuals need to know that we love them and that God loves them. They need to learn, again, that their situation is not helpless or hopeless. First Corinthians chapter 6, verses 9 through 11: “Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God”—but now, listen—“And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.” (1 Corinthians 6:9–11)

There was an editorial in today’s paper that tried to liken homosexual marriage to the civil rights struggle. Very frankly, if I were a black, I would resent that. I have known of some ex-homosexuals. I’ve never known of an ex-black. It’s not the same. Homosexuality is a lifestyle, and the Bible does not—even our Constitution does not—guarantee conduct rights. It does guarantee civil rights.

Now, some would say it is genetic. Dr. George A. Rekers, Professor of Neuropsychiatry and Behavioral Science at the University of South Carolina School of Medicine—not some Baptist preacher, but this man with his credentials—said, and I quote: “There’s no such thing as a natural inclination toward homosexual involvement. Instead, there are adverse situations in a child’s life that can lead to homosexual temptations.” There is hope. There is power in the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Conclusion

What is God’s plan for the family? “For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they [two] shall be one flesh… What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.” (Matthew 19:5–6) Who are the people of marriage? “Have ye not read, that [God] made them [in] the beginning…male and female[?]” (Matthew 19:4) What is the priority of marriage? “A man will leave his father and mother and cleave unto his wife.” (Matthew 19:5) The marriage relationship comes even before the relationship of parent and child. It is the highest, most holy of all relationships. That is the priority.

What is the purpose? That a man and a woman become one flesh. And, of course, that is demonstrated and shown in our offspring; and God’s plan is that there be a godly seed. Granted, there are some people who are married who cannot, for whatever reason, reproduce, but God’s plan and desire overall is that there be a godly seed. The people: a man and a woman. The priority: leave father and mother. The purpose: one flesh. The permanence: “What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.” (Matthew 19:6)

I read a silly editorial in today’s paper, or yesterday’s paper. And I won’t call the man’s name, but you go back and read the paper—you’ll know whom I’m talking about. And he said, “Rather than worrying about homosexual marriages, we ought to be worried about our heterosexual marriages that are coming apart.” He’s partly right, but totally wrong. When you take half of the truth and try to make half the truth all the truth, that half of the truth becomes an untruth. The fact that our matrimonial ship of state may be slowing sinking in the water doesn’t mean that we put on a load of elephants. Because we’re failing in one area doesn’t mean that we increase the problem. We need to get to work on our homes. God knows that we do.

I want to say I’m not angry. Somebody will say, “Boy, he preached a bellicose, angry sermon.” I’m not angry. Look up here. I am sad, and I am concerned. And I think it’s time the people of God prayerfully but steadfastly said, “Enough is enough.”

Introduction

Take the Word of God and find Matthew chapter 19, verses 1 through 6. We're told that America has gone through a sexual revolution. In a sense, that is true, but it is not a revolution. Devolution is a better word than revolution. It’s been a disaster. I can remember when air was clean, and adultery was dirty, can’t you? Times have changed in America, but God’s Word has not changed. The message today is to help you as parents to keep your children from being sucked down into swirling sewers of depravity, led by the money-grabbing, adulterous generation in Hollywood. The message today is a serious message and a needful message: “Treasuring Marital Fidelity.” “And it came to pass, that Jesus finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, and came unto the coasts of Judaea beyond Jordan; and great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there. The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female...”—may I just say parenthetically that Jesus believed in divine creation, and Jesus believed in the separation of the sexes. Now, look at this—“he...made them in the beginning male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder” (Matthew 19:1–6).

I. The Provision of the Married Life

Now there are several things I want you to notice, as we look into God’s Word, about treasuring marital fidelity. The very first thing I want you to see with me today is the provision of the married life. God made them in the beginning male and female. God ordained marriage in the Garden of Eden. Marriage is not old-fashioned. It is not out of date. It is not worn out. It’s not like the kerosene lamp or the Model-T Ford. It has not become obsolete.

Think with me for a moment about God’s provision of the married life.

A. The Plan for Marriage

It is a plan of God. It is a plan divine in creation. Look again in verse 4: “And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female...?” (Matthew 19:4).

Marriage is the first institution ordained of God. Marriage came before laws. Marriage came before civilization. Marriage came before government. Marriage even came before a system of worship and the church. It is the primary—the primary—institution of God. And, regardless of the tragic failures of the past, or our generation, the hope, the desire, for marriage is born anew in every generation, because it is something that God Almighty has put in the hearts and minds and constitution of people.

Now we have modern sociologists who are trying to disprove this. As a matter of fact, one of our college students handed me a paper this past week of a sociology course being taught at the University of Memphis. The paper handed to this student by the professor said this: “Family is a product of any given society at a particular time in history. As the social structure of society changes, so too must the form or structure of families and the function and role that families play in society.”

Now, what is that saying? That the family is just the product of society. It is the product of the times. It is the product, perhaps, of some evolution; but marriage did not originate in some primordial ooze, some prehistoric swamp of immorality. Marriage was ordained of Almighty God in the Garden of Eden, and Jesus said, "What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder" (Matthew 19:6; Mark 10:9). And the ultimate authority of marriage rests with God, and not with man or society.

B. The Priority of Marriage

That’s the plan. Now, the priority. Marriage is supreme above any other earthly commitment. Look in verse 5: “For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh” (Matthew 19:5). Parents are not the supreme commitment. We’re to honor our parents; but the Bible teaches that a man is to leave father and mother, and cleave unto his wife. That means that the purse strings and the apron springs are to be cut.

Children are not the prime commitment. We’re to love our children and care for our children; but you make a tragic mistake if you’re a wife and you pour all of that devotion into those children and not into your husband, because the children sooner or later are going to leave the home. Mate-to-mate is a higher relationship, in the Bible, than child-to-parent. That’s what God’s Word teaches. "For this cause shall a man leave [his] father and mother, and cleave unto his wife."

The business life is not the supreme commitment. Many of you are in danger of sacrificing your home on the altar of your business. Many business people today are expected to give that supreme loyalty to their business.

One man was told by his company that he had to transfer and go to another place. His wife thought that would be terribly upsetting. He said, “Well, she’ll just have to get used to it. If she wants to stay with me,” he said, “she ought to realize that my job is important. I can always find another wife.”

You know, it’s a strange thing. I didn’t mean that to be funny. There’s a little murmur that went through, because, you see, that that was too close to reality—that was too close to reality. I can always find another wife. We think that a man is a success if he has a divorce at twenty-eight, an ulcer at thirty-one, a cardiac at forty-five, and a big job.

C. The Permanence of Marriage

Think of the plan. Think of the priority. Think of the permanence of marriage. Look in verse 6: “Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder” (Matthew 19:6)—one man for one woman till death do them part. In spite of this, a judge at a national conference in a symposium said, “Let’s just face facts. I suppose we will just like to allow our young people to have two or three marriages before they settle down.” God forgive—God forbid—our throwaway marriages. One man for one woman till death do them part. That is the permanence.
D. The Product of Marriage

What is the product of marriage? Look again in verse 6: “one flesh.” Nothing more beautiful, nothing more intimate. A man and wife are like a violin and a bow. One is inadequate and incomplete apart from the other. Together, they make wonderful music.

Over here on a mountaintop is a little rivulet, a little stream, that begins to trickle down; over here in a distant mountain there bubbles up from a spring another little rivulet, and it begins to trickle down; and these take all kinds of courses coming down the mountainside, and then those two rivulets meet, and the water intermingles, and from then on they become one stream.

Now that’s like marriage. This and this become one flesh. Now, don’t get the idea that holy matrimony is some sort of a penalty. We talk about a monogamous marriage, and some say, “Oh, that’s a monotonous marriage.” They think of holy wedlock as deadlock. But you see, friend, God’s plans are for your good and your welfare. God loves you. “The LORD God is a sun and shield: the LORD will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly” (Psalm 84:11).

When God says, “Thou shalt not,” He’s saying, “Don’t hurt yourself.” When God says, “Thou shalt,” He’s saying, “Help yourself to happiness.” Incidentally, a new survey has recently been done and commissioned by the Family Research Council. That’s a pro-family lobbying group in Washington, D.C. And this is what that council found. Listen to this. People most likely to report that they’re very satisfied with their current sex life are married people who strongly believe that sex outside of marriage is wrong. Now, listen. People who keep God’s laws concerning sex, as a rule, enjoy more sex and enjoy sex more than those who break God’s law.

The poll found out that seventy-two percent of these married traditionalists—that is, one man for one woman till death do them part—seventy-two percent of married traditionalists report sexual satisfaction. This was thirty-one percent higher than unmarried non-traditionalists. Don’t let anybody make you envious of Hugh Hefner, or—I hate to profane my mouth—Madonna—excuse me. Hey, you’re not being left out of the hook. I’m telling you that God has a wonderful plan for you, and it operates best according to instruction.

First Corinthians chapter 7, verses 3 thorough 5—put this in your margin: “Let the husband render unto the wife due benevolence: and likewise also the wife unto the husband. The wife hath not power of her own body, but the husband: and likewise also the husband hath not power of his own body, but the wife. Defraud ye not one the other, except it be with consent for a time, that ye may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again, that Satan tempt you not for your incontinency” (1 Corinthians 7:3–5).
What does all of that mean? That means, friend, that God gave us sex, not only for procreation, but God gave us sex for fellowship, communion, joy, comfort, mutual love. In the Bible, when a husband and wife would come together sexually, the Bible would use this phrase: “thus-and-such a person knew his wife.” What does that mean? It means that sex is a form of communication that cannot be put into words. It is a way of saying “I love you” that you cannot say any other way.

Listen to me. When God has said in His holy Ten Commandments, “Thou shalt not commit adultery” (Exodus 20:14), and when God has said in the Epistles, “Flee fornication” (1 Corinthians 6:18), God is not trying to keep sex from you. God is keeping sex for you. Did you get that? You see, sex is a wonderful, beautiful gift of God. It is one of God’s most loving, wonderful gifts. And so, when God says, “Thou shalt not commit adultery,” it is because the married thing is so wonderful God does not want you to adulterate it.

If you had a Rembrandt, or Van Gogh, chances are you wouldn’t have that hanging in your family room wall. It would be in a vault somewhere. And God has protected this thing of sex because it is so intrinsically beautiful and wonderful. And when God says, “Thou shalt not,” He is not negative concerning the sexual life. He is very positive concerning sex rightfully given.

So sex is like the sod in your yard. It’s beautiful there. Take a shovelful and put it on your living room floor—and it’s just dirt. In its place, it is right. Out of its place, it is so wrong.

II. The Pollution of the Married Life

So that brings me to the second thing. First of all, I’ve talked to you about the provision of the married life: “Have ye not read, that [God who] made them at the beginning made them male and female...?” Now I want to talk to you about the pollution of the married life. Look in verses 7 through 9: “They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away? He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication,”—that word means, “sexual immorality”—“and shall marry another, commiteth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery” (Matthew 19:7–9).

What is our Lord saying? Our Lord is saying that adultery is a sin that pollutes the married life. To adulterate means, “to make impure.” And, again, God does not want you to make impure something that is so pure and so wonderful. When a man or a woman commits adultery, what kind of a sin do they commit? Let me tell you what kind of sin.
A. Adultery Is a Sin Against the Self

First of all, they sin against themselves. They sin against their own body. I'm going to give you a number of scriptures in the rest of this message. Please don’t turn to them, because we frankly do not have time. But I want you to note them on a piece of paper. First of all, he sins against himself. First Corinthians chapter 6 and verse 18—the Bible says, “Flee fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body; but he that commiteth fornication sinneth against his own body” (1 Corinthians 6:18). That means there's something absolutely unique about the sin of immorality. There is no sin more harmful spiritually, mentally, physically, and emotionally than the sin of adultery. It is unique in all of the list of sins. When you commit that sin, you sin against yourself.

Dr. Billy Graham, whom we all know and love, said, “I was speaking recently with the head psychiatrist at a great Eastern university, and that psychiatrist said that over fifty percent of all of the university students there are suffering psychological problems because of immoral relationships.” It’s an interesting thing. We know that today there are social diseases, and they are based primarily in immorality. And we’re wondering what we can do about the AIDS epidemic. I can tell you what we can do about it. Just begin to obey God’s Word—just that simple. All this blabber about safe sex: sex is not meant to be dangerous. Think about it. It is sacred sex, not safe sex: God’s plan. Oh, you can sow your wild oats if you want, but you’ll also reap them. Many people want to spend six days a week sowing wild oats, and then come to church on Sunday and pray for crop failure. God forgives. Nature never does.

Lord Byron, the playboy poet of England, lived fast and loose, and while he was still a young man, he wrote these words:

> My days are in the yellow leaf.
> The flowers and fruits of love are gone;
> The worm, the canker, and the grief,
> Are mine alone!
>
> —Lord George Gordon Byron

What happened to him was this: Satan lied to him.

B. Adultery Is a Sin Against the Home

Adultery is a sin against the self. Adultery is a sin against the home. Listen to me. The lives of innocent children are being torn apart every year in America because of adultery. The man who commits adultery tells his child this: “Your mother is not worth much, and your father is liar and a cheat. Furthermore, honor is not nearly as important as pleasure.
In fact, my child, my own satisfaction is more important than you are.” That’s what he tells his children when he commits adultery.

Monogamous marriage, one man for one woman, was given by God the Creator for the protection and the development of the deepest psychological, physical, and spiritual needs of humanity. Marital fidelity is the glue that holds the family together, and the family is the core of society. The family has been established to provide for love, physical care, social and spiritual development of the children. And marital fidelity is the glue that holds that unit together. Now you can understand why Satan has leveled his fiery darts against the home through sexual immorality.

C. Adultery Is a Sin Against the Church

Thirdly, not only does the man sin against himself, or the woman against herself; the adulterer sins against his or her own self; they sin against the home; it’s also a sin against the Church. If you’re a member of this church and you’re committing adultery, you’re sinning against me and against every other member, because we’re in this together. First Corinthians chapter 3 and verse 16: “Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy” (1 Corinthians 3:16–17). We’re in it together. The context of this verse speaks of immorality, and Paul is saying, “How can you commit immorality and so sin against the Body of Christ?” Adultery is a sin against the Church.

D. Adultery Is a Sin Against One’s Nation

Adultery is a sin against this nation. Adultery is an act of treason. It hurts every one of us. Listen to Proverbs 14, verse 34: “Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people” (Proverbs 14:34). Listen to this verse—Deuteronomy 22, verse 22: “If a man be found lying with a woman married to an husband, then they both of them shall die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman:”—now, listen to this next phrase—“so shalt thou put away evil from Israel” (Deuteronomy 22:22). In the Old Testament, under the theocracy—which we do not have today a theocracy—but in the Old Testament, under the theocracy, the sin of adultery was worthy of capital punishment. They would be put away. They would be put to death. Why? To “put away evil from Israel.” “Righteousness exalteth a nation.”

Let me tell you one of the most inane things that I’ve ever heard. People say, “What does character have to do with the ability to lead a nation?” May I tell you what it has to do with it? You want to know? Everything! Everything! Not part of it. That is it. “It doesn’t matter what the man’s character is, so long as he can lead the nation.” My friend, how foolish we Adultery is a sin against the Lord.

And I want to say something else. And, by the way, if you’ll study history, you’ll find out that it was immorality that led to the downfall of Greece, immorality that led to the downfall of Rome, immorality that led to the downfall of Egypt, immorality that led to the downfall of Babylon; and when they write the epitaph for America, unless we repent, they’ll have to say this was the sin that brought this nation down.

You see, the enemy of the home is the enemy of the nation. Why? Because people who treat sex lightly always treat other people lightly. People who treat sex lightly always treat other people lightly. And there can be no society, there can be no government, without this respect and mutual undergirding of one another.

E. Adultery Is a Sin Against the Lord

But listen to this. Adultery is a sin against the Lord. I said, is it sin against the self? Yes. Against the home? Yes. Against the church? Yes. Against the nation? Yes. But put all those aside now for a moment and listen to this. Adultery is a sin against Almighty God. It is a clinched fist in the face of God.

When David committed adultery, he rightly said, in Psalm 51 and verse 4, “Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight” (Psalm 51:4). Why? Because God has said without stutter or stammer, in the Book of Exodus chapter 20 and verse 14, “Thou shalt not commit adultery” (Exodus 20:14). Adultery shows contempt and disrespect for Almighty God. When you commit adultery, you break both God’s law and God’s heart, because God is a loving God but He is a holy God.

You can be absolutely certain that God will judge the sin of adultery. Jot these scriptures down. Hebrews 13, verse 4: “Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge. You can carry that to the bank. Adulterers and whoremongers, God will judge” (Hebrews 13:4). Job 31, verse 11: “For this is an heinous crime; yea, it is an iniquity to be punished by the judges” (Job 31:11). Leviticus 20, verse 10: “The man that committeth adultery with another man’s wife, even he that committeth adultery with his neighbour’s wife, the adulterer and the adulteress shall surely be put to death” (Leviticus 20:10). Again, that is under the old economy, but it shows the attitude of Almighty God.

You say, “Well, it won’t make any difference to me.” But Proverbs 6, verses 27 and following: “Can a man take fire in his bosom, and his clothes be not burned? Can one go upon hot coals, and his feet be not burned? So he that goeth in to his neighbour’s wife; whosoever toucheth her shall not be innocent” (Proverbs 6:27–29). Proverbs chapter 6 and verse 32:
“But whoso commiteth adultery with a woman lacketh understanding: he that doeth it destroyeth his own soul” (Proverbs 6:32). First Corinthians chapter 6, verse 9: “Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived:”—oh, listen. Don’t be deceived—“neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind” (1 Corinthians 6:9)—God says, “If this is your lifestyle, don’t bank on going to heaven, because you’re not, unless you repent.” Ephesians 5:5: “For this ye know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God.” Revelation 21, verse 8: “But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death” (Revelation 21:8).

When God gave the Ten Commandments, He was giving law, not advice. And law without penalty is only advice. It doesn’t matter who rationalizes it. It doesn’t matter who glamorizes it. It doesn’t matter what Hollywood says. It doesn’t matter what makes Jay Leno laugh. God’s Word is there. It is a sin against Almighty God. You say, “Well, God hasn’t judged me.” No, because you haven’t come to judgment yet. The Bible says, in Romans 2, verse 5, “But after thy hardness and impenitent heart treasurest up unto thyself wrath against the day of wrath” (Romans 2:5). The day of wrath is not yet here. It will come.

III. The Preservation of the Married Life

Now here’s a third thing I want to say. I’ve talked to you about the provision of the married life. It is a gift of God. I’ve talked to you about the pollution of the married life. Because it is such a wonderful gift, Satan has leveled all of the artillery of hell against it: the chief weapons and its holster are those things associated with sexuality. But here’s the third thing I want you to see—I want to get on a happy note—and that is the preservation of the married life.

God has given us a plan. Look again in verse 4: “And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh?” (Matthew 19:4–5).

Let me give you six words that begin with the letter d, just as a memory device to help you to get your marriage tracking and to keep it tracking—to keep yourself pure.

A. Decision

The first one is decision—decision. Make a decision that you’re going to live for God. Now God will not force His will upon you. Listening to sermons will not change you unless you decide to obey the Word of God. “Choose you this day whom ye will serve” (Joshua Give your heart to the Lord. God is not going to force Himself on you. Give your life to Christ.

B. Dependence

Number two: dependence. It is not enough to decide, because you do not have the strength. He is able to deliver you if you will trust Him. “There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it” (1 Corinthians 10:13).

C. Devotion

Thirdly: devotion. Begin to love the Lord with all of your heart, with all of your soul, and love your wife with yourself. Love with a supernatural love. After this decision, and after this dependence, let God pour His love through you. You are to love your wife, not if you feel like it, but because God commands it. Husbands, love your wives. Women are to be taught to love their husbands. And a love for your mate comes out of a love for Almighty God, primarily. My wife does not mind being second place in my life. She knows that, because Jesus Christ is first in my life, I love her with a love I could not love her with had Jesus Christ not been first in my life.

D. Development

Fourthly: development. Continue to feed your love from day to day. You must nurture your love.

Love is not like an exquisite gem that you have and hold and look at and treasure as it sparkles with its beauty to be possessed. Love is a growing thing. It’s more like flower that needs to be cultivated. It needs to be nurtured. It needs to be protected. And its full beauty can be developed through life.

If you don’t love your wife now more than you loved her when you got married, you probably love her a lot less. I can give this testimony. I love my darling wife now far more than I loved her when I got married. And when I got married, I loved her with all of my heart. But I love her more and more. And she’s not here today. I wish she were. But last night I got down on my knees and with tears thanked God for my precious wife. Continue to nurture your wife.

Gentlemen, learn to flirt. Learn to flirt, but not with any other woman—just the girl you’re married to. Keep that flirtation going through all of your life. Never call the waitress, “sweetheart,” “honey.” She’s not your sweetheart. You’ve got one sweetheart—just one. Never call somebody else “dear” or “darling.” They’re not your dear. They’re not your darling. There is one who needs to know beyond a shadow of any doubt she is sweetheart, she is darling, she is number one. And develop that love, and keep it growing.

E. Discipline

Next: discipline—discipline. Guard your company. Twenty-seven times in the New Testament we’re told to run: “Flee fornication” (1 Corinthians 6:18). Don’t put yourself in bad company. Don’t watch garbage. You wouldn’t put garbage in your mouth, would you? Why put garbage in your mind? When I was in college, I kept on my desk a motto that said this: “He that would not fall down ought not to walk in slippery places.” Keep yourself clean. Keep yourself pure. Watch what you set before your eyes. There needs to be a discipline. And, generally, if you’re disciplined in other areas of life—in your sleep, in your diet—you’ll find it more easy, natural, to be disciplined in your sexual life also.

F. Determination

Number six: determination—determination. I mean, just get it settled once and for all. Job said, “I made a covenant with my eyes not to look upon a maid” (Job 31:1). The Psalmist said, “My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed” (Psalm 57:7)—just absolutely determined.

You know, when I go away to a hotel or a motel somewhere, I don’t have to make up my mind whether I’m going to watch filth in that hotel. I don’t make a lot of little decisions. I don’t make up my mind whether I’m going to consort with somebody else. I’ve already made up my mind. One big decision will take care of a lot of little decisions. Just make up your mind.

That doesn’t mean that you do it in arrogance. That doesn’t mean that you’re not depending upon the Lord. I’ve already talked about that when I talked about decision and dependence and devotion. But there needs to be a determination to say, “By the grace of God, I will be pure. I will be clean. My heart is fixed on God, trusting in thee. Friend, it will be worth it.

Conclusion

Now you say, Pastor Rogers, I wish I’d heard this message five years ago, ten years ago. I failed. Yes, but God is a God of grace, and God is a God of forgiveness. When that passage over there in 1 Corinthians says that adulterers shall not inherit the kingdom of heaven, it goes on to say, “And such were some of you” (1 Corinthians 6:11). Don’t you love that? “Such were some of you.” We confess our sin, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sin, and to cleanse us from all—all—iniquity (1 John 1:9). And “What God has called clean, let no man call unclean” (Acts 10:15).
Oh, I’m not trying to minimize the sin when I say that, but I’m maximizing the grace. One of my favorite stories in the Bible is that woman taken in adultery. Jesus said to her, “Does no man condemn you?” She said, “No man, Lord.” And He said, “Nor do I” (John 8:11). “The Son of man has not come to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved” (John 3:17). But then He also said what? “Go, and sin no more” (John 8:11). Our God is a God of a second chance.

Introduction

Would you take your Bibles and turn to Matthew chapter 19. We’re going to be talking about “Family Faithfulness”—keeping love alive. I asked Joyce, “Will you love me, Joyce, when I’m old and unattractive?” She said, “Of course I do!” We want to keep love alive. You know, there’s something very sad in today’s world, and what it is this: we have so many who have what I call throwaway marriages. Somehow it just doesn’t work out, so they just throw it away. As somebody said, they start, they get married, as an ideal. Then, that ideal turns to an ordeal. And then, they’re looking around for a new deal. That’s sad—that’s sad.

I can remember when families really were traditional. I came from a traditional family. I married a girl who came from a traditional family. We lived together. Mothers took care of the home. Fathers went off to work. We ate our meals together. We went to church together. We fussed together. We played together. We were a traditional family. That’s not true anymore. In the typical family in America both husband and wife work. Another six million-plus households have, not a father and mother, but a single parent. And that means one out of four families are led by a single parent. And experts tell us, in the coming years half of all children will grow up in homes with a single parent, and most mothers will work outside the home.

Now a lot of this is caused by divorce. And I was reading in Newsweek magazine. Listen to this: “The landscape is littered with victims of the divorce epidemic,”—notice this is not some Baptist preacher, but it’s Newsweek talking about a divorce epidemic—“exA wives raising their children alone, former husbands trying to start new lives and still be good fathers to kids they see only on specified days, and the children themselves often torn between two warring parents.” And this Newsweek article went on to talk about a study of sixty divorced middle-class families in Northern California. There was a psychologist—her name was Judith Wallerstein—and she found out, of these sixty couples, only ten percent—only ten percent—of the ex-spouses said they had succeeded in improving their lives. Only ten percent said this divorce made things better. And then she went on to say—Wallerstein says this—“Divorce is seen as a wrenching experience for every family I have seen. And, of course, we know the devastating effect on the children. Broken homes produce broken lives, which produce broken homes, which produce broken lives—and on and on it goes.”

Now we have the sophisticated intellectuals of today that will tell us that, “We’ve come way past, Adrian, what you believe in, and what you Christians believe in.” So we’re being told today that sex between unmarried couples is normal and acceptable. We’re told that homosexuality is just an alternate lifestyle. We’re told that unmarried motherhood has no great shame to it. We’re told that marriage is not sacred, because nothing is sacred. And the only law today in America, the chief code in America, is, don’t be judgmental. That’s the way we live today.

Well, let’s see what God’s Word has to say. Matthew chapter 19, beginning in verse 1: “And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coasts of Judaea beyond Jordan; and great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there. The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him,”—that means, “testing him”—“and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?” That is, “If she’s not attractive, or if she cannot cook, or if she has mismanaged the finances, or if she’s irritable, can I just put her away?” “And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read...”—and, by the way, Jesus expects you to read the Bible, my friend—“Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female...”—and let me say this: one of the most damning things today that the devil has done is to blur the distinction between male and female. He—“made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain”—that is, “they two”—“shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder. They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away? He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you”—or “allowed you”—“to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication,”—that means, “sexual immorality”—“and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.” (Matthew 19:1–9)

Well, I’m going to stop reading right there for a moment, and I want to lay some things on your heart, because I think in America today somebody needs to speak up and say a word about family faithfulness. We need this more than I can possibly say. Now there are three things I want to lay on your heart this morning, and I pray God that he will write them indelibly upon your heart.

I. Marriage Is Made by Heaven

The first thing I want you to understand is that marriage is made by heaven—marriage is made by heaven. Look, if you will, in verse 4: “Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh?” (Matthew 19:4)

Now marriage did not come from sociology. It did not come from the primordial ooze of evolution. Marriage is not some cultural innovation. Marriage is made by heaven. It is God’s plan.

Now, if you could take the best carpenter in the world, and give him the assignment to build a house, but if that carpenter doesn’t know what a house is, there’s no way he can build it—no matter how good a carpenter he is. You can take the best people in the world and say, “Build a home,” but if they don’t know what a home and a family is according to God, there’s no way possible that they can build it, because they have no guide.

Now God gives us the guide here, and in all marriage problems all marriage counseling is all built around three words here—three verbs. Number one is the word leave. Look at it: “For this cause”—verse 5—“shall a man leave father and mother,”—underscore that—“and shall cleave...”—underscore that; and then finally— “and they...shall be one flesh”—underscore “they...shall be one flesh.” (Matthew 19:5) And there it is: “leave,” “cleave,” “be one.” That’s what marriage is. You leave and you cleave.

A. Leave: The Priority of Marriage

Now when God says you are to leave—that speaks of the priority of marriage. Now, if you’re making notes, write that down. “Leave” speaks of the priority of marriage. You know what you have as a parent? You know what your task is as a parent? Your task as a parent is to get your children ready to leave the nest.

And the Bible uses this idiom: “as an eagle stirs her nest.” (Deuteronomy 32:11) You know what the eagle does? It has little eaglets there in the nest, and it has a nice place there. The mother has lined it somewhat softly with feathers and bark and leaves; and that eaglet there is up there high on that crag in that nest, and the mother is bringing the little eaglet a mouse and a nice juicy worm, and everything is fine. But there comes a time when that mother knows that little eaglet has to fly, has to leave the nest; and so she begins to go in there and beat that little bird with her wings and flap over that bird and get it up on the precipice and finally push it over; and it begins to fall, and tumble and tumble, and scream and screech. Finally, it stretches its little wings and catches the wind. And if it looks like it’s going to fall, she’ll just sweep under it, catch it on her wings, bear it up on her wings, and bring it back into the nest. But what she’s doing is teaching that little bird to fly. That’s the same thing you do with your children. You’re going to have to teach them to leave the nest.

And you know what my responsibility has been as a father, and your responsibility is? If you still have children in your home, it is really to work yourself out of a job. I am successful when my children no longer need me. You are successful as a mother when your children no longer need you. Now it’s against human nature to want to work yourself out of a job. You know why we have children to begin with? I’m not talking about biologically; I’m just talking about what the emotional need is. We have a need to be needed. God built that into us. We have a need to be needed. We want somebody to depend upon us. So we have a need to be needed, and so the love that you have for your child is that need to be needed. When your baby is born, you look down at that baby: you’ve never met them before, you don’t know anything about them, but you love them, right? You love them. That is called need-to-be-needed love. And then, the little baby, she loves mother. Now, does she love mother because mother is charming, because mother is beautiful, because mother is so intelligent, or has a good sense of humor? No, the baby needs more. And so the baby has need love, and the mother has need-to-be-needed love. So you take need-to-be-needed love and need love, and there is a bonding.

And so there comes a time, however, when mother is not needed as much as she needs—as she wants to be needed. There comes a time when a child will grow up and will reach a particular age when they don’t need mother to make every decision, and to fuss over them, and to care for them, and to guide them, and say, “You must do this,” and, “You can’t do that.” That’s normal. That’s natural. That’s the point we’re trying to bring them to: when they no longer need mother; they no longer need father; they can get out in this world and operate on their own. As Jesus said, “For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife.” (Matthew 19:5)

But sometimes a mother who needs to be needed at that point will begin to create artificial needs to keep that child tied to the apron strings. Why? Because she needs to be needed. And what will the child do? The child is trying to untie those needs, because he has needs to be an individual himself, and so he’s trying to break free. And what do parents sometimes do? They say, “You are a rebellious child.” A child may not be rebellious at that point; but it can turn into rebellion if the parents don’t understand that there is a legitimate need-to-be-needed time, and there is a legitimate need time, but there also comes a legitimate time when that little eagle needs to learn how to fly, isn’t that right? And that’s very hard for us to work ourselves out of a job like that.

But let me tell you something. When they get to a certain age, they’re like a bar of soap. If you squeeze them too hard, they’ll pop out of your hand. But you hold them gently, and you understand when that right time is, and you learn this: while you work yourself out of a job, you don’t work yourself out of a relationship. And when you let them go as children, they will come back as friends, and they will be the best friend you ever had. I’ll tell you, Bob, I’d rather be with my family than be with you, Bob Sorrell. I’ll tell you the truth, I really had. And he’s my dearest friend on this earth. But I want to tell you something. There’s something about your family, as they come back, and they come back as friends. It is absolutely wonderful when we learn what God has said, that, “For this cause shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife.”

Now sometimes we talk about mother-in-law problems. You know what mother-in-law problems often are? And especially it’s the mother of the groom that causes the problem so many times. It’s two women in love with the same man. I mean, she is trying to control him; she still wants him to be her little boy, and the daughter-in-law says, “Hey, he’s my husband.” And that’s where that problem comes from. So, don’t commit emotional incest. Let them go!

Now, listen to me. Marriage, in physical relationships, is the supreme commitment. You are to honor your parents; but your parents are not your supreme commitment. “For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother.” You are to love your children; but your children are not the supreme commitment. Mate-to-mate is a stronger commitment than children-to-parents, and parents-to-children. Now we better learn that. “For this cause shall a man leave his father and his mother.”

Listen. Business is not your supreme commitment. Some of you businessmen are sacrificing your family upon the altar of your business, and the corporation is just moving people around; and so often that is the cause of great distress. A man sacrifices his family for the corporation. In my estimation, a man is not a success when he has a divorce at twenty-eight, and also at thirty-one, and a cardiac arrest at forty-five. Everybody says, “But look what he did! What a success he is!” To me he’s not necessarily a success.
B. Cleave: The Permanence of Marriage

Now, look, first of all: to leave—that is what? The priority of marriage. Now, secondly, watch: and to cleave—to cleave. That is the permanence of marriage. The word cleave means “to weld” or “to glue.” When you get married, friend, it is a lifetime contract, not an optional one. You show me two kids who consider divorce as an option, and I’ll show you a family that has a great potential for disintegration. You show me people who do not consider divorce as an option, and I’ll show you a family that will hang together and stay together. Listen to me. Those families who stick it out and those who don’t have basically the same kinds of problems—they have basically the same kinds of problems. There are no problems too big to solve, just people too small to solve them. If we would learn to attack the problem rather than one another, we could work it out.

C. Be One Flesh: The Purpose of Marriage

You see, he says that we’re to leave. That’s the priority of marriage: “leave father and mother.” We are to cleave. That is the permanence of marriage. It literally means, I say, “to weld” or “to glue.” And then, he says we are to be one flesh. That is the purpose of marriage—the purpose of marriage. We’re to be one flesh. Now it’s talking about more than sexual union. When you got married, you married a whole person: body, soul, and spirit. And see, you’re no longer an individual; you’ve become one flesh. God’s arithmetic is, one plus one equals one. That’s God’s arithmetic. Marriage is a romance in which both the hero and the heroine die in the first chapter, and a new person comes into being, and that new person is one flesh.

Now we’re to be one flesh physically. And sex is not dirty or impure; it is a wonderful gift of God. Hollywood has made sex dirty. Somebody asked, “Can you remember when the air was clean and sex wasn’t dirty?” Sex is a gift of God. When God says, “Thou shalt not commit adultery”; (Exodus 20:14) when God says, “Flee fornication”; (1 Corinthians 6:18) when God says, “Marriage is honourable…and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge,” (Hebrews 13:4) God is not trying to keep us from sex; God is trying to keep sex for us. It is God’s gift, and so God has put some high walls to protect it and to preserve it. It’s God’s wonderful gift so that a husband and wife can know one another in the most intimate of relationships. As a matter of fact, when husband and wife would have this relationship in the Bible, the Bible would say they “knew” one another. It’s a way of saying “I love you” that cannot be put into words. And the devil has tried to take this which is so wonderful and beautiful and to trivialize it.

Do you know what gives me a great heartache today? The President of the United States broke his marriage vows—and here’s what really breaks my heart: people say, “Well, it’s only about sex”—“it’s only about sex.” Do you see what this says to the minds of our children? Do you see how this trivializes the whole thing? You know what they’re saying? “Oh, that’s not an important thing”—“that’s not an important thing.” My dear friend, listen to me. That is so radically, fundamentally, indispensably important. Read your Bible. See what God is saying. My God, what has happened to us? Read the Ten Commandments one more time.

So, what is the purpose of marriage? That we might be one flesh physically; that we might be one flesh emotionally. Not only should we be sweethearts; we ought to be friends. My best friend, I said, was Bob. No, you’ve slipped down another totem. My best friend is Jesus, and my next best friend still comes behind my best friend, who’s Joyce. She’s my friend; she’s a friend. She is my lover, she is my sweetheart, but she is my friend because we are one flesh physically, we’re one flesh emotionally, and we are one flesh spiritually, because we love the same Lord, we’re members of the same body, His body. Now, friend, that’s what God wants for marriage—is that wonderful unity. And so Jesus says, “Here’s what marriage is: marriage is made in heaven.” He gives us, dear friend, the purpose of marriage. He gives to us, dear friends, the very essence of what marriage is.

II. Marriage Can Be Marred by Hell
But now here’s the second thing I want you to look at with me today. I want you to see that, not only is marriage made by heaven, but marriage can be marred by hell—marriage may be marred by hell. Look, if you will, in verses 1 to 3: “And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coasts of Judaea beyond Jordan; and great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there. The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?” (Matthew 19:1–3) That is, just as I said, we’re going to be looking for a new deal. Go on down to verse 7. Jesus said, “They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away? He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.” (Matthew 19:7–9)

Now God desires that marriage be a permanent union. The only reason that Jesus allowed divorce was for immorality, for fornication. Put in your margin Matthew 5, verses 31 and 32. Jesus said, “It hath been said, Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a writing of divorcement: but I say unto you, That whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery.” (Matthew 5:31–32)

Now, let’s look at this very carefully here. Moses permitted divorce; he never commanded divorce. Jesus said, “From the beginning it was not so; this is not God’s original intent.” A marriage may be broken by the continual marital unfaithfulness of one of the partners. The word fornication is the Greek word porneia, and it means “sexual impurity.” But even when a husband or wife has been unfaithful and committed adultery, does that mean that a divorce is called for? No. Reconciliation and forgiveness is called for to put the family back together in spite of that; to forgive, to restore, to replace—and it can be done.

Read the Book of Hosea. Hosea the prophet had a wife whose name was Gomer. She finally became a prostitute. She got down to the very depths, to the dregs. Hosea went and found her, bought her from the slave market, restored her, forgave her, and took her back to be his wife. Now God does allow divorce for marital infidelity—and sometimes it’s not possible—but what we try to do even when that happens here in the church is to restore that relationship with forgiveness and grace, and it becomes what I call a “super glue marriage.” You know what a super glue is. It’s stronger where it’s put back together than it was before it was broken. That can happen—that can happen.

We have so many, however, trivial excuses for divorce in today’s world. For example, people say, “Well, the love has gone out of our marriage.” I’ve actually had men come speak to me, say, “I want to divorce my wife.” And I say, “Well, why?” And he says, “Well, I don’t love her anymore.” He doesn’t get a lot of encouragement from me, because the Bible says, in Ephesians chapter 5, verse 25, “Husbands, love your wives.” (Ephesians 5:25) That’s not a suggestion. That’s a command. Behind every command of God is the omnipotent power of God to carry it out. Women are to love their husbands. The Bible says, in Titus 2, verse 4, “That they may teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands.” (Titus 2:4) We’re commanded to love.

Now part of the problem is the world’s definition of love and our definition of love. Let me ask you guys a question. When you were dating, looking around for a girlfriend, and you were just kind of looking around the field there, what were you looking for? You won’t kid me. I know what you were looking for. You were looking for a looker. You were looking for somebody that was attractive physically. You might also have been looking for somebody who was cute, somebody who was funny, somebody who had a good sense of humor—that meant they laughed at your jokes—somebody who was popular. A face and a body: that’s what you were looking for, and your heart began to, you know, pump, pump, pump, pump, and you finally got close to her, and finally got in that situation, and you leaned over and you whispered in her ear something like this: “I love you”—“I love you.” But you know what you really meant is, “I want you.” The world calls that love. But, you see, that kind of love is very conditional, and a person who’s loved that way and that way only is going to feel very insecure, because, I mean, she might, when she was eighteen, look this way, and when she’s forty, it’s this way. She has what we call a Supreme Court figure: no appeal. And he might have been so handsome, but now he’s kind of bald and bulky.

And you think about it—you think about it. Now, friend, if we love people because of this attractiveness, you know what’s going to happen? When the attractiveness changes, that kind of love is conditional love. And that’s the reason we have so many people who get divorced, because we have an emotional, conditional love.

A man loves a woman like he loves a sweet orange. He takes a plug out, squeezes the juice out of it, and says, “There’s nothing else left for me,” and throws it on the ground like a piece of garbage. He loves because of what he can get out of it.

Now when the Bible says, “Husbands, love your wives,” (Ephesians 5:25) it uses another kind of a word for love. It is the word agape—agape love. That’s the kind of love that Christ has for the Church, and it is a non-conditional love. Did you know that God loves you unconditionally? And do you know that’s the way you’re to love your mate? Unconditionally. You see, if you do not love, if your mate feels that you do not love them unconditionally, you know what’s going to happen?

This is why we have so many divorces. The very first thing that’s going to be in a person’s mind is fear. You know, “I’ve got to perform; I’ve got to keep the house a certain way; I’ve got to look a certain way; I’ve got to lose a certain number of pounds; I’ve got to do this; I’ve got to do that, because if I don’t, I may lose him”—“I may lose her.” There’s a fear of that. And then, when that divorce comes, what happens? Guilt. “I didn’t live up. I wasn’t good enough. I didn’t perform enough. So I was not acceptable to my mate.” And so somehow we feel guilt. And then after a while that guilt turns to what? Anger. “Now, wait a minute. He has no right to do this.” And that anger says, “I was used, and now I’m discarded.” And then, that anger turns to bitterness. Bitterness is a living hell.

A lot of people are going through just that kind of a thing, because all of that is built on conditional love. The kind of love that the Bible teaches is an unconditional love. And when you know that you’re loved unconditionally, rather than fear, there is peace. And, rather than guilt, there is security. And, rather than bitterness, there is joy. We have to learn to love as Jesus loved. And that’s the reason it takes Christ to make a marriage, because, friend, you don’t have that kind of agape love. That is not a human product. The Bible says that, “the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost.” (Romans 5:5) And when we learn to love unconditionally, we don’t have to listen to the devil’s lies. We have so many of these lies today. You know, we think that love is some sort of an emotional experience, and, “Well, I love you because you make me feel good.”

No, I’m not going to get finished with this sermon. Man, you did not listen very quickly.

It was Gary Smalley who said that some people treat marriage like a tick treats a dog. They’re only on that dog for what they can get out of it. The problem with marriage is there are two ticks and no dog. We’re trying to make somebody else satisfy and meet our needs, which is basically selfish.

Now, there’s nothing wrong with romantic love; but, friend, romantic love is not enough.

III. Marriage Is Always Marked by Hope
I just want to get to the third point, because I just want to put it in your heart and your mind. I’m going to leave out a lot of stuff about this kind of love. Marriage is made in heaven. Marriage may be marred by hell. But marriage is always marked by hope.

Now I want you to see this. Look at this, if you will. God gives you hope in your home, even if you’ve been divorced, even if you cannot get remarried, or whatever the situation. And I believe there are legitimate times for a person to be remarried; but no matter where you are, whether your home seems to be a living hell, whether you’ve been deserted, no matter what—listen to me—divorce is not the unpardonable sin; it is not a dead-end street. And if you’ve been divorced, you are not a second-class citizen. There’s something called the grace of God.

Now we need to hold that up in this church. Forgiveness is always available. The Bible says, in Romans 8:1, “There is no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus.” The Bible says, in 1 John 1:7, “The blood of Jesus Christ, God’s Son, cleanses us from all sin.” The Bible says, in Isaiah 1:18, “Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow.” Our church is not a showcase for saints. You think I’ve brought you in here to make you feel bad because Satan has hurt you? You’re wrong. We’re here as a church to minister to you.

I remember reading in the Bible about a woman taken in adultery. Men were saying, “Stone her”; and Jesus said, “Woman, where are your accusers? Isn’t anybody accusing you?” She said, “No, my Lord.” He said, “Nor do I. Go, and sin no more.” (John 8:1–11) I remember reading about the woman at the well. She had five husbands. She became an evangelist that led the entire city of Samaria to Christ. God used her mightily. (John 4:1–42) God doesn’t hold grudges.

Put this scripture down—1 Corinthians 6, verses 9 through 11: “Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate,”—that means, “homosexuals”—“nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.” Put it down big, plain, and straight: if that’s your lifestyle, that’s the lifestyle you embrace, you need to get saved. You will not inherit the kingdom of God. But now, notice verse 11. I love this: “And such were some of you...”—he did not say, “And such are some of you”—“And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus.” (1 Corinthians 6:9–11)

Isn’t that wonderful? If you’re in Christ Jesus, you’re a new creature. And I don’t care what has happened in the past: marriages that are made in heaven are either marred by hell or marked by hope. And He is the God of grace and the God of forgiveness. There are many wonderful people who have come out of broken homes and children, families, and heartaches, and tears. We’re here as a church to help and not to hurt, to lift and not to push down further. And we’re here for you. And we want you to know this. Yes, divorce is wrong, and I want to save our kids in this church from it. And so here’s a precipice, a cliff, and we don’t want them to fall over. And so we’re going to build a wall up here as high as we can. But down in the valley we’re also going to put an ambulance to help those who have fallen over. We’re going to make sure there’s gas in it. That’s one of the reasons that Glen Putman is here: to help us to minister to these people.

Conclusion
Now I must close; but, friend, listen to me. If you are married, you make certain that Christ is the head of your home. If your marriage is not a Christian marriage, give your hearts to Jesus Christ, because the devil is working against you. Number two: If you’re married, continue to feed your love day by day. Don’t take it for granted. Number three: If you’re divorced, ask God for forgiveness, if it was your fault. If you were divorced because of someone else’s wrongdoing, forgive in your heart, and don’t let bitterness carry you away. Next: Remember that your godly home can perhaps be the greatest testimony that you’ll have in this world. And if you’re unmarried, I beg you kids, you marry only in the Lord, and build a Christian home. A home is the sweetest place on earth, the nearest place to heaven. It’s the only part of the Garden of Eden that we have left.

Introduction
Take your Bibles, please, and turn to Matthew chapter 19. We begin our reading in verse 1, Matthew chapter 19, the first book in the New Testament: “And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coasts of Judaea beyond Jordan; and great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there. The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder. They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away? He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery” (Matthew 19:1–9).

Is marriage obsolete? Is marriage like the kerosene lamp and the Model-T Ford: a thing of yesterday? There are those who are telling us that that is so. There are those who are telling us that we have come through a moral and a sexual revolution, and marriage as we knew it is no longer a viable institution. And we’re being told that by Hollywood. We’re being told that by newspapers. We’re being told that by journals. We’re being told that by sociologists. And, God help us, we’re being told that by some so-called religious and spiritual leaders. And so we need to go back one more time, as always, to the Word of God, because Americans who do not know the Bible are being sucked down, and young people are being sucked down, into the cesspool of sin because of perverted doctrines and philosophies that have come from the minds of men rather than from the Word of God.

I. The Provision of the Married Life
And so I want us to look at this passage that is before us this morning to see principally three things, the first of which is this: the provision of the married life—the provision of the married life. Where did married life come from? Is it something that man just thought up, or is it something that God provided to meet the deepest, spiritual, psychological, social and economic needs of man? Of course, the latter is true. And as you study the Bible, and as you study the history of man, you will find out that marriage and the home came first. It came before we had any law. It came before we had any government whatever. It came before we had any church or any system of worship whatever. It is the very first and foremost institution of civilization and the basic of all human organization and life.

God Himself created the family. And so, as we look here at the provision of the married life, I want you to notice four principle things.
A. The Divine Creation of Marriage

First of all, the creation of the home. It is divine in creation. Look at the Word of God again that we just read to you. The Bible says, “Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause…”—what cause? The marriage relationship—“For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no longer twain, but one flesh.” Now, notice this phrase: “What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.”

This is God’s business. First of all, God made man; and when God made man, He was pleased with what He had made. As a matter of fact, He was pleased with all that He had made. He made one thing and said, “This is good,” and another, “This is good,” and another, “This is good,” and another, “This is good”; and then He made man, and He said this in Genesis 2:18: “And the LORD God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make an help meet for him.” And what does the word help meet mean? It means, “a fitting help.” “I’ll make some something suitable to man; I will make a fitting helpmeet for man.”

Some Bible scholars tell us that, when man first saw woman, when Adam first saw Eve, he said something loosely translated that is like this: “Hot dog!” or “Wowee!” or “Super!” He was really pleased with what God did, because he is saying, “This is…bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh” (Genesis 2:23). That is, “Here is someone that I can identify with; that, I am incomplete, and she completes me. This is bone of my bones, flesh of my flesh.” You see, a wife may say of her husband, “I am half a person without him.” A husband may say of his wife, “She completes me, and she makes me all that God intended me to be.”

And so, what is the origin of marriage? God created marriage. God instituted marriage. Marriage did not come up through the evolutionary process, out of the swamps of immorality. Marriage is not some sort of a social conditioning that man has evolved into, and therefore that man may evolve out of. No. Jesus said that God planned it. God created marriage in the very beginning. And the Bible says, “What God hath therefore joined together, let not man put asunder.”

Wayne Dehoney, commenting on this scripture, said—and I quote—“The ultimate authority in marriage rests with God and not man. As God joins a man and women in flesh of marriage, neither a third party nor a manmade law must be allowed to disrupt this union. A marriage is neither to be established nor to be dissolved simply to suit the conveniences and contingencies of men.” And that is well said.

B. The Supreme Commitment of Marriage

Marriage is divine, my friend, in creation. But I want you to notice not only the creation of marriage; I want you to notice the commitment of marriage. Look again at what the Lord Jesus said in verse 5. He said, “For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they [two] shall be one flesh” (Matthew 19:5).

What is Jesus saying here? He is talking about the supreme commitment of marriage. And He’s saying that our relationship to our husbands and to our wives should come even before our relationship to our parents. “For this cause shall a man leave [his] father and his mother, and shall cleave to his wife”—leave and cleave. There comes a time when we must be cut away from our parents. And the apron strings and the purse strings need to be cut. And here is a new home. God knew exactly what He was doing, because this relationship between husband and wife is to be a deeper relationship and a deeper commitment than even parents are to make toward their own children.

Now I’m not diminishing our relationship to our parents, because the Bible says that we are to honor our parents. And I’m not diminishing our relationship to our children, because they are our offspring. And the Bible says that, “If we provide not for those of our own house, we have denied the faith and we have become worse than an infidel” (1 Timothy 5:8). But I am telling you, sirs, I am telling you, ladies, that the relationship between husband and wife is to be the closest relationship upon this earth—closer than a relationship between father and daughter, mother and son. That is how close it is to be.

You see, our children grow up and move away, but that relationship between husband and wife is to remain there. And many a wife has made the mistake of pouring her commitment, her love, her full attention, into her children at the expense of her husband’s unfilled need and affection. And the marriage finds itself in trouble sometimes before the empty nest, and quite frequently after the empty nest, because parents have discovered now that they have poured their lives into their children and have neglected one another, and they failed to understand the wisdom of God in saying that this thing called marriage is not only divine in creation; it is to be supreme in commitment.

And let me say a word to you men. While some women may make the mistake of pouring all of the energy into the children, all of their love, devotion and affection into the children, some of you men are married to your business, and you’re guilty of doing the same thing. And your relationship to your wife is a supreme relationship, and it is to come before the business.

Now the young executive today is almost married to his business, and he is expected by our American success novel to rule his business very much as would rule a wife and to be married to the business as would be married to a wife. And so when the business says, “do this” or “do that,” he must do it, for, after all, he’s got to be a success.

And one woman who was a little bit envious of the energy and the time and the commitment that a husband gave to his wife said something about what her husband was doing. And this is the way he responded. He said, “If she wants to stay with me, she ought to realize that it is my job that is important; I could always find another wife.”

Now what he needed was not only another wife; he needed another life. He had accepted the role model that a man is somehow a success in America if he has a divorce at twenty-seven, an ulcer at thirty, and a cardiac arrest at forty-five; that somehow that had made him a success.

Now what Jesus is saying: of all earthly relationships, even greater than the relationship of parent to child is to be the relationship of husband and wife: “For this cause shall a man leave [his] father and [his] mother. And…cleave to his wife: and they [two] shall be one flesh.”

C. The Faithful Continuance of Marriage

And not only, dear friend, do we think of the creation, and the commitment of it, but I want you to think of the continuance of it. Notice what our Lord Jesus said also in verse 6: “Wherefore they are no more [two], but one flesh. What God therefore hath joined together, let not man put asunder” (Matthew 19:6). It is to be faithful in continuance.

This home is to continue. God made one man for one woman until death do them part.

A preacher was preaching this way, and he saw a little lady just shaking her head. She was a pretty little thing, and he went up to her and said, “Don’t you agree with this?” She said, “I agree with it. I just want to get in on it.”

Listen. God made one man and one woman until death do them part. And we must continue in love.

And one thing that Americans fail to understand is this: that love is not something like a brilliant, gorgeous, resplendent diamond that is there in all it’s beauty just simply to be apprehended, to be reached out and taken, and there to be enjoyed as a thing of beauty forever. Love is not like that. That’s too static. That’s too brittle. That’s too fixed. Love, rather than being like a diamond, is more like a beautiful flower that needs to be cultivated and fed and cultured, as it continues to bloom, as it continues to grow, as it reaches more and more beauty, and as full pleasure is experienced.

Friend, you must cultivate that love. It must be captivated, and then it must be cultivated.

D. The Miraculous Consummation of Marriage

I want you to think not only of the continuance of it; but I want you to think of the consummation of it. Jesus said, again, that they shall be one flesh. It is miraculous in consummation. This is something that is not said about any other earthly relationship.
The two becomes one. That’s strange arithmetic. One plus one equals one. They are no longer two. But they are one socially, psychologically, economically—even physically—as their bodies blend together, they become one flesh.

And it is a mystical and wonderful thing. Over here on a mountainside there bubbles up a little stream that trickles down water out of a pure spring, and it starts to flow down the mountainside; and over here unknown is another little bubbling spring that comes out of the mountainside; and they flow down a very beautiful path, and as they flow down the mountainside they finally meet, and they blend, and they merge, and the two become one, and they intermingle, never to be separated again. Over here is a life; and over here is a life; and by the providence of God that life comes this way; and by the providence of God that life comes that way; and they meet, and they blend, and they merge, and they become one.

The Cherokee in their Indian ceremony when they get married have the brave and the squaw, the bride, to take hands and to wade through a stream together, symbolizing that, as the water cannot be separated, these two in a unique way and in a mystical way have become one. And unwittingly they have picked up the spirit of the Lord Jesus Christ here in Matthew chapter 19.

Dear friend, it is to be miraculous in consummation. God knows what He’s doing when God says, “It is not good that the man should be alone” (Genesis 2:18). And like the violin without the bow cannot make music, and the bow without the violin cannot make music, together they are what God intended them to be. And so we see, first of all, the provision of the married life.

Listen to me, and listen well. Monogamous marriage has been established by God the Creator for the protection and the development of the deepest psychological, physical, and spiritual needs of humanity. God knew what He was doing when He made marriage. And man can never outsmart God. There is the provision of the married life. It was God’s plan from the very beginning of creation, the first institution created by God.

II. The Pollution of the Married Life

Now, second, I want you to notice, not only the provision of the married, but I want you to notice, sadly, the pollution of the married life. I want you to continue to read now in verse 7: “They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away? [Jesus] saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, commiteth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery” (Matthew 19:7–9). Thus saith the Lord.

Now, why has God given these stringent rules? And why has God given these prohibitions? And why has God been so careful to say what He has said about keeping ourselves sexually and morally pure and one man for one woman? Is God holding out on us? Absolutely not! You see, marriage is so beautiful and so wonderful, and the sexual relationship is of such intrinsic value, that God is protecting it. He is not trying to keep us from it; He’s trying to keep it for us. Do you understand?

For example, if over here on the wall we had a painting, a picture, a reproduction of some painting that could be bought in a department store for three or four dollars, and someone came up with a penknife and slashed it, or if someone came up with a ballpoint pen and mars it, that’s bad, but it’s not a tragedy. After all, it can be replaced. But suppose there is a Rembrandt, a Van Gogh, some beautiful work of art, a masterpiece, that is there, and someone comes up with a ballpoint pen or a penknife or whatever and slashes it, we would say that is a tragedy. It had intrinsic value. It’s one of a kind. It cannot be replaced. And so perhaps we would keep it in a vault. Or we would keep it behind a shield.

Now that is what God is doing. When God has built some high walls around this moral, physical relationship, God is putting something so intrinsically valuable inside a shield. And when God says, “Thou shalt not,” He’s not trying to keep us from sex; He’s trying to keep sex for us. When God says, “Thou shalt not,” He’s saying, “Don’t hurt yourself.” And when God says, “Thou shalt,” God is saying, “Help yourself to happiness.” God wants you to know this happiness. And that’s the reason that the Bible says that, “Marriage is honourable…and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge” (Hebrews 13:4).

Now I want you to see, not only the sanctity of married life, but the sinfulness of the immoral life. I want you to see, not only the provision of marriage, but I also want you to see the pollution of marriage, because that’s what the word adulterate means. It means, “to pollute”—“to pollute”—and we pollute marriage by moral, physical infidelity.

And when a man, when a woman, sins this way, how do they sin?

A. They Sin Against Themselves

Number one: They sin against their own bodies, against their own selves. You know, the Bible says, in 1 Corinthians chapter 6, verse 18, speaking of this kind of sin, “Every other sin that a man commits is outside his body, but he that commits immorality, fornication, sins against his own body” (1 Corinthians 6:18). It’s different than any other sin. There is no other sin that can harm you as deeply, physically, psychologically, morally, intellectually, spiritually, as the sin of adultery. It does something to you that no other sin does. You sin against your self, against the deepest resources and springs of your own being. Billy Graham said that he was speaking with the head psychiatrist at a great Eastern university not long ago and that psychiatrist said to him, “Over fifty percent of all the university students here are suffering psychological problems because of their immoral relationships.” When a man commits this sin, he sins against himself.

B. They Sin Against Their Home

But wait a minute. Not only does he sin against himself; he sins against his home. Remember now that the home is the building block, the basic unit, of society. He sins against his dear wife; he sins against his children. Don’t you think that children have a right to be raised in a home where father and mother love another and where they’re true to one another? I say again, the family has been established to provide for the love and the physical care, the social and the spiritual development, of children. A man says, “Well, it’s my business what I do.” Well, my dear friends, what about his children? Should they be sacrificed upon the altar of your lust?

C. They Sin Against Their Church

Now, wait a minute. Not only does a man sin against himself, and not only does he sin against his home, but he sins against his church. Is it possible for a Christian to slip into the sin of unfaithfulness and immorality? It grieves me to say it, but when a Christian, even a child of God, takes his eyes off the Lord Jesus Christ and fails to live by the principles of the Word of God, even a child of God may so dishonor his Lord as to fall into this kind of a sin. And when he does, how he wounds the church of the Lord Jesus Christ!

Paul said, in 1 Corinthians 3:16, “Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?” That is, all of us together are a holy temple. Individuals are building blocks in that temple. And then Paul said this: “If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy” (1 Corinthians 3:16–17). That is, church wreckers God will wreck. That’s what He says. You are the temple of God—and how can a man defile the temple of God? In the context here Paul is speaking of the sin of immorality, and he is saying that there is nothing that so wounds the church and hurts the church as immorality in the lives of the members.

Sometimes a person who is a member of a church will say, “It is not your business what I do.” I beg to differ with you, sir. It is my business what you do, and it is your business what I do, because we are members of the same body.

That gall bladder a while back, I could have said, “Well, that’s no affair of mine.” But it was—it was. That’s a part of my body. And when a gall bladder gets out of line, it hurts the whole body—the whole body.

You see, when one member suffers, every member suffers (1 Corinthians 12:26). And when you gave your heart to the Lord Jesus Christ, when you became a Christian, you were baptized into the Body of Christ, and we are members one of another. And not only do you sin against yourself, and not only do you sin against your family, but you sin against your church.

D. They Sin Against Their Nation

And I want to go further and say that you sin against your nation. Immorality is a sin of treason—of treason. The Bible says, “Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people” (Proverbs 14:34). It was this sin that led to the downfall of Rome. Gibbon, in his book The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, listed the reasons why Rome fell, and this sin, immorality, was number one. It was this sin that led to the downfall of Greece. It was this sin that led to the downfall of Egypt, and Babylon, and every other great civilization that has gone before us. This was the chief sin, the breakdown of the home, for a nation cannot long endure when the home is hurt, and nothing hurts the home and nothing corrodes the home like marital infidelity and unfaithfulness.

E. They Sin Against God

But wait a minute. Not only is it a sin against self, not only is it a sin against the family, not only is it a sin against the church, and not only is it a sin against the nation; but, first and foremost, primarily, this kind of a sin is a sin against God. That’s the reason that David was wise enough to say, in Psalm 51, as he considered his horrible, hurtful, heinous, hellish sin, “Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight: that thou mightest be justified when thou speakest, and clear when thou judgest” (Psalm 51:4). Listen, my dear friends. You sin against God. It was God who said, “Thou shalt not commit adultery” (Exodus 20:14). I don’t care what Hugh Hefner said—Margaret Mead, some anthropologist, Dr. Kinsey, or somebody else—it doesn’t make any difference what they say. One ounce of what God says is worth a ton of that garbage. We had better go back to the Word of God. It is God who has said, in the Ten Commandments, “Thou shall not commit adultery.”

I want you to put down some verses, if you will, for just a moment. I want you to jot them down. Hebrews 13:4—I’ve already quoted it, but I want to quote it again: “Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: but [fornicators] and adulterers God will judge.” God will. Do you know one of the big mistakes that we make in America? We think that, because God does not judge sin immediately, God is not going to judge sin. That is an awful mistake. “Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap” (Galatians 6:7). As surely as night follows the day, as surely as God has built into this universe the law of sowing and reaping, whatever a man sows that shall he also reap.

But, you see, we think that God has forgotten us. People need to go back and read Romans 2:5 that says, “But after thy hardness and impenitent heart treasurest up unto thyself wrath against the day of wrath.” What does that mean? “Treasuring up wrath.”
You’re just laying it by. You’re just saying that God has forgotten, but God’s got it there in His safety vault: “against the day of wrath.” You are treasuring up wrath, laying it by. God has not forgotten.

Let me give you another verse. The Bible says, in Job 31:11, speaking of this sin, “For this is a heinous crime; yea, it is an iniquity to be punished by the judges.” Let me give you another verse—Proverbs 6:27 through 29: “Can a man take fire in his bosom, and his clothes be not burned? Can one go upon hot coals, and his feet not be burned? So he that goeth into his neighbour’s wife; whosoever touches her shall not be innocent” (Proverbs 6:27–29). Let me give you another verse—Proverbs 6:32: “Whoso commiteth adultery with a woman lacketh understanding: he that doeth it destroyeth his own soul.” Let me give you another one—1 Corinthians 6:9: “Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate,”—and that’s talking about homosexuals, those that are perverted—“nor abusers of themselves with mankind…”

The Bible says clearly, plainly, unmistakably, that those who live this way receive unto themselves the judgment of God. This is God’s law. And law without penalty is only advice. And God is not giving advice when God says, “Thou shalt not commit adultery.” It is a sin against God.

III. The Preservation of the Married Life

Now, let me move on and give for the last point the preservation of the married life. We’ve talked about the provision of it. We’ve talked about the pollution of it. Now, let me talk about the preservation of it. How can husbands and wives live as we ought in this day and this age when we are being bombarded from every side from all the ungodly, demon-inspired philosophies that have been vomited out of hell? How can we be pure in such an unclean age where there seems to be a shortage of everything except filth?

A. Decision

Well, let me give you some words, some key words; we will let them start with the letter d, the first of which is decision—decision. Give your heart to Jesus Christ. I know of no way, and you know of no way, that a man can live as he ought to live without first of all making a decision for Christ. Receive Christ by faith. Do you want a Christian home? You can’t have a Christian home without Christians any more than you could have a cherry pie without cherries. Give your hearts to Jesus. Be saved.

B. Dependence

And after this decision comes dependence. Because you have decided for Him, depend upon Him. He lives within you. The Christian life is not your responsibility. It is your response to His ability. He lives within you. Depend upon Him. Look to Him day by day and moment by moment. Turn your home over to Him.

C. Devotion

Thirdly, not only decision, and dependence; but devotion. Love the Lord, and love your wife, with all your heart and with all your soul. If you love God and love your wife, you are not going to have to worry about running away with somebody else’s wife. Just stay deeply in love with your own wife, with your own husband. But you say, “But I don’t love him anymore. I fell in love with him, and I fell out of love with him.” Rubbish! Love is not moonlight and roses; it is concrete and steel. You love what you decide to love.

Have you ever read in the Bible where the Bible says, “Husbands, love your wives” (Ephesians 5:25; Colossians 3:19)? That’s not a suggestion; that is a command.

And I want you to learn a secret today. In every command of God there is a promise. In every command of God there is a promise. God never commands us to do something that He does not equip us to do. For example, suppose God were to say to me, “Adrian, jump over this church building.” I say, “But, Lord, I can’t do that.” And He says, “Well, you are a sinner, because I told you to.” Now, what kind of God is that? A God that commands me to do something that is totally, absolutely impossible for me to do. I couldn’t worship a God like that. You see, when God commands me to do something, the same God that commands me to do it enables me and equips me to do it. And so when a man comes to me and says, “I don’t love my wife anymore,” I say, “Well, decide to love her, and learn to love her. With God’s help, you can.”

There is a devotion. And the same Bible that says, “Husbands, love your wives,” in Ephesians, says, in Titus, “Women, love your husbands and love your children” (Titus 2:4). And there is a decision that you make. And you would be surprised how by the grace of God and the aid of God that you can decide to love. And that love, my friend, is a strong love, more than moonlight and roses, and whispers of vows of undying affection. It’s got spiritual concrete in it. It’s got spiritual steel in it. It’s got a foundation that is more than this will-o-the-wisp, now-I-see-it, now-I-don’t type of thing.

D. Development

Now, not only devotion, but the next word that I want to give you is development. Continue to feed that love from day to day and from week to week. Help your love to mature. The chances are, if you don’t love your wife a whole lot more now than when you married her, you love her a whole lot less. But some people think, again, that love is like a diamond: once possessed, it is yours forever. It is like a flower that must be cultivated and cared for and watered and nourished.

Some women have this philosophy: there’s no need to chase a streetcar after you have already got it. And so, after they get married, they let themselves go. Some husbands have the same philosophy.
They are like the man whose wife complained that he never told her anymore that he loved her. He said, “I told you that I loved you when we got married. And if I ever change my mind, I will let you know.”

Nurture that love. It must develop; it must grow.

E. Discipline

And not only is there the word development; there is the word discipline. You must be disciplined. There are certain things that you do not allow. You guard your company. And if you know a couple that wants to become your social friends, and yet they believe in immorality, they believe in drunkenness, they believe in dope, they laugh at the Bible, they laugh at the church, you saturate that couple with your absence. Just stay away from them. The Bible says that evil companions corrupt good manners (1 Corinthians 15:33). The Bible says, “A companion of fools shall be destroyed” (Proverbs 13:20).

Watch what you read. Watch what you entertain yourself with. “As a man thinks, so is he” (Proverbs 23:7). You keep bombarding your mind with sexual stimuli, and before long it’s going to affect you. You remember the verse, “Can a man take fire in his bosom, and his clothes not be burned? Can he go upon hot coals?” (Proverbs 6:27–29). You say, “Oh, I can read my sex magazines; I can see these so-called adult movies,”—which are not adult; they are infantile—“but I can watch that and it doesn’t affect me.” Is that true, sir? If that is true of you—at least you say it is true—one of three things is true about you: either you are no man, Superman, or you are a liar. You can’t take that into your mind and it not affect you. “As a man thinks, so is he.” There is some discipline. You watch the company you keep, the things that you do. God holds you responsible for this.

F. Determination

But, finally, there is determination—determination. You need to make up your mind. Do you know what I’ve found out in life? That one big decision will keep you from a lot of little decisions.

In our family, every now and then, we decide to go out and eat. And, you know, I’ve got the biggest individuals in my family. They all have their ideas; they are all headstrong—except their daddy. And we decide to go to eat, and I back out and I get just as far as where the driveway goes out to the street, and someone says, “Where do you want to go?” And one says this, and the next one says something else, and we get out, and we start slowly moving the car down the street, and we are discussing it all the way. And, boy, we are a one-man energy problem. I mean, all the oil that the Arabs sent last year has gone right down the drain as we try to go to a restaurant.

Now if in the house we had made a decision that we were going to such-and-such a place, every other decision is already made. We get to this corner, and we turn here, and we turn here, and we turn here, don't you see? One big decision helps a lot of little decisions.

You see, you don’t have to go on reconsidering if you are going to get a divorce if you just decide that you are not. You are not. You say with all the unction, function, and emotion of your soul that, “As for me and my house, we will serve the LORD” (Joshua 24:15). Do you know what the Psalmist said? “My heart is fixed, O God” (Psalm 57:7).

Have you ever made that kind of decision? When you got married, you came to that marriage, did you listen to what that minister was saying: “I, John, take thee, Mary, to be my lawfully wedded wife, to have and to hold from this day forward, in sickness and in health, in poverty as in wealth, to love and to cherish and to obey until death do us part; so help me, God”? Did you mean that? Or were you lying? Oh, there needs to be a determination, not in the self, but in the Spirit of God that motivates that determination.

Conclusion

Do you know what America needs? Revival in her homes. If we get right in our homes, it will filter out into every other area of our lives, including our church. Someone says, “Brother Rogers, my home is in a terrible condition.” Jesus performed His first miracle at a wedding. And He can take a broken home and put it all back together, if you will give Him the pieces. You say, “But it’s too late for that. I’m already remarried. I’ve got another family and all of that. What should I do?” He still loves you. You can’t unscramble eggs, you can’t go back; but you take that, and bring it to Him and say, “Lord, we missed your first plan; here it is now, Lord; we give you this home,” and He’s a God of grace—He’s a God of grace: “If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins” (1 John 1:9). Take that home and make it work for the Lord Jesus Christ.

And God is a great God of grace. But, oh, how we need to hold up a standard for our young people and let them know what the Bible says about the sanctity of marriage! God give us Christian homes! The Carpenter is still building houses today, and He will build yours if you will let Him.

Introduction

Take your Bibles and turn to Matthew chapter 19. And, while you’re turning to that, let me tell you that we’re seeking and asking God for a revival. And, of course, we want revival in our nation, and we want revival in this our church; but, friend, unless we have revival in the family, we’re not going to have revival in the church, nor the nation. So we’re talking today about “Family Revival.” And I want us to read from Matthew chapter 19. Let’s begin in verse 3: “The Pharisees also came unto him,”—that is, to Jesus—“tempting him,”—that means they were testing him—“and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.” (Matthew 19:3–6)

We live in a sad day today of broken homes and throwaway marriages, and people are treating adultery as a small thing, pre-marital sex as an incident, and divorce as an unfortunate occurrence. And we are today desperately, desperately, in need of a spiritual revival. And your family needs revival. I don’t care who you are, or where you are: you can always be better, get closer to the Lord Jesus Christ.

And so we’re going to look at what the Bible says; not what others say. The intellectuals of our day have told us that sex outside of marriage is no big deal. They’ve told us that pornography is a victimless crime. That’s a lie, but they tell us that. Did you know that in the United States of America the pornography business every year takes in twelve billion dollars? I didn’t say million—twelve billion. That is more than CBS, ABC, and NBC take in all together. That is more than comes from all professional sports together—football, basketball, and baseball—all that income. Greater than that income is the pornographic business. We are being drowned in a mudslide of filth, and yet, they tell us, that’s only freedom of expression.

We’ve come to a time where an unwed motherhood is looked upon as incidental, and it is quite all right to have a baby outside of wedlock. And many blessed little children are coming into this world without father and mother being married.

And then, we have reached the very bottom—have we not?—when now the homosexuals are asking for homosexual marriages. And four judges in Massachusetts decided they would go against the norms of history, and the teaching of the Word of God, and thousands of years of tradition, and throw over those laws, and institute something called same-sex marriage.

Now there are those who will tell you, “I don’t want anybody telling me who I can marry. I’m a free individual.” Well, you’ve already been told who can marry before this issue came up. You can’t marry a child. That’s against the law. You can’t marry a blood relative. That is against the law. You cannot marry someone already married. That’s against the law. You cannot marry more than one person. It is against the law. You can’t marry an animal. You cannot marry someone of the same sex.

Now what we need to understand is that there are three thoughts that I want to lay on your heart today. And, by the way, some have said, “Pastor Rogers, you’re judgmental.” Did you know that the one moral absolute today in society is, “Thou shalt not be judgmental”? But, of course, we have to come to the Word of God, so I want us to see what God’s Word says about the family—about my family, your family, our families—and we need to go back to the beginning. If you were to ask a carpenter to build a house, he perhaps could do it, but he would have no idea unless he first knew what a house was. And so he has to know what a house is before he can build it. You have to know what a marriage is before you can build your marriage in the name and power of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now there are three basic things I want to lay on your heart this morning.
I.  God Has Designed the Family

Number one: God has designed the family. Not some social engineer; it did not rise from the swamps of immorality and evolution: God has designed the family. Look in verses 4 and 5: "And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh?" (Matthew 19:4–5)

God established monogamous marriage to meet the deepest needs of humankind: emotional, physical, psychological, and spiritual. And God had something in mind when He planned the family.

Now there are three key verbs in the scripture that I’ve just read to you. One is leave; the other is cleave; and the third is be one flesh. Now this is God’s plan for marriage. This is what God designed. This is what God designed for my home and your home, so I want you to listen very carefully.

A. We Are to Leave

First of all, God says that a person is to leave father and mother. Now, what does that tell us? It tells us that marriage is the supreme commitment. Marriage is a greater commitment than the commitment you have to your parents. Now you have a commitment to your parents. The Bible says you’re to honor your father and your mother, (Exodus 20:12) and may you never ever forget that. But your marriage commitment rises even to a higher priority than your relationship to your parents. You’re to leave father and mother and be joined to your wife.

And it follows, if the marriage relationship is greater than the relationship of parent and child, then the marriage relationship is also greater than child and parent. We are to choose our mate and give higher priority to our mate than any other thing in this world. The first thing is to leave. That means that the purse strings and the apron strings need to be cut.

B. We Are to Cleave

Now, secondly, not only does he say that we are to leave, but he says that we are to cleave. That word cleave means “to weld together” or “to glue together.” Marriage is to be a permanent relationship. Now, listen very carefully, because there are some of you here today who may be considering divorce, or some of you who are listening through television, or later on will get this tape. Divorce is not an option in the Word of God, except for marital infidelity. You are to cleave to your wife till death do you part. It is not something that is incidental. People get married, for an ideal, and the ideal turns to an ordeal, and then they want a new deal. Marriage is for a lifetime commitment.
C. We Are to Be One Flesh

And then he says, not only are we to leave, and we are to cleave, but he says we are to be one flesh. God’s arithmetic is, one plus one equals one. Now, why one flesh?

1. We Are to Be One Flesh Physically for Multiplication

Well, we’re to be one flesh physically for multiplication. God wants you to have children. Children are a blessing from the Lord. Put this verse down—Malachi chapter 2 and verse 15: “Did not he make one...”—that is, husband and wife—“Did not he make one? Yet had he the residue of the spirit. And wherefore one? That he might seek”—listen—“a godly seed. Therefore take heed to your spirit, and let none deal treacherously against the wife of his youth.” (Malachi 2:15) What does that say in plain English? God made husband and wife one that they might reproduce and have a godly seed.

The sad thing in the world today is that many who ought to be having children are not having children. My heart goes out to those of you who want children and cannot have them, and they would give anything if they could conceive and have a child. But there are many in the world today who no longer consider children a blessing, but rather a curse. Many children are killed in the womb because they would be an impediment to the plans of father and mother. Today there is a new category of persons. They’re called DINKs: double income, no kids. They figure, if father and mother work, they don’t have any kids, then they will have enough to satisfy their material desires. I’ve told you before, however, that children don’t make a rich man poor; they make a poor man rich. And thank God that you don’t have to be DINK. It sounds like something, doesn’t it? A DINK.

2. We Are to Be One Psychologically for Communication

All right, we are to be one physically for multiplication. Listen. We’re to be one flesh psychologically for communication. You need somebody by your side. Marriage is the deepest emotional intimacy that you can have. Not only should you be lovers; you ought to be friends. Your wife is your completer, not your competitor. And we are to be one psychologically.

Marriage is like a violin and a bow. The bow may be something over here, and the violin something else; but when they get together, then the music comes.

3. We Are to Be One Spiritually for Communion

And then we’re to be one flesh, not only for multiplication, and not only for communication, but we are to be one flesh for communion. My wife and I prayed this morning, as we pray every morning together, and we open our hearts to God and to one another. We pray for our children. We pray for you. We pray for our nation. We pray for the nations of the world. And there are few things, if any, that will draw husband and wife closer together than prayer. And if you are one flesh, then it follows, as night follows day, you ought to pray together. And I’m going to tell you, those of you who are members of our church, if you’re not having a family time of devotion, and mister, if you are not praying with your wife, there’s something desperately wrong.

Now men don’t like to pray with women, because men are self-sufficient. Men don’t mind getting the roof off; they just don’t like to get the walls down. But there’s nothing that your wife needs more than to hear you pray and to hear your heart. And God has made us one flesh.

II. Satan Wants to Destroy the Family
Now God has designed the family, so it follows, as night follows day, that Satan wants to destroy your family. Look, if you will, in chapter 19 and verse 7: “They said unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away? He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication,”—that word means “sexual uncleanness”—“and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.” (Matthew 19:7–9)

Now, listen to me, folks. God says that marriage is to be a permanent union, but the devil has leveled all of the artillery of hell against the home, and he wants to break up your home. Now there are some today who say, “Well, I’m going to get a divorce. I’ve got a good reason for getting a divorce.” They say, “You know”—and I’ve heard this too many times—“the love has gone out of our marriage.” Friend, that will not pass by the judgment of God—that the love has gone out of your marriage. You see, it is not love that holds your marriage together; it is marriage that sustains your love. And love is not some emotion that you feel; it is a choice of the will.

As a matter of fact, the Bible says, in Ephesians chapter 5 and verse 25, “Husbands, love your wives.” (Ephesians 5:25) That’s not a suggestion. That is a command. What kind of a God would command me to do something I cannot do? Suppose God tells me, “Adrian, jump over this church building.” I can’t jump over this church building. Therefore God would not command me to do it unless somehow He enabled me to do it. And when the Bible says that husbands are to love their wives, that is a command from God. And behind every command of God is the omnipotent power of God to carry out that command.

Over in the Book of Titus—Titus chapter 2, verse 4—God teaches what the older ladies are to do: “That they may teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands...” (Titus 2:4) That doesn’t say, “to feel like a grasshopper on roller skates.” He’s not talking about that kind of love. He says, “Teach them to love their husbands.” That is, it’s something that you can learn; it’s something you can do. Now God has commanded us to love.

Now we have a generation today that doesn’t understand love. Therefore they say, “The love has gone out of our marriage.” Now, what happened when you were dating? You had your little shopping list. You were looking around. You said, “I want somebody good-looking or beautiful. I want somebody who thinks I’m funny. I want somebody with a good personality. I want somebody that has certain physical attributes, and maybe perhaps certain intellectual gifts, somebody who can make me feel good.” And so the time comes when you finally say to that young lady or that young man, “I love you.” That may be true; but more likely, in today’s society, it is, “I want you. I want you because you meet a particular need in my life.” And that kind of love is not the love that God is talking about that binds husbands and wives together. As a matter of fact, that kind of love is a very conditional love. And if those are the reasons that you got married—because of somebody’s charm, or somebody’s beauty, or somebody’s wit—then your marriage is in danger.

Now I’m not saying that charm and wit and beauty are not important. Sure, they’re important. But let me tell you something, folks. Those things fade; they go away after a while. I mean, you may have married a man who was an Adonis, but now he’s bald and bulging. You may have married a woman who was beautiful, but now she’s fat and forty. She has a Supreme Court figure: no appeal. Can you see how dangerous that kind of conditional love is to a marriage? It is basically selfish. And it’s going to bring three attitudes in your partner if you married for that kind of a reason. First of all: fear. They’re going to be afraid that they cannot keep up the conditions of marriage. They’re going to be afraid that somebody else is going to come along that meets those conditions better.

Number two: you’re going to feel guilt; “There’s something wrong with me. I did not measure up.” And, number three: you’ll feel, finally, anger. You’ll feel like you have been used. That is conditional love.

God’s love for us is an unconditional love. And when the Bible says that a husband is to love his wife, God uses the word agape love, which is unconditional love, and it does not depend upon our meeting those conditions. The Bible says, in Romans 5:8, “But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.” When we know that the husband, the wife, loves the other with an unconditional love, think what that does. You have security in the place of fear. You have peace, which replaces guilt. You have joy, which is going to replace that anger. And so, don’t say that, “The love has gone out of our marriage, and therefore we need to separate.” It’s a lie from hell.

Number two, somebody comes up with this excuse: “It would be far better for our children if we got a divorce than for our children to live in this constant wrangling.” Well, sociologists have told us that divorce is seldom, if ever, a positive factor in the life of a child—if you’re talking about what is better for the child. I suggest you go ask the children, and see what they think about it. Actually, you get the idea that it’s better for the children: really, basically, that is selfishness on your part—you want to do what you want, and have what you want to have, and yet you pawn it off as better for the children, and you say, “Well, the only two alternatives we have is divorce, or over here with constant wrangling.” Listen to me. There’s a third alternative. You get your heart right with God, and stop this wrangling, and don’t use some silly excuse for it. The Bible says that we’re to “live peaceably with all men.” (Romans 12:18)

Well, a third person will say, “Well, I owe it to myself to be happy.” Oh, you hear this over and over again. Friend, you owe it to yourself to keep your word when you made a marriage vow before Almighty God. And, by the way, you don’t live in isolation. Your happiness is not the only thing that matters. Listen. When you say, “I want someone else so I can to be happy,” do you know what you have said? “God, I don’t care about your commandments.” Number two: You have defrauded your partner that you’ve made a holy vow to. Number three: You have dishonored yourself, because you now have broken that vow, and you have wounded your children.

Another wrote this word. I want you to listen: “A man who breaks up his home by adultery is telling his child, ‘Your mother is not worth much, and your father is a liar and a cheat. Furthermore, honor is not nearly as important as pleasure. In fact, my child, my own satisfaction is more important than you.” Don’t tell me that you are going to get a divorce because it would be better for the children.

Now there are others, others who say, “Well, I’ve prayed about it, and God has told me to get a divorce.” Oh, yes? You think that God has changed His laws just for you, that you are a special exception? No. Listen. People who get divorces and people who don’t get divorces normally have about the same kind of problems. It’s how people react to those problems. There are no problems too big to solve, just people too small to solve them. We can solve a problem if we will attack the problem rather than one another.

Now if you’ve got a bad marriage, one sermon is not going to change your marriage, and your marriage will not be healed overnight; but I tell you what you can do in this one service: you can change the direction of your marriage—change the direction. And you can begin to grow a marriage like God wants it to be. You can make that decision. What a tragedy it is when ten percent of the marriage is in trouble and the other ninety percent goes down the drain because people are not mature enough to do what God wants them to do!
III. You Must Defend Your Family

Now, listen. God has designed the family. Satan wants to destroy the family. Thirdly, you must defend your family. Again, I’m telling you, we are at war. There is a war on the family, perhaps more than any other war, more insidious than the terrorism and other things that we face. I want to say again, this church is no stronger than its families. This nation is no stronger than its families. Matthew 19, verse 6—God says, “Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.” (Matthew 19:6) Now, folks, God has joined us together, and where there is God, there is hope.

Now, perhaps, you’ve failed. You say, “Pastor Rogers, the message today is making me feel guilty. Our home is broken, broken beyond repair. We’ve divorced and gotten remarried. What should we do?” Make the best of that marriage. Though it was not God’s original will, you cannot unscramble eggs. And I want you to understand that God is a God of mercy. There are those who are self-righteous people, who want to make divorce an unpardonable sin. They want to make divorce a dead-end road. And yet God’s Word teaches that, if we have failed, we can be forgiven. And forgiveness is always available. And listen. If your home has been broken, whether it’s your fault or somebody else’s fault, I’m telling you that is not the end for you. God has a way for you.

Romans chapter 8, verse 1, says, “There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus” (Romans 8:1)—none! And don’t you let the devil condemn you over this. First John 1:9 says, “If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.” (1 John 1:9) And Isaiah chapter 1, verse 18, says, “Come now, and let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.” (Isaiah 1:18) And people who are self-righteous, looking down upon others who have failed, you need to understand that you’ve failed also. Who are you to judge someone else? And the church is not supposed to be so much a showcase for saints as it is a hospital for sinners. And if you have a need, we ought to be here.

There were people who wanted to stone a woman because she was taken in adultery. And you remember the story—John chapter 8, verse 7: “So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.” (John 8:7) Now, anybody in this congregation sinless? Of course not! Therefore don’t you look down your long nose at somebody who has suffered a broken home. They need your love. They need your compassion. They don’t need your condemnation.

Now Jesus, in this same chapter, in John 8, verse 10, said, “When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee? She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her,”—listen—“Neither do I condemn thee; go, and sin no more.” (John 8:10–11)

Now I ask you a question: What would God do with a repentant sinner today who has a broken home? How would Jesus treat them? He would treat them exactly the same way, because the Lord changes not. He says that Jesus is “the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever.” (Hebrews 13:8)

Now, sure, divorce is wrong. If you think I’m minimizing divorce this morning, or marital infidelity, you’re dead wrong. We will never, as a church, lower the bar. We will teach what God’s Word teaches, that marriage is a union where people leave, cleave, and become one flesh. That is God’s plan. We will build at the top of the cliff a fence, a wall, as high, as strong, as we can do it, and we will teach our young people clearly and plainly, with no equivocation, no stutter, no stammer, what the Bible says about marriage. We will build that wall there at the top of the cliff. But, ladies and gentlemen, we also need an ambulance at the bottom of the cliff. We also need to minister to those who have failed in some way. And we are to defend our homes. Now if God has designed it, the devil wants to destroy it. Then it’s up to you, clearly and plainly, to defend the home.

Now, how can you defend your home? I want to give you a few things, and we’ll be finished with the message this morning.

A. Make Sure That Christ Is the Head of Your Home

Number one: If you are already married, make Jesus Christ the head, the center, the nucleus, of your home. Now your home is like a wheel, and Jesus is the hub; and the closer the spokes in that wheel come to the hub, the closer they are to one another. And let me tell you this: If you will put Christ in the center of your home, that will be, in this day and in this age, perhaps the greatest testimony you can possibly give. I have many people tell me, “Pastor, thank you for modeling the home.” I’m not even conscious of that. It’s something right that we ought to do. But I have had, perhaps, more people say than say, “I heard your sermon.” I’m telling you, your greatest testimony, if you are saved, with a Christian home, maybe is your home.

B. Continue to Feed Your Love Daily

Now, number two—make sure that Christ is the head of your home—number two: Continue to feed that love day by day. Now some people get the idea that love—true love—is like a dazzling diamond, something that we find, something that we purchase, something that we keep, something that we enjoy—a diamond is forever. But, no, that’s not what love is. Love is not like a diamond. Love is like a flower, a beautiful flower, and it must be nurtured; it must be cultivated; it must be cared for day by day, like a tender flower that If your home is broken, ask God for forgiveness.

Never, never, never marry an unsaved person with the idea that you can take a child of the devil in your home and get rid of it. You’re not going to make it any better with bitterness.

C. If Your Home Is Broken, Ask God for Forgiveness

Now, next: If your home is broken, ask God for forgiveness. If it was not your fault, deal with that bitterness, and get rid of it. You’re not going to make it any better with bitterness.

D. If You Are Unmarried, Marry Only in the Lord

And if you are unmarried—you college students, listen to your pastor—marry only in the Lord. Never, never, no never ever marry an unsaved person with the idea that you can lead that person to Christ. You’re asking for trouble. The Bible says, “Be...not unequally yoked together with unbelievers.” (2 Corinthians 6:14) An unbeliever is a child of the devil. If you marry a child of the devil, you get the devil for a father-in-law. You marry only in the Lord. Do not marry a person in order to change them. And, by the way, you say, “How am I going to find the right person?” Well, to find the right person is to be the right person. And there’s somebody else out there that’s looking for you, just like you are looking for them. And trust the Lord in this. And be patient.

Conclusion

Now if you want your marriage to last, remember what the Bible says, in the Book of Ecclesiastes: “A threefold cord is not [easily] broken.” (Ecclesiastes 4:12) One strand can be broken; two strands can be broken; but three strands together give strength. What is a threefold cord? It is a man, a woman, and Jesus Christ.

Question: Those of you who are married and have good marriages, those of you who have marriages that are on the rocks, those of you who’ve had a broken home, are you willing to come to Jesus today, and say, “Lord God, I want revival in my home”? There can’t be revival in my home unless there’s revival in me. And there cannot be revival the church unless there’s revival in the home. And there cannot be revival in the nation unless there is revival in our families. O God, start a revival, and let it begin with me.

God wants you. There are three homes that God wants you to have. God wants you to have a heavenly home. Are you headed there? Are you saved, bound for glory? Are you? Do you know that you’re saved? God wants you to have a heavenly home. God wants you to have a family home. And God wants you to have a church home. And Jesus is the key to all three.

Conclusion

Introduction
Would you take God’s Word and turn to Matthew chapter 19? And when you’ve found it, look up here. In a moment, we’re going to begin reading the third verse of the nineteenth chapter of Matthew. But, you know, we, as a church, have been seeking the face of God for revival. Already in this series we’ve talked about revival in general. Last Sunday, we talked about personal revival, letting our lives be a river of revival flowing out. And today, we’re talking about family revival.

Now, our families are not going to be any stronger than our individuals. And our church is not going to be any stronger than our families. And our nation is not going to be any stronger than our churches. And so, how important it is that we have genuine revival! We’re not talking about a religious spasm, or emotionalism, or worked-up enthusiasm, but we’re talking about a genuine, deep work of God that causes repentance, that brings God’s power in our lives, that is transformational to us and transformational to others.

Let’s look in the Word of God here, beginning in verse 3: “The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain”—“no more two”—“but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.” (Matthew 19:3–6)

Now, ladies and gentlemen, this is God’s plan for a home, and I hope we’ll pay attention to it because there are many social engineers today, and sociologists, and philosophers, and wicked people, who have tried to redefine the family and to minimize what our Lord Jesus has taught about the family.

There are those, for example, who will tell us that homosexuality is to be accepted as a normal thing. Homosexuality, therefore, in the years that most of us have been alive, has gone from a sin to a sickness to a socially acceptable practice. We hear this everywhere.

Number two: We are told that pornography is a victimless crime. And that is a lie out of hell. And many homes are being broken by pornography; many lives are being defiled by pornography. Pornography is a billion-dollar business. Twelve billion dollars every year are spent on pornography. Friend, that is more money than comes in by ABC, CBS, and NBC. Now, that’s supposed to be the mainline media, but pornography is bigger than that. Pornography is a bigger industry, a moneymaker, than all major sports, including football, baseball, and basketball. America is being inundated with a tidal wave of slime.

And in America today, we are told that it’s all right to have sex outside of marriage. And some of you may be living together and you’re not married. You need to repent and break up that situation, or else get married. Friend, it’s a sin against God. We’re told that unwed motherhood is not a problem at all; and so, little children come into this world without the benefit of father and mother as God had intended. Then, just when we think we have reached the bottom of the barrel, we come along with something called same-sex marriage. It just keeps getting worse and worse.

Now, I’d rather not spend much time talking about this, but like a mushroom cloud it affects all of us. And don’t get the idea that it will not, does not, cannot affect you. Four judges in Massachusetts set aside the norm of humanity, thousands of years of history, and declared that there is such a thing as a same-sex marriage.

Now, there are those who will say, “Don’t tell me who I can marry. It’s nobody’s business but mine.” Well, you’ve already been told, in many ways, who you can marry. For example, you can’t marry a child. That’s against the law. You cannot marry a blood relative. That is against the law. You cannot marry someone who is already married. That is against the law. You cannot marry more than one person at a time. That is against the law. You cannot marry an animal. You say, “Well, pastor, don’t worry about that.” Just wait—just wait. Friend, I am telling you that the devil knows no limits.

Now, we need to understand what marriage is all about because we have a generation that has ceased to be anchored by the Word of God. G. K. Chesterton wisely said, “The danger is that when men stop believing in God, it’s not that they will believe in nothing, but they will believe in anything.” And today, we’ve come to a place in society that the one moral absolute is this: “Thou shalt not be judgmental.” Now, you can do anything else except say that sin is sin and call it by name. But I want us to go back now to the instructions. I want us to learn what Jesus Christ taught about marriage so that we can have revival in our home.

I. God Designed the Family
First of all, I want you to understand that God has designed the family. The family did not come from the swamps of immorality, or by evolution, or by sociological change. God Almighty has designed the family. Listen to Matthew chapter 19, verses 4 and 5: “And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them”—listen—“male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain”—or “they two”—“shall be one flesh?” (Matthew 19:4–5)

Now, if you were to ask the best carpenter in the world to build a house, how would he build it if he didn’t know what a house was—never heard of a house, never seen a house? He couldn’t build it. You cannot build a marriage until you understand what marriage is. And God has set the tone for marriage to meet the deepest, psychological, physiological, emotional, and spiritual needs of humanity. And it is the family unit that holds society together.

Now, in this passage that the Lord Jesus has given to us there are three verbs that stand out: leave, cleave, and be one flesh. This is how God designed marriage.

A. We Are to Leave
First of all, He says, “For this cause shall a man leave his father and [his] mother, and shall [be joined] to his wife.” (Matthew 19:5) A person, in order to be married, is to leave father and mother. Now, that doesn’t mean that you disrespect father and mother. It doesn’t mean that you love them any less. But what He is saying here is that the marriage relationship supersedes the relationship of child and parent, or parent to child.
And the apron strings, and sometimes the financial strings, need to be cut so that children can have the home that God intended. Parents are not the supreme commitment, and children are not the supreme commitment.

Now, you ought to love your children. And God have mercy upon you if you do not love them and bring them up in the fear and the nurture of Almighty God. But the time will come when the empty nest will come. And if you’re a wife that has poured all of your love, all of your affection, all of your time on your children to the neglect of your husband, the time will come when the empty nest comes and you’re going to find out that you have an empty wedding, empty marriage. Mate-to-mate supersedes all human relationships.

And marriage is to be a permanent relationship. Don’t consider divorce as an option whatsoever. You say, “Well, we have problems.” Well, do tell. Who doesn’t have problems? And married people who get separated have basically the same kind of problems than those who stay together have. There are no problems too big to solve, just people too small to solve them. If you would attack the problem rather than one another, you could solve that problem.

B. We Are to Cleave

You are to leave father and mother and cleave to your wife. (Matthew 19:5) Now, the word cleave, what does that mean? It means “to weld,” or “to glue,” or “to put together in a permanent relationship.” Don’t even consider divorce as an option. And you just make up your mind that when you get married, you throw away the parachute. You cannot please God by breaking up your home. Now people get married; they want an ideal. And the ideal turns to an ordeal; and then, they want a new deal. But you can’t do that. You are to cleave to your wife.

C. We Are to Be One Flesh

Leave, cleave, and be one flesh. God’s arithmetic is one plus one equals one.

1. We Are to Be One Flesh Physically for Procreation

Now, why does God want us to be one? Well, God has made us one flesh physically with our sexual relationship for procreation or multiplication. Put in your margin “Malachi chapter 2, verse 15.” He asks this question: “And, wherefore one? That he might seek a godly seed” (Malachi 2:15) Now that, in plain English, means that God has made us one that we might have godly children. How are we going to populate the world with godly children if godly people don’t have children? Now, children are a blessing from God. We have today something called “DINKs”: double income, no kids. These are people who selfishly say, “We don’t want children. What we want is all of the material things that we can have without children because children will make you poor.” Listen to me, ladies and gentlemen: children don’t make a rich man poor; they make a poor man rich.
What a blessing they are! “Children are [the] heritage of the Lord.” (Psalms 127:3) And so, we’re to be one flesh physically for procreation.

2. We Are to Be One Flesh Psychologically for Communication

We’re to be one flesh psychologically for communication. Not only is your wife to be your lover; she is to be your friend, just like this bow and violin. One without the other cannot make music. Together they make that incredible music. We’re to be one psychologically, therefore, for communication, to have someone that we can share the most intimate thoughts of our hearts and our lives with.

3. We Are to Be One Flesh Spiritually for Communion

And then, we’re to be one flesh spiritually for communion. There is no deeper communion than the communion that a husband and wife have with one other when they’re having communion with the Lord.

   My wife and I make it a practice to pray every morning, pray every evening. And she prays for me. I pray for her. We pray for our children. We pray for you. And as we’re praying, God’s Spirit is binding our hearts together. It’s more than trite to say that the family that prays together stays together. That’s definitely true. And men, listen, the reason that most families do not have family prayer—or if they do, it’s just a formality; and most men, even preachers, do not pray with their wives—is this: that God made the woman to be a nurturer, to be soft, to be tender. God made the man to be the provider. Adam was to keep the garden and tend it. That is, he is to defend his family; he is to provide for his family. So God, by nature, has given man a harder exterior. Men like to talk. Women like to share. And men don’t like to talk that much. So, it’s hard for a man to pray with someone else if she is a female—even with a male. Men don’t mind getting the roof off, getting right with God, but they don’t like to get the walls down. They don’t like to make themselves vulnerable. They don’t like to open their hearts in prayer. But sir, I want to tell you, your wife needs to hear you pray. Your wife needs to know that you respect her enough and love her enough that you will share your intimate thoughts with her.

   And so, God wants us to have one flesh for procreation. God wants us to have one flesh for communication. God wants us to have one flesh for communion. That is God’s plan for the marriage. You need somebody that you can open your heart to.

   The late Madalyn Murray O’Hair, the renowned atheist who is now dead, left a diary of at least two thousand pages, and at least a dozen times in those two thousand pages she said these words: “Somebody somewhere love me!” Isn’t that sad? “Somebody somewhere love me!” She didn’t believe in God. She had no intimate friends. She did not have a husband that she could share with and pray with.
II. Satan Wants to Destroy the Family

Now, God has designed the family. This is God’s plan, and you cannot change it and you cannot improve on it: to leave, to cleave, and to be one flesh. Now, the devil wants to destroy your family. That is the work of the devil: to destroy your family. Matthew chapter 19, verses 7 through 9: “They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and put her away? He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery.” (Matthew 19:7–9) There are hard hearts, and those hard hearts are energized by the devil to destroy the home.

Now again, I want you to know that marriage is to be a permanent, lifelong contract and covenant between one man and one woman. And even if there is immorality, even if there is fornication, even if God does permit divorce for that reason, still it’s not necessary. He does not command it. And we can take the example of Gomer and Hosea in the Old Testament. Gomer, his wife became a prostitute. Hosea went and bought her from the slave block and restored her back into himself.

Now, there are a lot of people who today think—and some in this auditorium who think—that God is telling you to get a divorce. And you may have all kinds of superficial ideas and reasons. One is that “Well, the love has gone out of our marriage”—as if somehow that gives you a right to get married. Many people don’t even understand what love is. Friend, it is not love that sustains your marriage; it is your marriage that sustains your love. Your love is something that you can do if you wish to do it.

Ephesians chapter 5 and verse 25—here’s what God says: “Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it.” (Ephesians 5:25) Now, he’s not talking about emotionalism there; he’s talking about a choice. God has commanded you to love, and anything God commands you to do, you can do.

Suppose God commanded me to jump over this church building. I cannot jump over this church building. What kind of a God would command me to do something I cannot do?

Behind every command of God is the omnipotent power of God to carry out that command. And God has said, sir, that you are to love your wife.

And again, Titus chapter 2, verse 4—here’s God’s admonition to older women who would mentor younger women: “That they may teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children.” (Titus 2:4) We’re commanded to love. And if God commands us to love, that means that we can love.

Now, what we need to understand today is that there’s a difference between God’s love and what Hollywood and others call love. You remember, when you were young, you sort of had a little shopping list for the person you wanted to marry: they had to be attractive; they had to be witty and friendly; they had to laugh at your old jokes; they had to make you feel good about yourself. And so, the time came when you said to her—or she said to him—“I love you, I love you,” but what they may have meant is, “I want you.” We think that this other person is going to give us the happiness that we deserve, and we’re looking for happiness and joy in an individual rather than Almighty God. And what that kind of love infers is “I want you.” It is a conditional love, not an unconditional love.

Now, it’s really a selfish love. And if you have that kind of love, first of all, that will engender fear in the heart of your partner sooner or later. You know, you may have married a beauty queen, but she’s not a beauty queen today. And there’s a new bevy of beauties coming on, and she’s afraid that she cannot stay up, she may not keep up; and so, there’s this fear: “He loves me because…” and the because is fading.

Then there’s another thing that it will incur, and that is guilt, because if you cannot stay up, you’re going to feel guilty; you’re going to feel that you have failed. And then, that will turn to anger and resentment, and you will feel that you’ve been used and manipulated and treated as a thing.

What is God-like love? God-like love that God commands for husbands and wives is an unconditional love. It is not based on conditions. Romans chapter 5, verses 8: “God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.” (Romans 5:8)

Now, again, if we have this unconditional love, think what that’s going to bring into the family. Well, rather than fear, it’s going to bring security because you know that you’re loved no matter what. And so, security is going to replace that fear. And peace is going to replace that guilt. You’re not going to feel guilty if you’re not able to stay up. And I want to tell you that joy is going to replace that anger when God’s love, that unconditional love, moves into our hearts. Now, remember that this kind of love is not primarily an emotion. It’s not feeling like a grasshopper on roller skates. It is an act of the will. That’s the way God loves us. The Bible says in James chapter 1, verse 18: “Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be kind of firstfruits of his creatures.” (James 1:18)

Now, there’s nothing wrong with emotion in marriage. There’s nothing wrong with you finding somebody that makes you feel good. But friend, beyond that there is an act of the will for your marriage. Now, the Bible teaches that we are to stay married. And if we don’t love, we need to learn to love.

“Well,” somebody else says, “I’ll tell you why I think I need a divorce. It would be better for the children if we got a divorce. There’s this constant wrangling between husband and wife, and so, therefore, we need to separate for the children’s sake.” Now, when you say that, you have an unmitigated selfishness. You see, that’s not the only option—that those children hear you wrangling or else a divorce. There is another option: get right with God—get right with God—and stop that wrangling. You say, “Well, my mate…” Friend, it takes two to make an argument.

Now, you say, “Well, it would be better for the children.” Sociologists tell us that divorce is hardly ever a positive factor in the life of a child. If you think it is better for the child, why don’t you ask the child and see what they say? No, I’m telling you that that is not an excuse before Almighty God. You say, “Well, it’s for the children that I’m doing this.”

Well, somebody else says, “Well, you know, I owe it to myself to be happy.” Who said so, other than you? Marriage is not to make you happy. Now, if you’re happily married, I’m grateful for you. But if you are looking to marriage to meet your deepest needs, that will never be done. And if you are unhappy, you need to understand that God did not let you be married that you might be happy but that you might be holy, that you might keep your word. You see, you don’t live in isolation. It’s not simply your happiness that is a factor. You live with a family. You live in a society. You live as a child of God, if you are.

And so, if you separate, divorce, number one, you have defrauded the partner that you made a holy vow to; number two, you have lied to God; number three, you have dishonored yourself; number four, you have wounded your children. You owe it to God, to yourself, and to your family, to keep those holy vows that you’ve made before God.

Let me give you the words of Kent Hughes. He said this: “A man who breaks up his home by adultery is telling his children, ‘Your mother is not worth much, and your father is a liar and a cheat. Furthermore, honor is not merely as important as pleasure. In fact, my child, my own satisfaction is more important than you are.’” Now, don’t tell me, therefore, that it’s love that causes you to do this.

Another says, “Well, God is telling me to get a divorce.” Oh? You say, “I prayed about it, pastor, and this is what God wants me to do.” Do you think that God is going to bend His Word just for you? Do you think you are some kind of a special exception? No. God’s Word is God’s Word! Marriages are a covenant only to be separated, ended, by death.

Well, you say, “Pastor, we have all kinds of problems in our home. Do you think by a sermon that you’re going to change my family?” No. I’ll tell you what I can do with a sermon: I can make you make a decision. I can hope that you’ll make a decision to start in the right direction. Now, there will be many problems, but what you need to do is to say, “We can—we will—by God’s grace, work it out.” It may take time, but you can do it if you will.
III. You Must Defend the Family

Now, let me say, thirdly, that God designs the family; Satan wants to destroy the family; number three, you must defend the family. There is a war on the homes—on your home. Satan wants to devastate your family. The Bible says in Matthew chapter 19, verse 6: “Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.” (Matthew 19:6) What the devil wants you to do is to put your home at odds and to drive a wedge between husband and wife. And how terrible that is!

Now, with God there is always hope. Have you failed? You say, “Pastor Rogers, this sermon is too late for me. My home is already broken beyond repair. I’ve already been divorced and married another. I cannot put my home back together.” And indeed, you cannot. You can’t unscramble eggs. What you have to do is take what you have left and bring that back to God again. And let me say something, church: divorce is not a dead-end street, and it is not an unpardonable sin. And we need to stop looking down our judgmental nose at those who’ve been divorced as if we are better than they. You are not better than they.

Now, there’s not a one in this room who does not have sin in his life. And if you have a broken home, I want to tell you that God is a God of forgiveness and God will forgive you and cleanse you. Jot these scriptures down. Romans chapter 8, verse 1: “There is therefore now”—listen to this—“no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus.” (Romans 8:1) Let no one condemn you if God does not condemn you. The Bible says, in 1 John 1:7: “If we walk in the light, as he is in the light…the blood of Jesus Christ his Son”—listen—“cleanseth us from…”—a-double-l—“from all sin.” (1 John 1:7) Now, if a person’s been cleansed from all sin, how can they be looked down upon as a second-class person? Isaiah chapter 1, verse 18, says, “Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.” (Isaiah 1:18)

The church is not primarily a showcase for saints; it is a hospital for sinners. You remember reading in the Bible about a woman who was taken in adultery and there were those self-righteous people who wanted to stone her? Jesus kneeled and wrote in the sand; and in John chapter 8 and verse 7, the Bible says, “So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.” (John 8:7) “All right, step up. Anybody here who has never sinned, you throw a stone at her.” In this auditorium, is there anybody who has never sinned? Is there anybody who’s not had to seek the grace and face of Almighty God? Of course not! So, what did Jesus say to this woman when no one would cast a stone? John 8, verses 10 and 11: “When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee? She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee; go, and sin no more.” (John 8:10–11) Jesus did not give her a license to sin. He did not treat sin lightly, especially the sin of adultery. But Jesus said, “I do not condemn you. I do not judge you, because you’ve come to me.” Friend, these people who need the love of Jesus Christ are the ones that we’re trying to reach with our church.

You remember the story of the woman at the well, this Samaritan woman, a much married Samaritan? She’d been married five times—five times—and yet the Lord Jesus spoke to her about living water.

Now, what we have to do today is to show the love and compassion of Jesus Christ. What would Jesus Christ do with those who have broken homes? He’d do just what He did in these scriptures I read to you. “Jesus Christ [is] the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever,” (Hebrews 13:8) the Bible says in Hebrews chapter 13 and verse 8.

Now, sure, divorce is wrong. You think I’m trying to lower the bar today? I am not. The bar is set by Almighty God. And we’re going to preach to our young people and to those who are married and have not yet had broken homes what God’s standard is. God’s standard is to leave, to cleave, and to be one flesh. But, at the same time, we’re not going to be judgmental and hardhearted to those. What we really need to do as a church is to build a fence at the top of the cliff. The cliff, those who go over the cliff—that’s divorce. What we need to do is to build a fence high, wide, and strong; a wall to keep our young people from falling over. But there are those who are going to fall. And we also need to have an ambulance at the bottom of the cliff to help and pick up the wounded and to help them. There are people who need our help. They don’t need our judgment; they need our love. They need the gospel of Jesus Christ. And Christ was a friend to those who had failed, and He is a friend to you. And He wants to help you today.

Now, how are you going to defend your home? Let me suggest some ways.

A. Be Sure Christ Is the Head of Your Home

First of all, make certain that Christ is the head of your home. Let your home be centered in Him. Satan is doing all that he can do to destroy your home. But if Christ is the core, if Christ is the center, your home will stand. It is a house built upon a rock. (Matthew 7:24–25)

B. Continue to Feed Your Love Daily

Number two: Continue to feed your love day by day. Love is not like a dazzling, beautiful diamond, hard and brilliant, that you get to possess. A diamond is forever, and you have it, and you can take it out and look at it and enjoy it. No, a diamond is a dead, hard object—love is like a flower that needs to be nurtured. It needs to be cultivated. It needs to be fed. If you don’t love your wife more today than you did a year ago, most likely you love her less than you did. Friend, nurture that love; feed that love.

C. Never Flirt with Another Man or Another Woman
Next, never flirt with another man or another woman, even in jest. Do not do it. Never cease to flirt with your wife. I flirt with Joyce. She flirts with me. I enjoy it. I hope she does. Do you still open the car door for your wife? Do you? You know, they say if a man is now seen opening the car door, one of two things is new: either the car or the wife. Flirt with her. Let her know that she is special.

D. Use Your Home as a Testimony
Next, if you are married and have a Christian home, use your home as a testimony to this world. That will mean more perhaps than any lesson you can teach in this day and this age. People today actually mock a family where husband and wife are together and the children are loved. They think perhaps somehow you are perverted when you have this kind of a marriage. It is the butt of jokes in the sitcoms to have that kind of a home. And I’m telling you, when you have that kind of a home, it will make a radical, dramatic, testimony to those who are around you.

E. If Your Home Is Broken, Ask God for Forgiveness
Next, if your home has been broken, remember that is not a dead end. If it was your fault, ask God for forgiveness. If somebody has sinned against you, let the love of Jesus Christ cleanse the bitterness out of your heart.

F. If You Are Unmarried, Marry Only in the Lord
Now, next and finally, if you are unmarried, marry only in the Lord. You are not to marry an unsaved person. You cannot have a Christian home without Christians any more than you could have a cherry pie without cherries. You marry in the Lord. Some of you girls say, “Pastor, I’m getting up in age. Where is that man?” And some of you guys are saying, “I can’t find the right one.” Be patient. Wait on God. The way to find the right one is to be the right one, and God will help you.

And there are a lot of things that are worse than not being married, and number one is being married to the wrong person. The Bible teaches that “a threefold cord is not easily broken” (Ecclesiastes 4:12) : a man, a woman, and Jesus Christ. Build a home on Christ. Seek the will of God, and marry only in the Lord. If you marry an unsaved person, you’re going to marry a child of the devil. Jesus said to the Pharisees, “[You’re] of your father the devil.” (John 8:44) If you marry a child of the devil, you’re going to have the devil for a father-in-law. Think about it. Friend, marry in the Lord. “Be…not unequally yoked together with unbelievers.” (2 Corinthians 6:14)
Conclusion
We need revival in our church—we need revival in our church—and it begins with personal revival. Personal revival helps us to have family revival. Family revival helps us to have church revival. Church revival helps us to have national revival. And it begins with you getting your heart right with God. God wants us to have three homes: a family home, a church home, and a heavenly home—and Jesus Christ is the key to all three.
“But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven.”

Introduction

In your Bible would you find, please, Matthew chapter 19, and look with me for just a moment at verse 13. These are the words of the Lord Jesus, and I’m so grateful that I have the privilege of sharing them with you today—Matthew 19, verse 13: “Then were there brought unto him”—that is, unto Jesus—“little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said, Suffer little children”—or, “allow little children”—“and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven. And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.”
(Matthew 19:13–15) “Let the little children come to me,” the Lord Jesus said. So, that’s why we’re in the Love Offering emphasis this year. I hope you remember the theme of this year’s Love Offering. It is “Touching Tomorrow Today.”

Now, tomorrow will be too late. We’ve got to capture the hearts and minds of these children for Jesus today so we can touch tomorrow through their lives—and we can do it today. To love a child, to teach a child, to prepare for a child is to touch tomorrow today. And, isn’t it better to construct a child than to repair an adult? Isn’t that better? Isn’t it better to build the love of Jesus in them today?

You know, I get letters from parents, and I’m so blessed when parents write me and when children write me. I write a lot of letters to little children because they write me notes of all kinds. And, I want to share with you a couple here that I have received. Now, I’ve not asked permission to share these so I’m going to leave the last names off, but here’s one to Dr. and Mrs. Joyce Rogers: “I’m sending you a copy of what my son wrote a few weeks ago at school. This was displayed for all the parents to see during open house at Bartlett Elementary. Michael writes things about the Lord constantly in school. I felt like this one needed to fall into the hands of two people who have ministered to my son. Michael completed the New Members Class with Mrs. Rogers in the fall of ’95. Thank you, and God bless you.”

Now, here’s what Michael wrote. This was posted for all the parents to see when they were visiting the school. And, he says, “When I grow up, I want to be a preacher”—now, let me tell you how he spelled preacher. I hope he won’t be embarrassed by this, but it’s pritcher. He may grow up to be a preacher because you’re looking at a man who can’t spell—“When I grow up, I want to be a preacher. I’ve always wanted to be one. I saw my preacher preach. His name is Adrian Rogers. I want to be a preacher because I love Jesus and the Father of everything: God, Christ, Holy Spirit, and the Richest Ruler. And, for all of you parents, if you don’t have a church to go to, here is information. Go to Bellevue. Adrian will preach to your heart, and he’s the best preacher I ever heard.” And then, he says, “I’m glad God made me” in letters about that tall. Doesn’t that bless your heart to know that? Praise God!

Here’s another letter I got—and I didn’t ask for these; they just came to my desk: “I wanted to share this story with you that my daughter wrote about herself. She has such a great love for the Lord. She reads her Bible daily, and she won’t even take a drink of water or chew a piece of gum until she thanks the Lord first. She doesn’t like to watch television much because she says there are too many bad things on television and God doesn’t want us to watch those kinds of things. She is truly a blessing to our family. And, I just want to thank you and all the teachers in the children’s department, and I pray that God will continue to bless each of you. I truly believe that the only hope for our children today is our precious Lord.”

Now, here is the story that this little girl wrote for her mother. And, you won’t be able to see it very well, but if we get up real close, it’s just a big heart out here, and it says “Love,” and it’s a little story for the mother. And, it says, “Love for my wonderful, thankful mom. By Ashley, your child.” Then she draws a picture of Ashley. This is Ashley right up there. She’s very pretty. She draws her own picture. I know you can’t see it, but here’s the story. Listen to it: “Once upon a time, there was a woman that was pregnant. One night, her husband had to take her to the hospital. And before you knew it, there popped out a little baby girl who looked so cute. She was a nice baby. She cried a lot, but she really was an adorable baby after all. When she was about two years old, she’d always go to Sunday school and trust in God, our Lord. When she was about eight years old, she really believed in God, our Lord, who her family and she trusted in. She would always read her Bible and pray every single night. She would dream about heaven every night, wondering what it would be like. When she was ten years old, she knew more about God, our Lord. Then, at that age, mostly kids say bad words, but she, no!—there’s a big “No!” there and an exclamation point—“She prayed for people and read her Bible every night, trusting in our Lord. Boy, is she a blessing to her mom, and family, members, and friends!” And then, she signs this letter, “Dear Lord, Thank you, Lord, for this child. Amen. By Ashley.” Isn’t that beautiful? Praise God!

Now folks, that’s what we’re about—building into boys and girls that kind of love, that kind of faith, that kind of courage at that age. Again, when you do that, you touch tomorrow today.

You know, I’m so concerned about our children today. They’re in more danger in the twentieth century than children were—I mean, in these last days they are in more danger than children on the frontier surrounded by hostile Indians, and wild beasts, and dust storms, and savage winds. What is displayed in the drugstores, in the newsstand, what comes into the house by television, what is taught sometimes in the schools has the potential of doing them more danger than all of these other things that sometimes children in the previous age had to face. And, it is incumbent upon us that we, as a church, build into these little children great truth.

Don’t tell me the little children cannot learn. I have a grandson who lives in Spain who’s six years old who speaks fluent Spanish. I can’t, but he can. And, he speaks English also. Children can learn, and they need to learn about Jesus. And, the earliest sound they need to hear is, “Jesus loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so.” And, their parents need to learn, and their parents need to come to a church where the Word of God is preached and where people fellowship and love Jesus. And, the parents can’t come if there’s nowhere to leave the children. But, it’s not just babysitting over there. We teach the children in the preschool department and the children’s department about Jesus.

“A little girl came in to her mother, and she said, “Mother, you know that very expensive vase, that beautiful heirloom that’s been in our family for generations and passed down from one generation to another generation to another generation? Mother, you know that vase?” She said, “Yes, sweetheart.” She said, “Well, this generation just dropped it and broke it.” Now folks, the faith that we have is being passed from one generation to another, and we cannot drop it. We dare not break it.”
I was listening to some college students the other day, and they were out at Focus on the Family, and one college student said to those of us who were on the board of Focus on the Family—this young man said, “We are running a race,” and said, “Your generation is handing to us the baton. It’s a relay race. But,” this college student said, “you know, when you raced the race, you ran on a racecourse that was laid out; you knew where you were running. Ours is a cross-country race. We don’t even know where we’re running. We don’t even know where we’re supposed to go.”

Now folks, that’s why we have this Love Offering, “Touching Tomorrow Today.”

Now, I want you to leave Matthew 18, and I want you to turn to Ephesians chapter 3 with me for a moment, and I want to prepare your heart to make the Love Offering that you’re going to make next Sunday. This offering is born out of a vision. We believe the vision is from God. We believe these facilities came out of a vision. We believe it is of God.

What is a vision? A vision is foresight with insight based on hindsight. It studies history. It sees what God has done, what God has said. It sees what is happening and where we’re going. And then, it gets the heart and mind of God.

Now, the vision that God has given us really does not even center in children, as wonderful as they are. It doesn’t center in the future. It centers in a person. And, as you’re considering your Love Offering, I want you to look with me in Ephesians 3 and verse 20. Here’s what God says: “Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.” (Ephesians 3:20–21) “Unto him” (Ephesians 3:20)—that’s the way it begins. Do you know what the mission statement of Bellevue Baptist Church is? We tried to give every member a card with the mission statement on it. We’re going to be saying more at the close of this year and the beginning of next year about our mission statement. But, in case you’re wondering why we exist, in case you’re wondering why we receive this offering, sing these songs, why we built this building, why we come here today, why I’m standing here, why do we do it? “Unto him.” (Ephesians 3:20)

Here’s our mission statement: “Number one: Bellevue Baptist Church exists for the purpose of magnifying Jesus through worship and the Word. Two: Making Jesus known to our neighbors and the nations. Three: Moving believers in Jesus toward maturity and ministry.” Would you like to hear that again? “Bellevue Baptist Church exists for magnifying Jesus through worship and the Word, making Jesus known to our neighbors and the nations, and moving believers in Jesus toward maturity and ministry.” Now, if you want to know what we’re about, that’s what we’re about. That’s why we exist. That’s why we breathe. That’s why we live. That’s what we are up to as a church. When you become a member of this church, you get in on that purpose or you’re in the wrong place. That's what we're all about. It's “unto him.” (Ephesians 3:20) And, this preschool building, this Love Offering, is an intrinsic part of that vision statement, that mission statement.

Now, I want you to listen to this verse of Scripture that I have before us now, Ephesians chapter 3, verses 20 and 21, and I want to break it down into smaller components.

I. The Source of the Vision
First of all, I want you to think of the source of the vision. Do you know why it is “unto him”? (Ephesians 3:20) Because it is from Him. “For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things.” (Romans 11:36) We don’t just try to cook up something around here and ask God to rubberstamp it. We seek God in prayer. We seek the face of God. We do it corporately. We do it with our leadership. We do it with our staff. We do it with our deacons—to try to find the heart and mind of God. I believe that this entire enterprise that we have here—these buildings, this ministry—I believe it is of God. I believe that God laid it on our hearts. It is “unto him.” (Ephesians 3:20) That’s the source of this vision.

II. The Strength of the Vision
Then, I want you to think of the strength of this vision. Look at it: “Unto him that is able…” (Ephesians 3:20) Do you believe that God is able to do what needs to be done? Good. One amen. God is able. He didn’t say, folks, that we would build the Church. He said He would build the Church. (Matthew 16:18) We’re not talking about these buildings. Church is not a place that we come to; Church is what we are. We are the people of God. And, the Lord Jesus said He will build His Church. The strength of this vision is He is able. There’s nothing that God wants us to do that we cannot do. God would never ask us to do anything that is impossible. If the vision is of Him, it can be done. God’s work done in God’s way will always be successful.

Now, what we’re about is big, and it is not going to happen just ipso facto. It’s going to take all of us. But, God is the One who’s going to be doing it. And, I ask you this question: Is there anything too hard for the Lord? No!

III. The Scope of the Vision
“Unto him” (Ephesians 3:20)—that’s the source of the vision. The strength of the vision: “unto him that is able” (Ephesians 3:20) Now, I want you to think about the scope of the vision. Look at it again: “Unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think…” (Ephesians 3:20) Do you think we think too big around here? We haven’t begun—we haven’t begun. We need to let God stretch our hearts and God stretch our minds. “Unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think…” (Ephesians 3:20) Do we serve a big God or not? We serve a big God! Is there a lost world out here? There is! Is God concerned? He is! Should we be sitting around rolling marbles when we ought to be moving mountains? No!

When we were downtown, trying to build downtown, we needed at least three more acres—at least three more. We tried to buy three more acres of property. We stained heaven with our prayers. We pushed. We struggled. We negotiated. Prices began to rise. Others said, “I’m not going to sell.” And, we said, “Are we going to stop growing? Lord, we only need three more acres.” We wouldn’t have been able to build a building this size. It would have been a gerrymander on one side of the whole shebang. We would have had to build a parking lot for 1,200 cars, a parking garage. But, we were trying. You know the problem? You know what the problem was? God had a better plan. We were looking for three acres. God said, “I’ve got four hundred acres for you out there on the interstate.” Amen? I mean, when I found out what God was up to, it staggered me, and I said, “Adrian, you just didn’t have enough faith in a big enough God ’til finally God began to unfold the plan.” “Unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that [ye could] ask” (Ephesians 3:20)—“that you could ask or think…” You see, that’s the scope of the vision. So many times we put God in a box, and we say, “Now this is all we can do.”

I have read—I guess this is true—that a housefly will never fly more than three stories high. There’s nothing to keep him from doing that, but they say if you live in an area that has a lot of flies and you’re on the fourth floor, you don’t have to have screens on the windows; they won’t fly that high. Now, they will go up an elevator, but they just normally… Why? There’s no reason that a fly cannot fly that high. He limits himself. And, sometimes we limit ourselves, and we say, “Well, this is it. We’re not going to reach out. We’re not going to make provision any more.”

The scope of the vision: He’s able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we can ask or think.

IV. The Strategy of the Vision
Now, here’s the next thing. I want you to listen to this. The source of the vision: “Unto him…” (Ephesians 3:20) The strength of the vision: “Unto him that is able…” (Ephesians 3:20) The scope of the vision: “Unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we [can] ask or think…” (Ephesians 3:20) Now, pay attention: the strategy of the vision. Now, watch it. How does He do this? Well, look at it very carefully: “according to the power that worketh in us.” (Ephesians 3:20) We can’t do it without Him; He will not do it without us: “according to the power that worketh in us.” (Ephesians 3:20) He builds the Church, but He does it through us. You see, God wants to release this power through us.

A man saw an atomic power plant one time, and he asked a friend—this was an atomic power plant that generated electricity—he said, “How much power does that plant generate?” And, the man said, “None!” He said, “Oh, no! I see all these powerful wires going out from here. How much power does it generate?” He said, “None! All that plant does is release power that God has put in the elements.” Think about it. You see, we don’t generate the power. The power is Jesus! And, He is in us! And, what we’re here for is, not to be a dynamo, but to be a conduit of the power that works in us.

Do you believe that Jesus Christ is alive and living in this church? If you do, say “amen.” Do you believe He is able to do what He wants to do? Yes. How is He going to do it? He is going to do it through us. That’s the reason I told our church staff, “I’m going to just take a Sunday morning when most of the people are there, and I’m not going to preach like I would normally preach.” And, I know that guests might be there, and they might understand, they might think, “Well, all they’re talking about down there in that big church is money,” but they’d be wrong! We’re talking about boys and girls. Beyond that, we’re talking about Jesus. And, besides that, we’re not asking our guests to give anything. So, you’re just in on a family discussion. What we’re here today for is to tell you what we’re up to and to get our people to understand that God does this through us. It’s His mighty power, but He does it through us.

We’re going to be asking everybody—every member of this church who can understand and old enough to do it—to do two things: we’re going to ask you to make a commitment, which will be a monetary commitment, and number two, a ministry commitment; that is, that not only will you give of your money, but in some way, even if it’s just through prayer—well, let me take that back. I don’t mean, “just through prayer.” But, if it’s not—because prayer is not secondary—I shouldn’t have said it that way. But, we’re going to ask you to make a commitment through ministry and money to serve these boys and girls by serving Jesus because we are serving Jesus by serving these boys and girls, because Jesus said, “inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of [one of these little ones], ye have done it unto me.” (Matthew 25:40)

Now, let me just walk you through a little bit logically some things, and I want you to see if what I have to say is correct. If I say something now that’s not correct, I want to be challenged on it, so listen carefully.

A. Proposition #1

Proposition number one: God knows the need. Everybody agree? God knows the need. Okay, we’re on the same page.
B. Proposition #2
Proposition number two: God knows what part He wants me to play in meeting that need, and God knows what part He wants you to play. Okay? Still doing good? I mean, anybody want to challenge that? God knows the need. God knows what part He wants me to play. He knows what part He wants you to play. Okay? Got that?

C. Proposition #3
Number three: God is able to communicate that to me and to you if we will listen to Him. Okay? Is that right, Bobby? Am I tracking? Okay. God is able to communicate that to us if we will listen to Him—what part He wants us to play. Anybody want to disagree with that? I don’t see any.

D. Proposition #4
Okay, let me go on to the next proposition: What God communicates to me that He wants me to do I am able to do because He would never tell me to do something I could not do. Okay? Still good? Okay. All right. God knows the need. He knows what part He wants me to play. He’s able to communicate that to me if I will listen. Whatever He communicates to me that I ought to do I can do.

E. Proposition #5
But now, number five: If it is of Him, I must depend upon Him in order to do it. Now, if I cook it up, I can do it. But, if He tells me to do it, then I have to depend upon Him to do it. How does He do this? “According to the power that worketh in us.” (Ephesians 3:20) He’s the One who is able, but He does it through us. So, here’s the thing: I must depend upon Him. You see, don’t just sit back and say, “Now, what can I do?” or, “What should I do?” Say, “Lord, what do you want me to do? And, what are you able to do through me?” Whatever God tells you to do you’re able to do, but you must depend upon Him.

F. Proposition #6
Now, here’s the next proposition: what He does through me brings Him glory and not me. Do you see that? Look at it: “according to the power that worketh in us, unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus.” (Ephesians 3:20–21) You see, if I get the idea of what I’m going to do and I do it in my own strength, then who gets the praise? Who gets the glory? I do. But, if I get a word from Him, and I obey Him, and I do what He tells me to do in His strength, who gets the glory? Him. Well, now, how long will what He does last? “Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.” (Ephesians 3:20–21)

Conclusion
Now folks, if you get in the business of doing what you do in your own strength and in your own power, by your own wit, by your own wisdom, by your own ingenuity, you know who gets the glory? You do. You know how long it will last? No longer than you do. You want to invest in eternity?

Did you know this—that Good Morning America, ABC, on a talk show one morning—you may have seen it—they asked a question. They asked people all over the United States to call in—but in order to call in, you had to be ninety-five years old or older—and call in and say what you would do if you could live your life over. Only people who were ninety-five years of age and older could call in. They took all of the answers, and they boiled them down; and there were three things that these people said they would do. Number one: They said they would take more time to think about the purpose and meaning of life. Number two: They said, “I would be willing to take more risks. I wouldn’t just play it safe. I only have one life. I’d live it to the full. I’d be willing to take more risks.” And they said, number three, “I would invest in more things that count for eternity.” Here they are, ninety-five years old: “If I could do it again, I would want to pour my life into that which counts for eternity.”

That’s what the vision is about: “Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, [by] the power that worketh in us, unto him be glory in the church…world without end” (Ephesians 3:20–21)—for all eternity. People say, “You can’t take it with you.” You can take it with you if you’ll invest in something that’s going: the souls of men. And, what a better way to invest it than to invest it in the lives of boys and girls! And, I want to say again, it’s better to build a child than to try to repair an adult.

Think about these boys and girls—how they’re able to learn to play the violin. Most of you can’t play the violin. We can teach them about Jesus. We put the love of Jesus down in their hearts.
It Pays to Serve Jesus

Introduction

I want you to take your Bibles, please; and, for our first of the year, or end of the year, message, turn, if you will please, to Matthew chapter 19. I’m going to begin reading in verse 27. Now if you don’t have a Bible with you, look in the pew rack there. “Then answered Peter and said unto him, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore? And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name’s sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life. But many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first” (Matthew 19:27–30).

Now continue to read into the next chapter: “For the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard. And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard. And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing idle in the marketplace, and said unto them; Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way. Again he went out about the sixth and ninth hour, and did likewise. And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle? They say unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard; and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive. So when even was come, the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning from the last unto the first. And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they received every man a penny. But when the first came, they supposed that they should have received more; and they likewise received every man a penny. And when they had received it, they murmured against the goodman of the house, saying, These last have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day. But he answered one of them, and said, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst not thou agree with me for a penny? Take that thine is, and go thy way: I will give unto this last, even as unto thee. Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? Is thine eye evil, because I am good? So the last shall be first, and the first last: for many be called, but few chosen.” (Matthew 20:1–16).

Now the title of our message today is this: “It Pays to Serve Jesus.” And friend, I want you to see clearly and plainly that it does pay to serve the Lord Jesus. I want to ask a question today: Is God an equal opportunity employer? Well, you think on that. I want to ask another question: Does God give equal pay for equal work? Now you think on that one, and you may be surprised at the answer to that one.

But let me say at the beginning that it does pay to serve the Lord Jesus; and, if you want to get into the work force, there’s a job waiting for you. And the Lord would say to every man, every woman, every boy, every girl, in this place, “Don’t sit around here idle. There is a job. Why stand ye here idle?” There’s work for you to do; and, not only is there a place of service, but there is a glorious, glorious reward.

Now you will notice that I read this passage starting in Matthew chapter 19 and going right on through chapter 20, even though there is a chapter break. Now the chapter breaks were not in the Holy Scripture. I want you to understand that. That was added later by men. The chapter breaks are there to keep preachers from preaching too long.

And in this particular instance, the chapter break does not enhance the meaning; it destroys it a little bit, because you’re going to have to get the background to this story that Jesus told. Now let me, first of all, tell you the story, then give you the background, and then make some applications for our lives.

The story is this: The Lord Jesus said, “There was a man who had a vineyard, and the man who owned the vineyard went out early in the morning. The sun was not even hot; and, about six in the morning, he hired some laborers to go out into his vineyard and work. And they had a little negotiation there, and they agreed that he was going to pay them a penny.

Now when it says, “a penny,” most of us say, “Oh my goodness, you mean they’re going to work all day? What a cruel man this is—he’s only going to pay them a penny!” Well, the Greek word is a denarius. It does not mean, “a penny,” as we mean, “a penny.” Don’t be misled by that. It means, “a day’s wages.” This was the same wages that a Roman soldier would get for a day’s wages. It was good money—good money. They were glad to have it. And so he agreed to give them a day’s wages, and they go out in the vineyard and begin to work.

And then, the man doesn’t have enough workers yet. So about nine in the morning, he goes out, and he finds others. He says, “You’re just standing around here with nothing to do. Come work in my vineyard.” And they say, “Well, what do you pay?” He says, “I’ll just give you what’s right. Trust me.” They say, “All right,” and they come and work in the vineyard. At noontime, he finds others, and he invites them to come. “What are you going to pay?” “I’ll just pay you what’s right.” And so they come to the vineyard. About three in the afternoon, he comes, and he finds others there in the marketplace. “Nothing to do? Would you come work in my vineyard?” “What are you going to pay?” “I’ll just give you what’s right.”

And so they come and work in the vineyard; and then, finally, at five o’clock, just before sundown—the Bible calls it the “eleventh hour,” by the way; they worked a 12-hour day—at the eleventh hour, he went, and he found others. And he said, “Why do you stand here all day idle? You come and work in the vineyard.” And they came and they worked one hour.

Now the paymaster comes at the end of the day. He says, “All right, call them, and pay them.” He says, “Start with those who came last; and then, pay the others, also.” So they called in these people who worked an hour, and he gave them a day’s wages—he gave them “a penny”—a denarius. Well, when the others—those who came in first—saw these who came in last, they said—their minds started to calculate—they said, “They worked an hour—they got a day’s wages. We worked 12 hours—we’ll get 12 days’ wages.” And so they were just waiting for 12 days’ wages.

But right down the line, everybody gets a day’s wages. And those who had worked all day—they started to murmur; they started to complain; and they accused the employer of being unfair. And they said, “That’s not right; that’s not fair. You’re not giving equal pay for equal work. Now we worked longer than they did; and, therefore, we demand more.” The owner of the vineyard said, “You wait a moment. We had a contract. You agreed for a denarius, and that’s what you got. I haven’t cheated you. It’s my money. I can do with it what I wish. But I want you to know that we had a contract, and I was fair with you. I gave you exactly what we bargained for.”

Now what on Earth is the meaning of that parable? What does it all mean? Some people think that it means that our Lord is teaching deathbed repentance—those who came in the eleventh hour—there is such a thing as deathbed repentance; you can be saved at the end of our life. Billy Sunday said, “Deathbed repentance was burning the candle of life for the devil and then blowing the smoke in God’s face.” But I want to tell you that anybody can be saved on their deathbed.

Very few are the dying feet that turn to the Lord Jesus. “And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom” (Luke 23:42). That was deathbed repentance. His deathbed was across, and the Lord saved him. But someone wisely said, “The Bible records one deathbed repentance, that no one may despair—but only one, that no one may presume.” Very few people are saved on their deathbed, and this parable is not a parable to teach deathbed repentance.

What is our Lord teaching in this wonderful, wonderful parable? Well, you have to get it in its context. That’s the reason I began to read in chapter 19. In chapter 19 is the story of the rich young ruler. Jesus had told him to sell everything, take up his cross, and follow Jesus; and, the rich young ruler didn’t want to do it. And the Bible says that, “He went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions” (Matthew 19:22).

About that time, Peter—you’d know it’s Simon Peter; as I said before, he opens his mouth only to change feet—he had something to say about that, right in verse 27: “Then answered Peter and said unto him, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?” (Matthew 19:27). That is, “Lord, he wouldn’t give up much. We gave up everything. Now Lord, what are we going to get?”

Now at this time, Peter was in danger of becoming a legalist. He was in danger of wanting to bargain with God, saying, “Now God, I gave You this. What are you going to give me? What am I going to get back? What am I going to get in return?” And it was on the heels of Peter’s statement and question that Jesus gave this parable.

Now keep that in mind, as you serve the Lord Jesus: God does not always give equal pay. Some get more than others. And why do they get more than others? This parable ends with this saying: “Many are called, but few are chosen” (Matthew 22:14). Now what does He mean by that? Well, everybody can come into the vineyard, but few are chosen. Now the word chosen here does not mean chosen in the sense of predestination. That’s not the idea at all. The word literally may means their “choice ones”; these are the “ones I love.”

Many are called, but there are few that are really choice. When somebody goes out to buy poinsettias, there are many poinsettias. But someone will say, “Hey, that’s a choice one. I really like that one. That one brings me joy.” Many are called, but some are choice laborers.

What is it that really moves the Father’s heart? What is there that gives God great joy and pleasure out of your service to the Lord? And what is it that causes God to reward some more than He rewards others? It does pay to serve the Lord Jesus, but there are degrees of reward, as we’re going to see. Some will come in first, and some will come in last, at payday.

All right now, let me give you three thoughts here, and I hope that you’ll bury them in your heart, and that God will keep them burning in your heart, as you serve the Lord Jesus.

I. Don’t Make Bargains with God

Number one: Don’t make bargains with God—don’t make bargains with God. Now begin to read this parable, and you’re going to find out, in verses 1 and 2: “For the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard. And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard” (Matthew 20:1–2).

Look at that word agreed: “When he had agreed with [them]…” (Matthew 20:2)—that is, they had some negotiations. They worked out a labor contract; they had a bargain together. I can just imagine them. He says, “Look, I need some men to work in the vineyard.” “Well, what are you paying today?” “Well, I’m paying thus-and-such.” “Well, the rate over here is thus-and-such.” “Well, I’ll give you so much. No, I can only give so much.” “Well, do this.” “All right now, here’s the agreement.” And so finally, they have a labor contract. They have negotiated, and Williams translates this, “When they had contracted.”

Now you can understand a little bit more. The idea is, here, that there was some give-and-take; and, finally, there is an agreement. They have bargained with the owner of the vineyard. He says, “All right, I will give you a denarius”—that is, “I’ll pay you the same thing that the Roman soldiers get.” “Fine.” They go into the vineyard, and they have a bargain with God. Many people want to bargain with the Lord. They want to bargain with their employer.

I heard of a man who applied for a new job, and he asked the employer—he said, “What do you pay?” He said, “Well, I’ll pay you what you’re worth.” He said, “Nothing doing, I just quit a job making more than that.”

Now there are a lot of people who want to bargain, when they work for the Lord. Now those people who bargain are legalists.
But now, there was another category of persons, if you'll look here in this parable—in verse 4, and verse 5, and verse 7—those who came later in the day. And they said, “What do you pay?” And the owner of the vineyard said, “Hey, I'll just do right. Trust me, I'll just give you what is right—and without any contract, without any negotiation, without any agreement whatever; with no bargain.” They went out into the field and began to work. It was what we would call today, “a gentlemen’s agreement”—“I’ll just trust you. You just give me what you think is right.”

Now the Lord Jesus is contrasting two types of Christians: those who serve the Lord from a legalistic motive, and those who serve the Lord from a love motive; those who serve from legalism, and those who serve by grace. The first category of persons represents those who operate on the principle of legalism. The second category talks about those who operate on the basis of grace.

Now listen. The legalist is always afraid he’s going to get cheated; he’s always afraid he’s not going to get enough. So the legalist always has to have it written down. The legalist always wants a bargain. Now here’s the sad thing about the legalist: He wants to get more, and he always gets less.

If you strike a bargain with God—put it down: God will keep the bargain, and you will lose. Are you listening? If you strike a bargain with God, God will keep the bargain, and you will lose. You’ll get far more, if you don’t bargain with God, than if you do bargain with God. You see, God gives the best to those who leave the choice with Him. The bargainer always cheats himself; he always comes in last.

That’s the reason Jesus warned them, in chapter 19, verse 30: “Many that are first—they’re going to be last” (Matthew 19:30). Again, He said the same thing in Matthew 20, verse 16: “The first shall be last” (Matthew 20:16)—grace in first place, and legalism last. Now remember that: Grace in first place, and legalism last. Many that are first shall be last; many that are last shall be first. You see, God does not give equal pay for equal work. God is not interested in your hours, but He’s interested in your heart.

Now if you make a bargain with God, He’s going to treat you on that basis—I mean, if you want God to be a labor contractor. All right, all right, let me show you something—Psalm 18, verses 25 and 26: “With the merciful thou wilt shew thyself merciful; with an upright man thou wilt shew thyself upright; with the pure thou wilt shew thyself pure; and with the froward thou wilt shew thyself forward” (Psalm 18:25–26).

Now what is the froward? Some football player is going to think we’re talking about a forward pass. What is a froward? What does he mean by “froward”? Well, a froward person is a conniving person, a stingy person—the person who wants to drive a bargain, and the person who can’t just leave it with God. God says, “You’ll be merciful—I’ll be merciful.” God says, “You’ll be upright—I’ll be upright. If you are a froward person, you’re going to find Me froward to you. If you want to work for Me as a hireling, then I’ll be to you as a hirer. I will be to you according to the attitude that you take with Me. Now if you want to strike bargains with Me, just go ahead and strike bargains, and I’ll keep My part of the bargain.”

Remember what the Lord Jesus said to those who served Him for the wrong motive, there, in the Sermon on the Mount: “Verily I say unto you, They have their reward” (Matthew 6:16). That is, “They wanted to do it for this, and that’s what they got. They have their reward. I’ll give them that part.” But the Pharisees, in Jesus’ day, were very legalistic. You know, they were serving God for what they could get out of it. And Jesus said unto them, in Matthew chapter 23 and verse 23: “Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin” (Matthew 23:23).

What were these? Little garden herbs, just like you ladies have a little mint plant out behind your back door—some of you do. What the Pharisees did—they’d go out there, and there was that little mint plant—that herb—and they’d start to count the leaves—one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten—that one belongs to God. One, two, three, four, five six, seven, eight, nine, ten—that one belongs to God. Oh, they were careful. You see, they had a little contract with God. They were going to pay God not too much, but always enough, because, you see, they were in a business deal with God, in their own way.

Now did God bless them for tithing? Well, in a way, He did. They had a bargain with Him. You know, it pays to tithe. But let me tell you something, friend: If you give because it pays, it won’t pay near as much. It pays to tithe. But if you tithe because it pays, it will not pay near as much—when you begin to bargain with God, when you are so careful that your right hand knows what your left hand does. How does a man count his change? He reaches in his pocket, and he counts it this way. Don’t let your right hand know what you count. Just reach in and give. Don’t worry about it.

A couple of people were talking one day. One man said, “Hey, do you tithe before or after taxes?” He says, “I tithe before I pay taxes.” The man says, “Why do you do that?” He said, “God gets more that way.” Amen? “God gets more that way.”

I’m not all worried about the fact that I’m going to give God too much. I’m not going to get in this matter of bargaining with God. Friend, that thing—you’re going to cheat yourself, if you serve God from the wrong motive.

Number one: When you serve God, if you want to be on the highest end of the pay scale, number one, don’t bargain with God. Those who didn’t bargain with Him—those who just simply said, “Lord, I’ll leave it with You; whatever is right, you pay me”—they came out best.
II. Don’t Keep Books on Yourself

All right now, the second thing I want you to see. Number one: Don’t make bargains with God. Number two: Don’t keep books on yourself—don’t keep books on yourself.

A. They Knew What They Had Done

Now what had happened is that Simon Peter had been keeping books. Now he had given up some things, and he had given some things to the Lord. But he was quite aware of the fact that he’d given them up. If you go back here to this 19th chapter and look in verse 27: “Then answered Peter and said unto him, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee” (Matthew 19:27).

Now Peter evidently had a little notebook—“one boat given to the Lord, some net given to the Lord, mother-in-law given to the Lord.” And he had it all there. He had his little record book there. “Now Lord, You see what we’ve done.” Now he kept books on himself. Now when you keep books on your service, what you’re going to become is a clock-watcher. You see, these people in the parable—they knew exactly how many hours they had labored. They said, “We have labored 12 hours. We want you to pay us accordingly.”

B. They Knew What Others had Done

Not only did they know what they had done; they also knew what the others had done. A legalist has his eye on the clock, and he has his eye on other Christians.

1. You Will Lose Your Blessing and Your Reward

And when you have your eye on the clock, and when you have your eye on other Christians, you’re going to lose the blessing and you’re going to lose the reward.

You see, when I was a boy, I worked as a soda jerk. Do you know what a soda jerk is? You kids ever watch this program Happy Days? Happy Days—that’s when I was raised—in the “Happy Days.” Back in the late 40s, when I was a teenager, I was a soda jerk at Albritton’s Drugstore on the corner of 40th Street and Broadway, in West Palm Beach, Florida. And a soda jerk is a man that stands behind the soda fountain, because it wasn’t all prepackaged there.

Listen. If you wanted cherry smash, I could make one. If you wanted a chocolate coke, I could make one—you know, you just name it. And we had fountain Pepsi’s. They had their special kind of glasses; and, if you didn’t have any money, you could come in and order a pine float. That’s a glass of water with a toothpick in it, and we’d serve it. You know, it didn’t make any difference. And that was my job. I was the soda jerk, and also the floor sweater, in that particular drugstore. And that’s just the corner drugstore, and I enjoyed doing that.
Mr. Albritton started as a young man, and he built that drugstore there, and worked, and built it into quite a big business. I remember being there one night—we closed at 10:30, Brother Bob, and I had my eye on the clock. I was waiting for 10:30 to come; and, about 10:25, I started to go and close those big folding doors that went across the front. No air conditioning—those doors were open just to let the fresh air in. And I started to roll those doors out, because I wanted to make certain that at 10:30 those doors were closed and shut—that no more customers would come in that place. And I had my eye on the clock; and, when that clock moved right up to 10:30, crump—I bolted it down, and slid the lock. At that time, a car drove up, and a person got out of the car and tapped on the glass. I looked at my watch, and said, “Closed—we’re closed.” And you know, I had a sense of importance, when I told them they couldn’t come in. But then, I turned around, and there was Mr. Albritton standing right behind me. And he didn’t scold me, but he said something I’ll never forget; I haven’t forgotten: He said, “Son, that’s the first time anyone has been turned away from this drugstore.” I felt about that high.

You know, there’s a difference. You see, I had my eye on the clock. He had his eye on the store. See, there’s a difference.

Now the legalist—he’s not all that interested in God’s work; he’s not all that interested in the vineyard. But he wants his pay. “Look, we’ve done so many hours. You just pay us.”

2. You Are Not Going to Keep the Books Right Anyway

Now dear friend, when you keep books on what you do, when you have your eye on the clock, and you have your eye on what others do, I’ll tell you what it’s going to do: It’s going to steal your blessing, and you’re not going to keep the books right anyway. I mean, there are times when you think you deserve pay, when you don’t deserve pay. You would mark up something in the ledger, and you’d say, “Now Lord, You owe me a big reward for this one.”

I heard a black preacher preach down in Miami, many, many years ago. And he was a very eloquent man. And he said, “You know, sometimes, you preachers—you take credit for things that you don’t deserve credit for.” He said, “Have you ever been out dove hunting, and you shoot a dove, and it continues to fly, and will fly quite a while before it falls to the ground?” He says, “Then it falls in another field way over there away from where you shot it.” He said, “Now you got up there and preached last Sunday, and people came down forward, and you say, ‘Lord, look what I did.’” He said, “That soul that fell at your altar this morning—some man may have wounded him a long time ago.” Amen?

You see, one man sows the seed, and another man cultivates, and another man reaps. And it’ll take another world to show what rewards we ought to have or not have. So many times, we think, “Well, we’re really doing something.” We’re not doing anything at all. Somebody else did it, and we just entered into somebody else’s labor. Sometimes what we do we do in the strength of the flesh, and it’s “wood, hay, and stubble” (1 Corinthians 3:12). And if we were keeping books, I’m afraid we’d do it wrong.

3. You May Not Be Aware of a Reward That Is Coming Your Way

But I want to tell you something else: There are a lot of times that we’re not even aware of the fact that there is a reward coming to us for what we’ve done.

You’re in Matthew chapter 20. Turn to Matthew chapter 25, here, for just a moment. Let me show you something beautiful. Verse 34—here’s when the Lord is going to give His rewards: “Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: for I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me. Then shall the righteous answer…”—now, watch this—“Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink? when saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee? or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?” (Matthew 25:34–39).

Now I want you to get this. These folks had done all these things, for the Lord said they had. He had the record, but they’d forgotten. They didn’t know it. They didn’t have the little notebook out; they weren’t keeping a record. They were things that were forgotten—things that were overlooked, and, evidently, sometimes things they were not even conscious of the fact they did.

Last night, I read a letter from a person who wrote me, and said, “Dr. Rogers, I want to tell you what a tremendous blessing you were to me.” This person wasn’t trying to butter my bread. They weren’t trying to flatter me. They didn’t even sign their name—just, “A Christian.” They said, “I watched you in a particular place at a particular time, and I want to tell you that what you did just tremendously blessed me.” Well, friend, I tried to go back in my mind, and I wasn’t aware of the fact I was being a blessing to anybody at that particular time.

I got a letter a while back from a young man. He said, “I owe you this letter.” He said, “Years ago, you were driving down the road in Merritt Island, and you stopped and put me in your car. I was a teenage boy walking along the side of the road, and you talked with me, and shared with me. And I got out of the car, and,” he said, “that time, that ride with you did something in my heart.” He said, “Since that time, I have given my heart to Christ; I’ve been saved. And now I’m pastor of thus-and-such a church.” He said, “I just wanted to write you and tell you about it.” Folks, I can’t remember it. I don’t remember stopping and picking up that boy. I don’t remember what I said—I don’t remember. But aren’t you glad that there’s Somebody who knows?
